M. This Letter, is one of them which the Grammarians call Simple and Immutable Demy-Vowels, and the Latines, Liquid. In Compoſition M. is changed into N. before d. c. t. and q. Likewiſe the Prepoſition am, is changed into an, before f. as anfractus. The Poets make an Eliſion of it at the end of the Word, becauſe the Sound ſeems too harſh. The Meſſenians engraved an M upon their Shields, as the Mark and Cypher of their Nation. Amongſt the Romans, it went for a Thouſand. It was alſo the Emblem of a phantaſtical and fooliſh Humour, moroſitatis; hence the Ancients uſed to ſay, obvenit tibi M. and every body knows the witty Anſwer of Dionyſius the Tyrant, when this Proverb was applied to him. Pierius lib. 43. hierol. c. 50. & 51.

MA, a certain Woman that waited upon Rhea. Jupiter entruſted her with Bacchus's Education. Rhea went alſo by the Name of Ma; and under that Name the Lydians ſacrificed a Bull to her; for which reaſon they had a Town called Maſtaura. Stephanus of Byzantium in Maſt.

MAACHA, or Mackedah, was Wife to King David, and Abſolom's Mother, and Daughter to Tolmai, King of Geſhur. 2 Sam. Ch. 3.

MACAA, Spelunca Sidoniorum, i. e. The Grot of the Sidonians, was a place in Palæſtine, in the Land of the Sidonians, mentioned in the Book of Joſhua. The Chriſtians made uſe of that Grot, as a Fort to defend themſelves againſt the Saracens, in 1161; but the Soldiers that kept it, took Money, and ſurrendred to the Infidels. Guill. de Syr. lib. 19. J. Euſebius Nier. lib. de Mirab. nat. terræ promiſſæ.

MACAO, or AMACAO, Lat. Amacaum, a Town in China, in the Province of Canton. The Portugueſe were Maſters of it, and did drive a very great Trade there, but the Chineſes retook it in 1668.

MACAREUS, a Greek Author, quoted by Athenæus in his 6th. and 14th. Books. There is another whom the Poets call the Son of Æolus. They ſay, that he corrupted his Siſter Canea, and that he afterwards was Prieſt of Apollo at Delphos. Pauſanias mentions one Macareus deſcended from Hercules, who killed himſelf that the Athenians might be Conquerors, having known, by the Oracle, that it was the only Method to obtain it; upon which, the Athenians Sacrificed to him, as to a God.

MACARIA, an Ancient Town of Cyprus, upon the Coaſt that lieth towards the S. E. It is now only a Villag called Jalines, according to le Noir. The whole Iſland went alſo by the ſame Name, becauſe of its Fertility, from the Greek, μακάριος, Happy. It is alſo the Name of an Iſland of Africa, in the Red-Sea, towards the Coaſt of Abex, now called Mazua, according to Sanſon. Pauſanias mentions a Spring, or a Fenn of that Name, near the Town Marathon in Attica, where a vaſt number of Perſians were drowned in the Battel which they loſt againſt the Greeks, which occaſioned the Old Proverb, In Macariam abi, Go to Macaria, when they wiſhed Miſchief to any Body. Mela lib. 2. cap. 7. Diod. Sicul. lib. 5.

MACARIA, Hercules's Daughter, who, to ſave her Country, devoted her ſelf to Death. Euriſtheus, King of the Myceni, endeavouring to deſtroy all the Children of Hercules, after the Death of that Hero; when they could not reſiſt, they took Sanctuary in the Aſylum, that was called Mercy's Altar, at Athens, and implored the help of the Athenians, who took Arms in their defence. The Oracle according to Cuſtom, was conſulted before they began the War; the Anſwer was, That the Athenians ſhould get the Victory, if one of Hercules's Children would make a Sacrifice of their Life to the Infernal Gods, and Macaria preſently offered to die, which obtained the Victory to the Athenians, and Euriſtheus was killed. The Athenians, to preſerve for ever the Memory of ſo generous an Action, and to ſhew their Gratitude, built a glorious Monument to Macaria, which they adorned with Flowers and Garlands. Cœl. Rhod. lib. 13. cap. 7. Eurip.

MACARIUS of Egypt, called The Old, for diſtinction's ſake, from another of Alexandria. He lived in the IVth. Century, and St. Anthony was his Maſter. He lived in a Monaſtery of Mount Scetio. There is a frequent mention of his Doctrine, Miracles, and Sanctity, in the Eccleſiaſtical Authors. He died 90 Years old. This is certain that he lived in the time of St. Pachomius and Oreſierus, and that he was Evagrius his Maſter. We have ſtill 50 Homilies of his in Greek, printed in the Bibliotheca Patrum.

MACARIUS I. of that Name, Biſhop of Antioch, a ſtubborn Heretick, lived in the VIIth. Century. He followed the Errors of the Monothelites; and becauſe the Biſhops of Rome oppoſed them, he ſpoke irreverently of them. He was in the IIId. Council of Conſtantinople, which is the VIth. General Council. There he was diſcovered to be of the Erring Party; the Emperor Conſtantinus Pogonatus commanded him to declare his Opinion; and he with a Criminal boldneſs, Anſwered, That the Will and Operation of Chriſt, was of a God-man; and though they did all they could to undeceive him, he could never be brought to confeſs, that there were in Chriſt two Wills, and two Operations, ſaying always, That tho' he were to die for it, he would never alter his Mind. Thereupon an Anathema was pronounced againſt him; he was Depoſed, and Theophanes, a Sicilian, a Man of approved Faith and Virtue ſucceeded him. A while after, his incorrigible Stubbornneſs, occaſioned his being ſhut up in a Monaſtery. Acts of the VIth. Counc. Act. 8, 9, &c. Anaſtaſius in vita Pontif. Baronius A.C. 677, 681, &c.

MACARIUS II. Patriarch of Antioch, was in eſteem in the XIth. Century. He was an Armenian born, and the Acts, yet extant, of his Life certifie, that he was brought up by another Patriarch of the ſame Name, whom he ſucceeded in the Government of that Church, which afterwards he committed to the care of Eleutherus, a Man of great and ſolid Vertue, and went to Travel to Palæſtine, where he was treated ill, and clapt in Priſon by the Infidels, whom he would have taught the Knowledge of Chriſt. This Captivity being ended, he retired towards the Weſt, and died in the Monaſtery of St. Baven in Flanders, in 1011. upon April 10. Baronius mentions him in his Annals.

MACARIUS I. of that Name, Biſhop of Jeruſalem, ſucceeded Hermon, by others called Thermont in 312. Theodoret praiſes him mightily, and, indeed, he deſerved it, having ſhewed an extraordinary Zeal upon ſeveral Occaſions, both for the Defence of the Church, and the Propagation of the Faith. In 318. he oppoſed Arius his Errors; and we find in the Letter, that this Hereſiarch writ to Euſebius of Nicomedia, mentioned by St. Epiphanius and Theodoret, that naming ſeveral Prelates who Adopted his new Doctrine, he excepts Macarius of Jeruſalem, and Philogonus of Antioch. He was afterward at the Council of Nice, held in 325. He was one of the forwardeſt Defenders of the Faith. The Emperor Conſtantine made uſe of him in the building of the famous Baſilica at Jeruſalem, and writ a long Letter to him about it. Macarius died in 331. having Governed the Church at Jeruſalem 19 Years. Baron. in Annal. Martyr. ad 10. Mart. Theodoret lib. 1. c. 5. &c. St. Epiph. hæreſ. 69.

MACARIUS II. ſucceeded Peter in the See of Jeruſalem, An. 546. He was ſuſpected to follow the Doctrine of Origen, which prevailed ſo far upon his Prieſts, that they turned him out. But indeed, we may well abſolve him, by what John Moſchus in the Spiritual Meadow, or Pratum Spirituale, relates of him, and what we read in the Acts of the Life of St. Gregory, Biſhop of Agrigentum, whom Macarius Ordained Deacon. And Evagrius affirms, That the Injuſtice of his Slanderers being made appear, he Condemned Origen's Errors, and was reſtored to his Church, which he Governed 4 Years. Joh. Moſchus Prat. Spir. c. 96. Surius ad 23. Novemb. Niceph. lib. 27. c. 26. Evag. lib. 4.

MACARIUS, called Junior of Alexandria, a famous Hermit, was a Prieſt, and lived in the time of Macarius the Old, viz. In the Vth. Century. He is ſaid to have had about 5000 Solitaries under his Tuition. The Holineſs of his Life, and his Sufferings by the Arians, render him famous. He is ſaid to be the Author of the Rules of the Monks, which we have in 30 Chapters; tho' Mivus, and ſome others, are of another Mind. Pallad. in hiſt. Lauſ. Ruff. in hiſt. Patrum, Baronius.

MACARONIQUE, a Name given to the Burleſque Latin Poets, who mix together ſome Italian, or other Words of another Vulgar Tongue, in their Poems. The Macaronea, or Macaronique Poetry had the Name from the Macarons of Italy, which are pieces of Dough, or rather a kind of ſmall Cakes made of unſifted Flower, Eggs, and Cheeſe, which are much uſed in the Country, and counted the chief Dainties of the Peaſants. It is a manner of Ragout made up of ſeveral things, but in a clumſy way; ſo the Macaroniques were a hotch-potch of Latin, Italian, and French, with the Latin Termination, and the Country Groteſque; adorned with a natural Beauty, together with pleaſant Jeſts, and a brisk and jolly Stile. Theophilus Folengi, who flouriſhed about 1520, is ſaid to have been the Author of that kind of Poetry. 'Tis ſaid, That Rablais endeavour'd to imitate Folengi, and that he has tranſcrib'd the moſt beautiful Paſſages of that Author into his Pantagruel: But if Macaroniques were his deſign, he was out in his meaſures. It being impoſſible to make this ſort of Poem agree with the French Language.

MACASSAR, or MACAZAR, a conſiderable Town of Celebes, one of the Molucca Iſlands in the Indian-Sea. It is a very ſafe Haven, where the Merchants pay nothing for Importation or Exportation. Stones are very common there, but the Iſlanders do not know how to imploy them. There be three Moſques in this Town built with Palm-Timber. The Portugueſes had made an Agreement with one of the Kings of the Iſland, to Engroſs the whole Trade to themſelves, and had built a Fort there with 5 Baſtions. But the Hollanders cauſed them to be driven out of it, and are Maſters of all the Commerce. They have perſuaded the King of Macaſſar to fortify his Town, and to build Houſes. He is a Mahometan, as are moſt part of his People. They ſo ſcrupulouſly follow the Alcoran; that they will not ſo much as drink Palm-Wine, which is excellent, and nothing inferior to our Wines. Though the number of the Idolaters be but ſmall there, yet the Jeſuits have attempted, without ſucceſs, the preaching of Chriſtianity in that Country. As for the Dutch, though they are very powerful in this Country, give a Toleration to other Religions, yet they ſcarce keep any one for themſelves, but live after a Libertine manner. There is about this Town, and all over the Iſland, abundance of Cocos, and Indian Fig-Trees. The Coco is a Tree that grows very tall, and at the top ſhoots forth abundance of Leaves, as the Palm-Tree does; the Fruit is covered over with a green Bark, which when ripe, may be ſpun into a kind of Flax. The inward part grows hard, and covers a white Subſtance, and the middle is full of a freſh and wholſome Water. The Indian Fig-Tree, has very long Leaves, with a Flower as big as ones Fiſt, which produceth a Cluſter of about 100 Figs. They cut off the Cluſter before it be ripe, and eat it, when dried. There be ſome of them ſo big, that two Men can hardly carry them. Theſe Figs taſte like Beans. Thevenot. & Linſchot.

MACAZAR, or MACASSAR, a great Iſland in Aſia, between Borneo, Gilolo, and Mindanao. It is alſo called Celebes, and counted one of the Molucca's. It is made up of ſeveral ſmall Iſlands, ſo near one another, that they commonly paſs for one. It is 100 Leagues broad, and 200 long. It contains 6 Kingdoms, the moſt conſiderable is that of Macazar, with a Town of the ſame Name, at the South of the Iſland, with a good Harbour. It hath a very good Air, and plenty of all Neceſſaries for Life. There was printed at Paris in 1688, an Hiſtorical Deſcription of that Kingdom.

MACCHIA, a Dukedom in Italy, in the Kingdom of Naples, in that part which goeth by the Name of Capitanata. Leander Alberti Deſcript. of Italy.

MACCIO (Sebaſtian) born at Urbania, in the Dukedom of Urbino, was a Perſon of Character in the XVIIth. Century. He was a good Lawyer, well accompliſh'd in the Belles Lettres, and wrote very handſomely in Proſe and Verſe. He wrote, de Hiſtoria Scribenda & de Bello Aſdrubalis. De Hiſtoria Liviana. A Poem of the Life of our Saviour, &c. Janus Nicius Erythreus Pinac. 1. Imag. Illuſt. cap. 152.

MACCLESFIELD, or MAXFIELD, a large, fair Market Town in Cheſhire, upon the River Bollin, Capital of its Hundred, ornamented with a fair Chappel in the Pariſh of Preſtbury, adjoining to which, is a College. The Inhabitants drive a good Trade in making Buttons. This Town gives the Title of Earl to the Right Honourable Charles Gerard. Its 124 Miles from London.

MACEDONIA, a vaſt Province of Greece, formerly a Kingdom, under which was Theſſaly, Epirus, and even Thracia. Its Limits were the Egean Sea on the E. Epirus and Theſſaly on the S. the Ionick and Adriatick Seas on the W. and the Marinean Mountains on the N. with the River Stromona. According to Titus Livius, it went by the Name of Pœonia, Mygdonia, and Emonia. Solinus gives it the Name of Edonia, Precia, and Emathia. It is now divided into four Parts, viz. Jamboli, Macedonia, Comenolitari, and Janna. This Kingdom is ſaid to have contained fifty ſeveral Sorts of People, in former Times. Caranus deſcended from Hecules, founded this Monarchy about An. Mun. 3240, which endured about 500 Years, became very famous under Philip and Alexander the Great, his Son, and continued till the Reign of Perſeus, whom the Romans Conquered, An. Rom. 586, and reduced the Kingdom into a Province, 256 Years after the Death of Alexander the Great, and after a Succeſſion of 41 Kings.

MACEDONIANS, certain Hereticks, who followed Macedonius his Errors. This Prelate thinking it intolerable to be Depoſed, would revenge himſelf by a new Hereſy. He taught, that the Holy Ghoſt was not like either to the Father or to the Son, but a meer Creature, and one of God's Miniſters, being yet more excellent than the Angels. The Malecontent Biſhops ſubſcribed to this Error, which the Arians greedily ſwallowed; and even the Donatiſts of Africa joined with them, if we believe St. Jerome, who ſaith, That Donatus of Carthage, writ a Treatiſe of the Holy Ghoſt, Conſonant to the Doctrine of the Arians. The outward ſhew of Piety, ſeduced many ſimple Folks to the Macedonians; for they profeſſed to live very auſterely, which hath always done the Church a great deal of Miſchief, when that auſterity countenanced a bad Doctrine. One Maratonus, who had been formerly a Treaſurer, having got vaſt Riches, forſook his Secular Life, and at firſt gave himſelf to the Service of the Poor and Sick, then became a Monk, and under Euſtathius ſucked in the Macedonian Hereſy. He ſpread it far and wide, by reaſon of his great Riches, the free Diſtribution of which, was of more force than any other Argument. Socrates ſaith, that theſe Hereticks were called Maratonians. They were alſo named Pneumatomachi, i. e. Enemies of the Holy Ghoſt. The noiſe of that Hereſy being ſpread over Egypt, the Biſhop Serapion acquainted Athanaſius with it, who lay hid in the Deſart; and that famous Prelate immediately took Pen in hand, and was the firſt who confuted it; and after that time, the Councils by their Decrees, and the Emperors by their Edicts, did vigorouſly proſecute it. Athanaſius, lib. de Spir. S. S. Auguſtin hæreſ. 52.

MACEDONIUS, Biſhop of Antioch, intruded into that See, about 640. after Anaſtaſius III. who was an Heretick. As he had been of his Party, ſo he defended his Errors, for which Pope Martin I. Excommunicated him in 649. and from that time, we know nothing of the Biſhops of Antioch, until Macarius, who was Depoſed in the 6th. General Council in 681. Martinus I. Epiſt. 6. & ſeq. Baronius, A.C. 640, and 649.

MACEDONIUS, an Hereſiarch, Biſhop of Conſtantinople, being put in by the Arians, after the Death of Alexander, in Oppoſition to Paul, in 342. who was turned out by Conſtantius the Emperor, after much Debate and Bloodſhed, Macedonius governed the Church tyrannically. A little while after, he cauſed the Body of Conſtantine to be tranſlated from the Temple of the Apoſtles, to that of Acacius the Martyr; which raiſed great Tumults, and many being killed in the fray, he loſt the Emperor's Favour. Joining with the Semi-Arians, he coined his new Doctrine, and moulded a new Sect, denying the Divinity of the Holy Ghoſt. He was turned out by the Council of Conſtantinople, in 359. Eudoxius ſucceeded him. S. Hieronymus, in Chron. S. Auguſtin Hær. 52.

MACEDONIUS II. Biſhop of Conſtantinople, ſucceeded Euphemius, who was turned out and baniſh'd. Theodorus Lector ſays, That Macedonius ſign'd Zeno's Henoticon; but Cyril aſſures us, in the Life of St. Sabas, that this Prelate was Orthodox, and, to ſpeak plainly, the Emperor found him ſo, to his great diſſatisfaction: For perceiving that Macedonius diſappointed his Expectation, and defended the Council of Chalcedon with great Reſolution, he broke with the Biſhop upon this Point, and gave him a great deal of trouble; particularly the Emperor charg'd him with ſeveral Crimes and Miſdemeanours, of which Macedonius eaſily clear'd himſelf; ſo that finding this Method would not do, he ſent an Aſſaſſin to diſpatch the Biſhop, who was bought off the Murther by a Sum of Money. The Emperor's laſt Expedient was Baniſhment: To put this in Execution, he order'd Macedonius to be carri'd off privately in the Night, for fear the People ſhould riſe in his behalf. Thus Macedonius died in Exile, in the Year 515. Theſe hardſhips rais'd the Character of Macedonius to a great pitch, and he was only blam'd for not blotting the Name of Acacius, a Heretick, out of the Diptychs. Theodorus Lector, lib. 2. Cedrenus in Annal. Anaſtaſ. Bibliothec. &c.

MACEDONIUS, a Monk, hearing of the ſlaughter at Antioch by Theodoſius' Command, he left his Deſart, and having put on the ſame Robes which the Emperor's Judges wore, he commanded them, in the Name of God to repair to the Emperor, and ſpeak in the behalf of that poor People; which together with the humble Addreſſes of Flavian, Biſhop of Conſtantinople, put an end to their Miſery. Theodoret, lib. 5. cap. 9. Johannes Chryſoſtomus, Oratione de Statuis.

MACEDONIUS, Maſter of the Offices (ſomewhat reſembling a Lord High-Steward) to Gratian the Emperor at Milan, favoured the Priſcillianiſts againſt St. Ambroſe. Paulinus, who writ the Life of that Saint, tells us, that he periſhed unfortunately in 382. He refuſed to open the Door of his own Houſe to St. Ambroſe; and when he was purſued, he could not get into the Church.

MACER (Æmilius) of Verona, a Latin Poet, flouriſhed in the CXCIſt. Olympiad, and died in Aſia, as St. Jerome ſaith. He writ about Serpents, Plants, and Birds; and in his Books, imitated Nicander, according to Quinctilian and Manilius. Ovid mentions his Works, Lib. 4. de Triſt. Eleg. 10.

> Sæpe ſuas volucres legit mihi grandior ævo,
> Quæque nocet Serpens, quæ juvat herba, Macer.

He alſo ſupplied what was wanting in Homer, about the Deſtruction of Troy, as Q. Calaber had writ the ſame in Greek. Which Ovid obſerves in the 10th. Elegy of the 2d. Book De Ponto.

> Tu Canis æterno quidquid reſtabat Homero,
> Ne careant ſumma Troica bella manu.

Voſſius de Poetis latinis.

MACERATA, a Town in Italy, in the Marquiſate of Ancona, built upon the Ruins of Ricina. Here is an Univerſity, and a Biſhoprick joined to that of Tollentinum.

MACHABEUS: See JUDAS.

MACHABEES, a Name given to the Aſamonæan Princes, who governed the Jews about 130 Years. The Jews would have them thus named, from the four firſt Letters of theſe four Words in their Colours, Mi Camocha Belohim Adonai, Who is like unto thee among the Gods, O Lord? Their Hiſtory may be found in the Books that go by their Name, and in Joſephus.

MACHABEES, Two Books in the Apocrypha, the Authors whereof are not well known, though ſome would have it, that Johannes Hyrcanus wrote the Firſt; and Jaſon, the Cyrenian, the Second. But that amounts to no more than a Conjecture, and chiefly what is ſaid of Hircanus; becauſe; forſooth, he had been an Eye-witneſs to all that is contained in the Firſt Book; that he lived peaceably, and that he is called a Prophet by Joſephus, lib. 13. Antiquit. cap. 15. As for Jaſon, he, indeed, writ the whole Hiſtory of the Machabees; but it is not true that he writ this Book, ſince the Author profeſſes that he deſigned to abbreviate Jaſon's Book. Spanhemius hath proved at large, that theſe Books cannot be counted amongſt the Canonical Books. Some add a Third Book to theſe, which Bellarmine himſelf owns to be no Canonical Book. De verbo Dei, cap. 15. See Bp. Coſins's Scholaſtical Hiſtory of the Canon of Scripture.

MACHABEES, Seven Brothers, who, together with their Mother Salomone, ſuffered Martyrdom. Antiochus, King of Syria, having taken Jeruſalem, An. Mun. 3886, and 168 before the Birth of Chriſt; and being returned to Antioch, would force a grave old Man, named Eleazer, and Salomone, with her Seven Children, to abjure Moſes's Law. Eleazer withſtood the Temptation, and died with a wonderful Conſtancy. The Seven Brothers expoſed themſelves alſo with Courage to all the Torments prepared for them. The Eldeſt had his Body torn with Scourges, then he was ſtretched upon a Wheel, under which the Executioners kindled a great Fire. This generous Iſraelite, ſcorning the Torments, ſpent his laſt Breath in exhorting his Brothers to ſuffer. Antiochus his Guards dragged the Second to the place of Torments, who alſo ſuffered with an undaunted Reſolution, they pulled off the Skin of his Head with Iron-Pincers, and all the Fleſh of his Body to the lowermoſt part of his Belly. The Third ſuffered as courageouſly, the Executioners bound his Hands and Feet to a Rack, made in form of a Circle, to bruiſe all his Members, then they pulled off his Skin with Iron-Nails, and ſtretched him upon a Wheel. The Fourth had his Tongue cut off, becauſe he threatned the King with an Everlaſting Puniſhment, afterwards he was burnt alive. The Fifth was bound with Chains upon an Inſtrument called Catapulta, after which, all the Bones of his Loins were broken with Wedges driven in by force, then he was rolled upon a Wheel, ſtrewed all over with Nails like Scorpions. The Sixth was thrown into a boiling Cauldron. The Seventh, and the youngeſt of all, ſtrengthened by his own Zeal, and the Exhortations of his Mother, deſired the Executioners to untie him, that he might go to the King, and ſpeak to him; which they did gladly, thinking that he would Obey the King; but he ran preſently to the place where the Fire was kindled to burn him, and when he had bewailed the Tyrant's Miſery, he threw himſelf into the midſt of the Flames. The Mother of theſe generous Martyrs, having exhorted them to it, followed their Example, and died in the Fire, with the ſame Conſtancy ſhe had inſpired them withal. Joſephus, Martyrdom of the Machabees.

MACHANES, the Chief City of Morocco.

MACHAON, a famous Phyſician, who practis'd at the Siege of Troy. He was Son to Æſculapius, and Brother to Podelerius, who was of the ſame Profeſſion. Homer makes mention of them both, and gives an honourable Character of their Buſineſs. Quintus Calaber, in his 6th. Book, tells us, that Euripylus charg'd Machaon, and kill'd him.

MACHAZOR, that Word ſignifieth Cycle, and it is the Name of a Prayer-Book, very much in uſe amongſt the Jews, in their greateſt Solemnities. It is very hard to underſtand, becauſe the Prayers are writ in Verſe, and in a very conciſe Stile. Buxtorfius obſerves, that it was printed many times, as well in Italy, as Germany and Poland; and that in thoſe printed at Venice, many things that were againſt Chriſtians, were mended. There be not many Manuſcript Copies amongſt the Jews, however there is a good number in the Library of Sorbonn. Buxtorfius in Biblioth. Rab.

MACHERA, or Macheronte, a Caſtle of Judæa, upon the River Jordan, on the Borders of the Dead-Sea, within five or ſix Leagues of Jeruſalem. Joſephus ſaith, that in this place, St. John the Baptiſt was beheaded, by the Command of Herod, 31 Years after the Birth of Chriſt. They ſay, that in this place there was a Plant of Rue as tall as a Fig-Tree, which continued there from the times of Herod, to the Wars of the Jews, who cut it down when they had taken the place. The Plant called Baaras, grew alſo about this Caſtle, the wonderful effects of which are reported by Joſephus, lib. 7. Of the Wars of the Jews. Baronius.

MACHIAVEL (Nicolas) of Florence, lived in the beginning of the XVIth. Century. He had no great skill in the Latin Tongue, yet he writ very politely. He was accuſed, as having had a hand in the Conſpiracy of the Soderini's againſt the Medici's, and was put to the Rack. His Conſtancy ſaved him. He was made Secretary of the Commonwealth, and undertook to write the Hiſtory of his own Country in 8 Books, which contain what paſſed from 1215, to 1494. He hath publiſhed other Pieces, The Prince, The Life of Caſtruccio Caſtracani, ſome Poems, &c. This Author affects mightily to extol Brutus and Caſſius; which perſuades ſome, that he was not altogether innocent of the Crime laid to his Charge, I mean, the Conſpiracy of the Soderini's. His Politick Maxims are very dangerous. He is ſaid to have died about 1528, or 1529. by taking Phyſick unadviſedly. Paulus Jovius in Elog. doct. cap. 87. Voſſius de arte hiſt. cap. 10. Cornelius Tollius de infæl. Liter. in append. ad Pier. Valer. &c.

MACHYLES, an Ancient People of Africa, near the Syrtis Major, now called the Syrtes of Barbary. They are reported to have uſed both Sexes alternatively. Ariſtotle ſaith, that their right Pap was like that of a Man, and the left like that of a Woman. Calliphanus, Plinius lib. 6. cap. 2.

MACHYMLETH, an Ancient Market-Town in Montgomeryſhire. It ſtands upon the River Devy, over which it has a Stone-Bridge, 139 Miles from London.

MACOCO, a Kingdom of Africa in High Æthiopia, towards the River Zaire. Their King hath Ten other Kings under him, as Tributaries. He is ſaid to be always at War with the King of Mujaco. The Inhabitants are called Monſoles, or Metica's; and are Canibals. They report, that every day 200 Men, either Criminals, or Slaves of Tribute, are killed, and that their Fleſh is dreſſed for the King's Table, and that of his Courtiers, as it were Beef or Mutton; though they want neither Cattle, nor Fowl in that Country. Monſol is the Metropolitan Town. The Portugueſes of Lovango ſend over their Pombero's thither, who are Slaves of known Fidelity, to buy Slaves, Ivory, and Copper. The King of Macoco hath a very glorious Court, but nothing near that of the King of Congo, whom the Portugueſes have taught part of the Cuſtoms of Europe. Dapper deſcriptio Africæ.

MACRAN, or Makeran, a Province of Perſia, towards the Indian Sea, and the States of the Great Mogul. It is called alſo Makeran and Geteche Maquerona, and it paſſes for part of the Ancient Caramania. Its Eaſtern part is called Kirman. The Prince of that Country is Tributary to the King of Perſia. The chief Town is Macran, or Makeran; the others are Titz, Kambele, Darci, &c. Guadel is one of the Sea-Ports on the Indian Sea.

MACRINA, a Virgin Lady of great Piety, Siſter to St. Bazil and St. Gregory Nyſſen; her Mother and ſhe founded a Nunnery, where they liv'd together in a very Regular and Exemplary Manner. Macrina was a Lady of Letters, and perticularly well read and improv'd in the Study of the Scriptures. She endeavoured to ſupport Gregory of Nyſſen under his Affliction for their Brother, St. Baſil's Death; and ſaid ſo many excellent things upon this Occaſion, that he wrote a Dialogue upon the Argument, calling it, De Anima & de Reſurrectione: Here he brings in Macrina diſcourſing upon the Point, and calls her his Miſtreſs or Inſtructreſs. She died in 379. and her Life is written by her Brother Gregory Nyſſen, in an Epiſtle to Olympus. See St. Bazil's Life, by Hirmannus.

MACRINUS (Marcus Opilius Severus) was choſen Emperor in 217, after Caracalla, whom he had cauſed to be murdered. He was of a very mean Birth, and Fortune raiſed him by degrees, having been a Fencer, a Huntſman, a Scrivener, an Attorney-General, and a Præfectus Prætorio, or Captain of the Guards. He made his Son Diadumenus, Aged not above Nine or Ten Years, partaker of the Empire. His Cruelty made him odious to the Soldiers. The ſame that had ſet him upon the Throne, pulled him down by a violent Death, when he had Reigned one Year, and two Months, from the Year of our Lord 217. to June 7. 218. Julius Capitolinus in his Life. Aurelius Victor in Macr. Lampridius in Diadem.

MACRINUS, or Macrianus, or Marcianus, (Marcus Fulvius) a Captain. He was raiſed to the Empire by Baliſtus or Baliſta. He made his Two Sons, Macrinus and Quintus Fulvius Macrinus, and Caius Fulvius Quietus, partakers of the Empire. But he was routed in Illyrium by Aureolus's Army, when he was preparing to come into Italy, about 258. He died in the Fight, with his Eldeſt Son. Quintus was killed by thoſe of Emeſa, whilſt he was in purſuit of Odenathus, who had killed Baliſta. They lived about the end of the IIId. Century, in the time of Galienus. Trebellius Pollio of the Thirty Tyrants.

MACROBIANS, a certain People of Aſia, ſo named, becauſe they lived long. Pomponius Mela places them in the Iſland Meroe, and Pliny in Æthiopia, others in Macedon. Dionyſius Africanus and Euſtathius, give alſo this Name to divers People; Euſtathius calls them Hyperboreans, and Africanus the Æthiopians that lie by the Atlantick Sea. Thus Orpheus ſpeaks of them in Argonaut.

Venimus ad dites, omnique ex parte beatos
Macrobios.

Plinius lib. 4. cap. 10. & lib. 6. cap. 30. The Holy Scripture informs us, that before the Flood, the Period of Humane Life reach'd to 700 Years, and upwards: After the Flood, the Age of Man was much ſhorten'd, though not to that degree 'tis now, for Terah, Abraham's Father, lived 205 Years: Abraham himſelf 175. Iſaac 180. Jacob 147. and Judah 119. Prophane Hiſtory tells us, that Neſtor had liv'd to Three Ages, when he was at the Siege of Troy: That Arganthonius, King of the Tarteſſians, liv'd 150 Years: Cinyras, King of Cyprus, 160; and Æginius 200. Maffeus in his Hiſtory of the Indians, reports, that in the Iſle of Bengal, they found a Man 335 Years old, and that the Man prov'd his Years by giving an Account of all the memorable Actions which had happen'd within that time, and which upon Examination they found agreeable to the Relations of Hiſtory. Seneca, the Philoſopher, liv'd to the Age of 144 Years, and might have gone on longer, if Nero had not diſpatch'd him. Simon, Son of Cleophas, the Second Biſhop of Jeruſalem, was crucified under Trajan, at a 120 Years old. And Narciſſus, Biſhop of the ſame City, in the Third Century, reach'd to 166. Paul, the firſt Hermit, liv'd to 120. And St. Anthony, the Abbot, to 150. The Emperor Claudius having throughly examin'd into the Age of Titus Fullonius of Bononia, in Italy, found it 150 Years. Attila, King of the Hunns, was 120 Years old when he died. Peter de Natalibus enlarges upon ſeveral Proofs, to ſhew that Severinus, Biſhop of Tongres, liv'd 375 Years, and that he was 197 at his Conſecration. Guido Donatus affirms poſitively, that in the Year 1223. he knew one Richard, who was then living, and full 400 Years old, which Richard made appear, by proving he had bore Arms under Charles the Great. Johannes de Temporibus is much talk'd of, who ſerv'd in the Field under the Emperor abovemention'd, and died in the Reign of Lewis the VII. in 1146. ſo that by this Account he muſt be 360 Years old; but let this be as it will, 'tis certain that the Antediluvian Patriarchs liv'd to 7, 8, and 900 Years, and upwards: Neither are we to imagine, that the Hebrew Years were only Lunary, of 29 or 30 Days a piece, for the Years of theſe Antediluvian Patriarchs, either took in the Revolution of the Four Seaſons of the Year, according to the Computation of the Chaldeans and Arcadians, as Lactantius reports; or at leaſt, they comprehended the time of the Sun's paſſing from one Tropick to another, which makes about Six Months. That theſe Patriarchal Years could not be Lunary, is apparent, becauſe by this way of Computation, the Antediluvians would not have liv'd ſo long as People do now, for 100 of our Solar Years makes above 1200 Lunary ones; ſo that by this way of reckoning, none of the Ancients before the Flood would have liv'd 100 Years. Further, to ſhew that the Years of the Antediluvian Patriarchs conſiſted of, at leaſt, 12 Lunary Months, we need only obſerve, that Moſes in the 7th Chapter of Geneſis, ſpeaking of the Deluge, tells us, it began upon the 17th Day of the Second Month, when Noah was 600 Year old: And in the 8th Chapter he adds, that on the 27th Day of the 7th Month, the Ark ſtruck upon the Mountains of Armenia; and that the 1ſt Day of the 10th Month, the Tops of the Mountains began to appear above Water; and that 40 Days after Noah ſent out the Dove. At laſt he tells us, that upon the 1ſt Day of the 1ſt Month, when Noah was 601 Years old, that Patriarch ſet open the Ark. All this put together, amounts to a Demonſtration, that Moſes reckon'd 12 Months from the 600 to the 601 Years of Noah, and that his Calculation is, at leaſt, very near that of ours. De Commiers dans ſes Lettres.

MACROBIUS (Aurelius) lived about the end of the IVth Century. Thoſe of Parma affirm, that he was born there, but he owns himſelf to be a Stranger. This is certain, at leaſt, that he was one of Theodoſius's Chamberlains, or one of the Maſters of his Wardrobe, as it may be eaſily gueſſed, by a Reſcript directed to Florentius, concerning the Rank of them that were of that Office. He compoſed ſeveral Pieces full of Learning; that which he calls the Saturnalia, treats of ſeveral Subjects, and 'tis a pleaſant mixture of Critick and Antiquities. He hath alſo compoſed ſome Commentaries upon that Piece of Cicero, called Scipio's Dream. Planudes Tranſlated it into Greek. Iſaacus Pontanus and Meurſius, have made good Annotations upon it. Merula lib. 2. Ant. Gall. Ciſalp. cap. 2.

MACROCEPHALES, a People near the Thracian Boſphorus, according to Pomponius Mela, ſo named, becauſe of their Long-heads. Stephanus Byzantinus places them near Colchide, and Plinius in the Neighbourhood of Ceraſonte, the Metropolis of Cappadocia. The Name is derived from μακρὸς, long, and κεφαλὴ, a head.

MADAGASCAR, or St. Lawrence's Iſland, ſo called, becauſe diſcovered on that Day; and according to ſome, from Lawrence, a Portugueſe, who diſcovered it in 1506. The French, in the Reign of Henry IV. called it the Daphine's Iſland. It is ſuppoſed to be the Menuthias of Ptolemy, and the Cerne Æthiopica of Pliny. It lies in the Æthiopian Sea, and points Weſtward towards Zanguebar and the Cafres, on the Coaſt of Africk. 'Tis about 50 Leagues in length, and 100 or 80 in breadth. It is under the Torrid Zone, and the Tropick of Capricorn. It hath abundance of Capes, and moſt of them covered with Citron and Orange, or Ebony-Trees, and others, whoſe Wood is ſpeckled. The Rocks are of excellent white Marble, whence flows the beſt and pureſt Water in the World. The Country is divided into many Provinces, but thoſe towards the North are unknown to the Europeans. Their Villages are compoſed of movable Houſes, ſuch as four Men can carry. Their Towns are encompaſſed with Pales, and a deep Ditch 6 or 7 Foot wide, and their Houſes built of Planks. The French have built Fort Dauphin here, and ſeveral others, to defend their Colonies towards the South-Eaſt of the Iſland. The Air is extream hot, and they have never any Snow nor Ice. Here are ſeveral Mines of Iron, and fine Steel; they have ſome Mines of Gold, but it is very pale; moſt ſorts of precious Stones are to be found in their Rivers; and they have ſtore of excellent Honey, ſweeter and harder than ours, reſembling Sugar. They make Wine or Mead of Honey, which is the moſt common, Wine of Sugar, and a ſort of Syder. They extract Oil from ſeveral Plants, Fruits, Nuts, and Grains, and have a ſort of Earth as good as the Terra Sigillata of Lemnos. Here grows abundance of White Pepper, and precious odoriferous Wood of divers Colours. They have alſo ſtore of Canes of a vaſt height and thickneſs, tall and round, of which they make Pots, Bottles, Violins, and Harps, Boats that will hold two Perſons, and Sedans, and take care to give them a certain Bent when young, to render them fit for their purpoſe. Theſe Canes which they call Bamboches, have a Pith within, much eſteemed by the Indians, Arabians, and Perſians, and called the Sugar of the Bamba's, or Bamboches. They have very good Tobacco, and alſo a ſort of Hemp, whoſe Leaves they uſe inſtead of it, which being chawed, makes them fall aſleep, and afterwards renders them extraordinary chearful; but ſuch as are not accuſtomed to it, it makes mad for three or four Days. The Inhabitants are often incommoded with Locuſts, which deſtroy all their Corn and Fruits; but the Natives gather up the Locuſts, and feed upon them. Here are no great plenty of noiſome Animals, except Crocodiles, and great Serpents, without Poiſon. The Natives are of two Sorts, Black and White: The latter, by their Names and Cuſtoms, ſeem to be of Jewiſh Extract. All of them go naked, but cover their Pudenda. Women of Quality have ſome ſlight Habit extraordinary. The Men buy their Wives, and keep as many as they can maintain. The Men are Courageous, and deſpiſe Death; and their Arms are Javelins, Bows, and Arrows. The Women are very diſcreet and extreamly virtuous. Their Language and Writing reſembles the Arabick: Their Paper is yellow, very ſmooth, and fine; being made of the Inner Rind of a certain Tree, call'd Avo: Their Ink is a ſort of Gum, made of a Tree call'd Arandranto, and their Pens made of Cane. They believe in one God, the Creator of Heaven and Earth; who rewards the good, and puniſhes the Bad. They call him Zanharre, and Sacrifice to him, but without Temples. They own alſo that there are Good and Evil Angels; and are mightily afraid of the Devil; and in all their Sacrifices they throw the Devil the firſt Bit to pacify him. Their Prieſts are uſually Magicians, and give them Spells and Charms to prevent Miſchief from the Devil. They live in Hords, like the Tartars, under one Chief, whom they call Tſchich: Which Authority is many times uſurped by him who is moſt powerful. The lateſt Relation from this Iſland, informs us, That the Provinces are governed by Petty Princes, or Grandees; and the People are divided into ſeveral Ranks. When any of the Subjects die, their Princes ſeize upon all their Cattle or Stock, and leave their Children nothing but their Lands. After the Death of one of thoſe Grandees, their Subjects may chuſe another; and he is obliged to make them a Preſent. When the Grandees viſit one another, he who receives the Viſit proſtitutes his handſomeſt Wife to the other: And the Subjects entertain their Friends and Strangers in the ſame manner. Their Princes are much delighted with Comedies. Their Comedians, whom they call Secalſes, ſhave themſelves cloſe, and Act in the Habit of Women, and play their Part in a Farce divertingly enough. Mandeſlo. Flacourt. Dapper.

MADAURA, Madara or Madura, a Town in Africk, between Hippo and Lambeſa; 'twas formerly a conſiderable place, and had an Academy, in which St. Auguſtin ſtudied. Apuleius was born here. Pliny, Ptolemy, Marmol.

MADDESPATAN. This Port is in the Kingdom of Biſnagar, South of Maſilipatan; and but half a League from St. Thomas, another Port. Near it is Fort St. George, belonging to the Engliſh; together with a General Factory for every thing that concerns the Kingdoms of Golconda, Pegu, and Bengala. Tavern. Part 2. Pag. 85.

MADERA, an Iſland of the Atlantick Sea, towards the Weſt of Barbary, and the ſame which Pliny calls Cerne Atlantica. It is called by ſome, The Queen of Iſlands, becauſe of its Beauty and Fertility. It was diſcovered in 1420. by John Gonſalvo and Triſtan Vaſee, in the Name of the King of Portugal, who is poſſeſſed of it. It is covered with Woods and Foreſts. The chief Town is Funchal, or Funzal, with a Biſhop's See. It hath ſeveral little Towns, and 36 Pariſhes. The Portugueſe called it Madera, becauſe they found it covered all over with Woods. They ſet it on Fire to fit it for Tillage; and while it was burning they retired into their Ships, where they ſuffered much for want of Water. This Iſland is full of Mountains, and very fruitful, pleaſant Plains. It abounds with Springs, Sugar-Canes, Honey, Wax, and Corn. The beſt Wine in the World is made there; and the Plants were brought over from Candia. The Cluſters are about two Foot long, and proportionable in breadth. The Haven is not ſafe, but the Coaſts are very good. Some call it The Inacceſſible Iſland, becauſe of a thick Fog that hangs always over it, wherein Ships may eaſily miſs their Courſe. The Deſart-Iſland is divided from Madera by a ſmall Chanel: It is called Madera's Warren, becauſe of the great Game in it. Here are eight Mills for Sawing of Wood; and they drive a great Trade in Portugal with Yew and Cedar. Here are abundance of Ring-Doves, Wild Peacocks, Quails, and Canary-Birds. Marmol of Africa. Davity.

Davity. Other Authors ſay, This Iſland was firſt found by an Engliſh Man, whoſe Name was Macham, in 1344. The Man was left here by the Ship, with a few Men; and in an open Boat, made of one Tree, arrived in Barbary, and was by the Moors preſented to Peter IV. King of Arragon, as a Wonder. In 1395. Henry, King of Caſtile, ſent ſome Ships the ſecond time, to find out this Iſland, and the Canaries; which, it ſeems, ſucceeded; for in 1417. Monſieur Ruben de Bracamont, a French Gentleman, was ſent to Conquer the Canaries. Hackl. Tom. 2. Part 2. Pag. 1. Its Latitude is 32. Tom. 2. Part 2. Pag. 7. Its Principal City is called Funchal, which is a Biſhop's See. It has a fair Harbour for Ships, and a ſtrong Fort. Wine and Fruits here are plenty, but it yields little Corn, which, for the moſt part, is brought from France or Teneriff. Its Circuit is about 30 Leagues. Ibid. p. 7. Pory ſays, It is the greateſt in the Atlantick Ocean, being 160 Miles in Compaſs. Beſides plenty of Springs, it has eight ſmall Rivers; which make it as fruitful and pleaſant as a Garden; and its Product is extraordinary good: The Biſhop of Funchal had a Revenue of 8000 Ducats.

MADIAN, Abraham and Keturah's Son, gave Name to the Madianites; a People given to Idolatry, and great Enemies to the Jews. They inhabited Arabia Petræa, near Palæſtina. There was the Deſart of Madian; and, as Thevet ſays, a Town called now Saloboni. God commanded the Jews to deſtroy that People. I have obſerved before, ſpeaking of Gideon, how the Jews were ſeven Years Slaves to the Madianites, and ſet at liberty by this generous Commander. Geneſis, cap. 15. Judges, cap. 7. *&c. MADOFHER, the laſt King of Guzurate, in India; being but 12 Years old when his Father Sultan Mamoët died, in 1545. Ehamet-Chan was his Guardian, who begged the Mogul Achobar's Protection againſt the Nobles of the Kingdom, that were revolted; promiſing to give him the Town of Amadabat. Achobar immediately enter'd Guzurate with a powerful Army; and having conquered the whole Kingdom, he carried along with him Madofher, and his Guardian, Priſoners to Agra. Madofher being 30 Years old, recovered ſome of the Towns of his Kingdom; but he was defeated by the Mogul, and made a ſecond time Priſoner. This unfortunate Prince fearing leaſt Achobar ſhould put him to Death, reſolved to prevent him, and cut his own Throat. Mandeſlo. Olearius, Tom. 2.

MADRID, Lat Madritum, Matritum, or Madridium in Carpetanis; a Town of Spain, in New Caſtile. It is a new-built Town upon the ſmall River Manzanares; and was increaſed by the Ruins of Villa Manta, which the Ancients called Mantua Carpetanorum. It is become the Capital Town of Spain, ever ſince Philip II. and his Succeſſors made it their Place of Abode. It is large enough, but by no means neat. The King's Palace, Palazzo del Rei, which ſtands at the End of the great Street, the Church of Nueſtra Sennora de Almaduna, that of St. Sebaſtian, the Guild-Hall, the Palace call'd Il Conſiſtorio, and the Square for Bull-Fighting, are the moſt conſiderable Parts of Madrid. It is ſurrounded with a weak Wall, without a Ditch. The Jeronymites Monaſtery, and El Buen Retiro, near Madrid, are famous, and much frequented. Merula. Mariana. Egidio Gonzales. Davila, in his Book called, Teatro de las Grandezas de la Villa de Madrid. Jeronymo de Luitana, Hiſt. de Madrid, *&c. W. of London, and 960 W. of Rome. Long. 13. 40. Lat. 40. 25. Mariana, lib. 23. cap. 18. Sponde A.C. 1473. n. 8. &c.

MADURA, an Iſland and Kingdom of Aſia, in the Eaſt-Indies, near the Iſland Java. There is alſo a Town of that Name. It ſtands at the Foot of the Mountains, under a Prince known by the Name of Naique of Madura.

MÆANDER, a great River of the Leſſer Aſia, in the Greater Phrygia. It ſprings from a Fountain called Alocrene. It runs with ſo oblique a Current, that it often ſeems to be returning again to its Spring. Many of the Poets allude to it in their Works. It falls into the Archipelago, between Heraclea and Miletum.

MAESECH, a conſiderable City of the Low-Countries, on the River Maez, in the Biſhoprick of Liege; 15 Miles N. E. from Maeſtricht, and 27 from Liege.

MAFFEUS (Bernardinus) was born at Rome in 1514. He made a great Improvement in Learning, and was a good Poet and Orator. Theſe Qualifications preferr'd him to the Favour of Pope Paul III. who firſt made him his Secretary, and afterwards a Cardinal. He wrote Commentaries upon Tully's Epiſtles, and a Treatiſe concerning Medals and Inſcriptions. Thuanus Hiſt. lib. 15. Onuphrius, &c. There was another Maffeus, (John Peter) a Jeſuit of Bergamo, who wrote a Hiſtory of the Indies, &c. Janus Nicius Erythreus Pinac. II. Imag. Illuſt. cap. 4. &c. There was likewiſe a third, call'd Maffeo Vegio, born at Lody in Italy. He was Datary to Pope Martin Vth, and lived in the XVth. Century. He wrote ſeven Books of Perſeverance. A Supplement to Virgil, or a 13th. Æneid. Epigrams, &c.

MAGADOXO, a great Kingdom in Africa, with a Town of the ſame Name. It lieth upon the Coaſt of Aian, along the Indian Sea, near Zanguebar. It has a Fort with a famous Haven. The Portugueſe formerly ſpoiled the Town. This City is at preſent the Capital of a ſmall, but wondrous fruitful Kingdom of the ſame Name, abounding in Cattle and Corn. It has an excellent Haven, much frequented by the Ships of Aden and Cambaya; and drives a great Trade in Elephants Teeth, Gold, Slaves, Honey, and Wax. The King is a Moor, or Arabian, and payeth a Tribute to the Abaſſinian Emperor. In former times it was the Capital of the Arabian Colonies on this Coaſt, but in the XVth. Century taken by the Portugueſe. It is ſtrong, rich and populous. Pory. Marmol. Deſcript. of Africa.

MAGAS, Son to Philip, a Macedonian Captain, and Berenice, who afterwards married Ptolemæus Lagus, King of Egypt. He conquered the Province of Cyrene, that was revolted, and kept it, together with the Title of King, during 50 Years. This Prince was of ſo moderate a Temper, that when a Poet, named Philemon, had made a Satyr againſt him, he was contented to command one of his Officers to ſtrike him gently with the flat of his Sword upon the Head: Then he ſent him little Marbles and Bowls to play withal, like a Child. Magas grew ſo fat and bulky, that he was choaked. Plutarch de Cohibenda Ira.

MAGDALEN, (St. Mary) Siſter to Martha and Lazarus, to whom our Bleſſed Saviour ſhewed himſelf after his Reſurrection. Some Doctors affirm, That there were three Magdalens, becauſe of ſeveral Actions of Mary, mentioned in the Goſpel. On this Head, Faber of Eſtaples and Joſſus Clitovius, printed a Book, De Tribus & Unica Magdalena, in 1519. They confirmed their Opinion by the Authority of Origen, St. Chryſoſtom, Theophylact, and ſome others of the Fathers. The Tradition of the Churches of Provence are, That Magdalen, Martha, Lazarus, Maximin, and others, were their firſt Apoſtles, immediately after our Saviour aſcended into Heaven: But John de Launcy hath of late confuted it in his Book, De Commentitio Lazari, *&c. in Provenciam appulſu. MAGDALEN of France, Fifth Daughter to Charles VII. and Mary of Anjou; the wiſeſt and moſt beautiful Princeſs of her Time, was married to Gaſton de Foix, Prince of Viane, Eldeſt Son to Gaſton IV. and Eleonor of Arragon, Heir Apparent to the Kingdom of Navarre. This prudent Princeſs continued a Widow after the Death of Gaſton, her Husband, occaſion'd by the Splenter of a Launce at a Tilting at Libourne, near Bourdeaux; after this Misfortune, ſhe took care of the Education of Francis, Phœbus, and Katharine de Foix, whom ſhe had by her Husband, the Prince of Viane; ſhe likewiſe took all poſſible care to take up the Differences of the Kingdom of Navarre, occaſioned by the Factions of Beaumont and Gramont, which had almoſt ruin'd the Kingdom: This Deſign ſhe happily effected, and got her Son Crown'd, who was afterwards poiſon'd in 1483. Katharine, his Siſter, ſucceeded him, and brought the Crown of Navarre to John de Albert, her Husband. Sainte Marthe Hiſt. Geneal. de France. Favinus Hiſt. de Navarre, &c.

MAGDALEN of France, Queen of Scotland, was Daughter to Francis I. and Clauda of France. James V. King of Scotland, one of the handſomeſt Princes of his Age, being charmed with the Beauty and Virtues of Magdalen, come over to demand her of the King, her Father, and married her at Paris. But this Queen died 7 Months after in Scotland, July 7. 1537.

MAGDEBURG, Lat. Parthenopolis, one of the Hanſe-Towns of Germany, upon the River Elbe. It lies in Saxony, was an Archbiſhop's See, and is the Metropolis of the Dioceſs of that Name. Wittikind, Prince of Saxony, founded in Weſtphalia, in the Village of Agaren, a College of Regular Canons; which Henry the Fowler tranſlated to Wallerſleben, in the Territory of Lunenburgh: But Otho I. Son to Henry, tranſlated again the ſame College into Magdeburg, and there founded an Archbiſhop's See, about 940. which was the fourth Year of Otho; or about 971. as others would have it, a little before his Death. However, Albertus, one of the Monks of St. Maximin of Treves, was the firſt Prelate there; and Pope Benedict VI. gave him the Name of Patriarch of Germany, in an Epiſtle written to the Biſhops of Germany. The Archbiſhop and People of Magdeburg embraced Luther's Doctrine in the Laſt Century. Charles V. beſieged that Town in 1550. but they bought him off by a vaſt Sum of Money. During the late Wars of Germany in 1631. Tilly and Papenheim, at the Head of the Imperial Army, took it, and burnt it almoſt to the Ground. It was beſieged ſeveral other times, and would have been deſolate e'er now, if it had not fallen to the Elector of Brandenburgh, by the Peace at Munſter, in 1648. ſince which time it has been ſeculariz'd. This City derives its Name from the Image of Venus, and the Three Graces, which were placed in a Chariot, and worſhipped there; the Name, in the German Language, ſignifying, The Maidens City. It is the Metropolis of Lower Saxony, and was built by Otho I. at the Deſire of his Queen Editha, Daughter to King Edmond of England, who is buried there. It hath alſo been honoured with the Reſidence of ſeveral Emperors, and hath been a long time famous for Wealth and Authority. It is divided into Three Parts, and excellently well fortified with Ramparts, Towers, and Ditches. Count Tilly was conſtantly unfortunate after the Taking of this City. The Archbiſhop of this City was by Otho I. made Primate of all Germany; and it hath been famous a long time for Wealth and Authority: And the Centuriators of this City, by their Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory, have not a little contributed to its Renown. In the VIIth. Book of the Itinerary we find theſe Verſes on it:

> Nobile ſe nobis Magdeburgum oſtentat, & altas
> Inſignes turres, ac templa extendit in Auras.
> Salve, urbs pace potens, Salve, clariſſima bello,
> Nomine Parthenopen referens, Lacedæmona factis.
> Cluver. Deſcript. Germ.

It ſtands 9 Leagues Eaſt from Halberſtadt. The Archbiſhoprick of Magdeburg, now turned into a Dukedom, being a very ſmall Province of Germany, in the Lower Saxony, bounded on the North, with the Old Marquiſate of Brandenburg, on the Eaſt with the Middle Marquiſate, on the South with Anhault and Halberſtat, and with the Dukedom of Brunſwick on the Weſt, the Capital of it is Magdeburg, 42 Miles S. W. of Brandenburg, and 45 N. W. of Wirtemberg. Albertus Crantz. de Epiſc. Magdeb. Andrew Wernerus Chron. Magdeb. Cluver. Deſcript. Germ. &c.

MAGELLAN, vulgo Magathens (Ferdinand) a Portugueſe, lived in the beginning of the XVIth. Century. He got an immortal Fame by the Diſcovery of the Streight called by his Name, The Magellanick Streight, about 1519. or 20. He diſcovered it by Order of the Emperor, Charles V. to whom he made his Addreſſes, becauſe his own King refuſed to augment his Pay Half a Crown a Month. Magellan ſailed from Seville in 1519. with five Ships; and croſſing the Streight, went through the South-Sea to the Iſlands De los Ladrones, where he was poiſoned, or, as ſome ſay, died in a Fight in the Iſland Maran, after he had conquered the Iſland Cebu, in 1520. Theſe are the Philippine Iſlands. However, one of his Ships ſailed round the Globe, and arrived again at Seville, September 8. 1521. Others ſay, That Magellan, the firſt Diſcoverer, went by the way of the Mar del Noort, or Atlantick Ocean, and entred it by the Capa de las Virguas, and reached the South-Sea in one Month, in 1525. Garſias de Loyaſa and Simeon Alcazova followed him in 1534. In 1539. three Ships were ſent by the Biſhop of Placenza; one of which went through the Streight to Arequipa. Acoſta, from their Journals, ſaith, The Mouth of the Streight is not full 52 Degrees from the Line, and that the whole Length of it is but 90 or 100 Leagues at moſt, and one League over where it is narroweſt; but ſo deep in many places, that they can find no Bottom. The Spaniards neglected this Paſſage afterwards, till Drake and Cavendiſh awakened them. The latter of theſe paſſed it a ſecond Time in 1591. in which Voyage he died. In 1593. Sir Richard Hawkins, an Engliſh-Man, having ſailed a long time in ſight of the Terra Auſtralis, in 50 Degrees of Latitude, he at laſt paſſed this Streight in 1594. and was taken by the Spaniards after a ſharp Fight on the Coaſt of Peru. He told the Spaniards, that the Terra del Fuego was nothing but a Knot of Iſlands; and many other things, which they knew not before. In 1598. the Dutch, under James Mahuvius and Simon de Cordes, paſſed this Streight the firſt time with five Ships. They found a Bay, called by them The Green Bay, in 54 Degrees Latitude. The Second was that of Oliver Vander Noort, in 1600. George Spilberg paſſed it firſt in 1614. and again in 1615. The Spaniſh Plantations were ſettled here in 1584, 85, and 86. and began and ended unfortunately, as Laet ſaith, Page 512. It was obſerved by all that paſſed it, to be ſurrounded by high, barren Mountains, ever covered with Snow, and ſeeming to meet; and ſo ſubject to intolerable Cold and Tempeſts, that few have ſince attempted to paſs it, eſpecially, ſince the Streights of Lemary were found. Ferdinand Pizarro. Varrones Illuſtres del Nuovo Monde. Ozorio lib. 11.

MAGELLANICA, called Chika by thoſe of the Country, Part of the Southern America. Called Magellanica, from Ferdinando Magellan. Here is no Colony of the Europeans, thoſe the Spaniards had there being diſperſed, or periſhed by Hunger. Here were the Towns of Nombre de Jeſus and San-Felipe; which the Engliſh called ſince, in Deriſion, Porto Fame. The Air of that Country is cold. There grows a certain Root, named Capas, which ſerveth for Bread to the Inhabitants. The Spaniards repreſented the Patagons, who lived in that Country, like Giants; but the late Relations of the Engliſh ſay the contrary. Towards the South of this Country lieth the Streight of Magellan. Terra di Fuego is called by ſome the Magellanick Iſland; and the Sea round about it goeth by the Name of the Magellanick Sea. This Land of Fire, towards the South of America; and on the other Side of the Magellanick Streight, is made up of ſeveral Iſlands. The Fires that were ſeen when they firſt landed, gave it that Name. The Fort St. Julian, where Magellan winter'd, and where he chaſtiſed ſome of his ſeditious Soldiers in 1519. and Port Deſier, are upon the Eaſtern Coaſt of Magellanica. The laſt, otherwiſe called Baya de los Abayos, hath an Entry about half a League broad, with two ſmall Iſlands, and two Rocks that are not ſeen at High-Water. The Ground is full of White Sand, without Trees, but hath plenty of ſweet Water, which the Ships take in when they go towards the Streights. Beſides Magellan, Drake, Cavendiſh, Vander Noort, and others, landed there. Ozorio. Herrera. Texeira. Sanſon.

MAGI, Prieſts and Philoſophers among the Perſians, intruſted with the Government, Civil and Eccleſiaſtick. They are much addicted to the Contemplation of the Stars. The firſt Author was Zoroaſter, or Aſtrotheates: And their Doctrine ſeems to have been nothing elſe but a kind of Natural Divinity, grounded upon the Worſhip of ſome God. Cambyſes going into Egypt, left the Government of the Kingdom, in his Abſence, to one of them, named Patizithes. Herodotus ſaith, That he had a Brother, called Smerdis, whom he ſet upon the Throne, as one of Cyrus's Sons, whom he had cauſed to be murthered; but this being diſcovered, they were both killed, and the reſt of the Magi deſtroyed: For which, a Solemn Feaſt was kept among the Perſians, called Magophonia, or The Slaughter of the Magi. Amongſt other Authors, Agathias ſheweth how much the Magi were credited, when he ſaith, Hiſt. lib. 4. That the Perſians being told for certain, by the Magi, that the Queen Dowager was big with Child, they crowned her Belly, and proclaimed the Royal Embryo King, by the Name of Sapor, long before he was born. Dr. Viperus hath compoſed the fabulous Hiſtory of the Three Magi, that came from the Eaſt to Worſhip Chriſt. 'Tis probable that thoſe wiſe Men were the Poſterity of Abraham, by Keturah. The Ancients mention Three Sorts of Magi: The Firſt dived into the Curioſities of Nature. The Second applied themſelves to the Curing of Diſeaſes by Enchanted Words; for whom the old Romans had a great Veneration: And Cato teaches how to ſet a diſlocated Limb by a Charm: His Words are theſe, Incipe cantare in alto S. F. Danata Dardaries Aſtotaries dic unà uſque dum coeant, &c. Q. Serenus, a Phyſician, tells us, That the word Abra-ca-dabra, written upon Paper, and worn about the Neck, will cure a Quartan-Ague: The Heretick Baſilides dealt in this Black Art: And what Opinion Irenæus, Tertullian, Epiphanius, and Theodoret, had of theſe Practices, the Reader may inform himſelf, if he pleaſes, in the Second Volume of Baronius's Annals. The Third Sort of Magi did invoke Spirits, which Palingenius labours to defend; alledging, that the Air is full of good Spirits. Arnobius ſays thus of their Miracles: Magi, non tantum ſciunt Dæmones; ſed etiam quicquid miraculi edunt, per Dæmones faciunt, illis aſpirantibus & infundentibus præſtigias edunt, vel quæ non ſunt videri, vel quæ ſunt non videri. Cato cap. 160. de R. R. Herodotus, lib. 3. or Thalia. Agathias, Hiſt. lib. 4. Strabo, lib. 5. Baronius, A. C. 1. Maldonatus. Tho. Stanly, Hiſt. Philoſ. Orient. lib. 2. cap. 4. with the Notes in the Index.

MAGICK is divided into Natural, Artificial, and Diabolical. Natural Magick produces extraordinary and marvellous Effects, by the meer Force of Natural Means. Artificial Magick produces alſo extraordinary and marvellous Effects, by Humane Induſtry and Wit: As, The Glaſs-Sphere of Archimedes; the Wooden Pigeon of Architas; the Golden Birds of the Emperor Leo, which ſung; Boetius's Brazen Ones, which did both ſing and fly; and Serpents of the ſame Metal, which did hiſs; and Albert le Grand's Speaking-Head, &c. Diabolical Magick, or The Black Art, hath ſurprizing Effects, ſurpaſſing thoſe of Art or Nature, by the help of Dæmons: As Pharaoh's Magicians, who did imitate the true Miracles of God.. And in the laſt Age there was a Magician, who made the dead Corps of a famous Harper at Boloigne walk and play, as if he had been alive, by a Charm which he put under one of its Arm-pits. Gaſparus Peucerus, the Phyſician, who mentions this, ſays, That another Magician, who diſcovered the Cauſe of this, did take out the Charm with great Dexterity; ſo that the Corps fell to the Ground, and remained unmoveable. Iſidore, Biſhop of Seville, ſays, That the Magicians did move the Elements; kill Men by their very Charms, without Poiſon; and raiſe the Devil, from whom they learnt how to annoy their Enemies. Natural and Artificial Magick have no harm in them, if People take care not to awaken a Spirit of Curioſity, and preſs too far into Futurities and Superſtitious Enquiries: But as for the Black Art, 'tis always unlawful, as imploying a Correſpondence with Evil Spirits. There are ſome People, who either disbelieve, or pretend to do ſo, that there is any ſuch thing as Witches; but this is a Truth, to ſay nothing more, which no Man, who believes any thing in Reveal'd Religion, can call in Queſtion; for the Holy Scripture in ſeveral places forbids us to have recourſe to Magicians; and mentions thoſe made uſe of by Pharaoh and Manaſſes; of the Witch of Endor, conſulted by Saul; of Simon and Bar-Jeſu, Magicians; and of a Woman who had a Familiar Spirit diſpoſſeſs'd by St. Paul; all mention'd in the Acts of the Apoſtles. The Councils likewiſe excommunicate Magicians, and the Holy Fathers mention them upon occaſion: Neither is the Civil Law wanting in Penal Proviſions againſt them: There is likewiſe a Statute in the beginning of the Reign of King James I. which makes Witchcraft Felony. Thier's Treatiſe of Superſtitions.

MAGINUS, (John Anthony) a Mathematician, born at Padua. He got a great Reputation by Reading at Bolonia, towards the end of the XVIth. Century, and the beginning of the XVIIth. His Merit endeared him to all the Princes of his Age. He was an extraordinary laborious Man, and compoſed ſeveral excellent Pieces: The moſt conſiderable are, his Ephemerides from 1580. to 1630. Tabulæ ſecundorum Mobilium, Tom. II. Theorica Planetarum juxta Copernicas obſervationes de Planis triangulis, lib. 1. Primum Mobile, lib. 12. Trigonometria Sphæricorum. Problemata Aſtronomica, Gnomica & Geographica. Comment. in lib. 3. Galeni de Diebus Decretoriis, & de Legitimo Aſtrologiæ in Medicinæ uſu. Comment. in Geograph. Ptolemæi Italiæ Deſcriptio. De Metopoſcopia, &c. He died at Bolonia, Jan. 1. 1617. being 61 Years old. Tomaſini.

MAGISTER Oecumenicus: It was the Name of the Director of a famous College, which Conſtantine the Great founded at Conſtantinople. That Name was given him, either becauſe he knew all that a Learned Man ought to know, or becauſe his Office was to direct all that concerned the Adminiſtration of the College. He had under him Twelve Doctors, that taught Youth, gratis, all Divine and Humane Sciences. The Emperors had a great Reſpect for this Magiſter Oecumenicus, and the other Profeſſors; ſo that they conſulted them in all weighty Matters. This College was nobly furniſhed with Veſſels of Gold and Silver, glorious Ornaments for the Church; and, above all, it was enriched with a Library not to be equalled, conſiſting of 600000 very curious Volumes. There was among their Rarities, that wonderful Maſter-piece of Art in Miniature, viz. the Iliad and Odyſſee of Homer, written in Golden Characters, upon a Dragon's Gut, 120 Foot long. Leo Iſauricus being angry againſt the Oecumenick Maſter, and the Doctors of that College, who defended the Worſhip of Images, cauſed them to be ſhut up in that glorious Palace, and commanded it ſhould be ſet on Fire in the Night, where they were all burned, together with that rich Pile of Building, and the curious Library, which is an irreparable Loſs. Theoph. Zonar. Cedren. Maimbourg Hiſt. de Iconoclaſtes.

MAGLIANO, Lat. Manliana, a pleaſant and well-peopled Town, which is at this Day the Capital of Sabinia, a Province in the States of the Church in Italy. It is ſeated upon an Hill, by the Banks of the River Tiber, 20 Miles from Rome to the North. It is now the See of the Biſhop of Sabinia, by the appointment of Pope Alexander VI. in 1495.

MAGNANUS (Emanuel) one of the Order of the Minim's, born at Tholouſe in 1607. He profeſs'd Divinity and Philoſophy at Rome with great Reputation, where he wrote a Book, call'd Perſpectiva Horaria, which he Dedicated to Cardinal Spada: He likewiſe wrote two curious Treatiſes, one againſt Des Cartes's Hypotheſis; and the other concerning the Speaking Trumpet. He likewiſe wrote Two Tomes of Divinity, call'd Philoſophia Sacra. Memoires du Tems.

MAGNENTIUS, a Barbarian by Birth, made himſelf conſiderable in the Armies. He uſurped the Supream Power, and put on the Imperial Purple at Autun in Gaul, on Jan. 18. 350. and then cauſed the Emperor Conſtans to be murthered at Elne in Rouſſillon. He afterwards made himſelf Maſter of Africa, Italy, Gaul, and ſome other Provinces. Thoſe who took Rome for him murthered Nepotian, who had been ſaluted Emperor. And he was ſo puffed up with thoſe good Succeſſes, that he thought it a great Obligation to the Emperor Conſtantius to promiſe him his Life. In 351. having ſtormed and raiſed Siſcia, having taken and plundered all the Towns ſituate along the Save, he drew near Murſa in Pannonia, where he was overcome Septemb. 28. This Victory indeed, though advantageous to Conſtantius, proved fatal to the Roman Empire, becauſe moſt of the ſtouteſt Men of the Army were killed in that obſtinate Battel. The Winter kept Conſtantius from making the beſt of his Victory by puſuing the Tyrant, who ſaved himſelf for a while by Flight; but he was forced out of Aquileia and Italy, and routed a third time in the Cottian Alps, in Upper Dauphiné, near a Caſtle called by Socrates Mount Seleuque, ſuppoſed to be near Dye. This laſt Defeat drove him into Deſpair; and having at Lyons killed his own Mother, who went for a Propheteſs, he killed himſelf alſo, Aug. 10. or 11. 353. He reigned 3 Years and 7 Months. His Brother Decentius, whom he had created Cæſar, ſtrangled himſelf at Sens. Aurelius Victor in Epit. Eutropius Hiſt. S. Jerom, Idacius and Marcellinus, lib. 2.

MAGNESIA, a City of Aſia, according to Pliny; or of Caria, according to Diodorus. The King of Perſia aſſigned it for Themiſtocles's Subſiſtence, and he died there. Modern Authors will have it to be Mangreſia, a Biſhop's See, under that of Epheſus. Scipio overcame Antiochus near this place. Leunclavius ſaith, there is another Town of the Name in Lydia, now called Maniſſa. It differs from Magneſia, a Province of Macedon, with a Promontory, called by Sophian, Capo ver lichi; and by others, Capo dis Georgio. Strabo ſaith, That the Magneſians having offended a certain God, ſuffered cruelly for it; and that the Lydians had almoſt deſtroyed them. Hence was the Proverb, Magnetum malum. Strabo, lib. 13. Pliny. Ferrarius in Lexic. Geograph.

MAGNUS I. of that Name, King of Norway, was Son to St. Olais, whom he ſucceeded; as he did alſo Canute II. King of Denmark, about 1045. He governed the Kingdom 4 Years. Arald, or Errold, ſucceeded him in the Kingdom of Norway, and left it to Magnus II. who reigned 28 Years. Magnus III. his Natural Son, ſucceeded him; and having reſigned the Crown, he took it again. Magnus IV. reigned 52 Years, from 1180. Magnus V. Son to Eric, was alſo King of Sweden in 1315. He left his Son Aquinas III. and this left his Brother Magnus VI. who alſo was King of Sweden.

MAGNUS II. Son to Chriſtiern III. of Denmark, having quitted a Third Part of Holſtein to his Brother Frederick, contented himſelf with the Dioceſſes of Oeſel and Curland, which his Father had bought from the Biſhop: But being expelled for his Tyranny, he had recourſe to the Muſcovites, An. 1570. and obtained from the Czar the Title of King of Livonia; and having married a Kinſwoman of the Czar's, was ſent into Livonia, where he made a conſiderable Party; but having beſieged Riga in vain, for which the Great Duke ſtruck him over the Face when he returned, he retired to Curland, where he died without Iſſue in 1583. Thuan.

MAGNUS II. ſurnamed The Young, Son to Magnus I. Duke of Brunſwick, by Sophia of Brandenburg, made War upon the Duke of Lower Saxony, who claimed the Inheritance of William of Lunenburg: But a Peace was concluded by marrying his two Sons with the Duke of Saxony's Daughters. But being afterwards overcome by thoſe of Mecklenburg, and rejected by the Lunenburgers, he was killed, An. 1373. by a Common Soldier, as deſigning to kill Otho, Count Schawenburg, whom he had worſted in a Duel. He was Father to Frederick, who ſucceeded Wenceſlaus in the Empire; as alſo of Otho, Archbiſhop of Bremen, and Bernard and Henry, the Founders of the Families of Lunenburg and Brunſwick. Hoffm.

MAGNUS (John) Archbiſhop of Upſal in Sweden, in the Reign of Guſtavus I. when the Kingdom embraced the Reformation. He wrote the Hiſtory of Sweden, in 24 Books: And a Treatiſe of the Prelates of Upſal, which he continued till 1544. which was the Year of his Death. Olaus Magnus's Brother ſucceeded him in the Archbiſhoprick of Upſal, and wrote a very curious Book of the Manners, Cuſtoms, and Wars, of the Northern Nations. And died in 1544. Hoffm. Spondan in Annal. Eccl. A.C. 1520.

MAGNUS, commonly called St. Magnus the Apoſtle of the Orcades; whoſe Inhabitants, to patronize their Drunkenneſs, kept a Cup of an extraordinary Size, which they alledged he drunk out of, and therefore uſed to preſent it full of Liquor, as a Teſt, to their Biſhop, at his firſt Coming among them: If he drunk it out, they took it as an Omen of enſuing Plenty; but otherwiſe, of Scarcity. Buchan.

MAGO, a Captain of the Carthaginians, who made his Country famous by his Victories. He was the Father of Amilcar and Aſdrubal. Juſtinus mentions him in his 18th and 19th. Books.

MAGO, a Phyſician, who travelled many Years, feeding only upon dry Meal. Geſner. Vander Linden.

MAGO, an African, who compoſed 29 Books of Geography, in the Phœnician Language. Dionyſius of Utica tranſlated them into Greek, and ſent them to the Prætor Sextilius. They ſay, that Diophanes of Bithynia reduced them to ſix Books, and preſented King Deiotarus with them. Pliny quoteth Mago, lib. 23. Hiſtor.

MAGO, Hannibal's Brother, General of the Carthaginians. He accompanied him at the famous Battel of Cannæ, and brought the News thereof to Carthage; where he produced, in the Preſence of the Senate, the Golden Rings of the Roman Gentlemen killed in the Combat; the Number of which was ſo great, that a whole Buſhel was filled with them. He waged War againſt Scipio, in Spain; then croſſed over into Italy, and landed at Genoua. Having made a conſiderable Addition to his Army, he ventured a Battel againſt Quintilius Varus; but he was both routed and wounded; and, after this Defeat, retreating to Genoua, embark'd for Africk, and died upon the Seas. Tit. Liv. lib. 30.

MAGO Barceus, (i. e. of the Family of the Barces) a General of the Carthaginians, was ſent over into Sicily, to wage War againſt Dionyſius I. Tyrant of Syracuſe; where, after ſeveral Victories, he was at laſt killed in a Battel. Diodorus lib. 14.

MAGO, Son to Mago Barceus, undertook the Government both of the State and Army of Carthage, after the Death of his Father, and went over into Sicily with a Fleet of 150 Men of War. He took Syracuſe; but being frighted away by the Arrival of Timoleon, General of the Corinthians, he left Sicily in an hurry, and returned to Carthage, where he killed himſelf; and the Carthaginians, not ſatisfied with his voluntary Death, hanged his dead Body on a Croſs, to load his Memory with Eternal Infamy. Plutarch in Timoleonte.

MAGOPHONIA, a Feaſt among the Perſians, in Memory of the Murder of the falſe Smerdis, whom the Seven Chief Lords of Perſia killed, with the other Magi, that were either Friends or related to this Uſurper. Theſe Seven Lords were Ottanes, Intaphernes, Gobrias, Megabyſes, Aſpaſines, Hydarnes, and Cyrus, who was afterwards King of Perſia. The Name comes from Μάγος, and φόνος, Murther. Herodot. lib. 3. Juſt. lib. 1.

MAGRA, a River and Valley of Italy, between the Commonwealth of Genua and Tuſcany. It comes out of Parmeſan, and paſſes near Pontrimoly; thence, increaſed with ſome ſmall Rivers, it waters the Valley that goes by the ſame Name; then falls into the Mediterranean Sea, a little lower than Sarſane. Lucan, mentions it, lib. 2. Pharſ.

MAGUELONA, a ruined Town in Lower Languedoc, formerly a Biſhop's See, but now tranſlated to Montpelier. It was built in an Iſland at the end of a ſmall Gulf of the Mediterranean Sea, formerly called The Volces, or Volques-Pound; and afterwards, The Pounds of Mauguio, of Perauſt, and of Lates. The Saracens, after the Conqueſt of Spain, in 730. entred into France by Aquitaine, and took Maguelona, which Charles Martel took again in 735, or 736. And judging the Seat of that Town too advantageous for the Barbarians, when they ſhould Land again in France, he cauſed it to be demoliſhed. The Epiſcopal See was firſt tranſlated to Subſtantion, within a Mile of Montpelier, where the Biſhop reſided about 300 Years, till Arnaldus, Biſhop of that Church, cauſed Maguelona to be built again, about 1060. and the See was tranſlated to Montpelier in 1533. The Town of Maguelona had its proper Earls; and the Biſhops were not the Temporal Lords thereof, till after the Wars of the Albigenſes, when Innocent III. inveſted William, Biſhop of Altignac, with the Temporality thereof, in 1215. It is to be obſerved, That when the Troubles of France, towards the end of the Second Race of their Kings, had given Occaſion to ſeveral Lords to appropriate to themſelves the Government of the Provinces and Towns they had been truſted withal, the Count of Maguelona followed their Example. He at firſt lived at Subſtantion, as well as the Biſhop; but the bad Air of the Place, too near the ſmall River Sez, forced him to retire into the Caſtle of Melgueil, where he uſurped the Government. He took the Title of Earl of Subſtantion and Melgueil; and coined Money that went by the Name of Melguoris Sols. Peter gave this Earldom to the Church in 1085. to hold it from him and his Heirs, for an Ounce of Gold to be paid Annually. Beatrice Counteſs of Melgueil married Bernard Pelet, and left an only Daughter, named Ermeſſenda, who married Raymond VI. called The Old, Earl of Tholouſe, in 1172. This Prince favouring the Albigenſes, incurred the Diſpleaſure of the Popes; his Lands were forfeited, and the Earldom of Melgueil devolved to the Church, and Pope Innocent III. inveſted the Biſhop of Maguelona with it. *Verdal, de Epiſc. MAHAMED-ALY-BEG Nazar, High-Steward to the Kings of Perſia, was in a very extraordinary manner raiſed to that Dignity. Shah Abbas being a hunting in the Mountains, and far from his Attendants, found a young Boy playing upon his Flute by a Flock of Goats. The King having asked him ſome Queſtions, wonder'd ſo much at the Readineſs of his Wit, and Solidity of his Judgment, that he put him into the Hands of the Cham, or Governor of Shiras, and ordered him to be brought up. This young Man became, in a ſhort time, the Wonder of all the Lords at Court, and got the Sophi's Favour, who gave him the Name of Mahamed-Aly-Beg, and the Place of High-Steward. The King having experienced his Fidelity and Prudence in all Things, ſent him twice Ambaſſador to the Great Mogul, and was very well ſatisfied with his Negotiations. Mahamed could not be bribed with Preſents, a thing very rare among the Mahometans. This great Integrity made ſome of the Courtiers his Enemies, chiefly the Eunuchs, and the Women, who have at all Times the King's Ear; but no body durſt ſpeak againſt him, becauſe he was too deep in Shah Abbas's Favour; ſo that his Enemies appeared not till after this King's Death, then they endeavoured to diſcredit him with Shah Sephi, his Succeſſor; who being very young, was more apt to receive Impreſſions againſt the High-Steward. They endeavoured to perſuade the King, That ſeeing Mahamed cauſed ſeveral Carvanſera's to be built in his own Name, and a very glorious Houſe for himſelf, he could not do that but with the Publick Money; which it were very fit to call him to an Account of. The King being willing to clear the Buſineſs, commanded Mahamed to bring in his Accounts within a Fortnight. But that faithful Steward deſired His Majeſty to come the next Day into the Treaſury, where he found all in very good Order. And from the Treaſury, the King went to Mahamed's Houſe who preſented him with a ſmall Gift: (For it is the Cuſtom, that whoſoever is honoured with the King's Viſit, muſt preſent him, to expreſs his Acknowledgment.) Shah Sephi wonder'd to ſee ſo little Furniture in the Rooms, and admired the Nazar's Moderation in ſo great a Fortune. One of the Eunuchs having obſerved a Door faſten'd with three great Padlocks, told the King of it, who did not obſerve it; which gave him the Curioſity to ask Mahamed what Treaſure he kept in that Place, which was ſo carefully ſecured? Mahamed anſwered the King, That all his own Treaſure was there, but the reſt was his Majeſty's; and immediately opened the Door of the Chamber, where nothing was found beſides Mahamed's Hook, his Bag, his Leather-Bottle, that he uſed to fill with Water, his Flute, and his Shepherd's Clothes, hanging ſeverally on a Nail againſt the Wall, without any Hangings, or other Furniture. The Nazar obſerving the King's Aſtoniſhment, told him the Story of his good Fortune, and how he was brought to Court by Shah Abbas's Order; beſeeching His Majeſty to give him leave to re-aſſume his firſt Trade and Habit, if he was not ſo happy as to do him ſome acceptable Service. The King being moved with ſo great a Virtue, cauſed himſelf to be preſently diveſted of his Clothes, and preſented the Nazar with them; which is the greateſt Honour the Kings of Perſia can do any Subject; and new ones were brought him, to return with into the Palace. So that Mahamed continued in his Office, in ſpite of all the Endeavours of his Enemies. Tavern. Voiage de Perſe.

MAHAMED II. (Son to Aaron Rachid) the Twentieth Califfe, or Succeſſor of Mahomet, had a Brother named Abdala, who diſputed the Crown with him in 814. ſo that of neceſſity the Empire muſt be divided. Mahamed removed from Damaſcus to Bagdat, which he cauſed to be Built upon the Ruins of Seleucia, within a Days Journey of the ancient Babylon: And Abdala reigned in Cairo, in Egypt. This Diviſion occaſioned many Revolts; and five Califfes were obſerved at the ſame time, viz. thoſe of Bagdat, Cairo, Carvan, Fez in Africa, and the Califfe or King of Spain; and yet no Duty payed, either in Africa or Spain, to the Califfes of Syria. Mahamed endeavoured to aboliſh the Sect of Ali; but Giobora defended it ſo well in his Preſence, againſt the Doctors of the Sect of Omar, that this Califfe embraced the Doctrine which he before condemned. He died in 834. and his Son Imbrael ſucceeded him. Marmol. of Africa, lib. 2.

MAHAMED Budobus, the Seventh King of Morocco, of the Family of the Almohades, was Uncle to Ceyed Barrax; and killed Abdelcader, Nephew and Succeſſor to Ceyed, to ſtep into the Throne: But having fought a Battel with Aben Joſeph, the Uſurper of the Kingdom of Fez, he loſt his Life, and Aben Joſeph conquered Morocco. It is true, that ſome Almohades Princes kept the Sovereignty in ſome Places of the Kingdom of Morocco, but they had no more the Title of Kings; and payed Tribute to the King of Fez and Morocco. Marmol. of Africa, lib. 2.

MAHAMED Enacer, the Fourth King of Morocco, of the Family of the Almohades, ſucceeded his Father in 1206. Being of a Warlike Temper, he broke the Truce which Almanzor had made with the King of Caſtile, and croſſed over into Spain with 120000 Horſe, and 300000 Foot; which would ſeem beyond all Probability, if all the Hiſtorians, both Spaniſh and Arabians, did not agree about it. With that dreadful Army he entred the Fields of Calatrava in 1210. and beſieged Salvaterra, where the Knights of the Order of Calatrava reſided. After a long Siege, he ſtormed the Town, and razed it. In 1212. he ſent for new Levies out of Africa, and got ſuch a prodigious Army, as the like was never ſeen in Spain. The Chriſtian Princes joining their Forces, attacked Mahamed in the Plains of Toloſa, or Tolozetta; and after a long Fight, got the Victory: And in that Day above 150000 Foot, and above 35000 Horſe were killed of the Moors. Mahamed ran away, leaving all his Baggage, and Furniture of his Camp to the Conquerors, and croſſed back again into Barbary, having left the Government to his Brother Aben Saad, who was afterwards King of Valentia. A little while after Mahamed died of meer Sorrow, and left his Crown to Ceyed Barrax, one of his Grand-Children. Marmol. of Africa.

MAHAMED Mehedi, the Eighteenth Califfe or Succeſſor of Mahomet, began to Reign in 781. after the Death of his Father Abdala. He ſent three powerful Armies into the Provinces of the Empire of Conſtantinople, viz. into Thracia, or Romania, with Orders to deſtroy all the Churches, and to put to the Sword all them that would not turn Mahometans. Thoſe Armies ravaged cruelly every where; but that in Armenia was routed by the Emperor's Troops, who killed above 12000 Arabians. The Empreſs Irene, who governed the Empire in the Name of Conſtantine VII. her Son, who was under Age, fearing the Forces of Mahamed, made a Truce with him in 790. engaging for an Annual Tribute. The Califfe Mahamed died in the ſame Year, leaving Muca, his Son, for his Succeſſor; who reigned but two Years, and did nothing worthy of Memory: For which Reaſon he is not ſo much as counted among the Califfes, and Aaron is counted the Nineteenth. Marmol. of Africa, lib. 2.

MAHAMED Mohaidin, the Twelfth Son to Huſſein, who was Second Son to Ali, Mahomet's Son-in-Law. The Perſians believe he is not yet dead, ſo they expect him from Day to Day, and keep an Horſe always ready for him in the great Moſque of Cufa, where his Sepulchre is. They keep a yearly Feaſt, and lead this Horſe in Triumph, with many Flambeau's about him. It was this Mahamed Mohaidin who was the firſt Author of the Sect of the Morabites, which I mention in the Article Morabites. Marmol. of Africa, lib. 2.

MAHARBAL, Captain of the Carthaginians, was ſent with 500 Horſe to ravage the Country of the Allies of the Roman People. He alſo commanded the Horſe in the Battel of Cannæ. It is he who would have perſuaded Hannibal to beſiege Rome; and engaged, that after ſix Days Siege they would go eat and drink in the Capitol. But Hannibal having refuſed to follow his Advice, this Captain told him, Hannibal, You know how to vanquiſh, but not how to make uſe of the Victory: Vincere quidem ſcis, ſed uti victoria neſcis. Tit. Liv. lib. 22.

MAHAUD, or Maud, Counteſs of Bolonia and Dammartin, was the only Daughter and Heireſs to Renaud, Earl of Dammartin and Ide. In 1201. ſhe was betrothed to Philip of France, Son to King Philip the Auguſt; and he married her in 1216. In 1233. ſhe payed Homage to St. Lewis for the Earldom of Bolonia, which ſhe had from her Mother. And the Prince, her Husband, being killed at the Tournament at Corbie, ſhe married Alphonſo in 1235. afterwards King of Portugal, the Third of that Name, who divorced her. She had by Philip of France, Jane of Bolonia, married in 1245. to Gaucher de Chaſtillon, Lord of Montjoy and St. Agnen, and died without Poſterity. In 1251. Mahaud founded an Hoſpital at Bolonia.

MAHEQUIL, one of the Three Tribes of Arabians, that croſſed over into Africa in 999. The two others are called Eſquequin and Hilela. Theſe two latter came from Arabia Deſerta, and the Tribe of Mahequil came from Arabia Fœlix. All three together made up 50000 fighting Men, who ſpread themſelves over the Provinces of the Eaſt-Barbary. The Tribe of Mahequil contains 23 Families; the Chief of which is, that of Vled-Maſtar, which may raiſe 3600 Horſe, and 30000 Foot, all very good Soldiers. The Family of Vled-Huſſein is alſo very conſiderable: Their Quarter is between the Kingdom of Fez and the Province of Segelmeſſa; and their Cheque, or Prince, kept his Court at Garciluyn, now belonging to the King of Fez, There is of them about 6000 Horſe, and above 50000 Foot. Marmol. of Africa, lib. 1.

MAHOMAD, ſurnamed Ibné Haben Hamur, or Alabib Almanzor, was General of the Moors, and Guardian to Young Hiſſen, Son to Alhaca, King of Corduba in Spain. In the Xth. Century he entred 52 Times into the Country of the Chriſtians, and had generally good Succeſs. After a long Siege he took Leon, and was dreaded all the Kingdom over; ſeveral Towns ſurrendring to him, and ſeveral Armies being routed by him, but Varamond, King of Leon, ſtopped the Currant of his Victories; for, having aſſembled all the Forces of his Kingdom, he killed in one Battel 70000 Moors: It was about An. 998. Mahomad is reported to have killed himſelf, not being able to bear the Shame of his Defeat; for he would take no Food after it. Rodericus. Morales. Mariana's Hiſt. of Spain.

MAHOMET, a Falſe Prophet, an Arabian; was born, according to ſome Authors, upon May 5. 570. His Father, an Heathen, was named Abdala; and his Mother, a Jewiſh Woman, was called Emine; both of a very mean Condition. However, thoſe of his Sect ſay, he was of a Royal Family; and bring down a Pedegree from Adam, every way as impertinent as his Religion His Wants forced him to be a Servant to a rich Arabian Merchant; who being dead, he ſo well cajolled his Widow, named Cadiche, or Tadige, that he married her, and at laſt became her Heir. He made uſe of his Eſtate to ſatisfy his Ambition: Aſſociated himſelf to Batiras, a Jacobite Heretick; to Sergius, a Neſtorian Monk, and to ſome Jews, that his Religion might partake of all. With them he compiled his Alcoran, a piece full of impertinent Stories, as is obſerved elſewhere. So his Religion made up in part of Judaiſm, in part of the Dreams of the Hereticks, and fitted to the ſenſual Appetites of corrupt Nature, was embraced by Thieves and wicked People, who had no ſenſe either of true Religion or Honeſty. With ſuch Mahomet took up Arms, and conquered many People, chiefly Arabia. He put to the Sword all thoſe who refuſed to ſubmit, and embrace his Religion. By ſuch means this Impoſtor, under colour of Religion, was, in a little time, followed by a great number of People; and the better to deceive them, being ſubject to the Falling-Sickneſs, he got a tame Pigeon, which, at that time came up to his Ear, and the Falſe Prophet perſuaded his Followers, that it was the Angel Gabriel, ſent from God to dictate to him the Orders he was to follow. It is reported alſo, that having cauſed one of his Companions to hide himſelf in a dry Well, he commanded him to cry with a loud Voice, when he ſhould come by, that Mahomet was the true Prophet. He did ſo, and every one wondering at this; the Impoſtor, leaſt the Cheat ſhould be diſcovered, commanded his Followers to fill up the Well, leaſt it might be afterwards prophaned, which was done in a Moment, and the poor Wretch periſhed miſerably. Moſt of the Arabians, a very inconſtant Nation, followed him, but the moſt conſidering part oppoſed his Deſigns; then Mahomet fled from Mecca, upon Thurſday or Friday, July 16. 622. and retired to Medinat Alnabi, that is, The City of the Prophet. From that day begins the Æra, or Egira, of thoſe of that Sect. He married ſeveral Wives, and begot but one Daughter, called Fatima, or three Daughters, as others affirm. He is ſaid to have died upon Monday, June 17. 631. having Reigned 8 Years, and ſome Months, and lived 63 Lunar or Arabick Years, ſince that time, his Succeſſors have conquered Palæſtina, Syria, Egypt, Perſia, Greece, &c. The greateſt part of our Hemiſphere hath embraced his Law. Zonaras and Cedrenus. *Johannes Damaſcenus. MAHOMET I. of the Name, Sultan of the Turks, was one of Bajazet I's Sons, whom Tamerlain cauſed to die in a Cage. He ſuceeded his Brother Moſes, or Muſa, whom he put to Death about 816. of the Egira, or 1413. of the Chriſtian Æra, at leaſt, according to the moſt probable Opinion, for Authors differ much about this. He deſerved to be commended for his Victories, his Juſtice, and his Faith, which he kept inviolable, whenever he was engaged; and, indeed, the Ottoman Empire recovered its Luſtre under his Reign, and that of Amurat II. his Son. He forced the Prince of Caramania to raiſe the Siege of Bagdat, and took ſome of his Towns. He recovered Pontus and Cappadocia, conquered Servia, part of Sclavonia and Macedonia, and forced the Valachians to pay him Tribute. He removed his Court to Adrianople, and began to get footing in Thracia. He ravaged the Venetian Territories, near the Ionian Sea, but they took from him Lampſacum, and ſome other Towns. He alſo waged War againſt Iſmael, Prince of Sinopi, becauſe he protected his Brother Muſtapha, and was ſo thankful to the Greeks that ſeiz'd him, that he made an Alliance with them, which he obſerved faithfully. Opinions differ about the time of his Death, as well as about the beginning of his Reign. That which ſeems moſt probable is, that he died of an Apoplexy, An. Ch. 1421. and 824. of the Turkiſh Æra. Chalcondyle hiſt. of the Turks.

MAHOMET II. ſurnamed by the Turks, Bojuc, that is, The Great, was the Terror of Europe, and the moſt fortunate of all the Infidel Princes. He ſucceed his Father Amurat II. in 1451. He reſolved to make War againſt the Greeks, and begun by ſhutting up all the Paſſages, by which they might receive any help from other Princes, and preſſed ſo vigorouſly upon them, that he took the City of Conſtantinople upon a Tueſday, May 29. 1453. That of Trebizonda fell into his hands in 1461. He Conquered 12 Kingdoms, and took above 200 Towns. In 1456. he beſieged Belgrade with a powerful Army, but receiving a Wound in an Aſſault, he was forced to retire. The famous John Hunniades and John Capiſtran, had a great ſhare in that Victory. Afterwards Mahomet entred into Albania in 1457. but was vigorouſly beaten out by Scanderbeg. Uſumcaſſan, King of Perſia, took alſo ſome of his Towns; but his Deſtiny was to be a Conqueror, and ſo he was in Hungary, Perſia, Myſia, Boſnia, Valachia, Tranſilvania, and Albania. He became the Terror of the Venetians, and of the Knights of Rhodes. All Peloponneſus was conquered, together with Carinthia, Stiria, Sinopi, the Iſland of Metelin, and the Town of Otranto in Italy; and if we may believe the Inſcription he compoſed himſelf, and commanded to be put upon his Tomb, after the rehearſal of his Exploits, He deſigned to take Rhodes the Strong, and Italy the Proud. He died at Nicomedia, as he was preparing to carry the War into Egypt, in 886 of the Egira, and according to the Chriſtians Computation, May 3. 1481. Aged 52 Years, whereof he Reigned 31. He is ſaid to have underſtood the Greek, Latin, Arabick, and Perſian Languages; he had a great Skill in Aſtrology; he was well-ſhaped, and wanted neither Wit nor Courage. By theſe excellent Qualifications, he might, indeed, be compared to the moſt famous Hero's, had not his Debaucheries darkned the Luſtre of his Actions. Dracula, Brother to the Prince of Valachia, ſtruck him in the Thigh with a Poinard, to avoid the Violence he offered him. He had no Religion, for he approved of none, laughing as well at the Chriſtian Faith, as at the Superſtition of his Fathers. His Probity was no more to be commended, for he put to Death Stephen, Prince of Boſnia, and the Prince of Metelin, notwithſtanding of his Promiſe to the contrary, made to Commenus, and his Children, whom he treated moſt cruelly. And to ſay all in a word, he commanded 14 of his Pages to be ripped up, to know who had eaten a Melon, ſtolen out of a Garden which he cultivated himſelf. He cut off, with his own Hand, a Woman's Head, who ſeemed too beautiful to him. And, after the Storming of Conſtantinople, he treated our Saviour's Image with great diſreſpect. Paulus Jovius in Elog. Vigenerus, Contin. of Chancondyle. Leunclavius in Pand. Turc.

MAHOMET III. Son to Amurath III. began his Reign in 1595. by the Death of 21 of his Brothers, whoſe Throats were cut, and by the Death of 10 Wives, whom his Father had left with Child, and whom he cauſed to be thrown into the Sea. He commanded his Army but once. The Chriſtians took Strigonia from him, under the Command of Prince Mansfelt, Alba Regalis, in 1601. under the Command of the Duke of Mercœur, and the Lower Town of Buda, under the Arch-Duke. He loſt the Forts of Viſſegrade, Baboch, Petrinia, Haduam, Palota, and Veſprin; and the Knights of Malta took Lepanto. Mahomet's Armies were routed by the Vayvode of Valachia, and by the Prince of Tranſilvania, who beat Sinan Baſſa. By that means, Moldavia, Valachia, and Tranſilvania, were reſcued from under the Mahometan Yoke. Theſe however had ſome Advantage, and took again two or three Towns, as Peſt, Caniſia, and Alba Regalis; but theſe advantages were nothing to their Loſſes. Mahomet begged a Peace of the Chriſtian Princes, who refuſed it. He was ſo deep in his Debaucheries, that neither Domeſtick Troubles, nor the Wars abroad, could bring him to any ſober Courſe, which cauſed the Janiſaries to Mutiny. To appeaſe them, Mahomet was fain to deliver up his beſt Friends, and to pretend to baniſh his Mother, who was looked upon as the cauſe of all the Publick Calamities. He cauſed his Eldeſt Son to be ſtrangled, and the Sultana, the Mother of him, to be drowned, upon Suſpicion of Treaſon. He died of the Plague at Conſtantinople, in 1603. Aged 39 Years, having Reigned but Eight. Baudier Invent. de l'hiſt. de Turc. Mezeray contin. de l'hiſt. de Turc.

MAHOMET IV. was Born upon Jan. 2. 1642. and his Birth was celebrated by publick Demonſtration of great Joy all over the Ottoman Empire. He ſucceeded, in 1648. to his Father Ibrahim I. whom the Janizaries had ſtrangled. After that, he took Newhauſel in Hungary, the Fort of Serin, and ſome other places, and had like to have been dangerous to the Empire, had he not been Defeated at the Paſs of Raab, in 1664. He took alſo Candia, in 1669, after a long Siege. He is ſaid to have been a very handſome Prince, of great Courage, and very Ingenious, and much leſs given to Pleaſure than many of his Anceſtors. His ſtrongeſt Inclination was for Hunting, which was his conſtant Exerciſe almoſt all the Year round; for which reaſon, he commonly kept his Court at Adrianople, to be nearer the places where there is moſt Game. He went often to Lariſſa, and kept ſometimes 8 or 10 Days together under magnificent Tents, pitched within half a League of that Town upon the River Peneus. During his Reign, the Turks took from the Polanders, Caminieck, and ſome other places. Sobieski, Great Marſhal of the Crown, and afterwards King of Poland, was then General of the Poliſh Army. He beat the Turks at the famous Battel of Cotzchin, in 1673. broke their Meaſures the two following Years, and at laſt forced them to a Peace. The Turks after that began the War againſt the Muſcovites with ſome Advantage, in 1678. Mahomet IV. had ſeveral Children of divers Sultana's, but being Depoſed in 1687. his Brother Solyman III. ſtept into the Throne. He died of a Dropſy the 4th of January, 1693.

MAHOMET, or Mahamet, Cherif, or Xeriff, King of Sus in Barbary, was Son to Haſſen Cherif, a Numidian, a very cunning and intriguing Man. The Word Cherif, ſignifieth an Interpreter of the Law. Haſſen had Three Sons, Abdelquivir, Hamet, and Mahomet, whom I now ſpeak of. He ſent them to Mecha, and being returned, he adviſed the Two youngeſt to go to Fez, where Mahomet Oataz then reigned. They were well received there for their Father's ſake; Hamet was made a Profeſſor in the College of Modaraſe, and Mahomet had the Honour to be Tutor to the King's Children. In the mean time, as their Credit and Favour increaſed, their Father adviſed them to demand the Government of the Provinces of Sus, of Hea and Ducala, of Morocco and Tremezen, to defend them in the King's Name againſt the Incurſions of the Chriſtians, Enemies to Mahomet's Religion, which the Cherifs are the chief Defenders of. Their requeſt was granted, and they became powerful in thoſe Provinces, where Abdelquivir, the Eldeſt of the Three Brothers, was killed, and Hamet was proclaimed King of Morocco. He conquered Fez, and became very Potent. This was the beginning of the Empire of the Cherifs in Africa. Mahomet cauſed the King of Fez, who had been his Pupil, to be moſt barbarouſly ſtrangled. Buhacon, who was of that King's Family, demanded Philip II. King of Spain's Protection. With his help, and that of the Turk, he recovered Fez in 1555. In the mean time, Mahomet beſieged his Brother in Tafilete, and took him by craft. Afterwards he recovered Fez, and returned to Morocco, where he was killed, in 1557, by Aſcen, Captain of his Guards, who had been tampered with by the King of Algier. Such was the end of Cherif Mahomet, of whom it is a Queſtion, Whether he was more famous for his Courage, and the readineſs of his Wit in dangers, than by his Cruelty and Perfidiouſneſs. Diego de Torres hiſt. of the Cherifs. Thuanus hiſt. lib. 7. & 20.

MAHOMET, firſt Viſier, and Son-in-law to Sultan Selim II. was in great Favour with his Prince, and gave him the greateſt Proofs of Fidelity and Affection: For Solyman being dead, during the Siege of Sigeth in Hungary, in 1565, he kept his Death ſecret, and preſſed the Siege with ſo much vigour, as if the Sultan had been ſtill alive, ſo that he Stormed the place three Days after. He ſent an Expreſs, at the ſame time, to Selim, to give him notice of the Death of his Father, and adviſed him to make haſt to Conſtantinople, to ſecure the Crown before the News came thither; for a Recompence of that Service, the Sultan made him Grand Viſier. This Miniſter had the Honour to be his Son-in-law, for he married one of his Daughters, whilſt Solyman was ſtill living. Obſerving that Selim was given to pleaſure, he became abſolute Maſter of the Empire; all the other Viſiers and Bacha's acted only by his Orders, and thought it a great Happineſs and Glory to hold all their Power from ſo potent and wiſe a Miniſter. Gratiani hiſt. of Cyprus.

MAHOMET GHIREI, or Zirei, Cham of the Leſſer Tartary, now reigning, is the firſt that refuſed to ſend his Eldeſt Son for an Hoſtage to the Sultan, as his Predeceſſors had done. Having been himſelf ſent an Hoſtage, during his Father's Life, he was kept at Jamboli, within four Leagues of Conſtantinople; but the Sultan ſent him to Rhodes, where he was very ill uſed. His Father, the Prince of the Tartars, being dead, he was brought to Conſtantinople, where he took the Oath of Fidelity to the Sultan, and then took Poſſeſſion of his Kingdom. But being Eſtabliſhed upon his Throne, he would ſhake off that intolerable Yoke, and refuſed to ſend his Son; the Sultan took no notice of his Denial, becauſe he could not then force him to it. Ricaut of the Ottoman Empire.

MAHOMETISM. Many Authors have ſpoken of the Mahometan Religion, but moſt of them very unskilfully. I ſhall preſent the Reader with a very curious Extract of it out of a Summary of their Divinity, written in Turkiſh by a Mahometan at Conſtantinople. The Mahometans own, That both the Jewiſh and Chriſtian Religion are true, but they pretend that they are now abrogated, ſince God has communicated himſelf to his Prophet Mahomet. They pretend, That neither the Jews nor the Chriſtians have, at this time, any certain Principle of their Religion, becauſe of the Corruption of their Books. Mahomet, as they alledge, during the ſpace of 23 Years, by the Miniſtry of the Angel Gabriel, hath received from God a certain number of written Papers, out of which he hath compoſed the Book called Alcoran. The chief Article of their Faith is, the Unity of God, and they repeat continually, There is no other God but God, God is one. The ſecond Article is this, Mahomet is a Meſſenger from God. They pretend that he wrought ſome Miracles. As for Example, They affirm that he drew Water out of his Fingers, and that marking the Moon with his Finger, he cleft it. They add farther, That the Stones, the Trees, and the Beaſts acknowledged him to be the true Prophet of God, and that they ſaluted him in theſe Words, You are the true Meſſenger of God. Furthermore they affirm, That Mahomet went in one Night from Mecha to Jeruſalem, whence he aſcended into Heaven; That there he had a view of Paradiſe and Hell; That he converſed with God, and at laſt came down from Heaven that very Night, and was found at Mecha before the Break of Day. The Mahometans have alſo their Saints, who, as they pretend, have wrought Miracles, inferior however to thoſe of their Prophet. They own that there be Angels Executioners of God's Commands, deſigned for certain Offices both in Heaven and Earth, who write down the Actions of Men. The Office of the Angel Aſrael is, to receive the Souls of them that die; and another named Eſraphis, keeps conſtantly a large Horn or Trumpet in his Mouth to ſound it in the Day of Judgment. They believe a General Reſurrection of the Dead, and that then an Anti-Mahomet will come, and that Jeſus Chriſt will come down from Heaven to kill him, and to Eſtabliſh the Mahometan Religion. To which, they add ſeveral Stories concerning Gog and Magog, and the Beaſt that is to come out of Mecha. They ſay, that the Reſurrection of the Dead will be in this manner, They muſt all appear naked from Head to Foot, That the Prophets, Saints, Doctors, and the Juſt, will be cloathed, and carried up to Heaven by Angels and Cherubims. As for the reſt, they will ſuffer Hunger, Thirſt, and Nakedneſs. The Sun will draw near within a Mile of their Heads, they will Sweat ſadly, and ſuffer an infinite number of other Torments; there will be in the Day of Judgment a Pair of Scales, wherein Good and Evil ſhall be weighed; thoſe whoſe Good will over-balance the Evil, ſhall go into Paradiſe; on the other ſide, thoſe whoſe Sins ſhall over-weigh their good Deeds, ſhall go into Hell, except the Prophets and Saints make Interceſſion for them. Beſides Heaven and Hell, they ſeem to own a kind of Purgatory, where they believe that thoſe whoſe Sins over-weighed their good Actions, though they died in the Faith, and were not holpen by the Interceſſion of the Juſt, muſt ſuffer in proportion with their Sins, whence afterwards they ſhall be caught up into Paradiſe. Beſides that general Judgment, when God will call himſelf every one to an account, they hold a particular Judgment, which they call The Torment of the Sepulchre, which is performed in this manner: As ſoon as one is buried, two of the firſt Angels, the one named Munzir, the other Nekir, come to aſk the dead Man Queſtions concerning his Faith of God and the Prophet, of the Law, and Kiabé, to wit, which way one muſt turn himſelf to pray to God. The juſt Ones ought to anſwer; Our God, is the God that created all Things; Our Faith, is Muſtimich, or Orthodox, and the Place towards which we turn our ſelves in our Prayers, is Kiabé. The Infidels on the contrary, not knowing what to Anſwer, are condemned to grievous Torments. They commonly believe Predeſtination, and that both Good and Ill happen by the particular Command of God; and if one asks, Why God hath created the Infidels and Wicked? Their Anſwer is, That we ought not to be over-curious to ſearch into the Secrets of God. Touching the Faithful who died before they repented of their Sins, they believe they are in ſuſpence after their Death, and that God diſpoſes of them after his own pleaſure, Forgiving ſome, and Condemning others. They firmly believe, that God pardoneth all Sins, except Atheiſm and Idolatry; for which reaſon, in their Prayers for the Dead, they pray equally for the good and bad Ones. They have a kind of Liturgy for that purpoſe, where are marked the Prayers that are to be read at a Funeral, and the Chapters out of the Alcoran, that ought to be read over the Grave. The Morals of the Mahometans conſiſts in doing Good, and ſhunning Evil. Their Caſuiſts hold, That the Actions done without Faith in God, are Sins; and that whoſoever renounceth it, loſeth the Merit of all his good Works, and that, during all that time, he can do nothing acceptable to God, till he hath repented, then he becomes a Muſſulman, or Faithful again. But he muſt marry a ſecond time, if he was married before; and if he hath been once at Mecha, he muſt return thither again. They forbid to judge of uncertain things, as for inſtance, no body muſt ſay ſuch a one is dead, or ſhall die in the Faith, becauſe it doth not belong to us to judge of the Things that God hath concealed from us. The Devotion of the Mahometans extends to the very ſacred Names; when they pronounce the Name of God, they make a Bow, and they add, moſt High, moſt Bleſſed, moſt Strong, moſt Excellent, or ſome ſuch thing. They have devout Men amongſt them, that do more than the Law commands them, and who go to Nine a Clock Prayers in the Morning, though there be no Obligation to do it. There be ſome Conditions, which being not obſerved in their Prayers, make them uſeleſs; for inſtance, in their Prayers at Noon and Afternoon, which are Obligatory amongſt them, they muſt read low; but in their Evening Prayers, before they go to Bed, and in the Morning Prayers, they muſt read with a loud Voice, if there be an Imaum, that is, a Prieſt; but if they pray alone, then it is Indifferent. Beſides, in ſaying their Prayers, the Men ought firſt of all to lift up their Hands to the Tip of their Ears, and the Women to the Jaws only. When they ſtand, and have their right Hand upon their left; if it be a Man, he ought to place his Hands under his Navel; but if it be a Woman, ſhe ought to put them upon her Breaſt. In fine, that they may pray orderly, they ought with a low Voice, to follow the Imaum, and imitate him in whatſoever he doth. If they chance to ſpeak, or to laugh in their Prayers, ſo that they may be heard, their Prayers are void. They are forbidden to pray to God with the Garment they commonly uſe in their Work up and down the Houſe, and which they would not wear, were they to pay a viſit to a Perſon of Quality. They ought not to pray neither before the Fire, but they may uſe a Candle or a Lamp. It is of Divine Obligation amongſt them to waſh their Mouth, their Face, and the whole Body. If they break Wind during the Abdeſt or Ablution, then the Ablution is void. They count, amongſt the Commands of God, to waſh their Face once, and their Arms to the Elbow, to waſh the fourth part of the Head, and their Feet once. The Tradition of Mahomet Commands them to waſh their Hands three times, to cleanſe their Teeth with a certain ſort of Wood, and then to waſh their Mouth three times, and the Noſe as often, without any Intermiſſion, when they have once begun; then to wet their Ears with the ſame Water they waſhed their Head withal. They muſt always waſh the right Hand firſt, and whenever they waſh their Hands and Feet, they are obliged to begin at the Fingers.

The Sects of the Mahometans.

There is a great number of Sects among the Mahometans, which would be too tedious to ſpeak of ſeverally; 'twill be ſufficient to ſay, that the Muſſulman's, or Faithful, (as the Mahometans call themſelves) being very much multipled, began to embrace divers Opinions, ſo that it became neceſſary to have thoſe amongſt them, that ſhould ſtudy their Law, to Comment upon thoſe Books which they take to be Divine. This occaſioned the ſeveral Sects of their Doctors, for every one expounded the Law according to his own Senſe and Capacity. The People were immediately divided into Schiſms, ſome followed Abuhaniſe, others Chaſibié, others Malikè, others Achmed, others Dudzahimé. In a word, the number of the Doctors that produced ſeveral Sects, was very great, and the ſame Diſtinction holds ſtill to this very day: It is neceſſary however to obſerve, that thoſe ſeveral Sects agree in the Fundamentals of their Religion. They ſay, that ſuch Diviſion happened by God's Providence, and that there is no danger for the Diſſenters, there being no Sect wherein they may not be ſaved; however pious Men ought, as they pretend, to give the preference to Abuhaniſe's Sect above all others, becauſe being Elder, and more Learned, he could Expound better the difficult Points of the Law. And he deſerves chiefly to be imitated in his Morals, there being more merit in following his Opinions, than thoſe of the other Doctors that came after him. Such great variety of Sects, occaſions no Schiſm or Diviſion that may endanger the Ottoman Empire, becauſe they all agree in the Fundamentals of Mahometiſm, viz. That there is but one God, and that Mahomet came from him, to read exactly their Prayers, to give Alms, to make a Voyage to Mecha, and to keep the Faſt of Ramazan. Theſe are the five chief Points that contain many others; for the Article concerning Prayer, contains all that is neceſſary in order to its Purity, as we obſerved before; Circumciſion its ſelf amongſt them, belonging to that External Purity. Father Simon.

The Extent of Mahometiſm.

This falſe Religion is ſpread over ſeveral Parts of Europe, Aſia and Africa, but it is unknown in America. The Mahometan Princes in Europe are, the Sultan, or the Emperor of the Turks, and the Cham of the Leſſer Tartary. There are many more in Aſia. The Sultan's Dominions reach beyond the Source and Mouth of the Tigris, and Northward as far as the Mingrelian's Country. Then travelling from Weſt to Eaſt, you meet in your way the Princes of the Three Arabia's, the King of Perſia, the Great Mogul, the King of Viſapor, the King of Golconda, the Kings upon the Coaſt of Malabar, the chief of which is that of Comorin; the Great Cham of the Tartars, and the Kings of the Mountains in Tartary, who have invaded China. In the Iſlands of the Eaſt, the King of the Maldivians, the King of Achem or Sumatra, the Emperor of Java, the King of Bantam, in the ſame Iſland, and the King of Macaſſar or Celebes, which are all of them Mahometan Princes. Amongſt theſe, the Kings of Perſia, Viſapor, and Golconda favour Ali's Sect. The Kings of the Mountains of Tartary, are given to ſome particular Superſtitions; but it is obſervable, except the Sultan, the King of Perſia, the Cham of Tartary, and Arabian Princes, all the other Kings which I have now named, have almoſt no other Subjects but Idolaters; and that all the common People are Heathens, the Courtiers only, and Soldiers embracing Mahomet's Doctrine. In Africa there is a Mahometan King, whoſe Dominion is all along the Coaſt of Abex, towards Arabia Fœlix, as far as Cape Guardafu, and the Red-Sea, and the Ocean. The Governors which the Sultan ſends into Egypt, and the Iſlands of the Red-Sea, and along the Coaſt of Barbary, at Tripoli, Tunis, and Algier, who bear the Title of Kings, are alſo Mahometans. To conclude, the King of Fez and Morocco Embraces the ſame Religion. Tavernier's Relation of the Seraglio.

MAHOMORA. Leo Africanus Pa. 118. ſays, This Town is in the Kingdom of Fez, and built on the Mouth of the Great River Subu, 12 Miles from Sale to the North, and half a Mile from the Sea, and deſigned to ſecure the Mouth of that River. When the Portugueſe entred that River, and built the Fort, they ruined the Town, in the Year of the Hegyra 921. But then they received a great Loſs by Night, 3000 of them being ſlain by Surprize, which, with other Misfortunes, coſt the Portugueſe 10000 Men, to no purpoſe, and 400 Pieces of Braſs Ordinance. He ſaith, he was preſent in this Action, and ſaw it. The Portugueſe have been in Poſſeſſion of it ſince 1614.

MAIA, a Nymph, who, by ſome, is ſaid to be the Mother of Mercury, and by others to have been Vulcan's Wife. Macrobius and Plutarch mention her often. Ovid, in the Fifth Book of his Faſti, conſidering ſeveral Derivations of the Month of May, thinks it may come from one of the Pleiades, whom Jupiter loved, MAIDENHEAD in Barkſhire, ſeated by the Thames, over which it hath a large Wooden Bridge, a great throughfair Town, full of Inns, from London 22 Miles.

MAIDSTONE, Lat. Madus Vagniacæ, a fair, ſweet, and populous Town in Ailesford Lath, in the County of Kent, ſituate upon the River Medway, over which it hath a fair Stone Bridge, built by the Archbiſhops of Canterbury. Edward VI. incorporated this Town, and granted it a Mayor, which was taken from them in Queen Mary's Reign, for favouring Wyat's Rebellion, in 1554. But Queen Elizabeth reſtored them to their former State. In ancient Times, their Chief Magiſtrate was called a Portgreve. Charles I. added another Honour to this place, by creating Elizabeth Finch, Grand-Mother to the late Heneage Fench, Earl of Winchelſea, late Lord Chancellor of England, Viſcounteſs of Maidſtone, and Counteſsof Winchelſea, with an Entail upon her Heir Males, which Honours are now poſſeſſed by Heneage, her Grand-Child, the Second of this Family. Heneage, late Earl of Nottingham, and Lord Chancellor of England, was another of her Poſterity. This is the Town where the Aſſizes and Seſſions are kept, with which Honour, it has alſo that of ſending two Members to the Houſe of Commons.

MAIENNE, Mayne, or Mayenne de Juhel, Lat. Maduana, a Town in France, in the Province of Maine, ſeated upon a River of the ſame Name, beneath Laſſay, towards the Frontiers of Normandy, within 14 Leagues of Mans. It is a pleaſant Town. It got the Name of Juhel from an ancient Lord of that Country, who lived under the Reign of Philip Auguſt. It had firſt the Title of Marquiſate, then that of Dutchy. Several Princes of the Houſe of Lorrain, went by the Name of Dukes of Maienne. Cardinal Mazarin bought Maienne, and upon Feb. 28. 1660. gave it to Armand Charles de la Porte, Duke Mazarine, &c. by the Marriage Contract of that Duke, with Hortenſe Mancini, Niece to the ſame Cardinal.

MAIENNE, or Maine, Lat. Maduana, a River in France, the Source of it is in the Mountains of Alencon, upon the Frontiers of Normandy. It runs through the Weſt part of the Province of Maine by Laſſay, Maienne, Laval, Antreſme, &c. then it paſſes through Anjou, by Chateau Gontier, receives the Joune, Oudon, &c. falls into the Sarte, and very near that place, it falls into the River Loire. It begins near Laval to carry Boats.

MAILLEZAIS upon Autiſe, Lat. Malleacum, a Town in France, in the Lower Poitou, formerly an Epiſcopal See. It hath been famous for being the Seat of the Earls of Poitou, and Dukes of Guienne, who built there a very fine Church dedicated to St. Hilary. The Epiſcopal See was transferred to Rochel, in 1648. Du Bouchet Annal. of Aquit. Du Cheſne Antiq. des villes. St. Marthe Gall. Chriſt. Tom. III.

MAIMBOURG, (Lewis) a Jeſuit, hath compoſed ſeveral Books, Two Volumes of Sermons, the Hiſtory of Arianiſm, of the Iconoclaſtes, that of the Croizades, of the Schiſm of the Weſt, of the Shiſm of the Greeks, of the Decay of the Empire, of the Ligue, that of Lutheraniſm, of Calviniſm, a Treatiſe of the Church of Rome, the Pontificate of St. Leo. All theſe Books are printed in 16 Volumes, 4. He died ſuddenly in 1686. in the Abbey of St. Victor at Paris, when he was compoſing the Hiſtory of the Schiſm of England: Proteſtant Authors charge him with Paſſion and Inſincerity, and pretend to have corrected him of Miſtakes in their Refutation of his Hiſtory of Lutheraniſm and Calviniſm: They likewiſe make him a ſort of a Romantick Auther in his Account of Ancient Hiſtory. He was born at Nancy in Lorrain. Some of his Writings drew upon him the Indignation of the Court of Rome; whereupon the Jeſuits putting him out of their Body, the King of France ſettled a conſiderable Penſion on him. Memoirs du Temps.

MAIN (Amber) a Wonder of Cornwal, and a Maſter-Piece of Mathematicks, and Critical Proportions; being a great Rock, mounted upon others of a leſſer Size, ſo that though no force can remove it from its Poſition, the leaſt thing can ſtir it, being in an exact Equilibrium. As for its Name, Main, in Corniſh, ſignifies a Stone, and the word Amber, is look'd upon as a Contraction of Ambroſius, a Valiant Britain, by whom this Monument is thought to have been Erected upon ſome Victory he obtained againſt the Romans, or ſome other Enemies.

MAINA, Braccio di Maina, or The Land of the Mainiotes, a Country of Greece in Morea, all along the Sea, upon the Coaſts of the Gulph Coron, and from Cape Matapan to the River Calamata. The Mainiotes or Magnotes, who inhabit part of the Land of the Ancient Lacedæmonians, were the only Greeks who preſerv'd themſelves a Republick independant of the Turks; they owe this advantage to the Neighbourhood of the Sea, and the highth of their Mountains. However, after the taking of Canea in 1669. the fear of being oppreſſed in their Liberty, forced them to ſeek for other Habitations, that they might live quiet. The Genoueſes received into Corſica 5 or 600 Families of them; and the Great Duke of Tuſcany hath given Lands in his Dominions, of late, to 1000 more. Theſe Mainiotes have ſtill the ſame Inclination as the Ancient Lacedæmonians, for they are great Robbers, cruel, and live a very hard Life.

MAINARD (Sir William) Knight, Son and Heir to Henry Mainard of Eſton-Parva in Com. Eſſex, by Suſan, his Wife, Daughter and Co-heir to Thomas Pearſon, Eſquire, Uſher of the Court of Star-Chamber, having firſt been dignified with the Title of Baronet, June 29. 1611. 9 Jac. next with that of Lord Mainard of Wicklow in Ireland, in 1620. was in conſideration of his Father's Merits, by Letters Patent, bearing date at Weſtminſter 3 Car. 1. advanced to the Degree of Baron of this Realm, by the Title of Lord Mainard of Eſtaines ad Turrim in Com. Eſſex, otherwiſe called Little Eſton. He died in 1639. leaving one Son, and five Daughters. His Son William ſucceeded him, and was Comptroller of the Houſhold to King Charles II. He married two Wives, firſt, Dorothy, ſole Daughter and Heir to Sir Robert Banaſter, of Paſſenham in the County of Northampton, Knight, by whom he hath Iſſue two Sons, Banaſter Mainard and William, which William, hath married the Lady Elizabeth Grey, Daughter to Henry, late Earl of Kent. Surviving Dorothy, his Wife, he hath ſince Wedded the Lady Margaret Murray, youngeſt Daughter to James, Earl of Dyzert in Scotland, and by her hath Iſſue, one Son called Henry, and one Daughter called Elizabeth. Dugdale Baronage.

MAINE, a Province of France, that hath Normandy on the N. Perche, Vandomois, and Beauſſe on the E. Brittany on the W. part of Tourain and Anjou on the S. 'Tis vulgarly divided into Two Parts, Low and Upper Maine. Its Ancient Inhabitants were called Cenomani Aulerci. It is famous for giving Title to Charles, Son to Francis, Duke of Guiſe, who was firſt made Duke of Maine, and then General of the Ligue againſt Henry III. and IV. The common Proverb of this Province is, Un Manceau vaut un Norman & demie, A Man of Maine is worth a Norman and a half. That that founded this Proverb was, becauſe a Piece of Money, currant in Maine, was worth half as much again, as that of the ſame Name in Normandy. This Province is plentiful in Corn, Wine, Flax, and Cattle. Mans is its Capital; the next conſiderable, are Lavalle, Beaumont, le Viconte, Sable, la Ferte-Bernard, Mayenne, &c.

MAINFROY, Tyrant of Sicily, Baſtard to the Emperor Frederick II. He is reported to have ſmothered his own Father in his Bed, and that afterwards he cauſed Conrade, Son to the ſame Emperor, to be poiſoned. This Conrade left a Son named Conradin, to whom Mainfroy made himſelf Guardian. He poſſeſſed himſelf of the Kingdom of Sicily, which he governed 11 Years, in conſtant Troubles and Diviſions. He quarrelled with Pope Innocent IV. carried the War into his Dominions, and upon Dec. 20. 1254. routed his Army, with the help of the Saracens of Lauria. Afterwards he took from the Church, the County of Fondi, the Popes, Urban IV. and Clement IV. Excommunicated him. Urban IV. having called Charles of Anjou, Inveſted him with the Kingdoms of Naples and Sicily; wherefore he made War againſt Mainfroy, as an Enemy to the Church. It is reported, that he made an Overture of Peace to Charles, who anſwered thus, Ite & renunciate Sultano Lucerino (ſo he called Mainfroy, whom the Saracens of Luceria helped) vel me brevi ipſum in infernum detruſurum, vel ipſum me in Paradiſum collocaturum; i. e. Go and tell the Sultan, or Uſurper, of Luceria, that very ſhortly, I'll either ſend him to Hell, or he ſhall ſend me to Heaven. And conſequently the Battel was fought in the Plain of Benevent upon Friday, Feb. 26. 1266. and Mainfroy loſt his Life, and was found Dead, covered all over with Blood and Dirt. He was thrown into a Ditch, near the Bridge of Benevent, becauſe he was Excommunicated; and, as a Modern Author ſaith, Pope Clement cauſed his Body to be carried out of the Church-Lands. This Mainfroy had, in 1262, given his Daughter Conſtance in Marriage to Peter III. King of Arragon, and upon this Match, the Princes of that Family founded their Pretenſions to the Kingdom of Naples. Sumoneta and Collenutio, *Hiſt. of Napl. MAINIOTES, they are an ignorant, faithleſs People, being thus denominated from Bracchio de Maina, or an Arm of Land in the Morea, ſtretching it ſelf out into the Sea, ſo called by the Venetians, but anciently part of the Country of the Lacedæmonians: Theſe People by their nearneſs to the Sea, and ruggedneſs of their Mountains, have in deſpight of the Turkiſh Arms, conſerved themſelves after the manner of the Ancient Greeks, in the form of a Republick, whereby they had ſome kind of Government and Juſtice amongſt themſelves, though they entertained a Turkiſh Aga, rather out of Reſpect to the Turks than Subjection; but as to other People, they lived upon the Spoil, keeping no honeſt Intercourſe with them, unleſs with the Venetians, whom they feared, becauſe of their Gallies which frequented their Ports. In the Iſle of Cervi, which belongs to them, and about Cape St. Angelo, which is oppoſite to the Iſle of Cerigo, they maintain ſeveral Brigantines, with which, when they take Chriſtians, they Tranſport them over to Tripoli in Barbary, where they find a Market for them; and when they have the fortune to ſeize Turks, they ſell them to Venice or Malta, and ſo are Freebooters on all ſides. The Mainiotes, in 1685. hearing of the ill Succeſs of the Turks in all places, and that their Fortune was changed, declared for the Venetians, to whom they were moſt inclined on account of the Chriſtian Religion, they profeſſing to be of the Greek Church; the Turks to prevent their Revolt, ſent ſome Forces to reduce them; but they being ſupported by Venetian Succours, charged them ſo vigorouſly, that of 3500 Men, their eſcaped but 150, all the reſt being either killed or taken; they have been alſo ſerviceable to the Venetians upon many other occaſions. Ricaut.

MAIO, Admiral of Sicily in the XIIth. Century. He was born at Bari in Apuglia, and his Father was but an Oil-Man. His Wit and Parts got him the Favour of William I. King of Sicily, who made him firſt Notary of the Palace, then Chancellor, and at laſt Admiral. He was ſo blinded by that Dignity, that he deſigned to Uſurp the Crown. In order to this, he plotted with Hugh, Archbiſhop of Palermo, and, by his Calumnies, perſuaded the King to Impriſon the Chief Lords of the Court, ſome of them had their Eyes put out, others their Tongues pulled out, and others were whipp'd; afterwards he engaged the Queen in his Party. Some Hiſtorians ſay, it was by a ſhameful Intrigue; afterwards he flattered the People by his Liberality. At laſt, he ſent rich Preſents to Pope Alexander III. hoping to prevail with him, that he ſhould deprive King William of his Crown. But when he was like to have ſtept into the Throne, a violent and unexpected Death put a ſtop to all his Deſigns. Bonello, a young Gentleman, prevailed with by ſome Lords, that could not brook the Inſolence of that Favourite, run him through twice with his Sword. The Death of that wicked Man was ſo acceptable to the People, that running immediately to the place, they pulled off his Hair and Beard, then dragged his Body along the Streets, and tore it in Pieces. Du Puy Hiſt. of the Favour.

MAJOB, (George) a Proteſtant Miniſter of Germany, born at Nuremburg, April 25. 1502. He embraced the Doctrine of Luther, with whom he was particularly acquainted. He taught at Magdeburgh, then at Wittemberg, and was Miniſter at Iſlebe. He died very Poor, and very Old, in 1574. His Works are printed in Three Volumes, which contain his Commentaries upon ſome Books of the Bible, his Sermons, &c. George Major taught againſt Nicholas Amidorphius, and amongſt thoſe that were called The Rigid Confeſſioniſts, that good Works are ſo far neceſſary to Salvation, that even Children cannot be juſtified without them. MAJORAGIO (Mark Anthony) was Born in a Village of that Name, in the Territory of Milan, and lived in the XVIth Century. He has oblig'd the World with ſeveral Treatiſes, and was much admir'd for his Elocution; and, indeed, his Notes upon Ariſtotle's Rhetorick, and on Tully De Oratore, are ſufficient Proof that his Reputation was not undeſerv'd. Further Majoragio publiſh'd Corrections againſt Mario Nizoli, one of his Antagoniſts. We have likewiſe Notes of his upon Virgil: Laſtly, he wrote De Senatu Romano. De Riſu Oratorio & Urbano. De Nominibus Propriis Veterum Romanorum, &c. There are alſo ſome Letters of his, and ſome written to him, publiſh'd at Utrecht in 1697, where the Reader may ſee ſeveral Paſſages relating to the Quality of his Writings. *Imperialis in Muſæo Hiſtorico. MAJORCA, an Iſland of the Mediterranean Sea, towards the Eaſt of Spain, famous for its Univerſity, where Raymond Lullius was Profeſſor. His Doctrine is ſo much eſteemed there, that they keep a Profeſſor to explain it. The Air of that Iſland is very wholeſome, and the Winds that blow from the Sea temper the Heat of the Summer. There is abundance of Coral upon the Coaſts; 'twill not be altogether uſeleſs to obſerve here the nature of it, and the manner of getting it. It is not ſoft under Water, as ſome ſay, it grows upon Rocks, in very deep Water. They may draw a kind of Milk from the top of the Branches, by preſſing them, in ſome Months of the Year, as out of a Woman's Pap; which, perhaps, is the Seed, which falling upon any thing in the bottom of the Sea, produceth a new Branch of Coral, as ſome hath been found upon a Skull, upon the Blade of a Sword, and upon a Granado, that was fallen into the Sea, upon which Branches of Coral half a Foot high were found interwoven. This is the manner of getting it, they tie two pieces of Wood acroſs, and wrap them about with Hemp, with a piece of Lead in the middle, that they may fall to the bottom. The Inſtrument is faſtened to both the ends of a Bark with Ropes, which being carried down the Stream, the Hemp takes hold, and is intangled with the Coral; then dragging it with force, it brings the Coral along with it. It is reported, that there are Divers in Barbary, hardy and skilful enough to take it with their Hands, having a pair of Spectacles to diſtinguiſh it from a certain Root of no value, which is very like it. The reddeſt is counted the beſt, when it hath ſeveral Branches, and is not unpoliſhed and ſtony, but ſolid, without any hole in it. The Indians, and even many other Nations believe, that if one carries a piece of Coral about him, he may avoid many Misfortunes, chiefly Sorcery, for which reaſon they hang a Branch of it about their Children's Neck. The old Indians eſteemed Coral, as much as we do Pearl. Pliny ſaith, That at the bottom of the Sea it is like a green Shrub, and that the Bloſſoms of it are white and tender, but that being drawn out of the Water they grow red and hard. Pliny lib. 32. Davity of the World, *Tom. MAJORIANUS, (Julius Valerius) Emperor, famous for his Wit, Learning, and Valour. Having won the Victory of the Franks and Germans by his Conduct and Valour, he was created Captain-General of the Militia, and afterwards Emperor of the Weſt, upon April 1. 457. The Battel was fought in a Plain near Ravenna. Leo conſented to that Election, judging him fit to oppoſe the Incurſions of the Vandals; and, indeed, he routed them in a Battel, and beat them from the Coaſts of Campania, where Genſeric had made a Deſcent. He writ a Letter to the Romans, and promiſed that he would promote Juſtice and Equity, and remitted to the People what remained due of the Publick Taxes. He made Peace in 459, with Theodoric, King of the Viſigoths, having got the better of thoſe Barbarians. Afterwards he prepared, in earneſt, to carry the War into Africa, but Genſeric ſtopped him, having, by a Stratagem, got away 300 Ships that lay near Carthagena in Spain. It is reported, That the Emperor went in a diſguiſe to Genſeric's Court, who, not knowing him, communicated to him his Deſigns againſt the Empire; they add furthermore, that whilſt they were diſcourſing together, the place where they were, ſhook; however Majorian was preparing to make War againſt the Vandals, but the Treachery of Rizimir, General of his Armies, blaſted all his hopes. This Traitor forced him to quit his Purple in Tortona, a Town in Lombardy, in 461, and cauſed him to be murthered upon the River Iria, after he had Reigned four Years, four Months, and two Days. Idacius and *Marcellinus in Chron. MAJORINUS, firſt Biſhop of the Donatiſts in Africa, in 306. He liv'd in the Houſe with that Lucilla, who is mention'd before; and had been a Reader under Cecilian, in Oppoſition to whom he was intruded into the Epiſcopal See of the Church of Carthage. Thus began the Schiſm of the Donatiſts; though Majorinus was their firſt Biſhop, yet he did not give his Name to the Sect; this unhappy remarkableneſs was reſerved to Donatus his Succeſſor, as is obſerved under his Name. St. Auguſtin lib. 1. *cont. MAIRE, (James le) a famous Seaman, who diſcovered the Streight of his Name, which lieth beyond the Land del Fuego, 'twixt which, and the Continent of America, is the Streight of Magellan. He commanded two Dutch Ships, The Concord, and The Horn, which ſailed from Texel, June 14. 1615. There is a Relation of his Voyages from the Texel to America, from thence through the South Sea to Java, and from Java back again to Holland. It is printed at Amſterdam in French, in Folio, in 1622, amongſt a Collection of Voyages to America.

MAIRE, (Eudes le) Groom of the Chamber to Philip I. towards the latter end of the XIth. Century, was the only Servant of his, that offered to accompliſh the King's Vow, and went on Foot in Armour, with a Torch in his Hand, to the Holy Land. Being returned, the King gave him Chalo St. Mard, (or St. Medard) near Etampes, a conſiderable Eſtate, with this Privilege, That the Heirs of his Body, both Male and Female, ſhould be free of all Taxes, which they have enjoy'd above 500 Years. *Charron. MAIRE, or Major, (John) Born at Haddington in Scotland, ſtudied for ſome Years in Cambridge, and afterwards Commenc'd Doctor in Divinity at Paris. He flouriſh'd in the XVIth. Century, and wrote a Hiſtory of Great Britain, which he Dedicated to King James V. of Scotlaud: This Work was publiſh'd in Six Books, in 1521, and Ends with the Marriage of Henry VIII. with Catharine of Spain. Major likewiſe wrote Commentaries upon the Maſter of the Sentences. *Sophiſticalia Pariſienſia. MAIRES of the Palace, Officers during the firſt Race of the Kings of France. Some derive the Name Maires, from Mejer, which, in Dutch, ſignifieth a Steward; others, from the Latin word Major. Thus Gregory of Tours calls them, Majores Domus Regiæ. Their Authority was ſo great, that they even governed the Kingdom. They were all Men of Quality, as Eginhard tells us in the Life of Charlemaign, Hic honor non aliis dari conſueverat, quam iis qui & claritate generis, & opum amplitudine cæteris eminebant. They took the Title of Dukes of France: They were the King's Guardians, and often depoſed them, or uſed them as they pleaſed: Under their Name they reigned inſtead of them. In this Senſe the Annals of Mentz, and thoſe of the Monk of Laureſheim ſpeak concerning Charles Martel. Carolus ſub honore Majordomatus tenuit Regnum Francorum annos viginti ſeptem. Theſe Verſes upon his Tomb prove the ſame:

Dux, Dominuſque Ducum, Regum quoque Rex fore ſpernit.
Non vult regnare, ſed Regibus imperat ipſe.

MAISIERES, (Philip de) Chancellor of the Kingdoms of Jeruſalem and Cyprus, was a French-man born, and not a Noble Venetian, or Sicilian, as ſome write. He was born about 1327. in the Dioceſs of Amiens. Having finiſhed his Studies, he left his Country, and entred into the Service of Andrew, King of Sicily, and Alphonſo, King of Caſtile. He returned into his own Country, and was made a Canon of the Church of Amiens; and ſix Years after went into the Holy Land, deſigning to invite the Chriſtian Princes to undertake the Croiſade. He liſted himſelf among the Infidels, who then were divided, that he might know their Strength and Method of Fighting. After a Year's Service he retired into Cyprus, to King Hugh IV. of Luſignan, whom he found diſpoſed to manage the Holy War againſt the Saracens; but that Prince died ſoon after, in a Voyage he made on purpoſe to engage the Princes of the Weſt. Peter I. ſucceeded him, who made good uſe of Maiſiere's Advices, and made him Chancellor of his Kingdoms. Philip Maiſieres was at the Siege of Alexandria, in 1365. And when the Town was taken, the King gave him the Third Part of the Spoils, to begin a new Military Order for the Conqueſt and Preſervation of the Holy Land. But the Chriſtians loſt in a little time by their Cowardice, what they had got by their Valour. Peter I. having been murthered, his Succeſſor, Peter II. called Petrin, ſent Maiſieres as his Extraordinary Ambaſſador to Pope Gregory XI. who kept him a whole Year with him. From thence this Great Man came into France in 1372. and got into King Charles V's Service, who made him a Councellor of State, and committed to him the Education of the Dauphin, who was afterwards Charles VI. King of France. Being in that great Poſt, he grew weary of the World, and reſolved to live retired in the Monaſtery of the Cæleſtines at Paris, which at that time was near the Court. He got Leave from the King, and in 1380. built himſelf an Appartment in a Corner of that Monaſtery, without either taking the Habit, or making Vows, though the Author of the Hiſtory of Cyprus affirms the contrary. Charles V. honoured him often with Viſits: And when he was at any diſtance from Paris, he conſulted him by Letters about the weighty Affairs of the Kingdom. His Pupil, Charles VI. had a great Eſteem for him; and granted, at his Requeſt, that the Cuſtom of denying the Sacrament of Penance to Criminals ſentenced to Death, ſhould be abrogated; as it appears by the Edict of Feb. 2. 1396. He was obliged to leave his Retreat, to go to Avignon, to demand the ſettling of the Feaſt of the Preſentation of the Virgin in the Weſt, in Imitation of the Eaſtern Church, from Pope Clement VII. And having obtaining it, he returned into his Monaſtery, where he compoſed, beſides other Pieces, two excellent Books for the Inſtruction of the young King Charles VI. The Title of the one is, The Pilgrimage of the Poor Pilgrim. That of the other is, The Dream of the old Pilgrim. In the Firſt he gives the Rules for Virtue and true Honour; and in the Second he ſhews the Means how to avoid the Diſorders then reigning amongſt Chriſtians. Extrait des Memoirs du P. Becquet Bibliothequaire de Celeſtins à Paris.

MAJUMES, certain Spectacles in uſe among the Pagans, and continued ſince among Chriſtians. They were thus called, according to Cardinal Baronius, from a Town in Palæſtina, named Majuma, where Venus was worſhipped: And, according to Suidas, and many others, from the Month of May. The moſt criminal Adulteries mentioned in Fables were acted there, which could not but tempt the Spectators to commit the ſame Crimes. They were forbidden; and the Emperor Arcadius, either for his own, or the People's Diverſion, purged them of all their Impurity. But the old Impurity came upon the Stage again; which cauſed St. Chryſoſtom to inveigh ſo much againſt them, that at laſt they were wholly aboliſhed by the Emperor in 399. *S. MALABAR, a Country upon the Weſtern Coaſt of the Peninſula of India, on this ſide Ganges, at the Weſt of Cape Comorin. It begins from Cape Ramos; diſtant on the South-ſide 10 Leagues from Goa, and ends at Cape Comorin. The Length of it is about 108 Leagues, according to Linſchot. It is the moſt fruitful, populous, and temperate Region in the whole Eaſt-Indies. There be ſeveral Kingdoms that borrow their Names from their Capital Cities; as, Angamele, Calicut, Cananor, Cochin, Coulant, Travancor, Cranganor, Manigate, Porca, Tanor, &c. The Coaſt is always green, covered with tall Trees. There are great quantities of Pepper and Cinnamon. There was but one King formerly, but now it is governed by ſeveral Princes. The Portugueſe and Hollanders have Plantations there: The laſt are poſſeſſed of conſiderable Towns. The Inhabitants are well ſhaped; moſt of them are Black, or very Tawny. They have Wit enough, but neglect to improve it. The Mahometans are very treacherous, and the Natives but a little better. They are diſtinguiſhed by their ſeveral Tribes: The Firſt is, That of their Princes; the Second, That of the Nambouries, or the High Prieſts; the Third, Of their Bramens; and the Fourth, That of their Nahers, or Nobles. The Tives are thoſe that till the Ground; and they are allowed to bear Arms. The Moncana's, or Fiſher-men, dwell upon the Sea-Coaſts, and live upon Fiſh: They never think them worthy to be liſted for Soldiers. The Chetes, that is, the Weavers, and other ſort of Artificers, make alſo a Tribe by themſelves. The Pouliats are the vileſt of all, and live in little Cottages made of Palm-Leaves. When a Namboury, a Bramen, or a Naher, meets a Pouliat, he commands him to get out of the way; and if he doth not obey immediately, he may force him away with Arrows, or Musket-ſhot; and may lawfully kill them, provided they be not in a privileged Place, for all that theſe Pouliats have ſometimes good ſtore of Gold and Silver; for, knowing that moſt of the Malabars uſe to bury their Money, without ever removing the leaſt part of it, they carefully ſeek it out, and by that means grow Rich. This Law is exactly obſerved among the Malabars, That no Body can raiſe his Fortune beyond the Tribe that he is born of; and how Rich ſoever they may be, they never change their Condition. No Stranger may Travel over the Kingdoms of the Coaſt of Malabar without one or more Nahers to guide him; and the Prince never puniſhes a Violence offered to them that go without them. Theſe Nahers never betray or forſake their Truſt: If the Man they accompany happen to be killed, they will chuſe rather to periſh with him, than to bear the Reproach of ſurviving him. Thoſe of a nobler Tribe never keep Company with their Inferiors, chiefly in Eating and Drinking. The Children are noble by their Mother's, not by their Father's Side; and are counted of the Mother's Tribe, not of the Father's. The Princeſſes marry ſome of the Nambouries and Bramens; but their Children are Princes, and Heirs to the Crown. The Princes cannot marry Princeſſes; but the Nahers and their Children are Nahers, and not Princes. The Malabars hate Theft ſo much, that they often Sentence one to Death for ſtealing a Bunch of Pepper, or ſomething of the like Value. All Civil or Capital Cauſes are pleaded before the King, by the Parties: And if the Criminal be ſentenced to Death, he is immediately diſpatched, being dragged out of the Palace. They have no Executioners but the Nahers of the Guard, becauſe every one takes it as an Honour to execute the Prince's Orders. When the King dies, the oldeſt among the Princes ſucceeds him: So they have few young Governors. When the King of Cananor goeth out of his Palace, he either rides on an Elephant, or ſits in a Palanquin, wearing a Crown of Maſſive Gold, in form of a Cap, weighing 500 Ducats. The Miniſter of State, or Lieutenant-General of the Kingdom, preſents the King with it; and that of the late King is put in the Treaſury of his Pa-god, or Temple. As to their Marriages, Women among them may take as many Husbands as they pleaſe, contrary to the Mahometans, who marry ſeveral Wives: For which Reaſon they are exempted from that cruel Cuſtom, in uſe among other Indians, to burn themſelves alive with their Husbands Bodies. The Mahometans of Malabar are born of thoſe Strangers that ſettled themſelves there for Trade; becauſe the Natives, and, above all, the Nahers, or Nobles, are not brought up to any. All that is imported or exported out of the Country, paſſes through the Hands of the Mahometans. The Villages they live in are called Bazars, or Markets. The richeſt live upon the Sea-Coaſts, or at the Mouth of the Rivers, for the conveniency of Merchants, that are commonly Europeans. Dellon's Voyage into the Eaſt-Indies.

MALABARES, or Malavares, the Name of the Indian Pyrates, which rove along the Coaſt of the Peninſula of Indus, on this ſide the Gulf of Bengala, chiefly from the Coaſt of Malabar to Surat. They are Mahometans, and very cruel to Chriſtians. They are commonly 200 or 250 in their Barks, and Sail by Squadrons of 10 or 15, and will fight a great Man of War; for they preſently board it, and throw abundance of Carcaſſes, or Fire-pots, upon the Deck. But thoſe that know their manner of Fighting, as ſoon as they perceive them, preſently ſtop all the Holes of the Deck, and fill it up with Water, to prevent the Damage of that Artificial Fire. The Malabares are ſo Superſtitious, that they will never touch any dirty thing with their Right Hand. They let grow the Nails of their Left Hand, which they uſe inſtead of a Comb; wearing long Hair, like Women, which they twiſt about their Heads, with a triangular piece of Linen-Cloth tied over it. Tavern. Voyage into the Ind.

MALACCA, a Town of Aſia, in the Peninſula of the Indus on the other ſide the Ganges, called formerly The Golden Cherſoneſus. It has the Kingdom of Siam to the North, and is every where elſe ſurrounded with the Ocean. Heylin ſays, it is 270 Engliſh Miles in Length, of a diſproportionable Breadth, extream Hot, and, though neither Populous nor Fruitful, yet very Rich by its Commerce with all Nations. In 1500. the King of Siam, from whom Malacca revolted, endeavoured to reduce it with 200 Ships, 3000 Men, and 400 Elephants, but in vain. The Air of it is unwholſome, but the Conveniency of the Harbour, and the great Trade, makes it famous, not only in the Indies, but even in Europe. The Country and Town of Malacca belonged to the King of Ihor. The Duke of Albuquerque conquered it for the Portugueſe, who built a Fort there, and made it an Epiſcopal See; but the Hollanders took it, after ſix Months Siege, in 1640. The Town of Malacca is ſituate upon the Streights that ſeparate the firm Land from the Iſle Sumatra. It rains twice or thrice a Week here all the Year over, except in the Months of January, February, and March. This Town ſtands very well for the Commerce of China, and the Molucco's. The Air is very good, and agrees very well with Strangers, though the Portugueſe publiſhed the contrary, to hinder other Nations ſettling there. *Mandeſlo. Olearius. MALACHY, the laſt of the Twelve, called The Little Prophets. He was of the Tribe of Zebulon, if we believe what St. Epiphanius ſaith of him; and lived after Zachary, in the Time of Darius, or Artaxerxes Longimanus. Becauſe his Name ſignifieth An Angel. Origen thought he was an Angel Incarnate: But St. Jerom, and the reſt of the Fathers, are of another Mind. And, indeed, if we muſt believe that Malachy was an Angel becauſe of his Name, why ſhould we not take Hoſea for Chriſt, ſince his Name ſignifieth Saviour. Some are of Opinion, that Malachy is the ſame with Eſdras; and that he was ſurnamed Angel becauſe of the Purity of his Life. St. Jerom doth neither reject nor approve this Opinion, though it is coxtrary to the Opinion of Euſebius, and other famous Authors. Euſebius in Chron. S. Auguſtin de Civitat. Dei, lib. 18. cap. 36. S. Cyril in Malac. cap. 1. Sixtus Senenſis Biblioth. lib. 1. Bellarmin de Script. Eccl.

St. MALACHY, Archbiſhop of Ardmagh in Ireland, lived in the XIIth. Century. He is famous for his Holineſs, pretended Miracles, and for his Acquaintance with St. Bernard. He was firſt a Monk in the Abby of Bercor, and then Archbiſhop of Ardmagh. He quitted his Archbiſhoprick to be an Inferior Prelate in the Church of Downe. Pope Innocent II. eſteemed him much, and expreſſed it when this Prelate viſited him at Rome. He died in 1148. at Clairvaux, in St. Bernard's Arms, who made his Funeral Panegyrick in a ſhort Draught of his Liſe. He had alſo written three Epiſtles to him, viz. the 315th. the 316th. and the 317th. He is ſaid to be the Author of the Prophecies concerning the Characters of the Popes, from Cœleſtine II. whom he characteriſes by theſe Words, Ex Caſtro Tyberis, becauſe this Pope, whoſe Name was Guy du Caſter, was born in a Caſtle upon Tyber. He writ ſome other Books beſides. *S. MALAGA, or Malgue, a Sea-Port Town of Spain, in the Kingdom of Granada, near the River Guadalquivir. It is famous for good Wines, and two forts. The Phœnicians are reported to have firſt built it, long before the Birth of Chriſt; Strabo, Pliny, and other ancient Authors, mention it often. Here is a Biſhop's See, formerly Suffragan to Seville, and now to Granada. Strabo, lib. 3. Pliny, lib. 5. cap. 2. Merula, Mariana, &c. There was formerly a great Trade of Salt-Fiſh and Fleſh, according to Strabo; whence came the Name of Malaca, from the Phœnician Word Malach, to ſalt. It was taken from the Moors by Ferdinand and Iſabella, after a long Siege, in 1487. In 1661. an Inundation of the River drowned 2000 Men, carried away 1060 Houſes, and rendred 3000 more uninhabitable. Boch. Canaan, lib. 1. cap. 34.

MALAGUETTE, or Managuet, the Weſtern Part of Guinea, about 60 Leagues in length; extending from the River Sanguin to the Cape of Palmis. It is noted for its Pepper-Trade. It was firſt planted by the French, and afterwards by the Portugueſe, Engliſh, and Dutch.

MALAISES, a People in the Kingdom of Malaca, in the Peninſula of Indus, beyond the Gulf of Bengala. A great Number of them have ſettled themſelves in the Kingdom of Siam. They are Mahometans; but there is ſome difference between their Religion, and that of the Turks and Perſians. They are good Soldiers, and great Robbers. *Mandeſlo. MALAPERT (Charles) a Jeſuit, born at Mons in Hainault. He read with Reputation at Doüay, and writ many Pieces, both in Proſe and Verſe. He was an excellent Mathematician. He died at Madrid in Spain, Nov. 1. 1530. He left theſe Works behind him: De Ventis, lib. 2. Comment. in lib. 6. *priores Euclidis. Elementa Geometricæ. Inſtitutiones Arithmeticæ. Practicæ. MALATESTA, (Sigiſmundus) Lord of Rimini, was very famous in the XVth. Century. He was a Philoſopher and Hiſtorian, a great Soldier, and one of the moſt famous Commanders of his Age. But theſe good Qualities were overſhadowed by very ill ones: He was impious, ridicul'd Religion, he denied the Immortality of the Soul, and ſtuck at nothing to ſerve his Intereſt and Ambition. Such a Behaviour offended the Pope, ſo that Pius II. excommunicated him in 1462. which cooled his Temper in ſome meaſure. Malateſta, together with Francis Sforza, routed Antonio Ordelaffi, Lord of Forli. Sigiſmond made War againſt his Neighbours, and got always the better of them. Afterwards the Venetians made him their General: He paſſed into the Morea, and took Sparta, and ſome other Places, from the Infidels. Being returned, he was made General of the Sienneſes and Florentines: Then he made War againſt Pope Pius II. but he was not ſucceſsful in it. He died Octob. 6. 1467. being 51 Years old. He left many Children; among the reſt, Robert Malateſta, a famous Commander in his Time. He was General to the Venetians: Then he commanded Pope Sixtus IV's Army, againſt Alphonſus, King of Naples, and his other Allies, whom he routed in 1482. Jeronymo Riarco is reported to have poiſoned him a little time after, for he died in 1483. The Pope commanded a Statue on Horſeback to be erected for him in St. Peter's Church. The Malateſta's Family was both Famous and Potent: Several Heads of it have commanded at Peſaro and Rimini; and in this laſt City the Malateſta's maintained themſelves above 200 Years. Pope Clement VII. took it from Pandolpho Malateſta, who died poor at Ferrara. Marcheſelli & Sanſovino Orig. de Famig. d'Ital. Pius II. in Comment. Guichardini. Paulus Jovius, &c.

MALAXE (John) lived at Conſtantinople in 1578. his Miſery and Poverty appear by theſe Words, written from Conſtantinople, to Martinus Cruſius, by Gerlach: (Malaxe, ſaith he, is very old; he teaches Children in a pitiful Cottage, where I ſaw ſome few dry Fiſhes, which were all his Pittance. He copies Books, and with the Money he buyeth Wine; and for all that he is in very good Health.) Three Years after, the ſame Man affirms that he was Dead. He writ The Patriarchal Hiſtory of Conſtantinople, in Greek; which Father Labbé hath printed with The Byzantine Hiſtory. Voſſius de Hiſt. Græc.

MALCHUS, a Sophiſt of Byzantium, according to Suidas and Philadelphus. As Photius ſaith, he lived in the Vth. Century, under Anaſtaſius the Emperor. The ſame Photius ſaith, That he had read Seven Books of his Hiſtory, which began at the 17th. Year of the Empire of Leo, and ended at Nepos's Death. He praiſes him for the Purity and Elegancy of his Stile; and commends him, as a Model of a perfect Hiſtorian. Suidas ſaith, that his whole Hiſtory began at Conſtantine, and ended at *Anaſtaſius. MALDERUS (James) Biſhop of Antwerp, was Born at a Village near Bruxels, in 1563. He profeſs'd Divinity, and read in that Faculty with Reputation at Bruxels, Doway, and Lorrain. He wrote ſome Tracts of Divinity upon Aquinas's Summs. *De Abuſu Reſtrictionum Mentalium. MALDIVES, ſome Iſlands of Aſia, in the Indian Sea. They lie near one another in 13 Cluſters, called Atollons, divided by Currants and Streights. Theſe are the Names of the 13 Collections, which extend from North to South, 350 or 300 Leagues; Trillad, or Machis, which the Portugueſe call Cabexa de las Ilhas; Milladové, Madové, Padipola, Malos-Madou, Ari-Atollon, Male-Atollon, where is Male, the Chief of the Maldives; Poliſdou, Moluque, Nillandoux, Collomadoux, Adoumatis, Sovadou, Addou, and Pove-Moluque. The two laſt are counted but for one; and all of them have a King, who commonly keeps his Court at Male. The Air of theſe Iſlands is not exceſſive hot, though they be under the Line, becauſe of the long Nights; during which there fall Dews that allay the Heat of the Day. Here are fine Tortoiſes, Black Coral, Amber-Greaſe, &c. See Francis Pyrard's Deſcrip. of the Mald. Maffeus's Hiſtory of the Indies. Linſchot's Voyage into the Indies, &c. Theſe Iſlands have their Name from two Words, viz. Male, and Dive: The firſt is the Name of the Chief Iſland; and the ſecond, in the Language of the Country, ſignifieth an Iſland. They were diſcovered in 1507. That Part of the Sea is called by Mariners, The Sea of the Maldives. Some reckon above 12000 of thoſe Iſlands, but the Number is not certainly known; they making up an Archipel, or an Heap of Iſlands, ſo confuſed, that very often a Rock or Shelf is taken for an Iſland. They lie upon a ſtraight Line. The 13 Atollons are divided by 12 great Streights; and the Iſlands are parted by ſmall Chanels, where the Sea is very ſhallow. The Air of theſe Iſlands is generally dangerous to Strangers; and the putrefied Waters of ſo many Chanels exhale ſtinking Vapours, which, together with the Unwholeſomneſs of their freſh Waters, cauſe Peſtilential Fevers. There are alſo ſo many Crocodiles between thoſe Atollons, that it is not ſafe to go into the Water. Thoſe People are generally thought to have come from the Iſland Ceilan. They are of an Olive-Tawny Complexion, and of a low, but well proportioned Shape. Moſt of them go all naked, except what Modeſty makes them cover. None but the King and Soldiers are allowed to wear long Hair. They are ingenious, and apply themſelves to Phyſick and Aſtrology. Theſe Iſlands bear no Wheat, nor Rice; but Honey, Pomegranates, Limons, Oranges, and Cacoa or Indian Nuts. The Tree that bears them is the moſt uſeful of all others: It ſupplies Juices and Liquors; which being prepared ſeveral Ways, or drawn in ſeveral Seaſons of the Year, makes Oil, Wine, Butter, Milk, or Sugar: The Fruit is an Almond, which they make Bread withal: The Leaves they make Writing-Paper of: And of the Trunck they make Houſes and Ships. There are alſo white Shells in thoſe Iſlands, ſo pretty, that they paſs for current Coin in ſeveral Parts of the Continent of the Indies. The Mahometan Religion is profeſſed there: And when an Iſlander hath made a Voyage to Mecha, he is privileged to wear a long Beard, as a Token of his Holineſs. All theſe Iſlands are Hereditary, and the Succeſſion is intailed upon the Males, excluding the Females. The chief Revenue of the King is, the Fifth Part of all the Fruits, and the Confiſcation of all the Wrecks. His Titles are, Sultan King of 13 Provinces, and 12000 Iſlands. Pyrard's Voyages.

MALDON, Lat. Camalodunum, a Town in Dengy Hundred in Eſſex, ſituate upon the River Chelmer, about Seven Miles from the Sea, between which, and it, lie two ſmall Iſlands, called Northey and Oſey. This was the Royal Seat of Cunebelinus, a Britiſh Prince, who lived in the Times of Tiberius and Caligula, to whom one of his Sons fled. Aulus Plautius, the Roman General, in Claudius's Reign, fought Caractacus, another of his Sons, and ſlew him in Battel. Claudius, coming over into Britain in Perſon, in the Third Year of his Reign, and An. Ch. 43. made himſelf Maſter of this City, and was therefore called Britannicus. He made it a Roman Colony, planting in it a Regiment of Old Soldiers, and ordered Money to be Coin'd with this Inſcription, Col Cama Lodun. This City felt the fury of the Britains, under Boadicia, Queen of the Iceni, who took and burnt it, and put all the Romans to the Sword, about An. Ch. 63. Yet the Romans re-built it, as appears by Antoninus. Edward, Son of Alfred, a Saxon King, finding it much ruined by the Danes, repaired and fortified it with a Caſtle. In Mr. Cambden's Time, it was a well inhabited Town, conſiſting of one Street of a Mile in length, built on the Ridge of an Hill, and having a convenient Haven; now not only a Corporation, which ſends two Burgeſſes to Parliament, but alſo made a Viſcounty in the 13th. of King Charles II. and given to the late Earl of Eſſex.

MALDONATUS, (Johannes) a famous Divine, who lived in the XVIth. Century, born at Fuente del Maeſtro, a ſmall Village in Eſtremadura. His Family is Noble and Ancient, and he made it more Illuſtrious by his own Merit. From his Youth he ſhewed a great Propenſity to Learning. He ſtudied under Dominicus Aſoto, a Dominican, and under Francis Tolet, a Jeſuit, who was afterwards a Cardinal. There was no better Scholar in the Univerſity of Salamanca in his time, than Maldonat. He was made a Jeſuit at Salamanca, and was of great Reputation for his Piety and Learning. He was ſent to Rome, to read there for a time, and afterwards his Superiors thought fit to ſend him over into France, in 1563. He read both Philoſophy and Divinity at Paris above ten Years, with a very great Concourſe of Students, ſent thither from all Parts of France. The Proteſtants themſelves crowded to hear him, though he was one of their greateſt Adverſaries. Maldonat ſpoke French well enough, and preached very Eloquently. King Charles IX. took a great pleaſure in hearing him, and converſing with him in private. The Princes of the Houſe of Lorrain took his part, againſt ſome that perſecuted him too fiercely, though they had more reaſon to defend him. Peter of Sondi, Biſhop of Paris, declared alſo for him. Maldonat retired to Bourges, where the Jeſuits had a College, and was there about a Year and a half. Here he put in order moſt of his Works that are printed. Pope Gregory XIII. who knew his Learning, ſent for him to Rome, to help him in the publiſhing of the Septuagint in Greek. But Father Maldonat died a little while after, to wit, Jan. 5. 1583. which was about the 50th. of his Age. He hath writ Commentaries upon the Four Evangeliſts, Four of the Prophets, Jeremiah, Baruch, Ezechiel, and Daniel. Diſputationes de fide. Liber de Dæmonibus. Summa Caſuum Conſcientiæ. Diſputationes ac Controverſiæ circa Sacramenta, &c. Theſe two laſt Pieces are printed with his Name at Lyon and Colen, though Alegambus affirms, they are none of Maldonat's Works. Beſides theſe Books, he had compoſed Commentaries upon the Pſalms, upon the Epiſtle of St. Paul to the Romans, and upon all the School-Divinity, with Four Treatiſes, De Conſtitutione Theologica, De Cæremoniis miſſæ, De Indulgentiis, and De Purgatorio, which are kept at Milan in the Ambroſian Library, but they were never printed. Genebrardus in Chron. ad An. 1583. Florimond de Raymond, de Orig. hæreſ. lib. 5. cap. 2. n. 6. *Poſſevinus in Appar. ſacr. MALDVINUS, the 55th. King of Scotland, ſucceeded Ferchardus. He made Peace with his Neighbours, that the Kingdom might recover ſtrength, which was ſo much weakned by the Tyranny of former Kings. He ſuppreſſed a Tumult which happened betwixt thoſe of Lennox and Argile. In his Reign the Scottiſh Monks, who had ſpread Chriſtianity over a great part of England, being envied by the Youth whom they taught, who thought themſelves able enough to teach their own Country-men, were obliged to return home, which broke off the good Underſtanding betwixt the two Nations; but by the Modeſty of the Preachers, it was prevented from breaking out into an open War. In his Reign, there happened the moſt terrible Peſtilence all over Europe, that ever was heard of, from which the Scots and Picts were the only People that were exempted. Maldvinus was ſtrangled by his Wife, on ſuſpicion of keeping a Concubine, in the 20th. of his Reign, An. 688. for which ſhe was burn'd alive four Days after. Buchan.

MALEAS, a People in the Mountains of Malabar, amongſt whom are many of the Chriſtians of St. Thomas.

MALEAS, General of the Carthaginians, was the firſt that brought their Army into Sicily, where, at firſt, he ſucceeded very well, and conquered a great part of it; but his Fortune changing, he was routed, and loſt the greateſt part of his Army, for which he was baniſhed by the Senate; which provoked him ſo much, that he laid Siege to Carthage, with the Remnant of his Army. While he was beſieging the Town, his Son Cartalo, returning from his Embaſſy at Tyre in Syria, went through the Camp, and would not ſee his Father before he had been in the Town; but few Days after, he returned in his Purple Robes and Miter; his Father ſeeing him with theſe Ornaments, fanſied he came to inſult over him, and tranſported with Rage, he cauſed him to be Crucified in his Glorious Apparel, in the ſight of the Town, that he might prove an Example to Children, never to inſult over their Parents. Afterwards Maleas being Maſter of the Town, he got a general Amneſty for all he had done; but ſome time after, being accuſed by his Fellow Citizens to have deſigned to uſurp the Sovereign Authority, he was murthered by the Citizens. Juſtinus, lib. 18.

MALEG, a River of Africk, in Upper Æthiopia; it runs through the Kingdom of Damute, receives the River d'Anquet, and after a Courſe of about 80 Leagues, falls into the Nile in Nubia. Voſſius Diſſert. de Nil.

MALEGUETE, Mallaguete, or Managuete, a Coaſt of Guinea in Africk, which the Dutch call Tand Cuſt, and the French la Coſte des Graives. It begins at Rio Sanguin, and ſtretches as far as the Cape of Palms, which is 60 Leagues in length. Pepper is a very conſiderable Commodity in thoſe Parts. The Air is very bad and dangerous for Strangers. The Natives go bare-headed, are ſtrong and robuſt, great Workers in Iron. They have divers ſorts of Fruits, Veniſon, and great quantity of Palm-Wine. There are French, Engliſh, Hollanders, as well as Portugueſe, ſettled on theſe Coaſts. See Villaut's Relation of the Coaſts of Africk.

MALESPINA, a Sovereign Marquiſate of Italy, in Tuſcany, near the State of Genoa; it is properly that of Maſſa, poſſeſſed by the Family of Maleſpina. This Family comes from Vienne: I ſhall not therefore give Credit to the Fables of thoſe that derive it from the Houſe of Saxony; nor of ſome others, who pretend that the Head of it was a certain young Man, Son to Hugues, Earl of Milan, who in 945. killed Sigefroy, Prince of Luques and Maſſa, with a long black Thorn, and that the Name was derived from thence. Others derive it from Alberic, mentioned in the Council of Pavia, in 876. He begot Alberic II. Marquiſs of Italy, who begot Alberic III. Marquiſs of Toſca, Lord of Maſſa, &c. He is reported to have married Cuniſſa, Siſter to the Wife of Berengarius III. whence came William, ſurnamed Maleſpina, Marquiſs of Luni-giane and Carfagnano, Lord of Bobio, &c. He ſerved under the Emperor Otho, againſt the Saracens of Calabria, and married Guiborga, Daughter to Guimar, Prince of Saluma. See the whole Genealogy ſet down by Laboureur, Porcacchi, Quazzera, &c.

MALESTRAND, by the Dutch, Maleſtroom, a Whirlpool on the Coaſt of Lapland, which, from half Ebb, to half Flood, maketh a moſt terrible noiſe, which is heard in the Iſlands of Roſt and Lofoot, ten Miles off. If any Whale is taken in by the Current, it makes a pitiful Out-cry; and Trees, when they fall into it, are torn like Flax and Hemp. Hackl. pag. 311. Tom. I.

MALHERBE, (Francis) a famous French Poet, was one of the firſt that applied himſelf to poliſh and improve the French Tongue, which he did with great ſucceſs, and general applauſe. He died in 1628. and we have his Life in the beginning of a Book, called Divers traitez de hiſtoire de Morale & de Eloquence, thought to be writ by M. Balzac.

MALIK, the Head of one of the four Ancient Sects of Mahomet's Religion, which the Turks own to be Orthodox. This Sect is called The Malikian Sect, and is embraced by thoſe of Tripoli, Tunis, and Algier. Ricaut of the Ottoman Empire.

MALINES upon Dele, called by thoſe of the Country, and the Dutch, Mackelen or Meckelen, a Town and Lordſhip of Brabant in the Low-Countries, between Louvain, Bruſſels, and Antwerp. Its Bigneſs and Magnificence cauſe it to be called Malines the Beautiful, as Antwerp the Rich, Bruſſels the Noble, Lovain the Wiſe, Ghent the Great, and Bruges the Ancient. The Situation is very pleaſant, and becauſe of the Tide, the Trade is very good. In the Suburbs is St. Alexis's Nunnery, where there is 15 or 1600 Nuns, who are allowed to walk abroad, to pay and receive Viſits, and to Marry when they pleaſe. The Lordſhip of Malines had her own Lords, until 1336, when it became a free Town. After that time, it belonged to the Houſe of Burgundy, until it entred into that of Auſtria, in 1477. There is an Archbiſhop's See, founded by Paul IV. in 1559, with the Title of Primate of the Low-Countries. Cardinal Granville was the firſt Archbiſhop. The Cathedral Church is Conſecrated to St. Rombaut. Meckelen is alſo the place of the great Royal Council, Inſtituted by Charles, Duke of Burgundy, in 1473. There is the Parliament of the Knights of the Fleece, and the Princes Arſenal. Speaking of this Arſenal, I cannot but mention, that the Thunder having ſet on fire, in 1546, ſeveral Barrels of Powder, it broke out with ſuch fury, that it over-turned a Tower, and above 300 Houſes, dried up the Ditch about the Town, and cauſed extraordinary damage. Now the Inhabitants of Meckelen are free from all Taxes, for the good Service performed to Charles the Bold, Earl of Flanders, at the Siege of Nans upon the Rhine. Here have been two Provincial Councils, the firſt in 1570, the ſecond in 1607. *Guichardin's Deſcription of the Low-Countries. Joan. Baptiſta Gramage's Hiſtory of Malin. Valerius Andreas Bibl. Belg. MALIO, or Capo Malio, which is alſo named Capo de S. Angelo, a Promontory in Peloponneſus. It was ſo much dreaded, that it gave occaſion of this Proverb among the Ancients, Maleam legens obliviſcere quæ ſunt Domi. It is mentioned by Strabo, Pliny, and other Geographers, as well as Virgil, Æneid. 5.

MALLEOLUS, (Fælix) a Singer of the Church of Zurich, very much eſteemed in the XVth. Century, toward 1454. He compoſed ſeveral Books, Contra validos Mendicantes, Lotnardorum Deſcriptio, De Libertate Eccleſiaſtica, De Plebanis, &c Religioſis Mendicantibus, De Religioſis proprietariis præcepta Domini prædicantibus, &c. Addition to Trithem.us, *de ſcript. MALMESBURY, Lat. Maldunenſe Cœnobium, a Market and Borough-Town of Malmesbury Hundred, in the N. W. of Wiltſhire, ſituate on the Weſtern Bank of the River Avon, on the Confines of the County of Gloceſter. It took its Name and Riſe from Maidulph, a learned Iriſh Scot, who being highly admired both for his Piety and Learning, Erected here a School and Monaſtry, much improved by Adelme, his Scholar, for whoſe ſake Athelſtan, King of England, enriched the Monaſtery with Princely Donations. William of Malmesbury, who writ the Hiſtory of the Saxon Kings and Biſhops, before the Conqueſt, and after it, until his own time, was Chanter and Library-keeper of this Church, and Hobbs, our late Philoſopher, was born here. 'Tis now a Corporation, repreſented by its Burgeſſes in Parliament, and in a tolerable Condition, by reaſon of its Cloathing-Trade. It hath 6 Bridges over the River, and is almoſt encircled with it. It is 74 Miles from London.

MALPHI, or Amalphi, Lat. Amalphis, a Town of Italy, in the hithermoſt Province of the Kingdom of Naples, with the Title of Dutchy, and an Archbiſhop's See. It is ſituate upon the Mediterranean Sea, between Salerno, and the Cape Minerva, towards the Iſland Caprea. Amalphi was not well known before the XIIth. Century. The Emperor Lotharius II. taking up Arms in behalf of Pope Innocent II. againſt Roger, King of Sicily, who favoured the Antipope Anacletus, took Amalphi in 1133, by the means of 46 Gallies, which the Piſans brought to his help. The Town was plundered, but Lotharius would have nothing of the Booty, but a Volume of the Pandects, which the Emperor Juſtinian had cauſed to be compiled, and is now kept in the Library at Florence. Cardinal Peter, ſurnamed Of Capua, born at Amalphi, brought thither the Body of St. Andrew, about 1206. when he returned from his Journey, as Legate of the Holy See, together with the French and Venetians, who took Conſtantinople in 1203. This Town was famous by the Birth of John or Flavio Gioia, or Goia, who invented the Sea-Compaſs: Thus ſaith Anthony of Palermo, in Commendation of Amalphi, Prima dedit Nautis uſum magnetis Amalphis.

This happened about 1300. Amalphi belonged to the Houſe of St. Severin, then to that of Picolomini, afterwards it became a Royal City. And, at laſt, in this Century, it was made a Dutchy, in favour of Octavio Picolomini, one of the moſt famous Captains of this Age. Blondus lib. 15. hiſt. Sigonius lib. 11. *Reg. MALTA, or Maltha, Lat. Melita, an Iſland in the Mediterranean, upon the Coaſt of Africk, about ſixty Miles diſtant from Pachino, the moſt South Eaſtern Cape of Sicily, Twenty Miles long, and Ten broad, fortified with ſeveral Caſtles which defend its Coaſts and Havens. It hath ſeveral other Iſlands which depend upon it, and its principal Cities are Maltha, or La Valette, the Cite, the Bourg, and St. Michael, or La Sangle, with the Caſtles of St. Elme and St. Ange. Maltha, or La Valette, ſo called from the Grand Maſter, who built it, is the principal City, and one of the ſtrongeſt Places of the Univerſe. It is divided into the City, Bourg and Iſle, which are ſo many great Cities, ſeparated by an Arm of the Sea, which makes them ſo many Peninſula's, conſiſting of Rocks that riſe a great hight out of the Sea, and have ſafe Havens capable of whole Fleets. On arriving at Maltha, two of theſe Ports appear diſtinguiſhed by a high Point of Land, on which are built the New City and Caſtle of St. Elme; that on the Right Hand is called Marſamouchet, where Veſſels put in to refreſh themſelves; the other is the great Haven defended by the Caſtles of St. Elme, the Fortreſs of Terra della Bocca, and the Caſtle of St. Ange. The City is fine, well built, hath large Streets, and its Houſes are built of hewen Stone, with Platforms above. The Fortifications are alſo very regular, and nothing is omitted to render the place impregnable. The Grand Maſter's Palace, the Infirmerie, Conſervatory, Treaſury, St. John's Church, with its rich and magnificent Veſtry, the Inns, with divers other fine Churches, Palaces, and Gardens, adorn the City, and entertain the Curioſity of Strangers. The Caſtle of St. Ange defends the Entrance of the Port where the Gallies lie, and is ſo ſtrong, that Solyman could never take it. In the Bourg are the Arſenals for Sea and Land, the Palace of the Inquiſition, &c. There is a Biſhop in Malta, who is Suffragan of Palermo, Grand Prior of the Church, has many great Privileges, and is much conſidered. In the middle of the Iſland, is Citta or Civita Vecchia, which is alſo a Biſhop's See, and was formerly Capital of the Iſland. There are ſeveral other Boroughs and Villages here; and the Grand Maſters have a Houſe of pleaſure at Il Bochero. It appears from the Acts of the Apoſtles, that when St. Paul was caſt upon that Iſland, it was inhabited by Barbarians; and the Inhabitants pretend, that upon the Viper's coming out of the Sticks, and faſtening upon his Hand, he bleſſed the Iſland, that ſince that time it produces no Inſects. Malta was afterwards ſubject to the Kings of Tunis, but taken by the Emperor, Charles V. who gave it to the Knights of St. John of Jeruſalem in 1530. This Iſland produces no Wine, nor Corn; but Oats and Cotton in great abundance. The Water is brought in an Aqueduct, four Miles to Malta: So that it is ſaid, The Grand Maſter Valette formed the Body of the Town, but Vignancour gave it Life, by bringing the Water into it. The Order of the Knights of Malta, or Hoſpitallers of St. John of Jeruſalem, who have been ſo famous for defending Chriſtendom, had their Riſe thus: Some time before the Journey of Godfrey of Bouillon into the Holy Land, ſome Merchants of Melphis, in the Kingdom of Naples, who traded in the Levant, obtained Leave from the Caliph of Egypt to build an Houſe for themſelves, and thoſe of their Nation who came in Pilgrimage thither, on paying an Annual Tribute: After which they built two Churches, and received the Pilgrims with much Zeal and Charity. This Example being followed by others, they founded a Church in Honour of St. John, and an Hoſpital for the Sick; whence they took the Name of Hoſpitallers: And a little after that Godfrey of Bouillon took Jeruſalem, in 1099. they were diſtinguiſhed by Black Habits, and a Croſs with 8 Points; and beſides the ordinary Vows, took another, by which they obliged themſelves to defend Pilgrims. This Foundation was laid in 1104. in the Reign of Baldwin; and ſo their Order became Military, into which many of Quality did enter themſelves, and changed the Name of Hoſpitallers into Knights. After the Chriſtians loſt their Intereſt in the Eaſt, and that Jeruſalem was taken, the Knights retired to Margatt, and then to Acre, which they defended valiantly in 1290. Then they followed John, King of Cyprus, who gave them Limiſſon in his Dominions, where they ſtayed till 1310. and that ſame Year they took Rhodes under the Grand Maſter Foulques de Villaret, a French-man, and next Year defended it under Ame, D. of Savoy, againſt an Army of Saracens; ſince which, his Succeſſors have uſed theſe four Letters for Device, F. E. R. T. i. e. Fortitudo ejus Rhodum tenuit; and the Order was from this called Knights of Rhodes. The Defences made afterwards by the Grand Maſters, Aubuſſon and L'iſle Adam, will be found under their Names: But after that Solyman took it in 1522. they retired into Candia, thence into Sicily, and Pope Adrian VI. granted them the City of Viterbo for their Retreat; and in 1530. the Emperor Charles V. gave them the Iſle of Malta, to cover his Kingdom of Sicily from the Turks; which they accepted of, with the Conſent of other Princes, in whoſe Lands they had Poſſeſſions. In 1566. Solyman beſieged Maltha, and attacked it vigorouſly for four Months; but it was gallantly defended by the Grand Maſter, John de Valette Pariſot: So that though the Turks were Maſters of the Fort St. Michael, and had laid the Borough in Aſhes, yet after the loſs of four Months Time, 78000 Canon-Shot, 15000 Soldiers, and 8000 Sea-men, they retired in Confuſion. Since that time the Iſland hath been better fortified. The Knights conſiſted of Eight different Languages, or Nations; of which, the Engliſh were formerly the Sixth, but now there are only Seven. The firſt is, that of Provence, whoſe Chief is Grand Commendator of the Religion: The ſecond, of Auvergne, whoſe Chief is Mareſchal of the Order: The third, of France, whoſe Chief is Grand Hoſpitaller: The fourth, of Italy, and their Chief, Admiral: The fifth, of Arragon, and their Chief, Grand Conſervator: The ſixth, of Germany, and their Chief, Grand Bayliff of the Order: The ſeventh, of Caſtile, and their Chief, Grand Chancellor: And the Chief of the Engliſh was formerly Grand Turcopolier, or Colonel of the Cavalry. Thoſe who are admitted into this Order, muſt make Proof of their being Nobly deſcended, both by Father and Mother's Side, for Four Generations, by Lawful Marriage; except the Natural Sons of Kings and Princes. Amongſt the Knights, the Grand Croſſes are only thoſe who have a Right to be Candidates for the Dignity of Grand Maſter, who is their Superior, and the Sovereign of the Iſland. There are alſo Knights-Servants, who are taken from good Families: The Courage, both of the one, and the other, improves by their continual War againſt the Turks. Thoſe of this Gallant Order do never marry, yet they have continued ſince 1090. from which time, to 1663. there is a Chronological Succeſſion of 60 Grand Maſters. The Order conſiſts of Three States, viz. Knights, Chaplains, and Servants at Arms. There are alſo Prieſts of Obedience, who officiate in the Churches; Friar-Servants, who aſſiſt at the Offices; and Donnes, or Demi-Croſſes; but theſe are not reckoned as conſtituent Parts of the Body. This Diviſion was made in 1130. by the Grand Maſter, Raimond du Puy. This Order hath been often honoured with the Sons of Kings and Princes. The Chaplains, or Conventual Prieſts, are of Noble

Extraſt, or, at leaſt, of Conſiderable Families, and the Eccleſiaſtical Dignities of Malta are reſerved for them: Several of them have been Cardinals. The Servants at Arms are alſo of Noble Extraſt; but it is not neceſſary that they ſhould be ſo by Four Generations. The Government is mixed; partly Monarchical, partly Ariſtocratical: The Grand Maſter is Sovereign, coins Money, pardons Criminals, and gives the Places of Grand Priors, Bailiffs, Commendators, and Knights; who are all obliged to obey him in whatſoever is not contrary to the Rule and Statutes of the Order. But in Affairs of Importance, the Grand Maſter and Sacred Council are abſolute, and the Grand Maſter has only two Voices there, for his Pre-eminence. The Ordinary Council is compoſed of the Grand Maſter, and the Grand Croſſes; but at the full Council, two of the Eldeſt Knights of each Language attend. Every Language have ſeveral Grand Priories, and every Grand Priory a certain Number of Commanderies. The Knights are received into this Order, either by undergoing the Trials required by the Statutes, or by Diſpenſation: The Diſpenſations are either obtained by the Pope's Brieſ, or from a General Chapter of the Order; and are granted in Caſe of ſome Defeſt, as to the Nobility, of their Pedigree, eſpecially on the Mother's Side: And the Knights are received either as of Age, under Minority, or Pages to His Eminence the Grand Maſter. According to the Statutes, they muſt be 16 Years old compleat e'er they be received, enter into the Novitiar at 17, and make Profeſſion at 18: And they muſt either preſent themſelves to the Grand Chapter, or to the Provincial Aſſembly of the Grand Priory in which they are Born. The Proofs of their Nobility by four Deſcents on both Sides are made by the Arms of the Families, and an exaſt Enquiry into Regiſters, ſigned by the Grand Prior, and ſent to Maltha, where they undergo another Examination by the Knights of that particular Language, who ſometimes rejeſt them; and if they paſs, the Standing of the Knight is reckoned from that Day, he paying 250 Crowns in Gold to the Treaſury of the Order: But formerly they uſed to return the Money, if the Proofs were rejeſted. They make alſo a particular Enquiry whether any of the Candidate's Predeceſſors have during thoſe Four Generations, derogated from their Nobility, by Merchandize, Traffick, or being Bankers, excepting thoſe of Sienna and Genoua, to whom theſe things are not accounted Derogatory. The Candidate muſt alſo pay the Right of the Language to which he is admitted, according to the Rank that he enters in; as, Minor, Page, &c. They ſometimes admit Minors of one Year old, but it coſts them about 4000 Livres; which is never reſtored, neither in Caſe of Death, nor Change of Mind: And thoſe Minors have extraordinary Privileges. The Grand Maſter hath 16 Pages, who ſerve him from 12 to 16 Years of Age, and are conſtantly ſucceded by others. Thoſe who are Chaplains, Conventual Clerks, or Servants at Arms, cannot be admitted into the Order of the Knights: Nor yet thoſe who are Eccleſiaſticks, though they have all other Requiſites. The Church-men, who make the Second State, are received as Deacons, or Clerks-Conventuals, to ſerve in the Church of Maltha, from 10 to 15 Years of Age. The Deacons are obliged to prove that they have been legally baptized, and that their Parents live above the Common People: And the Charge of their Admiſſion is 100 Crowns in Gold. The Chaplains pay twice as much, beſides the Rights of the Language: And the Servants at Arms do the like. The Prieſts of the Obedience are received without any of thoſe Formalities; and are ſo called, becauſe they obey the Grand Prior, or Commander; who appoint them to Officiate in the Cures belonging to the Order. They wear a White Croſs upon their Cloaks, and enjoy the Privileges of the Religion: And of this Number, ſome are Gentlemen. The Servants of the Office are thoſe who are employed in the Hoſpital, or on ſuch Occaſions. There are alſo Donnes, or Demi-croſſes, who Marry, and wear a Golden Croſs of Three Branches; thoſe of the Knights having Four, as have alſo thoſe of the Servants and Chaplains: But they muſt not wear them without a particular Licenſe from the Grand Maſter; but all the Knights, of what Rank or Quality ſoever, are obliged, after making their Vows, to wear on the Left Side of their Cloak, or Waſtcoat, a Croſs of white waxed Cloth, with eight Points; which is their true Badge, that of Gold being only for Ornament. When they go to War againſt the Turks, they wear, above all, a red Caſſock, with a great white Croſs before and behind, without Points; which are the Arms of the Religion. The ordinary Habit of the Grand Maſter is, a ſort of Caſſock of Tabby or Cloth, open before, and tied about him with a Girdle, at which hangs a great Purſe, to denote Charity to the Poor, according to the firſt Inſtitution of the Order: And over this he wears a Velvet Gown; inſtead of which, he wears a long Cloak when he goes to Church on Solemn Feſtivals; and on the Left Side, againſt his Stomach, he wears a White Croſs, with eight Points, or Croſs Patee. The reſt of the Knights give him the Title of Eminence, and his Subjeſts call him His Highneſs. The preſent Grand Maſter is of the Family of Caraffa, was eleſted in 1680. and maintains the Dignity as becomes a Great General, and a Sage Sovereign. He contributed much to the Viſtory which the Chriſtians obtained over the Turks at the Dardanelloes, being then General of the Gallies of Maltha. He was the firſt who put the Enemy to rout, and with his Squadron of ſeven Gallies took eight of thoſe belonging to the Turks, with three of their Galleaſſes, which he brought to Maltha in Triumph. The Paſſage betwixt this Iſland and Sicily is about 25 Leagues broad: It is 190 from the neareſt Coaſt of Africa, and 500 Eaſt of the Streights. Aity's Hiſtory of the Order. Other Authors ſays, That when they enter into this Order, they vow to God, the Virgin Mary, and St. John Baptiſt, Obedience, Poverty, and Chaſtity. They muſt take ſpecial Care of the Sick and Strangers; and muſt receive none into their Order, but ſuch as are ſound, and ſtrong of Body. The Priors chuſe the Grand Maſter, who is only ſubjeſt to the Pope in Spirituals, but has a Dependence on all thoſe Secular Princes, in whoſe Dominions they have any Revenues. If the Suffrages at his Eleſtion be equal, they chuſe an Umpire, who determines it. His Yearly Revenue is 10000 Ducats, beſides ſome Thouſands of Ducats out of the Common Treaſury. Their Gallies generally contain 500 Men a-piece, and 16 Canon. And he acknowledges the Kings of Spain, and both Sicilies, as his Proteſtors; to whom he preſents a Falcon every Year, and is obliged to ſuppreſs Pirates by their Agreement with the Emperor Charles V. *Crantz. MALVASIA, or Napoli di Malvaſia, anciently called Epidaurus; a City of the Morea, near the fartheſt South-Eaſtern Cape, called Cape Maleo; built upon a Rock, whence it hath a pleaſant Proſpeſt, both into the Sea, and the adjacent Country. It is alſo ſurrounded with the Sea, and joined to the Continent by a Timber-Bridge; yet it has Springs of good freſh Water, ſufficient both to ſerve the City, and their Gardens. It is only approachable on the South-ſide, and there it is defended by a tripple Wall of extraordinary Strength. It was anciently famous, and much frequented, on Account of Æſculapius's Temple. It was taken from the Emperor of the Eaſt by the Venetians and French, An. 1204. and re-taken again from William, a French Baron, to whom it was given by the Latins. Whereupon he reſigned his Right to the Venetians, who attacked it with a powerful Fleet, took, and kept it till 1540. that they ſurrendred it to the Turks, to purchaſe a Peace. In the Candian War they took it again by Storm, plundered, burnt it, put moſt of the Inhabitants to the Sword, carried away the Canon, and then left it; the Turks afterwards rebuilding it. In 1689. the Venetians beſieged it again, under the Command of the Doge Moroſini; who being called home by the Senate, on Septemb. 14. left it blocked up by three Forts, and a Squadron of light Frigats. On the 10th of Auguſt, 1690. it was ſurrendred to the Venetians, after two Years Blockade; being the laſt Town in the Morea that withſtood them. Coronelli, in his Deſcription of the Morea, adds, That it has a very commodious Haven, defended by a Fortreſs: That it produces as much Corn as ſerves to maintain 60 Perſons, which, conſidering its natural Strength, are enough for a Gariſon: And that it has ſtore of excellent Wine, nothing inferior to that of Candia.

MALVENDA, (Thomas) a Dominican, born in the Dioceſs of Valencia in 1565. He was eſteem'd a Learned Perſon, and wrote De Anti-Chriſto, lib. XI. De Paradiſo. Comment. in SS. Script. T. V. Annales Ordinis Prædicatorum, &c. Nichol. Anton. Bibl. Hiſp. Script.

MALVERN-Hills. Theſe Hills part Glouceſterſhire from Herefordſhire, and are of ſome Note for the admirable Ditch drawn upon them, by Gilbert Clare, Earl of Glouceſter, to divide his Lands from the Church of Worceſter.

MALVEZZI (Virgilio) born at Bononia in Italy, acquir'd a great deal of Reputation by his Learning and Parts. This Marquis (for ſuch was his Quality) was a general Scholar, and underſtood Law, Phyſick, Mathematicks, Philology, Muſick, and Divinity. He was likewiſe a Soldier, and imploy'd alſo in ſeveral Negotiations by Philip IVth. of Spain. He wrote ſeveral Ingenious Treatiſes, as *Diſcorſi Sopra Cornelio Tacito. Il Romulo. Il Tarquino Superbo. Il Davide Perſequitato. Ragioni per li quali li letterati credono non poter avantagiarſi nella corte. Il ratratto del privato politico Chriſtiano, &c. Bumaldi Bibl. Bonon. MAMERCUS, a Tyrant of Catana; who, after Dionyſius was vanquiſhed, and Catana yielded, did ſurrender himſelf to Timoleon, on Condition that he ſhould not accuſe him, but ſuffer him to plead his Cauſe before the Syracuſians: But as ſoon as he began to ſpeak what he had premeditated, the People cried out, and hiſſed at him; ſo that finding them inexorable, he threw off his Robe, and running through the Middle of the Theatre, attempted to have killed himſelf by daſhing out his Brains againſt the Stairs, but failed, having only broke his Head; and was put to Death by the People as a Common Thief. Polyæn.

MAMERE, or Mamre, a fertile and pleaſant Valley of Palæſtine, 15 Furlongs from Hebron Southward, and 250 Furlongs (which is about 31 Miles) from Jeruſalem. It is famous in the Sacred Hiſtory for Abraham's dwelling there under Tents, where he harboured the three Angels, who foretold told the Birth of his Son Iſaac: There it was he entertained them under a Tree, which St. Jerom calls a Turpentine-Tree; whence this Valley was alſo named, The Valley of the Terebinth. The ſame Author affirms, That the Tree was there ſtill in his Time, in the Reign of Conſtantius Junior. Some People had built an Altar there for Offerings; but Conſtantine the Great hearing of that Superſtition, by his Mother Helena, cauſed the Cuſtom to be aboliſhed, and built a noble Temple there. Though this Tree is periſhed, ſome others ſprung from its Root, which are ſhewn at this Day, to know the place where it was. Euſeb. Nier. cap. 26.

MAMERTINES, a People of the Iſland Samos, who ſettled themſelves near Meſſina: For which Reaſon the Meſſinians were called Mamertines; and the Fare of Meſſina, Mamertinum Fretum; which we meet often with in Ancient Authors. Martial mentions the good Wine of that Country, Lib. 13. Epiſt. 114.

MAMERTINUS, an Orator, lived in the IVth. Century, under Conſtantine, and his Sons, and Julian the Apoſtate. Under the laſt of theſe he was made Conſul; and, in Gratitude, he pronounced this Panegyrick to him, which begins thus: Et ſi ſuo te Imperator, & cunctos qui conſilium tuum participant poſſe mirari, &c.

MAMERTUS, Archbiſhop of Vienne in Dauphine, was a very Eminent and Holy Prelate. He liv'd in the Vth. Century, and was Brother to Claudianus Mamertus, who wrote Three Books, De Statu Animæ. Mamertus reſtor'd the Faſt to a proper Solemnity and Diſcipline, and order'd it to be kept in the Three Days, in which Proceſſions were made, which they call'd Rogations, being but diſorderly manag'd before, Mamertus held a Synod in 474. to regulate this matter; upon which Sidonius Apollinaris wrote a Letter to him, to congratulate his Succeſs in ſettling theſe Proceſſions. Gregor. Turon. lib. 2. Hiſt. cap. 24. Ado in Chron. Baron. Annal. &c.

MAMMEA, (Julia) Mother to the Emperor Alexander Severus; famous in Hiſtory becauſe of her great Wit and Courage. She was no Enemy to the Chriſtian Religion: She ſent for Origen, who came and diſcourſed her upon that Head; ſo that the Emperor being brought up under her Care, was not unacquainted with it. Afterwards ſhe became Cruel and Covetous: She cauſed the Father-in-Law of Alexander, her Son, to be murthered, and baniſhed her Daughter-in-Law into Africa, that ſhe might alone enjoy the Sovereign Prerogatives. Her Covetouſneſs made her Son odious to the Soldiers, and was, in part, the Occaſion of his Death: But thoſe who conſpired againſt Alexander, and murthered him, killed Mammea alſo, in 235. Lampridius in Alex. Herodianus, lib. 5. Euſebius Hiſt. lib. 6. cap. 15.

MAMMELUCS, the Name of the Militia of the Sultans of Egypt: It ſignifieth, a Servant, or a Soldier. They were commonly Captives, taken from among the Chriſtians, and inſtructed in Military Diſcipline, and did not marry. Their Power was great; for, beſides that the Sultans were commonly choſen out of their Body, they diſpoſed of the moſt important Offices of the Kingdom. It is reported, That the firſt of them being come out of Circaſſia, to ſettle in Egypt, began to be known there towards An. 1250. when St. Lewis made War againſt the Saracens. They were formidable above 200 Years, till at laſt Selim, Sultan of the Turks, routed them, and killed their Sultan Campſon, near Aleppo in Syria, Aug. 20. 1516. They afterwards choſe Tomumbey, whom the ſame Selim routed, Jan. 27. 1517. And when he had taken the City Cairo, he cauſed Tomumbey to be hanged, whom the Arabians had found hidden in a Fen; and ſo put an End to the Empire of the Mammelucs, which had laſted 267 Years. Peter Martyr. Angleri Hiſt. Leg. Epig. Paulus Jovius. Chalcondylas.

MAN, the Iſle of Man, by Ptolemy called Monada; by Pliny, Monabia; by Beda, Menavia; by Gildas, an old Engliſh Writer, Eubinoa; by the Welſh, Menaw, and by the Inhabitants Maning; is a conſiderable Iſland, ſituate in the Iriſh Sea, betwixt the Three Kingdoms of England, Scotland, and Ireland, about 10 Leagues diſtant from each. The Form of it is long and narrow, in length, from North to South, 30 Miles; and in breadth but 10, where broadeſt. On the Eaſt ſide it faces Cumberland, Lancaſhire, and Cheſhire, in England; on the Weſt, the Province of Leinſter in Ireland; Northward, ſome of the South Parts of Scotland; defended by Two Caſtles; the whole containing 17 Pariſhes, and 5 Market-Towns. The Air is cold and ſharp, the Iſland being expoſed on all ſides to cold Winds, on the Sea-Coaſt Eaſtward eſpecially. The Land is high, and the Coaſt well guarded with Rocks. Through the Middle runs a Ridge of Hills, from the higheſt Part whereof one may ſee the Three Kingdoms in a clear Day. The Soil, by the Induſtry of the Inhabitants, yields Proviſions enough, Corn, Cattle, Red-Deer, abundance of Conies and Wild-Fowl; And the Sea, on the other Side, furniſhes it with plenty of Fiſh. Turf is the common Fuel. It is well watered with Rivers, and ſtocked with Havens; the Chief whereof are, Ramſey, Laxi, and Douglaſs-Haven, that lie Eaſtward; Ruſhin-Caſtle Southward, and Peel-Caſtle on the Weſtern Coaſt. As to the People, they have much of the Iriſh in their Language, and Way of Living: But the beſt Sort live moſt like the Engliſh: In this generally happy, That all Litigious Proceedings are baniſhed from among them, their Differences being quickly determined by certain Judges, called Doemſters, without Writings, or Fees: And if it be an intricate Cauſe, then it is referred to 12 Men, whom they call The Keys of the Land. The Inhabitants in general have a very good Character; not inclined either to Lewdneſs, Cheating, or Thieving: So that every Man poſſeſſes his own in Peace and Safety, none living in fear of loſing what he has. They are alſo reported to be generally devout and zealous in their Religion, reſpectful to their Teachers, and conſtant to their Religious Exerciſes, both Publick and Private. This Iſland belonged firſt to the Scots, and was conquered from them in 1340. by William Montacute, Earl of Salisbury, who enjoyed it, with the Title of King of Man. Afterwards it was ſold to the Lord Scroope; who being convicted of Treaſon, forfeited it to the Crown. Henry IV. gave it to Henry Piercy, Earl of Northumberland, the laſt that held it with the Title of King. But he proving alſo falſe to his Sovereign, the King gave it to William Lord Stanley; whoſe Grand-Child, Thomas Lord Stanley, was created Earl of Darby; in whoſe Houſe this Eſtate has continued hitherto, with the Title of Lord of Man, though a King in effect; for he has here all kind of Civil Power and Juriſdiction over the Inhabitants, and the very Nomination of the Biſhop of Man; but ſtill under the Fief and Sovereignty of the Crown of England: The Biſhop Elect muſt be preſented to the King for his Royal Aſſent, then to the Archbiſhop of York for his Conſecration; which is the Reaſon why the Biſhop of Man is no Lord of Parliament; none being admitted to that Honour, but ſuch as hold immediately of the King himſelf.

MANALIS Lapis, feigned by the Poets to be the Gate of Hell, thro' which the Manes aſcended to the Gods above. It was alſo the Name of a Stone, by the Temple of Mars, at Rome; which being drawn into the City in time of Drought, did forthwith occaſion Rain. Feſtus.

MANAR, a ſmall Iſland, with a Town of the ſame Name, in Aſia, in the Indian Sea, near Ceylan. The Portugueſe have a Fort there, but the Hollanders are Maſters of all the reſt of the Country over. Baudr. in Addit. Lexic. Geogr. Du Val Geogr.

MANASSES, King of Judah, ſucceeded his Father Hezechias, A. M. 3338. He was but 12 Years old when he began to Reign, and was addicted to the moſt abominable Idolatries and Impieties, till towards 3361. the King of Aſſyria took him Priſoner, and carried him into Babylon, where his Humility and Repentance appeaſed God, ſo that he was reſtored to his Kingdom. He is ſaid to have cauſed the Prophet Iſaiah to be cut in two in the Middle by a Wooden-Saw. But after his Repentance he purged the Temple, deſtroyed all the Monuments of Idolatry which he himſelf had erected; and endeavoured to reclaim the People, whom he had debauched. He died, A. M. 3392. in the 67th. Year of his Age, and the 55th. of his Reign. 2 King. cap. 21. 11. Paralip. cap. 33. Joſeph. Antiq. Jud. lib. 10. cap. 4. *Sulpitius Severus Hiſt. MANCHESTER, Lat. Mancunium, a very rich, populous, and beautiful Market-Town, upon the Eaſt-ſide of the River Spolden, near the Borders of Cheſhire, at the South-end of the County of Lancaſter, in the Hundred of Salford. This has been an Ancient Roman City; which being ruined in the Saxon and Daniſh Wars, was re-built by Edward the Elder, about 920. Here has been a College founded by Thomas, Lord De la Ware, refounded and confirmed by Queen Elizabeth, and is ſtill in Being. There is alſo a Collegiate-Church. Charles I. added another Honour to this Place, by creating Henry Montague, Earl of Mancheſter, in 1625. Which Honour is now poſſeſſed by Edward, his Grand-Child, the Third Earl of this Family. This Town is much reſorted unto for Linen and Woollen Cloth; as alſo for Cottons. It is 137 Miles from London.

MANCINI, (Paulus) a Roman, a great Lover of Learning. He founded the Academy of the Humouriſts. He lived in 1600. and married Vittoria Capoti, and afterwards being a Widower, he became a Prieſt. The youngeſt of his Sons married Cardinal Mazarini's Siſter. Bumaldi Bibl. Bon. Script.

MANDAB, or Mandel, is a Mountainous Iſland, lying in the Mouth of the Red-Sea, between Africa and Arabia Fælix; the higheſt Part of which looks towards the South. It ſtretcheth it ſelf to the Northward about 12 Miles, but a little bending to the Weſt. That Part of the Paſſage which lies on the Weſt of it, towards Africa, is full of Shoals, and ſmall Iſlands, to Zalegh Ecquent and Bacle; ſo that it is unpaſſable for Ships on that ſide. On the Eaſt-ſide, towards Arabia, it is ſo narrow, that one may know his Friend from the Shoar. The Ancients had a Story, That if any Ship, having Iron-Nails, paſſed by this Mountain, the Mountain would draw the Ship to it, and fix her there immovably. Nub. pag. 22, 23. Mandav.

MANDANA, Aſtyages's Daughter. She dreamed once, That ſhe drowned all the World with her own Water: And at another time, That out of her Boſom ſprung a Vine, which covered all the Earth with its Boughs. Which moved her Father to marry her to Cambyſes the Perſian, by whom ſhe had Cyrus. Herodotus, lib. 1.

MANDANIS, an Indian Philoſopher, being invited by Alexander's Meſſengers to come to the Banquet of Jupiter's Son, with Promiſe of great Reward if he obeyed, and Threats if he did not: He anſwered, That Alexander, though he commanded a great Part of the World, was not Jupiter*'s Son: That he cared not for that Man's Gifts, who had not enough to ſatisfy himſelf; neither did he value his Threatnings: That* India was ſufficient to maintain him, if he lived; and that he was not afraid of Death, but rather deſired it, that he might exchange an infirm Old Age for a better Life. Strabo.

MANDARINS, the Lords of China, who are commonly Governors of ſome Province. The King of China chuſes his Mandarins out of the Loitia's, who are the moſt Learned of Confucius's Sect. In their Government, which is always at a great diſtance from the Place they are born in, they have a glorious Palace; and in the Chief Hall there is the King's Statue upon a high Pedeſtal, to which the Mandarin kneels before he ſits upon the Bench. They are ſo much reſpected, that no Body ſpeaks to them, but upon his Knees. There are Military Mandarins, who Command in the Wars; and Learned Mandarins, that are Judges. Tavernier's Relation of Tunquin. The Mandarins are of nine Sorts, and diſtinguiſhed from one another by different ſorts of precious Stones in their Caps and Girdles. And there are great Lords, ſuperior to thoſe Mandarins, who are alſo known by round Jewels in their Girdles, and a Sapphire in the middle. P. Magaillan's New Relation of China.

MANDESLO, or Mandelſlo, born in the Country of Meckleburg, in Lower Saxony, was at firſt Page to the Duke of Holſtein, afterwards Gentleman of the Chamber, to the Ambaſſadors that this Duke ſent into Muſcovy and Perſia in 1636. The King of Perſia offered him a Penſion to keep him in his Court, but he got Leave to go to Ormutz, and from thence into the Indies, according to his Deſign before he left Germany. He hath writ a Relation of his Journey, which he began in January, 1638. and ended in May, 1640. when he returned to Holſtein. The Hiſtory whereof is printed in the 2d. Volume of the Relation of Olearius*'s Treatiſe*.

MANDEVILLE, (Sir John) an Engliſh Phyſician, went to Travel about 1332. and ſpent 34 Years in Aſia and Africa. At his Return he publiſhed a Relation of his Travels, with an Account of what he had ſeen remarkable in Egypt, Arabia, and Perſia, &c. He writ it himſelf in Latin, Engliſh, and French; and it hath been tranſlated ſince into divers other Languages. He died at Leige, Novemb. 17. 1372. Balæus. Pitſæus.

MANDINGUE, a Kingdom of Africa, in Nigritia, between Niger, or Sanguer, Northward, and the Kingdom of Magualetta Southward. The chief Town is Mandigue, or Sango, as ſome others will have it.

MANDON, a Town and Kingdom belonging to the Great Mogul in India.

MANDOWAY, Lat. Mandova, a very ſtrong Town or City in the Kingdom of Bengala, in the Eaſt-Endies, ſeated upon a very high Rock, of great Circuit, on the Weſt-ſide of the moſt Weſterly Branch of the Ganges, 15 German Miles from Satigan to the Weſt. Zelabdim Echebar, the Great Mogul, beſieged this Place 12 Years before he took it. Hackluit.

MANDREREI, a great River in the Iſland of St. Lawrence or Madagaſcar, which after having run a conſiderable Courſe, falls into the Sea on the North-ſide of the Iſland, near the Province Carcanoſſi. Flacour Hiſt. de Madag.

MANDRO, a certain Boat-man, who came to be Emperor by his aſpiring Fortune. Which gave Occaſion to the Proverb againſt thoſe who, being advanced beyond their Merit, forget themſelves. Hoffman.

MANDROCLES, a famous Architect of Samos, an Iſland of the Ægean Sea. He was in great Reputation towards the 68th. Olympiad, 508 Years before the Birth of Chriſt. He built the Bridge which Darius cauſed to be made over the Sea in the narroweſt Paſſage of the Thracian Boſphorus. This Bridge, made up of many Barks joined together, covered all the Breadth of the Sea; and was ſo ſtrong, that the Army of Darius, though very numerous, went ſafely over it, from Aſia into Europe. Mandrocles, that he might perpetuate the Memory of ſuch a Work, that could hold but few Years, drew a Picture of the Bridge, and repreſented the King of Perſia in the middle, and the whole Army croſſing over. Tzetzes Chil. 11. Felibien's Lives of Architects.

MANELFI (John) a Phyſician much eſteemed under Pope Vrban VIIIth. for his Learning and Writings; the moſt conſiderable of which are, De Fletu & Lachrymis. De Helleboro. Vrbanæ Diſputationes. Menſa Romana, &c. Ghilini.

MANES, ſome Divinities among the Ancients, which many think to have been the Souls ſeparated from the Bodies: And others, the Infernal Gods, or the Gods of the Dead. So ſaith Servius, who thinks they are ſo named by Antiphraſis, from an old Latin Word Manum, which ſignifieth Good: Like as the Parcæ, quod nemini parcant. We read, that Orpheus, in his Hymns, calls the Infernal Gods, Sweet and Benign, Μειλιχίους· and that the Deceaſed among the Greeks were called Χρήστοι, very Good. For which Reaſon, Plutarch, in his Greek and Roman Queſtions, expounds the Phraſe in the Alliance betwixt the Lacedæmonians and Arcadians, Μὴ ἐξεῖναι Χρηστοὺς ποιεῖν· That it ſhould not be lawful to put any Body to Death: Whereas, in the proper Sence of the Word Χρηστοὺς, it ſhould be thus tranſlated, That it ſhould not be lawful to make any very good Men. Others diſtinguiſhed thus, That the Celeſtial Gods were the Gods of the Living; and the Manes, thoſe of the Dead: Or, That the Manes were the Gods of the Night, and reigned betwixt the Heaven and the Earth, preſiding over the Vapours of the Night: And from them came the Latin Word Mane, for the Morning. They alledged alſo, that they delighted to torment Men. Apuleius ſays of them, That they were Souls ſeparated from the Bodies, and became Dæmons, or Genii; ſometimes called Lemures. And ſuch of them as were kind to their Families were named Lares Familiares; and thoſe who for their Wickedneſs were condemned to perpetual Wandrings, Larvæ; but it being uncertain whether thoſe Souls were Lares, or Larvæ, they were called, Manes, and honoured as Gods. The Lares, called Penates, were worſhipped in particular Families, under the Images of Silver, Braſs, or Earthen Puppets. The Romans worſhipped the Manes, as preſiding over Tombs, and taking Care of the Dead. And ſometimes it is taken for the State of the Dead, or Place of their Abode. As Virgil in that Verſe:

Hæc manes veniet mihi ſama ſub imos.

By all which it appears how indiſtinct the Pagans were in the Notions of their own Divinity; and that they conceived an Idea of Souls, as being a certain light kind of Subſtances, reſembling Shadows, but having the ſame Organs, and capable of the ſame Functions as when in the Body. And indeed, according to their Imagination, they muſt have fanſied them to be only a ſort of Refined or Aereal Bodies. Which Error was imbibed by ſome of the Primitive Chriſtians, who aſcribed much ſuch a kind of Body to God himſelf; and were therefore called Anthropomorphites. Spon. Recherches Curieuſes d'Antiquité.

MANES, the Father of the Manichæans, began to ſpread his Errors in the IIId. Century, which he embraced thus. One Terebinthus, Diſciple to Scythianus, a Magician, finding that in Perſia, where he was forced to retire out of Palæſtina, the Prieſts, and Learned Men of the Country, did ſtrongly oppoſe his Errors and Deſigns, retired into a Widow's Houſe, where he was murthered. This Woman, being Heireſs to the Money and Books of Terebinthus, bought a Slave named Curbicus, whom ſhe afterwards Adopted, and cauſed to be inſtructed in all the Sciences of Perſia. This Man, after the Death of the Woman, changed his Name to blot out the Memory of his firſt Condition, and took that of Manes. He pretended himſelf an Apoſtle of Chriſt, and that he was the Comforter promiſed by our Saviour. He held, that there were two Principles; the one of Good, from whence proceeds the Good Soul of Man; and the other of Bad, from whence proceeded the Evil Soul, and likewiſe the Body, with all Corporeal Creatures. He allowed his Diſciples to wallow in all Impurities, forbid giving Alms to any who were not of his own Sect. He attributed the Motions of Concupiſcence to the Evil Soul. He gave out, that the Souls of his Followers went through the Elements to the Moon, and afterwards to the Sun, to be purified, and then went to God, to whom they did re-join; and thoſe of other Men, he alledged went to Hell, to be ſent into other Bodies. He alledged, that Chriſt had his Reſidence in the Sun; the Holy Ghoſt in the Air; Wiſdom in the Moon, and the Father in the Abyſs of Light. He denied the Reſurrection, and condemned Marriage. He taught Pythagoras his Metempſychoſis, That Chriſt had no real Body, That he was neither Dead nor Riſen, and, That he was the Serpent that tempted Eve. He forbid the uſe of Eggs, Milk, Cheeſe, and Wine, as Creatures proceeding from the bad Principle. He uſed a different Form of Baptiſm from that of the Church. He taught that Magiſtrates were not to be obeyed, and condemned the moſt lawful Wars. It were next to impoſſibility, to rehearſe all the impious Tenets of that Hereſiarch; inſomuch, that Pope Leo ſaid of him, That the Devil reigned in all other Hereſies; but he had built a Fortreſs, and raiſed his Throne in that of the Manichees, who embraced all the Errors and Impieties that the Spirit of Man is capable of; for, whatever Profanation was in Paganiſm, carnal Blindneſs in Judaiſm, unlawful Curioſity in Magick, or Sacrilegious in other Hereſies, did all center in that of the Manichees. This Man promiſed the King of Perſia, that he would cure his Son; the Father ſent away all the Phyſicians that might have cured him, and the Patient died ſoon after. Manes was clapt in Priſon, whence he eſcaped; a little while after, he was apprehended by the King of Perſia's Servants, who cauſed him to be flea'd alive, and his Carcaſs to be thrown to the wild Beaſts. The Manichees were divided into Hearers, and the Elect; of the Elect, Twelve were called Maſters, in imitation of the Twelve Apoſtles; there was a Thirteenth, who was a kind of a Pope among them. In the IVth. Century, the Emperors made Laws againſt thoſe Hereticks, who renewed their Opinions in Africa, Gaul, and at Rome, where a Council was held againſt them. The Ancients do not agree, as to the time of this Heretick's firſt appearance; but, Spanheim ſays, it was in the time of Probus, a little before Diocleſian; that his Hereſy was a Compound of the Pythagorean, Gnoſtick, and Marcionite Opinions, that he held Two Gods, who were Contrary and Co-eternal, one the Author of Evil, and the other of Good. Clemens Alexandrinus, and other Authors, charge them with aſcribing a Body to God, and alledging, that he was ſubſtantially in every thing, though never ſo baſe, as Mire, Dirt, &c. but was ſeparated from them by Chriſt's coming, and by the Manichees eating the Fruits of the Earth, whoſe Inteſtines had in them a cleanſing and ſeparating Vertue. They maintained alſo, that there had been a great Combate between the Prince of Darkneſs and Light, wherein they who held for God, were taken Captives, and that he laboured ſtill for their Redemption. He held likewiſe, That the Sun and the Moon are Ships; that the Soul of a Man, and of a Tree, are the ſame in Subſtance, and both of them a part of God; that Sin is a Subſtance, and not a Quality or Affection, and therefore Natural, and not acquired by the Fall. He held likewiſe a Fatality, and deny'd Free-Will. Epiphan. Theodoret. Herebertus and Liſoius taught the ſame Errors in France in the XIth. Century, as is mentioned elſewhere. St. Epiphanius, hær. 6. St. Auguſtin hær. 46. *de Morib. Manich. &c. MANETHO, an Egyptian, born at Heliopolis, lived in An. Rom. 450. in the time of Ptolemæus Philadelphus, and a little after Beroſus, whom he may probably have ſeen. He was a Prieſt, and writ the Hiſtory of Egypt in Greek; he is often mentioned by Joſephus,. and ſeveral others. Julius Africanus abbreviated his Hiſtory; what Annius of Viterbo made of it, were a ſhame to mention, it is ſo deſpiſed by the Learned. Joſephus lib. 1. Antiq. c. 1. lib. 1. *contra App. &c. MANETTI (Janus, or Janutius) was Diſciple to Emanuel Chryſolorus in the XVth. Century. He was very much eſteemed by Pope Nicholas, who favoured learned Men. Manetti had great Skill in Languages; he Tranſlated the Pſalms out of Hebrew, and the Introduction of Porphyry, with the Categories of Ariſtotle, out of Greek into Latin. He publiſhed ſix Books, De Illuſtribus Longævis, four of the Life of Nicholas V. two of the Hiſtory of Genoua, three of that of Piſtoia, the Lives of Socrates, Seneca, Dante, and Boccacio, &c. He died at Naples in 1459. Hugolinus Verrinus, *Leander Alberti deſcript. MANFREDONIA, a Town in the Kingdom of Naples, in the Province of Capitanata, near Mount Gargan. It was built by Mainfroy, Natural Son to the Emperor Frederick II. in 1250. near the Ruins of Siponto, where the Archbiſhop's See was Eſtabliſhed. It has a good Haven, with a Fort that withſtood the famous Lautrec. The Turks took it in 1620, and ruined it; but it was repaired ſince, and fortified. Leander Alberti deſcript. Ital. Voyage of Italy.

MANFREDUS: See MAIMFROY.

MANGALOR, a Town of the Kingdom of Canara, upon the W. Coaſt of the Peninſula of Indus, on this ſide the Gulph. It is one of the ſtrongeſt Places of the Kingdom. The Portugueſe have a rich Factory there; where they receive half the Cuſtom granted by the King of Canara, for the benefit of the Commerce. Dellon's Relation of the Eaſt-Indies.

MANGANUM, Gr. Μάγγανον, a Machin, often mentioned by Heſychius, being the moſt forcible of all the Engines uſed before Guns. It was ſometimes called Baliſta, Tormentum, Funda, Petraria, and Catapulta, according to the various Services it was uſed in. This Engine was improved to that height, as to throw a Stone of 360 Pound weight; and was uſed both in Taking and Defending Towns, as alſo on Ship-board. They were of various Forms, and there is one of them kept in the Arſenal at Baſle. Lipſius Poliorcet.

MANHEIM, a Town in Germany, in the Palatinate of the Rhine, between that River and the Neckar, within three Leagues of Spire. Having been taken, and ruined by the Spaniards in the beginning of the XIIIth. Century, it was rebuilt and fortified by Charles Lewis, Elector Palatine. It was taken and abandoned by the French, in 1689, and ſince that time, they intirely ruined it. It ſtands 3 German Miles from Spire to the N. and as much W. of Heidelberg.

MANIACES, a General under Michael Paphlago, Emperor of Greece, who defeated 50000 Saracens in Sicily, and recovered that Kingdom; but being afterwards taken off by Calumnies, the Emperor loſt it again under Stephen, another of his Generals. Zonaras.

MANICHEES, Hereticks: See MANES.

MANIHLE, which the Spaniards call Manilla, the head Town of the Philippine Iſlands in Lucon, with an Archbiſhop's See. It belongs to the Spaniards, who got it in 1572. There is alſo the Streights of Manihle, called ſo from this place.

MANILIUS, a Learned Hiſtorian, who lived in the time of Marius and Sylla. Cicero quotes him in his Oration for Roſcius. Pliny praiſes him much in the Tenth Book of his Natural Hiſtory, Chap. 11. beginning thus: Primus atque diligentiſſimus togatorum, de eo prodidit Manilius, Senator ille maximus, nobilis doctrinis doctor, &c. Varro lib. 4. & 6. de L. 1. Arnobius lib. 3. Voſſius de hiſt. Lat. lib. 1. cap. 9. Geſnerus in Bibl. Poſſevinus in Appar. &c.

MANILLE, or Lucon, an Iſland of the Indian Sea, with a City of that ſame Name, being Capital of the Philippine Iſlands. It is about 350 Leagues in Circuit, and fruitful in Corn and Rice, and Garden-Fruits of all ſorts; but the Pears, Figgs, Citrons, and Oranges of this Place, are admirable. It hath abundance of Cattle, Fowl and Game, of all ſorts; as alſo Parrots, Eagles, and Faulcons, but is much annoyed with Crocodiles. The Inhabitants make Wine as ſtrong as that of Spain, from Liquor of Palm-Trees, whoſe Branches they cut to let the Liquor run out. The City lies at the bottom of a Bay, on a Point of Land, being waſhed by the Sea on one ſide, and the River Araud, which carries great Barges, on the other. It hath a fine Haven, and its Houſes are built of Stone, according to the Modern Faſhion. Here are many ſtately Churches, a College of Jeſuits, and another of Jacobins. It is alſo an Archbiſhop's See, who is Metropolitan of all the Philippines, and hath three Suffragans; he preſides alſo as Vice-Roy in the Council of that Iſland. The Caſtle of St. Jago, mounted with Cannon, defends the Haven, and there are about 2000 Spaniards here, Gariſon and all; 20000 Chineſe Tradeſmen do conſtantly reſide here, beſides thoſe who arrive Annually, in 500 Ships, and follow their Commerce from December to April. The Japanois do alſo Trade hither, and though not in ſuch great numbers, yet the Spaniards are more jealous of them. Here are greater Galleons built, than thoſe of the Mediterranean, becauſe they have more Materials for that end. The Spaniards have been in Poſſeſſion of it ever ſince 1572, and the Dutch attempted it, but in vain, in 1649. Mandeſlo.

MANINGTREE, a Market-Town in the County of Eſſex, in the Hundred of Tendring.

MANIPE, an Idol worſhipped in the Kingdoms of Tangut and Barantola in Tartary. It hath Nine Heads, which riſe Monſtrouſly in the manner of a Pyramid, there being three in the firſt and ſecond row, then two, and one at the top of all. Kircher of China.

MANLIANS, a Family very famous at Rome, generally believed to be deſcended from Manlius, Son-in-Law to Tarquin, to whom he retired, being forced out of Rome in 245, according to Titus Livius. Plutarch mentions another, whom Cato, the Cenſor, forced out of the Senate, becauſe he had ſpoken indecently to a Woman. Many others of that Name have been Conſuls and famous Men. As, C. Manlius Cincinnatus, Conſul, An. Rom. 274, who was killed fighting againſt five Nations, Enemies to the Romans, yet he obtained the Victory. Manlius Imperioſus was made Dictator in 391, and deſigned a War againſt the Hernici, on no other Account, but from an ambitious deſire to Triumph; but the Tribunes of the People withſtood him, and conſtrained him to lay down his Office. A. Manlius being Conſul in 513. overcame the Faliſci in ſix Days time, which adminiſtred occaſion of Triumph; he killed 15000 of them, ſeized half their Lands, and left them the reſt. And there was another Manlius, Tribune of the People, who made that called Lex Manilia, in favour of Pompey. Polyb. Plutarch. Plin.

MANLIUS, ſurnamed Capitolinus, a Roman Conſul and Commander; he bore Arms being but 16 Years old, and deſerved 37 times to be rewarded for his Valour. He it was, who being awaked by the Geeſe when Rome was taken by the Gauls, reſiſted them that they ſhould not take the Capitol; for which Reaſon, the Romans gave him the Surname of Capitolinus, and Conſervator of the Town. But he was accuſed to have hidden the Treaſure of the Gauls, and to have aſpired to the Crown; for which he was thrown headlong from the Capitol. It was An. Rom. 370. in the XCIXth. Olympiad. Titus Livius lib. 5. & 6. Florus lib. 1. cap. 13. & 26. Eutropius lib. 2. cap. 13. Valerius Maximus lib. 6. cap. 3. Plin. lib. 7. cap. 18. Aurelius Victor, de Viris Illuſtr. cap. 24.

MANLIUS, ſurnamed Torquatus, was Son to another Manlius, called for his Severity Imperioſus, the ſame whom the Senate choſe in 391. to drive a Nail in the Temple of a certain God, that the Town might be delivered from a ſad Plague. He was naturally Dull, and of a bad Utterance, for which cauſe he was kept in the Country. This Severity of the Father, moved Pompey, Tribune of the People, to accuſe him before the Judges. Torquatus hearing this, came into the City, and being entred into Pompey's Houſe, drew his Poignard, and made him ſwear that he would let fall the Accuſation againſt his Father. He was a Military Tribune, when Sulpitius was Dictator. He killed a Soldier of the Gauls, who had Challenged him, and pulled his Golden Chain, or Necklace, from him, whence he was called Torquatus. He was ſeveral times Conſul afterwards, and during one of his Conſulſhips, An. Rom. 414. whilſt he was purſuing the War againſt the Latines, he Commanded the Head of his Son to be cut off, becauſe he fought againſt his Command, though he had got the Victory. He overcame the Enemies near the River Veſiris, at the ſame time that his Colleague, Decius Mus, devoted himſelf to Death for his Country. Another time, he refuſed the Conſulſhip, ſaying, That he could no longer bear the Vices of the People, nor the People his Severity. It was indeed extraordinary, and it became Proverbial, Manliana Imperia. Titus Livius lib. 7. Valerius Maximus lib. 8. cap. 9. Aurelius Victor, De Viris Illuſtr. cap. 28. Florus, &c.

C. MANLIUS, called Vulſo, a Roman Conſul, An. Rom. 565. together with M. Fulvius Nobilior. He was ſent to Govern the Province allotted to Scipio Aſiaticus in Aſia. He was ſo ambitious of Triumphing, that of his own accord, he declared War againſt the Piſidians and Galatians, who helped Antiochus. The Senate finding his Proceedings unjuſt, refuſed him the Triumph, after he had overcome thoſe Nations; but the People granted it. Chiomara, the Wife of their King Ortiagonte, was made a Slave, and forced by the Captain who took her; but having redeemed her ſelf, ſhe revenged the Affront done to her. See CHIOMARA. Titus Livius lib. 38. Florus lib. 2. Aurelius Victor, De Viris Illuſtr. cap. 53.

T. MANLIUS, a great Roman Lawyer, who being Judge betwixt his own Son and the Macedonians, after hearing, expreſſed himſelf thus, Seeing it is proved, that Silanus, my Son, hath extorted Money from the Macedonians; I, henceforth, Diſown him as mine, and Command him never to ſee my face any more. Silanus was ſo much grieved, that he hanged himſelf next Night, neither would his Father be preſent at the Funerals, but at the very time when he was carried to his Grave, he gave Advice to his Clients who conſulted him. Val. Max. de Severitate.

MANOSQUE, a City of France in Provence, Lat. Manueſca. It is ſeated in a fertile Country, within a League of Durance, in the Dioceſs of Ciſteron. Some Authors take it to be the Bormanicum of Pliny, or the Alaunicum of the Itinerary of Antoninus and Peutinger. Others think it to be the Machas, or Machaovilla in Gregorius Turonenſis and Paulus Diaconus. It was probably built by the Barbarians, who made frequent Incurſions into Provence. It was re-built in the VIIIth. Century by the Inhabitants of three or four neighbouring Hamlets. Manoſque belongs to the Knights of Malta, by Conceſſion of the Counts of Forcalquier, who commonly wintered in this Town, where they had a Palace. There is in it at this time, two Pariſhes, and ſeveral Religious Houſes. Father Jean Columbi, a Learned Jeſuit, hath publiſhed the Hiſtory of Manoſque, his Country.

MANS, upon Sarte, a Town in France, the Chief of the Province of Mayne, with a Biſhop's See. The Latines call it Cenomanum. Scaliger, Cluverius, and almoſt all the Geographers, take it to be the Vindinum of Ptolemy. The Ancient Cornelius would make us believe, that Mans was built by Sarthon, Grandſon to Samothes, King of the Gauls; and that afterwards having been ruined by the Factions of the Druides and Sarronides; it was built again by Lemant, King of the Gauls, who gave it his Name. But there is little Credit to be given to ſuch Fables. We muſt however own Mans to be one of the moſt ancient Towns of the Gauls, 25 Miles South of Alencon, 48 N. W. of Tours. Gregorius Turonenſis lib. 5. Aimonius in hiſt. Du Cheſne Antiq. des villes. Robert & San. Marthe Gall. Chriſt.

MANSFELD, a Town and County of the Empire in Higher Saxony. It got the Name from a famous Caſtle in that Country, called by the Germans, Graffſchafft Mansfeld. It lies between the Principality of Anhalt, Merſebourg, and Thuringia Propria, &c. There were formerly Counts of Mansfeld, but the Duke of Saxony pays now a Penſion to thoſe of that Family, and he is Maſter of the Country, where there are four Chief Towns, Mansfeld, Leimbach, Eiſleben, and Wipren. The Houſe of Mansfeld hath had many famous Lords, and it is divided into ſeveral Branches, ſome Roman Catholicks, others Proteſtants. The German Hiſtorians mention Hoyer, Count of Mansfeld, under the Empire of Henry II. of a Gigantick Stature, and matchleſs Valour, who quitted the Saxons, amongſt whom he was a famous General, but was killed in a Battel againſt them, An. 1115. at which time, Henry, the Emperor, was defeated. In the XVIth. Century, Albert, Count of Mansfeld, declared for Luther, and was one of the Proteſtant Generals. He obliged the Duke of Brunſwick to raiſe the Siege of Bremen, in 1547. In 1550, he put Relief into Magdeburg, beſieged the Emperor Charles V's Army under Maurice, Elector of Saxony. He had ſeveral Sons, all great Captains, but eſpecially Wolrad, who acquired great Fame by his Arms. He was Lieutenant-General of the Army ſent in 1569, to aſſiſt the French Proteſtants under the Duke of Bavaria, who dying not long after, he Commanded in Chief, and fought the Battle of Moncontour. Erneſt, Count of Mansfeld, made a great Figure in the German Wars, and eſpouſed the Quarrel of the Elector Palatin, who was choſen King upon the Revolt of Bohemia. He rallied the ſcattered Troops after the Defeat at Prague, reſtored Courage to the Proteſtants, and put the Imperialiſts in a Conſternation, taking ſeveral places. He was reckoned more ſucceſsful in ſetting an Army ſpeedily on foot, than in Battel, yet he ceaſed not, during his Life, to diſturb the Repoſe of the Imperialiſts, and had ſeveral Battels with Count Tilly and Wallenſtein, the Imperial Generals, but was defeated; having nevertheleſs raiſed ſome more Troops, he ſent to the Duke of Weymar, and deſigning to go to Venice, he died in a Village betwixt Zara and Spalatro. Mansfeld ſtands 38 Miles S. W. of Magdeburg, 44 N. E. of Erford. Cluvier. Thuanus, Strada. The Country of Mansfelt is, by ſome, thought to derive its Name from Mannus, Second King of the Germans. Munſter ſays, there is a vaſt Lake in this Country, the figure of whoſe Fiſh, Frogs, and other Reptiles, are ſo accurately found by Nature, in ſome Rocks of Free-Stone, which are formed hereabouts, that they are not diſtinguiſhable at firſt view. Here are alſo Mines of Gold, Silver, and Copper.

MANSFELD, a good, large, well built, and inhabited Market-Town in Brexlow Hundred, in the County of Nottingham, and Foreſt of Sheerwood. This Town drives a good Trade for Malt, 109 Miles from London.

MANSFELDT, or the Iſland Mansfeldt, in the Northern America, in Hudſon's Bay. It was diſcovered, not long ago, by the Engliſh.

MANSO, or Le Manſo, (Johannes Baptiſta) Marquiſs De Ville, a Neapolitan. He bore Arms for the Duke of Savoy, then for the King of Spain, his own Prince. Then returning to Naples, he addicted himſelf to Studies, and was one of the Founders of the Academy de gli Ozioſi at Naples. He compoſed ſeveral Treatiſes; as, the Life of Torquato Taſſo, l'Erocallia, La Poeſie Nomiche, Paradoſſi, &c. He died, Decemb. 28. 1645. Aged near 84. Lorenzo Craſſo Elog.

MANTE, called The Pretty, a Town of France, upon the Seine, in the Dioceſs of Chartres, 12 Leagues below Paris. It had formerly the Title of an Earldom. There was a Cittadel which Henry IV. cauſed to be demoliſhed at the Interceſſion of the Pariſians. The Church, which is Collegiate, was built and founded by Jeanne, Daughter of France, whoſe Monument is on the ſide of the great Altar. Charles V. King of France, in 1376. Founded there the Monaſtery of the Cæleſtines, where there is a Hill famous for the beſt French Wine. It has a Stone-Bridge over the Seyne. It is 12 Miles beneath Paris to the Weſt, and 16 above Roan to the S. E. Spicil. Tom. III.

MANTICA, (Francis) a Cardinal, born at Udina, in Friuli, in 1534. He was counted a great Lawyer, and wrote De Conjecturis Voluntatum Ultimarum, Lib. XII. Lucubrationes Vaticanæ, ſeu de Tacitis & Ambiguis Conventionibus, Lib. XXVII. Ghilini Teat. de Huom. Lett. Laurenzo Craſſo Elog. de Huom. Lett.

MANTINEA, a Town of Arcadia in Morea. It is famous for the Battel of the Thebans, Commanded by Epaminondas, An. Rom. 391. Some think that this Town is that now called Mendi. This City was compoſed at firſt of the Inhabitants of five other Cities, and by the Argives ſurrounded by a Brick Wall, which Agis, King of Sparta, ruined, by turning the River againſt it, and entring by the Breach, took the City. It was afterwards called Antigonia, from Antigonus, the Guardian of Philip, King of Macedonia, and Father of Perſeus. Hadrian, the Emperor, reſtored it to the old Name of Mantinea. Ptol. Long. 44. 20. Lat. 35. 36.

MANTOUA, a Town of Italy in Lombardy, the Metropolis of the Dutchy of that Name. The Country known under the Name of Mantouan, is on both ſides the Po, between the State of Modena, that of the Church, the Demeſn of Venice, and the Milaneſe. It is above 50 Miles in length, and 40 in breadth. The Land is very fruitful. The Town of Mantoua is built in the middle of the Lake, made by the River Mincio, ſo that it is acceſſible only by Two Bridges built upon the Lake, which makes it very ſtrong. It is fine and ancient, the Circuit is about Four Miles, it hath Eight Gates, Eighteen Pariſhes, Forty Religious Houſes, with a Synagogue for the Jews. The Duke's Palace, ſo famous for its rich Furniture, is the greateſt Ornament of the City, which is as it were divided into Two Parts. The Roof of the Dome, or Cathedral Church, is partly gilded, and partly of an Azure Colour; that of St. Dominick, the Town-Houſe, the Mill of the Twelve Apoſtles, and the Manufactures of this City, are much renowned by all Strangers. There are ſeveral Lordſhips which have been diſmembred from this Dutchy, in Appennage to younger Sons. The Family of Gonzagues do now enjoy the Soveraignty, having baniſhed the Tyrants thence, ſince 1327, when Louis de Gonzagues killed Paſſerino Bonacolſa, Tyrant of Mantoua, after which he obtained the Lordſhip of it, under the Title of Vicar of the Empire. Charles V. Erected it into a Dutchy, in 1530. In 1629, the Imperialiſts made War upon the Duke of Mantoua, and Lewis XIII. of France aſſiſted him. July 18. 1630. Colalto, the Imperial General took this City, and the Soldiers plundered it, and ruined incomparable Workmanſhip. Mantoua did ſcarcely ever recover this Loſs. The Duke's Palace, one of the moſt Magnificent of Italy, being pillaged, before which time, he had Seven different ſorts of Furniture for each Apartment, beſides an infinite number of Pictures, Statues, Cabinets, Silver, and Gold Plate, which were all carried off. Amongſt his Curioſities, there was an Unicorn and an Organ of Alabaſter. Six Tables, each of them three Foot: The firſt of them was all Emeralds: The Second, Turquoiſes: The Third, Jacinthes: The Fourth, Sapphires: The Fifth was made of Amber: And the Sixth of Jaſper. The City of Mantoua is reckoned 300 Years older than Rome. The Duke of Mantoua takes the Title of Duke of Mantoua and Montferrat, of Prince and Vicar Perpetual of the Holy Empire, of Marquiſs de Gonzague, Viadana, Gazolo, and Dozola, of Lord of Luzara, Earl of Rodiga, &c. He is the Chief of the Order of the Knights of the Blood of Chriſt, which Duke Vincent Inſtituted in 1608. Mantoua has been the Country of ſeveral famous Men, among others of Virgil and *Caſſ. The Council of Mantoua.

The Election of Pope Alexander II. having been diſturbed by that of Cadaloe, Biſhop of Parma, whom the Emperor, Henry IV. had named Pope under the Name of Honorius II. it was neceſſary to look for a Remedy to reſtore Peace to the Church. For that end, a Council was called at Mantoua, where the Election of Alexander was Confirmed, and the Antipope Condemned. Pius II. held a Conference there, to adviſe and find out means, how to carry on the War againſt the Turks, which began in 1459.

MANTURNA, a Goddeſs worſhipped by the Romans, to oblige the Bride to ſtay at home. Hoffman.

MANUCIUS (Aldus) lived towards the end of the XVth. Century, and the beginning of the XVIth. He was a Roman, born of the Family of the Manucii, Printers at Venice, famous for their Learning. He it was, who laboured ſo much to baniſh Barbarity out of Italy, and to reſtore Learning. He publiſhed a Greek Grammar, ſome Notes upon Horace, Homer, &c. He had Tranſlated ſome Treatiſes of St. Gregory Nazianzen, and St. John of Damaſcus. Manucius publiſhed ſome Works of the Ancients, with an excellent Preface of his own. He was a very laborious Man, married the Daughter of Andrea Aſculano, Printer at Venice, and begot Paulus Manucius, whom I ſhall mention hereafter. Aldus died at Venice very old, about 1513, or 1514. Geſnerus Bibl. Le Mire de Scriptor. Sæc. 16.

MANUCIUS, (Aldus) Junior, was the Son of Paul, and Grandſon to Aldus Manucius. He writ ſeveral Pieces both in Latin and Italian; as, his Commentaries upon Cicero, a Treatiſe of Orthography, Three Books of Epiſtles, &c. He was eſteemed one of the greateſt Geniuſes of his time. John Victor de Roſſi, who calls himſelf Janus Nicius Erythræus, tells melancholy Stories of him, in the Panegyrick that he hath writ of this great Man. To get Victuals, he was forced to ſell the Excellent Library that was in his Family, which his Father, Grandfather, and Great Uncles, had collected with ſo much care. It is reported, that it contained 80000 Volumes. The Piſani pretend they have it. Aldus Manucius died at Rome in 1597. where he was only commended for his Learning, without any other Recompence. Janus Nicius Erythræus Pinac. 1. *Imag. MANUCIUS, (Paulus) Son to Aldus, was born at Venice in 1512, and was not unworthy of his Predeceſſors. He kept the Vatican Library for ſome time; publiſhed the Works of Cicero with Notes and Commentaries. De Legibus Romanis, De Dierum apud Romanos veteres ratione, De Senatu Romano, De Civitate Romana, De Comitio Romanorum. Some Epiſtles both in Latin and Italian. He died at Venice 62 Years old, in 1574. Thuanus.

MANUEL MOSCHOPULUS, who left ſeveral Greek Treatiſes; amongſt the reſt, Dictiones Atticæ. Notæ in Heſiodum. Synopſis in vitam Euripidis, &c. Geſnerus in Bibl. Poſſevinus in Appar. &c.

MANUEL, one of the General Officers in the Army of Theophilus, Emperor of the Greeks. He ſignalized himſelf on ſeveral Occaſions. This Emperor fighting againſt the Saracens, and obſerving the Rout of his Army, was ſo poſſeſs'd with Grief, that he remained without Motion, as if he had been out of his Wits; ſo that the brave Manuel, not knowing how to reſcue him out of the Hands of the Enemies, bethought himſelf of threatning, that he would kill him, if he would not follow him, and by this means ſaved him. After the Death of this Emperor, in 841, he was one of the chief Counſellors of the Empreſs Theodora, and a great Stickler to reſtore Image-Worſhip. Maimbourg hiſt. of the Iconocl.

MAPES, an Engliſh-Man, Canon of Salisbury, and afterwards Pre-Centor of Lincoln, and Arch-Deacon of Oxford, liv'd in the XIIIth. Century. He wrote ſeveral Treatiſes, and particularly ſome Satyrical Pieces againſt the Popes, the Court of Rome, and the Ciſtercians. Bale, Leland, &c.

MAR, a County in the North of Scotland, 60 Miles long from E. to W. It is bounded on the North with Murray and Buchan, on the Eaſt with the German Ocean, on the South with Merns and Angus, and on the Weſt with Athol; the River Dee waſhes it on the South, and the Done on the North; part of the Country is Mountainous and Barren, and part Fruitful. The Cities of Old and New Aberdeen, are the Places of moſt Note in the County; both as being the Seat of the Muſes, and for their Great Salmon-fiſhing. This County hath given Title of Earls to ſeveral Families, and often to the Natural Sons of the Kings; but ſince Queen Mary's Reign, it hath been enjoyed by the Chief of the Areskins.

MARABA. The Syrians aſcribe to this Author, who was of their own Nation, the Syriack Tranſlation of the Old Teſtament, and Ebed Jeſu doth alſo attribute to this Maraba, whom he calls Rabba the Great, the Commentaries upon Geneſis, the Pſalms, Proverbs, and many of St. Paul's Epiſtles. Ebed Jeſu, Catalogue of the Chaldean Writers.

MARABOTTI (Frederick) born at Genoua. He was a good Soldier, and particularly conſiderable in the Stratagemical Part of War; a famous Inſtance of which we have, when he Commanded the Genoueſe Fleet againſt the Gibelines: For, diſcrying the Enemy at a diſtance, he ſheer'd off in the Night, and ordering the Admiral's Lanthorn to be ſet up in a Shalop, bid ſome of his Men Row her towards the next Shoar, while the reſt of the Fleet ſail'd off another way without Light. In the mean time the Gibelines ſteering after the Lanthorn, which they imagin'd at the Head of the Genoueſe Fleet, were mightily ſurpriz'd the next Day, when they found nothing but this Shalop, which had deceived them all Night, and cover'd the Retreat of *Marabotti. MARABOUT, the Name of the Idolatrous Prieſts in Guinea, and in the Country of the Negro's in Africa. The Great Marabout, is the Second Perſon in the Kingdom of Ardres in Guinea, who determines both Spiritual and Political Affairs.

MARACAIBO, or Marecaye, a Town in the Province of Venezuela, in Caſtil dor, in the Southern America, upon the Coaſt of the Lake Marecaye. It is very well built, and contains about 4000 Inhabitants, and 800 Men fit to bear Arms. They have a Governor ſubject to him of Caraco. The Spaniards build Ships here, wherewith they drive a Trade through all the Indies, and even into Spain it ſelf. The Harbor is the moſt commodious in the World. Oexmelinus Hiſt. of the Weſt-Indies.

MARACAYBO, a vaſt Lake in South America in Venezuela, called by the Spaniards, Lago de Noſtra Sennora, from the Bay of Mexico, between Cap San Roman to the Eaſt, and Cap de Coquibocca to the Weſt; it entreth the Continent 40 Leagues, and is 10 over in moſt parts, the Mouth of it is half a League over, and filled by the Tides of the Ocean. By a River that falls into it, there is a Trade between New Granada, and the Bay of Mexico. Laet. p. 685.

MARAGNAN, an Iſland of the Southern America, towards the North of Braſil, at the Mouth of the River Miari. The Province which is near that River, is called The Capitany of Maragnan. The French poſſeſſed that Country formerly, but were expelled ſince by the Portugueſe, who are now Maſters of it, as well as of Braſil. The Fort called St. Luys del Maranhan, is the moſt conſiderable in the Country. The Hollanders ſurprized it in 1641, but the Portugueſes have retaken it ſince. The Iſland of Maragnan is 45 Miles in compaſs, and lies from the Line to the South 2. 30. Into this Bay there falls Three fine Rivers, Mounin, Taboucouri, Miari. They are very great and rapid, and the Sands on the Eaſt part of the Iſland, render it of difficult Acceſs. It had 27 Villages inhabited by about 12000 Indians. The Air is very ſerene, and is neither ſubject to Drought nor Cold. When the Sun returns from the Tropick of Capricorn to that of Cancer, it Rains here, for the moſt part, forty Days, or more, which is their Winter; and in the Summer, the Eaſtern Brezes blow from Sun-riſing to Sun-ſetting, and moſt ſtrong at Noon. It has plenty of Springs, and the Earth is ſo fertile, that, without help, it brings forth abundance of Maze. Its Merchandice is Saffron, Cotton, Balſam, Pepper, Tabaco. It conſiſts of ſmall pleaſant Hills, covered with fine Woods. Laet. p. 620.

MARAGNON, a great River of the Southern America. Some call it Xauxa. It ſprings out of the Lake Chincacocha in Perou, and falls into the River of the Amazons, according to Peter Texeira. Some Modern Relations affirm, That what we have been told concerning this River, hath very little of truth in it, and that it is a Gulph rather than a River.

MARANA, a fortified City in the Borders of Iſtria, with a Haven. In 1617, when the Venetians were at War with Ferdinand, Arch-Duke of Auſtria, Captain Maſſy had plotted to ſurrender it to the Imperialiſts, but was diſcovered and prevented. Du Val. Geog.

MARAN-ATHA. It is made up of two Syriack Words, that ſignify The Lord Cometh. This Expreſſion was uſed in the great Anathema, by which a Man was excluded all Humane Society, and Curſed to the utmoſt. The Icem-attha in the Talmud, ſignifieth the ſame thing; and they add a Prayer to God, That he would be pleaſed to puniſh the Man that is thus Excommunicated. Memoires Scavans. Hammond New Teſt.

MARANDUS, (John) a famous Aſtrologer in the XVth. Century, was born at Bourg in la Breſſe. Peter Matthieu gives this Account of him in his Hiſtory of King Lewis XIth. "Amongſt other things, for which the Reign of Lewis XIth. "was remarkable, there was one John Marandus, an Aſtro-"loger, who caſt Lewis's Nativity, and foretelling the Ad-"ventures of his Life for Thirty Years together, gave notice "of his Rebellion to his Father, King Charles VIIth. This "Marandus was very much valued by Amedeus VIIIth. and "firſt Duke of Savoy, who was afterwards an Antipope; this "Aſtrologer having foretold the Schiſm of the Church, and "the Wars of France and England. *Guichenon Hiſt. de Breſſ. MARANS, a Town in France in the Country of Aulnis upon the Sevre of Niort. It is ſeated in the Fens. It hath a Caſtle, lies 2 Leagues from the Sea, and 4 from Rochel.

MARATA, a ſmall Kingdom of the Northern America. It lies near the New Kingdom of Mexico, and the Mar Vermeja, the Red-Sea. Sanſon in Geog.

MARATHON, called at this Day Marathona, according to Sophianus and Maraſon; as ſome others believe, a ſmall Town of Attica. It is famous for the Victory which 12000 Athenians, under the Command of Miltiades, obtained over the Perſian Army of above 500000 Men, An. Rom. 264, and in the 3d. of the LXXIId. Olympiad, the 6th. of the Month Boedromion, which falls towards the end of our September. Herodotus lib. 6. Thucydides lib. 1. *Cornelius Nepos Life of Miltiades. St. MARC, Evangeliſt, St. Peter's Diſciple, preached the Goſpel in Libya, Thebais, Pentapolis, Marmarica, and almoſt through all Egypt. He Founded the Church of Alexandria, and is alledged to have been the firſt Biſhop thereof. He is often mentioned in the Acts of the Apoſtles, and St. Paul's Epiſtles. The moſt common Opinion of the Fathers is, That he writ his Goſpel at Rome. Tertullian ſaith, that in his time, it was called the Goſpel of St. Peter, St. Mark writ his Goſpel in the Year of our Salvation 43, and ſuffered Martyrdom April 25. 62. His Body was tranſported from Alexandria to Venice, whereof he is the Patron. The Authors do not agree about this Tranſlation. Euſebius lib. 2. hiſt. cap. 15. & 16. & in Chron. St. Jerom cap. 8. Cat. Gelaſius in Decret. St. Auguſtinus, Iſidore. St. Marc, though there be ſomething of Roman in his Name, is, by St. Jerom, ſaid to be of Jewiſh Parents. Papias, according to Euſebius, thinks, that he was Converted by St. Peter; but 'tis certain, that he was one of his conſtant Attendants, and thought to have been his Amanuenſis. Nazianzen thinks, that he wrote his Goſpel at Rome, at the Requeſt of the Chriſtians in thoſe Parts. Euſebius ſays, that St. Peter ſent him to plant Chriſtianity in Egypt; that he took up his principal Reſidence at Alexandria, and had great ſucceſs. But the Θεραπευταὶ, whom Epiphanius, Jerom, Baronius, and others, will have to be Chriſtians, engaged in a more than ordinary ſtrict way of Living by St. Mark, and conſequently the Patterns of a Monaſtick Life, which they draw from the Account given of them by Philo the Jew, are by Dr. Cave, and that with much reaſon, as may be ſeen in his Life of St. Mark, thought to be a Sect of the Jews, and probably Eſſenes, who choſe a Contemplative and Abſtemious Life, and therefore retired into Gardens and Groves for that end; but at the ſame time, he thinks that thoſe Preparatories did facilitate their Converſion to Chriſtianity, and contribute to the Evangeliſts ſucceſs. St. Metaphr. and others, ſay, That he preached alſo in Libya with great fruit; and returning to Alexandria, provided for Succeſſors in the Miniſtry: But, at Eaſter, when the Feaſts of Serapis were ſolemnized, the People, being tranſported with Zeal for the Honour of their Idol, broke in upon St. Mark, as at Worſhip, dragged him through the Streets by the Feet to a Precipice, and put him in Priſon that Night, where he had an Heavenly Viſion, which ſupported him. Next Morning they renewed their barbarous Treatment, till the Fleſh being torn off from his Bones, his Spirits failed, and he expired amongſt their Hands, and then they burnt him. The Venetians pretend to have his Relicks, and have Erected one of the ſtatelieſt and richeſt Churches to his Memory that is in the World. Authors are not agreed about the time of his Martyrdom, but Irenæus being poſitive that he out-lived Peter and Paul, 'tis ſuppoſed, that his Death was in the latter end of Nero's Reign. His Goſpels being called St. Peter's, is, becauſe he faithfully writ what St. Peter informed him of, and imitates his Stile; or, according to ſome, becauſe writ, and ordered to be read in the Churches by St. Peter, but the time of its being written, is not agreed on amongſt Authors. St. Jerom ſays, that the laſt Chapter of this Goſpel, or, at leaſt, part of it, was wanting in all the Greek Copies, and rejected by ſome, as diſagreeing with the other Goſpels, but he ſhews their Conſiſtency. 'Tis alſo debated, whether it was Originally writ in Greek or Latin; that which gives moſt countenance to the latter is, a Note at the end of the Syriack Verſion, but that is ſuſpected as an Addition. The Venetians pretend to the Original Greek Copy written by his own Hand, but the Letters are ſo worn, that they are now not legible. In the Bibliotheca Patrum, there is a Liturgy which goes under the Name of St. Mark; the reaſon why this Apoſtle is made the Author of it, is probably, becauſe it was receiv'd in the Church of Alexandria, Founded by him. The Life of St. Barnabas likewiſe, Tranſlated into Latin by Bede, is attributed to him; however, it ſeems more likely that this Life was written by John Mark mention'd in the Acts of the Apoſtles. Cave's Lives Ap.

St. MARC, Pope, a Roman born, ſucceeded Sylveſter I. and kept the Pontificate but 8 Months, and 22 Days. The Epiſtle that goeth under his Name, is eſteemed falſe by the Learned. Baronius in Annal. A. C. 336. Bellarminus lib. 2. de Rom. Pontif. cap. 14. Du Cheſne, Papyrius Maſſon, Platina in his Life, &c.

MARC, Biſhop of Epheſus, in the XVth. Century. He was in the Council of Florence, in 1439, where he ſtoutly defended the Schiſm of the Greeks, ſaying, That the Latins were Hereticks, for having added this Word filioque to the Symbol. Being returned to Conſtantinople, he died miſerably. Spond. A. C. 1439, 1440.

MARC, Deacon of the Church of Gaza, lived towards the end of the XIVth. Century. Porphyrius, his Biſhop, ſent him to Conſtantinople, in 389, to perſuade the Emperor Arcadius, that the Idol Temple of Marnas in Gaza ſhould be pulled down. St. John Chryſoſtomus, to whom Marc made his Applications, acted with the Emperor after his ordinary Zeal. Marc compoſed a Relation of this Affair, mentioned by Baronius. It is found alſo in Metaphraſtes and Surius, in the Life of Porphyry, Biſhop of Gaza, Feb. 16. but the Learned are not perſuaded of the truth of theſe Acts.

MARC, an Heretick, the worſt of all Valentine's Diſciples, in the IId. Century. By Magick Illuſions, he is ſaid to have cauſed Blood to appear in the Cup of the Euchariſt. He took a ſpecial care to ſeduce Women, and chiefly the Rich and Handſom, under pretence of making them partake of the Spirit of Prophecy, and of that great and heavenly Grace, whereof, he ſaid, that he was the Fountain. He got vaſt Sums from the Rich, and perſuaded the Handſom, that by conſenting to his laſcivious Deſires, they acted piouſly, and were filled with the Holy Ghoſt. Euſebius lib. 4. hiſt. cap. 20.

MARC, an Heretick, in the IVth. Century, born at Memphis in Egypt. He profeſſed the Errors of the Gnoſticks, and went up and down the World to ſpread them. He came into Gaul, and afterwards into Spain, where many Women, the Chief of which was Agape, profeſſed his Error, as well as the Rhetorician Helvidius, and Priſcillianus, the Patron of the Priſcillianiſt's. Sulpitius Severus lib. 2. *hiſt. St. MARC, an Order of Knighthood at Venice, repreſented in their Coat of Arms, by a winged Lyon, Gules, with this Motto: Pax tibi, Marce Evangeliſta. This Order is Conferred upon thoſe only, who have done the Commonwealth ſome conſiderable Service. The Knights are Burgeſſes of Venice, and have the Privilege to bear in their Coat of Arms, the Muffles of a Lion at the top of the Helmet, which the Venetians eſteem mightily. Juſtiniani's *Hiſtory of Venice. MARC, Biſhop of Arethuſa, one of the Principal Abettors of Arianiſm, in the IVth. Century. He was preſent at the Council of Sirmium, in the Year 352, and was charg'd with drawing up the Confeſſion of Faith made there; and afterwards, upon ſeveral Occaſions, he engag'd himſelf in the Defence of Arianiſm: 'Tis ſaid, That he preſerv'd Julian's Life in the beginning of the Reign of Conſtantius; notwithſtanding which Piece of Service, he was afterwards put to Death when Julian came to the Crown: The cauſe of this ſeverity was as followeth; Marc having formerly pull'd down a fine Heathen Temple, was call'd to Account for't, and order'd by Julian to Re-build it at his own proper Charge: To decline this Inconvenience, Marc quitted the Town, but underſtanding that People were in ſome trouble about him, he came back, and appear'd publickly before the Heathens; upon this he was drag'd about the Streets, and the Soldiers toſſing him up in the Air, receiv'd him upon the Points of their Swords, and being not yet perfectly dead, they beſmear'd him with Honey, and putting him in a Basket of Ruſhes, hung him up in a place expos'd to the Flies. Had not the Glory of his Sufferings been tarniſh'd with his Heterodoxy, he might have been compar'd with the moſt Illuſtrious

Martyrs: And after all, 'tis poſſible he might come off from his Hereſy before he died; and, indeed, the Commendation which Gregory Nazianzen gives him, makes his Converſion not improbable. *Gregor. MARC, a Hermit, liv'd in the IVth. Century. He was Contemporary with St. Chryſoſtome and St. Nilus. Some Authors believe that he was the ſame whom Palladius mentions to have ſeen, and that he was remarkable for his extraordinary Age, and yet, notwithſtanding, could ſay the Old and New Teſtament by heart. We have nothing further to add, with any certainty, of him, excepting that there are Nine Treatiſes of his in the Bibliotheca Patrum, and that he was call'd an Aſcetick. Photius affirms likewiſe, that he wrote a Book againſt the Melchiſedechian Hereticks. Photius Cod. 200. *Pallad. in Hiſt. MARCA, (Peter de) Preſident of the Parliament of Navarre, afterwards Biſhop of Conſeras, Archbiſhop of Tholouſe, and nominated to the Archbiſhoprick of Paris, liv'd in the XVIIth. Century, and was one of the greateſt Men for Genius and Learning in his time. His Merits, and the great Service he did the Church and Crown of France, preferr'd him to thoſe conſiderable Poſts he was poſſeſs'd of. He was born at Paw in Bearn, in 1594, of a conſiderable Family. He ſtudi'd the Law at firſt, and was Councellor, and afterwards Preſident of the Parliament of Paw. His being concern'd in ſome Diſputes about Religion, made him apply himſelf to the Study of Church-Hiſtory, in which, as his Works ſufficiently ſhew, he made an extraordinary Progreſs. He died in 1662, as he was preparing to take Poſſeſſion of the Archbiſhoprick of Paris. He wrote the Hiſtory of Bearn. De Concordia Sacerdotii & Imperii. De Primatu Lugdunenſi. Catalania illuſtrata: Marca Hiſpanica; and ſeveral other very learned Pieces. Monſ. Baluzius, who wrote his Life, and other Learned Men, give an extraordinary Character of him. Faget. &c.

MARCELLA, one of the Illuſtrious Women that lived under the Tuition of St. Jerom, Daughter to Albinus. She became a Widow ſeven Months after her Marriage, and would never Marry again, though much preſſed by her Relations, and other conſiderable Men, as Cercalis, amongſt the reſt, who would have married her. She lived a very retired Life. Paula had the happineſs of her acquaintance; and Euſtochium was bred in her Apartment. From whence 'tis eaſy to collect, ſays St. Jerome, the Virtue and Quality of the Miſtriſs, by that of her Scholars, who were Educated under her. When ſhe once knew St. Jerom, ſhe never met him without asking him ſome Queſtion or other out of the Scriptures, in which ſhe was a great Proficient, and oppoſed the Origeniſts, who began to riſe at Rome. She died a little while after Rome was taken by the Goths, in 409. St. Jerom in her Life to Principia, Epiſt. 8. &c.

MARCELLIANS, the Name that was given in the IVth. Century, to them that followed the Opinions of Marcellus of Ancyra, who was condemned in the Council of Conſtantinople, in 381.

MARCELLIANUS, a great Captain in Dalmatia, in the Vth. Century. He was Maſter of the Country after Aetius his Death, but the Emperor, Leo, dealt ſo fairly with him, that he engaged him to leave it, and to beat the Vandals out of Sardinia, which he performed in a very little time.

MARCELLINA, a certain impudent Woman, who under Pope Anicetus in 170, endeavoured to introduce at Rome the Sect of the Gnoſticks, which She profeſſed. She made uſe of her Beauty and Wit, to ſeduce the Orthodox by her laſcivious Pleaſures, which ſhe turned into Tenets of her Religion. St. Irenæus lib. 1. cap. 24. St. Epiphanius hær. 27.

MARCELLINA, Siſter of St. Ambroſe, to whom Pope Liberius gave the Veil, and pronounced an excellent Diſcourſe upon that Occaſion, which St. Ambroſe hath inſerted in the Third Book of his Treatiſe, De Virginitate.

MARCELLINUS, Pope, a Roman born, ſucceeded Caius, May 3. 296. when the Church began to breath a little from her Perſecutions. This Calm did not hold long, the Perſecution began a-new more violently in 302. This Pope is ſaid, for want of Courage, to have offered a Sacrifice to Hercules, Jupiter, and Saturn, in the Temple of Veſta, by which he ſaved his Life for that time; but he is ſaid to have repented of this great and ſcandalous Sin; and, that in order to blot it out, he went and preſented himſelf before the Judges, where he courageouſly confeſſed the Name of Jeſus Chriſt, for which he ſuffered Martyrdom, April 26. 304. Anaſtaſius in vit. Pontif. cap. 8. Platina adds, That this Perſecution of Diocleſian, was the longeſt and bloodieſt of all the other, there being no kind of Torment that could be invented, which the Chriſtians did not undergo; ſome had their Fleſh ſcraped, and torn off with Potſherds; others had ſharp Reeds thruſt under their Nails, and the Women into their Privities; and a certain Perſon being ſo hardy, as to pull down, and tear in pieces an Edict, that was ſet up againſt the Chriſtians; he was thereupon Ordered to be flea'd, and to have Vinegar mixed with Salt, poured upon his raw Fleſh till he died. Not to enumerate more Inſtances, Damaſus affirms, That there were no leſs than 17000 Perſons, of both Sexes, who ſuffered Martyrdom through the ſeveral Provinces, in the ſpace of 30 days, beſides a vaſt number baniſhed to the Iſlands, or Condemned to work in the Mines, or Melting-houſes, to dig Sand, hew Stones, &c. He farther adds, That it is the Judgment of Euſebius, that this Calamity beſel the Chriſtians by God's Permiſſion, as a juſt Judgment for the Corruption of Manners, which the Liberty and Indulgence, that they before enjoyed, had occaſioned amongſt them. After all, ſome People queſtion the truth of Marcellinus's Sacrificing to Idols.

MARCELLINUS, called Comes, becauſe he was Count of Illyrium, lived under the Emperor Juſtinian. He compoſed a Chronicle, which begins at 379, where that of St. Jerom ended, and finiſhes it at the Fourth Conſulſhip of Juſtinian, which was the Eighth Year of his Empire, and An. Chr. 534. There is a Continuation of it to the Year 566. Caſſiodorus praiſes much this Work, and affirms beſides, that Marcellinus had publiſhed Four Books concerning the Cities of Conſtantinople and Jeruſalem. Antonius Schoonhovius cauſed the Chronicle of this Author to be printed in the laſt Century. Joſephus Scaliger, and ſeveral others have alſo printed it, but the beſt Edition is that of Father Sirmond, in 1619. Caſſiodorus Divin. Lect. cap. 17. & 25.

MARCELLINUS, Brother to the Tyrant Maximus, was Defeated by the Emperor Theodoſius at Pettau, on the Drave, where he had Encamped, An. 388. Zoſim.

MARCELLINUS, a Prieſt, who took part with Urſinus, who was choſen againſt Pope Damaſus, in 367. He Libelled the ſaid Pope, and afterwards turned Luciferian. Baron.

MARÇELLINUS, Tribune and Imperial Notary of the Empire, a Dignity like that of our Secretaries of State. He was Tribune in Africk, in the time of St. Auguſtin, who eſteemed him ſo much, that he dedicated to him his Three Books concerning the Remiſſion of Sins, the Treatiſe concerning the Spirit and the Letter. He writ alſo ſeveral Epiſtles to him, wherein he expreſſes his great reſpect. He was a very Wiſe and Intelligent Man, and earneſtly wiſhed an Agreement in the African Church, divided by the Schiſin of the Donatiſts. Wherefore, when the Emperor, Honorius, had Commanded a Conference betwixt the Catholicks and the Schiſmaticks, he choſe the Tribune Marcellinus to aſſiſt at it in his Name. He pronounced in the behalf of the Orthodox, which made the Donatiſts ſo angry, that not content with publiſhing, that he had been bribed by the Catholicks, they farther reſolved to ruin him. Wherefore when Marinus came into Africk, in 413, to Command the Emperor's Armies againſt Heraclian, who had revolted: They perſuaded him, that Marcellinus ſided with that Rebel, ſo that he put him to Death. He is counted amongſt the Martyrs. St. Auguſt. de geſt. com. Emer. St. Jerom lib. 3. cont. Pelag. Baron. in Annal. A. C. 310, 311, 313. & in Martyr. ad diem 6. Aprilis.

MARCELLUS, (Caius) Husband to Octavia, Auguſtus's Siſter, by whom he had Cl. Marcellus, the great Hope of Rome, and the Citizen's Darling, being choſe as Co-adjutor in the Government by M. Agrippa Cæſar. The Youth being of a chearful Temper, mighty Wit, frugal, continent and patient under Fatigue, was cut off at the Baths, in the 18th. Year of his Age, by the Fraud of Livia, and not [illegible] to Auguſtus; though he had Adopted him at the Age of 16, and married him to his Daughter Julia, whom, after his Death, he beſtowed on Marcus Agrippa. Virgil, in the 6th. of his Æneids, deſcribes the generous Diſpoſition of this Youth, which he repeated before Auguſtus and Octavia, who fell in a Swoon, at the Name of her Son, and when recovered, Ordered him 10 Seſterces for every Verſe, ſo that for 18 Lines, he had 500 Pieces of Gold. The Verſes begin thus,

Atque hic Æneas una (namque ire videbat)
Egregium forma Juvenem & fulgentibus Armis, &c.

Suet. Plut.

St. MARCELLUS, Pope, firſt of that Name, a Roman born, ſucceeded Marcellinus towards the end of November, in 304. He divided Rome into 20 Titles or Pariſhes, wherein the Catechumens were to be Baptized, and the Martyrs buried. Maxentius, a cruel Enemy to the Chriſtians, Condemned him to look after the Horſes that were uſed to ride Poſt, in a pitiful Stable upon the High Road. About Nine Months after, his Clergy took him from thence, and carried him to the Houſe of a Holy Widow named Lucina. Maxentius hearing it, cauſed the Poſt-Horſes to be brought thither, and bound him to the ſame Office, as before. The Stink of the place, his Nakedneſs, and other Miſeries of that Condition, ended his Life, Jan. 16. 309. Baron. in Annal. & Martyr.

MARCELLUS II. called before Marcellus Cervinus, Cardinal of the Title of the Holy Croſs in Jeruſalem, ſucceeded Julius III. in 1555. He came to Rome under the Pontificate of Paul III. who choſe him to be his firſt Secretary; afterwards he ſent him with his Nephew Farneſe, who went Legate into France, and the Low-Countries, to compoſe the Differences between Francis I. and the Emp[illegible] Charles V. The Cardinal left the Buſineſs in the hands of Michael Cervin, who then was Biſhop of Nicaſtro. When he came back, he was made Cardinal by Paul III. in 1559, and named one of the Preſidents in the Council of Trent. Marcellus would not change his Name, when he became Pope. He died 21 Days after his Election. Some are of Opinion, that he was poiſoned. He uſed to ſay, That he did not ſee, how they that were elevated to the Papal Dignity, could take care of their own Salvation. Embrardus lib. 4. *Chron. Panvin. in his Life. MARCELLUS, (Marcus Claudius) a Roman Commander, famous for his Courage, was the Head of a conſiderable Family at Rome, and five times Conſul. He was called The Sword of the Romans, as Fabius was called Their Shield. He made War upon the Galli Geſates, and killed their King Britomarus with his own Hand. He ſubdued the Inſubrians, and took Milan their Capital. He took alſo Syracuſa, after three Years Siege; his Attacks being rendred uſeleſs, by the admirable Machines of Archimedes, whom, nevertheleſs, he endeavoured to preſerve, and was extreamly grieved at his Death. This Great Man was, notwithſtanding his good Conduct, liable to Reproach, and obliged to come to Rome, and vindicate himſelf, which he did ſo well, that he was immediately thereupon created Conſul. He fought two Days againſt Hannibal with equal Succeſs, but was killed on the third, and his Corps falling into the Conqueror's Hands, was uſed with all imaginable Reſpect and Honour. Plutarch, Aurelius Victor, De Viris Illuſtr. The Family of the Marcelli was famous at Rome amongſt the Plebeain Families. Of which there were ſeveral other conſiderable Men.

MARCHANTIUS, (James) born at Furnes, near Dunkirk, about the middle of the XVIth. Century. He was a Lawyer, Hiſtorian, and Poet, and wrote De Rebus Geſtis à Flandriæ Comitibus. De Rebus Flandriæ Memorabilibus, &c. His Brother Peter was a Franciſcan, and wrote Tribunal Sacramentale. Baculus Paſtoralis, &c. Valer. And. Bibl. Belg.

La MARCHE, a Province in France, with the Title of an Earldom. This Country is fruitful, 'tis divided into Upper and Lower Marche. The whole is bounded on the North with Berry, on the Eaſt by Auvergne, on the Weſt by Poictou, and on the South by Limoſin, to which it is ſometimes attributed, though it is a diſtinct Province. Geieret is the principal Town in the Upper Marche, and La Dorat of the other; the Rivers Vienne, Cher, Creuſe, Gartempe, have their Source in this Province. It gives the Title of an Earldom, which was united to the Crown, about 1531.

MARCHE of Ancona, a Province in Italy, in the Patrimony of St. Peter. The chief Towns are Ancona, Aſcoli, Camarino, Macerata, Loretta, Fermo, &c. This Province both large and fruitful, is one of the Chief of the Demeſn of the Holy See. It contains part of the Picenum of the Ancients. The Adriatick Sea lieth Northward of it, Ombria Southward, the Dutchy of Urbin Eaſtward, and the Ulterior Abruzza Weſtward. The City of Ancona, being given to Pope Zachary by Luitp[illegible]ndus, King of the Lombards, about 741. His Succeſſ[illegible]me, gained all the reſt of this Marquiſate to it. This [illegible] is ſo fruitful, that in the times of the Roman Empire, it was called Picenum Annonarum.

MARCHE of Brandenburg: See BRANDENBOURG.

MARCHE of Spain. Catalonia, in the time of the Emperor Lewis the Debonnaire, had the Name of Marche of Spain: Marca Hiſpanica. In the latter times of the Empire, that Name was given to thoſe Provinces which bordered upon other Eſtates.

MARCHE TREVISANE, a Province of Italy, belonging to the Venetians. It contains four Territories, that of Treviſa, of Feltro, Cadorino, and Belluno. The Marche Treviſane was formerly larger than it is now. The Venetians have been Maſters of it ever ſince 1390. Friuli lies Eaſtward of it, with the Territories of Trent and Vicenza. See TREVISE.

MARCIA PROBA, Queen of the Ancient Britains, who Reign'd before the Birth of our Saviour. She was married to King Guithelindus, and was a Woman of great Prudence and Conduct. After the Death of her Husband, and during the Minority of her Son Siſillus, ſhe Govern'd the Kingdom her ſelf, and publiſh'd a Collection of Laws, call'd Leges Marcianæ, which Gildas Badonicus tranſlated into Latin; and King Alfred into the Saxon Tongue. Bede. Polydore Virgil. Du Cheſne, &c.

MARCIAN, Emperor of the Eaſt, Son to a Soldier in Illyrium. His Courage and Piety raiſed him to the Imperial Throne. He fought in the Battel, which the Romans, under Aſpar's Command, loſt in Africk, in 431. It is reported, that having been taken Priſoner, Genſeric, King of the Vandals, obſerving with Admiration, that an Eagle had pearch'd upon Marcian's Head, immediately ſent him back to Conſtantinople, having firſt made him promiſe, that he would never make War againſt the Vandals. After the Death of Theodoſius, Junior, Pulcheria, who had ſucceeded him in the Empire, married Marcian, July 29. or, according to the Chronicle of Alexandria, Auguſt 26. 450. Three Days after his Election, he publiſhed a very rigorous Law againſt Hereticks, and re-called the Biſhops, who had been Depoſed and Baniſhed by the pretended Council of Epheſus. Afterwards in 451, he called a General Council at Chalcedon, where he aſſiſted, without medling with Eccleſiaſtical Affairs, and to give Authority to what had been concluded in that Aſſembly, he publiſhed ſeveral Edicts. He is eſteemed one of the greateſt Princes that ever Governed the Empire, and to have equalled Conſtantine the Great, by his Innocence, by his Zeal for the true Religion, by his Charity to the Poor, and chiefly by his Chaſtity. He died at Conſtantinople, Jan. 26. 457. Aged 6[illegible] Years. Marcellinus in Chron. Evagrius lib. 2. Nicephorus lib. 1[illegible] Procopius, &c.

MARCIAN, Son of the Emperor Anthemius. He endeavoured, but in vain, to Uſurp the Empire from Zeno.

MARCIAN, King of the Germans, made himſelf formidable towards the end of the IVth. Century. He joyned with the Romans, to make War againſt the Gauls, of whoſe Neighbourhood he grew jealous. He did not ſucceed in that Deſign, and he was killed towards 374, as Ammianus Marcellinus writes.

MARCIAN, Biſhop of Arles, introduced the Sect of the Novatians into Gaul in the IIId. Century. Thruſting the Penitents out of his Church, he ſeparated himſelf from his Brethren, who admitted them to Publick Penance. St. Cyprian writ a Letter to Pope Stephen, to induce him to extirpate that growing Hereſy.

MARCIAN, a General of the Emperor Juſtin the Younger's Army in the VIth. Century. He was unadviſedly deprived of the Command, which the Soldiers hearing, raiſed the Siege of Niſibe. So the Perſians having no more Enemies to reſiſt them, ravaged Syria, took Antioch, Heraclea, and Apamea, which they totally ruined.

MARCIANOPOLIS, a Town of Mæſia in Bulgaria, which thoſe of the Country call Preſlaw, between Odiſſe and Anchiale. Ammianus Marcellinus ſaith, that it was ſo called from a Siſter of Trajan named Marcia. Trebellius Pollio mentions it in the Life of the Emperor Claudius II. ſpeaking of ſeveral Battels fought near that Town. It was formerly a Biſhop's See. The Codex Theodoſianus makes mention of Marmarius, who was Biſhop of it, as one of the Orthodox, whoſe Faith was to be embraced. L. de fide Cath. Cod. Theodoſ.

MARCION, an Hereſiarch, who lived in the IId. Century. He was born at Sinope in Paphlagonia, or Pontus, for which reaſon, he is ſometimes ſurnamed Ponticus. In his younger Years, he followed the Stoick-Philoſophy, and was a lover of Solitude and Poverty; but being convicted of Uncleanneſs with a Virgin, he was Expelled the Church by his Father, who was Biſhop. After which, he came to Rome, where, not being admitted to the Eccleſiaſtical Communion, becauſe his Father oppoſed it, he, out of ſpight, embraced Cerdon's Hereſy, and became the Author of new Errors, in 134. He held, with Cerdon, Two Gods, the one Good, and the other Bad. The Bad, he ſaid, was the Author of the World, and of the Law; and the Good, he ſaid, was the Author of the Goſpel, and Redeemer of the World. He called himſelf Jeſus Chriſt, ſent on purpoſe to aboliſh the Law, as being bad. Origen affirms, that he ſuppoſed there was a God of the Jews, a God of the Chriſtians, and a God of the Gentiles. Tertullian ſpeaks of Nine; and obſerveth more curiouſly than any body elſe, the reſt of his Opinions; as, That he denied the Reſurrection of the Body, Condemned Marriage, excluding married People from Salvation, whom he would not Baptize, though he allowed of three Sorts, and that the Living were ſometimes Chriſtened for the Dead. By his Sect, the Women commonly adminiſtred the Sacraments. Rhodon, a Greek Author, quoted by Euſebius, ſays, That the Diſciples of this Hereſiarch, added many other Errors to his Dogms, and were called Marcioniſts; that the Hereſiarch meeting St. Polycarpus in the Streets of Rome, asked him, Whether he knew him? Very well, anſwered the Holy Biſhop, I know you to be the Devil's Eldeſt Son. Conſtantine the Great publiſhed an Edict againſt the Marcionites, and the other Hereticks, in 326, and Theodoret, Biſhop of Cyrus, converted 10000 of them, in 423. *Tertullianus de Præſcript. & in Marc. MARCIUS, ſurnamed Rutilius, was the firſt that ever was choſen Conſul of a Plebeian Family. He routed the Privernates, and took the City, Privernum, for which he was allowed a Triumph, An. Rom. 397. He was choſen Dictator in the War againſt the Tuſcans, Faliſci, and Tarquinians. After the Victory, wherein he took 8000 Priſoners, the Senate oppoſed his Triumph, becauſe a Plebeian, but yet it was granted, and the People never ſhewed more Joy, to the great Grief of the Senators; yet he continued to do the Republick good Service till his Death. His Family became very famous at Rome, and furniſhed the Commonwealth with Conſuls, and ſucceſsful

Commanders. Titus Livius lib. 7. & 10. Diodorus lib. 16. Florus. Caſſiodorus.

MARCIUS, a famous Magician at Roan, who writ a Book like that of Noſtredamus, which fell into the Hands of Marcus Attilius, who by Order of the Senate, made an exact ſearch for all ſuch Writings. An. Rom. 541, or 542. there was found a Prophecy concerning the Battel at Cannæ, which ſeemed plain enough, and is ſet down at large in Titus Livius. This raiſed the Author's Credit. Another of his Prophecies gave occaſion to the Inſtitution of the Games, Conſecrated by the Romans to Apollo. His Book was afterwards carefully kept among the Sacred Books. Titus Livius lib. 25. cap. 12.

MARCK, or Marquiſate of Brandenbourg, a Province in Germany, belonging to the Elector of the ſame Name. It is commonly divided into Three Parts; the Ancient, or High Marche, called by thoſe of the Country, Alte Marche, the Chief Town of which is Tangermund; this Part lies Weſtward. The other called the New Marck, lies Eaſtward, the Chief Town is Cuſtrin. The Third Part in the middle, and larger than the Two others, is called Mittel Marck, the Chief Town is Berlin. See BRANDENBOURG.

MARCK, a Province of Germany in Weſtphalia, with the Title of a County belonging to the Marquiſs of Brandenbourg, who had it by Inheritance from the Houſe of Juliers. The Chief Town is Marck, which gives the Name to the Province. It ſtands upon the Lippe, as does alſo Ham. That Country lies Southward of the River Lippe. The Dutchy of Weſtphalia is to the Eaſtward, the Biſhoprick of Munſter Northward, the Dutchy of Mons or Berg Southward and Weſtward.

MARCOMANNI, a People of Ancient Germany, which Regino calls Marahenſes, and probably Marhera was their Country. Cluverius ſaith, that they dwelt between the Rivers Rhine, Danube, and the Neckar, and that from thence they paſſed into Bohemia, with the Seduſians and Harudes. From that time they often Revolted againſt the Romans, and chiefly under Marcus Antoninus. They are mentioned by Ptolemæus, Dion, Velleius Paterculus, Julius Capitolinus, and ſeveral other Ancient Authors. Statius lib. 3. Syl. carm. 3.

MARCOMIR, the Name of ſome Princes, who are ſaid to have governed the Francks before Pharamond. Trithemius de Origine Franc. ſays, That Antenor being killed by the Scythians and Goths, left a Son named Marcomir, who obſerving the Monſter with the Triple Head, ſhewn him by Alinurus, his Maſter, a famous Magician, quitted his Country and came to Germany, the Lion's Head, one of the three, marking the Germans, as the Toad's did the French, and the Eagle's Head the Roman Empire. Marcomir III. one of his Deſcendants, was vanquiſhed by the Emperor Claudius, at his return from Britain. Marcomir IV. reigned 21 Years. Marcomir V. was very powerful, made War againſt the Romans, and rendred himſelf formidable to his Enemies. This the Romantick Abbot will have to be the Father of Pharamond.

St. MARCOUL, or Marculphus, Abbot of Nanteuil, born at Bayeux in Normandy. He is the Founder of an Order of Monks, that follow the Rule of St. Bennet. He was very much eſteemed by Childebert, King of France, Son to Clovis, the firſt Chriſtian King. Faroul, Life of St. Marcoul.

MARCULPHUS, a Monk, who liv'd about the Year 660. He wrote Two Books, De Formulis, or concerning the Forms of Law: The firſt gives an Exemplification of the Chartæ Regales. The ſecond, of the Chartæ Pagenſes. This Work, as Du Cheſne obſerves, is very ſerviceable, not to ſay neceſſary, for the underſtanding the Hiſtory of the firſt Race of the French Kings. It was publiſh'd in Octavo, in 1613, by Bignonius, who has made a great many curious Notes upon't. Du Cheſne Bibl. des Hiſt. de France, p. 26, &c.

MARCUS ANTONIUS, one of the Triumviri, was Son to Marcus Antonius, ſurnamed Creticus, and Grandſon to another of the ſame Name, a great Orator, whom Cinna cauſed to be put to Death, for having embraced Sylla's Party. His Mothers Name was Julia, of the Family of Julius Cæſar: After the Death of her firſt Husband, ſhe marri'd Lentulus, who was put to Death by Tully, for being concern'd in Catiline's Conſpiracy. This Piece of Juſtice, was, probably, one reaſon of the great miſunderſtanding betwixt Mark Anthony and Tully. M. Anthony ſpent the firſt of his time at Rome, afterwards he travel'd into Greece, and had a Command in the Army under Gabinius, in the Year of Rome 698. He follow'd this Gabinius into Egypt and Judea, where he gave good proof of his Courage, and the Generoſity of his Temper, but not without an Allay of Misbehaviour as to his Morals. At his Return to Rome, he was made Quæſtor, and afterwards, going into Gaul, he gain'd the good Opinion of Julius Cæſar, and perſuaded him to ſet up againſt Pompey; and afterwards, when Cæſar march'd towards Rome, M. Anthony follow'd him, and did him conſiderable Service in the Civil Wars. When Cæſar was Dictator, he made M. Anthony General of the Horſe, in the Year of Rome 705; and in 710, he was joyn'd with him in the Conſulſhip, and one day, when the Lupercalia were celebrated, M. Anthony made an offer to ſet a Crown upon Cæſar's Head. But Cæſar being Aſſaſſinated the ſame Year by Brutus, Caſſius, &c. Anthony called the Senate together, and wrought up the People to a Mutiny, by haranguing upon Cæſar's Character, the Barbarity of his Murther, and holding out the bloody Habit, in which he was aſſaſſinated; to which he artificially added a ſtroke or two upon the Legacy, which Cæſar had bequeath'd to the Mob. Afterwards the Romans were diſſatisfied with his Conduct, as being too Arbitrary and Aſpiring; upon this, M. Anthony takes the Field, and lays Siege to Modena, into which Decimus Brutus had caſt himſelf, with a deſign to defend the Place. The Senate, after having tried in vain, to bring M. Anthony to his Duty, gave Order to Octavius Cæſar, afterwards Auguſtus, and to the Conſuls Panſa and Hirtius, to Fight him. This War being luckily enough ended, M. Anthony, Auguſtus, and Lepidus, form'd a Triumvirate, which prov'd very unfortunate and fatal to ſeveral Great Men, particularly to Tully. A year after, which was 712 of Rome, M. Anthony and Auguſtus defeated Brutus and Caſſius in Macedonia, and afterwards falling into a Miſunderſtanding about ſome private Affairs, they were made Friends again, by Anthony's marrying Octavia, Auguſtus's Siſter; and thus their Power encreaſing to that height, that Lepidus ſtood almoſt for a Cypher; They, as it were, parted the Empire between them, M. Anthony travelling into Aſia, and Cæſar into Gaul. M. Antony made War upon the Parthians, but with ill Succeſs, being oblig'd to Retreat in diſorder through Armenia, from whence he march'd into Egypt; the deſign of his going thither, was to viſit Cleopatra, for whom he had a Paſſion ſeveral Years before; this Lady ſmit him to that degree of Diſtraction, that he forgot the Regards due to his Wife and Children. Octavia, who was a vertuous Lady, was ſorry at the News of her Husband's Conduct, and reſolv'd to make him a Viſit, in order to recover him to Sobriety; to this purpoſe ſhe ſet forward, but being come as far as Athens, M. Anthony ſent her a Meſſage to return back to Rome, with a promiſe to be ſhortly there himſelf: But he was not in a Condition to be Maſter of his Word, being perfectly in the Power of Cleopatra, to whoſe Ambition and Humour, he ſacrific'd ſeveral Kings to enrich this Queen with their Dominions. In the Year of Rome 720. he ſcandalouſly ſurpriz'd the King of Armenia, had him brought to Alexandria in Chains of Gold, and led him in triumph, as if he had been fairly taken Priſoner. In the mean time, M. Anthony was proclaim'd Traytor at Rome; notwithſtanding which, he was ſo vain as to fancy, he could Conquer the Republic, and make a Preſent of the Empire to his Miſtriſs. In the Year of Rome, 723, Auguſtus put himſelf at the Head of his Army to go againſt him, and on the 2d. of September defeated him in a Sea-fight, at Actium. Cleopatra went off firſt, and M. Anthony, who could not live without her, quitted the Fleet, and follow'd her to Alexandria, with a deſign to raiſe new Forces. The Year after Auguſtus carried the War into Egypt, and by a Train of Succeſſes brought Anthony to that pitch of Deſperation, that he diſpatch'd himſelf, imagining that Cleopatra had been dead before. M. Anthony had Fulvia for his firſt Wife, by whom, beſides other Children, he had Julius Antonius, call'd Africanus, who was Conſul with Fabius Maximus, in the Year of Rome, 744. This Africanus was afterwards put to Death by Auguſtus. M. Anthony had likewiſe two Daughters by Octavia; Antonia, the Eldeſt, was married to Domitius Ænobarbus: And Antonia, the younger, to Druſus. His Life and Actions are at large in Plutarch. Tacitus lib. 4. Suetonius, in Auguſto. Dion hiſt. Appianus in Parth. Florus, Oroſius, &c. The Family of the Antonii was famous at Rome. Some Authors are of Opinion, that it deſcended from Anton, Hercules his Son, as Plutarch obſerveth. Many of that Family died miſerably, which gave occaſion to Tacitus to ſay, That the Family of the Antonians was Famous, but Unfortunate. *Dionyſius Antiq. MARCUS AURELIUS ANTONINUS VERUS, called The Philoſopher, ſucceeded his Father-in-law, Antoninus Pius, March 7. 161. and aſſociated to the Empire Lucius Ælius Verus, to whom he married his Daughter Lucilla. He was the beſt of all the Roman Emperors. He made no general Edict againſt the Chriſtians, but being very much given to Idolatry, and deſirous to imitate Numa, from whom he pretended to derive his Original, he gave occaſion by ſeveral Reſcripts, to the fourth Perſecution, in which, through the ſeveral Provinces of the Empire, many Chriſtians were Martyr'd, in 162. He triumphed over the Parthians, with his Collegue, whom he loſt in the beginning of the ſecond War, about 169. This War had already laſted four Years, and the Romans obtained but ſmall advantage. In 174, the Barbarians had ſo hemmed in the Roman Army, that it was not thought poſſible for them to eſcape, and at the ſame time they were fatigued with an extraordinary Heat and Thirſt. In this preſſure, the Pagans invoked their Gods, but in vain; and a Legion, which was intirely Chriſtian, prayed to God to deliver them from this Danger; whereupon immediately a refreſhing Shower fell into the Roman Camp, whilſt, at the ſame time, Thunder and Lightning fell upon their Enemies, and put them to flight. Julius Capitolinus aſcribes this to the Prayers of Marcus Aurelius, and Dion to a Magician named Arnulphus; but Xiphilin accuſes him of a wilful and inconſiderate Miſtake, ſaying, That all the Glory of this, was due to the Chriſtian Legion, which was afterwards called Toe Thundring Legion, as the Twelfth Legion was called in Auguſtus's time. The Emperor, in his Letter to the Senate, confeſſed that he owed that Victory to the Chriſtians, and thereupon forbad the Perſecution. Tertullian mentions this Victory thus, Marcus quoque Aurelius in Germanica expeditione Chriſtianorum Militum orationibus ad Deum factis imbres in Siti illa impetravit: He mentions alſo the Letter writ by the Emperor, of which Oroſius ſays, there were many Copies in his time. In the mean time, the Emperor is ſaid to have cauſed this Hiſtory to be engraven on a Pillar dedicated to Jupiter Pluvioſus. In this good Prince, the old ſaying was fulfilled, That the World ſhould be happy, if Philoſophers were Kings, or Kings Philoſophers. He profeſſed the Stoick-Philoſophy, and writ 12 Books of Reflections upon his own Life. He was very unhappy in his Family, having a Voluptuous and diſorderly Son-in-law, a debauched Son of his own, and an Incontinent Wife. Julius Capitolinus, Dion lib. 55. Oroſius lib. 7. Tertullianus in Apolog. & adverſus Scap. cap. 4. Euſebius.

MARDIKE, a ſtrong Fort in Flanders, built by the Spaniards, about one German Mile from Dunkirk to the Weſt, and two from Graveling to the Eaſt, not far from the Sea-ſhoar. It was taken by the French, in 1645, and 1657, when it was put into the Hands of the Engliſh, with Dunkirk, with which it was reſigned back to the French, who have ſlighted and ruined it.

MARDOCHAI, a Rabbin, Son to Eliezer Comtino, a Jew of Conſtantinople, wrote a Commentary upon the Five Books of Moſes. Thoſe who have read it in Manuſcript, ſay, that it is very literal, and that he gives the Sence of the Text very well; that he quotes the beſt Rabbins, and chiefly Aben Ezra. M. Simon.

MARDONIUS, General of Xerxes's Army, was Son-in-law to Darius, and Brother-in-law to the ſame Xerxes, King of Perſia. He took Athens in the LXXVth. Olympiad, An. Rom. 275. But a little while after, Pauſanias and Ariſtides, Commanders of the Athenians and Lacedæmonians, beat his Army, and killed him near Platea in Bœotia; this happened about Sept. 25. of the ſame Year. Herodotus lib. 7. & 8. Diodorus lib. 11. Plutarchus, Juſtinus, Cornelius Nepos, &c.

MAREB, Lat. Saba, a City in the Province of Hadramut in Arabia Fœlix, which was the Country of Beligis, the Wife of Solomon, or rather the Queen of the South; that came to viſit him. This City, in our Author's time, was Deſolate. Nubienſis, p. 26. It lies 45 German Miles N. of Libit. In the Mountains of Mareb, are the Trees of Frankincenſe, which, from thence, are diſtributed over all the World, Nub. p. 26, 27. Mareb ſtands three Stations S. of Dhafar, in it is the Caſtle of Solomon, the Son of David, called Servah, but then it was nothing but a heap of Ruins. The Inhabitants of this City in their Pride, deſpiſed all others, and yet were Ignorant of the Benefits of the moſt Glorious God. They had a Damm againſt the Inundations of Water of wonderful Structure, ſo that they never feared its ruin, and the Waters reſtrained by it, ſwell'd to the highth of 20 Statures, which they reſerved for their uſe, and diſtributed by Pipes. This Water-houſe ſtood above the City, but, by the Will of God, it broke, and in the Night over-threw the Fort, and demoliſhed and drowned the whole City, and all it Suburbs and People. Nubienſis p. 52. From Mareb to Scebam South, is four Stations.

MAREOTIS, a Country of Egypt near Alexandria, now called, according to Caſtaldus, Moletius, and others, Lago di Buchiara. It gave the Name to a part of the Territory of Alexandria, which contained ſeveral Villages; in one of which, called The Peace of Secontarurus, εἰρήνη Σεκουνταρύρυ, Iſchyras the Slanderer of St. Athanaſius lived, as he ſaith himſelf in his Second Apology. This part of Mareotis muſt have been fruitful, and produced good Wine, ſeeing Virgil ſpeaks thus, lib. 2. Georg.

MARESCHAL of France, a conſiderable Dignity of that Kingdom for the Command of Armies. The Mareſchals of France, are properly the Ancient Squires of the Kings, Magiſtri Equitum, or Tribuni & Præfecti Militum, amongſt the Romans, and the χιλίαρχοι, amongſt the Greeks. Their firſt Inſtitution obliged them to Command the Vant-guard, to obſerve the Enemy, and to chooſe the Places convenient for the Encamping of the Army. Now they judge all Military Affairs by themſelves, or their Lieutenants, the Provoſts of the Mareſchals, or Provoſts of the Camp. Their number was but ſmall before Francis I. but ſince, it is much increaſed. They are the Arbitrators in all Quarrels amongſt the Nobles in France. Their Place depends abſolutely of the Crown, nor can they be deprived of it during Life, though the King may ſuſpend them from the Exerciſe of its Functions. This Honour is not Hereditary, being the Recompence of Merit, and Great Actions. 'Tis thought the word Mareſchal, comes from the German March, or Marach, which ſignifies a Horſe, and Scalch, a Maſter or Officer; and the common Opinion is, that they were Lieutenants to the High-Conſtables of France; but it does not follow thence, that they were always Generals of the Army, for the Conſtables themſelves have not always been Chief Commanders of the Armies of France, having only had a part of the Royal Cavalry under their Command. It was by the Valour of Matthew of Montmorency, who, in Philip Auguſtus his Reign, won the Battel of Bovines, againſt the Emperor Otho, and the King of England; that the Charge of Conſtable, came to be the Chief of the Kingdom: This was alſo the Riſe of the Mareſchals, whereof there have been very great Men. *Favin. des Offic. dela Couron. MARESHUAN, the Eighth Month of the Year amongſt the Hebrews of Thirty Days, had no Feaſt, nor extraordinary Sacrifice. Sigonius in Kalend. Hebræor. Torniel. A. M. 2544. n. 12. 2545. n. 30.

MARESIUS (Samuel) a Miniſter, and Eminent Divine in the XVIIth Century, was born at Oiſemond in Picardy, in 1599. In his Youth he ſtudi'd at Saumur, under Gomarus and Ludovicus Capellus; commenced Doctor in Divinity at Leyden, in July 1625. Afterwards he travel'd into England, and then return'd to Sedan, where he was a Reader in Divinity. In 1673, he was offer'd the Divinity Profeſſors place at Leyden, which he accepted, but died that ſame Year at Groningen, before he enter'd upon the Office. He wrote againſt Voetius, Dall.e, Wittichius, a great Carteſian, and Serarius, a Millennary, &c. He wrote likewiſe a Book, called Preſervatif contra la Revolt. A Syſtem of Divinity, at the end of which, there is a Catalogue of all his Works. Baile Diction. Hiſtor.

MARFUORIO, a Statue at Rome, where they hang'd all Satyrical things, like that of Paſquin. There is alſo a Marfuorio at Venice. See PASQUIN.

MARGARET of Valois, Dutcheſs of Alençon, and afterwards Queen of Navarre. She was bred at Lewis's XII's Court, and was ſought in Marriage by the Emperor Charles, when he was Count of Flanders; but ſome Reaſons of State, made the Duke of Alençon to be preferred to him, who, attending King Francis I. into Italy, died of Grief, that that Prince was taken Priſoner at the Battel of Pavia. Margaret was extreamly afflicted at both theſe Misfortunes, and went to Madrid, to tend the King in his Sickneſs, where ſhe ſpoke ſo reſolutely to the Emperor, and his Council, that they ſeemed more reaſonable than before; hearing that the Spaniards deſign'd to have ſeiz'd her, as ſoon as the time of her ſafe Conduct ſhould be expired, ſhe made all the haſte ſhe could out of that Kingdom. The King, at his return, very ſenſible of her kindneſs, married her to Henry of Albret, King of Navarre, in 1527, and of his Marriage, came Joan of Albret, married to Anthony of Bourbon, the Father of Henry IV. She was a learned Princeſs, and a great admirer of Men of Parts. James le Fevre and Gerard Rouſſel, both Proteſtants, were her great Favourites, and 'tis ſaid, ſhe was well inclin'd that way; ſhe took for Device, a Turnſol with theſe Words, Non inferiora ſecutus, and a Lily between two Pearls, with theſe Words, Mirandum Naturæ opus. Valentine of Alſinois made her this Epitaph,

Muſarum decima, & Charitum quarta, inclyta Regum
Et ſoror & conjux, Margaris illa jacet.

Amongſt other things, ſhe wrote, la Marguerite des Marguerites, being a Collection of Poems. Le Miroire del Ame Pechereſſe le Triumphe del Agneau, l'Heptameron, commonly call'd Tne Novels of the Queen of Navarre, &c.

MARGARET of France, Queen of Navarre, the moſt beautiful and learned Princeſs of her time, was Daughter to King Henry II. Siſter to Francis II. Charles IX. Henry III. and Francis, Duke of Alençon and Brabant. She was married to the Prince of Viane, afterwards Henry IV. of France, and it was at the Solemnity of this Wedding, that the Bartholomew Maſſacre happened, in 1572. 'Tis ſaid, ſhe had ſettled her Affection upon the Duke of Guiſe. The King had no Children by her, for which, and other Reaſons, they were Divorced, having procured a Diſpenſation from Pope Clement VIII. in 1599. ſhe was alſo baniſhed the Court. She died in 1615, being the laſt Princeſs of the Line of Valois.

MARGARET, Dutcheſs of Florence, Parma, and Plaiſance, Governeſs of the Low-Countries, famous for her Wit, Prudence, and Courage, was the Natural Daughter of the Emperor Charles V. who married her to Alexander de Medicis, Duke of Florence, and after his Death to Octavius Farneſe, Pope Paul III. his Nephew. She, at firſt, had no liking to this laſt, becauſe he was but very young, complaining of Fortune that match'd her always ſo unequally; firſt, when but a Girl of 12 Years of Age, to a Man of 27, and now a Woman grown, to a young Boy of 13; yet after ſome time, ſhe was well pleaſed with her young Husband, and bore him two Sons at a Birth. All Authors ſpeak much in her Commendation; ſhe had ſo manly a Gate, and was ſo ſtrong, that ſhe ſeemed to be a Man in Woman's Apparel, delighting in manly Exerciſe; as riding a Hunting, at which ſport, ſhe rid as hard, and changed, and tired as many Horſes, as moſt of her Company; beſides, ſhe had a Beard on the Upper Lip, and was often troubled with the Gout, a Diſtemper that ſeldom afflicts Women. The People of the Low-Countries were much taken with her, for which reaſon, her Brother Philip II. made her their Governeſs. She managed them in that tickleliſh Conjuncture with great Prudence, and things went on very well, until the Duke of Alva, Subſtituted in her place, by his Cruelty marr'd them. She died in 1586. having firſt had the Satisfaction to ſee her Son, the famous Prince of Parma, made Governor of that Country, after the Death of Don John of Auſtria.

MARGARET, Counteſs of Holland, Daughter and Heireſs to Florent, Count of Holland and Zealand, and Mathilda, Daughter to Henry, Duke of Brabant; having refuſed to give Alms to a poor Woman, accuſing her of Adultery, becauſe ſhe carried two Twins in her Arms; the poor Woman prayed to God, that the Counteſs might bring forth as many Children, as there were Days in the Year, which happened on Good-Friday in 1276, witneſs an Epitaph in the Abby of the Bernardines, within half a League of the Hague, where the Mother, and all the Children are buried. Guichardin deſcript. Holl. Eraſmus, Vives, &c. There are ſtill the Baſons to be ſeen in the Church, in which the Infants were Baptized: And likewiſe the following Epitaph, > Illuſtris Domini Florentii Comitis Hollandiæ, Filia, cujus Mater fuit Mathildis, Filia Henrici Ducis Brabantiæ, Fratrem quoque habuit Gulielmum, Alamaniæ Regem: Hæc præfata Domina Margareta, Anno Salutis Milleſimo Ducenteſimo Septuageſimo Sexto, Ætatis ſuæ Anno Quadrageſimo Secundo ipſo die Paraſceues, Hora Nona ante Meridiem, Peperit Infantes vivos promiſcui ſexus, numero Trecentos Sexaginta Quatuor, Qui poſtquam per Venerabilem Epiſcopum Dominum Guidonem Suffraganeum, præſentibus nonnullis Proceribus & Magnatibus, in pelvi quadam Sacramentum Baptiſmi percepiſſent, & Maſculis, Johannes, Femellis vero nomen Elizabeth, impoſitum fuiſſet, ipſorum omnium, ſimul cum Matris, Animæ ad Deum æternaliter victuræ, redierunt, Corpora autem ſub hoc Saxo requieſcunt.

MARGARET of York, Daughter to George Duke of Clarence, Brother to Edward IV. She was married to Richard Pool of the Houſe of Suffolk, and afterwards made Counteſs of Salisbury. She had four Sons, one of which was Cardinal Pool. Her Birth, and other valuable Qualifications, made her much conſider'd at Court; inſomuch, that King Henry VIII. and his Queen Katharine, made Choice of her for a Governante to the Princeſs Mary: She acquitted her ſelf to Satisfaction in this Imployment; but after King Henry fell in Love with Ann of Bullogne, the Counteſs of Salisbury fell into diſfavour, both becauſe ſhe continued to abett all the Doctrines and Pretentions of the Court of Rome; and likewiſe, becauſe the Cardinal her Son had reproach'd the King with Irregular Paſſions and Injuſtice, in the Caſe of the Divorce. For this, and upon pretence that the Cardinal endeavour'd to raiſe Diſturbances in England, he had a Bill of Attainder paſt upon him, and the Counteſs of Salisbury, his Mother, was beheaded at Seventy Years of Age. She was Condemn'd by Attainder, without ſo much as being heard in her own Defence. Du Cheſne Hiſt. d'Angl. Franc. Biſhop of Hereford's Annals. Burnet's Hiſt. Reform.

MARGARITA, an Iſland of South America, in the North Sea, 8 Leagues from the Coaſt of New Andaluzia, and 40 from the Iſland of St. Trinidada to the W. Long. 3. 14. Lat. 11. Firſt diſcovered by C. Columbus, in 1498, and ſince moſtly frequented on the account of the Pearl-fiſhery, from whence it has its Name. It is about 40 French Leagues in compaſs, very fruitful, but Mountainous, watered by two Rivers; beſides St. Jago de la Vega, it has ſeveral Villages.

MARGARITUS (John) a Cardinal, Biſhop of Elme, and afterwards of Girone, was born at Girone in Catalonia, of a Noble Family in the XVth. Century. This Cardinal made a great Figure at the Court of Alphonſus V. called The Magnanimous, who was King of Arragon. Afterwards he was very much eſteem'd by Ferdinand V. who procured him his Cardinals Cap. He wrote a Hiſtory of Spain in Ten Books, call'd Parabis pomena: The deſign of them being to ſupply the Omiſſions of the Spaniſh Hiſtorians, beginning at the pretended Arrival of Hercules in Spain, and continu'd to the Reign of Theodoſius the Great. Surita Lib. XVI. Ciaconius, Onuphrius, &c.

MARGIANA, which Caſtaldus calls Jeſelbes, a great Province of Aſia, between the Bactriana and Hyrcania of the Ancients. Plinius, Ptolemæus, Solinus, &c. mention it often. Sanſon, and the other Modern Geographers affirm, That the Provinces of Khoſme and Choraſan in the Kingdom of Perſia, make up the greateſt part of the Ancient Margiana.

MARGUERIN (de la Bigne) Doctor of Sorbonne, Native of Bayeux in Normandy, flouriſhed about the latter end of the 16th Age, and was looked upon, as one of the greateſt Men of his time. He made the Collection called Bibliotheca Patrum, wherein are the Works of above 200 Authors, and publiſhed ſeveral other Pieces of his own making. He printed that great Work at Paris, in 8 Volumes in Folio, in 1576, added another in 79, and a 10th afterwards, under the Title of an Appendix. It has been often re-printed ſince, and the Collections of Melchior Hittorpius and Henry Caniſius, the Two Tomes of Greek and Latin Treatiſes of Fronto Ducaus, and the Volumes of Francis Combeſis were added to them; before theſe Two laſt Editions, there was that of Cologne, printed in 1618, in 18 Volumes, to which Andrew Scotus added ſome Treatiſes, under the Title of an Appendix. But in 1677, the Bibliotheca Patrum was publiſh'd at Lyons in XXVII. Volumes. Before the Bibliotheca Patrum, there were Collections under the Title of Micro-Presbyticon, in 1550. De Hæreſeologia, in 1556, and the Orthodoxographis, 1555, and 59. Simler.

MARIAMNE, Queen of Judæa, of the Blood of the Macchabees, or Aſmonæans, was Daughter to Alexander, Son to Ariſtobulus, and Alexandra, Daughter to Hyrcanus, Brother to the ſame Ariſtobulus; ſhe was alſo Siſter to Ariſtobulus, and the Wife of Herodes the Great, or the Aſcalonite, who put her to Death, An. Rom. 726. She was one of the moſt beautiful Princeſſes of her time. And Gellius, who by M. Anthony's Order, went upon a Diſcovery of fine Women, made his Report, That he had ſeen nothing that came up to the Perſon of this Queen: However ſome Authors affirm, That Mariamne's Temper was not altogether ſo charming as her Face, and that her Haughtineſs and Contempt of Herod, provok'd him to uſe her ill. Joſeph.

MARIANA, a Colony, and a City, in a certain part of the Iſle of Corſica, which had its Name from Marius, the great Roman Conſul, and is a Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Geneva, heretofore very great and populous, ſeated upon a ſmall River which runs through it, but now it lies in Ruins; therefore called Rovene di Mariana, nothing being left but the Cathedral Church, which has no Roof neither; the Biſhop's See being removed to Baſtia, in 1575.

MARIANA, (John) a Learned Jeſuit, born at Talavera, in the Dioceſs of Toledo. The moſt conſiderable of his Works are, Hiſtoria de rebus Hiſpaniæ, in Twenty Books, to which he added Ten more, with a Continuation, De Rege & Regis inſtitutione lib. 3. De ponderibus & menſuris, Tractatus 7. Theologici & Hiſtorici, 1. De adventu B. Jacobi in Hiſpaniam. 2. Pro Editione vulgata S S. Bibliorum. 3. De Spectaculis. 4. De monetæ mutatione. 5. De die mortis Chriſti & Anno. 6. De annis Arabum cum annis noſtris comparatis. 7. De morte & immortalitate. Father John Mariana publiſhed beſides ſome Treatiſes of Lucas Tudenſis, of St. Iſidorus, &c. with Notes of his own. He died Feb. 17. 1624. Aged 87 Years. Thomas Thomajus de Vergas, & in vita & Apol. pro Mariana. Baronius A. C. 680.

MARIANES, Mountains of Spain, known by the Name of Sierra Morena. They reach from Eaſt to Weſt, from the River Guardarmena, to the end of Eſtremadura; that which lies Eaſtward is called las Navas de Toloſa, and the Paſſage Puerto Muradal. This place is famous for a Defeat of the Moors by Alphonſo IV. called The Noble, as is ſaid elſewhere.

MARIANUS (Scotus) was born in Scotland, in 1028, and in 1052, travelled into Germany. He took a Monk's Habit at Cologne, in 1058; and retiring to the Abby of Fuld the Year after, he continued a Recluſe there, till 1069. He wrote a Hiſtory from the Birth of Chriſt, to 1083. He died at Mentz, in 1086. Aged 58 Years. Dodechin, Abbot of St. Diſibode, continued it till 1200. This Hiſtory is well eſteemed. He wrote alſo Calculatio de univerſali tempore, and ſome other things. Sigebert de Vir. Illuſtr. Bellarmin. Trithem.

MARIEMBERG, Lat. Mariaberga, a Town of Germany in Upper Saxony, ſituate upon Mountains, where are ſeveral Mines of Metals; which moved Henry, Duke of Saxony, to build it there, in 1519. It belongs to the Elector of Saxony, near Annaberg and Meiſſen.

MARIENBOURG, a Town in the Low-Countries, upon the Borders of Hainault and Luxembourg. It derived its Name from Mary of Auſtria, Queen of Hungary, and Governeſs of the Low-Countries, who built it in 1542. Its Situation between two little Rivers is ſo advantageous, that it was looked upon as impregnable. The French took it, and kept it by the 39th Article of the Peace of the Pyrenees in 1659.

MARIENBOURG, a Town in Poland, Capital of Royal Pruſſia, upon the River Nogat. Thoſe of the Country call it Marienbourg, Lat. Maria-burgum. It is reported, that here was a Fort, which occaſioned the building of the Town, in 1281. and it got the Name from a pretended miraculous Image of the Bleſſed Virgin. It was formerly the Primitive Seat of the Knights of the Teutonick Order, having been built by the Portecroix. It was taken by Caſimir, King of Poland, in 1460. The Suedes took it in 1626, and again in 1655. but it was reſtored ſince to the Kings of Poland. Marienbourg hath the Title of a Palatinate. Cromerus hiſt. Pol. Starovolſius & Cellarius deſcript. Pol.

MARIENDAL, called by the Germans, Mergentheim, Lat. Mergenthemum, a little Town of Germany in Franconia. Some Latin Authors give it the Name of Mergethum, and that of Mariæ domus. It ſtands upon Tauber, within five or ſix Leagues of Wisbourg, and it is conſiderable, for being the place where the Great Maſter of the Teutonick Order, in Franconia, reſides.

MARIES, a Feſtival kept formerly amongſt the Venetians. The occaſion was this, The Iſtrians, a People of Italy, bordering on the State of Venice, and, at that time, ſworn Enemies to the Venetians, made an Incurſion in the Month of February, into one of the Iſlands that compoſe the Town, and ruſhed into the Church of St. Peter, where finding ſome young Women aſſembled for a Marriage, they ran away with them to Caborla, a ſmall Iſland of Friuli. The Venetians hearing this, purſued them, and after a bloody Fight, recovered the Maids. To keep up the Memory of this Action, they Inſtituted a Publick Feaſt, which was kept yearly upon the 2d. of February, Twelve of the moſt beautiful Maidens gloriouſly apparelled, together with a young Man cloathed like an Angel, went dancing through the whole Town. Theſe Ceremonies, which were obſerved during 300 Years, were diſcontinued, during the War againſt the Genoeſes, becauſe of ſome Abuſes committed in them. There remained notwithſtanding ſome Footſteps of them, becauſe the Doge and Senators, made a yearly Proceſſion to our Lady's Church, in ſolemn Pomp, upon the 2d. of Feb. Joh. Baptiſta Ignatius, exempl. Illuſtr. Vir.

MARIESTADT, a Town in Swedeland, in the Weſtern Gothia, or Weſtrogothlandt, between the Lakes Weter and Weper, within 3 or 4 Leagues of the firſt. It is a new Town.

MARIGALANTE, an Iſland of the Northern America, betwixt the Antilles and Caribbes. The French are now Maſters of it. It is very fruitful, within 6 Leagues of Guadaloupa, and within 10 or 12 of San Domingo.

MARIGNAN, Lat. Melignanum, & Meriganum, a Town of Italy, in the Dutchy of Milan, between Milan and Lodi. It is famous for the Victory which Francis I. got there againſt the Swiſſes, in 1515.

MARINIS (Boniface) born at Genoua, and flouriſh'd towards the end of the XIIIth. Century. He was counted a great Philoſopher, and indeed his Writings make good his Character, particularly his Book, De Confuſione Linguarum: And another, which he wrote, De Secretis Naturæ, &c. Soprani Scrip. della Ligur.

MARINUS I. Pope, whom others call Martinus II. was born at Galeza, a Town of Tuſcany. He was choſen Pope, Decemb. 28. 822. and ſucceeded John VIII. He died Jan. 18. 884. He had ſome Diſputes with Photius, Patriarch of Conſtantinople.

MARINUS II. called by others Martinus III. a Roman, was choſen Pope, after Stephen VIII. or IX. in 943. He is ſaid to have died in 946. Baronius in Annal. Eccleſ.

MARINUS of Naples, a very Learned Philoſopher in the Vth. Century. He was Diſciple to Proclus, and kept his School after him; and to ſhew how much he owed to his Maſter, he writ his Life in Proſe and Verſe, which remains ſtill. Suidas, Voſſius, de Hiſt. & Poetis Græcis.

MARINUS, or Marini, (John Baptiſt) an Italian Poet, born at Naples about the middle of the XVIth Century. His Father would have bred him to the Bar; but after ſome tryal in that Profeſſion, he ſtruck off into Poetry, to which his Genius ſeem'd to over-rule him. The principal of his Works are, Lira, Sampegna, Epitalamii, Galerea, Panegyrici, Stragæ, dé Gl' Innocenti, Adone, Diceria, &c. Laurenzo Craſſo Huom. Leter Imperial. in Muſ. Hiſt. &c.

MARIS of Chalcedon, an intimate Friend to Euſebius of Nicomedia, behaved himſelf very well in the preſence of Julian the Apoſtate. He was blind by old Age, and when he heard the Impiety of Julian, whom he had ſeen ſo often practiſing the Chriſtian Religion, he came to Conſtantinople, and when upon a certain Day, the Emperor was ſacrificing to Fortune, he publickly reproached him with his Impiety, Atheiſm and Apoſtacy; probably, from that time, that infamous Emperor was called The Apoſtate. Julian pretending, that day, to act the Philoſopher, ſhewed a generous Contempt of thoſe Injuries, and adding Blaſphemy to his Rallery, However, ſaid he, thy Galilean will not reſtore thee thy Sight; to which he immediately anſwered, I give him thanks for this, thinking my ſelf happy that I cannot ſee thee. The Emperor turning his back upon him, and pretending a Philoſophical patience, anſwered not a Word. Maimbourg's Hiſt. of Arianiſm.

MARISE, by the Hungarians called Marons, and by the Germans, Meriſch, a River that ſprings up near Newmark, in the Carpathian Mountains, which thoſe of the Country call Szepeſi, and Krapach. It runs through Tranſilvania to Julia Alba, or Weiſſemburg, to Lippa, and ſome other Towns; then into Hungary, where it falls into the Theiſs, Teiſſa, or Tiſſa, near Siged.

MARISUS, a great River in Thracia, that runs down from Mount Hæmus, which the Turks call Balkan, the Sclavonians, Cumoniza, the Italians, Catena del Mundo, and Monte Argentaro. And having watered Philippopoli, Andrianople, &c. it falls into the Ægean Sea.

MARIUS (Caius) who was 7 times Conſul, was born of an obſcure Family, in the Territory of Arpinum. He roſe up by degrees to the moſt eminent Offices. See Plutarch in his Life. Velleius Paterculus lib. 2. He was Lieutenant to Metellus in Numidia, and being afterwards made Conſul, An. Rom. 647, paſſed into Africa, and over-came Jugurtha, with Bocchus, King of Mauritania. In his ſecond Conſulſhip, He was ſent againſt the Teutons and Ambrons into Provence, where he killed above 200000 of thoſe Barbarians, and took 80000 Priſoners. He raiſed a Pyramid in memory of this Victory, the Remains whereof are ſtill to be ſeen on the Road to Aix. In his 5th. Conſulſhip, he defeated the Cimbrians, who had invaded Italy, killed 100000 of them, and took 60000 Priſoners. In his 6th. Conſulſhip, he got Saturnius, a ſeditious Tribune of the People, put to death, then paſſed into Aſia, and picked a Quarrel with King Mithridates. The Commiſſion of this War was appointed for Sylla, but he being engaged elſewhere, C. Sulpitius, Tribune of the People, gave it to Marius, which occaſioned Sylla's return to Rome, where his Party proving the ſtronger, he put the Tribune to death, and put his Competitor to flight, who, is ſaid, hid himſelf in a Bog amongſt ſome Ruſhes, and that a German Soldier ſent thither to kill him, had not reſolution enough to execute the Order. They add, that he made his eſcape thence in a Bark, that carried him to Africa, where he lived a poor Exile, untill being re-called by Cinna and Sertorius, they entered Rome, put their greateſt Enemies to death, and baniſhed the reſt. He was choſen Conſul the 7th time, An. Rom. 668, and died a few days after. Livy lib. 64, 65. Paterculus lib. 2. Salluſt. de Bello Jugur. Plutarch in Vit. Mar. &c.

MARIUS (Caius) called Junior, Son of the former. He uſurped the Conſulſhip, An. Rom. 672. being yet but 25 Years of Age, and publickly oppoſed Sylla. The Senate did not favour him; he beſieged it, cauſed his Enemies to be killed, and their Bodies thrown into the Tyber. Afterwards, Sylla forced him to fly away, and having beaten his Army, he commanded Lucretius Offella to beſiege him in Præneſte. Marius, having no way to eſcape, out of Deſpair, killed himſelf; or, as ſome others ſay, he commanded a Souldier to kill him. The Name of the Souldier was Pontius Teleſinus. Aurelius Victor de Viris Illuſtr. cap. 68. Velleius lib. 2. Florus lib. 3. cap. 21. Eutropius lib. 5. &c.

MARK: See MARC.

MARLBOROUGH, a Market and Borough-Town of Selkley Hundred, in the Eaſt parts of Wiltſhire, ſeated near the head, and on the North ſide of the River Kenet, having the conveniency both of a Foreſt and a Chaſe, in its Neighbourhood; the firſt called Sevenoke-Foreſt, and the other Aldburn-Chaſe. This is an ancient Town, known to the Romans by the Name of Cunetio, but ſince the Roman Conqueſt, called Marlborough, from its Marly Soil. It had once a Caſtle, famous in our Law-Books, for a Parliament held there in the Reign of Henry III. to put an end to the Differences between him and the Barons. This Town has ſuffered much, by the frequent Misfortunes of fire; however it has been honoured with the Title of an Earldom, by our preſent King, in the Perſon of John Churchil, the preſent Earl hereof.

MARLORAT (Auguſtin) a Proteſtant Miniſter, was born in Lorrain. He was firſt an Auguſtin-Friar, a very learned Man, and great Preacher; then he retired to Geneva, to profeſs the Proteſtant Religion; afterwards to Lauſane, and was choſen Miniſter of a little Village in Swiſſerland. Afterwards being called back into France, he was Miniſter at Roan, and was ſent to the Conference of Poiſſy, in 1561. and the Year after was Executed at Roan, by the Order of the Conſtable Montmorency, and the D. of Guiſe. He wrote Commentaries upon Geneſis, the Pſalms, Iſaiah, and the New Teſtament, publiſhed by H. Stephens, in 1562, 1564, 1570. and Theſaurus Locor. Comm. S. Script. in Folio, publiſhed in 1624. Thuanus hiſt. Beza in Icon. Melchior Adam in vit. Theolog. extern. Geſnerus, &c.

MARLOW (Magna) a Market-Town in Buckinghamſhire, in Desborough Hundred, probably ſo called, for the ſtore of Marl, or Chalk dug up in the Neighbourhood.

MARMARICA, a Country of Africk, which was formerly a part of Libya, which did lie Eaſtward, and Cyrenaica Weſtward. It is now in the Kingdom of Barca. Solinus affirms, that the People of that Country could charm Serpents.

MARMOL (Lewis) a Spaniard, born at Granada, lived in 1580, or 90. He publiſhed ſome Works that got him great Reputation. The principal are, the General Deſcription of Africk. He added to it, Hiſtoria del Rebellion y caſtigo de los Moriſcos del Reino de Granada. The whole is divided into 3 Parts. Thuanus hiſt. lib. 7. Ambroſio Moralis lib. 14. cap. 33. hiſt. Hiſp.

MARMORA, an Iſland of the ancient Propontis, which gave its Name to 3 other neighbouring Iſlands, and to that Sea which is called the Sea of Marmora. Theſe 4 Iſlands, which in general, are called The Iſles of Marmora, have each their particular Name. The largeſt is Marmora, the ſecond is Avezia, the third Coutalli, and the fourth Gadaro; they lie on the right hand, as one ſails out of the Streight of Gallipoli, about 10 Leagues in the Sea. The Iſland Marmora, is in Circuit about 10 or 12 Leagues. The chief Town goeth by the ſame Name; there are many Villages with Monaſteries and Hermitages, inhabited by Caloyers, or Greek Monks, who live very ſoberly. Avezia hath a Town, and 2 Villages, one of which is only peopled with Arabians. Coutalli hath a Town of the ſame Name, and Gadaro hath ſome Hamlets with Monaſteries of Caloyers. Theſe 4 Iſlands lie in a very good Climate, and abound with Corn, Wine, Cattle, Fruits and Cotton. Grelot's Voyage to Conſtantinople.

MARNE, a conſiderable River of France in Champaign. The Latins call it Matrona. It ſprings up near Langres, in a place called la Marmote; runs through the ſame Town of Langres, to Rolandpont, to Chaumont, to Joinville, to St. Dizier, to Vitri, to Chalon, to Epernax, to Dormans, to Chateau Thierry, to Ferté ſous Jouare, to Meaux and Lagni; it mixeth with the Seyne, at the Bridge of Charenton above Paris, having received the Rivers Vannori, St. Seomes, la Mouſche, la Suize, and many others. Papirius Maſſon's deſcript. Flum. Gall.

MARO, is the Name of a Town, a Valley, and a Marquiſate in Italy. It belongs to the Duke of Savoy, and lies along the Coaſt of Genoa.

MAROCCO, or Morocco, a Town and Kingdom of Africk, in the Weſtern part of Barbary. This State, and that of Fez, made up the Empire of the Cheriffs, who poſſeſſed themſelves of it, under pretence of Zeal for the Mahometan Religion. This Country, viz. Fez and Marocco, is the ancient Mauritania Tingitana; both together have the Mediterranean Sea Northward, the Atlantick Ocean Weſtward, Mount Atlas Southward, and the Sandy Deſarts of Numidia, and Eaſtward the Kingdom of Tremeſen, which is Mauritania, called Cæſareenſis by the Ancients. Marocco was the head Town of the Cheriff's Empire, which ſignifieth Illuſtrious and Sacred; but afterwards theſe 2 States were divided, till that time that Tafellet joined them together, as we find it in the Relations of that Country. This King takes the Titles of Emperor of Barbary and Marocco, King of Fez, Suz and Tafilet, Lord of Dara, Gago, &c. He takes alſo the Title of Great Cheriff of Mahomet, and Succeſſor of the Houſe of that Prophet. The length of the Kingdom of Marocco, is about 125 Leagues from Cape Nom, to the Mountains which divide it from Segelmeſſe, and the breadth is almoſt as much, from the ſame Cape Nom, to the Mouth of the River Ommirabi. The Kingdom of Marocco is divided into 7 Provinces. Marocco, Suz, Hea, Guzula, Teldes, Duccala, Haſcora. This Country is more fruitful in Corn, and abounds with more Cattel than Fez, becauſe the Land is leſs Sandy. It now has not the ſame extent it had formerly, the Province of Suz having withdrawn it ſelf from it, and the Inhabitants of the Mountains of Itala, Zanby, Guilaoa and Origue, parts of Atlas, having ſhaken off its Yoke. The Portugueſe have a Fortreſs called Maſagan, upon the Coaſts of this Kingdom, 2 Leagues from Azamor, and are feared more in this Country, than either the Spaniards or Engliſh are in the Kingdom of Fez. The City of Marocco is ſituate in a fine Plain 5 or 6 Leagues from Mount Atlas, ſurrounded with good Walls, made of Lime, Sand, and a fat Earth, which render the cement ſo hard, that it will yield fire, if ſtruck with iron; this Wall is very high, and has no Breach in it, and yet the Town has been often plundered. It has 24 Gates, and about 100000 Inhabitants. Towards the South is a Fortreſs, which contains 4000 Houſes, near one of the Gates of this Fortreſs, is a ſtately Moſque, built by Abdulmumen, ſecond King of Marocco, of the Race of Almohades, and embelliſhed by his Grandſon Jacob Almanzor, with Jaſper and Alabaſter, which he ſent for from Spain; adding, as Trophies, the Doors of the great Church of Seville, of very curious Workmanſhip, and hung ſome Bells inverſed, tho' the Moors never uſe any. He alſo built a Tower, on the top of which he hung 4 great Globes of pure Gold, whereof the largeſt will hold 8 Meaſures of Corn, one Meaſure being about a Buſhel and a half, the ſecond 4, and the reſt proportionable, all weighing 130000 Barbary Ducats; the inſide or body of the Globes is Copper, covered with a thick plate of Gold; the common People believe, that theſe are inchanted, and guarded by Spirits; for the Cheriff, Muley Hamet, having taken one down in 1540, and getting a Jew to gild a Brazen one, which he put in its place, the Doctors of the Law contrived the Jew's death, and conveyed his Body, in the Night, on the top of the Tower, and hanged it on the Bar, and gave it out, that the Guardian-Spirits did it; and the ſame Cheriff, having afterwards loſt his Life and Crown, all was attributed to his taking away the Apple or Globe, ſo that none of his Succeſſors have dared to attempt the like ſince. Near this Moſque is an old College called Madaraca, i. e. the Hammer of Sciences, wherein were taught Aſtrology, Necromancy, with the Natural Sciences, the Arabian Tongue, and Law of Mahomet. It has a Hall, all embelliſhed with Moſaick work, with a Court paved with Alabaſter, having a Baſin in the middle, all of one Stone, the biggeſt in all Barbary. There is a fine large place called The Cereque, where Plays, and publick Rejoycings are Solemnized, juſt againſt the Kings Palace, and a great number of magnificent Buildings, both of Modern and Ancient Architecture. The fineſt built Moſque of the Town, bears the Name of Ali Ben Joſef, its Founder. 'Tis of an admirable Structure, and its Tower eſteemed the higheſt of all Africa; the Walls are 12 Foot thick, and the Stair-caſe ſo wide, and even, that 3 Men on Horſeback, may ride up a-breaſt in it; at the top hang 3 Globes of Silver, the biggeſt whereof holds 12 Meaſures of Corn. Their Hiſtories ſay, that Ali Ben Joſef put them there in Memory of a great Victory he gained over the Chriſtians in Spain, and add, that this Silver was but the Tenth of the 5th. part of the Spoil; the Mountain Saſi, which is 40 Leagues from Marocco, is ſeen from the top of the Tower, in clear Weather. Near the Moſque of Quivir, is a fine College, endowed with a Revenue, for the Maintenance of ſeveral Profeſſors, and a great number of Scholars for whom there are 400 Chambers, all paved with Chequer-work, great Halls for the Schools, and pleaſant long Galleries for walking. The Jews have their Quarters at Marocco, and are moſt of them Goldſmiths, or Merchants; the Chriſtian Merchants live near the Cuſtom-houſe, and Trade much in Silks, Linen, Cotton, and other Merchandizes. The Water-houſe, a ſtately Building, is one of the moſt remarkable things of the whole Town; the Water is brought to it, by 400 Aqueducts, which are very deep in the ground, and come from the South, none knows how far; for tho' Men have been put into them, with Lanthorns, and Proviſions for 2 or 3 Days, they could never get to the Fountain-head; ſome alledging, That at 2 Leagues diſtance, the Air was ſo cold and piercing, that it put out their Light; others, that they found the Paſſage ſtopp'd; ſome, that the Pipes being worn, or burſt, the Water was ſo deep about them, that there was no paſſing farther. It ſeems, this has been the Management of ſome wiſe Prince, that, in caſe of a Siege, their Water could not be cut off. The Inhabitants of Marocco are haughty, and glory in being Enemies to Chriſtians. Their Habit is a cloſe Coat of coloured Cloth, with a Veſt of fine Camblet over it, a ſcarlet Cap, and a little Turban; the Women are well bred, and gallantly dreſs'd, with Bracelets of Gold and Silver, with Pearls and Jewels hanging at their Ears, their Head and their Neck; they never go abroad, but when they Viſit, or go to the Moſque, or Baths, and then too they have their Faces veil'd. Marmol. de Afrique. This Kingdom of Marocco, was erected upon the Defeat of one of the Cailiffs of Fez, in which he, and 200000 of the Moors periſhed, near Toulouſe in France, in 1202, upon which this Weſtern Kingdom was divided into 5 Kingdoms. The Nubian Geographer ſaith, that this City of Marocco, was built by Joſef Son of Taſefin, in the Year of the Hegyra 470, A. C. 1187, that Joſef bought the Ground he built it on of the Inhabitants of Aghmat. Varichee, a City 12 Miles to the South, at the foot of Mount Atlas ſtands in a Plain, and the Water they uſed for their Gardens, was drawn by a Wheel out of a Well, then the City was a Mile ſquare, and about 3 Miles from the City run the River Tanſift, which tho' not great, was yet never dry. He ſaith, in that Plain, there is but one ſmall Hill called Aigilni, which afforded the City Quarries of Stone for their Buildings. Leo Africanus p. 68. This City of Marocco is one of the greateſt Cities in the World. In the time of Hali, the Son of Joſef, it had 100000 Families, 24 Gates, and a Stone Wall of great ſtrength and thickneſs, and ſeated 6 Miles from Tanſift. He ſaith, it was built in 424. It was taken in 516, by a Rebel Prince, whoſe Poſterity reigned till 668, when thoſe of the Tribe of Marin ruled till 785, whoſe Seat was at Fez and Marocco, but 'twas managed by Vice-Roys ever after. There is in it a vaſt ſtrong Caſtle, built all of Marble, and as big as a ſmall City, beſides a noble Moſque. It hath a ſtately College, but there were only 5 Students, and a ſilly Profeſſor in it, when Leo ſaw it. The greateſt part of this Noble Caſtle is now deſolate and neglected, with its Gardens and Park, and the former of them, uſed for a Dung-field to the City. The Province of Marocco, is of a Triangular form. To the Eaſt it has the Atlas, called here Hadimei, to the South Hea, to the Weſt Haſcora, and to the North the Kingdom of Fez. It is a fruitful, pleaſant Plain, like that of Lombardy, wonderfully fruitful, and abounding with whatſoever can delight the Senſes of Men, or yield them Food or Pleaſure. Leo Africanus p. 64, 76. He placeth Niſiſa, a Mountain on the Weſt of this Province, dividing it from Hea.

MARONITES, a Chriſtian People in the Eaſt, that dwell towards Mount Lebanon. It is generally believed, that their Name is derived from Maron, who was formerly the head of them. They are alſo ſaid, to have ſometime followed the Errours of the Jacobites, Neſtorians and Monothelites, but they ſeparated from them afterwards. William of Tyre, aſſigns their Re-union with the Roman Church, to the time of Baldwin IV. King of Jeruſalem, and Aimerick, the Latin Patriarch of Antioch. James of Vitry ſaith, that the Patriarch of the Maronites, was preſent in the IV. Lateran

Council, under Innocentius III. in 1215. The Language of the Maronites has ſomewhat of the Syriack, and is the ſame that the Neſtorians and Jacobites ſpeak, tho' theſe write and pronounce it after a different manner. They have their Patriarch, Archbiſhops, Biſhops, and about 150 Curates, but they are ſo oppreſſed by the Turks, that their Clergy are reduced to work for their living. They are very Hoſpitable, and entertain Pilgrims very well, according to their Abilities. They keep Lent, according to the ancient Rigour, eating but one Meal a Day, and that not before they hear Maſs, which is ſaid at 4 in the Afternoon. They have great reſpect for their Prieſts, who are diſtinguiſhed by a blue Scarf they wear about their Caps. Married-men may become Prieſts, but none can take a Wife after he has entered Orders. The Maronites did the Kings of Jeruſalem great ſervice againſt the Saracens. They hold that their Name is not derived from Maron the Monothelite, but from a Borough called Maronia, and from St. Maron, who built a famous Monaſtery, near their Country in the Vth. Century. Pope Gregory XIII. founded a College at Rome, where their Youth are Educated by Jeſuites, and then ſent to their Country. Their Clergy wear no Surplices, nor corner'd Caps, keep particular Faſts and Feaſts, and diſagree in many other things from the Church of Rome. There is a Convent of Maronite-Monks upon Mount Lebanon, who live a very auſtere life, and they have ſome others at Aleppo. Maimbourg Hiſtoire de Schiſme des Grecs. The Patriarch of the Maronites, is a Monk of St. Anthony, claims the Title of Patriarch of Antioch, and is always called Peter; he has about 9 Biſhops under him, and reſides at Edem Canobin, a Monaſtery built on a Rock. They read their Service in the Vulgar Language, as well as in Latin, and while they perform it, turn their Head ſometimes on one ſide, and ſometimes on the other, and pronounce the Word Num, or Eynam ſoftly, as they read, which is as much as to ſay, Yes, or Yes verily, to ſignify that they approve of what they read, as the Word of God. They have ſo great a Reſpect for their Biſhops, that they either riſe up when they drink, or proſtrate themſelves, and pray for them; they Conſecrate the Water for every Child which they Baptize. William, Archbiſhop of Tyre, ſays, That in 1180, the Maronites were above 40000, and very valiant. They have alſo a Grandee of their Nation, whom they call Abounoufel, who reſides ordinarily at Keſraon, and is, in a manner, their Governor, altho' there be others appointed for that end by the Grand Signior; He is Lieutenant unto, and very intimate with the Prince of the Druſes, who inhabit about Mount Lebanon, and might together, if aſſiſted by the Princes of Europe, do much to expel the Turks from Syria. Others ſay, That the Maronites denied the Proceſſion of the Holy Ghoſt, obſerved the Saturday, as well as the Sabbath, Condemned the 4th Marriage, as unlawful; denied that the Souls of the Godly enter Heaven, until the Reſurrection; held that all Souls were created together; that Hereticks are to be Re-baptized. That the Child is not to be Baptized, till the Mother be purified, which they do not allow till 40 Days after a Male, and 80 after a Female; that Children ſhould receive the Euchariſt, aſſoon as Baptized; that the Father may diſſolve the Marriage of his Child, if he diſlikes it; that Women in their Menſes, are not to be admitted to the Sacraments, nor into the Church. They did Communicate in both Kinds, denied the neceſſity of reſerving the Euchariſt, or carrying it to ſick Perſons; rejected Confirmation, &c. But in the Time of Gregory XIII. and Clement VIII. they were United to the Church of Rome. Poſſevin. Appar. &c.

MAROSIA, a Roman Lady, Daughter of Theodora, a very lewd Woman. She made uſe of her Beauty and Wit, to engage into her Criminal Deſigns, the Nobleſt amongſt the Romans. She made Popes, and unmade them, as ſhe pleaſed; for ſhe cauſed John X. to be Depoſed, and his Brother to be killed. She put to death Leo VI. and in 931, placed upon the Pontifical See, John XI. whom ſhe had got by Sergius III. She had a Son by Adelbert, Marqueſs of Tuſcany, yet married Guy, an Elder Son of the ſame Marquiſs; and after him, his Brother Hugh, who, upon a Difference with her own Son, by Adelbert, was chaſed out of Rome, and John XI. the Mock-Pope, impriſoned. Luitprand. lib. 3. Flodoardus in Chron. Baronius in Annal. A. C. 908. 928, &c.

MAROT (Clement) a famous French Poet, Gentleman of the Chamber to Francis I. He flouriſhed in the laſt Age, was born at Cahors, but Originally a Norman; his Father being Poet to Queen Anne of Bretany. Marot was very pleaſant, and had much Reſpect at Court, and could Verſify on all Subjects with great facility; he was alſo much eſteemed by the King, but, at laſt, baniſhed the Court, becauſe a Proteſtant. The Tranſlation of the French Pſalms, uſed by the Proteſtants of that Kingdom, is of his compoſure. They were Cenſured in the Sorbonne, and forbid by Francis I. He compoſed many other Poems, which are eſteemed for his pleaſant Wit. Strada. Spond.

MARPESSA, or Alcyone, was the Daughter of Evenus, King of Ætolia, who having precipitated himſelf into the River Licolmus, it went afterwards by his Name. Ida run away with her, and Apollo would have taken her, by force, from him; but Mercurius being choſen Judge of the Difference, allowed Marpeſſa the liberty to chuſe her own Husband. She preferred the firſt, who afterwards was together with her, changed into an Halcyon, having had the Misfortune to drown himſelf. Homerus lib. 9. Iliad. See IDA and MARPESSA.

MARPURG, a Town of Germany in Heſſia, upon Lann, with a Cittadel, and an Univerſity founded in 1526, by Philip, Landtgrave of Heſſia. Cluverius believes Marpurg, to be the Amaſia of the Ancients; but it is more probable, that it is Embden in Friſia. Berthius thinks alſo, that Mattium in Tacitus, and Mattiacus in Ptolemy, is Marpurg. The Latin Name at this day is Marpurgum, or Matiuburgum and Matthiacum. This Town had formerly its own particular Princes, but now it belongs to the Landgrave of Heſſia. The Caſtle is upon a Hill, the Houſes are well built, the Streets are very large and fair. It is 11 Miles from Caſſel to the North Weſt, and 20 from Cologne to the South Eaſt.

MARQUARD-FREHER, a learned German Lawyer of Augsbourg, born in 1565. He learned under the famous Cujas at Bourges, and afterwards became Law-Profeſſor at Heidelberg, and, at laſt, Vice-Preſident of the Senate of that City. He was well read in Ancient Hiſtory, a great Admirer of Painting, and antique Pieces, as appears by his curious Collection of Conſuls, and Emperors Medals. The moſt conſiderable of the Books he hath printed, are theſe. De re monetaria veterum Romanorum & Hodierni apud Germanos Imperii, lib. 11. De fama & παρέργων. Rerum Bohemicarum Scriptores varii. Rerum Germanicarum Scriptores à Carolo magno ad Fredericum tertium. Corpus hiſtoriæ Franciæ. Originum Palatinorum Comment. &c. He died in 1614. Melchior Adam.

MARQUISATE of the Holy Empire, one of the 17 Provinces of the Low-Countries, conſiſting of the City of Antwerp, with its Territory. The Situation gave it Name, becauſe it lies upon the Borders or Marches of France, and the Empire.

MARS, the God of War, the Son of Juno; who brought him forth by touching a Flower, which was ſhewed her by Flora. It is feigned, that ſhe did ſo in revenge, becauſe Jupiter begat Pallas out of his Brain without her. Mars was born in Thracia. The Poets ſpeak of his Amours with Venus, and how they were ſurprized together by Vulcan. The ancient Idolaters ſacrificed a Horſe to Mars, and a Wolf, and a Dog. 'Tis ſaid, he begot on Venus, Hermione, the Wife of Cadmus; on Rhea, Romulus and Remus; on Thebe, the Daughter of Aſopus, the fair Evadne. Heſiodus in Theogon. Ovid. Homer. &c. Lilio Giraldi lib. 10. hiſt. Deor. Natalis Comes in Mytholog. &c.

MARSAL, a ſtrong place in Lorrain, belonging to the French, within one League of Moyenvic, and five of Nancy. It ſtood a Siege of Thirty four Days, in 1663, againſt the Forces of Lewis XIV. and was then ſo ſtrong both by Art and Nature, that it was thought it might have coſt many Months to reduce it.

MARSALA, a Town of Sicily, built by the Romans during the Carthaginian War. Some Authors give it the Name of Lilybæum, which was formerly the Name of the Promontory, now called Capó Boco. However it is ſeated in the Valley Mazara, and is populous, and well fortified againſt the Turkiſh Pirats. It ſtands 50 Miles from Palermo to the South, 12 from Trapano, and 160 from the neareſt Coaſt of Africa. Near this City, the Romans, under Atilius Regulus, gave the Carthaginian Fleet a very great Defeat.

MARSAN, a ſmall Tract in Gaſcoigny. The Principal Town has the ſame Name, which lies 16 Miles from Dax to the North-Eaſt, and from Bourdeaux to the South. This Territory is water'd by the River Midoux, and has been a Viſcounty above 600 Years.

MARSAQUIVIR, a Sea-Port of Africa, upon the Coaſt of Barbary, near the Town of Oran, belonging to the King of Spain.

MARSEILLES, a Town of France in Provence, with a Biſhop's See, and a famous Harbour upon the Mediterranean Sea. This Town was ſo potent, and ſo famous all the World over, for her Government, her Victories, and her Univerſity, that the Romans made an Alliance with her, and granted her ſeveral Privileges. Authors do not agree about the Founders of it, though all agree it was the Phocians. It is believed, That thoſe Aſiatick Greeks, came at two ſeveral times into Provence, the firſt towards An. Rom. 164. when they firſt founded Marſeilles, but 50 Years after, another Company of them embelliſhed it mightily. Some add, That the Leaders of thoſe Aſiatick Græcians, were Furius and Peranus; and that at their arrival in the Country, they were kindly received by Senanus, King of the Ligurian Gauls, whoſe Daughter Gyptis, otherwiſe called Peta, or Ariſtoxena, being privileged by the Laws of the Country, to make choice of her Husband, pitched upon the Chief of the Græcians, and whether this was done by the Gift of a Garland of Flowers, or in giving Water to waſh, or finally, in preſenting him the Cup ſhe drank out of. 'Tis affirm'd, That Protis, Chief of the Family of Prolide, very famous at Marſeilles, came of that Marriage. Theſe new Inhabitants, made very important Laws, founded ſeveral Temples, and a famous Academy; Eſtabliſhed Arts and Manufactures, and took great care to Till and Manure the Land. The Government was Ariſtocratick; and of 600 Senators that formed the Council, 15 were choſen to take care of the Affairs of the City. The Situation of Marſeilles is different now, from what is was formerly. It is divided into Four Quarters, whereof each hath its Captains, and Officers. The Parts are, St. John, Cavaillon, the Body of the City, and the Blanqueive, with Four Principal Churches; the Port, which on one ſide hath the Fortreſs, and the Abby of St. Victor, has on the other a Key of above 1300 Paces in length: The Entrance into the Port, is ſhut up with a Chain, ſupported, at certain diſtances, upon Three Pillars of Stone, that leave place but for one Ship to come in at a time. The Ancient Marſeillians, civiliz'd moſt part of Gaul, and made a ſtrict Alliance with the Romans, who owned, they never had more faithful, nor more generous Friends. Their Force was very conſiderable, for they often maintained a War againſt the Gauls, Ligurians, and other Nations; built ſeveral Cities, as Nue, Antibe, Agde, &c. and planted many Colonies. Cæſar took it, and the Barbarians plunder'd it afterwards. Alphonſus, King of Portugal, ſurprized it in 1423, but it has, ſince that time, been repaired ſo well, that it made a vigorous Defence againſt Charles of Bourbon, in 1524, and againſt Charles V. in 1536, ſince, it was enlarged by the King's Order; it may be called one of the largeſt, moſt beautiful, and beſt peopled Cities in the World. In fine, this Town, upon the decay of the Empire, had firſt the Goths, then the Burgundians, and laſtly, the French for its Maſters. Its Port is neat and magnificent, the great number of its Churches, Monaſteries, Seminaries, Hoſpitals, Publick Places and Fountains, deſerve all Strangers Curioſity; nor is there leſs pleaſure in ſeeing the fruitful Country about it, where the Citizens have above 20000 Country-Houſes, which they call Baſtidides. This Town is exempted from Taxes, and from contributing to the Ban and Arrier-ban. It alſo makes a ſeparate Body from that of the Province. Ruffy, *Soleri & Gueſnay's Hiſt. of Marſeill. MARSHLAND, a Tract in the County of Norfolk, near Lyn-Regis, on the other ſide of the River Ouſe, ſo called from its being a Marſh. The Soil is fat, and feeds abundance of Cattle. It wants freſh Water, and is liable to the Inundations of the Sea.

MARSI, a People of Italy, in the Country of the Samnites, now Abruzzo Vlterior in the Kingdom of Naples, towards the Patrimony of St. Peter. There is ſtill a ſmall Country under the Title of Dutchy of Marza. Titus Livius and Appianus, mention the Marſick War. It began An. Rom. 663. againſt ſeveral of the Roman Allies, who pretended to be made Citizens of Rome. Their Deſign of Killing the Two Conſuls at a Feaſt called Latinæ feriæ, having been diſcovered, they fell upon the Pro-Conſul Q. Servilius & Fontejus, his Lieutenant, and put to Death all the Romans that were in the Town of Aſcoli. Cæſar, Strabo, Pliny, &c. mention the Marſi, as well as Virgil, lib. 7. Æneid.

MARSI, a People mentioned by Tacitus, in the Lower Germany. Ortelius thinks they were in the Province of Over-Yſſel in the Low-Countries, and there is ſtill ſome ſteps of them, in the Name of a Village called Ditmarſen.

MARSIAS, the Son of Oeager, a Shepherd, who had the Impudence to challenge Apollo at playing upon the Flute, but he ſuffered for it. The Poets feigned, that the Satyrs did hereupon ſhed ſo many Tears, that they made the River called Marſias.

MARSLEY-Hill, a Hill in Herefordſhire, whereof Mr. Cambden and Mr. Speed relate a Story, That on Saturday, Feb. 7. 1571, about Six a Clock in the Evening, it moved, with a roaring noiſe, from the place where it ſtood, and, by Seven the next Morning, had gone about 200 Foot, continuing its Travels Three Days together, that Kinnaſton-Chapel hereupon fell down, with ſome Trees, Hedges, and Cotes for Sheep, and ſome ſtood; that 2 Highways were turned about 300 Foot from their former Paths, the Eaſt parts to the Weſt, and the Weſt to the Eaſt, Paſturage being left in the place of Tillage, and Tillage of Paſturage.

MARSYAS, the Statue of a Man that was in a publick Place at Rome, eſteemed to be under the Protection of the God Liber or Bacchus. It was the Privilege of a Free Town; for thoſe that payed Tribute, or were but Confederate, were not allowed to erect ſuch a Statue. Servius ad lib. 3. Æneid. Cœlius Rhodiginus Gentilium.

MARTABAN, a great Town in Aſia, in the Kingdom of Siam, and the Peninſula of Indus beyond Ganges.

MARTEGUES, or Martigues, Lat. Maritima Colonia, a Town of France in Provence, with the Title of Principality. That Town, which ſome call the Venice of France, contains Three Parts, Jonquieres, the Iſle, and Ferrieres. The Inhabitants are famous for Fiſhing. It is ſituate upon the Lake Berri, whence there have been Canals made for Communication with the Sea, which is but at a Mile's diſtance, ſo that the greateſt Barks come up to the Lake; ſo that Martegues, eſpecially the Iſle, ſtands in the Water, and they paſs from one part of the Town to the other over Bridges. The Inhabitants are moſt of them good Pilots in the Mediterranean, and expert Fiſher-men. This Town was formerly called The Iſle; or Bridge of St. Genais, the Incurſions of the Barbarians, unpeopled it; but it was ſince Rebuilt, where it ſtands now. *Noſtradamus Hiſt. of Provence. St. MARTHA, Siſter to Mary Magdalen and Lazarus. The common Tradition in Provence is, That after the Death of Chriſt, ſhe was expoſed upon the Sea with her Siſter, her Brother, and ſome others, and that the Boat arriving at Marſeilles, ſhe lived retired near the River Rhodanus, in a place where the Town of Taraſcon ſtands at this time, and died like a Saint. St. Luke 10. St. John 11. *Baronius in Annal. MARTIA, the Wife of Cato of Vtica, whom he gave freely to Hortenſius, his Friend, who was in love with her. Being afterwards a Widow, the ſame Cato took her again, in the beginning of the Civil Wars. He was blamed for putting her away when ſhe was poor, and taking her again, being made rich by the Liberality of Hortenſius. Plutarch. in vit. Caton.

MARTIALIS, (Marcus Valerius) a Latin Poet, born at Bilbilis, now called Bubiera, a Town of the Ancient Celtiberia in Spain, which is the Kingdom of Arragon. That Town is upon the River Salo, or Xalo, that falls into Ebro above Saragoſſa. His Father was called Fronto, and his Mother Flacilla, as he owns himſelf in the 35th. Epigram of the 5th. Book. He was but 21 Years old when he came to Rome, and he lived there 35 under the Emperors Galba, Otho, Vitellius, Veſpaſianus, Titus, Domitianus, Nerva, and Trajanus. He was in favour with Titus Veſpaſian, and Domitian his Brother, who gave him the Jus Trium Liberorum, and made him a Gentleman. It is probable, he left Rome, after the firſt and ſecond Year of Trajan, ſeeing himſelf ſlighted by him. He returned into his Country, where he died five or ſix Years after. We have 14 Books of his Epigrams, and it is probable, that we have not all that he writ. Plinius Junior, maketh an honourable mention of him, lib. 3. *Ep. ult. See alſo Spartianus in Ælio Vero. MARTIALIS, Biſhop of Merida in Spain. He was charg'd, in the IIId. Century, with being an Idolater, and the Matter of Fact being notorious, his People refus'd to Communicate with him, and own him for their Biſhop, which Conduct of theirs is juſtified by St. Cyprian. Cyprian Epiſt. 52, 64, 68.

St. MARTIN, Biſhop of Tours in the IVth. Century, was an Hungarian by Birth, the Son of a Soldier, and himſelf a Soldier. He was Baptized, and preſerved his Innocence in ſo dangerous a Profeſſion. He acquired, in a retired Life, all the Virtues requiſite in a Biſhop. St. Hilary of Poictiers made him Exorciſt, to engage him to become a Clergy-man, without offending his Humility, and he became a very great Proficient in Piety under ſo good a Maſter. He was Elected Biſhop of Tours, againſt his Will, and that Election proved to be the Happineſs, the Glory, and Advantage of that Church, and of all the Gauls. His Zeal for the Propagation of the Faith, and Deſtruction of Idolatry, was beyond all compariſon. The Ancient Gauls had ſuch reſpect for the Memory of this Holy Man, that they were wont to carry his Chape in the Wars, as a Banner, and counted their Years from his Death, which happened at Cande, upon a Sunday Morning, Nov. 11. or, as Gregory of Tours ſaith, Mediâ nocte quæ Dominica habebatur, in 400. Gregorius Turonenſis, Sulpitius Severus, Paulinus and Fortunatus, make an honourable mention of him, eſpecially the ſecond who was his Diſciple, and who hath written his Life more particularly. See alſo the Authors of the Hiſtory of France, Baronius, Sponde in Annal. Eccleſ. Robert of St. Marthe, Gall. Chriſt. &c.

Popes of the Name of MARTIN.

MARTIN I. Pope, born at Todi, in the Dutchy of Spoletto. He ſucceeded Theodorus, July 1. 649. Immediately after his Election, he called a Council of 105 Biſhops at Rome, where having read and examined carefully all that had been written concerning the Hereſy of the Monothelites, they determined that there were Two Wills, and Two Operations in Jeſus Chriſt. Their Sence was explained in Twenty Canons; Theodorus, Biſhop of Pharate; Cyrus, Biſhop of Alexandria; and ſeveral others were declared Hereticks. The Edict likewiſe of Heraclius, the Emperor, call'd Ecthesis, was cenſur'd here, and ſo was the Typus of Conſtantius, which Paul, Biſhop of Conſtantinople, had affix'd to the Church-Doors, as a Draught of Fundamentals, or Creed. Platina adds, That the Saracens taking heart upon this great Diſſention, between the Eaſtern and Weſtern Churches, ſet ſail from Alexandria with a great Fleet, and arriving at Rhodes, took the City, and deſtroyed the famous and celebrated Coloſs there, with the Braſs of which, 'tis ſaid, they loaded 900 Camels, this Coloſs being 70 Foot high, the Workmanſhip of Charas, the Scholar of Lyſippus. Afterwards having poſſeſſed themſelves of ſeveral Iſlands in the Archipelago, and thence ſailing to Sicily, they very much infeſted the Inhabitants of that Iſland. Hereupon Olympius, at the entreaty of Pope Martin, makes an Expedition, and forces them thence, though not without the loſs of many of his Ships and Men, and even that of his own Life too, for he fell Sick in Sicily, and died there. But Conſtantius, not in the leaſt better'd by theſe Calamities, Commands Theodorus Calliopa into Italy, with expreſs Order, that he ſhould ſend Pope Martin bound to him. Theodorus having been honourably received by the Romans, and going upon pretence of making a Viſit to the Pope, ſeizes, and puts him in Fetters, and ſo ſends him to Conſtantinople, from whence he was afterwards baniſhed to Cherſoneſus, where pinched with extream want, he died in 634, after he had been in the Chair 6 Years, 1 Month, 26 Days. He writ ſeveral Epiſtles, 18 of which are printed in the Edition of the Council by Binius, and elſewhere. Anaſtaſius in vit. Pontif. Baron. in Annal. & Martyr. &c.

MARTIN II. ſaid to be the IVth. by them that count Martin I. and II. amongſt the Popes of that Name, was a French-man, and was Elected after Nicholas III. in 1281. He was born at Monpincè, in the little Province of Brie. The See had been vacant ſix Months, when he was ſet upon the Pontifical Throne at Viterbo. He was Pope 4 Years, 1 Month, and 7 Days. This Pope was very much diſpleas'd with the barbarous Maſſacre of the French in Sicily, call'd the Sicilian Veſpers, which happened in 1282; upon which Score he excommunicated Peter, King of Arragon, the contriver of it; and Michael Palæologus, Emperor of the Eaſt, who was an Ally of that Prince. Platina, du Cheſne, Papirius Maſſon, &c. in vit. Pontif. Sponde & Rainaldi in Annal. Eccleſ.

MARTIN III. ſaid to be the Vth. a Roman, whoſe Name was Otho, or Eudet Colonna, was made Pope in the Council of Conſtance. Gregory XII. had voluntarily Abdicated the Pontificate, and John XXIII. had been Depoſed there, as well as the Anti-pope, Peter de Luna, who cauſed himſelf to be called Benedict XIII. The Fathers of that Council, who wiſhed to ſee an end of the Schiſm, that had divided the Church during 40 Years, thought it neceſſary to proceed to the Election of a Pope, who ſhould be made, for that time only, by the Cardinals in Conjunction, with 30 Prelates, or other Eccleſiaſticks, out of the ſeveral Nations that were then in Council. Afterwards the Cardinals, and other Electors, entred into the Conclave, which was in the Guild-Hall at Conſtance, where, ſix Days after, they choſe Martin V. who was Crowned Novemb. 21. 1417. He was Son to Agapet Colonna. Innocent VII. had made him a Cardinal, and he was ſeveral times a Legate. The Pope preſided in the Forty ſecond Seſſion of the Council, and omitted nothing that might conduce to the Peace of the Church. He ſent his Nuntio's likewiſe to Conſtantinople, to put an end to the Schiſm between the Greek and Latin Churches, but did not ſucceed in his deſign. He likewiſe wrote to the Huſſites, to bring them back to his Communion, and made a famous Conſtitution in favour of Eccleſiaſticks againſt Secular Judges, but he had not the ſatisfaction to ſee the finiſhing of theſe Projects, for he died of an Apoplexy at Rome, Feb. 20. 1431. Aged 63. Martin compoſed ſeveral Works. Platina ſpeaks very advantageouſly of this Pope, ſaying, he was a Man of great Prudence in Debates, for he would tell what ought to be done, as ſoon as a thing was propoſed to him; he was ſhort in his Speeches, and wary in his Actions, inſomuch that People ſaw a thing effected, before they could imagine he had thought of it. His Diſcourſe was full of Sentences, uſing no Word ſo much as (Juſtice), frequently turning to his Attendants and Familiars, eſpecially them that governed Cities and Provinces, and ſaying, Love Juſtice, ye that judge the Earth. 'Tis obſerved of him, that he never denied a reaſonable Requeſt. He begun to reform the Manners of both the Laity and Clergy, which were Debauched with too much Licenſe: He Abrogated all Decrees that were made during the Schiſm, before his Pontificate, except ſuch as were made to promote Faith, or good Manners. He found Rome at his return ſtrangely ruinated, the Houſes being ready to totter, the Churches fallen down, the Streets empty, the City full of Dirt and Mire, and in extream want of all ſorts of Proviſions, the Citizens ſeeming rather Sojourners and Vagabonds than conſtant Dwellers; and as he had begun with great ſucceſs, to put things in their former Condition, the Tyber ſwelled ſo high, that it came in at the Porta del Popolo, over-flow'd the whole City, which lies upon a level, and filled the Church of St. Mary the round, as far as the great Altar; two Days after it fell, but took much Cattle along with it, and did great damage to the Citizens, who ſailed about the Streets, as upon the Tyber. Sometime after, Martin applied his Mind to adorn the City and Churches, and to that purpoſe, repaired the Portico of St. Peter's, which was falling down, and paved the Lateran Church with Moſaick Work, Ciel'd it a-new, and began thoſe Paintings there, which were done by the hand of the famous Gentilis; he likewiſe repaired the old Palace that was ready to fall, near the Twelve Apoſtles, where he lived ſome Years; the Cardinals followed his Examples, and re-edified their Churches, as faſt as they could. In the mean time, Peter de Luna dying, the Two Anti-Cardinals of his Party, perſwaded by King Alphonſus, Martin's Enemy, choſe Giles Munio, a Canon of Barcelona, and a Noble-man Pope, and called him Clement VIII. who immediately made Cardinals, and acted as Pope. But Martin and Alphonſus becoming Friends, Giles reſigned his Title to the Popedom. Martin uſed great Diſcretion in conferring Benefices, advancing none but deſerving Men; the Clergy and Citizens of Rome bewailed his Death, as if their City had been bereft of its only and beſt Patron. See Lewis Jacob Bibl. Pontif. The Acts of the Council of Conſtance, Bzovius, Sponde & Rainaldi in Annal. Eccleſ.

MARTIN, King of Arragon, was Second Son to Peter IV. called The Ceremonious. He uſurped the Crown in 1395. after the Death of his Brother John I. who died by a Fall off his Horſe when he was hunting, to the prejudice of two Daughters whom he left. He died May 21. 1410. the laſt of the Family of the Counts of Barcelona. Surita in Ind. lib. 3. Mariana lib. 19.

MARTIN (Luther) was born at Iſleben in 1483. At 18 Years of Age he went to Study at Erfurt, and Commencing Maſter of Arts in 1505. he applied himſelf to the Study of the Law, but being frightned by a Thunder-bolt which killed his Companion, as they were a walking, he became an Auguſtin Monk againſt his Father's Will. A little after he was ſent to Rome, about a Controverſy which happened amongſt thoſe of his Order, and carried himſelf ſo that he obtained the Character of a prudent Man. He came to Wittemberg in 1508. ſix Years after the Foundation of that Univerſity, where he taught Ariſtotle's Philoſophy. In 1512, he was made Doctor of Divinity by Caroloſtadius, and ſoon after publiſhed his Explication of the Pſalms, Romans, Galatians; and, in 1516, began to explain the Decalogue and Catechiſm to the People. That ſame Year he diſputed with the School-Divines about Free-Will, Merits, and Humane Traditions, on Octob. 31. 1517, being All Saints Eve. He ſet up publickly 95 Propoſitions againſt the Pope's Indulgences, which Tecelius ſold about. After this, Luther requeſted the Archbiſhop of Mentz, who had the charge of diſpenſing the Indulgences, that inſtead of them, he would order the Goſpel to be preach'd, the Biſhop of Miſnia, having, before that time, thrown the Indulgences out of his Dioceſs; Tecelius, in the mean time, diſputed for the Indulgences at Frankford, and ſtirred up the Archbiſhop of Magdeburg, and others, againſt Luther, who boldly anſwered all their Writings. Being Summoned to appear at Rome, he declined it, becauſe of the Danger, but went to Cardinal Cajetan, the Pope's Legate at Augsburg, in 1518, who, urging him to a Recantation, he deſired, That in the firſt place, he might be convinced of his Error, but finding that the Cardinal was more for uſing Power than Argument, he returned to Wittemberg, and Appealed from the Cardinal to the Pope, on Octob. 16. and becauſe he thought the Pope did privately ſeek his Life, he Appealed from him to a Council, Nov. 28. Then he publiſhed the Declaration of his Meaning, in the Propoſitions againſt the Indulgences, which he dedicated to Leo X. He publiſhed alſo Sermons concerning the Virtue of Excommunication, Penance, and Preparation to the Holy Supper, with a Meditation on our Saviour's Paſſion. Other Doctors did alſo join with him, and particularly Zuinglius in Swiſſerland. Eraſmus alſo writ concerning him, at the ſame time, that he neither Accuſed nor Defended Luther, owning, however, that he Recommended very excellent things, but he wiſhed that he had done it with more Civility; and he publiſhed alſo a Book, adviſing Luther to Moderation, who, in the mean time, went on to publiſh his Sermons about Juſtification, ſaving Meditation on Chriſt's Death, Baptiſm, Preparation to Death, and an Expoſition on the Galatians. He was Excommunicated by Pope Leo, An. 1521. and publiſhed his Adherence to all his Propoſitions, which the Pope had Condemned, and Appealed from him again to a Council. He alſo Reply'd to the Univerſities of Lovain and Cologne, who condemned his Books to the Fire; he wrote alſo a Book concerning Chriſtian Liberty, which Book he ſent to Leo, and another concerning the Babyloniſh Captivity, whereby he provoked the Roman Catholicks againſt him. He diſputed at Leipſick with Eckius, before the Elector of Saxony, about the Pope's Supremacy, and did baffle him, but the D. himſelf cried out, That, Whether it be by Divine or Humane Right, he is Pope. The ſame Year, he was Summoned to appear before the Diet at Worms, and anſwered thoſe who diſſwaded him from appearing, That he would go, though as many Devils ſhould oppoſe him, as there were Tiles upon the Houſes of Worms; and accordingly he appeared before the Emperor, and Princes of the Empire, where he maintained his Doctrines with an undaunted Reſolution; and while ſome of them, according to the practice of the Council of Conſtance, would have had his ſafe Conduct violated, the Elector Palatine oppoſed it. He left Worms, April 26. and on May 8. was proſcribed by the Emperor; but the Elector of Saxony kept him ſo privately in the Caſtle of Wurtsburg, that his Enemies could not diſcover him during this Confinement, which he called his Patmos, he wrote abundance of things. He was again Excommunicated by the Pope, March 28. and publiſhed his Anſwer. He had afterwards ſome Diſputes with Caroloſtadius about Chriſt's Preſence in the Sacrament, and Images, and in 1552, did begin again to Preach publickly; after this, he had ſome Controverſies with the Enthuſiaſts, Stork, and Muntzer, and King Henry VIII. of England, who wrote againſt him. But the Monks, by reading of the Books which were wrote by Luther, and others, deſerted their Monaſteries a-pace; and he, with the help of Melancthon, did publiſh the New Teſtament in the German Tongue. March 6. 1523, a Decree was made by the Princes of the Empire Aſſembled at Nuremberg, that a free General Council was the beſt means to ſettle Controverſies in the Church, and that in the mean time, Divines ſhould Preach the Goſpel modeſtly and purely, which Luther interpreted for himſelf. He aboliſhed the Canon of the Maſs at Wittemberg, and Adminiſtred the Lord's Supper, but recalled Auricular Confeſſion, which Caroloſtadius aboliſhed. He publiſhed a Book of the Duty and Dignity of the Civil Magiſtrate, which rejoyced the Elector extreamly. He wrote to the Waldenſes, about the Adoration of the Sacrament, and an Elegy upon two Auguſtin-Monks, who were burnt for Lutheraniſm at Bruſſels. He laid aſide his Friar's Habit 1524, wrote againſt Eraſmus about Free-Will, Caroloſtadius about the Sacrament, and the Seditious Articles publiſhed by the Boors. About that ſame time, he married Catharine à Boren, of Noble Deſcent, who had been formerly a Nun; and wrote againſt Oecolampadius and Zuinglius, about the Sacrament. In 1528, at the Diet of Spires, the Name of Proteſtant had its Original, and that ſame Year, the Smalcaldian Confederacy againſt the Roman Catholicks begun. An Agreement was made betwixt him and Zuinglius, at the Conference of Marpurg, which was not long lived. In 1530, the Augsburg Confeſſion, compoſed by Melancthon, was exhibited to the Emperor Charles V. and a Peace was made as to Affairs of Religion, in 1532, until a free General Council ſhould meet, which Ceſſation was obtained by the Electors, Mentz and Palatine. In 1534. Luther publiſhed the whole Bible in the German Tongue; and in 1536, there was a right Underſtanding betwixt him and Bucer. In 1537, he diſputed againſt the Antinomians; and in 1538, publiſhed his Book concerning the Councils and Church. In Sept. 1544, he publiſhed his laſt Confeſſion, as to the Sacrament, explaining what it was that the Worthy, and Unworthy received, in partaking of the ſame. Concerning which, the Divines of Zurick ſhortly after publiſhed their Opinion. He died at Iſleben, a little before the Smalcaldian War, An. 1546. He was a magnanimous Perſon, even by the Conceſſion of his Enemies, and undertook ſuch things, as the World may reaſonably admire, having oppoſed himſelf alone to the whole Earth. His Followers called themſelves Lutherans, much againſt his mind, but they recede from him in many things, as may be ſeen by their Writings. Melancthon ſays of him; Pomeranus is a Grammarian, and explains the Signification of Words; I am a Logician, and ſhow the Connexion between Propoſitions, and the Methods of Reaſoning; Juſtus Jonas is an Orator, and diſcourſes copiouſly, and with Eloquence; but Luther is good at every thing, the Wonder of Mankind; for whatever he Says, or Writes, it penetrates the Heart, and makes a laſting Impreſſion. Edward Leigh, our Country-man, ſays of him, Melancthon has both Words and Matter; Eraſmus, Words without Matter; and Luther, Matter without Words; and Melancthon, upon ſeeing his Picture after his Death, broke out into this Extemporary Verſe, Fulmina erant Linguæ ſingula Verba tuæ.

MARTIN, or Martinus Polonus, was ſo called, doubtleſs becauſe he was born in Poland, though ſome will have him to be a Scotch, others a French-man. Volaterranus writes, that he was born at Carſola, a Town of Italy in Ombria, confounding him, 'tis like, with one Martin of Carſola, whom he mentions in his 22d Book in theſe Words, Pontificum Romanorum, ſeu temporum eorum hiſtorias ſcripſere Vincentius, & Martinus Carſulanus, &c. However this Martin was a Monk of the Order of St. Dominick, and not a Ciſtercian, or a Benedictine, as we find in Charles Viſch, the Author of the Bibliotheca Ciſtercienſis; and Gaſper Jongelin, in his Book Entituled, Purpura S. Bernardi, and ſeveral others. Martinus Polonus writ a Chronicle, which, in ſome Editions, ends in 1320, which made ſome Authors believe that he lived ſo long; but certainly there muſt be an Addition by ſome Author, or other, ſince Martinus himſelf ſets down the time when his Work endeth, in theſe Words of the Preface, Ego frater Martinus, Domini Papæ Pœnitentiarius & Capellanus, ex diverſis Chronicis & geſtis ſummorum Pontificum & Imperatorum præſens opuſculum uſque ad Johannem XXI. Papam deduxi incluſive. The Pope died in 1277. Onuphrius in Chron. Trithemius & Bellarminus de ſcript. Eccleſ. Leander Alberti.

MARTINA, Niece, and ſecond Wife to the Emperor Heraclius, fearing leaſt her Son Heracleonas could not obtain the Empire, becauſe Conſtantine, her Husband's Son; whom he had ſucceeded, had Two Sons, ſhe cauſed this young Emperor to be poiſoned by Pyrrhus, Patriarch of Conſtantinople, and uſurped the Government of the Empire. But about Two Years after, the Senate of that City, Sentenced her to have her Tongue cut off, leaſt ſhe ſhould perſwade the People to revolt by her Eloquence, and cauſed the Noſe of Heracleonas, her Son, to be cut off, leaſt he ſhould move them to Compaſſion by his Beauty; he was called Conſtantine IV. They were afterwards ſent both in Exile into Cappadocia, a Province of Aſia Minor. Cuſpinian in vita Heraclii.

MARTINI, a Jeſuit, born at Trent. He lived many Years in China, and hath writ a Book De Bello Tartaros inter & Chinenſes, printed at Antwerp, in 1654. Hiſtoria Sinenſis Decas 1. Atlas Sinicus. He returned into Europe, in 1651. He made a Geographical Deſcription of China, with a general Map of the ſame, very exact, and 15 particular Maps of the 15 Provinces of that Empire. He hath added a Map of the Peninſula of Corea, and another of Japan.

MARTINIANUS, a Captain, his Courage advanced him in the Armies of Licinius. He was Maſter of the Offices, or Maire of the Palace, and the Emperor Created him Cæſar in Chalcedon, but after the bloody Battel, which Conſtantine won near the ſame Town, he was delivered up into the hands of the victorious Soldiers, who tore him in pieces in Cappadocia, in 324. See LICINIUS.

MARTINICO, an Iſland of America, one of the Antilles, or Caribbes. The Ancient Inhabitants called it Madanina, and the Spaniards gave it the Name it hath now. It is about 16 Leagues long, with an unequal breadth, and 45 in Circuit. It is now one of the moſt populous of the Antilles. The French have ſettled there, ſince 1635, and have often beaten the Indians, or Caribbes. The Country is very good and fruitful in Tabaco and Manioc; there is alſo Sugar, Caſſia, Cotton, Potato's, Indian Figgs, Bananes, &c. There be many dangerous Serpents, which creep into the Houſes of the Indians, and get into their very Beds. There is but one Fort called Fort St. Peter. There are a great number of Tortoiſes on the Coaſts of this Iſland. The Modern Relations of it, give an Account of 40 Rivers, whereof ſome are Navigable a good way into the Country. The Engliſh, under Sir Francis Wheeler, landed in this Iſland, and over-run moſt of it, deſtroying all the Sugar-Plants, and other its Plantations, without any conſiderable Oppoſition in the Year 1693. Du Fertre, Linſchot, Rochefort's Hiſt. of the Antilles, &c.

MARTINUSIUS, (George) Cardinal Biſhop of Waradin. He took the Name of Martinuſius, which was that of his Mother. He was a great Stateſman, and had a great hand in the Troubles and Wars of Hungary. Ladiſlaus VI. King of Hungary, dying in 1616, left Lewis the Young, and Anne married to Ferdinand of Auſtria, firſt Emperor of that Name. Lewis being killed in the unhappy Battel of Mohatz, in 1626, part of the Hungarians choſe John of Zapol, Count of Scepus, and Vaivod of Tranſilvania; but Ferdinand, who had his Party too, beat him out of Hungary, whereupon he went to Poland for help from Sigiſmond, King of Poland, his Father-in-law; here he came acquainted with Martinuſius, through whoſe Intrigues and help, he afterwards re-mounted the Throne, for which good Service, he made him Treaſurer of his Kingdom, Miniſter of State, and beſtowed upon him the Biſhoprick of Waradin. He repoſed ſo much truſt in him, that on his Death-bed, he Conſtituted him, and the Queen, Tutors to his young Son John Stephen, whom Martinuſius Crowned King after his Death, notwithſtanding the Agreement made with Ferdinand, That after the Father's Death, the Son ſhould content himſelf with Tranſilvania. Hereupon Ferdinand ſent an Army, under Roccandolph, into Hungary, which having taken ſeveral Towns, ſat down before Buda, where the young Prince, the Queen, and Martinuſius were, who immediately ſent to Solyman the Magnificent for Aſſiſtance. This Prince Commanded the Baſha's of Boſnia and Belgrade to march towards Buda, and followed them himſelf with 200000 Men, and inſtead of relieving, made himſelf Maſter of Buda, and of ſeveral other places in Hungary, ſent the Prince and Queen to Tranſilvania, whereof he gave the Government to Martinuſius, and confirm'd upon him the charge of Treaſurer; but upon the Queen's Complaint of his ill uſage of her, he ſent the Baſſa of Buda to her Aſſiſtance; whereupon Martinuſius aſſembled an Army of 50000 Men, beſieged the Queen in Alba Regalis, forced her to an Agreement, then marched towards the Turks, and made them to retire. Solyman diſſembled his Reſentment of this, wrote to him very obliging Letters, and confirmed him in his Places: A little after, Martinuſius his Ambition gave the Queen a freſh Subject of Complaint, and occaſioned a new War; at laſt, he deſigned to ſide with Ferdinand, and made the Queen ſign a Treaty, that was very diſadvantageous to her Son's Intereſt, and would afterwards perſuade her to break it again. The Emperor Ferdinand, Commanded John Baptiſta Gaſtaldo to make him away, which he executed by the help of ſome Aſſaſſines, who killed him in the Caſtle of Bince, or Binch, under Pretence that he kept Correſpondency with the Turks, though the contrary was plain enough, and all thoſe that had a hand in the Murther periſhed miſerably. *Thuanus's Hiſt. MARTIRIUS, or Martyrius, Biſhop of Antioch, ſucceeded Acacius in 459, and governed the Church with great Moderation, until Peter Fullo, and ſome of the Sectators of Apollinarius, accuſed him of Neſtorianiſm, becauſe he defended the Council of Chalcedon; the Biſhop Gennadius ſhewed his Innocence, and the Malice of his Accuſers, before the Emperor Leo at Conſtantinople, whither he was cited, ſo that he was remanded to his Charge at Antioch, where finding that Peter had poſſeſſed himſelf of the Chair, he renounced the See publickly thus: I renounce a defiled Chair, a diſobedient Clergy, a rebellious Flock, and reſerve nothing but the Function of Prieſt. Nicephorus, Liberatus.

MARTORANO, called by the Ancients Mamertium, and at this Day, Mertoranum, a Town of Italy in Calabria, with a Biſhop's See, under the Biſhop of Coſenza.

MARTYR, (Peter) a famous Divine, was born at Florence in 1500, his own Name was Vermilius, but aſſumed that of Martyr. He was a Regular Auguſtin in the Monaſtery of Fiſcoli, ſtudied Greek and Philoſophy at Padua, and Hebrew and Philoſophy at Bononia, where he profited ſo exceedingly, that he was looked upon as the Head of his Order, and one of the ableſt Preachers in Italy. The reading of Zuinglius, and Bucer's Books, begot in him a good Opinion of the Proteſtants, but his Converſe with Valdes, a Spaniſh Lawyer, did altogether confirm him, ſo that he preach'd that Doctrine at Rome privately to many Perſons of Quality; for which he was accuſed, but eſcaped, by the Aſſiſtance of his Friends, to Naples, and thence to Lucca, where he was Superior to a Houſe of his own Order; and there he converted Emanuel Tremellius, Celſus Martinengus, Paul Laſicius, and Jeremy Zanchy, who converted many of the Inhabitants of Lucca afterwards, which occaſioned their going to reſide in Swiſſerland, whither Martyr, and his Companions above-named, did alſo retire, on notice that Pope Paul III. was coming to Lucca. He came firſt to Zurich, then to Baſle, at laſt, to Straſburg, where he ſettled, on Bucer's Requeſt, and preached publickly. Here he married a young Nun, who had left her Convent; and the fame of his Learning, occaſioned his being ſent for to England, by King Edward VI. who made him Profeſſor of Divinity at Oxford, in 1349; but being forced to fly in Queen Mary's Time, he returned to Straſburg, and was honourably invited to Zurick. He was at the Conference of Poiſſy, in 1561, where he diſputed againſt the Papiſts, with Beza, and others. He differed however in his Sentiments from Calvin, about Chriſt's Preſence in the Sacrament, but agreed with him in every thing elſe. He died in 1562, juſt as he was about to Anſwer Brentius, who had writ againſt him and Bullinger. Beza, Thuanus, Voſſius.

MARTYROLOGY, or Diſcourſe concerning Martyrs. There was one attributed to St. Jerom, another to Beda, which others have improved ſince. Valeſius has publiſh'd a little Diſſertation concerning the Roman Martyrology, printed at the end of his Edition of Euſebius's Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory: Here he examines the Reaſons of the Jeſuit Roſweidus, for publiſhing a Book, under the Title of the Roman Martyrology. This Jeſuit goes principally upon the Authority of Baronius, and ſome other Modern Writers, who affirm, That the Church of Rome had a Martyrology proper to her ſelf, of which Gregory the Great, and Ado Viennenſis make mention. Valeſius on the contrary aſſerts, That the Church of Rome never had any particular Martyrology, before that printed by Pope Sixtus Quintus. Valeſius takes it for granted, as clear Matter of Fact, that the moſt Eminent Churches had formerly Faſti or Regiſters, in which the Names of their Biſhops and Martyrs were written, and which afterwards were call'd Calendars: He owns that the Church of Rome had a particular Calendar of this ſort, and that there is an Edition of it printed at Antwerp. He likewiſe grants this Calendar to be of great Antiquity, but then he denies theſe Calendars are, properly ſpeaking, Martyrologies, becauſe Martyrologies take in all the Churches in General, and are made up of a great many Calendars. To ſupport his Opinion, he cites the Teſtimony of Uſuardus, who, in a Letter to the Emperor Charles the Bald, ſtanding at the head of his Martyrology, he gives a Catalogue of thoſe Martyrologies, which were Compil'd before his Time, without making the leaſt mention of the Martyrology of the Church of Rome: Further, Bede in his Commentary upon the Sixth Chapter of St. Mark, cites the Martyrology of St. Jerom, but ſays nothing of the Roman. And here Valeſius obſerves, that the Martyrology cited by Bede, under the Name of St. Jerom, does not belong to that Father, but is a ſuppoſititious Piece, publiſh'd ſoon after his Death.

MARVAN, Son to Mahomet, 15th Califf, or Succeſſor of Mahomet, was Governor of Egypt under the Reign of Jezid-el-Gelid, and was Elected Califf by the People of Egypt and Arabia, in 748. when Hechen was Elected by thoſe of Syria. To ſtrengthen his own Party, he made a Truce with the Emperor, and promiſed to pay him a Tribute of 300 Golden Beſans, 300 Horſes, and 300 Slaves, and to deliver into his hands, all that the Arabians were poſſeſs'd of in Thracia, upon Condition that the Emperor ſhould help him. So he eaſily over-came Hechen, whom he put to Death in the firſt Year of his Reign, with his Children, and all that were of the Houſe of Gelid. When he was Maſter of Syria, he cauſed the Walls of Jeruſalem and Damaſcus to be pulled down. In 751, he ſent a powerful Army into Spain againſt Abderame, who not thinking himſelf ſtrong enough, croſſed into Africa to demand help. In the mean time, the Arabians, who met with no Enemies in Spain, turned their Arms againſt the French, and croſſing the Pyrenæan Mountains, made an Incurſion through all the Country of Narbone; but Pepin, Son to Charles Martel, forced them out of it. In the ſame time, Zulcimin, called by others Solyman, renewed in Perſia the Sect of Hali, and took the Title of Amir-el-Mocélémin, which is to ſay, The Emperor of the Children of Salvation. In 754, Zulcimin won a Battel againſt Marvan, whoſe Head he cauſed to be cut off. Then he put to Death all thoſe he could find of the Family of Marvan; the reſt eſcaped into Spain and Barbary, where they eſtabliſhed ſeveral Kingdoms. This Marvan was a Friend to the Chriſtians, and favouring the Learned, he conſented that Theophylactus ſhould be conſecrated Patriarch of Antioch. Marmol, of Africa lib, 2.

MARULA, a Syrian Biſhop of Miſareket, has writ a Martyrology, conſiſting in Hymns and Panegyricks, in Honour of the Martyrs. He wrote likewiſe the Hiſtory of the Council of Nice, and tranſlated its Canons. Ebed Jeſu, in his Catalogue of Chaldean Writers.

MARULLUS, Tribune of the People, pulled down the Crowns which ſome had ſet upon the Statutes of Cæſar, and impriſoned them who firſt ſaluted him King, for which he was Depoſed by Cæſar, which was the chief Motive of the Conſpiracy of Brutus. Plutarch in Cæſar's Life.

MARULLUS (Mark) born at Spalato, in Dalmatia, in the XVIth Century, was a great Scholar, as appears by his Writings, the moſt conſiderable of which are, Lib. VI. Exemplorum. Evangeliſtarium de Fide, Spe, & Charitate. Parabole, &c. Continuator of Trithemius. Mir. &c.

MARUTHAS, Biſhop of Meſopotamia, being ſent Ambaſſador to the King of Perſia, is ſaid to have diſpoſſeſs'd the King's Son of an Evil Spirit in 438, which procured the Chriſtians a full Liberty to profeſs their Religion in that Kingdom. Sigebert.

MARWYN, a vaſt River in Braſil, 05. 45. from the Line to the N. and at the Mouth one German Mile over, and very deep. Harcourt, in 1608. ſailed up this River, and was kindly treated by the Indian Ryolets; about 20 Lat. from the Mouth, he found Cataracts that were hardly to be paſſed. The Soil about this River is low, and of a red Colour, and towards the Sea not ſo fruitful. Laet.

MARY, the Name of the Bleſſed Virgin, Mother of Jeſus Chriſt, Daughter to Joachim and Anna, of the Tribe of Judah, and of the Houſe of David. Beſides what is in the Goſpel, it is added, That Authors do not agree about the Time of her Death, nor how long ſhe lived, Peter de Natalibus, Meurſius, Volaterran, and others, ſay, ſhe lived two Years after our Saviour, and died in the 49th of her Age, and 35 of our Redemption. Evodius will have her to have lived 57, St. Antonius 60, Euſebius, Onuphrius, and Baronius 63, our Author Moreri, upon the Authority of Dionyſius the Areopagite, who was witneſs to her Death, and Epiphanius, a Prieſt of Conſtantinople, who writing her Life, ſays, Ætas Virginis ad ſeptuaginta duos annos proceſſit, affirms, ſhe lived 72 Years. Cedrenus, St. Anſelm, Glycas, and ſeveral others, are of his Opinion.

MARY, or Miriam, Siſter to Moſes and Aaron, Daughter to Amram and Jocabed.

MARY of Aragon, Empreſs, the Wife of Otho III. who reigned towards the end of the Xth Century, periſhed by as ſhameful a Death, as her Life was. This Princeſs uſed to keep a young Man in Woman's Cloths, who being diſcovered, and convicted of Adultery, was burnt alive. For all this, ſhe continued her diſſolute Life, and would have perſuaded a young Count to yield to her Paſſion; but this Lord, no leſs Chaſte and Beautiful than Joſeph, refuſed generouſly, which ſo incenſed her, that ſhe accuſed him of the Crime he refuſed to commit. The Emperor raſhly believed her, and without examining the Matter, he Commanded the Count's Head to be cut off. The Counteſs, to whom her Husband, being ready to die, had confeſſed the whole Matter, preſenting her ſelf before the Emperor, as he was rendring Juſtice, after the Cuſtom of the Emperors, and Kings of Italy, in a great Plain near Piacenza, and without making her ſelf known, ſhe demanded Juſtice of him againſt the Murther of her Husband. Otho promiſed immediately to right her, according to the Severity of the Law; whereupon this generous Widow, ſhewing the Head of the Count, which ſhe took from one of her Servants, who kept it under his Cloak, Your ſelf, Sir, ſaid ſhe, is the Murtherer, you have unjuſtly put my Husband to Death, which I am ready to prove, by the tryal of the Fire, holding a hot Iron in my Hands. The Emperor conſenting to it, a red-hot Iron was brought, which ſhe took and held it in her Hands, as long as he deſired, without burning her ſelf; then turning towards Otho, who was amazed at ſo ſurprizing a Spectacle; ſhe did not ſtick to demand his own Head, according to the Sentence he had given againſt himſelf, ſince, by this Proof, he was convinced to be the Murtherer of the Innocent Count. But, at laſt, after many delays, which ſhe granted the Emperor, who owned himſelf Guilty, and worthy of Death, ſhe was content, that the Empreſs, who had forged that horrid Calumny, ſhould be puniſhed, which was immediately done, the Emperor Condemning her to be burnt alive, in 998. Alb. Crantz. Cuſpinian in Oth. III. Maimbourg's Hiſtory of the Decad. of the Empire.

MARY of England, Queen of France, and Eldeſt Daughter to King Henry VII. Lewis XII. King of France, marry'd her at Abbeville, upon the 9th of October, in 1514. This King being ſomething in Years, died the January following, upon which Mary returning into England, her Brother, King Henry VIII. marry'd her to Charles Brandon, a Commoner, whom he afterwards made Duke of Suffolk. Du Cheſne. Bak. Chron.

MARY de Medicis, Queen of France, Daughter to Francis de Medicis, Great Duke of Tuſcany, and Joan, Arch-Dutcheſs of Auſtria. She married Henry IV. after he had divorced Margaret of Valois. His Majeſty preparing for great Deſigns, in 1610, declared her Queen Regent, and cauſed her to be Anointed and Crowned, and he being ſtabb'd the next Day, ſhe governed till 1617, that the Mareſchal d'Ancre was killed, who, with his Wife, a Cabinet-maker's Daughter of Florence, was ſo great with the Queen, that ſhe acted wholly according to their Direction, which occaſioned the Troubles between her Son and her, and made her unhappy about the latter end of her Days. She withdrew into the Low-Countries in 1631, and died at Cullen in 1642. Aged 68. She took for Device, Juno leaning on a Peacock, ſpreading out its Tail, with this Motto, Viro partuque beata. After the Death of the King, ſhe changed it for a Pelican, and this Motto, Tegit virtute Minores, and got Engraven the Bird of Paradiſe, bearing Three of his young Ones on his Back, and ſoaring to Heaven, with theſe Words, Meos ad ſidera tollo. They repreſented her at Amſterdam, under the Form of Cybele, with this Motto, Læta Deum partu.

MARY, Queen of England, Eldeſt Daughter of King Henry VIII. by Catharine of Spain, ſucceeded to her Half-Brother, King Edward VI. in 1553. Jane Grey being over-perſuaded by her Father and Father-in-Law, the Dukes of Suffolk and Northumberland, to ſet up againſt her, and took the Title of Queen, having the Colour of King Edward's Will for her Uſurpation; but Queen Mary having ſome of the Nobility on her ſide, with the Suffolk and Norfolk Gentry, quickly made her way to the Throne; however there was ſome Oppoſition for the preſent, and Northumberland by the Advice of the Lady Jane Grey's Council, is ſent with an Army to oppoſe her; this Duke likewiſe engag'd the Pulpits, as far as he could, to harangue for his Daughter Jane; but the People were then too Loyal and Conſcientious, to receive any Impreſſions that way: Northumberland perceiving which way the Stream run, and that the Privy-Council had deſerted his Intereſt, and gone over to the Legal Succeſſion; tack'd about, and Proclaim'd Queen Mary at Cambridge; but returning to his Duty too late, he was Arreſted, and ſent up Priſoner to London. And now the Queen being ſettled, notwithſtanding the Encouragement ſhe gave to the Norfolk and Suffolk Men, that there ſhould be no Alteration in Religion, ſets the Reformation aſide, and reſtores the Belief and Ceremonies of the Roman Communion: Upon this, Gardiner is Replac'd in his Biſhoprick of Wincheſter, and made Lord Chancellor of England, notwithſtanding he had ſubſcrib'd her Father's Divorce from her Mother, Queen Catharine, and defended in Print, King Henry's Renouncing of the Pope's Supremacy. The reſt of the Roman Catholick Biſhops were likewiſe reſtor'd, and the Reform'd Prelates depriv'd without any Legal or Synodical Proceedings. The Duke of Northumberland, being brought to the Scaffold, own'd his Fault in oppoſing the Queen, and declar'd himſelf a Roman Catholick. The Queen concludes upon a Marriage with Philip, Son to Charles V. Emperor, and King of Spain, the Articles of which were drawn up to the advantage of England. This Match gave Sir Thomas Wyat his little Colour for Rebellion, who endeavour'd to deceive the People, by telling them, The Nation was in danger of being enſlav'd to Foreigners and Spaniards: This Inſurrection was countenanced and concerted by the Duke of Suffolk: Upon theſe Diſturbances, the Lady Jane Grey (who otherwiſe had moſt probably been pardon'd) was executed on Tower-Hill, where ſhe was Penitent for her Uſurpation upon the Queen, declaring, That her taking the Crown was againſt her Conſcience and Inclination, and that ſhe compli'd, perfectly out of Submiſſion and Duty to her Parents. This Year being 1554. Cardinal Pool arriv'd in England, where after his being reſtor'd in Blood, he came to the Parliament, Reconciles the Kingdom to the Church of Rome, and Abſolv'd them from the Cenſures of Schiſm, &c. which it was pretended they lay under. The next Year, the Perſecution began to grow hot in ſome Parts of the Kingdom, four Biſhops of the Church of England, (viz.) Hooper, Ferrar, Ridley, and Latimer being burnt for the Reformation: Archbiſhop Cranmer likwiſe having the ſame Uſage in 1556. Theſe Severities reach'd ſome of the Inferior Clergy, together with no ſmall number of the Laity, though in ſeveral Dioceſſes there was nothing of this Perſecution. In the Year 1557, Charles Lord Stourton was hang'd in a Silken Halter, for the Murther of one Hargil, and his Son, together with four of his Servants, who aſſiſted him in that Barbarity. The next Year, Calais being not ſufficiently furniſh'd with Ammunition and Men, was taken by the Duke of Guiſe, which together with ſome other Misfortunes of this Reign, ſat ſo heavy upon the Queen's Spirits, that 'tis thought it occaſion'd her Death, which happen'd on the 17th of November, 1558. This Queen, who was naturally of a merciful Temper, ſeems to have been over-rul'd into the Rigours and Cruelties of her Reign by Bonner, and ſome other hot-headed and ſanguinary People, who under the pretence of Principle, Honour, and Security, puſh'd her much beyond what her own unbiaſs'd Inclinations would have led her to. Godwin. Annal. Bp. Burnet. &c.

MARY of Guiſe, Daughter to Claude I. of Lorrain, Duke of Guiſe by Antoinet of Bourbon, was married Aug. 4. 1534. to Lewis II. Duke of Longueville, who left her a Widow in 1537. She refuſed to marry Henry VIII. of England afterwards, but at the Command of Francis I. of France, married James V. of Scotland, then a Widower, and the handſomeſt Prince of his time, to whom ſhe bore two Sons, who died young, and Mary, afterwards Queen of Scotland, eight Days before her Husband's Death. She was Courted again by the ſaid Henry VIII. but refuſed him. After King James V's Death, ſhe was choſen Regent by the States, the Earl of Arran being diſmiſs'd in the Year 1553. Being thus at the Head of the Government, ſhe check'd the beginnings of the Reformation, more by Policy than Extremities of Rigour; however, finding the Roman Catholick Religion loſe ground, ſhe order'd the Preachers on the other ſide to come before the Council, but perceiving them abetted by great numbers of People after them, their appearance was deferr'd till the Multitude was diſpers'd, giving Orders, at the ſame time, that thoſe who came to Town without her Authority, ſhould repair to her Army on the Borders againſt the Engliſh; ſome Gentlemen, in the Weſt-Country, who were but lately return'd from that Service, complaining of this Order, as an Oppreſſion, ruſh'd tumultuouſly into the Queen's Privy-Chamber, threaten'd her with rough Language, and made as if they would draw in the Preſence. The Queen being frighted, was glad to make them general Promiſes of Satisfaction in Point of Religion, and ſo all was quiet for that time. Not long after, at the Inſtance of the French Court, Commiſſioners were diſpatched from Scotland to France, to aſſiſt at the Solemnity of the Young Queen's Marriage with the Dauphine. This Year the Scots not receiving that Satisfaction they deſir'd in their Petitions for Reformation, ſome Noblemen and Barons entred into a ſort of Aſſociation, binding themſelves by Oaths and Subſcriptions to aſſiſt each other with their Lives and Fortunes to advance the Cauſe of Religion: The principal Perſons were Archibald, Earl of Argyle; Alexander, Earl of Glencarn; James, Earl of Morton, &c. Theſe, meeting together, concluded that the Rectors of all Pariſhes ſhould be oblig'd to ſome Alterations in Divine Service; and if they refus'd to comply, the Leſſons ſhould be Read in the Church by ſome of the Laity. Theſe ſteps in Religion being made not only without, but againſt the Authority of the Government, occaſion'd ſeveral Tumults and Diſorders; for the better quieting of which, the Queen was willing the Church-Prayers ſhould be ſaid in the Vulgar Language. Afterwards ſummoning the Reform'd Miniſters to appear at Striveling, ſome Noblemen complain'd of this Order, as if the Queen had forgot her Promiſes of Liberty; being diſpleas'd with this Expoſtulation, ſhe repli'd, with ſome warmth, That the Promiſes of Princes ought not to be ſtrain'd to their Inconvenience: To which the Lords very hardily return'd, That if that was her Opinion, they ſhould Renounce her Authority, and be Subject to her no longer. This unexpected Anſwer made the Queen Regent conceal her Diſſatisfaction, and promiſe Redreſs of Grievances. And now Monaſteries were tumultuouſly rifl'd and pull'd down, which had like to have occaſion a Civil War between the Queen Regent, and the Lords of the Congregation. But by the Mediation of the Earl of Argyle, and the Lord James Steward, Natural Brother to the Young Queen, an Agreement was ſign'd; but ſome of theſe Articles being broke by the Regent, the Lords abovemention'd deſerted her, and went over to the Congregation. John Knox preaching at St. Andrew's againſt Monaſteries, and ſome other Uſages in the Church of Rome, the People preſently took the hint, (and poſſibly further than he intended) went and rifl'd the Churches, and pull'd down the Monaſteries of Black and Gray Friars to the Ground. Theſe Singularities, to ſpeak ſoftly of 'em, provok'd the Queen Regent to that degree, that ſhe reſolv'd upon Puniſhment; to this purpoſe ſhe ordered ſome Forces to March towards St. Andrew's, which the Lords of the Congregation underſtanding, drew a conſiderable Force into that Town to prevent her in her Deſign; ſo that now there were two Armies a foot, and after the Expiration of a ſhort Truce, the Lords beſieg'd Perth, which was yielded to them; Matters being carry'd thus high, the Queen Regent publiſhes a Declaration, in which ſhe charges the Lords of the Congregation with Diſloyalty, and a deſign of Uſurping the Crown, charging them to quit the Town of Edinburgh, and Return to their Duty to the Government, under the Penalty of High-Treaſon. To this Charge the Lords make a lame Defence, excuſing themſelves, That their Intentions were no other than to aboliſh Idolatry, and other Superſtitious Abuſes, that did not agree with the Word of God, and maintain the true Preachers thereof, againſt the Violence of wicked Men; which in plain Engliſh amounts to this meaning, That they rebell'd for the Chriſtian Religion, which damns Men for Rebellion: And here the Queen Regent, and the Lords coming to no Agreement, there was another meeting at Preſton, where the Queen ſeem'd to yield the Free Exerciſe of Religion, with this Proviſo, that the Miniſters ſhould ceaſe Preaching, and Maſs only be ſaid in the Places where ſhe reſided; this Limitation the Lords would not agree to. They likewiſe Petition her to ſend away the French Soldiers, without which, they ſaid, a laſting Peace was impracticable. To this, the Queen made no direct Anſwer, but march'd with what Force ſhe had for Edinburgh; upon notice of which, the Lords drew out their Troops to prevent her Entrance; which the Lord Areskin, who Commanded the Caſtle, perceiving, ſtept a little out of his State of Neutrality, and threaten'd to play his Cannon upon the Congregationers, unleſs they ſuffer'd the Queen to Enter without Diſturbance; this unexpected Check, 'tis thought, made the Lords willing to accept of a Truce, which was immediately concluded. And now, Henry II. of France being Dead, Francis II. who was marry'd to the Queen of Scots, ſucceeds him. And ſoon after their Acceſſion to that Crown, both theſe Princes wrote a ſharp Letter to Lord James, Prior of St. Andrew's, in which they reproach him with Ingratitude, and reprimand him for Oppoſing their Government, and making Diſturbances in the Kingdom. The Prior purges himſelf of theſe Imputations in a canting way; does not deny the Fact of his joyning with the Lords of the Congregation, but pretends, 'twas all for the Honour of God, and the Reformation of Religion; and almoſt blaſphemouſly adds, That he could not deſiſt, without virtually renouncing his Saviour. The Queen Regent publiſhes a Proclamation to ſatisfy the People, that there was no danger from her receiving French Soldiers, their Numbers being comparatively ſo very few: And after this, ſhe endeavours to break the Confederacy of the Congregation, promiſing them Toleration of Religion; but theſe Offers were to no purpoſe, for now they pretended, ſhe had diſappointed them ſo often, they could not truſt her; ſoon after, the Lords with their Forces came to Edinburgh, and the Queen Regent with hers march'd to Leeth: And now the Lords write to her to diſmiſs the French Forces, &c. To this Letter, the Queen returns an Anſwer by a Herald, who inſiſts, that the Foreigners they complain'd off, were not entertain'd, till the Lords of the Congregation had openly ſlighted the Government by entring into an Aſſociation, ſurprizing Towns, and holding Correſpondence with the Ancient Enemies of the Kingdom; and in ſhort, Orders them to depart the Town, and disband under the Penalty Læſæ Majeſtatis. Upon this, the Lords of the Congregation call'd a Council, and deliberate about Depoſing the Queen Regent; but this being a ſingular Practice, unprecedented, and of a very odd Complexion, they could not come to a Reſolution in the Affirmative. The Caſe ſticking, Mr. Willock and John Knox, were call'd in to clear the difficulty, who by wreſting and miſapplying of Scripture, pronounced the Depoſing Expedient, lawful. This piece of Caſuiſtry having ſettled the Lords Conſciences, they make an Act of Council to Deprive the Queen Regent of her Government, which was agreed to, Nemine Contradicente. The Queen hearing of theſe Proceedings, ſends for new Forces from France, ſome of which were diſpers'd by Tempeſt, and driven back; however ſome ſmall Reinforcement arriving, the Lords having quitted Edinburgh, grew diſpirited; but upon John Knox's Sermon, recover'd their Courage, and ſent for a Supply from England: Queen Elizabeth comply'd with their requeſt, and aſſiſted them with 6000 Foot, and 2000 Horſe. The Regent underſtanding theſe Practices, endeavour'd to break the Lords, and put an end to the War before the coming of the Engliſh, but could not effect it. The Lords being thus reinforced, ſend a Letter to the Regent to ſend the French Soldiers out of the Realm, and upon that Condition promiſe Obedience to the Government. The Engliſh General likewiſe offers to quit the Kingdom, provided the French did ſo too. To theſe Propoſals, the Queen deſir'd a Days time for Conſideration, but the Army not admitting this delay, attack'd the Town of Leeth, in which, ſome numbers of both ſides were Slain. And now the French King, and the Queen of Scots, perceiving that there would be no Peace without calling back the French Soldiers, and not willing to condeſcend to the Diſhonour of capitulating with their own Subjects, deſir'd Queen Elizabeth to propoſe an Accommodation, and make up the Difference; to which Motion that Queen willingly agreed; but while her Agents were upon their Journey, the Queen Regent fell Sick in the Caſtle of Edinburgh, and died June the 10. 1560. This Lady was a Princeſs of extraordinary Virtue, Prudence, and good Nature; a great lover of Juſtice, and very charitable and compaſſionate to the Poor: And as for her Court, it was very regular, and well manag'd, without any thing that was Leud or Licentious in't. She was likewiſe very well qualified for the Functions of Government, and had been much more agreeable to the People, had ſhe been left to her own Judgment and Inclinations; but being crampt by the Orders and Directions of the French Court, ſhe was ſometimes forc'd upon unacceptable Meaſures, and could not give that general Satisfaction, which otherwiſe, as far as it appears, ſhe was diſpos'd to. As for the Hiſtory that goes under the Name of John Knox, it is no better, as Biſhop Spotſwood obſerves, than a leud Libel, in which the Author diſcovers a great deal of ſpight and Prejudice, and beſides, delivers his own Conjectures for Oracles, and Matters of Fact; ſo that generally ſpeaking, That Book has neither Truth nor Manners. Spotſwood Hiſt. Ch. Scot. &c.

MARY II. Queen of England, Eldeſt Daughter to King James II. by his firſt Wife, was born at the Palace of St. James, the 30th of April, 1662. and bred up (notwithſtanding her Father's then Diſpoſition to the Church of Rome, and her Mother's openly dying in the Communion of it) in the Proteſtant Religion, and married in the Sixteenth Year of her Age, Novemb. 4. 1677, to the moſt Illuſtrious William Henry of Naſſau, then Prince of Orange, now King of England; ſoon after, ſhe was conducted by the ſaid Prince into Holland, where ſhe reſided above Eleven Years, till the Month of February, 168^{8}_{9}, when ſhe came over into England, on the 12th of the ſame Month landed at White-Hall, and next Day was ſolemnly proclaimed Queen of England, &c. She was an equal Sharer with her Royal Husband in the Regal Sovereignty, Supremacy, and Authority, in all the Dominion and Rights belonging to the Crown; but the Adminiſtration and Execution thereof was lodged ſolely in the King, according to the Sanction of the Convention, though in the King's Abſence out of England, by an Act of Parliament afterwards made, the Queen had ſolely the ſame, aſſuming it always at the King's Departure, and reſigning it at his Return. She was a Princeſs endued with the higheſt Perfections, both of Body and Mind; and the higheſt Character that ever could be attributed to any Mortal in ſo few Words, which we have in Suetonius, concerning that brave Roman Germanicus, may be juſtly attributed to her, viz. Omnes Mariæ Corporis animique virtutes quantus nemini cuiquam contigiſſe ſatis conſtat. Her Reſervedneſs was remarkable, and ſuch as became her Elevation, and ſutable to thoſe Affairs that were to paſs through her Hands; yet when ſhe ſaw cauſe for it, had the trueſt Methods to oblige others to uſe due freedom with her ſelf, while yet ſhe kept them at a fit diſtance from her own Thoughts; yet ſhe hated Ambiguity in her Expreſſions, and as ſhe would not deceive others, ſo ſhe avoided the ſaying of that which might give them occaſion to deceive themſelves. She was far from a cenſorious Temper, and could ill bear it in others, ſhe thinking it a cruel and barbarous way to be merry at other Peoples coſt, or to make the Follies or Misfortunes of others any matter of Diverſion. She had in her, ſays a Learned Author, all the Graces of her own Sex, and all the Greatneſs of ours; if ſhe did not affect to be a Zenobia, or a Boadicea, it was not becauſe ſhe wanted their Courage, but becauſe ſhe underſtood the Decencies of her Sex better than they did. She was very much converſant with Divinity Books; and particularly took much delight in reading that excellent Piece of Father Paul, of the Council of Trent; loved Hiſtory, eſpecially thoſe of her own Kingdom, as being more proper to give her uſeful Inſtructions; and when Reflections were once made before her of the ſharpneſs of ſome Hiſtorians, who had left heavy Imputations on the Memory of ſome Princes. Her Anſwer was, " That if thoſe " Princes were truly ſuch, as the Hiſtorians repreſented them, " they had well deſerved that Treatment, and others who " trod their Steps, might look for the ſame; for Truth would " be told at laſt, and that with the more Acrimony of Stile, " for being ſo long reſtrained. It was a gentle ſuffering to be " expoſed to the World in their true Colours, much below " what others had ſuffered at their hands. She thought all " Sovereigns ought to read ſuch Hiſtories as Procopius; for how " much ſoever he might have aggravated Matters, and how " unbecomingly ſoever he might have writ, yet by ſuch Books " they might ſee what would be probably ſaid of themſelves, " when all Terrors and Reſtraints ſhould fall off with their " Lives. She was alſo a good Judge, as well as a great Lover of Poetry, and loved it beſt, when it dwelt upon the beſt Subjects. Indeed, ſhe ſtudied and read more than could have been imagined, by any, who had not known how many of her hours were ſpent in her Cloſet, (for her Devotion, publick or private, ſhe never neglected upon any occaſion) and would have made a much greater Progreſs, if the frequent returns of ill Humours in her Eyes had not forced her to ſpare them. She gave her Minutes of Leiſure, with the greateſt willingneſs, to Architecture and Gardening, and ſhe had no other Inclinations, beſides this, to any Diverſions that were expenceful; but ſince it imploy'd many Hands, ſhe was pleaſed to ſay, " That ſhe hoped it would be forgiven her; yet " ſhe was uneaſy when ſhe felt the weight of the Charge that " lay upon it. As ſhe was the moſt Gracious of Sovereigns to her Subjects, the moſt Obliging of Wives to her Husband, ſo ſhe was the moſt Excellent of Miſtreſſes to her Servants; and, indeed, never was Miſtreſs both fear'd and loved ſo entirely as ſhe; neither was ſhe content to be Good and Devout her ſelf, but ſhe infuſed that Temper into all that came near her; chiefly thoſe, whom ſhe took into her more immediate Care; and 'tis remarkable that ſhe gave Orders, that good Books ſhould be laid in the places of Attendance, that ſuch as waited might not be condemned to Idleneſs, but might entertain themſelves uſefully, while they were in their turns of Service. She was very apprehenſive of ſome Judgments that might befal us, for our too obſtinate adherence to our Vices, and exceeding zealous for a Reformation of Manners; and the very Day before the fatal Illneſs overtook her, ſhe ſaid, " Though ſhe had no great hope of mending Matters, yet ſhe " was reſolved to go on, and never to ſuffer her ſelf to be " diſcouraged or to loſe heart; ſhe would ſtill try what could " be done, and purſue her deſign, how ſlow, or inſenſible " ſoever the Progreſs might be. She was alſo Bountiful and Charitable to the higheſt degree, taking all occaſions to help thoſe who were in neceſſity, ſo that ſome thouſands daily taſted of her Charity; neither is there any Princeſs in Chriſtendom, who gave more to Charitable Uſes than ſhe did, with ſo little Oſtentation. As to her Government in general, her Punctualneſs to Hours, Patience in Audiences, Gentleneſs in Commanding, Reſervedneſs in Speaking, Caution in Promiſing, Softneſs in finding Fault, Readineſs in Rewarding, Diligence in Ordering, her hearkning to all that was ſuggeſted, and the copious Account ſhe gave to him, whom both God, and her own choice, had made her Oracle, were every one of them ſurprizing, and yet all ſo wiſely contrived, that no other Duty was omitted by her, nothing done in haſt, and no hurry, nor impatience did appear. The firſt time ſhe took the Adminiſtration of the Government upon her, was in the Year 1690. during his Majeſty's Abſence in Ireland, in which time, we had the misfortune to have our Fleet, under the Earl of Torrington, beaten by the French; which might for ever have given her diſguſt to the Exerciſe of Royal Power; but ſhe ſeemed all the while to poſſeſs her Soul in Patience, with a conſtant Reſignation to the Divine Will, without any Anxiety concerning Events; and though the happy News of a great Victory at the Boyne, and the greater Preſervation of His Majeſty's Perſon from the ſureſt Inſtruments of Death, did ſoon change the Scene, and put another face on our Affairs, ſhe only ſeemed the leaſt changed, ſhe looked the more chearful, but with the ſame Tranquility. The next Seaſon of her Adminiſtration, concluded the Reduction of all Ireland, of which we entertained once but little Expectation of Succeſs; and, indeed, the Reflections ſhe made upon it, looked the ſame way as all her Thoughts did. " Our Forces elſe- " where, both by Sea and Land, were thought to be conſi- " derable, and ſo promiſing, that we were in great hopes of " ſomewhat that might be deciſive; only Ireland was appre- " hended to be too weakly furniſh'd for a concluding Cam- " paign; yet ſo different are the Methods of Providence from " Humane Expectations, that nothing memorable hapned any " where-elſe, but only in Ireland, where little or nothing " was expected. She was again at the Helm in 1692. when we were threatned with a Deſcent and an Invaſion, but the Winds that ſtopped their Fleets, joyned ours, and went not out of that Direction, till it ended in one of the moſt Glorious Actions that ever England had, and the intended Invaders were the melancholy Spectators of the Deſtruction of the beſt of their Ships; but the Succeſs ſhe bare with the ſame decency that appear'd when the Sky ſeemed to be more clouded. Clouds alſo returned in another Year of her Adminiſtration, viz. 1693. when the Battel of Landen was fought, though not with a face that was quite ſo black. The following Year was the laſt of her Adminiſtration, when the Sky grew clearer, our Forces being rather ſuperior to the Enemy at Land, and obtained ſome Advantages over them, and our Fleets not only aſſerting the Dominion over thoſe Seas which we claim as our own, but aſſumed a more extended Empire, as being Maſters both of the Ocean and Mediterranean; and in this flouriſhing Poſture our Affairs ſtood both by Sea and Land, with a firm Expectation of Succeſſes to follow. The next Campaign, for which we were diligently providing,when it pleaſed God to deprive us of our choiceſt Jewel, this incomparable Queen, who departed this Life, on the 28th of December, 1695. in her Palace at Kenſington, after ſhe had lain ſome few days Sick of the Small Pox, in the 33d of Year of her Age, which has been obſerved to be fatal to many great Perſonages. To conclude all with a Word concerning her Perſon, ſhe was Tall of Stature, of a Majeſtick and Graceful Mein, her Countenance and Air ſerene and pleaſing, her Features beautiful, and Complexion ruddy.

MARY (Stuart) Queen of Scotland, was Daughter to King James V. by Mary of Guiſe above-mentioned, and ſucceed her Father at eight Days old. After the Death of the Queen Regent, there was a Parliament held in Scotland in 1560, without the Authority of any Commiſſion from the Queen, then in France, or any Perſon ſent to Repreſent her. There was notwithſtanding, by Virtue of an Article of the late Peace, a Parliament to be held at this time, for the holding of which, the Queen, and King Francis her Husband, were to ſend a Commiſſion, and upon this Article, the lawfulneſs of it was maintain'd by the Majority; though others were diſſatisfi'd with it. In this Parliament, The Confeſſion of Faith was confirm'd, and the Pope renounc'd. The Queen embark'd for Scotland, and arriv'd at Leith, having paſſed by the Engliſh Fleet undiſcover'd, which it was believ'd, was ſent out to Intercept her. Upon her coming, ſhe condeſcended that no Change ſhould be made in Religion, deſiring nothing further, than the private Exerciſe of her own Perſuaſion: This Liberty, the Earl of Arran, and the Preachers, exclaim'd againſt, and publickly condemn'd it as unlawful, which exaſperated the Queen, and brought the Earl into disfavour. The Queen, about this time, ſends an Embaſſy to England, deſiring that Queen to declare her next Heir to the Crown, in caſe ſhe died without Iſſue; but Queen Elizabeth, amongſt other things, objected the unſeaſonableneſs of that Requeſt, and ſo refus'd her. In Scotland, the Earl of Huntley diſoblig'd at the Diſtribution of Court-favours, takes up Arms againſt the Queen, and is defeated. In 1564, Henry, Lord Darnley, Son to the Earl of Lennox, was marry'd to the Queen; but being of the Roman Catholick Religion, the Scots were diſguſted, and made an Inſurrection at Edinburgh; but upon the Queen's marching thither,the Rebels were diſpers'd, and afterwards pardon'd. The Aſſembly meeting at Edinburgh about this time, amongſt other things, petition'd the Queen to Renounce her Religion, which being deny'd, and the Lord Darnley proclaim'd King, ſeveral diſcontented Lords ſent out publick Remonſtrances, and deſired the People to joyn with them, and reſiſt thoſe beginnings of Tyranny; however, being purſu'd by the King and Queen, were glad to retire into England; of which number, the Earl of Murray, her Natural Brother, was one. In 1565, David Riccio, a Piemontois, who being advanc'd from a Muſician to a Secretary, and much in the Queen's Favour, manag'd his Intereſt indiſcreetly, and grew hated by the King, and the Nobility. The King declining, as he imagin'd, in the Queen's Eſteem, and provok'd with the Haughtineſs of Riccio, got him murther'd in the Preſence. In 1566, the Queen went to Edinburgh-Caſtle, and was there brought to Bed of a Son, who was afterwards James VI. when this Prince was Baptiz'd, the King was not admitted to the Solemnity, who, ſoon after, fell Sick; being as Spotſwood relates it, Poyſon'd, but recovering by the Strength of his Youth, was Murther'd, as 'twas ſaid, by Bothwell, for which that Earl was try'd, and acquitted. The next Year, her Majeſty coming back from Sterling, was forcibly carri'd off by Earl Bothwell, and his Company, who then brag'd he would Marry her Majeſty, whether ſhe would or no; and the next day, the Court coming to Edinburgh, a great many Noble-men met and ſubſcrib'd a Paper, declaring, that it was the Queen's and Kingdoms Intereſt, that her Majeſty ſhould Marry with the Earl of Bothwell, which Marriage was ſolemniz'd, not long after, in Hally-Rood-Houſe. And now Bothwell, as Sir James Melvil reports, was very earneſt to get himſelf poſſeſs'd of the young Prince, which, poſſibly, might be the reaſon of ſome Noblemens entering into a Bond for the Prince's Preſervation: Upon the notice of which, another Part of the Nobility ſubſcrib'd a Paper to ſtand firm to the Queen and Bothwell; and things now growing to a Rupture, the diſcontented Lords take the Field, and the Queen levies Forces againſt them; and upon the approach of the two Armies, Bothwell offers to fight ſingle againſt any Perſon of Quality; this Chalenge being accepted, the Queen interpoſes, and prevents the Combat; and here Bothwell finding the Queen's Forces diſaffected to her Cauſe, ſhifts for himſelf, and the Queen ſurrenders her Perſon to the Lords of the other Party; who having intercepted a Letter (as ſome affirm) of the Queen's to Bothwell, in which there were ſome kind Expreſſions, with a Reſolution not to quit him; they ſent her Priſoner contrary to promiſe, to the Caſtle of Loch-levin; hither the Earl of Murray came to her, and treated her extreme roughly, of which Sir James Melvil, one of her Retinue, complains. Her Majeſty being now Priſoner to her Subjects, they force her, by hard uſage, to reſign her Crown. But the next Year, 1568, ſhe made her eſcape, upon notice of which, ſeveral of the Nobility repairing to her; her Reſignation was, in Council, declar'd null, as being extorted through fear. The Earl of Murray, who was now Regent, draws his Forces together at Glaſgoe, and both Armies encountring at Langſide, between Glaſgoe and Dunbarton, the Queen's Troops were defeated. Upon this misfortune, her Majeſty thought it moſt adviſeable to Retire into England, having received large Aſſurances of Protection, and Kindneſs from Queen Elizabeth; but being Arriv'd in that Kingdom, ſhe was deny'd Acceſs to the Queen, and confin'd: And after a long Impriſonment of Eighteen Years, ſhe was Tryed, for Compaſſing the Deſtruction of Queen Elizabeth; and notwithſtanding her Defence, receiv'd Sentence of Death, and was Beheaded at Fotheringay-Caſtle, Feb. 18. 1585. This Queen was a Princeſs, to ſpeak in Camdens words, Of ſingular Piety towards God, Invincible magnanimity of Mind, Wiſdom above her Sex, and admirable Beauty: But by Murray, her baſe Brother, and other her Ungrateful and Ambitious Subjects, She was much toſs'd and diſquieted, depos'd from her Throne, and driven into England, and deſtroy'd as 'twas thought, by the falſe Evidence of her Secretaries, who ſeem'd to be brib'd and corrupted with Money. As for the calumnies rais'd againſt her, about her Husbands Death, and her Correſpondence with Bothwell; ſee Article Buchanan, and James VIth. Spotswood's Hiſt. MARYLAND, a conſiderable Country and Colony of Engliſh in N. America, in 40 Degrees of Latitude, bounded with Penſilvania, New-England, and New-York to the North, with the Atlantick and La Ware Bay to the Eaſt, the River Polomeck, which divides it from Virginia to the South, and the Indian Territories to the Weſt. This Country is generally plain and even, yet riſing in ſome Places into ſmall and pleaſant Hills; the Soil is rich and fertile, naturally producing all ſuch Commodities, as are particularly ſet down to its neighbouring Colony Virginia; as, all Sorts of Beaſts and Fowl, both Tame and Wild, Fiſh, Fruits, Plants, Roots, Herbs, Gums, Trees, Balſams, as likewiſe all Commodities produced by Induſtry, are here found, in great plenty and perfection. But the chief Trade of Maryland depends upon Tabaco, which is eſteemed better for a foreign Market, than that of Virginia. The Natives are in their Complexion, Stature, Cuſtoms, Diſpoſitions, Laws, Religion, Apparel, Diet, Houſes, &c. much the ſame with thoſe of Virginia, being divided into different Tribes, Governed each by their particular King. They believe that there are ſeveral Gods of different Sorts and Degrees, but hold, That there is but one Abſolute, from all Eternity. That the Sun, Moon and Stars, are petty Gods. That all the Variety of Creatures were made out of the Waters, That Woman was made firſt, who, by the Aſſiſtance of one of the Gods, Conceived and brought forth Children, but know not how long ſince that was done, having no Records, but only Tradition from Father to Son. They Believe, that after this Life, the Soul will be diſpoſed of according to its Works here, either to the Habitation of the Gods, to enjoy perpetual Happineſs, or to a great Pit or Hole in the farther part of their Country towards Sun-ſet, which they count the farthermoſt Part of the World, there to burn continually. Their Prieſts tell them Stories of People that have been in the other World, and ſuffered to come back again, to acquaint their Friends with what they were to do, to Enjoy the Pleaſures of the other Life; and what to ſhun, to avoid its Torments; which makes them very reſpectful to their Governors, and careful of their Actions. They look upon Fire-Arms to be Super-natural; ſay, The Engliſh are an old Generation reviv'd, and believe that there are a great many of them inviſible in the Air, who, at the Interceſſion of the reſt, revenge the Wrongs done them; they are no leſs ridiculous in their Ceremonies about their Idol. King Charles I. in 1632, Granted this Province, by Patent to the Right Honourable Cœlius Calvert, Lord Baltimore; and to his Heirs and Aſſigns, Creating them True and Abſolute Lords and Proprietors, &c. they doing Homage for it, in paying Yearly to his Majeſty, his Heirs and Succeſſors, 2 Indian Arrows at Windſor-Caſtle in the County of Berks, on Eaſter Tueſday, together with the 5th Part of the Gold and Silver Oar that ſhall be found there. Here is Toleration of Religion to all Sorts, that Profeſs the Faith of Chriſt. It is divided into 10 Provinces, and has about 16000 Engliſh Inhabitants, who have begun to build ſeveral Towns, as Calverton, Herrington, and Harvey-Town, all Commodiouſly ſeated for the Benefit of Trade, and Conveniency of Shipping; but the Principal Town is St. Mary's, ſeated on St. George's River, being beautified with divers well-built Houſes, and is the chief Place, or Seat of Trade for that Province.

MASACCIO, born in Tuſcany Anno 1417, who for his copious Invention, and true manner of Deſigning; for his delightful way of Colouring, and the graceful Actions which he gave his Figures; for his looſeneſs in Draperies and extraordinary Judgment in Perſpective, is reckoned to have been the Maſter of the Second or Middle Age of Modern Painting: which 'tis thought he would have carried to a much higher degree of perfection, had he not been prevented by Death, which happened in the 26th Year of his Age. Vaſſari, Felibien, Freſnoy.

MASANDRAN in Hyrcania. The Air of this Province is very unwholeſome, the Country being Low and Fenny, and full of Inſects, which when the Water, in the Summer, is dried up, die, and infect the Air; and at other times, theſe Waters over-flow the Counrry. In this Country lies the Province of Guilan, which is the moſt unwholeſome Piece of all Perſia, ſo that it ſerves for a Place of Puniſhment. The Limons of this Province are the beſt in Perſia. Tavern. p. 182.

MASBOTHEANS, a Sect of Hereticks which Embraced the Errours of Simon Magus, or the Diſciples of that infamous Apoſtate. Theodoretus hæret. fab. in Simon. Baronius An. Ch. 35.

MASCALAT, a Town and Kingdom of Aſia in Arabia Fælix. The Chief Town of the Kingdom of that Name. See Sanſon Geogr.

MASCATE, a Town and Sovereign Principality in Arabia Fælix, towards the beginning of the Gulph Balſora. It belonged to the Portugueſes, but they were forced out of it by an Arabian Prince, called Aceph-ben-Ali, Prince of Novenvaé, who, at that time, took the Name of Imenheet, Prince of Maſcaté. It is but a ſmall Province, but the beſt of all Arabia Fælix. There grows all that is neceſſary for Life, and eſpecially very good Fruits and excellent Grapes. This Prince hath the fineſt Pearl in the whole World, not ſo much for the bigneſs of it, for it weighs not above 12 Carats, nor for the perfect roundneſs of it, but becauſe it is ſo clear and Tranſparent, that one may almoſt ſee through it. The Cham of Ormuz would have bought it, to preſent the King of Perſia, and offered 2000 Tomans for it, which amount to above 30000 Crowns. The Great Mogul ſent afterwards a Banyan to offer 40000, but he would not accept of it. Tavernier's Voyage of the Indies.

MASCEZEL, or Mazezil, General of Honorius's Army; was, by Birth an African, and Son of Nubele, one of the moſt Potent Mooriſh Lords: When Gildo Revolted againſt Honorius, in the Year 398, Maſcezil, tho' his own Brother, deteſting his Rebellion, left him, and Sailed into Italy; upon which Gildo put two of his Sons to death: This unnatural Barbarity being reaſonably thought a ſufficient ground to make Maſcezil irreconcilable with his Brother, he was pitche upon to head an Army againſt him: This Enterprize, though extremely difficult, upon the account of the inequality of the Forces, yet Maſcezil got the Day and defeated Threeſcore and Ten Thouſand of Gildo's Men with a ſmall Force of his own. Oroſius ſays, that Maſcezil was puft up with this Victory, and Misbehaved himſelf with reſpect to Religion, for which he was quickly puniſhed; But Jornandes and Zoſimus inform us, that being about to return Home out of Italy, he was tumbled off a Bridge into a River, by ſome Soldiers, who had been corrupted by Stilico who envied his Succeſs. Marcellin in Chron. Jornandes De Regn. Succeſs. Oroſ. Lib. 7th. Zoſim. Lib. 5. &c.

MASCON upon Saone, a Town of France in Burgundy. This Town is very Ancient, Cæſar mentions it in his Commentaries, at the End of the 7th Book, where he ſaith, that Cicero and Sulpitius were ſent to Maſcon and Chalon upon Saone, to ſecure the Convoys. The Latins call it Matiſco and Matiſcona. It was often ruined by the Incurſions of the Barbarians, and chiefly of Attila. It ſuffered much during the Wars of the Burgundians, and the French. Several Kings of France have repaired it. Several Councils have been called at Maſcon. The Country about Maſcon is very fruitful, and affords good Wines.

MASCULUS, commonly called Maſculo (John Baptiſt) was a Jeſuit, born at Naples in 1583. He was a Perſon of more than ordinary Parts and Induſtry, and was very promiſing as to Learning from his Child-hood: As he grew up, he fully anſwered the expectations of his Acquaintance. When the Plague was at Naples, in 1656, Father Maſculo continued there, and viſiting the Infected with great Courage and Charity, got the Diſtemper, and died on't. His Works are, *Lyricorum ſive Odarum Lib. XV. De Incendio Veſuviano. Perſecutiones Eccleſiæ cruentæ. Encomia. Ponderationes Concionales in Opera S.S. Auguſtini, Hieronymi, & Ambroſii. MASFA, a Town of Aſia in Arabia Fælix, the Chief Town of the Kingdom of that Name. It may be the ſame which formerly was called Maſpha.

MASINISSA, or Maſſiniſſa, King of a ſmall Country in Africa, took the Carthaginian's Party againſt the Romans, and twice beat Syphax King of Numidia, An. Rom. 541. Three or Four Years after, Scipio having routed Aſdrubal's Army, ſent Maſſiniſſa's Nephew without Ranſom, and that Courteſy charmed him ſo much, that from that time, he was a conſtant Friend to the Romans. He joined his Army with theirs, and in An. Rom. 551. he fought in the Battle which they won againſt the Armies of Aſdrubal and Syphax. He joined himſelf to Caius Lælius to purſue them, and they took Syphax Priſoner, and took, by Compoſition, the Chief Town of his Kingdom of the Maſeſyles. Queen Sophoniſbe Surrendered to Maſſiniſſa, who Married her. But Scipio not approving of that Match, he diſpatched his new Spouſe, by ſending her Poiſon. He died 90 Years old, left 44 Children, which he had by ſeveral Wives. It is reported, That being on his Death-bed, he entreated Manlius, General of the Ro- man Army, to ſend him young Scipio, that he might enjoy the Conſolation to Die in his Arms, and to make him the Executor of his Will, about the Diviſion of his Kingdom. Titus Livius, Florus, Polybius, Appianus, Oroſius, &c.

MASIUS (Andreas) a Doctor of Lovain, born in a ſmall Village near Bruſſels. He was a Philoſopher, Lawyer, and had great Skill in the Oriental Languages. He died in 1573. His Works are, Grammatica Syriaca, Syrorum peculium, Diſputatio de Cœna Domini, Explicatio in hiſtoriam Joſuæ, Commentarium de Paradiſo, &c. This laſt Treatiſe he Tranſlated out of Syriack into Latin. Philip II. ſent Maſius to Antwerp, about the Edition of the Bibles, which he performed with Arius Montanus, and Fabritius. See the Critick of the Old Teſtament by M. Simon, who gives a very favourable Judgment of him.

MASLIPATAN, a Town in the Kingdom of Golconda in the Peninſula of Indus, on this ſide the Gulph of Bengala, upon the Coaſt of the Indian Ocean. It is famous for its Shoar, the beſt of that Gulph, from whence ſail ſeveral Ships for Pegu, Siam, Aracan, Bengala, Cochinchine, Mecca and Ormuz; likewiſe for the Iſlands of Madagaſcar, Sumatra, and the Manilles. People Travel in this Country in Palanquins or Litters, the Roads being too uneven for Coaches. Tavernier's Voyage of the Indies.

MASORETHS, or Maſſoreths, the Name of the Rabbins choſen (as ſome Authors affirm) by Eſdras, to correct the Faults which had crept into the Text of the Old Teſtament, during the Captivity of Babylon, and to hinder, for the future, its being corrupted by any Alteration. The Name is derived from Mazora, that is, Tradition, or from Maſſorah, that ſignifieth To bind. They firſt ſeparated the Apocryphal Books from the Canonical, then they divided the Canon into 22 Books, which is the number of the Letters of the Alphabet amongſt the Hebrews, and each Book into Sections and Verſes. They counted all the Words and Letters of each Section; and becauſe there were Words, which were to be read otherwiſe than they were written, and which contained more or leſs Letters, than thoſe that were to be pronounced, they made Marginal Notes, calling Cetib, the manner of Writing, and Keri, the manner of Reading. They obſerved likewiſe the Anomaly, or irregularity of ſeveral Words, as to the Vowels or Accents. Some ſay, they were the Inventers of thoſe Points that ſerve inſtead of Vowels. This College ended about 330, before the Birth of Chriſt, having laſted about 130 Years. And the laſt of theſe Maſoreths was Simon the Juſt, who went to meet Alexander the Great in his Pontifical Robes, together with Jaddus the High Prieſt of the Jews, when this Prince was coming to beſiege Jeruſalem. This is Buxtorf's opinion, but Ludovicus Cappellus aſſerts, that the Maſoreths Invented the Hebrew Points, but liv'd not till 400 Years, after our Saviour. See his Book call'd Arcanum Punctationis, with his Defence. Buxtorfius Comment. Maſoreth. S. Auguſtinus de mirab. S. Script. lib. 2. Genebrardus lib 2.

MASOVIA, a Province of Poland, which the Latins call Mazovia, or Maſovia. It lies between the Great and Leſſer Poland, Lithuania, Pruſſia and Poleſia. Its Towns are, Warſaw, Plocsko, Czerko. Some confound it with the little Province called Polachia, which was united to it, where are the Towns of Bielsk, Auguſtow, Tikoczin, Drogien, &c. Maſovia had formerly its own Princes, called Dukes. It became Subject to Poland, under the Reign of Caſimir the Great; but it was not perfectly united to it till 1526, under the Reign of Sigiſmond I. This Country took its Name from Maſas, Cupbearer to Miciſlaus II. K. of Poland, who Uſurped the greateſt part of the Province of Plocſko, during the Interregnum that enſued the death of this K. in 1534, and the Retreat of Caſimir into France; but being beat out in 1540, by the ſame Caſimir, he was Crucified by the Pruſſians, whither he had fled; though he died this ſhameful death, the Province retained his Name. This Province was Divided among the Princes of the Blood, and has given its Name to a branch of them, which have had ſeveral Dukes, who had Marſhals, Chancellors, and above Forty Thouſand Gentlemen to defend 'em. This Dutchy is now reunited to the Crown, for want of Heirs Male. *Starovolſcius Deſcript. Polon. Le Laboureur Voyage of the Queen of Poland. Andreas Cellary Regni Pol. & Lithuan. deſcript. MASS. The Word Miſſa, is ſometimes taken in Latin Authors, generally for all Kinds of Divine Service, or for a Leſſon of the Service; but in the Ordinary uſe, it ſignifies the Sacrifice, which they call Maſs. Some Divines have thought it an Hebrew Word, uſed in the Apoſtle's time; but not likely. Therefore the moſt Learned affirm, That Miſſa is a Latin Word, equivalent to Dimiſſio. This Opinion is confirmed by Iſidorus, who ſaith, That Catechumens were ſent out juſt before the Sacrifice. M. Simon obſerves in his Supplement to the Jewiſh Ceremonies, That there was not always ſuch an Uniformity of Maſſes, as we ſee in all the Weſt ſome Ages ſince; which he proves by an Epiſtle of Innocent I. who complains of the Diverſity, that was in this reſpect, in the Gauls, Spain, Africa, Sicily, and other Places. Indeed there remains ſtill ſomething of thoſe ancient Maſſes. M. Simon.

Spaniſh MASS. It is certain, that the Goths, being Maſters of Spain, had a particular Maſs. Toledo and Salamanca keep ſtill that Gothick Maſs. Thoſe of Arragon, were the firſt that received the Roman Maſs, in Pope Alexander II's Reign. It was alſo received in Navarre, in Gregory VIIth Reign, as one may ſee in the Hiſtory of Bearn, by M. de Marca. Alphonſus King of Caſtile, admitted it at the Requeſt of the Queen that came out of France, where the Roman Rite was uſed. That ancient Gothick Maſs, is that which has been printed with the Title of Miſſa Moſarabum, and was put in Bibliotheca Patrum. It was named ſo, becauſe the Arabians were Maſters of Spain, and that the Chriſtians there were then called Moſarabes, that is mixt with the Arabians. M. Simon.

Gallican MASS. The Gauls had alſo a particular Maſs, and there Charlemaign, and his Succeſſors endeavoured to introduce the Roman Service. The Abbot Hilduinus, attributes to St. Denys, (whom he thinks to be the Areopagite) the Original of the Maſs uſed in France, before the Roman Rite. The ſame Abbot writing to the Emperor Lewis, makes mention of ſeveral Ancient Miſſals, made uſe of in the Gallican Church. Cardinal Bona believes, that the Gallican Maſs formerly, was taken from the Spaniſh Maſs, called that of Moſarabes. M. Simon.

There was alſo a particular Maſs in England, or Great Britain, before Auſtin, the Monks coming into it. All the Weſtern Churches did not agree in the Form of Maſs, nor in the other Services. M. Simon.

Milan MASS. Milan had a Maſs, and the whole Service different from that of Rome; and 'tis partly ſtill in being, they commonly call it the Ambroſian Rite. According to Walafridus Strabo, Ambroſe was the Author of it; others think that before Ambroſe's time, the Church of Milan had a Service different from that of Rome.

Roman MASS. The Roman Service has been altered. Radulphus of Tongres obſerves, That there was in Rome it ſelf two Sorts of Service, one long, and the other ſhort; that the laſt abridged out of the firſt, was read in the Pope's Chappel, and that the other was properly the Roman Service. M. Simon.

MASSA, a Town of Italy, in the little Province of Lunigiane, which got its name from the ancient Town of Luna. It was made a Dutchy, and hath a Prince of the Houſe of Cibo, who is alſo Prince of Carrara, for which reaſon that Town is called Maſſa di Carrara, to diſtinguiſh it from Maſſa di Sorrento, which the Latins call Maſſa Lubrenſis. It is in the Terra di Lavoro. See CIBO.

MASSA, which is Maſſa Veternenſis, a Town of Italy in the Territory of Sienna, a Province of Tuſcany. It is ſeated upon a Hill, and belongs to the Great Duke. Onuphrius ſaith, That it was the Birth-place of Gallus Cæſar.

MASSADA, a Place in the Tribe of Judah, one German Mile from the Dead Sea S. 10 from Jeruſalem S. E. mentioned by Joſephus lib. 7. de Bell. c. 28. as a Place of great ſtrength. It was built by Jonathan, Brother of Judas Maccabæus, as a Refuge againſt the Syrians, much valued by Herod the Great, who, in his Troubles, left here Mariamne, his beloved Wiſe, with Alexandra, her Mother. In after-times he improved its Fortifications to that height, that Veſpaſian could not take it, after all Judæa was Conquered, without great Slaughter and Difficulty; but however he deſtroyed it at laſt. David fled to this Place. Sam. 1. 23, 26. Joſ. 14. Ant. 22. 23, 24.

MASSAGETES, a People of Scythia, who inhabited Mount Imaus, and the Turqueſtan, where is, at this time, Tartaria Deſerta, towards Zagathay, or Usbeckque, and Mawaralnathra. Ptolemæus ſaith, there were 2 Sorts of the Maſſagetes towards Margiana, and in the Country of the Saci, a People of Scythia; but others place them about the Black Sea, and the Palus Mœotis, which is at a great diſtance, however theſe People had neither Towns nor Temples, they lived under Tents, and offered Sacrifices to the Sun. They were Cruel and Barbarous. They devoured their Enemies, and they uſed to eat their Parents, when they were dead. See Strabo lib. 11. Ptolemæus, Herodotus, &c.

MASSALIANS, Hereticks under the Empire of Conſtantius, towards 361, who alſo were called Euchites. They ſaid that Prayer alone was ſufficient, inſtead of all other good Works. The Authors of that Sect, were ſome Monks of Meſopotamia, who that they might be conſtant in Prayer, left off Manual Work, which before was a conſiderable part of the Monaſtick Diſcipline. They pretended, that Prayer alone gave them ſtrength to reſiſt all Temptations, That it put the Will to flight, and rooted out Sins, which were but pared off by Baptiſm, as with a Razor, which pares the Hairs, and doth not root them up: According to their Doctrine, every Man had two Souls, one of which was more than Celeſtial, and another a Devil that was forced out by Prayer. They pretended they were Prophets, and that they could ſee the Trinity with their Corporeal Eyes, and that they became ſo far like unto God, That in ſuch Condition, they did not ſo much as ſin in their Thoughts. They Profeſſed many other Errours. They were infatuated ſo much, That they believed the Holy Ghoſt deſcended viſibly upon them, eſpecially at the time of their Ordination, at which they danced, as they pretended, upon the Devil, for which reaſon they were called Enthuſiaſts, i. e. Poſſeſſed. They forbad the giving of Alms to any, but to them of their own Sect; Diſſolved Marriages, and perſuaded Children to leave their Parents to follow them; they wore their Hair long like Women, and Magnificent Robes; they did not ſpread farther than Meſopotamia and Syria, becauſe of the general Oppoſition their Folly and Impiety met with. The Emperor Theodoſius the Great publiſhed an Edict againſt the Maſſalians, and others perſecuted them, who ſtill continued to ſpread their Errours, tho' they were received into the Church. It was Ordered in a Council of Biſhops, in 427, That by reaſon of their frequent Relapſes, they ſhould be no more admitted, whatever Promiſes of Repentance they ſhould make. Auguſtinus de hær. cap. 57. Theodoretus hæret. fab. lib. 4. Johannes Damaſcenus hær. 80. Sanderus hær. 85.

MASSANIELLO, or Anello (Thomas) Head of the Male-Contents at Naples in 1647. He was no more than a Poor Fiſher-man, and but Four and twenty Years old, when he occaſion'd ſuch miſerable diſturbances in that City, Burning ſeveral Houſes, and murdering a great many People, and amongſt the reſt the Duke of Caraffa, whoſe Head was carry'd by Maſſaniello's Party, upon the top of a Pike through the Town, with about 150 others, which made a Terrible impreſſion upon the Citizens, both Quality and others. Maſſaniello Order'd a great many Gibbets and Wheels for Torture, to be ſet up and prepar'd in the Squares and Markets, and was commonly follow'd by ten or twelve Hangmen to Execute his Orders. During this diſtraction, no Emperor was more Abſolute, nor better Obey'd, than Maſſaniello; but after this Sedition had rag'd in all manner of Barbarity for ten days, 'twas broken and Suppreſt by killing this Incendiary, who, after he was knock'd o'th' Head, was dragg'd through the Streets, and us'd with all the Infamy and Contempt that he deſerv'd. This Inſurrection was occaſion'd by the Vice-Roy's laying a new Gabel or Tax upon Fruit. Du Verdier Hiſtoire Univerſelle: See the Memoirs of the Duke of Guiſe. Howel's Tranſlation of the Hiſtory of the Revolutions of Naples.

MASSARIA, (Alexander) an Eminent Phyſician in the Univerſity of Padua, towards the end of the XVIth. Cent. He wrote De Peſte. Practica Medica. Adverſus Saxoniam de Abuſu Medicamentorum Veſicantium. De Pulſibus. De urinis. Conſultationes & Reſponſa Medicinalia. Thomaſini in Elog. Ghilini Teat. de Huom. Letter. &c.

MASSERAN, a ſmall Principality in Piemont; its Pr. is of the Houſe of Ferrari. Maſſeran is within the Lordſhip of Verceil towards the Milaneſe.

MASTREICHT upon the Meuſe a Town of the Low-Countries, which the Latins called Obtricum, Trajectum ad Moſam, or Trajectum Superius, to diſtinguiſh it from Utrecht, called Trajectum inferius, or Trajectum ad Rhenum. This Town ſtands upon the Weſtern Bank of the Maes, which has here a beautiful Stone-bridge over it, conſiſting of 9 Arches, from whence it has its Name, ſignifying the Paſſage over the Maes. On the Eaſtern Bank lies the Wick, which is a Suburb to the City. The Biſhops of Liege, and the Dukes of Brabant, heretofore divided the Juriſdiction of this City betwixt them, but it was in the hands of the latter, and with that Dutchy paſſed to the Houſe of Auſtria, who enjoyed it till 1632. The Spaniards ſuffering the Dutch to take it in 1633, left them in poſſeſſion and quitted their Claim to it, at the Treaty of Munſter. The French took it in 1673, and in 1676, the Dutch Attacked it again, but were forc'd to raiſe the Siege, but in 1678. They recovered it by the Treaty of Nimeguen. Dr. Brown obſerves in his Travels, That the private Houſes are generally covered with a black Slate, or Ardoiſe, That the Town Houſe is fair, ſeated in one of the Piazza's, built of white Stone; That it hath 9 large Windows in a row, on each ſide, and is on the in-ſide very well painted, by Theodorus van der Schuer, who was Painter to the Queen of Sweden; in another Piazza, is a Fountain, rows of Trees, and a great Church. 'Tis ſtrong, tho' its Wall be old, the Out-works being very conſiderable. Towards the S. E. lies a Hill, which ariſes gently, and over-looks part of the Town; under this Hill, is one of the nobleſt Quarries of Stones in the World. To ſecure the Town from the Diſadvantage it might receive from this Hill, there was formerly a Fort built upon it, but it hath been long ſince ſlighted, and they have made out an Horn Work, within Musket ſhot of it, and the Baſtion anſwering to it, is made very high to cover the Town. On the other ſide of the River ſtands Wick, very well fortified alſo, and rather ſtronger than Maſtreicht, into which they may retire, if the Town ſhould be taken by Storm; all about the Wick the Country is flat; there are many Inhabitants, and a handſome Glaſs-houſe.

MASURIUS (Sabinus) a Roman Gentleman, and a good Lawyer, liv'd in the Reign of Auguſtus. He wrote De Indigenis. Faſtorum Memorabilium Lib. 12. &c. He is cited by Pomponius Digeſt. Lib. 1. Tit. 2. De Origine Juris. Pliny, Aulus Gellius, Macrobius, &c. make frequent mention of him.

MATACA, a Bay upon the Northern Coaſt of the Iſland Cuba, one of the Antilles in America. There it was that the famous Peter Heyn, Admiral of Holland, beat the Fleet of Galleons of the King of Spain, and took moſt of them, in 1627, which put the United Provinces in a Condition to make War againſt him, with the prodigious Riches that were found in that Fleet. There it is, that the Galleons take in freſh Water, that they may ſail through the Canal Bahama, to return into Spain. Oexmelinus's Hiſtory of the Weſt Indies.

MATAIA, a Province of the Southern America, towards the River of the Amazons, between the Mouth of the Madera and Tapaiſa. Texeira hiſt. Amer.

MATAIONE, a Dutchy of the Kingdom of Naples, called by ſome, Magdalonum, and by others, Meta Leonis. It is in the Terra di Lavoro.

MATAMAN, a Kingdom of Africa, Weſtward of the Æthiopick Sea, between Angola, and the Cafres, towards the Green River.

MATAMORE (Alphonſus Garſias) a Spaniard, Native of Seville, one of the great Reſtorers of Learning in Spain, in the Laſt Century; he taught Rhetorick in the Univerſity of Aſcala, and was an intimate Friend of Arius Montanus, Alvarez Gomez, Antonius Auguſtinus, and the other great Men of that Kingdom. He wrote De ratione dicendi, De tribus dicendi generibus, De methodo concionandi, De Academiis, & Doctis viris Hiſpaniæ. Gaddius, Nicholas Antonio. He died about 1550.

MATAN, an Iſland of the Indian Sea, and one of the Philippines. It had formerly its Kings, who were forced out by the Spaniards; but, of late, thoſe of the Country have ſettled there again, and beaten the Strangers out. It is reported, that Magellan died in that Iſland.

MATANE, a Countrey in Africa, Eaſtward of Madagaſcar. The French have ſome Plantations there of late.

MATAPAN, a Cape of Morea, which advanceth into the Sea Southward. The Ancients called it Tænarium, becauſe of the Cavern Tænarus that is to be ſeen there, which is ſo frightful, that the Poets called it The Gates of Hell, and ſaid, That Hercules came out that Way, when he dragged away the Dog Cerberus. The Sea about this Cape is very deep. Pilots find two good Harbours there; the Port of the Quails, becauſe of the great number of Quails there, and the other, the Port of Maina. Between thoſe 2 Havens, the Turks in 1570, built a Fort, which they called Monige, or Caſtro de Maini, to keep in awe the People of the Province of Maina, which cannot endure the Dominion of the Turks. But the Sieur Quirini, Captain of the Gulph, coming from Candia with 80 Gallies, made himſelf Maſter of 2 Ports and a Fortreſs, and Demoliſhed them, to favour the Liberty of the Mainotes, Well-wiſhers of the Re-publick of Venice. 'Tis noted for its Marble Quarries, and the Arrival of Arion on the Back of a Dolphin. Petri Coronelli Deſcriptio Moreæ.

MATERA upon the River Canopro, a Town in the Kingdom of Naples in the Terra d'Otranto, with an Archbiſhop's See. It is not very conſiderable. The Latins give it the Name of Mateala.

MATHAREE, or Matheree, a very pleaſant Place, within two Leagues of the New Cairo in Egypt, where the Trees grew that bore formerly the true Balſam. They were but two Foot high, were always green, their Branches reſembling a Vine, and the Leaves Baſilick. The Balſam was a ſort of reddiſh Water, that run out of the Inciſions made in the Shrub. Near the Garden ſtands an Obelisk, and ſome Remains of fine Buildings. Here, Sultan Selim pitched his Camp when he took Grand Cairo, in 1517. Vanſleb's Voyage of Egypt, M. Thevenot Voyage de Lev.

MATHATIAS, a Prieſt of the Family of Joarib, called the Macchabees, or Aſſamoneans. Not being able to ſee, without extraordinary Grief, the Abominations committed at Jeruſalem, after the Taking of that Town by Antiochus, he retired with five Sons of his, into the little Town of Modin, in the Tribe of Juda, where he was born. This happened about An. Mun. 3887. The Partiſans of Antiochus, exerciſed their Tyranny at Modin, and forced the Jews to Sacrifice to Idols. Mathatias, and his Children, continued in the true Worſhip of God. Spying one day an Iſraelite Sacrificing to the Idols, and being tranſported with a Holy Zeal, he killed him, with the Deputy of Antiochus, who forced him to that Impiety; after which, he eſcaped to the Mountains, with his Children, and many Followers. God was pleaſed to make him an Inſtrument, for the abating of the Pride of Antiochus, and to ſet up his Worſhip again, which that Prince had almoſt aboliſhed. Then began the Principality of the Aſſamoneans, which laſted to the Time of Herodes, and the High-Prieſthood was almoſt always joyned with it. Some have been of Opinion, That Mathatias was the firſt that poſſeſſed that Dignity; but it is more probable, that it was his Eldeſt Son Judas Macchabæus. He died a Year after this. I. and II. of the Macch. Joſephus lib. 12. antiq. & 1. de bello. Torneil and Salian in Annal. V. Teſt.

MATHILDE, Counteſs of Tuſcany, Daughter to Boniface, Marquiſs of Tuſcany, and Beatrix, who, in all probability, was the Daughter of the Emperor Conradus II. She made War againſt the Emperor Henry IV. in the behalf of the Popes, and, at laſt, made a publick Donation of her Lands to the Holy See. She often led her Armies in Perſon againſt that Prince, who had made his Chancellor Guibert, Antipope, but was defeated by him, and Godfrey of Bouillon in 1081, who alſo beſieged Rome; but this did not put an end to the War, in the Continuation of which, Mathilde got great Reputation, both by her Courage and Conduct; her Enemies accuſed her of being too familiar with Pope Gregory VII. She died in 1115. Aged 76 Years. The Prieſt Demniſon hath writ her Life in Heroick Verſes. See Lambert the Abbot of Urſperg, &c. quoted by Baronius in Annal.

MATHIEW (Margaret) the Wife of John Pudget, a Cloth-dreſſer at Toulouſe, was 26 Years with Child. She began to be big in 1652; and at the end of Nine Months, had the Pains of a Woman in Labour, but could not be brought to Bed. Afterwards for the ſpace of 20 Years, at times, ſhe felt the Child move, and was ſo ſenſibly out of Order, that ſhe was willing to undergo the hazard of any Experiment: But then the ſix laſt Years her Pains abated. She died in 1678, at 64 Years of Age, and being diſſected, they found an Infant of a leſſer Size, dead within her, the back parts of it being cover'd with a ſort of Meſentery. That which is moſt to be admir'd in this Matter, is, that the Child ſhould lye ſo long in the Uterus without Putrefaction. Memoirs du Temps.

MATHUSALEM, Henoch's Son, born An. Mun. 688. his Father being 65 Years old. In 875, he begot Lamech, the Father of Noah, and died in 1656. Aged 969 Years, the ſame Year that the Flood happened. Gen. 5. Torniel, Salian and Spond. in Annal. V. T. A. M. 688. 1656. &c.

MATIGNON, (James) Mareſchal of France, and Knight of the King's Orders. He gave great Proofs of Prudence and Conduct in his very Youth, when Page to Henry II. eſpecially at the Siege of Montmedy, Damvilliers, Defence of Metz under the Duke of Guiſe, and diſtinguiſhed himſelf at the Battel of St. Quintin, where he was taken Priſoner; being ſet at liberty, he was honoured with a conſiderable Command in the Army, contributed to the Taking of Rouen, and was the occaſion of the Victory of St. Denys, by hindering Andelot's paſſing the Seyne to joyn the Prince of Conde. He ſignalized himſelf at the Battels of Jarnac, Roche, Abeille, and Moncontour, in 1569, and three Years after hindred the Maſſacre of the Proteſtants at Alenzon, and St. Lo, ſettled Peace in Lower Normandy, where he took Priſoner the Count of Montgomery in Domfront. King Henry III. made him Mareſchal of France, in 1578, and afterwards Knight of his Orders. He did him conſiderable Service againſt the League, fought valiantly againſt the King of Navarre, and proved as faithful to him, when he was declared King of France; repreſented the High-Conſtable at his Coronation, and entered Paris at the Head of the Swiſſers after its Surrender. He continued to render him great Services till his Death, which happened in 1597.

MATMAN, a great Kingdom on the Weſtern Coaſt of Africa, between 15 and 20 Degrees of S. Lat. It is bounded to the N. by Angola, to the E. by Monotapia, to the S. by Caffrea, and to the W. by the Atlantick Ocean. The King is a Pagan. The Air is good, and the Earth fruitful, and yields plenty of Mines of Chryſtal, and other Minerals. Mr. Povy ſaith, it is divided from Monotapia by the great River Bagamidri.

MATRALES, a Feaſt of the Goddeſs Matuta, which the Romans kept upon the 11th of June; none but the Roman Ladies entered into the Temple of the Goddeſs to Sacrifice. They took a Slave along with them, whom they beat with their Fiſts, becauſe that Goddeſs, who was Ino, the Wife of Athamas, King of Thebes, had been jealous of a Slave whom her Husband loved. Moreover the Roman Ladies obſerved a very ſingular Ceremony in that Feaſt, for they took along with them the Children of their Siſters, whom they prayed for, but not their own. Plutarch. in queſt. Rom. Ovidius 6. Faſt.

MATRONALES, a Feaſt which the Roman Ladies kept upon the Firſt of March, in Honour of the God Mars. Ovid gives many Reaſons for which this Feaſt was inſtituted, he ſaith, That the Ground bearing Fruit in that Month, the Women offered Sacrifices that they might bear Children: That on the Firſt of March, a Temple was built to Juno Lucina upon Mount Eſquilinus, and that Mars was the Son of Juno, who preſided over Marriage. Ovidius 3. Faſt.

MATTHÆUS (Cantacuzenus) Son to John, Emperor of the Eaſt, was aſſociated to the Empire in 1354, and Crowned by Philotheus the Patriarch. But Johannes Palæologus quarrelled with him, and Matthew following the Fortune of his Father, quitted the Imperial Ornaments, and retired into a Monaſtery of Mount Athos. There it was that John compoſed thoſe admirable Works that we have. Matthew alſo compoſed ſome Commentaries upon the Canticles, which are printed at Rome, and is ſaid to be the Author of ſome other Commentaries upon the Wiſdom of Solomon, Præcepta Salutaria, &c. See JOHN V. Emperor.

MATTHEACCI, (Anglo) an Eminent Lawyer in the Univerſity of Padua. Pope Sixtus Quintus, and the Emperor Rodolphus, had a great Value for him, and preferr'd him accordingly. He died in 1600, and wrote De Via & Ratione Artificioſa Univerſi Juris. De Fideï Commiſſis, &c. Thomaſini in Elog.

St. MATTHEW, of a Publican was made an Apoſtle. He writ his Goſpel at Jeruſalem, according to St. Jerom. Several of the Fathers think, that he writ it in Hebrew for the Uſe of the Jews. Who Tranſlated it into Greek is not well known, though ſome pretend it was the Apoſtle St. James, or St. John. St. Matthew preached the Goſpel in Æthiopia. Some report of him, That becauſe he had perſuaded Iphigenia, the King's Daughter, to live in Chaſtity, the Prince, who would have married her, cauſed him to be killed at the Altar. Clemens Alexandrinus ſaith, That he did eat no Fleſh, and that he fed only upon Herbs. Dr. Cave adds, That he was a great Inſtance of the Power of Religion; how much a Man may be brought off to a better Temper, for the World had very great Advantages upon him. He was become a Maſter of a plentiful Eſtate, engaged in a rich and gainful Trade, ſupported by the Power and Favour of the Romans, prompted by covetous Inclinations, and thoſe confirmed by long Habits: And yet notwithſtanding all this, no ſooner did Chriſt call, but, without the leaſt Scruple, he flung up all at once, and not only renounced, as St. Baſil obſerves, his gainful Incomes, but ran an immediate hazard of the Diſpleaſure of his Maſters that employed him, for quitting their Service, and leaving his Accounts confuſed behind him; and his Change was the more admirable, that our Saviour appeared under all the Circumſtances of Meanneſs and Diſgrace, ſeeming to promiſe his Followers nothing but Miſery, and Suffering in this Life, and to propound no other Rewards, but the inviſible Encouragements of another World. Porphyry and Julian, two ſubtle and acute Adverſaries of the Chriſtian Religion, took occaſion hence to charge St. Matthew, either with Falſhood, or with Folly; either that he gave not a true Account of the thing, or that it was very weakly done of him, ſo haſtily to follow any one that called him. His Contempt of the World farther appeared, in his exemplary Temperance, and Abſtemiouſneſs, and incomparable Humility; for whereas the other Evangeliſts, in deſcribing the Apoſtles by pairs, conſtantly place him before Thomas, he modeſtly put him before himſelf. The reſt of the Evangeliſts, openly mention the Honour of his Apoſtleſhip, but ſpeak of his former diſgraceful Courſe of Life, under the Name of Levi, whilſt he himſelf ſets it down with all its Circumſtances, under his own Proper and Common Name: By all which may be ſeen, that the greateſt Sinners are not excluded the Lines of Divine Grace, and that penitent Sinners are not to be upbraided with the Errors and Follies of their paſt Life. Pontanus found St. Matthew's Goſpel in Hebrew in the Indies, whither it was carried by St. Bartholomew, and brought it to Alexandira. St. Matthew deſcribes particularly the Humanity of Chriſt. The Nazarenes preſerved his Goſpel a long time, and it was from them that St. Jerom had a Copy to Tranſlate it into Greek and Latin; but in progreſs of Time, they interpolated ſeveral Paſſages of it, as the Ebionites, the Cerinthians, and Carpocratians had done before them, taking occaſion from the Humane Genealogy deſcribed in it, to deny the Divinity of Chriſt. St. Irenæus lib. 3. cap. 1. St. Hieronymus cap. 3. *Cat. præf. in Evan. MATTHEW (Peter) an Hiſtoriographer of France. He writ the Hiſtory of the memorable Things that happened during the Seven Years Peace, under the Reign of Henry the Great, to which he added, the Foreign Affairs that related to his Subject; afterwards he writ the whole Hiſtory of that Prince, beginning at Francis I. His Stile is Elegant, but ſtuffed with affected Metaphors, Citations, and Examples, drawn from Ancient Hiſtorians and Poets, which though they ſhew his Sufficiency, do not much conduce to the Reader's Inſtruction. He is faithful in Relation of Matters of Fact. Imperialis in Muſ. Hiſtor.

MATTHEW of Weſtminſter, ſo call'd, becauſe he was a Benedictine in a Monaſtery in that City. He is likewiſe ſurnam'd Florilegus, becauſe he entituled his Hiſtory; Flores Hiſtoriarum. He lived in the XIVth Century, and was a conſiderable Perſon for his time. His Hiſtory is divided into Three Books. The firſt Treats of the moſt conſiderable Events and Paſſages, from the beginning of the World to our Saviour. The Second continues the Firſt, and carries down the Hiſtory to William the Conqueror. The Third Book goes from the Norman Conqueſt to the Reign of Edward II. He wrote his Hiſtory with ſo great Care and Impartiality, that the Reader needs not wonder at the Commendation and Character, which is given him. He wrote likewiſe the Chronicle of his own Monaſtery. MATTHIAS, High-Prieſt of the Jews, lived An. Rom. 730. whilſt he Exerciſed that Function, another Matthias, Son of Margalothus, and Judas, Son of Saripheus, both well verſed in the Jewiſh Laws, pulled down a golden Eagle, ſet up on the Portal of the Temple by Herod; whereat that Prince was ſo incenſed, that he deprived Matthias of his Office, thinking he kept Correſpondence with the other, and gave it to Joazar, his Brother-in-law, burned the other Matthias alive, with all that were taken in his Company. Joſephus lib. 17. Antiq. cap. 8.

St. MATTHIAS, an Apoſtle, was choſen inſtead of Judas, in the 33d Year of our Saviour. He preached the Goſpel in Judea, and part of Æthiopia, and ſuffered Martyrdom for Confeſſing the Name of Jeſus Chriſt. His Feaſt is kept on the 24th of February, amongſt the Latins, but the Greeks keep it on the 9th of Auguſt. Dr. Cave adds, That a Vacancy being made in the College of the Apoſtles, by the Defection of Judas; the firſt thing they did, after their return from Mount Olivet, where our Saviour took his leave of them, to St. John's Houſe in Mount Sion, was to fill up their Number with a fit Perſon; to which purpoſe, Peter acquainted them, That Judas, according to the Prophetical Prediction, being fallen from his Miniſtry, it was neceſſary that another ſhould be Subſtituted in his Room, one that had been a conſtant Companion and Diſciple of the Holy Jeſus, and conſequently capable of bearing Witneſs to his Life, Death, and Reſurrection. Two were propounded in order to the Choice, Joſeph called Barſabas and Juſtus, whom ſome made the ſame with Joſes, one of the Brothers of our Lord, and Matthias, both duly Qualified for the Place. The Way of Election was by Lots, a Way frequently uſed, both amongſt Jews and Gentiles, for the Determination of doubtful and difficult Caſes, and eſpecially the chuſing Judges and Magiſtrates. The Apoſtles took this Courſe, to comply with the Old Cuſtom obſerved amongſt the Jews; and the rather, becauſe the Holy Ghoſt was not as yet given, by whoſe immediate Dictates and Inſpirations, they were chiefly guided; afterwards having made their Addreſs to Heaven, to guide and direct the Choice, Matthias his Name was drawn out of the Urn, and thereby the Apoſtolate devolved upon him. His Body is ſaid to have been kept a long time at Jeruſalem, thence, thought by Helen, the Mother of the Great Conſtantine, to have been Tranſlated to Rome, where ſome Parts of it are ſeen with great Veneration, at this Day; though others, with as great eagerneſs, and probably as much truth, ſay they were brought to, and are ſtill preſerved at Triers in Germany. Among many other Apocryphal Writings attributed to the Apoſtles, there was a Goſpel publiſhed under Matthias's Name, but rejected by the Ancients as ſpurious; as alſo by Gelaſius, Biſhop of Rome. Under his Name alſo, there were Extant, Traditions cited by Clemens of Alexandria, from whence, no queſtion, it was, that the Nicolaitans borrowed that Saying of his, which they Abuſed to ſo vile and beaſtly Purpoſes, as under the pretended Patronage of his Name and Doctrine, to defend ſome of their moſt Abſurd and Impious Opinions.

MATTHIAS, Emperor of the Weſt, was Son to Maximilian II. and Brother to Rodolphus II. After the Death of this laſt he was elected Emperor, June 13. 1612. being before Arch-Duke of Auſtria, King of Hungary and Bohemia. He died at Vienna, March 10. 1619. Aged 62 Years. He had married in 1611. Anna Catharina, Daughter of Ferdinand, Arch-Duke of Auſtria.

MATTHIAS, (Corvinus) King of Hungary and Bohemia, was Son to John Hunniades. His Courage got him the Name of Great. The Enemies of his Father's Grandeur, kept him Priſoner in Bohemia, and having put to Death his Brother Ladiſlaus, under pretence that he had killed the Count of Cilia in a Duel, were reſolved to make him away. He was then 15 Years old, as ſome ſay, or, as others obſerve, 18. But King Ladiſlaus being dead, in 1457, Matthias Corvinus was ſet at liberty, and Elected King of Hungary, Jan. 24. 1458, and at the ſame time George Podebrache was Elected King of Bohemia, by the Huſſites. Some of the Lords of Hungary oppoſed the Election of Matthias, and endeavoured to perſuade the Emperor Frederick IV. to take the Crown for himſelf. Some others offered it alſo to the King of Poland. Which cauſed great Diviſions amongſt them. The Turk made uſe of the opportunity, having taken Boſnia, and part of Servia. But Matthias took again that which he had loſt, and reduced Tranſilvania and Walachia, and was Crowned in 1464, and he was preparing to renew the War with the Turks, when he died of an Apoplexy at Vienna, in 1490. He underſtood all that a Prince ought to underſtand. It is reported of him, that he could ſpeak all the Languages of Europe, except the Greek and Turkiſh. He favoured the Learned. He Collected an excellent Library at Buda, which he enriched with the moſt curious Books, and rareſt Manuſcripts. His Body was carried to Alba Regalis, and put in the Monument of the Kings of Hungary. Antonius Thebaldus made this Epitaph mentioned by Paulus Jovius in Elog.

Corvini Brevis hæc Urna eſt, quem magna fatentur
Facta fuiſſe Deum, fata fuiſſe hominem.

Bonfinius Hiſt. of Hungary. Turoſius in reb. Hungar. Peter de Reva.

MATTHIOLUS (Petrus Andreas) of Sienna, a famous Phyſician, lived in 1554. He publiſhed his Commentaries upon the Six Books of Dioſcorides, and Gaſparus Bauhinus, a learned Botaniſt, printed very curious Notes with them. He alſo writ Epitome de Plantis, Conſilia Medica, &c. Juſtus in Chron. Medic. Vander Linden de Scriptor. Medic. Geſnerus in Bibl. &c.

MATTHIOLUS, a Phyſician of Perugia in Italy, liv'd in the XVth Century, and wrote a Book of the Art of Memory, call'd Ars Memorativa; and printed in Quarto at Auſburg in 1498. Vander Linden.

MATUTA, a Goddeſs whom the Romans worſhipped, whoſe Feaſt was called Matrales. It was Ino, the Wife of Athamas, King of Thebes, and the Nurſe of Bacchus, who, as Poets feign, was changed into a Sea-Goddeſs, and called Leucothea, by the Greeks. Some by Matuta, underſtand Aurora, the Goddeſs of the Morning; others ſay, That Matuta ſignifieth Good, after the Ancient Manner of ſpeaking amongſt the Latins. King Servius Tullius built a Temple to this Goddeſs at Rome, which Camillus, Conſul and Dictator repaired again, after the Battel he won againſt the Veii. Titus Livius lib. 5. Feſtus.

MAUD, Daughter of King Henry I. of England, was married to the Emperor Henry IV. who dying without Iſſue, ſhe returned to England, where King Henry having loſt all his other Children in their Paſſage out of France, ſettled the Succeſſion upon her, and ſoon after married her to Geoffry Plantaginet, Earl of Anjou. King Henry died the fifth Year after this Match, Robert, Duke of Normandy, died alſo the ſame Year, together with the Earl Plantaginet, which, with the Empreſs's Abſence, favoured King Stephen's Attempt upon the Crown ſo far, that he was Proclaimed King. Maud, with the Aſſiſtance of David, King of Scots, endeavoured to recover her Right. The War was attended with various Succeſs. She was in Perſon in ſeveral pitched Battels, took King Stephen Priſoner at the Fight of Lincoln; but loſing the Londoners by her Reſervedneſs, her Party grew weak, ſo that ſhe was at laſt forced to content her ſelf with this Agreement, viz. That if King Stephen died without Children, Henry, her Son, ſhould Succeed him. 'Tis obſerved, that during the War, ſhe made her Eſcape twice by Stratagem, when the Enemy thought themſelves ſure of her; firſt, getting her ſelf carried out like a Corps; the ſecond time, in a great Snow, clothing her all in white, ſhe paſſed unſeen through King Stephen's Camp. She was Daughter of King Henry, married to the Emperor Henry, and Mother of King Henry II. as appears by her Epitaph,

Ortu magna, viro major, ſed Maxima partu,
Hic jacet Henrici, filia, ſponſa, parens.

MAULEON de Soule, which the Latins call Malleo, or Mauleoſolium, a Town of France, in the County of the Barques, the Chief Town of the Viſcounty of Soule. It is the Birth-place of M. Henry Spondanus, Biſhop of Pamier.

St. MAUR, a Congregation of the Order of the Benedictines in France. It was Erected by Pope Gregory XV. in 1621. at the Requeſt of King Lewis XIII. This Order is divided into Sixteen Provinces, whereof each has about Twenty Religious Houſes. The moſt conſiderable are, St. Denys in France, St. Germain des Prez, St. Rheim of Rheims, Marmoutier, &c. The Monks, beſides the Rule of St. Benet, have particular Statutes and Conſtitutions; they have a Superior General, Aſſiſtants, and Viſitors, and hold a General Chapter in three Years. They make a particular Profeſſion of Learning, and have Seminaries in each Province for the Education of Youth.

MAUREGAT VIIth. King of Leon and Oviedo in Spain, was Baſtard to Alphonſus I. King of Leon. He Uſurped the Crown that belonged to Alphonſus his Nephew, in 783. To maintain himſelf, he was forced to make Alliance with the Moors, to whom he Payed an Annual Tribute of 50 Noble Virgins, and as many out of the Common People, which expoſed him to a general Hatred. He died in 788. L. De Mayerne. Turquet's hiſt. of Spain.

MAURICE, a Town of America in Braſil, built by the Hollanders, ſo called from Mauritius of Naſſaw, Governor of that Country. The Portugueſe are now Maſters of it.

MAURICE, an Iſland of Africk, called by the Dutch, Maurits Eylandt. It is in the Æthiopian Sea. Some call it The Iſland of Swans; but the Portugueſe call it The Iſland of Cerns. The Land of Maurice, which the Hollanders call Mauritſland, is in the Southern America. They diſcovered it in 1616. It is ſeated right againſt the Iſland of Madagaſcar, 140 Leagues to the Eaſt, and is about 60 in Compaſs, and affords great plenty of Ebony, for which the Dutch kept it ſome time; but finding the Profit not equal to the Expence, they forſook it, though it has plenty of Fruits. Mr. Herbert. who ſaw it, ſaith pag. 208. its Lat. is 20. 05. Circuit 100 Miles, ſtretching from N. E. to S. W. ſtored with all things that are pleaſing and neceſſary to the Life of Man, but eſpecially plenty of good, clear Waters, fragrant Woods, and pleaſant Fruit-Trees. The Soil, towards the Sea, is Rocky and Barren, but within, even, fat and pleaſant, full of ſhady Trees and Rivulets. It has no Humane Inhabitants, nor perhaps, never had any, but the Dutch.

St. MAURICE, a Military Order of Savoy: Amé, or Amadeus VIII. Duke of Savoy, Inſtituted this Order, in 1434, in honour of St. Maurice, whoſe Ring was delivered to Peter, E. of Savoy, that by him it might be conveyed to his Succeſſors, as a Badge of their Right to, and Soveraignty over the Country. D. Philibert Emanuel obtained from Pope Gregory XIIIth. to have it United to the Order of St. Lazarus, in 1572, upon Condition the Knights ſhould oppoſe thoſe he called Hereticks, Defend the Honour of his See, and fight for the Faith.

MAURICE of Naſſaw, Prince of Orange, Son of Prince William, by his ſecond Wife, Anne of Saxony. He was a great Commander, Governor of the United Provinces, after the Death of his Father, killed in 1584, at Delft, by Balthazar Gerard. He did great Exploits in the abſence of Alexander of Farneſe, in 1590, and 92, Defeated the Arch-Duke Albert's Forces, in 1597, but was forced to raiſe the Siege of Newport, in 1600, though he beat the Spaniards in a pitch'd Battle, a few Days before. He took Grave upon the Meuſe in 1602. Ecluſe or Sluys in 1604, about the time that Oſtend was Capitulating with Spinola. His other Conqueſts are all well known. He died at the Hague, in 1625. Some ſay, it was of Grief, that he could not raiſe the Siege of Breda. Prince Maurice leaving no lawful Iſſue, was Succeeded by his Brother Frederick.

MAURIENNE, a Province, or Valley of Savoy, reaching from the Alps, to the River Iſere on the one ſide, and on the other from Tarantais to Dauphine. It is believed to be the Country of the ancient Brannovices in Cæſar, though Sanſon be of another Mind in his Remarks upon the ancient Gaul. 'Tis thought, the Village of Braman at the foot of Mount Cenis, was the Capital, as St. John of Maurienne upon the River Arche, a Biſhop's See, is the Chief Town now. Its other conſiderable Places are, Laneburg, Tremignon, St. Andrew, St. Michael, &c. Guichenon's hiſt. of Savoy. See St. John de Maurienne.

MAURITANIA, an ancient large Region of Africa, which now lies within the Weſtern Part of Barbary. It was formerly divided into Cæſarienſis Tingitana, and Sitifenſis. Cæſarienſis was bounded with Getulia to the South, the Mediterranean Sea to the North, Tingitana to the Weſt, and Sitifenſis to the Eaſt, and is now almoſt wholly included in the Kingdom of Algiers. Mauritania Tingitana was bounded on all Sides by the Atlantick and Mediterranean Oceans together with Cæſarienſis and Getulia, and in the time of the Emperor Conſtantine, was called by the Spaniards, Mauritania Transfretana. The Name of Tingitana, came from the City Tingi, now Tangier. Mauritania Sitifenſis had for its Bounds, Numidia to the E. Cæſarienſis to the W. the Mediterranean to the N. and Getulia to the S. Several Greek and Latin Authors ſay, That Plinthon, one of the Sons of Cham, was the firſt Inhabitant of Libya and Mauritania. Joſephus and St. Jerom write, That in their time, there was a River in that Country that was called Phuts, whence the Place was called Regio Phutenſis. The Moors were Arabians, as were alſo thoſe Saracens, that ſettled here in 710, and afterwards entered Spain, to re-inthrone Vitiza, K. of the Viſigoths, whom Roderic had Deprived of the Crown; but having killed this laſt, kept the Country themſelves until Ferdinand and Iſabella, by taking of Granada in 1492, routed them quite out. Salluſt, Ptolemy, Strabo, Pliny, Cluvier.

St. MAURITIUS, Colonel of the Theban Legion, in the Army of the Emperor Maximilian, in 269. In his Winter Quarters in Palæſtina, he was Baptized by Zuambdal, Biſhop of Jeruſalem, and all his Soldiers together with him. Afterwards he joined with Maximian, who, having croſſed the Alps, Encamped in a Plain about the River Rhodanus, and commanded Sacrifices to be offered to his Gods. Mauritius, who abhorred ſuch Idolatry, withdrew from the Camp, and went with his Legion Eight Miles from the Camp. The Emperor ſending to know the Reaſon, Anſwered, That himſelf, and all the Legion were Chriſtians: Whereupon he Commanded every Tenth Soldier to be put to Death. The reſt not being Daunted at this Cruelty, he Ordered the ſame thing again; and, at laſt, he Commanded the whole Legion to be put to the Sword. This happen'd on the 22d. of September, in a Place called then Agaunum, and now St. Maurice; where Sigiſmond, King of Burgundy, cauſed a Noble Monaſtery to be built. The Hiſtory of France tells us, That Charles Martel made uſe of the Lance and Helmet of that brave Martyr, when he fought againſt the Saracens. It is to be obſerved, That the Dukes of Savoy wear always his Ring, and leave it by Succeſſion, one to another, as the beſt Mark of their Sovereignty. Eucherius Biſhop of Lyons, his Hiſtory of the Martyrdom of St. Maurice.

MAURITIUS (Tiberius) Emperor of the Eaſt, was Originally from Rome, but was born in Arabiſſa, a Town of Cappadocia. Tiberius, the Emperor, having made him General of his Armies, married him to Conſtantina, his Daughter, and made him his Succeſſor. He Succeeded him. Evagrius writes, That he was a prudent and dextrous Prince. St. Gregory commends his Zeal and Care of the Catholick Church. He was very ſucceſsful againſt the Perſians, received their King Choſroez II. whom they had Baniſhed, and ſoon after re-inthroned him. After this, Chagan, King of the Avari, made Incurſions into Lower Hungary, Plundered Mœſia, and being advanced into Thrace, threatned Conſtantinople with a Siege; but a Contagion happening in his Army, which ſwept away a great part thereof, with his Seven Sons, put a ſtop to his Proceedings. He had 12000 Priſoners with him, which he offer'd to ſet at Liberty, on Condition that the Emperor ſhould pay him about half a Crown for each, which being refuſed, he put them all to the Sword. Hereupon the People of Conſtantinople rebelled, and called the Emperor, A Cruel, Covetous Tyrant, who ſeemed extreamly concerned at that unhappy Accident, begging the Prayers of all the Religious of his Time, for the Pardon of the Offence, or that he might receive Puniſhment for it in this World. They add, That he was advertiſed in a Dream, that he and his Wife, and Children, ſhould be killed. Others ſay, That he was told, he ſhould be Dethron'd by a man whoſe Name began with Ph. and that thinking it ſhould be his Brother-in-law Philippus, he removed him from Court, in 584. In the mean time, Phocas, who of a ſimple Soldier, advanced himſelf conſiderably in the Army, being Proclaimed Emperor, purſued Mauritius to Chalcedon, where he put him, and 4 of his Children, to death. 'Tis ſaid, he ſuffered with great Patience, uttering theſe Words of the Prophet, Thou art juſt, O Lord, and thy Judgment is righteous. This happened in 602, in the 63d. Year of his Age, whereof he Reigned 10. Nicephorus lib 18, 19. Theophanes, Anaſtaſius, Baronius, &c.

MAUSOLEUM, a Name that was given to all magnificent Tombs, ſince Artemiſia, Queen of Caria, built her Husband Mauſolus a very ſumptuous one, which ſhe called from his Name Mauſoleum. It ſtood in Halicarnaſſus, Capital of the Kingdom, between the Kings Palace, and the Temple of Venus. Its breadth from N. to S. was 63 foot, but the Fronts were ſomewhat leſs, ſo that the Circuit was 411 Foot, the height 25 Cubits, the whole being ſupported with 36 Columns. Scepas undertook the Part that faced the E. Timotheus the S. Leochares the W. and Briaxis the N. and though Artemiſia died of Grief before it was perfected, the Work was not diſcontinued. Pythis joined himſelf to the other 4, raiſed a Pyramid upon the Mauſoleum, and placed thereon a Marble Chariot, drawn by 4 Horſes of the ſame. This Tomb paſſed for one of the World's Wonders, and was admired by all People, but the Philoſopher Anaxagoras of Clazomene, who at the ſight of it cried, There is a great deal of Silver turn'd into Stone. Chevreau.

MAUSOLUS I. of that Name, King of Caria, for whom his Wife Artemiſia built a Noble Monument. See ARTEMISIA. From this Monument, all others have got the Name of Mauſoleum. Mauſolus was a Confederate with the Republick of Byzantium, Rhodes, Co, and Scio, againſt the Athenians in the War, call'd, Bellum Sociale.

MAUVIA, Queen of the Iſmaelites, or Saracens, in the IVth Century. She ruined Palæſtina and Arabia, under the Empire of Valens. After ſeveral Battels in 382. ſhe made an Alliance with the Emperor, and demanded of him, a holy Monk called Moſes, who lived upon the Frontiers of Egypt and Palæſtina, to be the Biſhop of her own People. She had been Converted to the Chriſtian Faith, and deſired that her People ſhould partake of that Benefit. This Man was found out, and carried to Alexandria, to be Ordained there by an Heretick Prelate; but he made his Eſcape, ſo that Valens was obliged to give leave, that he ſhould be Ordained by the Orthodox Biſhops. After this Emperor's death, Mauvia, and her Subjects aſſiſted the Empire againſt the Goths. Socrates lib. 4. cap. 29. Sozomen lib. 6. cap. 38. Ammianus Marcellinus lib. 14. Baronius in Annal. &c.

MAXENTIUS, (Marc. Aurel. Valer.) Son to the Emperor Maximianus Herculeus, ſeeing the Image of Conſtantine the Great carried in Rome, as Emperor, he aſſumed the Purple, and was Saluted Emperor by the Imperial Guards, which were in Italy, in 307. Conſtantine to avoid the Miſchiefs of a Civil War, endeavoured an Accommodation, and offered to make him his Aſſociate, but all in vain, Maxentius behaving himſelf with ſo much Outrage, as to throw down all Conſtantine's Statues. Maximianus Valerius underſtanding this, Commanded Severus, whom he had created Cæſar, to march againſt this Rebel; but Maxentius having corrupted the Soldiers, and Annulius, Commander of the Guards, forced him to raiſe the Seige of Rome, defeated him, and made him fly to Ravenna, where he beſieged him: During the Seige, Maximianus Hercules leaving his Retirement, which he had kept ever ſince his Depoſition, entred Ravenna, cajoled Severus, and by a feigned Peace, betwixt his Son Maxentius and him, brought him to Rome, where he was Strangled, in 307. Maxentius knowing that the Chriſtians favoured Conſtantine, feigned himſelf a Chriſtian, and ſtopped the Perſecution againſt them, by which he obtained a Reputation of Clemency; but having ſubdued Alexander, who was Proclaimed Emperor in Africa, and thinking that the Chriſtians were not then capable of obſtructing his Deſigns, he perſecuted them with extraordinary fury, and became inſufferably Cruel. He never made any Diſcourſe to his Men of War, but he adviſed them to pillage the Citizens, and having one Day, upon a ſlight occaſion, ſent them out againſt the People, they Maſſacred them in the Streets, with as much fury as if the Barbarians had taken it by Storm. He not only invoked Devils, but conſulted the Entrails of Women with Child, whom he cauſed to be ript up to Divine Futurities, and murdered Infants for that ſame end. He was ſuch a Brutiſh Debauche, that he had no regard to Age, Sex, nor Quality, ſo that many Women choſe rather to make themſelves be killed, than expoſed to his Impurities. At length, he became ſo inſupportable to the Senate, that they prayed Conſtantine to advance into Italy, and deliver them from this Tyrant, which he accordingly did, tho' with great difficulty, Maxentius having numerous Forces, and placed Three or Four Armies in the Alps to diſpute his Paſſage, but God was on Conſtantine's ſide; and having aſſured him of the Victory, by an Apparition of the Croſs, he defeated his Troops in divers Battles, and himſelf at laſt, ſo that he fled, and falling into the Tiber from Pont Mola, was drowned; after which, his Corps were dragged out, and his Head being cut off, was carried about on a Lance, as a joyful Spectacle to the People. Euſeb. Zoſimus, Eutropius.

MAXIMIAN (M. Aurel. Valer. Hercul.) Native of Sirmium, was advanced to conſiderable Imployments in the Army by his Valour, and became Diocleſian's Favourite, who aſſociated him to the Empire, in 286. He defeated the rebellious Gauls, with their chiefs, Ælianus and Amandus, who had Uſurped the Title of Emperors. Diocleſian loved him particularly for his hatred againſt the Chriſtians; ſo that they raiſed a moſt dreadful Perſecution againſt them, neither ſuffering them to Buy, Sell, nor draw Water, or grind Corn, without offering Incenſe to the Idols in the Markets, and Corners of the Streets. He Condemned the Chriſtian Soldiers to work at his Baths in Rome and Carthage, &c. In their Time, they cut off more Chriſtians, than the Romans had done other People in all their Conqueſts; there being reckoned in Egypt alone 144000 Martyrs, and 700000 Baniſhed, ſo that the Emperors believed that they had Extinguiſhed the very Name of Chriſtians, and thereupon erected inſolent Trophies. In 304, they quitted the Imperial Purple, much againſt Maximian's Mind. He married Eutropia, a Syrian, and gave her Daughter Theodora, to Conſtantius Chlorus. He married Fauſta, another of his Daughters, to Conſtantine the Great, with a Deſign to ruin him; but ſhe being faithful to her Huſband, gave him notice of it, ſo that he beſieged him in Marſeilles, where he ſtrangled himſelf, in 310. Euſeb. Baronius.

MAXIMILIAN I. of that Name, Emperor, was Son to Frederick IV. called The Pacifick, of the Houſe of Auſtria. In 1477, he married Mary, the Heireſs of Burgundy, but was ſo poor, that ſhe was at all the Charge. He won the Battle of Guinegaſta, in 1479, againſt Lewis XI. of France. In 1482, his Princeſs died, and he was then ſo poor, that he was forced to pawn his Children to the Citizens of Ghent. In 1486, he was Created King of the Romans, his Father being alive. Sometime after, he took his Son from thoſe of Ghent, who thereupon, together with Bruges, and moſt other Cities in Flanders, declared themſelves his Enemies; and in Feb. 2. 1488. the Diſorders were ſo great, that being at Bruges, the People run to Arms, took him Priſoner, cut off ſeveral of his Creatures, and were about delivering up himſelf to the French, but they were moved to Compaſſion by his Tears. In 1489, he married Anne, Dutcheſs of Bretany, by his Proxy the Count of Naſſaw. But Charles VIII. of France, prevented his poſſeſſing her, and married her, himſelf in 1491, ſending him back his Daughter Margaret of Auſtria, whom he had affianced. Maximilian being enraged at this double Affront, ſurprized Arras and St. Omer, and entred Amiens, but was repulſed. But in 1493, a Peace was Concluded in Name of his Son Philip, Maximilian refuſing to be ſo much as once named in the Treaty. His Father Frederick, the Emperor, being dead, he Succeeded, and married the Dutcheſs of Milan's Siſter, Charles VIII. of France, having at that time, made himſelf Maſter of the Kingdom of Naples; ſo that Maximilian leagued himſelf with the Pope, and other Princes, and with 40000 Men, ſays Moreri, attacked the French, who were not above 8000, and were Defeated by them at Fornowa, in 1495. Maximilian did afterwards enter into a Confederacy with Lewis XII. againſt the Venetians, and Pope Julius II. and afterwards joined with the Engliſh againſt France, and in 1513, fought the Battle of Spurs at Guinegaſta, where he or rather the Engliſh Defeated the French a Second time. He died at Lints, Jan. 12. 1519. He was a very prudent Prince, loved learned Men, having writ ſeveral Poems himſelf, as alſo the Memoirs of his own Life. By his firſt Wife he had Philip, who married the Heireſs of Spain, by whom he had the Emperor Charles V. Paul. Jov. Cuſpinian. Hoffman ſays, That he loſt a Battle againſt the Swiſſers, that he granted Weſtfrieſland to Albert of Saxony, in 1495, That he decided the Controverſy of Bavaria with great Prudence, reduced Rupert, Son to the Elector Palatin, who would not acquieſce therein. By his General, the Prince of Anhault, he defeated and killed 10000 Venetians; but being deſerted by his Soldiers, he was repulſed out of Milan, by the Duke of Bourbon. He founded the Imperial Chamber, and was an excellent Prince, but an exceſſive Hunter; whence he uſed to ſay, Deus æterne, niſi vigilares quam male eſſet mundo quem regimus nos, ego miſer Venator & Sceleratus ille Julius. Hoffman.

MAXIMILIAN II. was Son to Ferdinand I. and choſen King of the Romans during his Father's life. In 1562, he married his Couſin Mary of Auſtria, Daughter to the Emperor Charles V. He was alſo King of Hungary and Bohemia. He was no Enemy to the Proteſtants, and therefore Accuſed at Rome, for entertaining a Miniſter, and introducing the Cup at the Sacrament, in moſt Places of his Dominion; neither did he diſſemble his Opinion, but often declared, that he could not Receive the Sacrament by halves; whereupon Pope Paul III. adviſed him, as he hoped for the Empire, to continue in the Catholick Faith; whereunto he Anſwered, That he preferred the Salvation of his Soul to all Earthly Things. He Succeeded his Father in the Empire, in 1564, and Governed in Peace. He put an end to the Grombachian War, by the Elector of Saxony, and having raſed the Duke of Weimar's Caſtle, Condemned the Duke to perpetual Impriſonment. He carried on the Hungarian War, by his Generals, againſt the Prince of Tranſilvania, and Solyman II. who died at the Siege of Sigeth, in 1566. He re-took all the Towns which the Vayvode had taken, and having cut off 10000 Tartars, which aſſiſted the Vayvode, he extended his Dominions Forty Miles beyond the Tibiſcus; he loſt Sigeth, but made an advantageous Peace with Solyman. He threatned the Pope, for Creating Coſmo de Medicis Great Duke of Tuſcany, alledging that he invaded another Man's Right, and he would not ſuffer Pope Pius IV. to Create the ſaid Coſmo, a King, telling him that Italy had no King but Cæſar. However he did afterwards confirm the Title of Duke to Coſmo, as a Beneficiary of the Empire. He was prevented of the Crown of Poland, by the Expedition of Stephen Bathori, which would probably have had ill Conſequences, if the Emperor's death had not ſoon followed. He died in 1576, in the Twelfth of his Reign, being a Prudent, Pious, and Peaceable Prince, and kept down all Diſturbances on Account of Religion, ſaying, That it was impious to Command Men's Conſciences, calling it an Invaſion of the Throne of Heaven. He was Succeeded by his Son Rodolphus II. Thuan. Onuphr. Bodin.

MAXIMILIAN, Arch-Duke of Auſtria, Son to Maximilian II. and Brother to Rodolphus and Matthias the Emperors, was Choſen King of Poland, in Oppoſition to Sigiſmond, choſen by others of the Nobility, in 1587. He endeavoured to defend his Title by Arms, but was Defeated, and taken Priſoner. In 1596, he went to Hungary againſt Mahomet III. who too Agria, and Defeated him at Tereſt, October 26. but loſt the Fruit of the Victory, by the Greedineſs of the Germans, who fell upon the Plunder, ſo that Cigale the Renegado, rallying againſt them, cut off 12000. He afterwards beſieged Javarin, but in vain, and died in 1618.

MAXIMILIAN, Duke of Bavaria, for his Valour was named Protector of Germany. He gained the Battle of Prague, in 1620, againſt Frederick, Prince Palatine, choſen King of Bohemia, Count Tilli being his Lieutenant General; and that Prince having as it is ſaid, forfeited his Right, he was Created Elector in his place, in 1623. He was a prudent Prince, died in 1651, and was ſucceeded by his Son Ferdinand.

MAXIMILLA, Scholar and Concubine to the Heretick Montanus, and was, with Priſcilla, a great Patroneſs of his Errours; thoſe two Women, by their Riches and Impurities, ſeducing many. Euſebius ſays, That Montanus, and ſhe being acted by the Wicked Spirit, did Strangle one another. *Tertul. MAXIMIN, (Cajus Julius) Emperor, was Native of Thracia, had a Goth to his Father, and an Alan to his Mother. He was at firſt a Shepherd, and afterwards a Soldier. His Stature was Gigantick, and ſo was his Stomach, it being his Ordinary, to Drink 8 Bottles of Wine, and eat 40 l. weight of Meat in a Day; nor was his Courage diſproportionable, which procured him great Employments in the Army, and the Love of the Soldiers, ſo that having contributed to the Murther of the Emperor Severus, the Soldiers declared him Emperor, in 235. He commenced his Reign with the Perſecution of the Chriſtians, becauſe the Earthquakes, at that time very frequent in the Empire, were, by the Heathen aſcribed to the Toleration of the Chriſtians, ſo that he became ſuch a Monſter of Cruelty, that he was called, The Cyclops, The Buſiris, The Sciron, Phalaris, Typhon, and Gyges of his Age. His Election did fill the Senate, and City of Rome, with ſo much fear, that the Women and Children thronged to the Temples, praying the Gods that they would never ſuffer him to enter that City, which, like a wild Beaſt, he would fill with Blood and Slaughter. He cut off all thoſe, who could witneſs the lowneſs of his Birth, even ſuch as had maintained him, when in his meaneſt Condition. He never ſpared any, who were of high Birth, but either Crucified them, buried them alive in Beaſt Skins, expoſed them to Lions and wild Beaſts, or made them be cudgelled to Death, without ever ſhewing the leaſt Compaſſion. His Inſolence was no leſs Notorious than his Cruelty, for he wrote to the Senate in a huffing Stile, bragging that he had done more than all the Ancient Captains had ever done; but they choſe 20 Men to Counteract him in the Government, and declared him a publick Enemy; at which he was ſo enraged, that out of madneſs, he had well nigh killed his own Son, whom he had made his Partner in the Empire. He marched from Germany to Italy, and beſieged Aquileia, which made ſuch a gallant Defence, that his Soldiers being wearied out with the length of the Siege, and provoked with his inhumane Cruelty, they cut off both him, and his Son, in 238, and ſent their Heads to Rome, expoſing their Corps to the wild Beaſts. Maximin was then about 65 Years old, and his Son 21, having nothing of his Father's barbarous Diſpoſition, and being well skilled in Greek and Latin. Euſeb. Oroſius, Aurel. Victor.

MAXIMIN, (C. Valer.) ſurnamed Daza, Son of a Siſter of Maximinus Armentarius, was made Cæſar with Severus, in 304. He had the Eaſt for his ſhare, where he exerciſed unheard of Cruelties, eſpecially againſt the Chriſtians, but was obliged to deſiſt from his Perſecution, by the Letters of Conſtantine and Licinius his Colleague. In the mean time, he fell out with the latter, and having a powerful Army, and relying upon the Anſwers of his Falſe Gods, thought he ſhould eaſily rob him of his Purple, but he loſt the Battel, and fled in a Diſguiſe; and when he arrived in his own Dominions, he put the Heathen Prieſts to Death, to puniſh them for their Flattery and Impoſture, and publiſhed an Edict in favour of the Chriſtians. He was ſeized with a ſtrange kind of Diſtemper, being conſumed with an inward Fire, and loſing his Sight, he became a meer Skeleton, and ſo died at Tarſus, in 313, or 314.

MAXIMIN, Biſhop of Treves, liv'd in the IVth Century, and was much eſteem'd, both for the Orthodoxy of his Belief, and the Holineſs of his Life. He was born at Poictiers of a Noble Family, and Brother to St. Maxentius, St. Hilary's Predeceſſor in that See. When St. Athanaſius was baniſhed into Gaul, St. Maximin gave him an honourable Reception at Treves. He was a great Champion for the Council of Nice, and was preſent at the Council of Sardica, in 347. St. Hieron. in Chron. Gregor. Turon. lib. 1. Hiſt. cap. 35. &c. Socrat. Sozomen.

MAXIMUS the Emperor, was at firſt a Roman Senator, and having a very beautiful Wife, Valentinian III. fell in Love with her, yet could not debauch her; but having on a time, not only won all Maximus's Money, but alſo his Ring, at Dice, he ſent the Ring, as from Maximus himſelf, for his Wife to come to the Palace, where he raviſhed her, which Maximus having notice of, did comfort his Wife, ordering her to conceal her Diſpleaſure, and promiſing to Revenge her, which he did, by cauſing the Emperor to be killed in the Campus Martius, after which he ſeized the Empire, married the Empreſs Eudoxia per force, Created his own Son Cæſar, and married him to the young Eudoxia, the Emperor's Daughter; but one Night having told the Empreſs, That it was for Love of her, that he killed the Emperor, her Husband; ſhe was ſo incenſed at it, becauſe ſhe knew the contrary, that ſhe ſent for Genſeric, King of the African Vandals, to deliver her from the Tyrant, who kept her per force, as her Husband. Genſeric having, according to her Deſire, entered Rome, Maximus abandoned it, at the ſame time, and was purſued, and ſtoned to Death by the People; or, according to ſome, killed by a Soldier, and afterwards pulled in pieces by the Empreſs, and her Servants, and thrown into the Tiber. About 77 Days after he begun his Reign, June 12. 455. Procop. Baron. An. Ecc.

MAXIMUS (Flavius Magnus Clemens) got himſelf to be Saluted Emperor by the Army, which he Commanded in England, in 381, or 382. He pretended to be Deſcended from Conſtantine, and a near Kinſman to Theodoſius. He went over to Gaul, where the Legions diſſatisfied with Gratian, acknowledged him, and he made Treves the Seat of his Empire. The Emperor Gratian, at the ſame time, loſt the Battel of Paris, and by the Treachery of Merobaudus, was ſlain at Lyons by Andragathius, and barbarouſly denied the Honour of a Burial by Maximus, who ſent Ambaſſadors to Theodoſius, to know whether he would take him to be his Aſſociate in the Empire, of which he entertained him with ſome hopes, to prevent his coming into Italy, and ſurprizing Valentinian. The latter ſent St. Ambroſe to him, who, by his Perſuaſions, ſtopt him for a time; but having Created his Son Victor Cæſar, he paſſed into Italy, though St. Ambroſe was ſent to prevent him a ſecond time. Valentinian, and Juſtina his Mother, fled to Theſſalonica, to implore Theodoſius's Aſſiſtance, whilſt Maximus carried Ruin and Deſolation along with him into Italy, ſparing neither Age, Sex, nor Conditions, Towns, nor Churches. St. Ambroſe, and his Church, being only thoſe who found any Favour. Theodoſius took Arms to puniſh the Tyrant, who omitted nothing to defend himſelf in the Dignity which he had Uſurped. His Admiral, Andragathius, blocked up the Mouth of the Ionian Sea; Marcellinus, his Brother, guarded the Avenues of Italy, and he himſelf marched with a great Army into Hungary, where Theodoſius defeated him, as alſo in Italy, and purſued him to Aquileia, where his own Soldiers cut off his Head, and delivered it to the Emperor, Auguſt 27. 388. His Son Victor was ſlain by the Treaſon of Arbogaſtus, and his Brother Andragathius drowned himſelf in Deſpair. Zoſimus, Theodoret, Socrates, Baronius.

MAXIMUS, (Tyrius) a Platonick Philoſopher. He lived in the IId Century, and was born at Tyre in Phœnicia, whence he got the Name. He came to Rome in 146, where he found Apollonius, Arianus, and ſeveral others. The Emperor Marcus Aurelius, to ſhew how much he eſteemed him, became his Diſciple. He is ſaid to have lived in the Time of the Emperor Commodus. We have of his Forty one Diſcourſes, which Daniel Heinſius hath publiſhed with Commentaries. Suidas in Maxim. Volaterranus lib. 17. Antr. Heinſius, &c.

MAXIMUS III. of that Name, Biſhop of Jeruſalem, call'd Maxinenus by Epiphanius, ſucceeded Macarius in 331. He was a very Eminent Confeſſor, during the Diocleſian Perſecutions, having loſt his Right Eye, and had one of his Hams cut, becauſe he would not renounce Chriſtianity: He was likewiſe condemn'd to the Mines, and appear'd at the Council of Nice, with theſe honourable Marks upon him. Afterwards, in the Year 335, he aſſiſted at the Council of Tyre, where the Arrians were the Majority, and being inform'd by Biſhop Paphnutius, of the Caballing and ill Deſigns of that Council, he went off, and left it. Afterwards he entertain'd the Biſhops at Jeruſalem, who came thither to the Conſecration of the Famous Church, built by the Emperor Conſtantine. In the Year 349, he held a Council at Jeruſalem, where the Biſhops receiv'd St. Athanaſius into their Communion; and to make their Act the more publick, wrote a Synodical Epiſtle to the Biſhops of Egypt and Alexandria. Theſe Proceedings enrag'd the Arrians againſt Maximus to that degree, that they got him depos'd, as Socrates reports it. This Holy Biſhop died in 352, or 353, having govern'd his See about 20 Years. Theodoret lib. 2. Sozomen lib. 1, 3, 4. Ruffin. lib. 1. Baron. Annal. &c.

MAZAGAN, a ſmall Town and Fortreſs of Ducala, in the Kingdom of Marocco, ſituated on the North of the River Ommirabi, not far from its Mouth. It is incompaſſed by the Sea, on one ſide, and with a large and deep Ditch, which riſes and falls with the Tide, on the other; and in the middle of the ſaid Ditch, there is a Fountain of freſh Water, walled in with Stone very high, where the Boats take in Water. This place was built by the Portugueſe, in 1508, and better fortified, ſince they abandoned Safie and Azamer. The Fortifications are A la Moderne, and it is well Gariſoned with abundance of Artillery, the Cheriff beſieged it in 1572, with above 200000 Men, but the Gariſon making a reſolute Defence with their Mines and Fire-works, chaſed him from before the City. Marmol.

MAZARIN, (Julius) Cardinal-Biſhop of Mets, Abbot of St. Arnoul, and ten other Places, was of a Family originally Genoueſe, but born himſelf at the Town of Piſcina in Abruzzo, July 14. 1602. He gave early Proofs of his great Spirit, made great Advances in Learning in Italy, and then ſtudied the Law at Alcala in Spain. At his return to Italy, he Commenced Doctor, and then going to the Court of Rome, became a Retainer to Cardinal Sachetti, whom Pope Urban VIII. ſent to Lombardy, and there Mazarin ſtudied the Intereſts of the Princes then at War, about Cazal and Montferrat. A little after, the Pope ſent his Nephew, Cardinal Barbarini, to Negotiate a Peace, with whom Mazarin made ſuch Intereſt, that he had Orders to continue with the Nuncio in Savoy, to terminate that great Affair. He knew the Intereſts of the French, Imperialiſts, Spaniards, Dukes of Savoy and Mantua, and took ſure Meaſures to accommodate the ſame. In the mean time, a Peace being concluded at Ratiſbonne, the French and Spaniards would not accept of it; whereupon Mazarin fell upon new Expedients, and brought it to a Concluſion, juſt as the French were about to force the Spaniſh Lines, which they had drawn ſix Miles round Caſal, with a Deſign to make an obſtinate Defence; and whilſt the Spaniards were expecting the Signal to play their Canon, Mazarin having effected his Deſign, rode full Gallop to the French, making a Sign with his Hand and Hat, and crying Peace, Peace, and coming up to Mareſchal Schomberg, delivered his Propoſitions, which were accepted, and thereupon the Peace of Queiras was Concluded, April 6. 1631, of which Mazarin had all the Glory. Cardinal Richelieu being taken with his Conduct, did from thence forward highly Eſteem him, as did alſo Cardinal Antonio, who procured his Advancement in the Court of Rome, and got him ſent Vice-Legate to Avignon, and Nuncio Extraordinary to France, where he learned the Affairs of that Court, acquired Richelieu's Friendſhip, and the Favour of Lewis XIII. who procured him a Cardinal's Cap from Pope Urban VIII. in 1641. And after Cardinal Richelieu's Death, he was made Privy-Councellor, and Named him as one of the Executors in his own Will. So that he had the Charge of Affairs, during the Minority of Lewis XIV. under the Regency of Queen Anne of Auſtria. He was happy in the Commencement of his Miniſtry, and the Succeſs of the King's Army augmented his Reputation; but in proceſs of time, the oppreſſed People, and the Grandees, who envied his Greatneſs, did both murmur againſt him, which gave Riſe to the Civil War, from 1649 to 1652. They demanded that he ſhould not be about the King; and the Cardinal finding the Current too ſtrong againſt him, yielded to Neceſſity, asked Leave of the Court, and retired; but he had ſo great an Intereſt in the Queen, and managed his Fortune ſo well, that he accounted this, as one of the Things that advanced both his Fortune and Reputation. Every Misfortune that befel the Publick, at this Time, was attributed to the Cardinal, by the Populace, ſo that divers Acts were made againſt him, a Price ſet on his Head, and his Library ſold; but he warded off all thoſe Blows with ſo much Dexterity, that he returned to Court with more Glory than ever, and thoſe who had been his greateſt Enemies, were then loudeſt in his Praiſes. After this, he procured a Peace, and in 1659, went to the Iſle of Pheaſants, where he concluded a Peace with Spain, and a Marriage-Treaty betwixt the King, and the Infanta, which raiſed the Cardinal to the higheſt Pinacle of Honour; but his continual Application, having occaſioned a dangerous Diſtemper, he died at Vincennes, March 9. 1661. Aged 59. The King paid an extraordinary Reſpect to his Memory after his Death, and by his Letter to the King of Spain, did expreſs the Senſe, which he had of his Loſs thereby. The Cardinal had a Brother, and two Siſters, &c. who were all honourably marry'd on his Account. Dupleix. Hiſt.

MAZARINO, a Place in Sicily, with the Title of County, in the Valley del Noto, called ſometimes Moracini and Mactorium, by the Latins.

MAZOURA, a Town of Africk in the Lower Egypt. It was near that Town, that King Lewis fought againſt the Infidels in 1250, and was taken Priſoner.

MAZUAN, an Iſland of Africk, in the Arabian Gulph. It belonged formerly to the Abyſſines, but the Turks have had it ever ſince 1557. It is alſo called Macaria.

MAZZONI (James) an Italian born at Ceſena, was a Perſon of great Reputation and general Learning, towards the end of the XVIth Century. His Writings are, Methodus de triplici hominum vita, Lib. III. In Univerſam Ariſtotelis & Platonis Philoſophiam præludia. Difeſa di Dante. Imperialis in Muſ. Hiſt. Lorenzo Craſſo Elog. de Huom. Letter. &c.

Mc BETH, or Mac-beth, the 85th King of Scotland, was General in the time of Donald VII. his Kinſman, and ſo ſevere to the Iſlanders and Iriſh, who infeſted the Country with their Robberies, that he quickly ſuppreſſed them. He was alſo employed as General againſt the Danes, who routed King Donald, whilſt Mac-beth was Levying Forces. Donald having thereupon retired to Perth, entered into a Treaty with the Danes, whilſt Mac-beth came up, and the Danes being unwary, and liberally entertained in their Camp, by the King of the Scots, who ſent them Drink mixed with Nightſhade, they were ſo intoxicated, that they fell aſleep, and were ſurprized by Mac-beth in their Camp, where he found all things in a more negligent Poſture than he could have believed, ſo that making a great Slaughter amongſt them, a Party who had drank leſs eſcaped with their King, whom they carried off dead Drunk, there being ſcarcely ſo many Seamen left, as were ſufficient to guide his Ship; ſo that to the Loſs of his Army, there was added that of his Fleet, which being ſunk in the Mouth of Tay, it gave occaſion to the Gathering together of thoſe Sands in that place, which are dangerous for Sailers, called by the Vulgar Drummilaw-Sands. Mac-beth being puffed up with his good Succeſs, and diſguſted with the ſluggiſh Temper of the King, aſpired to the Crown himſelf; and his Ambition and Hopes were hugely increaſed by a Dream, That he ſaw Three Women of more than Humane Form, the firſt of which ſaluted him, Thane of Angus, the Second, Thane of Murray, and the Third, King of Scotland; ſo that being impatient of the Accompliſhment, he laid an Ambuſh for the King, ſlew him in the Seventh Year of his Reign, and Uſurped the Throne, under the ſhelter of Popular Favour, whereupon the King's Children fled for their Lives. Mac-beth endeavoured to aſſure himſelf of the Nobility by great Gifts, and of the Vulgar, by Juſtice and Equity, in puniſhing the thieving Clans, for which end he ſowed Diſcord amongſt them; and having engaged them to Challenge one another, at a certain Day, he ſurprized them in an Ambuſh, and putting their Chiefs to Death, did terrify the reſt. After this, he applied himſelf to the making of good Laws, and for Ten Years governed ſo, that he was accounted inferior to none of his Predeceſſors; and having thus Eſtabliſhed himſelf on the Throne, he degenerated into a Treacherous and Cruel Tyrany. The firſt Shock of his Inhumane Rage, he vented upon Bancho, his Companion in the King's Murder, whom he cut off, after he had entertained him at Supper. This alarmed the reſt of the Nobility, and made them frequent the Court but ſeldom; whereupon the King put many of the richeſt to Death, on feigned Cauſes, and with their Eſtates, maintained a Company of Debauchees about him for a Guard; yet not thinking himſelf ſecure enough, he reſolved to build a Caſtle on Dunſinnan Hill, which over-looked the Country, Commanding all the Thanes of the Country to ſend their Men, and over-ſee their Work in Perſon. Macduff, Thane of Fiſe, being a great Man in his Country, and unwilling to truſt his Life in the King's Hands, ſent his Men, but did not go himſelf, and underſtanding that the King had threatned him, fled to England, and finding Malcolm, Son to King Donald, honourably entertained at that Court, perſuaded him to revenge his Father's Murther, and recover his Crown, which he accordingly performed, King Edward of England, aſſiſting him with 10000 Men, and the Scots univerſally deſerting Mac-beth; who thereupon fled, and ſhut himſelf up in his Caſtle, or was, according to ſome, ſlain by Malcolm, in 1057, and the Seventeenth of his Reign. This is that Mac-beth, concerning whom there go ſo many fabulous Stories; upon which account, he is made the Subject of Stage-Plays to this day. Buchan.

Mc DONALD, or Mc Duald, the Name of a great Highland-Clan in Scotland, whoſe Anceſtors were Kings of the Iſles, and pretended to be Chief of all the Clans. They were often very troubleſome, and invaded the Continent, ſometimes being Victorious, and at other times Subdued, and making their Peace again with the Government. One of them in Donald VII's Reign, raiſed a dangerous Rebellion, and being aſſiſted by the Iriſh, defeated the King's Army, took Malcolm, his General, and beheaded him; whereupon Mac-beth, abovementioned, ſucceeding, purſued him with ſo much vigour, that he obliged Mc Donald to fly to a neighbouring Caſtle, after having given him a total Rout, where, deſpairing of Pardon, he, and the Chief of his Followers, put themſelves to Death, and Mac-beth ſent his Head afterwards to the King. There was another of this Name, a Native of Roſs, in King James I's time, who plundered and Ravaged the Country, and amongſt others, a certain Woman, who told him that ſhe would complain to the King; whereupon he cauſed her to be ſhod like a Horſe, and then jeering her, bid her go tell the King, for now ſhe was fortified againſt the roughneſs of the Ways. The Woman, aſſoon as ſhe was able to go, did in effect acquaint the King with the Matter, who, by that time, having the ſaid Mc Donald, and his Aſſociates, in Priſon, he cauſed them every one to be ſhod in like manner, led about the Streets, with a Crier before them, to ſignify the Cauſe of their Puniſhment, and afterwards hanged them on Gibbets by the High-way. See DONALD. Buchan.

Mc DUFF, the Thane of Fiſe, mentioned above, was, for his good Service to King Malcolm, whom he aſſiſted in revenging his Father's Death, and recovering his Crown from Mac-beth, Created Earl of Fiſe, being the firſt who ever carried that Title in Scotland. He had moreover theſe Three Privileges granted, That his Poſterity ſhould have the Honour of placing the King in the Chair of State at Coronations, That they ſhould lead the Van of the King's Armies, and, That for the Killing of a Noble-man in a Rancounter, they ſhould be Acquitted for a Fine of 24 Marks, and for the half, if it were a Plebeian, which laſt Law was obſerved, as long as any of that Family remained, which was to the Days of his Fore-fathers, ſays Buchan. It was one of this Family, who being wronged by Baliol in Judgment, Appealed from him to Edward I. of England, as his Superior, according to the Puſillanimous, and mean Reſignation which he had but made a little before, of his Crown and Kingdom, as Homager to England, which occaſioned Baliol's Breach with England, and that fatal War mentioned in his Reign. Buchan.

Mc PHERSON, the Name of a Scotch Highland-Clan, commonly called the Clan-Chattan, fam'd for Antiquity and Valour. They draw their Original from the Chatti, or Catti, the ancient Inhabitants of Heſſia and Thuringia in Germany, whence they were expelled by the Hermondures, with the Aſſiſtance of the Romans, in the Reign of the Emperor Tiberius. Cattorum Caſtellum, one of the Landtgrave of Heſſe's Palaces, and Cattorum Melibæci, or Catzenellebogen, which is one of the Family's Titles, do ſtill preſerve the Memory of the ancient Catti; who being forced to leave their Country, came lower down upon the Rhine into Battavia, now Holland, where Catwick, &c. ſtill bears their Name; thence a Colony of them came for Scotland, and Landing in the North of that Kingdom, were kindly received by the King of Scots, who gave them that part of the Country where they Landed, which from them was called Caithneſſe, i. e. the Catti's Corner: Being ſettled here, they did many eminent Services againſt the Picts, and other Enemies of the Scots, till the time of King Alphinus, when the Chief of the Catti, called Gilly Cattan Moir, i. e. The Great, for his extraordinary Conduct and Valour, being married to a Siſter of Brudus, King of the Picts, he was in a ſtreight how to behave himſelf betwixt both Kings, who, in a little time after, fell out, and as the beſt Expedient, reſolves upon a Neutrality. In the Reign of Kennethus II. who alſo had War with the Picts, this Gilly Cattan Moir, amongſt others of the Scotch Nobility, was Summoned to attend the King's Standard, he excuſed himſelf, by reaſon, ſon of his Age; but to evidence his Loyalty, though Allied to the Picts, he ſent one of his Sons, with half of his Clan to join the Scots, which did not a little contribute to that fatal Blow, that iſſued in the utter ruin of the Picts. Moſt of the Clan Chattan, with their valiant Leader, falling in the Battle, the old Man died for Grief, and the remaining part, were, by the Advice of their Enemies, proſecuted as Favourers of the Picts, expelled Caithneſſe, and, with much ado, obtained Leave to ſettle in Lochaber, where they remain to this Day; and the Son of the Captain of the Clan, who fell in the Battle againſt the Picts, was, in conſideration of his Father's Merit, Created Knight-Marſhal, from whom the Illuſtrious Family of Keith, now Great Earl Marſhal of Scotland, are ſaid to be Deſcended. The Chief of thoſe who ſettled in Lochaber, was, in a little time after, made Hereditary Steward of that Country; and the Family, for ſome Ages, had a ſtanding Commiſſion from the Crown, to ſuppreſs Rebellions, by Virtue of which, they ruined the Family of the Cummins, one of the greateſt in the Kingdom; but engaged in an incurable Rebellion in the time of Bruce. Muirach Mc Gilly Chattan, called Albanach abroad, where he Travelled, becauſe of his Country, was Second Son to Dermond M Gilly Chattan, Chief of the Clan, and for his extraordinary Piety had a Church Preferrment, and was made Prior of Kinguiſhy, Celibacy having not then obtained amongſt the Scotch Clergy, he married the Thane of Calder's Daughter, by whom he had Dugal Ovir, or The Swarthy, his Eldeſt Son, afterwards Captain of the Clan, Evan-bane, or The Fair, from whom comes Clunie M Pherſon. Niel Cromb, or The ſtooping Smith, ſo called from his round Shoulders, and the curious Works which he made in Iron and Braſs, from whom comes the Family of Breakoe-Smith, and others. Farchard Gillybrae, ſo called from his Swiftneſs and Expedition, of whom are the Family of the M Gillibrayes of Dunma-Glaſh, on the River of Nairn, and David Dow, or The Black, from whom are Deſcended the Davidſons of Invernahavine. Theſe, and ſome others, were all Muirach's Sons, and beſides their petty Nick-names from Complexions or Temper, and the Patronymicks derived by their Poſterity, from their ſeveral Sects, they were always called Clan Wirich, in Memory of their Father and Clan Pherſon, or Mc Pherſon, from his Office. This Muirach's Eldeſt Brother dying, he Succeeded as Chief of the Clan, and having ſettled his Affairs, left his Eldeſt Son Dugal Ovir abovenamed, in poſſeſſion of the Eſtate, and went in Pilgrimage to Jeruſalem, and arriving there on the Third of May, he kept that Day ever after, and bound his Family in a Curſe to do the like, which they obſerve to this Day. In his return he took Rome, Spain and Ireland in his way, and happening to come thither, when there was a Conteſt for the Crown of Leinſter, and being in great Reputation for his Quality and Piety, he was applied to, for reconciling the differing Factions, in which he behaved himſelf with ſuch extraordinary Conduct, that though neither of them would yield to one another, they unanimouſly choſe him, a little after, being, by this time, a Widower, and well ſtricken in Years, he married the Daughter of O Neal, one of the Competitors, and gained ſo much Love from the People, that they made the Succeſſion Hereditary to his Family. He died in the 23d. of his Reign, and was buried in the Cathedral of Dublin. His Son Evar Mc Muirach ſucceeded, governed well, and died in the 49th. of his Reign. His Son Dermond M Wirich ſucceeded, who for his Tyranny, and particularly raviſhing the Wife of Maurice O Rock, King of Meath, was expelled his Kingdom, and reſtored again by Henry II. of England, who laid Claim to the Crown of Ireland afterward; ſo that Muirach's Progeny were outed of the Soveraignty, but the Family of the M Muirachs, ſtill remaining in Ireland, derive their Pedigree from him. Dugal Ovir abovementioned, who was left Chief of the Clan in Scotland, had only one Son, and he an only Daughter, who marrying a Stranger called M Kintoſh, i. e. The Thane's Son, being Son or Grandſon to the Thane of Fife, the Eſtate was transferred into another Family, whence the Laird of M Kintoſh is Lineally deſcended, and that Family pretended to be Chief of the Clan Chattan, as marrying the Heireſs; but the Mc Donalds, who were Superiour to all the Clans, determined it often in favour of the Laird of Cluny's Predeceſſors, and it was finally determined on his Side, by the Council of Scotland, in the Reign of Charles II. who declared the Mc Kintoſhes, and M Pherſons, different Families, becauſe Mc Kintoſh did not take the Name, and bearing of the Heireſs's Family. Evan Bane, before mentioned, had for his Lady, a Daughter of M Leans, by whom he had Kenneth, the Eldeſt Cluny's Predeceſſor, and Gilly's II. of whom the Family of Invereſſie, and one John, by another Woman, of whom the Family of Pitmean. This Family has had many Fewds with neighbouring Clans, but more eſpecially with the Clan Cameron, having in one Battle killed their Chief, the Laird of Lochzell, with about 600 of his Clan, and taking the reſt, brought them to Cluny's Houſe, where ſome were for cutting them off, but he generouſly ſet them at Liberty, ſaying, That his Family would grow Effeminate, if they wanted an Enemy to exerciſe their Valour. It was alſo the M Pherſons, who fought that bloody Combat of Thirty on a Side in the Inch of Perth; in Preſence of the King, and came off with the Victory; and it was this Clan who held out the Caſtle of Ruthwen, for the Earl of Huntly, againſt the Earl of Argile, in Queen Mary's Time. This Family appear'd in the Field for King Charles I. with 600 Men, under the Marquiſs of Montroſs, and William M Pherſon, Laird of Invereſſie, was killed under their Command at the Battle of Old Earn; they alſo Declared for King James, under the Viſcount of Dundee, and Six and Twenty of them were killed at Crombdale, by Sir Thomas Levingſton, Commander of K. William and Q. Mary's Forces; but ſince that time they have Submitted to the Government, and their Chief hath been Ordered to raiſe Men for its Service. This Clan can bring a Regiment of well Armed-Men to the Field. In time of Peace, they are ſaid to be as Courteous, and Induſtrious as the Low-landers, and, in time of War, can endure the Fatigue of the rudeſt High-landers. Their Ancient Bearing was a Ship, in Memory of their Voyage by Sea, and the Croſs Croſlet, in Memory of the abovementioned Pilgrimage, and the Bloody Hand in remembrance of Exterminating the Cummins. Their Chief's Coat is now, Party par Pale, Or and Azure, in the Dexter Canton, a Hand holding a Dagger Saltirewiſe, and in the Siniſter, a Croſs Croſlet, fitche Gules, and the Supporters are two High-landers with their ſlit Doublets, naked from the Girdle downwards, with their Shirt tied betwixt their Thighs, their Swords, Durks and Helmets proper, and for his Creſt, a Cat rampant proper with this Motto, Touch not the Cat, but a Glove. The Authors are Tacitus, Liber Paſletenſis, Iriſh Annals, Buchanan, Spotſwood, Sir George M Kenzy's Heraldry, and this Narrative, was Collected by a Perſon of Quality of the Family, and one of its principal Branches.

There are many other Highland Families, whoſe Name begins with M or Mac, which ſignifies the Son of ſuch a Man, who being Eminent for ſome great thing, his Poſterity choſe his Name for Sirname; as the M Cleans, M Kintoſhes, &c. of whom we have no particular Account; but here 'tis fit to be noted, That all theſe High-land Families, are very careful in keeping Regiſters of whatever conſiderable thing hath befaln them, which would contribute much to clear the Antiquities of Scotland, if they were Communicated; the Chiefs of thoſe Clans, being anciently the Primores Regni, and Petty Princes.

MCISLAW, Lat. Mciſlavia, a Town and Palatinate of Poland in Lithuania, towards the River Soſz. It lies upon the Confines of Muſcovia, within Ten Leagues of Smolensko. It was formerly beſieged by the Muſcovites, but they were beaten by Sigiſmond I. King of Poland; but ſince that time they have taken it. Suenteſlaus, Duke of Smolensko, beſieged it in 1386, but could not take it.

MEACO, a great Town of Japan, in the Iſland Niphon. It was formerly the Chief Town of the Country, and the Kings kept their Court there; but ſince Jedo or Vedo had this Advantage, it is not ſo conſiderable, though it be a Town of great Trade. It was almoſt quite burned down, during the Wars of Japan. It is divided into Two Parts, the Higher Town, in which is the Palace of the Emperors of Japan, and the Lower, where is the Haven with a Fort called Fuxime.

MEANDER, a River of Phrygia, ſpringing from the Fountain Aulocrene. The Ancients fanſied him to be the Son of the Earth, and the Ocean, and the Father of Cyane, the Mother of Caunus and Biblis; his Courſe was ſo unequal and winding, that it gave Name to all intricate Deſigns. Ptolemy mentions a Mountain of that Name in the Indies. Strabo, Plinius, Ovid.

MEATH, Lat. Media, a County in the Province of Leinſter in Ireland, called by the Iriſh Midh, bounded on the E. by the Counties of Fyngal and Kildare (ſeparated by the River Boyne) on the S. by Kildare and King's-County, on the W. by Roſcommon and Longford, and on the N. by the County of Monaghen. 'Tis divided into two Parts, by the Names of Eaſt and Weſt Meath; 'tis very fruitful and pleaſant to the Eye, well ſupplied with Cattle and Corn, and watered with Rivers that abound with very good Fiſh. In the 38th. of King Henry VIII. this County being thought too big to be Governed by one Sheriff, was divided by Act of Parliament into Two.

MEAUX, a Town of France upon the River Marne, Capital of Brie, with a Biſhop's See, Suffragan of Paris. It is called by the Latins, Meldorum Urbs, Meldæ, Meledis, Meldis, & Jatinum Meldarum, very Ancient, and hath the Title of a County. The City is divided into two Parts by a River; hath ſeveral Pariſh-Churches, beſides a Cathedral, and Collegiat-Church, an Abby, ſeveral Monaſteries, and three Suburbs. It had formerly Counts of its own, and ſuffered much by Civil Wars. The Engliſh beſieged, and took it by Capitulation, in 1421, in three Months, and are ſaid, by French Authors, to have broke the ſame, by Impriſoning the Garriſon, and Executing three of their Officers. It was the firſt Town in France, where the Proteſtant Doctrine was preached, and ſeveral ſuffered here on that Account. In 1563, the Proteſtants expelled the Romiſh Clergy thence, and it was taken by the Papiſts in Charles IX's time. It ſtands ten Leagues from Paris to the N. E. 18 S. W. of Rheims, and 25 S. of Amiens. 'Tis now both Pleaſant and Populous, tho' it has ſuffered much formerly, eſpecially in 1358, when, during the Impriſonment of John, King of France, it was Sacked, and almoſt quite burned, for Complotting with the Pariſian Faction, againſt Charles the Dauphin, Regent of France. Several Prov. Councils have been held here.

MECÆNAS (C. Cilnius) a Roman Gentleman, Deſcended from the Kings of Hetruria. He was a Perſon of excellent Wit, extraordinary Diligent when his Affairs required it, and as much given to his Eaſe when otherwiſe, immerſing himſelf in Pleaſures. He was very much Auguſtus's Favourite, who, when indiſpoſed, would be carried to his Houſe, and ſpend his time in Raillery with him, comparing his affectedly polite Stile, to Hair curled and perfumed. Seneca ſays of him, That he would have carryed the Roman Eloquence, to a great height had he not been debauch'd with Eaſe and Proſperity. He procured Aſſiſtance from Anthony againſt Pompey Junior, and made an excellent Harangue, adviſing Auguſtus to retain the Empire. The ſaid Emperor being one Day upon the Bench, where abundance of Criminals were Condemned, Mæcenas fearing that he would thence be eſteemed Tyrannical, and not being able to get near to adviſe him, threw his Table Book to him with theſe Words on it, Be gone Executioner, which Auguſtus, knowing Mæcenas's Affection, did not take ill in the leaſt. However, 'tis ſaid that he was jealous of Auguſtus, and his Wife, yet at his death, which was An. Rom. 746. Eight Years before Chriſt, he left him his Heir; and the Emperor on the other hand, did much regret the loſs of him. He was a great Patron of Learned Men, which gave occaſion to Virgil and Horace to Eternize his Fame. Pliny mentions another Mæcenas, who could be Three Years without ſpeaking a Word. Macrob. Sueton. Meibomius has Collected all that is to be met with in Ancient Authors, relating to Mæcenas, and Printed it at Leyden in Quarto in 1653, under the Title of Mæcenas, Sive de C. Cilnii Mæcenatis vita, moribus ac rebus geſtis. Dion. Caſſius.

MECCA, a City of Arabia Fælix, which Bellon thinks to be the Petra of the Ancients, and others think it to be Marraba. It is ſituated on the River Betius, called Chaibar by thoſe of the Country, one Days Journey from the Red Sea, in a Valley ſurrounded with Mountains, through which there are Four ſmall Paſſages, which ſerve for Avenues. The City is large, well Paved, and famous among the Turks, for the Birth or Burial of Mahomet, but which, their Authors do not agree. The Soil hereabouts is very Barren, without Herb, Corn, Trees, or Flowers, ſuch of the latter as are found here, are brought from a far, as is alſo their Water, which is ſold very dear; but all thoſe Inconveniences are ſurmounted, by the Superſtitious Zeal of the Mahometans, which brings abundance of Pilgrims thither from all Parts, and alſo ſtore of Proviſions. The conſtant Inhabitants make up about 6000 Families. Moſt of the Houſes are built with Brick, and Terraſſed on the top. The famouſeſt Mahometan Moſque, and the beſt frequented in the Univerſe, is ſituated in the midſt of the City. It is Conſpicuous at a great diſtance by its Roof, which is raiſed in faſhion of a Dome, with two Towers of extraordinary Height and Architecture. It has above a hundred Gates, each having a Window over them. The Plan of the Moſque is low, and has a deſcent of twelve Steps, the Mahometans account this holy Ground, becauſe they Alledge that Abraham built his firſt Houſe, and that Mahomet was born here. This Moſque is adorned with rich Tapiſtry and Gildings, and more eſpecially a certain Place which hath no Roof, and is alledged to encloſe the Space where Abraham's Houſe ſtood. The Entrance into it, is by a Door of Silver of a Man's height; and on one ſide there is a Fountain, whoſe Water is Salt, and believed by the Mahometans, to have the Virtue of waſhing away their Sins; and they ſolemnize a Feſtival once a Year, when they throw this Water upon the Mahometans, at the time the Caravans come thither. The Vaults under this Moſque, and the Shops about it are full of rich Merchandize, precious Stones, and Aromatick Powders, which ſend forth a moſt admirable Scent. Davity.

MECHOACAN, a Town and Province of Northern America, in new Spain or Mexico. It reaches about 80 Leagues in length, along the Pacifick Sea. The Land is fruitful. The Towns are Valladolid of Mechoacan, called by the Inhabitants Guiangarco, with a Biſhop's See, St. Miguel, St. Philip, the Conception of Salia, Leon, Zamora, Zacatulo, and Colima. The Air of this Province is ſo Cool, Clear and Pleaſant, that many ſick People reſort thither for their Health. There are many Lakes and Rivers in it, and innumerable Fountains, ſome of which are Natural Baths, and flow with hot Waters. The Earth is alſo very fruitful, conſiſting in Pleaſant Vales, Hills and Mountains, covered with high Trees. When the Spaniards came hither, it was an Independant Kingdom. The Principal City was called Taximaroc, and ſubmitted freely to the Spaniards, in 1522. Yet the Governor murdered the King, when a Chriſtian, under the Pretence of Treaſon. The Spaniards now call the City Valladolid, Lat. 20. 00. The Biſhop's See was firſt ſettled here, in 1544. The Lake by it, is ſaid to be greater than that by Mexico; ſubject to be very much Agitated by Tempeſts, full of Fiſh, which being taken here, are ſold to the Provinces near the Lake, to the great inriching the Inhabitants. Laet p. 268.

MECKLEBOURG, or Mekelbourg, a Province of Germany, with the Title of Dutchy in the Lower Saxony, between the Baltick Sea, Pomerania, Holſatia and Brandenburg. The Family of Meckleburg, is one of the moſt ancient Families of Germany, and Deſcended from the Kings of the Heruli and Obotriti. Pribiſlaus II. was the firſt Chriſtian Prince of this Family, and was ſlain in a Tournament, in 1215. He married firſt the Duke of Poland's, and afterwards the King of Norway's Daughter. The Dukes of this Family, have been ſeveral times choſen Kings of Sweden, and married with the Daughters of Denmark, Sweden, Brandenburg, Saxony, Heſs, and other Princes of the Empire. Henry IV. of this Family was, for his good Services in the Holy Land, named Henry of Jeruſalem, and kept Priſoner by the Saracens 28 Years, and died in 1302. Henry V. embraced the Reformation, and died in 1552. John Frederick was the Founder of the preſent Line of Swerin, and he, and his Brother proſcribed for Adherence to Chriſtian IV. King of Denmark, but reſtored by the Victorious Arms of Guſtavus Adolphus, King of Sweden. Chriſtian Lewis, the preſent Prince Regent of this Family, turned Papiſt in 1663, got himſelf Divorced from Chriſtina Margaret of Guſtrow, his Couſin Germain, was made Knight of the Holy Ghoſt by the French King, and married to Iſabel Angela de Montmorency, the Duke of Chaſtillon's Widow, but is like to have no Iſſue by her. The Line of Guſtrow begun in John Albert II. who Embraced the Reformation, and died in 1636, and Guſtavus Adolphus, the preſent Prince, married Magdalen Sibyl, Daughter of Frederick, Duke of Sleſwick, Novem. 28. 1654.

MECNASE, a great, ſtrong, beautiful City, in the Kingdom of Fez to the S. 50 from Sale to the S. E. and 15 from the Atlas to the W. conſiſting of about 6000 Families, and ſeated in a fruitful Plain, upon a ſmall River. It has great plenty of Fruits, exceeding Cheap, and drives a conſiderable Trade for them, and their Manufactures at Fez, and at Home, with the wandering Arabs for Fleſh Meat. This City has been frequently beſieged by the Kings of Fez, and has ever been reduced with great Difficulty; in one of which Sieges it reſiſted ſeven Years, and in another two Months. Leo Africanus p. 120.

MEDABA, or Madaba, i. e. The Waters of Sorrow, a Town upon the Brook Arnon, in the Eaſt Borders in the Tribe of Ruben, belonging firſt to the Ammonites, and after to the Amorites. The Inhabitants of this City ſlew Johannes Macchabæus, whoſe death was revenged by Jonathan, his Brother, with the Slaughter of a great number of them. Hyrcanus took this City after a Siege of Six Months.

MEDALS, Pieces of Metal, repreſenting the Faces of Princes, and Illuſtrious Perſons, on one ſide, and ſome Figures or Emblems, on the other, called The Reverſe. Thoſe who value Antiquity, have always had a great Eſteem for ſuch Pieces, becauſe they teach many things which are not to be found in Books. Among the Romans, Varro ſought out the Portraictures of all the Illuſtrious Perſons, who had ſignalized themſelves, from the Foundation of the City, till his Time. Cicero ſought after Medals with great earneſtneſs, and Julius Cæſar took much delight in them. The Emperor Severus was ſo paſſionate a Lover of them, that he ſought for thoſe of Jeſus Chriſt, and Abraham. The Learned Spanheim treats at large of the Utility of Medals; but thoſe who would judge of the Phyſiognomy of Perſons by Medals, muſt only take notice of ſuch as are done by excellent Gravers, and in the Time when the Perſons themſelves were alive. For the Roman Emperors, thoſe made in Italy, and particularly at Rome, are the beſt; for thoſe made in France, Spain, and Greece, are not ſo Natural. Thoſe who underſtand Medals, can eaſily diſtinguiſh the one from the other; for the Grecian Medals, and thoſe made in other Provinces, have generally ſome Hieroglyphick, or Name, importing where they were made, and they are moſtly of a different make; the Egyptian Medals are eaſily known by their peculiar Edges, the Syrian by their Thickneſs, and the Spaniſh by their ſmall Relief. Moreover, Strangers were not allowed to coin Golden Medals of the Emperor; ſo that thoſe of Gold are of Italy, and moſt of thoſe in Silver, or large Copper, with S. C. upon them, i. e. Senatus Conſulto, were by Order of the Senate. Nothing certain can be determined, concerning the Phyſiognomy of the Roman Conſuls, or the Hero's of Antiquity from Medals, becauſe the Conſuls were not permitted to repreſent their Heads upon Money, ſo that their Medals were Coined by their Deſcendants, and thoſe of the Hero's were Stamped after their Death. Spanheim of Medals. Spon. Recherch. Cur. d'Antiquity.

MEDARDUS, Biſhop of Noyon, was born at a Village, called Salency in Picardy, in the Reign of Meroveus: His Father's Name was Nectar, a Gentleman of Quality in the French Court; and his Mother, Protagia, was deſcended from an Ancient Roman Family, ſettled in Gaul. He ſtudied under the Biſhop of Vermand, and was made Prieſt by him. Some Years after he was choſen Biſhop of that Church, but the Country about the Oiſe and the Somme, being over-run by the Huns, Vandals, and other Barbarians; and the Town of Vermand being a Place of no Defence, he reſolv'd to remove his See to Noyon, which was then a conſiderable Fortreſs, and is ſince improv'd into a Town of Note, and honour'd with the Title of an Earldom, and the Privilege of French Peerage. The Biſhoprick of Tournay becoming void, by the Death of Eleutherius, all the Catholicks of that Town were earneſt to have Medardus for their Prelate, he would by no means, hearken to that Propoſal, becauſe it was not lawful for one Perſon to have two Biſhopricks together; but the King, Remigius, who was the Metropolitan of that Province, and all his Suffragan Biſhops applying themſelves to Pope Hormiſdas, laid before him the Neceſſity there was of placing St. Medardus in that Biſhoprick, in Order to the deſtroying that Idolatry, which ſtill remain'd in part of the Dioceſs. The Pope, conſidering the particular Circumſtances of the Caſe, complied with their Requeſt, and order'd Medardus to take Care of that Dioceſs, without quitting his own. Now, immediately upon his Governing the See of Tournay, the Face of Affairs were much alter'd for the better, and nothing was ſcarcely to be met with but Orthodox Belief and Regular Behaviour; and thus Medardus, having converted the Idolaters and Libertines of the Dioceſs of Tournay, return'd to Noyon, where he fell Sick, and was viſited by King Clotarius, who came to him to beg his Bleſſing, and likewiſe, to be Abſolv'd by him, upon the Account of the great Severity, which this Prince had us'd towards Chramnes, his Natural Son, with his Wife and Children, whom he had caus'd to be burn'd alive in a Cottage. The Biſhop ſatisfied the King in both Parts of his Requeſt, and died about the Year 560. At his Burial, the King himſelf would be one of the Bearers. Baronius, Nithardus Abbot of St. Requier. Hiſt. Lib. 3.

MEDEA, Daughter to Aetas, King of Colchis, who poſſeſſed the Golden Fleece. She lived about An. Mun. 2824, and is repreſented as a Magician. She fell in Love with Jaſon, King of Theſſaly, Chief of the Argonauts, who came to Conquer the Golden Fleece, which ſhe taught him how to come by, and then went away with him; but fearing that her Father would purſue, ſhe killed her young Brother Abſyrtus, and ſtrowed the Way with his diſſected Members, to retard her Father. Arriving in Theſſaly, ſhe reſtored the Age of Eſon, Jaſon's Father. To be revenged of her Uncle Pelias, ſhe made his Daughter boil him to pieces, on pretence of reſtoring his Age. After this, Jaſon eſpouſed Creuſa, Daughter to Creon, King of Corinth, which ſo enraged Medea, that ſhe ſlew both Father, Daughter, and the two Children which Jaſon had by her; and afterwards being carried by winged Dragons to Athens, ſhe merried Egeus, but was baniſhed ſome time after. Ovid. Natal. Comes.

MEDENBLICK, a Town in Weſt Frezeland, one of the United Provinces of the Low-Countries, ſeated upon the Zuyder-Zee, where it has a large and ſecure Haven, 2 Miles and a half from Horn, and 8 from Amſterdam to the N.

MEDIA, an Ancient Kingdom of Aſia, very famous in old Authors. It contained moſt of the Country, where now are the Provinces of Servan, Gilon, Terach, Agemi, and Mazandorum, or Dilemon in Perſia. The firſt Inhabitants are agreed, to have deſcended from Madai, one of Japhet's Sons. Their Country was bounded by Armenia Major, Hyrcania, the Caſpian-Sea, Aſſyria, Suſiana, &c. and the Metropolis was Ecbatan. Other Towns of Note were, Arſace now Casbin, Cyropolis, &c. The Medes were formerly ſubject to the Aſſyrians, until the time of Arbaces, who being Governor thereof for Sardanapalus, and not able to endure the Effeminacy of that Prince, he ſhook off his Yoke, and ruined Nineve, An. Mun. 3171, 100 Years before the firſt Olympiad, and 876 before Chriſt. This Monarchy laſted 317 Years under Nine Kings, from Arbaces to Aſtyages, dethroned by Cyrus, An. Mun. 3495. The Proverb Menſa Medica, came from Aſtyages making Harpagus eat his own Son. See HARPAGUS.

MEDICIS, the Surname of the Grand Duke of Tuſcany. The Sentiments of Authors are various, as to the Original of this Family, ſome deriving it, but without any good Foundation, from one Everard de Medicis, a Domeſtick of Charlemaign. Other Authors ſay, That they were Men of Note, in 1168, and that their Deſcent is well enough known ſince 1250, that Philip de Medicis was the Grand Patron of the Guelphs of Florence, and brought his Family back thither in Triumph, they having been Expelled by the Gibelins, and advanced them to the principal Charges of the Republick. The Poet Verinus ſays of their Original,

Ex Appennino, celſaque ex arce Magelli
Nobilitas Medicum Thuſcam deſcendit in Urbem.

There have been ſeveral Popes, and divers Cardinals of this Family. Schowart ſpeaking of the Original of the Family of Tuſcany ſays, That his Anceſtors were Merchants, but that Coſmo de Medicis was Elected Prince by the Populace, in 1434, but Peter de Medicis, his Grandſon, having entered a League with the French King, without the Senates knowledge, was Ejected by the Florentines, ſo that they remained under their Ancient Liberty, till 1512, that Ferdinand, King of Spain, reſtored the Family of Medicis, which was Expelled again by the Florentines, in 1529. The Emperor Charles V. having ſeized on that City, and made Alexander de Medicis, who married his Natural Daughter Margaret, their Governor; he was ſlain, and the Populace made Choice of his Kinſman Coſmo de Medicis, who was declared King of Tuſcany by Pope Paul V. in 1569; but upon the Emperor Maximilian II's oppoſing it, he laid a-ſide the Title of King, and contented himſelf with that of Great Duke. His Son Francis married the Emperor Ferdinand I's Daughter, whoſe Grandſon is Coſmo III. the preſent Grand Duke, born in 1642, who by Margaret Louiſe, Daughter of Gaſton, Duke of Orleans, has a Son, viz. Gaſton, who, in 1688, married the Violanta Beatrix, Daughter of Ferdinand Maria, and Siſter to the preſent Elector of Bavaria.

MEDICIS (Coſmo) called The Great, Son to John, lived in the XVth Century. He Governed the Republick of Florence with admirable Conduct, and amaſſed a vaſt Treaſure by his Trading every where, which procured him Enemies, ſo that he, and his Brother, were Baniſhed. He retired to Venice, where his Merit procured him the Eſteem of a Sovereign Prince. He was afterwards re-called by the Florentines, with great Glory and Applauſe, being called The Deliverer of the People, and Father of the Country. He was a great Lover of learned Men, and had many of them about him, who immortalized his Fame. He Collected a famous Library, which Catharine de Medicis parted afterwards, with her Brother, and brought her Share to France, being very conſiderable for Greek Manuſcripts. Coſmo after a Long and Glorious Reign, died in 1464. Aged 75 Years.

MEDICIS (Hippolyte de) Cardinal, Adminiſtrator of the Archbiſhoprick of Avignon, was Natural Son to Julian de Medicis, his Mother being aſhamed of her Fault, Ordered him to be Murthered, to conceal it; but they to whom the Charge was given, brought him up in Secret, and, at laſt, carried him to his Father, who owned him, and took care of his Education. He had no Inclination to Learning, but applied himſelf to Muſick and Poeſy. His Couſin, Pope Clement VII. Created him Cardinal in 1529, and afterwards made him Adminiſtrator of the Archbiſhoprick of Avignon, and Vice-Chancellor of the Church. Thoſe Preferments were contrary to his Inclinations, yet he accepted them, and was afterwards ſent Legate to the Emperor Charles V. on Account of the War with Solyman; at which time, he raiſed 8000 Hungarians at his own Charge, which, together with ſome Troops of Light-Horſe, compoſed of his own Retinue, behaved themſelves ſo well, that they contributed much to the Chaſing of the Infidels out of Auſtria. After this, Charles V. going into Italy, our Cardinal Equipped himſelf like a General, and marched with his Retinue in a Warlike manner before the Emperor; who being jealous that he had a Deſign to make a Difference betwixt him and the Pope, ſent after him, and had him confin'd; but underſtanding that it was only the Cardinal's Humour, he ſet him at liberty again. In ſhort, Hippolyte was oftner in a Martial than Eccleſiaſtical Habit, which he never wore, but when obliged to aſſiſt at a Conſiſtory. He was more at Court, and a Hunting, than at the Church, or in his Cloſet. He was alſo a Night-walker, and frequented the Streets of Rome with lewd Company at unſeaſonable Hours. He was alſo extreamly Ambitious, and mightily enraged, that Pope Clement VII. had preferred Lawrence Medicis, Natural Son to the D. of Vrbin, to the Principality of Florence, before himſelf, and therefore Conſpired againſt him; but it was diſcovered, and ſome of the Cardinal's Guards Arreſted upon it, which obliged himſelf to retire to the Caſtle of Tivoli, and he died of a Fever, or Poyſon, as ſome think, Auguſt 13. 1535. Amongſt his bad Qualities, he is ſaid to have had ſome good Ones, viz. That he was Liberal; Made his Palace a Sanctuary, to thoſe who were afflicted; and kept an Open houſe for all Strangers, ſo that twenty different Languages have been ſometimes ſpoken in his Houſe at one time. Paul. Jov. Onuphr.

MEDICIS (John de) Cardinal, Son to Coſmo I. of that Name, Grand Duke of Tuſcany. Pope Pius IV. made him Cardinal in 1560, though he was then but 17 Years old. He had a Brother named Garcias, of a wild Diſpoſition, who had a Natural Averſion to him; and as they were one Day a Hunting, quarrelled with him, and killed him; whereupon Coſmo, their Father, ſtabbed Garcias with his own Hand, and to cover the Matter, gave out that they both died of the Plague. Thus Thuanus. But Moreri queſtions the truth of it, alledging it was added after Thuanus's Death.

MEDICIS Lawrence de) Surnamed The Great, and The Father of Learning, was Son to Peter, and Brother to Julian de Medicis, who was murthered by the Pazzi, in 1478, who alſo had a Deſign againſt him, but he eſcaped to a Church, and with the Aſſiſtance of the Florentines, repulſed his Enemies, after which, he was declared Chief of the Republick, and much Eſteemed, both by his own Subjects, and Foreign Princes, who choſe him as Umpire of their Differences. Bajazet, Emperor of the Turks, had ſo great a Reſpect for him, that he ſent him one of thoſe who Aſſaſſinated his Brother from Conſtantinople. He was very Studious, and loved learned Men, divers of whom he Entertained, and did alſo Protect the Greek Exiles. He ſent John Laſcaris into Greece to recover Manuſcripts, with which he enriched his Library. He was a Magnificent, Liberal, Generous Prince, and true Friend; but, according to Moreri, neither Religious, nor of good Morals. He ſubdued Volterra, and had ſome Controverſies with Pope Sixtus IV. whence he extricated himſelf with dexterity enough. He died in 1492, aged 44. leaving two Sons, Peter who ſucceeded him, and John, afterwards Pope, under the Name of Leo X. All Europe bewailed the Death of this Prince, and the Florentines eſpecially were unconſolable, and ſo much concerned, That they are ſaid to have thrown his Phyſician into a Well, for neglecting his Duty towards him. Angel. Polit. Machiavel.

MEDICIS, another Family in Milan, which ſome Authors will have to be of the ſame Original with the former; and others ſay, That Coſmo de Medicis, Great Duke of Florence, did only ſay ſo, to Complement John Angelo of this Family, who was choſen Pope. However that is MEDICIS, or Mediquin, John James Chatelan of Muſſa, and Marquiſs of Marignan, of this Family, was one of the greateſt Captains of his Time. He was Son to Bernardin of Milan, who farmed the Duke's Revenues. John James was very ſerviceable to Duke Francis Sforza II. and ſome ſay, imployed by him to Aſſaſſinate Monſignorino Viſconti, of whom he was jealous, becauſe of his Merit and Popularity; but the Duke having made away with Ponzin, the other Aſſaſſinate, intended the like to Medicis, who ſuſpecting it, ſeized the Caſtle of Muſſa. In 1526, he entered into a League with the Pope, French King, and Venetians, againſt Charles V. and made himſelf redoubtable by ſeveral Victories; whereupon the Emperor thought it worth his while, to gain him to his Party, which he accompliſhed, and Medicis ſerved him with great Succeſs and Honour againſt the Turks, whom he defeated; and was Colonel General to that Emperor, againſt the Duke of Cleve, at the taking of Luxemburg, St. Dezier, and the Siege of Metz. He was alſo General for him afterwards in Italy, where he defeated Strozzi, took Sienna, and died at Milan, in 1555, aged 58. His Brother John Angelo was choſen Pope in 1559, by the Name of Pius IV. and was ſo ſenſible of the loſs of his Brother, who had contributed much to his Promotion, that in the midſt of the Ceremony, he ſighed and ſaid, Alas! Where is now the Marquiſs de Marignan? Importing his Sorrow, that his Brother could not partake of the Joy of his Election. Paul. Jov.

MEDINA, a Town of Arabia Fœlix, very conſiderable among the Mahometans, becauſe the Body of their Prophet Mahomet is depoſited there; which ſome ſay, was removed hither from Mecca, after Albuquerque, General of the King of Portugal, attempted to take it thence, and Surprize the Town of Gide, to favour his Retreat. But the common Opinion is, That Mahomet himſelf deſired to be buried there, to be revenged of the Inhabitants of Mecca, his Birth-place, for Baniſhing and Contemning him when he began to ſet up for a Prophet, and Legiſlator. This Town is four Days journey from Mecca, ſituate near the River Laakie. There are ſcarce 1200 Families in't. The Houſes are but one Story high, except thoſe inhabited by the Derviſes, Ebruhars, and Kadri's, who are Religious Mahometans, much eſteemed by the Turks for their pretended Holineſs, and Skill in the Alcoran. The chief Moſque of the Town called Mos a kiba, or Moſt Holy, is ſupported by 400 Pillars, charged with 3000 Silver Lamps; here in a ſmall Tower adorn'd with Plates of Silver, and covered with Cloth of Gold, lies Mahomet's Coffin, under a Canopy of Cloth of Silver, embroidered with Gold, which the Baſſa of Egypt renews yearly by the Grand Signior's Orders. The common Opinion, that this Coffin was Iron, and that it hung ſuſpended in the Air between two Load-ſtones, is falſe; for the Turkiſh Pilgrims that become Chriſtians ſay, 'tis ſupported by ſmall Marble Pillars, and environed with a Balliſter of Silver, on which hang a great number of Lamps, whoſe Smoke renders the place ſomewhat obſcure. The Turks are obliged, by a Principle of their Religion, to Viſit this Place once in their life time; but few go thither, beſides the common People, the Mufti, Abſolving the richer Sort from the Obligation; upon Condition that they hire others to go for them, and beſtow ſomewhat upon the Poor. The Chriſtians are forbid, upon Pain of Death, to come within 15 Leagues of this Place. See MECCA. Davity.

MEDINA (Peter) born at Seville in Spain, and flouriſh'd about the middle of the XVIth. Century. He underſtood Navigation very well, and wrote Arte de Navigat. Regemento de Navigation. Libro de las Grandezas y Coſas Memorables d'Eſpanna. His Book of Navigation was Tranſlated into French, by one Nicholas de Nicholai, a Gentleman of Dauphine. Nicholas Antonio Bibl. Script. Hiſt. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg.

MEDINA CELI, in Lat. Ecceleſta, Auguſtobriga, &c. a ſmall Roman City, in Old Caſtile in Spain, built upon a Hill, near the River Xalon, and gives the Title of Duke to the Houſe de Corda, one of the Nobleſt Families in Spain, which pretends a Right to the Crown of that Kingdom. This City ſtands two Leagues from the Head of the River Xalon to the Eaſt, 31 from Madrid to the North-Eaſt, and 34 from Saragoſa to the South-Weſt.

MEDINA SIDONIA, in Lat. Aſindum or Aſidonia, a Town in Andaluzia, mentioned by Ptolemy, now made famous, by giving the Title of Duke to the Family of Guzman in Spain. It ſtands upon a Hill, 9 Miles from Cales to the Eaſt; 25 from Malaga to the Weſt, and was once a Biſhop's See.

MEDITERRANEAN Sea, called by the Italians and Spaniards, Mar Mediterraneo, lies between Europe, Aſia, and Africa. It is divided from the Weſtern or Atlantick Ocean, by the Streight of Gibraltar, has Europe to the N. Aſia to the E. and on the S. Africa. 'Tis called by different Names, as to its Parts; that Branch of it between Spain, France, and Italy, is called the Tyrrhenian Sea, that between Italy to the W. Greece and Dalmatio, to the E. the Adriatick (now the Gulph of Venice) and the Ionian Sea; that which parts Greece from Aſia to the Dardanells, formerly called the Egean Sea, is now called the Archipelago; that which expands it ſelf between Greece and Aſia as far as Conſtantinople, is call'd the Propontis, and that much more extended Sea, North of Conſtantinople, between Europe to the N. and W. Aſia to the E. and Anatolia to the S. is called the Euxine, or Black-Sea.

MEDITRINA, a Pagan Goddeſs, whom the Ancients believed to preſide over Medicaments, and appointed Feſtivals to her Honour, called Meditrinalia, in which they offered her New and Old Wine, drinking a little of the one and the other, in manner of a Medicine; looking upon Wine, moderately taken, as a ſpecial Remedy and Preſervative againſt moſt Diſeaſes. It was alſo an Ancient Cuſtom amongſt the Latins, that when they drunk New Wine in the beginning of the Year, they pronounced the following Words, as a good Augur, Vetus novum Vinum bibo, Veteri novo morbo Medeor. Feſtus, Varro.

MEDNIKI, a Town of Poland, in the Province of Samogitia. Some call it Wornia, and the Latins, Mednicia. It is towards the Spring of the River Wirwitz. Here is a Biſhop's See, Founded by Wenceſlaus, King of Poland, in 1413.

MEDOC, a Country in France in Guienne, between the Ocean and the River Garonne. It is the Country of the Ancient Medulians.

MEDON, was Son to Codrus, the Seventeenth, and laſt, King of Athens. Now there being no more Kings after Codrus, the Athenians plac'd Archons in their Room, which Magiſtrates, at the beginning of the Republick, held their Office during Life. Medon was the firſt Magiſtrate of this kind, being preferr'd to his Elder Brother Neleus, by the Delphian Oracle. He began his Government in the Year of the World, 2984. Juſtin lib. 2. Velleius Paterculus lib. 1. Pauſanias in Attic. &c.

MEDRASCHIM. Vid. RABBOTH.

MEDUA, a Town in the Kingdom of Tremiſen in Barbary, 180 Miles from the Mediterranean Sea, on the Borders of Numidia, five of Serzelli, ſeated in a pleaſant, fruitful Plain, environed with ſweet Rivers, and beautiful Gardens, and the Inhabitants Rich and Curious in all things, and drive a great Trade with thoſe of Biledulgerid, Numidia. Leo Africanus was ſo taken with the Pleaſantneſs and Civility of this City, that he was well inclined to have lived and died in it, p. 231.

MEDUSA, one of the Three Gorgons, Daughters of Ceto, and of a Sea-God called Phorcus. She was the Eldeſt, and her Hair was ſo extraordinary fair, that Neptune falling in love with her, forced her in the Temple of Minerva. That Goddeſs changed her Hairs into Serpents, and put the Picture of that horrid Monſter upon her Shield to frighten her Enemies, the Spectacle being ſo very dreadful, that it changed the Beholders into Stones; but Perſeus being armed with Mercury's Ax, with which he killed Argus, cut off Meduſa's Head, from whoſe Blood ſprung Pegaſus and Chryſaor. Ovid.

MEDWAY, Lat. Vaga, a River of Kent, which riſeth in the Weald, or Wild, in the S. W. part of the County; at Penhurſt it receives the River Eten out of Surry, and dividing it ſelf into five Streams, ſurrounds Tunbridge, from whence paſſing N. E. to Maidſtone, and thence to Rocheſter, it receives a great number of leſſer Rivers below Rocheſter-Bridge; 'tis capable of the greateſt Ships, the Royal Fleet riding in it in Time of Peace, and forms the Iſle of Shepey, one of its Mouths entring the Ocean at Sheerneſs, and the other at Stelneſs, above eight Miles from each other. In 1667, the Dutch Fleet entered this River, June 22. having, with their Cannon, battered down the Fort of Sheerneſs, carried off the Royal Charles, and burnt and ſpoil'd four or five other Ships.

MEGABYZES, General to Darius, King of Perſia, who gave him 80000 Men to Subdue Europe, with which he did very conſiderable Exploits; for he overcame the Perinthians in the Helleſpont, Reduced Thrace, Subdued the Pannonians, and Conquered the Macedonians in the LXIXth. Olympiad. Darius had ſo much Eſteem for him, that one Day cutting a Pomegranate, and Artabanus asking him what ſort of things they were, of which he would deſire as great a number, as there were Grains in the ſame, he anſwered, that he had rather have ſo many Megabyzes's, than to be Conqueror of all Greece.

MEGABYZES, a great Perſian Lord in the time of Artaxerxes Longimanus, who gave him great Imployments. He Defeated Inarus; King of Lydia, in a Battle, and obliged him to come in Perſon to Artaxerxes his Court, and deſire Peace, Aſſuring him of ſafe Conduct; but Artaxerxes his Wife, to revenge the Death of her Son, whom Inarus had killed, cauſed this unfortunate King to be Crucified; at which, Megabyzes was ſo much incenſed, that he Revolted, and Artaxerxes finding it hard to reduce this brave Captain by force, did it by fair means: But not long after he Baniſhed him again, for killing a Lion, which was about to aſſault the King as a Hunting. Artaxerxes being willing thereby to inſinuate that he had no need of his help, as having Courage enough to defend himſelf; but he re-called him afterwards, honoured him with his Table, and the Marriage of his Daughter, by whom he had Zopyrus. Cteſias.

MEGACLES, Deſcended from Neſtor, King of Pylos, in Meſſenia, and one of the Annual Archons of Athens; knowing the Deſign of Cylon to Uſurp that Government, he purſued him to the Temple of Minerva: Cylon came out thence with a linen Cloth on his Head, Conſecrated to that Goddeſs, and asked his Pardon, but Megacles without regarding the ſame, cauſed him to be cut off, whence he had the Reputation of a Cruel and Sacrilegious Perſon. Plutarch.

MEGÆRA, one of the Three Furies, which the Poets feigned to be the Daughters of Acheron, and of the Night. They gave her the Name from the Greek Word μεγαίρειν, which ſignifieth to hate, and to envy. Servius the Grammarian.

MEGALESIAN Games, Celebrated at Rome in the honour of Cybele, the Mother of the Gods, kept upon the 12th. of April. The City of Peſſinus in Phrygia, being taken then by Scipio Naſica, who was eſteemed the beſt Man of the whole Republick. Florus.

MEGALOPOLIS, called now Leondari, or Leontary, a Town of Arcadia near the River Alpheus. It was famous for the Birth of Polybius, and ſome other Learned Men. It became ſo Deſolate, that it gave riſe to the Proverb, Magna Civitas, Magna Solitudo.

MEGARA, a Town of Achaia, ſometimes a famous Republick, and had Wars with Athens. It was the Birth-place of Euclid. It is, at this day, but a poor Village called Megra, under the Turk. Megara was anciently built upon two Rocks, but now one is Deſolate, and the other has but about 3 or 400 pitiful Cottages, built one Story high, and cloſe together, the Walls of which are but the Ruins of the former Houſes, or a few Faggots covered with Clay. They have no Chimnies, except it be a hole in the top of the Houſe, or the Door. A Place, at firſt, Capital of a Monarchy under the Reign of twelve Kings, then a Republick, which maintained divers Wars with the Athenians, and others, and alſo Eſtabliſhed a Colony in the Iſland of Sicily. The News of the Venetian's having taken Athens in 1687, ſo terrifyed the People of Megara, that not attending the Approach of the Enemy, they abandon'd the place, and carryed what effects they could along with them, leaving the reſt to the diſpoſal of the Venetians, who conſidering it as a place rather troubleſome than uſeful, Burnt it.

MEGHEN, a Town and County in Brabant. It is upon the left the of Meuſe within three Leagues of Boiſleduc.

MEGOLE (de Leſcar) a Genoua Merchant, Deſcended from a Noble and Ancient Family in that City, he made himſelf famous in 1380. Thus following his Traffick in the Levant, he became ſo great a favourite to the Emperor of Trebizonde in Aſia Minor, that his Courtiers, being jealous, attempted his Ruine by all means poſſible; whereupon one of them gave him a Blow, as playing one day at Cheſs, for which the Emperor, not having done him Juſtice, he retired into his own Country, and Equipping two Gallies, did Infeſt his Coaſts, and being Attacked by four of the Emperor's Gallies, took two, and put the reſt to flight, and cutting off the Noſes and Ears of the Priſoners, ſent them to the Emperor, with Word, That if he did not ſend him that Man, who gave him the Affront, he would continually Ravage his Coaſts. The Man being accordingly ſent, Megole ſeeing him in his Power, returned him again, only bidding him tell the Emperor, That if he would build a Houſe at Trebizonde for the Genoua Merchants, and Paint this Hiſtory upon the Walls of it, he would never Commit any Hoſtilities againſt him, which was accordingly done; for which Noble Exploits, Megole was Rewarded with Honours and Riches, by the Senate and People. Henning's Geneal. Leſcar.

MEHEMET, Baſſa of Negropont, was taken at the Battle of Lepanto, by the Chriſtians, and ſent to Rome. He underſtood the Cuſtoms of the Europeans, and the Italian Language very well; ſpeaking of the Battle of Lepanto, he named theſe two things, as contributing much to the Victory of the Chriſtians, viz. Their great number of Muſqueteers, who were much better than Archers, and the Parapets, raiſed a-board the Gallies, which defended the Soldiers whilſt they fired; and to thoſe who ſaid that the Grand Seignior had loſt more by the Battle of Lepanto, than taking the Kingdom of Cyprus, he anſwered, That it was true, they had cut the Turk's Beard, which would grow again, but the Venetians could not re-join that Member to their Body, which the Turks had cut off. General Colonna viſiting the Priſoners, Ordered them to be civilly treated, and turning to Mehemet told him, That they ought to learn Humanity from them, and not carry it with ſo much Barbarity towards the Chriſtians; to which he replied, Your Lordſhip will do well to excuſe our Ignorance, for we have hitherto been accuſtomed to Take, but not to be Priſoners. Gratian's Hiſtory of Cyprus.

MEHERDATES, King of the Parthians, the Son of Vonones, had been given in Hoſtage to the Emperor Auguſtus, by Phraates III. his Grandfather, and was ſent back with the Title of King, by Claudius. His Ally, Izates King of the Adiabenians deſerting him, he was made Priſoner by Gotarzus, the Son of Artabanus, who cauſed his Ears to be cut off, and then put him to death to Uſurp his Crown. So ended the Houſe of the Arſacidæ, after 130 Years Reign. Tacitus lib. 6.

MEIERUS or Meyerus (James) was born at Vletern, in the Territory of Bailleul, in Flanders, in 1491. He Studied at Paris, and was a conſiderable Proficient, both in Philoſophy and Divinity; and at laſt took Prieſts Orders; in ſhort, Meierus was a Perſon of Worth, and of an Exemplary Life: He had an Acquaintance with Eraſmus, Deſpauterius, and ſeveral other eminent Men of that Age. His Works are, Rerum Flandricarum, T. 10. in which he gives a Genealogical Account of the Antiquity, and other Advantages of the Earls of Flanders, Chronicon Flandriæ. Hymni. Carmina, &c. Miræus in Elog. Belg. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg. &c.

MEIN, a River of Germany in Franconia. It ſprings near Culembach in the ſame Country. The Latins call it Mænus, and ſome Moganus. It waters, Bamberg, Suringford, Lisbourg, Verthaim, Duisburg and Frankford, and throws it ſelf into the Rhine at Mentz, after having received the Regnits, Sala, &c. In the Itinerary lib. 4. a certain Poet ſpeaks of it thus.

Vitiferumque Cava trajecimus arbore Mænum
Iriguas cujus Francia potat aquas.

MEINARD, or Mainard, the Name of ſeveral famous Men in France, who have born great Charges in that Kingdom, and were Members of the Royal Academy. Francis Mainard was the moſt famous of them, by his Learning and Poeſie; he was Preſident of Aurillac, and Councellor of State; he was alſo Secretary to Queen Margaret, Friend to Deſportes, Comrade to Regnier, and afterwards Scholar to Malherbe. In 1634, he went to Rome with Noailles, the French Ambaſſador, where he acquired the Friendſhip of Cardinal Bentivoglio, and Pope Urban VIII. He was well known to all the Grandees of France, and a Member of the French Academy, but Cardinal Richlieu never did him any kindneſs; whereupon he preſented him one day with an Epigram, complaining of his growing Years, and inſinuating how that, in a little time, he ſhould be with his Fore-fathers, and amongſt the Followers of that good King of France, who Patronized learned Men in an Ignorant Age, and gave him an Account what great Things Richlieu had done, to abate the Pride of Spain, which would cure him of his Melancholy, for the adverſe fortune of the Battle of Pavia; But, ſays he, if he ask what Imployment you gave me, What ſhall I anſwer? But the Cardinal was ſo far from being taken with that ingenious Poem, that he Anſwered him angrily, contrary to his cuſtom; whereupon he employed his Pen againſt Richlieu, during the Regency of Queen Anne of Auſtria. He died Dec. 28. 1646. Aged 64 Years, having placed over the Door of his Cloſet, ſome time before, an Inſcription, witneſſing his Diſſatisfaction with the Court, and the Age wherein he lived, and that there he waited for Death, without either Fearing, or Deſiring it. Racan's Life of Malherbe.

MEISSEN on the Elbe, a City of Miſnia in Germany, formerly Capital of the Country, as is Dreſden now. It was alſo a Biſhoprick, and Depended on the Biſhop, but ſince the Reformation, it Depends on the Elector of Saxony. It hath a fine wooden Bridge over the Elbe, and is ſituated in a pleaſant and fruitful Country. Bertius.

MELAMPUS of Argos, a famous Græcian Phyſician, about A. M. 2705. he Cured the Sons of King Prætus who were Mad, by giving them Hellebore, which from him was called Melampodium. Herodotus ſays, that being ſent for from Piſa, to cure the Women of Argos, who were taken with Madneſs, he Demanded no leſs Reward than the Kingdom. Herodotus.

MELANCHTON (Philip) was born at Brette, a Village of the Palatinate, Feb. 16. 1497. In his Youth, he made an admirable Progreſs in Learning. In 1509, he was called by the Elector Frederick to Wirtemberg, where he was Greek Profeſſor, and publiſhed many things. He Founded many Schools, and was extraordinary well verſed in Humanity and Divinity. The Univerſity of Paris having Condemned Luther's Opinions, he wrote a Book againſt them, Entituled, Adverſus furioſum Pariſienſium Logaſtrorum Decretum, Publiſhed in 1521. He wrote alſo with Luther, againſt the Articles of the Boors, An. 1525, and Compoſed the Augsburg Confeſſion, which was Exhibited to the Emperor Charles V. in 1530. He wrote alſo an Apology for that Confeſſion, which the Emperor would not admit. He had a Conference for three Days with Eckius at Worms, in 1541, about the remaining of Original Sin after Death; but the Conference was broke up by the Emperor's Command, and Adjourned to Ratisbone. He Refuted the Interim, but Flavius thinks he was not zealous enough againſt the Adiaphora. He denied Oral Manducation in the Lord's Supper, and was much of Zuinglius's Sentiments. He died at Wirtemberg, April 19. 1560. Aged 64 Years. He was of a ſweet Temper, and highly eſteemed, even by the greateſt of his Enemies. Francis I. of France, had a great Deſire to have ſeen him, on the Commendation which his Siſter, the Queen of Navarre had given him; but the Cardinal de Tournon being affraid of the Conſequences, which might thence follow to the Popiſh Religion, did cunningly break off that Deſign. Melanchton was alſo highly Commended by Eraſmus, and the Emperor Ferdinand I. His Works were publiſhed in five Tomes in Folio at Baſil, in 1544. The Character given him by Hoffman is, that he was the Phœnix of Germany, and Reſtorer of the Liberal Arts. Arrowſmith ſays, he was Vir in quo cum Doctrina pietas cum utraque Candor certavit. Lipſius ſays, he was Communis Germaniæ Præceptor. Stephanus calls him Literarum & Literatorum decus. Montacute ſtiles him Theologiæ Corculum Reformatæ. Taubmannus writes of him,

Heu quam multorum Lolio ſterileſceret Arvum
Ni bove ſolerti Melanchthonis illud araſſent.

He Compoſed his own Epitaph before his Death thus,

Iſte Brevis Tumulus miſeri tenet Oſſa Philippi
Qui qualis fuerit neſcio, talis erat.

MELANIA, a Roman Lady of an Illuſtrious Family, Daughter or Niece to the Conſul Marcellinus. She was married very young, but her Husband, and two of her Sons, dying in one Year, ſhe went in Pilgrimage to Jeruſalem with a third, being then an Infant. She went afterwards for Egypt, and protected the Hermits, who were Baniſhed by the Arians, and reduced many of them, whom thoſe Hereticks had perverted. She built a Monaſtery in Jeruſalem, where ſhe lived 25 Years in Religious Exerciſes. She was tainted with Origen's Errours, but relinquiſhed them. She viſited St. Auſtin at Hippo, and died at Jeruſalem, in 408. St. Aug. Ep. Baron.

MELANIA the Younger, Niece or Grandchild to the former, was married to Pinianus, Son to Severus, and one of the greateſt Noblemen of Rome, and foreſeeing the Deſtruction of that City, two Years before the taking of it by Alaric, in 409. ſhe went with her Family to Carthage, and thence to ſee St. Auguſtin at Hippo. Where the People upon the Reputation of his Piety, forc'd this Pinianus into the Prieſthood againſt his Inclination. After which, her Huſband, and ſhe lived Monaſtick Lives, and ſhe retired into a Cell on Mount Olivet. Her Uncle Voluſianus being at Conſtantinople, in 414, and deſirous to ſee her, ſhe went to him, and was Inſtrumental in his Converſion from Paganiſm, as ſhe was of ſeveral Neſtorians from their Errors, and having animated the Emperor Theodoſius the Younger, and the Empreſs Eudoxia, to maintain the Truth, ſhe returned to her Cell, and Died holily in 438. Baron. in Annal.

MELANION, the Son of Amphidamus, and Grandſon of Lycurgus, King of Arcadia, overcame the fair Atalanta, whom her Father Jaſius had promiſed in Marriage to the Man that ſhould out-run her; by the three Golden Apples which Venus had given him, which throwing down as he run, ſhe hindered her Courſe by taken them up.

MELAS, a River of Thracia, the ſame which Xerxes dried up, by drinking out of it with his Army, according to Herodotus. Some call it La Mere, as Nardus, others, as Belon, call it Lariſſa. There is another of this Name, which flows from Mount Parnaſſus, and makes the Sheep which feed on its Banks black.

MELAZO, a Town in a Province called Eidanelli, in Natolia; It ſtands in Caria, and was anciently call'd Mylaſa. 'Tis a Biſhop's See, under the Arch-Biſhop of Santa Croce. Spon Voyage de Italie, &c.

MELCHIADES, or Miltiades, Pope, was an African by Birth, and Succeeded Euſebius, Oct. 3. 311. He is Commended for having acquitted himſelf, as became his Office. At Conſtantine's Requeſt, he call'd a Council of Nineteen Biſhops at Rome, to determine the Controverſy between Donatus and Cicilian, Biſhop of Carthage; the firſt of theſe was condemn'd, with thoſe Schiſmaticks who adher'd to him, to whom the Pope propos'd ſeveral Expedients to bring them back to the Church, but without effect. He Ordered that no Faſts ſhould be kept on Thurſday nor Sunday, becauſe the Pagans eſteemed thoſe Days Sacred, and after he had ſat two Years, two Months, and ſeven Days, in the Time of a moſt cruel Perſecution, he died Dec. 10. 313, and is reckoned among the Martyrs, according to the Cuſtom of that Age, though he did not ſuffer a violent Death. Baron. Platina ſays, he Governed Four Years, Seven Months, and Nine Days, that he was Crowned with Martyrdom, by Maximin's Order, and buried in the Via Appia.

MELCHIOR (Hoffman) a Skinner of Strasburg, about 1528. He was an Eloquent and Crafty fellow, and deluded about 300 Men at Embden in Weſtfrieſland into his Errors. He was a mighty Prop to John of Leyden's Reign, and looked upon as a great Prophet of the Party. He pretended that he ſhould be Impriſoned ſix Months at Strasburg, and afterwards be ſet at liberty, and with his fellow Prophets, diſperſe their Opinions through the World; and arriving at Strasbourg, he Challenged the Miniſters to Diſpute, but was Confounded, yet would he not acknowledge himſelf overcome. Others of his Party propheſied, That after half a Years Impriſonment, he ſhould go abroad with 144000 Prophets, and reduce the whole World to their Doctrine, without reſiſtance; but, at laſt, he voluntarily pined himſelf to Death. Prateole, Gautier.

MELCHIOR (Rink) another of the ſame Stamp, was a mighty Promoter of thoſe Enthuſiaſtical Raptures, extolled Anabaptiſm, and was a mighty Interpreter of Dreams, giving out his Interpretations to be Heavenly Inſpirations from God the Father. Thomas Stucker, one of his Diſciples, in a full Council of the Party at St. Gall in Swiſſerland, cut off his Brother's Head, and was ſo much overcome with his Enthuſiaſtical Conceits, that he could not be beat out of it, but that he had therein Obeyed the Decrees of God. This happened in 1527.

MELCHISEDECK, Prieſt of the Moſt High God, and King of Salem, met Abraham returning from the Victory over Chedorlaomer, An. Mun. 2106. He bleſſed Abraham, and brought forth Bread and Wine, and Abraham gave him the Tithes of all that he had. 'Tis much Debated amongſt the Learned, who this Melchiſedeck was; ſome Greek Fathers ſay he was a Pagan, Deſcended from Side, a King of Egypt and Libya; but the Latins, with more reaſon think him to be Sem. Others have thought him to be an Angel, ſome the Holy Ghoſt, and others Jeſus Chriſt, as thoſe called Melchiſedecians, the Diſciples of Theodore the Banker; but moſt think that he was only a Man, and a Type of Jeſus Chriſt, who had no Father on Earth, nor Mother in Heaven, and was to Eſtabliſh in himſelf a new Prieſthood without End, after the Order of Melchiſedeck, of which the Apoſtle Treats, Heb. 7. It is alſo controverted amongſt Authors, What this Salem was, whereof he was King; ſome will have it to be Salem, a City of the Shechemites; but moſt think it to be Jeruſalem.

MELCHITÆ. They call by this Name, in the Levant, the Syrians, Cophti, or Egyptians, and the other Nations of the Eaſtern Church, who though they be no Greeks, yet follow the common Doctrine of the Greek Church, and Adhere to the Deciſions of the great Council of Chalcedon. The Name was given them by the oppoſite Parties, from the Hebrew Word Melech, which ſignifies A King, in Deriſion of their being of the Religion of the Emperor, who preſided over the ſaid Council. They call themſelves the Orthodox, and have Tranſlated into the Arabick Language the Bible, Councils and Euchologion, with moſt of the Divinity Books of the Græcians. Gabriel Sionita, in a little Book which he has written, concerning the Religion and Cuſtoms of the Eaſtern Nations, calls the Melchitæ, Greeks, for in truth, they do not differ in Belief from the Greek Church. Sionita Aſſures us further, that they deny Purgatory, and are ſtrong Oppoſers of the Pope's Supremacy. M. Simon.

MELCOMB (Regis) a Corporation in Dorſetſhire, in Ugſcomb Hundred upon the River Wey, where it falls into the Sea, united by a fair Timber-bridge to the Town of Weymouth, on the other ſide of the ſame River, and together with it, by Act of Parliament, in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, Incorporated into one Body, Governed by a Mayor and Aldermen, yet they both chuſe two Burgeſſes for Parliament.

MELEAGER, King of Macedonia, Succeeded his Brother Ptolemæus Ceraunus towards An. Rom. 474. Pauſanias in Phoc. Juſtin lib. 24, &c.

MELEAGER, the Son of Æneus, King of Calydonia, and of Althæa, the Daughter of Theſtius. The Poets feign, that as ſoon as he was born, his Mother ſaw the Parcæ near the fire, who put a fire-brand into it, and pronounced theſe Words, This Child ſhall live, as long as this Fire-brand ſhall laſt. The Goddeſſes being gone, Althæa took out the Firebrand, and kept it carefully. Meleager growing up and diſtinguiſhing himſelf at the Hunting of the Caledonian-Boar, which he kill'd, an Accident happen'd; There being at this Chace a great many People of Quality to diſpatch this Boar which had haraſs'd the Country: And Attalanta, Daughter to Jaſius, King of Argos, ſtriking the Boar firſt, Meleager made her a preſent of the Head, in Conſideration of her Courage. This Preference diſguſted Plexhippus and Toxeus, Althæa's two Brothers, who making a diſpute about it, were kill'd by Meleager, who afterwards marry'd Attalanta. Althæa hearing of the Murther of her Brothers, threw the Brand into the Fire out of Revenge, which being made to burn ſlowly, caus'd Meleager to die of a lingering and painful Death. Ovid. 8. Metam. See ALTHÆA.

MELES, King of Lydia in Aſia Minor, ſucceeded his Father Alyattes, and was the laſt of the Heraclides, who Reigned in Lydia. Euſebius.

MELFI, which the Latins call Melphia, a Town, a Biſhoprick and Principality of the Kingdom of Naples in the Baſilicata. Some confound it with Amalfi, an Archiepiſcopal Town in the ſame Kingdom. It was formerly more conſiderable than it is now.

MELIAPOR, or Meliapur, a Town of Aſia, in the Peninſula of Indus, on this ſide Ganges, upon the Coaſt of Coromandel, with an Archbiſhop's See. It had alſo the Name of St. Thomas, becauſe that bleſſed Apoſtle ſuffered Martyrdom there, in a place called Calurmina, by thoſe of Malabar, that is, upon a Stone, that is near that Town, as Father Athanaſius Kircherus explains it.

MELICERTUS, the Son of Athama and Ino, threw himſelf headlong into the Sea, and was changed into a Sea-God. Ovid mentions him in 4. Metam. The Ancients celebrated the Iſthmick Games in Honour of this Melicertus. Euſebius mentions him in the Third Year of the XLIXth Olympiad.

MELIGALUS, a Citizen of Rhodes, became Turk, to betray his Country. He was ſtout and bold, but accuſtomed from his Youth to all ſort of Vice; having ſpent all his Means, he took a Plan of the Fortifications of Rhodes, with an Account of the Artillery and Ammunition of the place, and went to Conſtantinople, where he ſoon got Acceſs to the Bacha Miſac Paleologus, and, by his means, to Mahomet II. He met another Renegado at Conſtantinople, called Demetrius, with whom he entered into a very ſtrict Friendſhip, and both together took Meaſures to deſtroy the Knights of St. John of Jeruſalem; they ſhewed Mahomet the Plan of the City, told him, That the Walls of the Caſtle were ruinous, That the Jews Quarter was the weakeſt Part, and that in becoming Maſter of the Tower of St. Nicholas, it would be no difficult Matter to get the reſt. Mahomet, at firſt, took but little notice of theſe Advices, but they prevailed at laſt, and animated him ſo againſt the Knights, that he reſolved on the Siege, and Ordered Meligalus and Demetrius to accompany the Bacha Paleologus, General of his Fleet. Maligalus was ſeized at Sea with a very uncommon Diſtemper, his Fleſh ſtinking inſupportably, and devoured with Worms bred in its ſelf, ſo that having ſuffered unexpreſſible Pain, he expired, breathing nothing but Curſes againſt God and Man. P. Bouhours.

MELINDA, a Kingdom and Town of Africk, upon the Coaſts of Zanguebar, between Montbaze and Pata. The Town is built near the Sea, and has a very good Port, which is defended by a ſtrong Caſtle, built by the Portugueſe, who drive a great Trade here, and have many Churches. The King of Melinda is a Mahometan. When he appears in Publick, the Women ſing his Praiſe, and carry Veſſels of Perfume before him, making an odd ſort of Harmony, by beating ſome ſmall Veſſels of Braſs with Sticks of Ivory. This King is a great Friend of the Portugueſe. Some are of Opinion, that the Coaſt of Melinda is the Aſperum Mare of Ptolemy.

MELISSA, Daughter of Meliſſeus, King of Crete or Candia. If we believe the Poets, ſhe and her Siſter Amalthæa nurſed Jupiter, and brought him up with Goats Milk. She is ſaid to have been the firſt that found the way of preparing Honey, which gave occaſion to the Fiction of her being changed into a Bee. Columella l. 9. c. 2.

C. MELISSUS, an enfranchiz'd Slave of Mæcenas, was a Comick Poet deputed by Auguſtus, to take care of his Library in the Octavian Gallery. He invented a new ſort of Comedy, which he called Trabeata. Voſſius. Sueton.

MELISSUS of Samos, a Philoſopher, Son of Ithagenes, and Diſciple of Parmenides. He lived in the LXXXIVth. Olympiad, i. e. An. Rom. 310. Heraclitus recommended him to the Epheſians, as a very deſerving Man, whereupon they made him their Admiral, and gave him a more ample Power, and greater Privileges than any had, that exerciſed that Charge before him. He held, That this Univerſe was infinite, immutable, and immovable, that there is no Vacuity, nor Local Motion, but things look'd as if there was; ſaid, That People ſhould advance nothing as certain concerning God, becauſe we have but an imperfect Knowledge of every thing. Euſebius in Chron. Diogenes Laertius lib. 9. vit. Philoſ.

MELISSUS, the Second King of Argos, the Husband of Inaca, the Mother of Phoroneus. He was the firſt that made Laws, according to Euſebius. Lib. Præp. Evang. & in Chron.

MELITA, a ſmall Town of Barbary in the Kingdom of Fez. It is upon the Mediterranean Sea, and belongs to the King of Spain. It was taken from the Moors by King Ferdinand, in 1496, who took care to fortify it. The Moors laid Siege to it in 1687, but the Garriſon killing 500 of them in a Salley, they drew off. 'Tis about 40 German Miles from the Mouth of the Straights of Gibraltar to the E. over againſt Almeria in Granada.

MELITO, or Meliton, a Principality of the Kingdom of Naples, upon the Coaſt of the Calabria Ulterior. It is not very conſiderable.

MELITO, Biſhop of Sardes in Aſia, liv'd in the IId. Century, and preſented an excellent Apology for the Chriſtians, to Marcus Aurelius Antoninus; we have loſt this Piece, excepting what Euſebius relates of it in his Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory. But by what remains of it, it appears, he was a very conſiderable Perſon: Melito likewiſe wrote ſeveral other Treatiſes, cited by St. Jerome, and others. As two Books concerning Eaſter. The Lives of the Prophets. Of the Church. Concerning Sunday, &c. which are all loſt. Euſeb. in Chron. A. C. 150. & lib. 4. Hiſt. cap. 25. *Hieron. de Script. Eccl. cap.*24. Bellarmin de Script. Eccl. &c.

MELLA, (John) a Cardinal Biſhop of Zamora and Siguenza in Spain, was a very conſiderable Divine and Lawyer, and had a great Character and Imployments in the Court of Eugenius IV. Pope Calixtus III. gave him a Cardinal's Cap in 1456. He died at Rome in 1467, when the Town was viſited with a great Mortality. Cardinal de Mella wrote a Treatiſe of the Indeſpenſible Obligation the Rectors of Pariſhes lie under to Reſide upon their Cures in the Time of a Plague. In this Book, he declaims with a great deal of Zeal againſt thoſe Cowardly Paſtors, who fanſy themſelves at liberty to leave their Flocks, when they have moſt need of their Company and Aſſiſtance. Mariana lib. 21. Onuphrius, Ciaconius, &c.

MELLI, a Town and Kingdom of Africk in Nigritia. The River Niger, which is divided into ſeveral Branches, is Northward of that State, Mandinga and Sages lie Eaſtward, Malaguete Southward, and the Atlantick Ocean Weſtward. Beſides the Town of Melli, which is pretty large, there is Beria, &c.

MELLI, a Kingdom of Nigritia, about Rio Grande. There is but one Town of about 6000 Inhabitants, where the King keeps his Court, within 30 Days Journey of Tombut. The Country abounds in Corn, Cattle, and Cottons, and the Inhabitants are very Rich, through their great Commerce. They have their Moſques, their Moula's, or Doctors, who inſtruct them in the Arabick Tongue, in Sciences, and in the Principles of their Religion. They were ſubdued by Joſeph, King of Morocco; but Tzchia, King of Tombut, made them Tributary to him in 1520. Dapper's Deſcription of Africa.

MELLONA, or Mellonia, a Goddeſs among the Ancients who took care of Bees and Honey. St. Auguſtin mentions her in the Fourth Book, De Civit. Dei.

MELPOMENE, one of the Nine Muſes, the Inventreſs of Tragedies. She is commonly repreſented with a grave Countenance, richly habited, holding Scepters and Crowns in one Hand, and a Poniard in the other. Virgilius in Epigr. Muſarum, which is ſaid to be his,

Melpomene Tragico proclamat mœſta boatu.

MELVILL, one of thoſe Families which came into Scotland with Queen Margaret, in Malcolm Canmoor's Time, and are ſuppoſed to be of Hungarian Extract, there being Families in that Kingdom lately, who bore the ſame Arms; but as for thoſe of this Surname in France about Orleans, they Deſcended from the Houſe of Raith in Scotland, about 100 Years ago, which Family of Raith, is above 600 Years ſtanding; and the preſent Earl of Melvill is Lineally deſcended thence, from Father to Son without Interruption, and poſſeſſes the Eſtate of Raith, which gives Denomination of Lord to his Eldeſt Son. There were two other Families, which pretended to be Brothers to the Founder of the Family of Raith, and that they came from Hungary at the ſame time, viz. Melvill of Glenbervie, whoſe Iſſue Male failing, the Eſtate went, with the Heireſs, to the Family of Angus, a Brother of which ſhe married, and is now poſſeſſed by the Marquiſs of Douglas, and Melvill of Melvill-Caſtle in Lothian, which alſo went off with a Daughter to Sir ..... Roſs of Hacket, now Lord Roſs, who quarters the Arms of Melvill with his own. From theſe Three Families are Deſcended ſeveral others, as Melvill of Carnbie in Fife, Melvill of Dyſert in the Merns, which were both of above 300 Years ſtanding; Melvill of Mordicarnie, Melvill of Hall-hill, Melvill of Caſſengray, Mellvill of Caskardow, and Melvill of Pithahop. The Charters of the Family of Raith being burnt, at the beginning of the Reformation, when Sir John Melvill of Raith was cut off, as you ſhall hear anon, makes the Hiſtory of this Family more imperfect; only they have Three Charters preſerved by Providence, one from

King Alexander, and two from King William. Sir Stephen Melvill of Raith, was married to one of the Daughters, and Heireſs of the Lord Lorn, but Archibald Campbell, called The Knight of Lochow, married the other, and carried moſt of the Eſtate, ſo that the Eldeſt Sons of the Earls of Argyle, bear the Title of Lord Lorn. Sir John Melvill was, together with the Earl of Fife, ſent Ambaſſador by King Alexander to Henry ..... King of England. Sir John Melvill of Raith, being one of the firſt of Quality in Scotland, who embraced the Reformation, and entertained Mr. George Wiſhart, the Miniſter and Martyr, in his Family. Cardinal Beaton, who then had the chief Sway in the State, did thereupon deſign his Ruin; but Sir John being well beloved, both by his Prince and Country, he attempted nothing againſt him openly; but King James V. and the Cardinal both dying, and Hamilton, Brother to the Earl of Arran, then Vice-Roy of Scotland, coming to the Archbiſhoprick of St. Andrew's, he formed a Deſign againſt that old Gentleman's Life and Fortune, and wrought his Ruin thus: There being a declared War, at that time, betwixt Scotland and England, upon Breach of the Contract, whereby Mary, Queen of Scots, Daughter to King James V. was promiſed in Marriage to Edward VI. of England, all Commerce betwixt the Two Nations was forbid, on the higheſt Penalty, and Sir John Melvill having a Son then in England, to whom he had writ a Fatherly Admonition, adviſing him to Fear and Serve God, live Vertuouſly, and carry himſelf like a Gentleman, without any thing in it, relating to Intelligence, or Correſpondence, as the Proceſs, yet Extant, teſtifies. The Archbiſhop did nevertheleſs reſolve to Ruin him upon it, and coming one Morning to Sir John's Houſe, on pretence of a Viſit, ſtayed and dined with him, and after Dinner, Sir John attended the Archbiſhop a little way, with a few of his Servants on Horſeback in Compliment; but he was ſcarce got a Mile from his own Houſe, when he fell into an Ambuſh, laid for him by the Archbiſhop at Abbots-Hall, ſo that he carried him off by Surprize, which he would have found hard to have effected otherwiſe, Sir John being a Gallant Man, 92 in Family, and ordinarily attended with Men in Arms, according to the Cuſtom of thoſe Times. But being thus taken, he was carried to Sterlin, Condemned, Forfeited, and Executed, meerly upon the Account of that Letter; his Lady, and Eleven Children turned out of Doors, his Houſe rifled, his Evidences burnt, and all the Marks of Ignominy and Contempt imaginable put upon his Family. But it was remarkable, that this very Archbiſhop was afterwards hanged (by Matthew, Earl of Lenox, then Regent) at Sterlin, where he procured this unjuſt Sentence for his Acceſſion to the Murther of King Henry, Son to the ſaid Earl of Lenox, and the Forfeiture of Sir John Melvill was reduced, not as an Act of Favour, but Juſtice, as the whole Proceſs, yet Extant, doth teſtify, and his Heirs poſſeſs the ſaid Archbiſhop's Houſe; as alſo the Houſes of thoſe who were greateſt Enemies to his Family. Sir John's Lady, a Wiſe and Excellent Woman, ... Napier of Merchiſton, and Grand Aunt to the famous Merchiſton, who invented that called Napier's Bones, and the Logarithms; being much Diſconſolate at her Husband's Impriſonment, &c. he did all he could to comfort her, and told her, that God would provide better for his Children, than he could, if he were to live, which was fulfilled accordingly; his Eldeſt Son was reſtored to his Eſtate; his Second Son, Sir Robert Melvill of Mordicarny, was Created a Baron of Parliament, made Deputy Treaſurer, and entruſted with the Management of the Kingdom, as Vice-Chancellor, during King James VI. and the Chancellor's Abſence in Denmark, about his Marriage with Queen Anne. He was alſo Employed in ſeveral Embaſſies to England, both by the ſaid King, and his Mother. His Third Son, was Sir James Melvill of Hall-Hill, who wrote ſome Memoirs of thoſe Times, but they are imperfect, never being deſigned for the Preſs, but neglected, and not found till Forty Years after his Death, and then alſo torn, and much of what he had writ wanting. His Fourth Son, Mr. William Melvill, Lord of Tungland, one of the Senators of the College of Juſtice, a Learned and Polite Man, was likewiſe Employed in ſeveral Embaſſies. His Fifth Son was Sir Andrew Melvill of Garvock, Steward of the Houſe to Queen Mary till her Execution, and afterwards ſerved her Son King James, in that ſame Station. George, now Earl of Melvill, is Son to John, Lord Melvill, who died about 1642, leaving him very young. He lived long in a private manner, not being of a medling Temper, nor willing to comply with the Courſes of the Times; yet he was obliged to retire, becauſe of the Prejudice, which ſome of thoſe at the Helm had then againſt him, upon the Account of his Principles, and his Relations; and becauſe he did not appear when Cited, which was not ſafe for many then to do, his Eſtate was Forfeited upon frivolous and falſe Pretences, but ſince reſtored by way of Juſtice. Upon King William and Queen Mary's coming to the Crown, he was made Sole Secretary of State for the Kingdom of Scotland, advanced to the Title of an Earl, and in 1690, made High Commiſſioner to the Second Seſſion of His Majeſty's firſt Parliament; in both which Stations he behaved himſelf as a faithful Subject, and good Country-man, and is now Lord Privy Seal of the Kingdom of Scotland. David, Second Son to the Earl of Melvill, ſucceeded as Heir of Entail to the Earldom of Leven, and does now enjoy the Honours and Eſtate. This Family is of the Surname of the Leſlies, as is alſo that of Rothes, who have enjoyed the Title of Earls ſince the Time of James II. and therefore, upon Account of their Religion, we will ſay ſomething here of the Leſlies, and refer you for the reſt to the Letter L. Count Leſly, one of the Counts of the Empire, was Son to Leſly of Balquhain in Scotland, by the Lady Edertel, Siſter to the Earl of Kelly, and Grand Aunt to the preſent Earl of Melvill. He was advanced to the Honour of a Count of the Empire, for his Valour, and good Service to the Emperor, who ſent him alſo Ambaſſador to Conſtantinople, to Treat of a Peace, with the moſt ſplendid Retinue that ever went from Europe to that Court. He died without Iſſue, ſo that his Nephew Balquhain's Son ſucceeded him, was alſo Count of the Empire, Lieutenant-General of the Imperial Army, and died in 1692. John Leſly, Biſhop of Roſs, was Ambaſſador for Mary, Queen of Scots, in England, and wrote a Hiſtory of Scotland in Latin, Dedicated to Pope Gregory XIII. Sir Alexander Leſly, afterwards Earl of Leven, ſerved firſt in Flanders under Sir Horatio Vere; then he went to Sweden, and ſerved Hertſoch Carle, or Duke Charles, afterwards King of Sweden, Guſtavus Adolphus, his Son, and Queen Chriſtina, his Daughter, for ſome time, in the Quality of Felt-Mareſchal. When the Emperor had reduced all Germany, except Stralſund, the King of Denmark, ſome of the German Princes, and the Town of Stralſund, then Inveſted, and jealous of their Governor, made Application to the King of Sweden, to ſend them an Officer to Command in that Place; upon which he made Choice of Sir Alexander Leſly, who acquitted himſelf with ſo much Gallantry, that though the Plague was in the City, ſome of the Out-works not good, and that Walleſtein beſieged it long, with a formidable and victorious Army, which made him ſo confident of Succeſs, that he ſwore, Though it were hung in Chains betwixt Heaven and Earth, he would have it; yet Sir Alexander obliged him to raiſe the Siege with Diſgrace, which was the greateſt Rub that ever Walleſtein met with. After this, Sir Alexander took in the Iſland of Rugen, though the Imperialiſts were four times ſtronger than he, by which he made way for Guſtavus Adolphus his Landing in Germany. He continued in that Prince's Army till 1638, having done him conſiderable Service, and gained great Honour to himſelf. After which, he came to Scotland, Commanded the Scotch Forces in Ireland and England, with Honour and Succeſs; but, at laſt was, with ſome others of the Scotch Nobility, taken Priſoner at Elliot, by the Engliſh, carried to the Tower of London, and had his Eſtate ſequeſtered. His Son, Colonel Leſly, Lord Balgenie, married the Lady Margaret Leſly, Daughter to the Earl of Rothes, and Mother to the preſenr Dutcheſs of Buccleugh and Monmouth, by whom he left one Son named Alexander, and one Daughter Catharine, the preſent Counteſs of Melvill, Mother to David, now Earl of Leven, who ſucceeded as Heir of Entail, the ſaid Alexander, Earl of Leven's Three Daughters, by ..... Howard, Daughter to the Earl of Carliſle, having all died without Iſſue. The preſent Earl of Leven, was Colonel under the Elector of Brandenburg, attended King William in his Expedition into Britain, who hath made him Governor of Edinburgh Caſtle, Colonel of a Regiment of Foot, one of the Commiſſioners of the Exchequer, and a Member of His Majeſties moſt Honourable Privy-Council in Scotland.

MELUN, a Town of France upon the River Seine, in the Government of the Iſle of France, with the Title of Viſcounty. The Latin Authors call it Melodunum, Melledunum, and Mecledunum. What Cæſar writes of Melun in his Commentaries ſhews, that it is very ancient,and that it was very conſiderable in his time. The Houſe of Melun, a very Ancient Family, got the Name from the Town Melun. 'Tis now both pleaſant, and well-peopled. The River forms an Iſle in it, in which ſtands the Caſtle, with the Churches of our Lady, and St. Stephen. There are beſides theſe, ſeveral other very fine Churches in the other Parts of the Town; as the Collegiate of our Lady, the Pariſh Church of St. Stephen, the Abby of St. Peter, &c. with divers Monaſteries. The Town and Suburbs are very well fortified, and have a Bailiwick, Preſidial, and Election. It is 10 Leagues above Paris, and 14 below Fontainbleau. It was often taken and re-taken during the Wars with the Engliſh, and ſuffered conſiderably in the Civil Wars of the XVIth. Century.

MELZI (Lewis) a Knight of Malta, born at Milan. He ſerv'd the King of Spain in Italy, and the Low-Countries, and had conſiderable Poſts under that Prince; beſides this, he got a great Reputation by his particular Talent in Horſe-manſhip, concerning which he publiſh'd a Book, entituled Regole Militari ſupra il Governo & Servizio particolare della Cavalleria: This Book has been Tranſlated into ſeveral Languages. As for the Author, he died at Milan, 1617. Ghilini Teat. de Huom. Letter.

MEMEL, or Memmel, called by thoſe of Curland, Cloupede, Lat. Memelium, Memmelburgum, & Cleupeda, a Town of the Ducal Pruſſia, in the little Country called Sclavonia. It is ſeated near the Lake Curon, or Curiſh. 'Tis very well fortified, tified, ſome ſay, it was built by the Knights of Livonia. The Polanders were Maſters of it after them, and the Swedes after theſe; but now it belongs to the Elector of Brandenburg. Cromer.

MEMEL, Memen, or Ruſſe, a River of Poland, the Chronus of Ptolemæus, formerly in Sarmatia. The Germans call it Memel, the Polanders, Memen, and the Pruſſians, towards the Mouth of it, call it Ruſſe. The River Memel ſprings in Lithuania, near the Town Slucko, and falls into the Baltick Sea.

MEMMINGEN, an Imperial Town of Germany, in Algou in Suabia. It is ſituate near the Iſler, within Seven or Eight Leagues of the Danaw.

MEMNON, was an Æthiopian; for this Country is called Memnonia by the Poets, and ſome think, that he was King thereof. Anticles, quoted by Pliny, ſays, Memnon was the Inventer of Letters, or Characters, An. Mun. 2232, Fifteen Years before the Reign of Phoroneus, King of Argos. He muſt not be confounded with Memnon, Admiral of Darius, laſt King of Perſia, his Fleet. Ovidius lib. 13. Metam. Plinius, Strabo, Tacitus, Pauſanias, Qu. Smyrnæus, Bacon, Suidas, &c.

MEMNON, Son of Tithonus and Aurora, was kill'd by Achilles, at the Siege of Troy, where he commanded ſome Auxiliary Troops for Priam. Pauſanias ſays, that he came from Suſa in Perſia, and Diodorus Siculus Relates that Teutamus, King of Aſſyria, ſent this Memnon at the Head of twenty thouſand Men to raiſe the Seige of Troy. The Poets pretend that his Aſhes were turned into Birds. The Ancients likewiſe mention a Famous Statue of Memnon at Thebes in Egypt, which made a ſort of a mournful noiſe when it was beat upon and warm'd a little with the Rayes of the Sun. Ovid. Metam. Lib. 13. Pauſan. in Phoſic. Plin. Lib. 7. cap. 58. Strabo, Lib. 16*th*. &c.

MEMON, 22d. Califf, or Succeſſor of Mahomet, ſucceeded his Father Imbrael in 849. He had a great Inclination for Virtue and Sciences, writ to the Emperor Michael, and deſired he would ſend him Leo the Philoſopher, Biſhop of Theſſalonica, to teach him Mathematicks; but the Emperor refuſed to comply, though Memon promiſed to live in Peace with him, and pay him a conſiderable Sum of Gold, to help to defray the Charges of the fore-going War. This diſappointment angered him ſo much, that he Invaded the Provinces of the Empire, but loſt the Battel, and his Life, in 865. 'Tis ſaid, that the two Armies being in ſight the one of the other, he asked a Chriſtian, whom he had taken Priſoner, the Name of that place, who told him the Country was called Lalaceon, the Place of Battle Eptoſante, and the River Hire, which he interpreted to portend bad Succeſs; becauſe Lalaceon ſignifies Affliction of the People, Eptoſante, Baniſhed, and Hire, Trod under the Enemies Feet. Marmol.

MEMPHIS, Heb. Odoph, an Ancient, Great and Populous City of Egypt, built above the Diviſion of the Nile into two great Branches, but near it, and in the form of a Tube. Joſeph 8. Ant. 6. Minos, King of Egypt, built this City, which, next to Alexandria, was the greateſt of the old Cities, being 150 Stadia in Compaſs. It was, a long time, the Royal City of the Kings of Egypt, as appeareth by the Pyramids, and other ancient Monuments about it. The Prieſts of this Place were ſo much celebrated for their Learning, that Plato and Pythagoras went to hear them; yet they were noted to be exceſſive Superſtitious. In St. Herom's Time, they Worſhipped here a braſs Bull, as a God. This was alſo the Place where Apis, or Serapis, (the Living Bull) had his Temple, and the Devils gave out their Oracles. Antipater, the Father of Herod, took this City, which was afterwards called Babylon, and now Cairo, or Grand Cairo, and of whoſe Greatneſs, ſtrange, incredible Stories are related in our Times; as, that it is twice as big as Paris, but, in truth, it is equal to Rome (11 Miles in Compaſs) and much more Populous, as Lend. Romanus de Navigatione lib. 1. cap. 1. ſaith. Selim took this City, and added it to his Dominions, in 1515, Ptolemy. Long. 50. 00. Lat. 29. 50. See GRAND CAIRO.

MEMPHITÆ, the Name of the Kings of Egypt that Reigned at Memphis, between the Lower Egypt, and Thebais. The firſt King was Menes, who gave the beginning to the Empire of Egypt, and Founded the three Dynaſties of This, Thebes, and Memphis. See DYNASTIE.

MENADES. Women tranſported with Fury, who Worſhipped Bacchus. They were alſo called Bacchantes. They killed Orpheus, as Ovid feigns it, in the 11th. Book of his Metam. See BACCHANTES.

MENAHEM (de Lonzano) a Rabbi, compoſed a Book, Intituled Secte Jadoth, wherein he Treats of divers things; the firſt Part, Ortora, The Light of the Law, is the moſt conſiderable, for here the Author examines the Hebrew Text of the Pentateuch, and compares it with a great a number of Manuſcript Copies, the exacter to mark the different Readings, even to the very Niceties of Accent. It was printed at Venice in 1618. Some of the Copies may be had now of the Jews of Amſterdam. M. Simon.

MENAION. The Name given by the Greeks, to the twelve Volumes of their Church Service. They anſwer to the twelve Months of the Year, and every Volume takes in a Month. In this Book, is contain'd the Office for the Saints, of every Day, Methodically digeſted. The Menology is drawn out of this Menaion. Leo Allatius Diſſert. 1. De Libris Eccleſiaſticis Græcorum.

MENAN, a River of the Indies in the Peninſula, beyond Ganges. It is ſaid to ſpring out of the Lake of Chiamai, in the Territories of the King of Ava. It overflows every ſix Months. The Name Menan, in the Indian Language, ſignifieth The Mother of Rivers. After having run through ſeveral Kingdoms, it paſſed into that of Siam, and after a conſiderable Courſe, falls into the Gulph of Siam.

MENANDER, a Diſciple of Simon Magus, and his Country-man. He taught the ſame Errors with his Maſter in the firſt Century, but preferred himſelf to him ſaying, He was ſent to ſave Mankind, That his Diſciples ſhould never die. Baſilides and Saturninus were his Scholars. St. Epiph. Baron.

MENANDER, a Comick Poet of Athens, was born in the 109th. Olympiad, as appears by an Ancient Inſcription in Gruther. He is ſaid to be the Prince of New Comedy; Plutarch prefers him to Ariſtophanes, both for his Judgment, and the Sobriety of his Stile. He is ſaid to have written a Hundred and eight Comedies, which are all loſt, excepting ſome Citations from Ancient Authors. See, Stobæus's Collection. Caſaubon in Athen. Voſſius. de Poet Græc. pag 57, 58, &c.

MENAPIANS, a People of the Belgick Gaul, which Cæſar, Plinius and Tacitus mention. P. Briet and Sanſon ſay, theſe People inhabited the Country that lies between the Scheld, and the Meuſe, now the Dutchy of Brabant. Their chief Town was Keſſel, upon the Meuſe.

MENARDUS (Hugo) a Benedictin in France, born at Paris: He was a Perſon of a conſiderable Figure, for his Learning, the greateſt Scholars of his time, having a value for him, and conſulting him often, in Caſes of difficulty. In 1629, He publiſh'd a Martyrology of the Saints of his order, with Notes upon it; this Work is in two Volumes in Folio. In 1638, He Printed a Treatiſe of St. Bennet of Anian, call'd Concordia Regularum, with the Life of that Saint, written by Ado Viennenſis: Menardus's Notes upon it, are very curious, and ſo are thoſe which he wrote upon the Book De Sacramentis, of Gregory the Great, publiſh'd in Quarto in 1642. He wrote likewiſe a Treatiſe, call'd Diatriba de Unico Dionyſio, and Remarks upon an Epiſtle attributed to St. Barnaby the Apoſtle. Dacherius.

MENASSEH (Ben Iſrael) a Jew of the Spaniſh Synagogue of Amſterdam, has rendred himſelf famous amongſt Chriſtians, by the ſeveral Works which he compoſed in Latin, Spaniſh and Portugueſe. In his Conciliador printed at Francfort, in 1632, he endeavours to reconcile the ſeeming Contradictions of Scripture. The Method he follows is altogether the Jewiſh, making uſe of the Teſtimony of ancient and late Rabbi's. He alſo acts the Philoſopher, and Cabbaliſt, in ſome Places, and in other, keeps cloſe to the Letter. They that are curious of Jewiſh Literature, may ſatisfie themſelves in this Work, which is full of it. The Author takes this Quality, Theologo y Philoſopho Hebræo, and ſays in the Preface, That none of his Nation wrote on this Subject before him. M. Simon.

MENCRATES, or Menecrates, a Phyſician of Syracuſa, lived in the CVth. Olympiad, in the time of Artaxerxes Ochus. He was much eſteemed for his Skill, but was far more notorious for his Vanity. He led ſuch as he Cured along with him, dreſſing one like Apollo, a Second like Æſculapius, and a Third like Hercules, and he himſelf took the Crown, Scepter, and Name of Jupiter, as having given life to others. He directed a Letter to Philip, the Father of Alexander the Great thus, Mencrates Jupiter Philippo regi ſalutem, King Philip Subſcribed his Anſwer to him thus, Philippus Mencrati ὑγιαίνειν, Philip wiſhes Mencrates good Senſe. Suidas, Ælian.

MENDE near Lot, a Town and Biſhoprick of France, in the Province of Guivaudan, in the Government of Languedoc, in Cevennes. The Latins call it Mimatum Gabalorum, or Mirnata. 'Tis ſituate in a Valley ſurrounded with Hills. It ſuffered much in the Civil Wars, but is ſtill conſiderable, and very pleaſant, having many fine Churches, and other Stately Buildings, as the Biſhop's Palace, &c. This Prelate is Earl of the Country, Shares in the Juriſdiction of the Town with the King, and has part of the Adminiſtration of Juſtice, and had Privilege formerly to coin Money.

MENDECIANS, the Name of the Kings of Egypt, that Reigned at Mendes, in the middle of Delta, in the Lower Egypt. He that Founded that Dynaſty, was called Nepheritus, or Nephreeus. His Succeſſors were Acoris, Pſammuthis, and Nepheritus II. who Reigned in all but 32 Years. Paulus Pezron, Antiquité des Temps.

MENDGLIGERI, a Prince of the Leſſer Tartary, who, in the year 1530, enter'd Moſcovy, took the Town of Moſco and plunder'd it, and preſs'd the Caſtle ſo hard, that the great Duke was forc'd to beg Peace of him, and conſent to the diſadvantage of Tribute. Mendgligeri, having the vanity to ſhew himſelf Sovereign of Moſco, Order'd his Statue to be ſet up in the middle of the Town, obliging the Great Duke to make a profound Reverence to it, every time that he pay'd his Tribute; after this Victory he retir'd to Crim, and his Brother Sapgeri, went to Cazan to ſet up a Sovereignty there; Mendgligeri having a mind to enlarge his Conqueſts, beſieged the Town of Rezan, letting the Vaivode underſtand at the ſame time, that it was now to no purpoſe for him to reſiſt, ſince the Grand Duke of Muſcovy was his Subject; and to convince him of the truth of this matter, he was ſo imprudent as to ſend him the Inſtrument unſeal'd, by which the Great Duke oblig'd himſelf to become Tributary. The Vaivode immediately diſpatches theſe Writings open to Moſco, upon the ſight of which, the Citizens threw down Mendgligeri's Statue, and made ſo Vigorous a Reſiſtance, that he was forc'd to Raiſe the Siege. Olearius, Voyage of Moſcovy.

MENDOZA (Francis de) Knight of the Order of Calatrava; He ſerv'd the King of Spain in ſeveral Embaſſies, and in the Low-Country Wars, and was taken Priſoner by the Dutch at the Siege of Newport; and at his Return into Spain, Married the Dutcheſs of Veragua, after whoſe Death he went into Prieſts Orders, and died in 1623, being nominated by the King, to the Biſhoprick of Siguença. He publiſh'd an Account of his Embaſſies. Intitled, Franciſci de Mendoza Relatio Legationis ſuæ ad Cæſariam Majeſtatem. Ad Arche-Ducem Auſtriæ, & Regem Poloniæ. Printed at Bruſſels in 1679. Nich. Anton. Bibl. Hiſp.

MENE, a Goddeſs, formerly Worſhipped by the Roman Women, and Maidens, as curing them of their Monthly Iſſue. She hath the Name from the Greek Word μὴν, a Month, or μήνη, the Moon; and ſome have taken her for the very Moon. S. Auguſtinus lib. 4. de Civit. Dei cap. 4.

MENEDEMUS, a Philoſopher, Son of one of Phedo's Diſciples, Native of Erythreum, lived in the CXXth. Olympiad, and An. Rom. 454, in great Eſteem, and high Employments in his own Country. King Antigonus ſending to him to come to a Drinking bout with him, he deſired to be Excuſed, and returned him this Anſwer, Remember thou art a Kings Son, and ought not to do any thing unworthy thy ſelf. To one that ask'd him, Whether a wiſe Man ſhould Marry? He made Anſwer, Do not you know I have a Wife. Another telling him, That it was a great Happineſs to have what we deſire: He ſaid, It was a greater not to deſire but what we have. 'Tis ſaid, he was very ſerviceable to his Country, and that he ſtarved himſelf to death, becauſe he could not prevail with Antigonus, to deſiſt from oppreſſing it. Strabo.

MENEDEMUS, a Cynick Philoſopher, Diſciple of Colotes of Lampſacum, was ſo extravagantly Superſtitious, that he pretended he was come out of Hell, to examine Men's Actions in order to give the Gods an Account of them. He wore a long, tawny-coloured Robe, which hung down to his Heels, a red Saſh about him, a kind of Turban on his Head, marked with twelve Letters, Buskins on his Feet, wore his Beard long, and carried a Stick, on which he reſted himſelf from time to time. Diogenes Laertius.

MENELAUS, the Brother of Agamemnon, King of Mycenæ, married Helena, whom Paris run away with; which occaſioned the Trojan War, as is obſerved elſewhere. See HELENA.

MENELAUS, Brother to Simon and Lyſimachus, was of the Tribe of Benjamin: He got the High Prieſt-hood, of which Jaſon was Depriv'd. This Jaſon had given the Ready for it, but Menelaus beat him at the ſame Weapon, and got his Poſt from him, by outbidding him at Rome, however not being able to make good the Payment according to Articles, his Brother Lyſimachus was made High-Prieſt. After this, Menelaus, being Reinforced in the Pocket, got into the Chair once again, and being complain'd of by Onias, for conveying away the Conſecrated Plate, he got that Good Man murthered by Andronicus. This wicked Menelaus was in Antiochus Epiphanes's Train, when he Prophan'd the Temple. But afterwards he was put to Death by Antiochus Eupator. Joſephus Lib. 12. Antiq. Jud. &c.

MENES, born at This, a Town of Thebais, in the Upper Egypt, was the Founder of the Egyptian Empire. He is ſaid to have had three Sons, that divided his Empire among themſelves. The Firſt was named Athotis, who Commanded after him at This and Thebes. The Second was Curudes, who had for his Portion all Lower Egypt, where he Eſtabliſhed the Kingdom of Heliopoli, which afterwards was the Kingdom of Dioſpoli. The Third was Necherophes, who Reigned at Memphis, between the Lower and Higher Egypt. Some Authors are of Opinion, That this Menes ſat upon the Throne 117 Years after the Birth of Phaleg, the Son of Heber, which was the very Year of the Diſperſion of the People throughout the whole Earth. He is ſaid to have built Memphis, and, that by a wonderful invention, he ſtopped the Nile near this Town, viz. by a Cauſey 100 Furlongs broad, and cauſed it to take another Courſe through the Mountains, through which it now runs. This Cauſey was kept with great care, by the Kings of Egypt, and they uſed to keep Guards upon it, leaſt it ſhould be ſpoiled. P. Pezron's Antiquity of Times, Marmol of Africk lib. 11.

MENESARCHUS, the Son of Pythagoras, kept his Father's School for a while, with his Brother Telauges. It is the Opinion of Euſebius in his Chronicles. But Diogenes Laertius ſaith, That Pythagoras had but one Son, who was this ſame Telauges. Diogenes Laërtius in vita Pythagoræ.

MENESTHEUS, or Mneſtheus, the Son of Peteos, He was King of Athens, and Conquered that Kingdom by the help of Caſtor and Pollux, who forced Theſeus out of it, An. Mun. 2864. He died in the Iſland Meloz, returning from the Trojan War, An. Mun. 2871. having Reigned Seven Years. Plutarch. in Theſ. Euſebius in Chron.

MENGRELIA: See Mingrelia.

MENGUS (Hieronymus) A Franciſcan, Living towards the End of the XVIth. Century, was a Learned Man, and wrote a Book, call'd Flagellum Dæmonum, to which he afterwards added a Second Part, call'd Fuſtis Dæmonum. It was Printed at Venice, 1587. See Poſſevin, &c.

MENIPPUS, a Cynick Philoſopher, was born a Slave in Phœnicia. He got, in a little time, wherewithal to purchaſe his liberty, and to make himſelf a Citizen of Thebes. From that time he became an Uſurer, for which infamous Trade, being laugh'd at and ſcorned by every body, out of ſhame and deſpair hanged himſelf. He compoſed thirteen Books full of Railery and Satyr; though others affirm, that theſe Books were none of his, but writ by Dionyſius and Zopyrus. Diogenes Laertius mentions ſeveral Greek Authors of that Name. The firſt had writ the Hiſtory of the Lydians, and abbreviated the Works of Xanthus; the ſecond was a Sophiſt of Caria; another was a Graver, and two were Painters.

MENIPPUS of Stratonica, a Town of Caria, was a famous Orator in his time. Plutarch and Strabo mention him with Commendation, as likewiſe Cicero, who owns Menippus for the firſt Man, and the moſt Eloquent of his Age; and, in a word, a true Attick Orator. Strabo lib. 14. Cicero in Bruto.

MENNAS, Patriarch of Conſtantinople in the VIth. Century, ſucceeded Anthymus in 536. He was Chief of the great Monaſtery, or Hoſpital of that City called Samſon, and Pope Agapet Ordained him, at the Requeſt of the Emperor Juſtinian. He called a Synod againſt the Origeniſts, in 536, and another in 538. But afterwards, his exceſſive Complaiſance with the Court, engaged him in the Sentiments of the Emperor, who publiſhed an Edict againſt the three Chapters, and Pope Vigilius blaming his Weakneſs, Excommunicated him. Mennas indeed owned his Fault, and died in the Communion of the Church, in 552. Evagrius lib. 4. Anaſtaſius, in vit. Pontif. Baronius in Annal.

MENNONITES, a certain Sect of Anabaptiſts in Holland, ſo called from one Mennon Simonis of Friſia, who livid in the XVIth. Century. The Proteſtants, as well as the Roman Catholicks, confuted them. Several Socinians joined with them. M. Stoupp explains their Doctrine thus, Mennon is not the firſt of the Anabaptiſts, but having rejected the Enthuſiaſms and Revelations of the firſt Anabaptiſts and their Opinions, touching the New Kingdom of Jeſus Chriſt, he ſet up other Tenets, which his Sectators hold to this time. They Believe, That the New Teſtament is the only Rule of our Faith, That the Terms of Perſon and Trinity are not to be uſed, in ſpeaking of the Father, Son and Holy Ghoſt, That the firſt Men were not Created Juſt, That there is no Original Sin, That Jeſus Chriſt had not his Fleſh from the Subſtance of his Mother Mary, but from the Eſſence of his Father, That it is not lawful for Chriſtians to Swear, or Exerciſe any Office of Magiſtracy, nor uſe the Sword to puniſh Evil-Doers, nor to wage War upon any Terms, That a Chriſtian may attain to the height of Perfection in this Life, That the Miniſters of the Goſpel ought to receive no Sallary, That Children are not to be Baptized, That the Souls of Men, after Death, reſt in an unknown place. In the mean time, theſe Mennonites are broken into ſeveral Diviſions, for very inconſiderable Reaſons. Many amongſt them have embraced the Opinions of the Socinians, or rather of Arians, touching the Godhead of Jeſus Chriſt, and they are all for Toleration in Religion; not thinking that they may lawfully debar from their Aſſemblies, any Man that leads a pious Life, and that owns the Scriptures for the Word of God. Theſe are called Galenites, and borrow their Name from a Phyſician of Amſterdam, called Galen. Some of them are called in Holland, Collegiates, becauſe they meet privately, and every one in their Aſſembly hath the Liberty to Speak, to Expound the Scriptures, to Pray, and to Sing. They that are truly Collegiates, are Unitarians. They never receive the Communion in their College, but they meet twice every Year, from all Parts of Holland at Rynsbourg, a Village about two Leagues off Leyden, where they receive the Sacraments; the firſt that ſits at the Table, may diſtribute it to the reſt, and all Sects are admitted, even the Roman Catholicks, if they would come. Stoupp's Religion of the Hollanders. See ANABAPTISTS.

MENOCHIUS, vulgarly called Menochio (James) a famous Lawyer, born at Pavia. He was of a mean Family, but he made it Illuſtrious by his Merit and Learning; for he became ſo Skilful in the Law, that he was commonly called the Baldus, and Bartholus of his Age. All the Princes of Italy, endeavoured to get him to read in their Univerſities. He read in Piedmont, then at Piſa, then at Padua, where he lived 23 Years together; but at laſt, the love of his Country brought him to Pavia, where he got the Profeſſor's Chair of Nicholas Gratiani, dead a little before. Philip II. King of Spain, ſhewed, on ſeveral Occaſions, the great Eſteem he had for Menochio, by making him firſt Councellor, then Preſident of the Council at Milan. He hath got an Immortal Fame by his Works; the moſt conſiderable are theſe, De recuperanda poſſeſſione, De adipiſcenda poſſeſſione, De præſumptionibus, De arbitrariis Judicum quæſtionibus & Cauſis Conciliorum, Tom. XIII, &c. James Menochio died Auguſt 10. 1607. Aged 75 Years. Thomaſini in Elog. Illuſt. P. 1. Lorenzo Craſſo, Elog. d'Huom. Letter. Ghilini, Thuanus, Riccioli, &c.

MENOCHIUS (John Stephen) born at Pavia, and Son to the famous James Menochius. He was bred to Learning; in which he made a conſiderable Progreſs. This Menochius afterwards turn'd Jeſuit, and had ſome of the beſt Poſts in Italy, belonging to his Order. His Works are, Hiero-politicon, ſeu Inſtitutionis Politicæ è Sacris Scripturis depromptæ, Lib. III. Inſtitutionis Oeconomicæ è Sacris Literis depromptæ, Lib. II. Brevis Explicatio ſenſus Literalis totius Scripturæ, Tom. II. De Republica Hebræorum, Lib. VIII. &c. Alegamb. Bibl. Script. Soc. Jeſ. Miræus de Script. Sæc. 17, &c.

MENOLOGY, that is, a Greek Calender, which anſwers to a Martyrology, wherein the Lives of the Saints in ſhort, or their Names only, are cited; and is different from what they call Μηναῖον, Menaion; which is like the Papiſt's Breviary. Leo Allat. 1. Diſſert. de lib. Eccleſ.

MENTEL, (John) a German Gentleman, born at Strasbourg, Invented the Art of Printing, about 1440, or 42, and at firſt made the Letters of Box, or Pear-Tree, afterwards of Pewter, and, at laſt, of Lead, Pewter, Braſs, and Antimony, mixt together. Gensfleich, his Servant, revealed his Maſter's Art to a Goldſmith, named Guttemberg; but the Emperor Frederick III. by Patent in 1466, declared Mentel the only Inventer of the Art, and permitted him to Crown the Lion in his Coat of Arms with Gold, and to add a Golden Crown, ſurmounted with a Bunch of ſtreight Feathers, to the Lion on the Creſt, which may be ſeen ſtill in his Poſterity's Coat of Arms. Jam. Mentel de vera Typographiæ origine 1650. Pariſiis.

MENTZ, Lat. Moguntia, Mogontiacum, a City of Germany of great Antiquity, ſituate upon the Rhine, 6 German Miles from Frankfort on the Main to the W. 18 from Treves, and 15 from Spire to the N. It derived its Name from the River Main, or Mein, which falls into the Rhine over againſt it. The ancienteſt City in that part of Germany, as having been certainly built before the Birth of our Saviour, being a City in the Times of Druſus, General of Auguſtus. In 745, it was made an Archbiſhop's See, inſtead of Worms, to which it was Suffragan before. It was very ſeverely treated by Frederick Ænobarbus, the Emperor, in 1158, bnt rebuilt and reſtored by Otho IV. In 1462, it was taken by Adolphus of Naſſaw, its Biſhop. Its Univerſity was opened in 1461. Guſtavus Adolphus entered it in Triumph in 1631. It was re-taken from the Swedes in 1635, but they took it the next Year after, and kept it till the Peace of Munſter. It claims the Invention of Printing, about 1430. Dr. Brown ſays, 'tis a ſtrong and guarded Place, adorned with Churches, Monaſteries, and other fair Buildings; but the narrowneſs of its Streets, and many old Houſes, take away from its Beauty. 'Tis moſt extended towards the River, and that part excels the other alſo towards the Land, as being more populous, and better built. Its Archbiſhop is Great Chancellor of the Empire, and the firſt of the Electoral College, in all Publick Conventions, he ſits at the right Hand of the Emperor. This City received a French Garriſon in 1688, but being beſieged by the Confederate Forces, under the Duke of Lorrain, it was ſurrendered September 11. 1689, after ſix or ſeven Weeks reſiſtance. There has been ſeveral Councils held at Mentz; one in the Reign of King Lewis the Debonnaire, who, in 828, ordered the convening of four Councils, which were held the Year following at Mentz, Paris, Lyons, and Toulouſe; Lewis confirm'dthe Decrees of theſe Four Councils in that of Worms, held the ſame Year. Rabanus Maurus, Archbiſhop of Mentz, held four Councils. The firſt of which met in October 847. The buſineſs treated, was the ſettling and ſecuring the Privileges of the Church. For the reſt, we refer the Reader to the Editions of the Councils. There are Forty two Canons in the Chapter of Mentz, of which, the Twenty four Seniors have the Right of chuſing the Archbiſhop, and by conſequence, of giving a Prince Elector to the Empire, who is afterwards confirm'd by the Pope and Emperor. By the latter Conſtitutions of this Church, no Man is qualified to be choſen Canon, unleſs he can prove himſelf a Gentleman of four Deſcents. In the Year 1695. March 30. The Elector and Archbiſhop of this City, Anſelm Francis Frederick de Angelheim departed this Life, being very old, after having held the Biſhoprick about 16 Years, and was ſucceeded in that and the Electorate, by Lothair Francis de Schonborn, his Co-adjutor and Biſhop of Bamberg.

MEPPEN, a fortified Town of Weſtphalia, on the little River Haſe, between Munſter and Embden, belonging to the Biſhop of Munſter.

MERCATOR (Gerard) one of the moſt famous Geographers of his time, born in 1512 at Ruremonde in the Low-Countries, ſo delighted in Mathematicks, that he neglected Eating and Sleeping. He compoſed a Chronology, ſome Geographical Tables, an Atlas, &c. beſides Divinity and Philoſophy Books. He engraved and coloured his Maps himſelf. He died in 1594. Voſſius de Scient. Math. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg.

MERCATOR, (Marius) an Eccleſiaſtical Writer, living in the Vth. Century, and Contemporary with St. Auguſtin. He wrote againſt the Neſtorians, Pelagians, &c. What Profeſſion he was of is not certain, though 'tis plain, he died before the ſitting of the Council of Chalcedon, held in 451, for otherwiſe he would not have treated Theodoret ſo ruggedly, who was receiv'd as an Orthodox Prelate by that Council. St. Auguſtin had a great Value for this Mercator, as appears by a Letter which he wrote to him, deſiring him if he knew of any Books lately publiſhed, to convey them to him. Si quid hinc abſolutum ac Definitum Diſputatione rationabili atque perfecta, vel audiſti, vel legiſti, vel etiam audire, vel legere aut excogitare potueris, peto mihi mittere non graveris; Ego enim, quod confitendum eſt charitati tuæ, plus amo dicere quam docere. Garnerius, the Jeſuit, has publiſh'd his Works from the Library of the Chapter of Beauvais.

MERCATRUDE, or Marcatrude, Gontran, King of Orleans's Second Wife, who being jealous of Venerande, poiſoned her Son Gombaut by Gontran; but ſoon after, by a juſt Judgment of God, loſt her own Son, and was Divorced. She died about 566, or 67. Gregor. Tur. lib. 4. cap. 24.

MERCAVA, a Word famous amongſt the Jews, to ſignify deep Speculations on the Nature of God and Spiritual Beings. It ſignifieth properly a Chariot, and has been taken out of Ezekiel's Viſion, where Chariots are often mentioned. Rabbi Juda, ſurnamed The Holy, Author of the Miſna, comprehends under the Name of the Work of Mercava, the Three Viſions, viz. That of the Wheels, Of the Beaſts, and, Of the Man, according as they are written in Ezekiel. R. Moſes alſo underſtands by Mercava, the high Myſteries of the Creation, underſtood only by wiſe Men, and not to be expounded to common People. M. Simon.

MERCER, an Anabaptiſt in the XVIIth. Century, kept Priſoner in England, for publiſhing his Errors, viz. That Baptiſm is a Prophane Invention; That Regneration is to be received by the Adult only. Walter Chron. S. 17. cap. 20.

MERCIA, the Name of a large Kingdom of Britain, in the time of the Heptarchy; large in compariſon to the reſt, for it contained no leſs than 16 Counties, beſides part of Hartfordſhire, as may be ſeen under the Word Heptarchy. It took the Name of Mercia, from the Word Meare, ſignifying a Bound, or Limit; this Kingdom being, in a manner, bounded by all the reſt of the Saxon Kingdoms.

MERCIER, Lat. Mercerus (John le) born at Uzez in Languedoc. Died in 1570. Thuanus ſaith, That he was the moſt Learned in Hebrew, that ever was amongſt the Chriſtians. His Comments on many Books of the Bible, are much eſteemed. Joſias le Mercier, his Son, was famous alſo for his Learning and Works, being a conſiderable Critick, the beſt of his Performances of this kind, are his Nonius Marcellus, which he has very exactly corrected. He wrote Notes likewiſe upon Ariſtenetus, Tacitus, Dictys Cretenſis, and upon Apuleius's Book, De Deo Socratis, &c. St. Marth. in Elog. Doct. Gall. lib. 2. Thuan. Hiſt. lib. 3. Le Mire, &c.

MERCOEUR, a little Town of Auvergne in France, honoured with the Title of Dukedom. King Charles IX. erected it into a Principality in 1563, and afterwards into a Dukedom and Peerdom in 1569, and it gave its Name to the Ancient and Noble Houſe of Mercoeur, or Mercueil. M. M. Juſtel, S. Marthe, Du Cheſne, Du Bouchet, Du Puy, &c.

MERCURIALE, the Name of an Aſſembly of the Parliament of Paris, held the firſt Wedneſday after St. Martin's Holy-day, and the firſt Wedneſday after Eaſter-Week; where the firſt Preſident, and one of the Attorneys-General, ſpeak againſt the Cheats and Diſorders in the Adminiſtring of Juſtice. This Word is alſo taken for the Diſcourſe, made that Day on that Subject. Thence Mercuriale is taken for a publick Reprimand. Memoirs du Temps.

MERCURIALIS, (Jerome) born at Forli in Italy, in the XVIth. Century. He was an Eminent Phyſician, and a General Scholar. His Writings are, Six Books, De Arte Gymnaſtica, which gain'd him great Reputation. His other Works were in his Profeſſion, i. e. De Componendis Medicamentis. De Venenis, & Morbis Venenoſis. De Morbis Puerorum. De Morbis Cutaneis. De Morbis Oculorum & Aurium. De Cognoſcendis noſcendis & curandis Humani Corporis Affectibus, Lib. V. Hippocratis Opera Omnia, Græcè & Latinè Edita & Scholiis Illuſtrata. Galeni Opera Latine converſa & emendata, &c. Thomaſini in Elog. Doct. Caſtilan in Vit. Illuſt. Medic. Ghilini Teat. de Huom. Letter. &c.

MERCURY, a Heathen God, Son of Jupiter by Maia. They commonly diſtinguiſh three other Mercury's; but they are not different from Maia's Son. He was the God's Meſſenger, having Wings at his Heels, and a Caduceus in his Hand. He conducted the Souls of the Deceaſed into Hell, and had Power to take them out again. He was the God of Eloquence and Merchandice. By Jupiter's Order he play'd the hundred Ey'd Argos aſleep, and afterwards kill'd him. He likewiſe ſtole Apollo's Oxen, which he kept for Admetus. Mercury alſo turn'd Battus into a Touch-ſtone, and perform'd a great many other Exploits. Mercury is alſo one of the Seven Planets. Ovid. Metam. Heſiod. Homer. Natal. Comes, &c.

MERCURY, Named by the Gracians Triſmegiſtus, that is, Three Times Great, becauſe Prieſt, King, and Philoſopher, was an Egyptian, lived after Moſes, and invented divers Arts. Cicero and Lactantius ſay, That there were five great Men of that Name, and that this was the laſt. Merſilius Ficinus makes him Atlas's Nephew; and, according to St. Auſtin, he was a Magician. His Works are loſt, and the Two Dialogues, i. e. his Poemander and Aſclepius, attributed unto him, are not his. St. Auſtin lib. 8. c. 23. De Civit. Dei. Strabo l. ib. Cauſabon. Marſil. Ficin. Genebrard. Chron. &c.

MERE, a Market-Town in Wiltſhire, the Capital of its Hundred.

MERIDA, a Town of New Caſtile in Spain, on the River Guadiana, Lat. Emerita Auguſta, conſiderable formerly, but ruined now. Its Metropolitan See was transferr'd in 1124, by Calliſtus II. to St. James of Compoſtella in Galicia. The Moors were turned out of Merida in 1230, and the Knights of St. James's of the Sword, truſted with it. There is a Caſtle, where the Magnificence of the Ancients is admired, in the Ruins of a Triumphal Arch, ſome Aqueducts, &c. Ambroſius. Morales Antiq. de las Cividad. de Eſpanna. Mariana. Nonius, &c.

MERIDA, a Town and Biſhoprick of New Spain, or Mexico, in the Province of Jucatan, in the Northern America, ſo named becauſe of the Ancient Buildings found there, like thoſe of Merida in Spain. It is ſituated towards the Gulph of Mexico. Bernardin de Lizana's Hiſtory of the Province of Jucatan.

MERIDIAN, a Circle of the Sphere paſſing from South to North, under which all People have Noon at the ſame time. Geographers uſe Meridians to mark the Longitudes, that is, to ſhew how much one Place is more Eaſtern or Weſtern than another, taking the length of the World from Eaſt to Weſt; and to have a fixed Term, they ſettle a firſt Meridian from whence they begin to reckon the Longitudes, drawing from Weſt to Eaſt. Moſt Geographers have choſen the Canary Iſlands, in the Weſt of Africa, for the firſt Meridian. The Dutch make it paſs through Teneriff Iſland, and the Cape Verd, and the French through the Weſt part of the Iſland of Iron, more Weſterly, as Ptolemy did, which makes a difference of 2 Decrees, 44 Minutes. The Portugueſe have ſettled their firſt Meridian, about 10 Degrees beyond that, viz. Through Tercere, one of the Azores towards America; becauſe, as they ſay, the Needle touched with a Load-ſtone (which varieth and declineth almoſt every where elſe) in Tercere Iſland, directly points to the North. Thoſe that read Voyages, muſt take Notice of the diverſity of thoſe firſt Meridians, to judge of Longitudes, and to know the diſtance of Places in reſpect of Eaſt and Weſt. Concerning the Portugueſe's firſt Meridian, we muſt obſerve that they did chuſe Tercere Iſland, for this Reaſon, as it is reported; after the firſt Diſcovery of the Eaſt and Weſt-Indies, about the end of the XVth. Century, Ferdinand V. King of Caſtile, and John II. King of Portugal, made a Treaty, by which it was agreed, That they ſhould enjoy their new Conqueſts, each in an Hemiſphere, viz. The Portugueſe in the Ancient Continent, and the Spaniards in the New; ſo that the Spaniards ſhould take their Courſe towards the Weſt, to go into America; and the Portugueſe towards the Eaſt, to go to the Indies, beginning at the firſt Meridian, fixed in the Iſland of Fer, the moſt Weſterly of the Canaries. That Treaty was Confirmed by Pope Alexander VI. provided they would endeavour to eſtabliſh the Catholick Religion there. Nevertheleſs the Portugueſe, ſometime after, deſiring to have ſome part in America, complained of this Diviſion, and would have the firſt Meridian fixed in the Iſland of Tercere, which gave them occaſion to Conquer Braſil; but the changing of the Meridian, took away from them their Right to the Philippine and Molucca Iſlands, which were without Conteſt in their Hemiſphere, keeping Ptolemy's firſt Meridian. Hornius orb. Imper. Others ſay, That Magellan being diſpleaſed with the King of Portugal, went to Charles V. King of Spain, and perſuaded him to take the Molucca Iſlands, which he affirmed to be in the Spaniards Share, moving the firſt Meridian forward Weſterly to the Iſland of Tercere, where it ought to be, becauſe the Needle of the Mariner's Compaſs, points directly towards the North in that place, without declining towards Eaſt or Weſt. Memoirs Scavans.

MERINDOL, a famous Place, for being the Vaudois's Retreat, ſituate on the Borders of the Earldom of Venaiſſin in Provence. They were alſo ſettled in the Borough of Cabriers, in the ſame County, and in ſome Villages thereabouts, where they mightily increaſed, profeſſing their Anceſtor's Religion. But the Proteſtants appearing in France, and the Vaudois joining with them, King Francis I. Iſſued out a ſevere Edict againſt them, in 1535. To avoid the Execution, they ravaged the Valleys, and ſeized upon the Caſtles, and ſtrong Places in the Mountains. Then the King Commanded the Parliament of Aix to Exterminate them, which accordingly Condemned 19 Vaudois to be burnt alive, and Ordered all the Houſes of Merindol to be demoliſhed, as well as all their Caſtles and Forts. The Vaudois defending themſelves reſolutely, the King promiſed to pardon all thoſe that would Abjure their Religion, and Commanded Grignan, his Lieutenant in Provence, to gather his Forces, and deſtroy them. But inſtead of Abjuring, they went into Provence, breaking Images, and burning what Crucifixes they could find, and being near 16000, they deſigned to take Marſeilles. Then Grignan receiving new Orders in 1545, raiſed Soldiers, and called the Ban and Arrier-ban to march againſt the pretended Rebels, who retired into Woods, and inacceſſible Rocks; but the Old, and Infirm People, Women and Children, left behind in Towns and Villages, were put to the Sword, and all the Houſes burnt down; Merindol, Cabriers, Cavaillon, and other Places, were deſtroyed, and the People Maſſacred; the reſt of the Vaudois were ſtarved in the Woods, the ſtrongeſt only excepted, who retired to Geneva, and the Proteſtant Cantons. Three Thouſand periſhed in this occaſion; 600 of the ſtrongeſt Men were ſent to the Gallies, and 900 Houſes burnt down in 24 Villages in Provence. Some Hiſtorians affirm, That Francis I. a little before his Death, charged his Son Henry II. to examine the Buſineſs of Merindol, and ſee that Juſtice ſhould be done; and this Prince referred it to the Parliament of Paris, in 1551. See OPPEDE. Maimbourgs Hiſt. du Calviniſm.

MERINS, the Name of the Fifth Race of the Kings of Fez in Africa, which began to Reign in 1210. Muhamede Enazir, King of Fez, left Ten Sons, who deſtroyed themſelves by their Diviſions, giving occaſion to the Governors of Provinces, to uſurp an abſolute Power. During thoſe Diſorders, the Merins turned the Almohades out of the Kingdom of Fez, which they poſſeſſed till 1420. They took only the Title of Prince at firſt, and that of King afterwards, in 1269. Haſcenes Cheriff having killed the laſt of that Family, uſurped the Royal Authority, a Year; but was Dethroned by the Oataſſens. Hornius Orb. Imper.

MERIONES, Son to Molus, and Brother of Dictys Cretenſis, who wrote the Trojan War. He was Idomineus's Charioteer, and has the Character of a good Soldier by Homer and Horace.

MERIONETHSHIRE, Lat. Mervina, or according to late Writers, Merionethenſis Comitatus, is a Maritime County of North Wales; bounded on the N. with Carnavan and Denbighſhires, on the S. with Cardiganſhire, from which it is parted by the Dovy, Eaſtward with Montgomeryſhire, and Weſtward with the Iriſh Sea. Its Length from N. to S. 36 Miles, the Breadth from E. to W. 28. The whole divided into 6 Hundreds, wherein are 37 Pariſhes, and three Market-Towns, anciently inhabited by the Ordovices, poſſeſſed of N. Wales, and now in the Dioceſs of Bangor. This is a very Mountainous County, not much commended either for Pleaſure or Profit, and the Hills ſo very high, that according to Giraldus Cambrenſis, Men may diſcourſe one with the other on the Tops thereof, and yet hardly meet beneath in a Day's time. Beſides the Dovy, which riſes and falls in this Shire, the Dee has its Riſe here, and many others of leſs Note. In the N. E. Parts of this County, is a noted Meer, called Pimble Meer. As for the Natives, Cambden commends them for their Beauty and Comelineſs. The Market-Towns are, Herleck, Dolgelhe, and Bala.

MERKS (Thomas) Biſhop of Carliſle, living in the Reigns of Richard II. and Henry IV. was a Perſon of great Courage and Reſolution, as appears by that remarkable Speech, he made in the Houſe of Lords, in the behalf of King Richard, after his Forc'd Reſignation, and the Coronation of Henry IV. where amongſt other things he told the Lords, "That in "England, the King was the Supream Power, that neither "any ſingle Magiſtrate, nor all of them together have any "Authority over the Prince, from whom all Authority and "Juriſdiction is deriv'd. What Subject (ſays he) can Aſ"ſiſt, or Counſel, or ſo much as Conceal the knowledge "of Violence againſt his Prince, without Unfaithfulneſs "and Treaſon? Againſt whom, the very Intention and De"ſign, though unexecuted, is ſufficient to make a Man a "Traytor; nay, Madneſs, which goes for a ſort of Inno"cence, and is a Protection in all other Caſes, is puniſhable "in this. Does the King (continues he) Command any thing "contrary to the Laws of God? Why then, we muſt neither " wholly Obey, nor violently Reſiſt, but with a Religious " Fortitude ſubmit to all manner of Severity, and ſhew our " Subjection by Suffering, and not Performing: Indeed, the " Church has declar'd it no leſs than Hereſy, to affirm, That " a Prince may be Slain or Depos'd by his Subjects, for any " Miſcarriages or Diſorders either in Life or Government: " There will be faults as long as there are Men, and as we " are Patient under unſeaſonable Weather and Scarcity, when " it ſo happens; ſo are we obliged to acquieſce under the " Miſmanagement of our Governors, till it pleaſes God either " to Change or Reform them. As for King Richard's Reſignation, ſays he, it was an Act of Compulſion and Force, " and therefore of no force to bind him: And as for the " Right of Conqueſt, which is mainly pretended; I would " gladly know what Conqueſt can a Subject make upon his " Sovereign, where the War is Inſurrection, and the Victory, High-Treaſon? The reſt of his Speech to this purpoſe, is too long to be inſerted. Truſſel. Hiſt. in the Life of Henry IV. &c.

MERLIN born in Carmarthen in Wales, lived towards the End of the Vth. Century. He is ſaid to be the Son of an Incubus, and that his pretended Prophecies were the effects of Magick. Geoffrey of Monmouth has tranſlated a Tract of this Author, and inſerted it in his Hiſtory, upon which account he is rallied by Polydore and others for his Credulity; however if the Prophecies of Merlin, had been the Writings of a Magician, 'tis very improbable that Alanus de Inſulis a very Learned and vertuous man would have writ Notes upon them. Leland. Bayle, Cambden Brit. Speed.

MERMEROE, a Perſian Captain, who having ſpent his Youth in Wars, and being not able to Walk in his old Age, was carried about in a Litter to give Advice, and to be an Example to the Soldiers. After death, his Corps was expoſed in the Fields, in hopes it would quickly be devoured by Dogs, or Wild Beaſts, which was to them, a certain Proof of their Predeſtination; as they believed, That thoſe that were not devoured, were Reprobates. Agathias de bello Gothorum.

MERMNADES, a Dynaſty, or Race of the Kings of Lydia, begun by Gyges about An. Mun. 3340, An. Rom. 40. Continued till Crœſus's Defeat, An. Rom. 210. See LYDIA. Herodotus lib. 1. or Clio. Euſeb. in Chron. Pliny lib. 35. cap. 8.

MERODACH, or Berodach (Baladan) King of Babylon, named Mardokempade, by Ptolemy, Son of another Baladan, reputed The Nabonaſſar of the Prophane, began his Reign An. Mun. 3332, or 33. He ſent ſome Ambaſſadors with rich Preſents to Hezekiah, King of Judah, to Congratulate the Recovery of his Health, and be informed of the famous Miracle by Iſaiah the Prophet, who made the Sun go 10 Degrees backward on Ahaz's Dial. After that, Merodach took Manaſſes, King of Judah, Priſoner, and carried him in Chains to Babylon, An. Mun. 3344. and An. Rom. 44. The Year after he conquered Aſſyria, and Defeated Arphaxad, King of Media, who is taken for Arbianees, Dejoce's Father. Merodach Reigned 42, or, as others ſay, 52 Years.

☞ Authors diſagree about this King of Babylon, ſome making him Nebuchadnezzar the Great's Father, or Grand-father. Others, the King of Nineve, of that name, mentioned in the Book of Judith, which is not likely. For this Merodach Baladan, was Succeeded by Ben Merodach, and he, by Nebuchadnezzar the Ancient, named by Beroſus, and others, Nabopolaſſar, and he again by Nebuchadnezzar the Great, Evilmerodach's Father, and Balthazar's Grandfather; which the inquiſitive Reader may ſee more fully in the following Authors. Euſeb. in Chron. & lib. 2. *præp. MEROE, an Iſland of Upper Æthiopia, in the River Nile. Modern Authors are of another Opinion, and Voſſius in his Diſſertation concerning the Head of that River, ſpeaks thus, The Ancients, ſay he, knew not Meroë well, when they took it for an Iſland, ſince Nile, makes no Iſland in Æthiopia. And truly if the Ancients were miſtaken in the Situation of divers Places of Æthiopia, it was chiefly in what they ſaid of the Iſland and Town of Meroë, which they remove far from the Arabick Gulph. Neither do I approve the Opinion of thoſe who think the Kingdom of Gaiama, and the Town of Meroë, to be the ſame thing. All the Ancients agree in this, that Ptolemais, (which is Mazua) and the Town of Meroë, are under the ſame Parallel. As for Aſtraboras, or the River that runs by Meroë, towards the Eaſt, it is Mareb, or Marabo. And for Meroë it ſelf, which according to Ptolemy, was in the Northern part of the Iſland, though it be above Seventy Thouſand Paces from it towards the South, according to Pliny, and others, I don't doubt, but it is the Town called Beroa or Baroa, and by miſtake Batua.

MEROPE, one of the Seven Pleiades mentioned by Ovid, Faſt. lib. 4. Atlas's Daughter by Pleione. She is darker than the reſt, becauſe as the Ancients ſay, ſhe married a Man, viz. Siſyphus; her Siſters having Gods for their Huſbands.

MEROVEANS, or Merovingians, a Name given to the Kings of France of the Firſt Race, which began in 420, in Pharamond, who was ſucceeded by Clodion, and afterwards by Merovée, and ended with Childeric III. in 751. They reckon 21 Kings of that Family.

MEROVEE, or Merouee, King of France, ſucceeded Clodion the Hairy in 448. He joined with Aëtius, General of the Romans, and Theodoric, King of the Wiſigoths, againſt Attila, who named himſelf God's Plague. They defeated him near Orleans, and killed above 200000 of his Men, in 451. Afterwards Merouee inlarged his Dominions from the River Somme, far into the Country of the Second Belgium, and Firſt Germany, coming near the Rivers Seine, Marne, Meuſe and Moſelle. His great Actions, Conduct and Valour were ſuch, that the Kings of France of the Firſt Race, took from him the Name of Merovingians. He died about 457, or 458.

☞ We know nothing certainly of his Age, nor his Wife, and Children; only that Childeric, his Succeſſor, was his Son. Nevertheleſs it is probable, that Merouee was Clodion's Son. Gregor. Turon. l. 2. c. 7. Priſcus 1. T. Hiſt. Bizant. Proſper. in Chron. Aimon, Valois, &c.

MEROVEE, Chilperic I's Second Son by Andovere, a fine and hopeful Prince, but unhappy. Being charmed by Brunehaut, he married her without his Father's Conſent, who cauſed him to be Shaved, and ſent into St. Calez's Abby, whence he eſcaped, and retired to St. Martin of Tours. Afterwards he went to Brunehaut in Auſtraſia, where the Inhabitants condemning his Conduct, he reſolved to withdraw, but was killed by Galien, his Favourite, in 577. Gregor. Tur. l. 5. c. 13. Marius in Chron. Mezeray, Valois, &c.

MEROVEE, Son of Thierry II. King of Burgundy and Auſtraſia. Clotaire II. ſaved him from being murthered, like his Brethren and brought him up ſecretly in Neuſtria, but he died ſoon after.

MERRION (Lord) See Fitz William.

MERSBOURG, Lat. Martiopolis, or Merſeburgum, a Town of Miſnia in Germany, on the River Yſſel, with a Biſhoprick.

MERSBOURG, another Town of Swabia in Germany, on the Lake of Conſtance, now the Reſidence of the Biſhop of Conſtance.

MERSENNUS (Marin) a French Minime Friar, much eſteemed by Carteſius, famous for his Learning and Works; as Quæſtiones celebres in Geneſin; Cogitata Phyſico-Mathematica Tom. III. La verité des Sciences, &c. He died in 1648. See his Life by Hilarion de Coſta.

MERSEY, a Cheſhire River, has its Riſe upon the Borders of this County, and Yorkſhire, from whence it takes its Courſe Weſtward, dividing moſt part of its way the County of Lancaſter from Cheſhire, and falls at laſt with a wide Mouth into the Iriſh Sea. The principal Places it Waters in its Courſe, are Stopford in Cheſhire, Warrington and Leverpool in the County of Lancaſter.

MERVIN, Prince of Powiſland in Wales, was the youngeſt Son of Rhoderick, ſurnamed The Great, King of Wales, who dividing his Kingdom amongſt his three Sons, Ameraud, Cadel and Mervin, beſtowed that Part of it called Powiſland on Mervin, who, being a Prince of great Valour, was looked upon as the fitteſt of the three to have his Portion on the very Borders; Powiſland contained the whole Counties of Montgomery and Radnor, all Shropſhire beyond the Severn, with the Town of Shrewsbury, and part of Denbigh and Flintſhires, which Eſtate continued in Mervin's Line, a long time together; but was much diſmembred by the Earl of Cheſter and Shrewsbury, who took from it a good part of Flint, Denbigh and Shropſhire, and it was alſo diſmembred by the Princes of N. Wales. At laſt, Owen ap Gryffth, of the Line of Mervin, ſurrendred his Eſtate and Title to King Edward I. at a Parliament holden in Shrewsbury, and received them of the King again, to be holden in Capite, and free Baronage, according to the Cuſtom of England. Then it paſſed by Marriage to the Charletons, and from them to the Greys, Edward being the laſt of the Line, after whom the Title lay Extinct, till revived again in the Perſon of Sir William Herbert of Red-Caſtle, Created Lord Powis, by King Charles I. An. 1629, whoſe Deſcent was from the Herberts, Earls of Pembroke.

MERULA (Paul) born at Dort in Holland, a famous Lawyer, Hiſtorian and Linguiſt; having Travelled all France, Italy, Germany and England, to Converſe with the Learned Men of thoſe Countries. He was choſen Profeſſor of Hiſtory in the Univerſity of Leyden, after Juſtus Lipſius, in which Station, he publiſhed the Fragments of Ennius, with Commentaries upon them; the Lives of Eraſmus and Junius, with a Coſmography in three Books; a Treatiſe of Law, &c. and died in 1607. Valer. Andr. &c.

MERULA (George) born at Alexandria de la Paille, in the Dutchy of Milan, in the XVIth. Century. He was a great Scholar, and much eſteemed by Eraſmus, Hermolaus Barbarus, and others; he publiſh'd a Hiſtory of the Viſcounts of Milan in Twelve Books. The Deſcription of Veſuvius. Notes upon Martial, Statius, Juvenal, Varro & Columella, Epiſtles, &c. Paul. Jov. in Elog. Doct. cap. 37. Voſſius Lib. 3. de Hiſt. Lat. &c.

MESHA, a King of the Moabites, was beſieged in his Chief Town by Jehoram, Son of Ahab, King of Iſrael, to whom he owed, and refuſed to pay, an Annual Tribute of 100000 Lambs, and 100000 Sheep. Being preſſed to Surrender, he appeared on the Walls, where he himſelf Sacrificed his own Son before his Enemies, who, full of Indignation for this Cruelty, raiſed the Siege, and retired.

☞ Obſerve, That R. Solomon, and his followers, explaining the Hebrew Word Beno, by Filium ejus, inſtead of Filium ſuum, ſay, That he was not Meſha's Son, but the King of Edom's Son, who ſerved Iſrael, and had been taken in a Sally; and that aſſoon as the King of Edom ſaw, that Meſha out of Deſpair, was going to Sacrifice his Son, he retired with his Army to ſave his life; but to no purpoſe, the Deſire of Revenge prevailing in Meſha's Mind. But moſt Interpreters not approving this Interpretation, attribute the raiſing of this Siege to the Indignation againſt the King of Iſrael who was the Cauſe of this Sacrifice. 4 Kings c. 3. Cornel. à Lap. Emanuel, Eſtius, Ficinus.

MESIA, or Moeſia, a Province of Illyria, named by the Romans, Ceres's Granary, becauſe of its Fertility. It was divided into the higher Mœſia where Servia is now, and the Lower, were Bulgaria is. Tacitus and Pliny mention it.

MESMES, is a Caſtle, and an Eſtate in the Dioceſs of Bazas in France. It gave its Name, as it is reported, to the Family of Meſmes, which having produced, during 400 Years, many Illuſtrious Soldiers, has been famous alſo for many Great Laywers and Magiſtrates.

MESMES, the Name of a French Family, that came Originally out of Scotland, according to ſome Authors, and ſettled in Guienne, in King Philip Auguſtus's Reign. The Count d' Avaux, lately Ambaſſador, and Plenipotentiary at Nimeguen, was of that Family. Thuan. hiſt. Duplex. hiſt.

MESOPOTAMIA, a Country in Aſia, formerly a conſiderable part of the Aſſyrian Empire, between Euphrates and Tigris, as the Name given it by the Græcians imports. It is named now Aſamia, and Diarbeck; its Towns are Aſanchif, Orpha, Camarit, Merdin and Herran. Its ſituation makes the Arabians (like the Græcians) call it Al-Gezira, that is, Iſland; as the Hebrews, Aram-Naharajim, the Syria of the two Rivers, for the ſame Reaſon. There the Biſhops of Meſopotamia held a Council in Pope Victor I's Reign. Pliny lib. 2. cap. 26. Strabo lib. 11. Ptolemæus, &c.

MESRAIM, or Meſtraim, or Miſraim, or Mitzraim, Son of Cham, and Noah's Grandſon. Many think, that Cham ſettled in Egypt, therefore called in the Bible, The Land of Cham; but if he did not go thither, Miſraim took poſſeſſion of that Inheritance left him by his Father Cham, or by his Grandfather Noah; for that reaſon, the Country of Nile is named The Land of Miſraim, in holy Writ. Syncellus ſaith, that ſince Egypt was inhabited by Miſraim, it was called ſo by the Hebrews, Syrians and Arabians; thence the firſt Children of that Man, whom the Egyptians have conſidered, as their Hero, are called Meſtreans, in their ancient Chronicles. And beſides, we find in the Bible, That from this Miſraim, the firſt Poſſeſſor of Egypt, are deſcended all the Different People that have Inhabited that, and the neighbouring Countries, as the Ludians of Moſes, that is, The Æthiopians; the Pathruſians, or the People of Thebais; the Leabians, or Libyans, near the Higher Egypt, towards the W. of Nile; the Anameans, reputed to be the Ammonites; and the Naſamones. The time of this going into Egypt, is uncertain; but it was likely in the Patriarch Heber's time, about 430 Years after the Flood. Some ſay, Meſraim Reigned in Egypt, under the Name of Pharaoh, when Abraham retired thither; but Herodotus, Manetho, Euſebius, &c. are againſt it, affirming, that Menes was the firſt that took the Name of Pharaoh, which his Succeſſors had likewiſe. So it ſhould follow, that Meſraim, and Menes, were two Names of the ſame Perſon. Meſraim dead, was adored like a God, under the Names of Oſiris, Apis, or Serapis, and Adonis. Thoſe that believe that Cham went into Egypt, ſay, That after his death, he was honoured like a God, and named Hammon, or Jupiter Hammon. *Syncell. in Chronograph. Read Pauſanias, who diſtinguiſheth thoſe two Wars, which Juſtin ſeems to join into one. The Meſſenians went into Meſſina. See MESSINA. There was alſo the Gulph of Meſſena, called by Sophian, Golfo di Coron, and by Seamen, Golpho di Calamata.

MESSINA, a Town of Sicily, with a good Port, and an Arch-biſhoprick, Lat. Meſſana, called formerly Zanclé. It is reported, That the Fort of Mount Ira, being taken by the Lacedæmonians, from the Meſſenians, theſe laſt ſaved themſelves by flight into Sicily, An. Rom. 84. and ſettled at Zancle, which they called Meſſenia. Others relate this differently, The Mamertines conquered Meſſina, and being attacked by the Carthaginians, were Aſſiſted by the Romans, which was the beginning of the firſt Punick War, that continued 24 Years to An. Rom. 513. This Town became afterwards a Roman Colony; the Saracens took it in 1058. Meſſina was always the moſt famous Town of Sicily. Its ſituation is pleaſant, partly on Hills, and partly in the Plain, repreſenting an Amphitheater, in the middle of which is the Port, 1000 Paces long, bordered with a Key, Fac'd with Free-ſtones, and Adorned with fine Houſes. The Trade, chiefly of Silks, incicheth the Town. Its Fare and Canal is the Paſſage for all Ships coming from the Eaſt. The Town is ſtrong, Adorned with ſtately Churches and Houſes. St. Mary the New, whoſe Porch and Pavement are of Marble of different Colours, where are fourteen Marble Statues, a Vault painted, and the Tabernacle for the Hoſt of Gold, &c. is worth the ſeeing. The Spaniard's ſevere Government made them Rebel, in 1671. Meſſina has produced many great Men, as Dicearcus, Symmachus, Ibicus, Lycus, &c. Antonello da Meſſina, a Painter in the XVth. Century, who having learn'd of John de Bruges in Flanders to paint in Oyl, carried the Receipt into Italy, where before this time they us'd to Paint only in Freſco and Water Colours. Strabo l. 6. Pliny l. 6. c. 8. *Placido Rayna Memor. METAMORPHISTS, or Transformers, a Name given in the XVIth. Century to thoſe Sacramentarians, who affirmed, that the Body of Jeſus Chriſt aſcended into Heaven, is wholly Deified. Prateol or du Preau.

METANGISMONITES, Hereticks ſo named from the Greek ἀγγεῖον, that is, A Veſſel, who ſay, that the Word is in his Father, as one Veſſel in another. The Author of this Opinion is unknown. St. Auſtin hær. 58. Caſtrodeus hær. 6. Prateol. 5. Metangiſm.

METAPHRASTES: See Simeon Metaphraſtes.

METAPONTUM, a Town of the Ancient Lucania in Italy, now call'd Torra di Mare.

METELINO, an Iſland of the Ægæan Sea in Aſia, the Lesbos of the Ancients. The Name of its Chief Town was given unto it. There are two conſiderable Ports. Formerly it was under the Venetians, but now under the Turks, to whom it payeth a Tribute of 18000 Piaſters. Its Revenue conſiſts in Corn, Fruit and Cheeſe. The circuit of this Iſland is an Hundred and Forty Miles; Its principal City is Metelino, which is ſeated on the Eaſt ſide of the Iſland, and is an Arch-Biſhops See; It has likewiſe two other Cities which are Biſhopricks, that is, Gerema and Calons.

METHODIUS, call'd Eubulius, was a Biſhop and Martyr, in the IIId. Century. He ſuffered under the Emperours Diocleſian and Maximian. His See, as ſome ſay, was at Patara in Lycia, from whence he was Tranſlated to Tyre. He wrote againſt Porphyry and Origen, but that Treatiſe is loſt. However Father Combeſis has publiſh'd his Book, De Libero Arbitrio. De Reſurrectione, De Caſtitate, and two Homilies, &c. Photius Cod. 234, 235, &c. St. Jerom in Catal. cap. 83. Ep. 84. ad Magnum Orat. & Apol. ad Pamach. Bellarmin. Baronius, &c.

METHODIUS I. Patriarch of Conſtantinople in the IXth. Century, a zealous Defender of Images, by the Emperor Theophilus's Orders was beaten, and ſhut up in a Well, where he was allowed nothing but Bread and Water to live upon. Theophilus being dead Michael III. ſucceeded him, whoſe Mother and Guardianeſs reſtored Methodius to his Patriarchate, in 842. And ſoon after he called a Council to reſtore Images. He was Charged by his Enemies, with having debauch'd a Woman; but he clear'd himſelf to ſatisfaction, and died in 847. Cedren. Hincmar, Baronius, &c.

METHODIUS, a Greek Monk, and a good Painter, was imployed by Bogoris, King of Bulgaria, to draw terrible Objects, which he loved to behold, repreſented the laſt judgment ſo terrible, that Bogoris being frighted, reſolved to imbrace Chriſtianity, and was Chriſtned in 845. Maimbourg hiſt. des Iconoclaſtes.

METIUS, (Adrian) a Mathematician, born at Alcmaër in Holland, famous for his Works in the XVIth. and XVIIth. Century. His Brother James Metius invented the Proſpective Glaſſes, which made Objects at a diſtance appear near. He preſented one of them to the States General in 1608. *Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg. METRA, Daughter of Eryſichthon, a Theſſalian Lord, proſtituted her ſelf to ſatisfy her Father's prodigious Hunger, and there being no Gold nor Silver then, ſhe received of her Lovers, an Ox, an Horſe, a Sheep, or ſome other Beaſts, which made the Poets ſay, ſhe took ſeveral Shapes, and that being loved by Neptune, he had given her the Faculty to Transform her ſelf as ſhe pleaſed. Ovid lib. 8. Metamorph.

METRODORUS, a famous Architect, about An. Ch. 327. He was born in Perſia, and embraced Chriſtianity. He went to the Indies, where he got a great Name, and conſiderable Riches. Cedrenus obſerves, That he perſuaded the Emperor Conſtantine, to make War with the King of Perſia, that he might deliver the Chriſtians there from Perſecution. Cedrenus Hiſt. compend.

METROPHANES, (Critopulus) a Greek Author, who drew up a Confeſſion of Faith of the Greek Church, publiſh'd by the Proteſtants in Germany, 'twas printed in Greek and Latin at Helmſtadt, in 1661. The famous Cyrillus Lucarius, Patriarch of Conſtantinople, being deſirous to be perfectly inform'd of the Condition and Sentiments of the Proteſtant Churches of Europe, order'd this Metrophanes to go into England, and make a thorough Enquiry into the Doctrine and Circumſtances of that Church. Critopulus debarking at Hamburgh, travell'd over part of Germany, and in this Country it was, that he drew up his Confeſſion of Faith, which the Supplement to Morery owns, is agreeable to the Reformation in ſeveral Points. This Author makes it his buſineſs to ſet the Senſe of his Church in a clear Light, and argues like an Able Divine, and a Perſon of good Senſe. Hornius tranſlated it into Latin. There is an Epiſtle placed at the Head of the Book, by Coringius, where he dilates upon the Belief of the Greek Church, againſt the Repreſentation of Leo Allatius. R. Simon.

METROPOLITAN. This Word comes from the Metropolitan Towns, the Capital, or Mother Cities, out of which Colonies were ſent. This Name was alſo given afterwards to Cities, which Commanded a Province, and this Title and Rights of Metropolis, were given by the Emperors. The Church knew no ſuch Name, before the Council of Nice, the Name of Biſhop being only uſed then. The Name of Archbiſhop and Metropolitan, are very promiſcuouſly uſed; nevertheleſs it appears by the ancient Notitia's of Churches, that the Metropolitan was above the Archbiſhop, and below the Patriarch. But Archbiſhops now, and Metropolitans, are reciprocal Terms. In the Notitia's of the Greek Churches, it is plain, that ſome Biſhops were erected into Metropolitans, by the Emperors; but it was only a Titular Honour, thoſe Titular Metropolitans being always under the true Metropolitan. M. Simon.

METZ, on the Influx of the River Seille into the Moſelle, a Biſhoprick and Chief Town of the Meſſin-Country in France, named in Latin, Metæ or Mediomatricum, or Divodurum Mediomatricorum. It is very Ancient, and was the Chief Town of the Kingdom of Auſtraſia. Its pleaſantly ſeated, of a large Compaſs, Rich and Populous. The Princes of Germany in 1552. put themſelves under the Protection of Henry II. King of France, and in a Treaty, acknowledged him for the Reſtorer and Defender of the German Liberty. According to this Treaty, he went towards the Rhine, at the Head of a powerful Army, and ſeized upon theſe Three Towns, Metz, Toul, and Verdun, formerly belonging to him, but uſurped afterwards by the latter Emperors. Charles V. endeavoured, in vain, to take Metz; and by the Peace of Chateau Cambreſis, in 1559, thoſe Three Towns were left to the French. Henry II. dying in 1560, the Emperor Ferdinand I. demanded them again to no purpoſe; ſo this Matter reſted, till the ſettling of a Parliament at Metz in 1633. Then the Emperor's Commiſſioners complained, That the King of France, who had been only conſidered as Protector of thoſe Towns, and their Territories, was going to Aboliſh the Ordinary Juriſdictions, and the Inhabitant's Right of Appealing to the Imperial Chamber, making himſelf Abſolute Sovereign. At laſt, thoſe Complaints ended by the Peace of Munſter, in 1648, by the 44th Article, the Sovereign Power of thoſe Three Towns, being to remain to the Crown of France, reſerving only the Right of Metropolitan to the Archbiſhop of Triers. Metz is a large and populous Town, pleaſantly ſituated. Henry II. fortified it with a Cittadel. Its Biſhop is Suffragan to Triers, and takes the Title of a Prince of the Empire. The Cathedral is famous for its Antiquity, Prerogatives, and many Curioſities, as a Font of one piece of Porphyry 10 Foot long. There are 4 Arch-Deaconries in the Dioceſs, 623 Pariſhes, 16 of them in Metz, 4 Abbies of Men, and 3 of Women, ſeveral Religious Houſes, &c. Tradition ſaith, that Clement, St. Peter's Diſciple, was their firſt Prelate, which is very uncertain. *Thuan. Councils of METZ.

The firſt Synod was held there in 590, where Giles, Biſhop of Rheims, was Depoſed and Baniſhed, for Conſpiring againſt the King's Life. Another was called by Pepin in 753. Another was held in 835. where Lewis the Merciful, Depoſed before, was Crowned again. Another in 859. Another in 863. Another in 888, or 889. Another in 1272, &c.

MEUN, or Mehun, a little Town of Berry in France, on the River Yevre, which is not the Mediolanum Aulercorum of Antonine; for the Aulerci were in Le Maine, Perche, and the Dioceſs of Evreux; neither is it the Megledunum of Gregory de Tours, as Ortelius thought. However there is another Borough on the River Inde in Berry, named Meun.

MEURS, a well fortified Town in the Low Country of the Rhine in Germany. Some place it in the Dukedom of Cleves, though it be in the Dioceſs of Cologne. It had particular Earls formerly, but now belongs to the Princes of Orange, and Earls of Naſſaw.

MEURSIUS, (John) a Dutch-man, born at Loſdun, near the Hague, in 1579. He had ſo great a Genius for Learning, that at 12 or 13 Years old he ſpoke very fine Latin Speeches of his own Compoſing, and made very good Greek Verſes. His Induſtry was as great as his Parts, which made his Improvement very extraordinary. Meurſius ſtudied the Law at Orleans, and travell'd with one of Barnevelt's Sons, which gave him an opportunity of ſeeing the Courts of Princes, of making an Acquaintance with Men of Learning, and of having Acceſs to the beſt Libraries, which he made great advantage of, as appears by the Curioſity of his Learning and Remarks. Meurſius, upon his Return to Holland, was made Hiſtory Profeſſor at Leyden, in 1610, and afterward Greek Profeſſor. Chriſtiern IV. King of Denmark, invited him to the Univerſity of Sora, and gave him the Chair there to read Hiſtory and Politicks; he accepted this Office, and having perform'd up to Expectation for ſome Years, died in 1641. He publiſh'd and wrote Notes upon a great many Latin and Greek Authors. As for the Works of his own Compoſing, they are as follow; *De Gloria. De Funere. De Luxu Romanorum. De Puerperio. Gloſſarium Græco-Barbarum. Rerum Belgicarum, Lib. IV. Hiſtoriæ Danicæ, Lib. III. De Populis Atticæ, Lib. III. Atticarum Lectionum, Lib. VI. Archontes Athenienſes. Fortuna Attica de Athenarum Origine. La MEUSE, in Latin, Moſa; in Italian, La Moſa; in German, Die Maſe; in Dutch, Bas Maas; a River of Europe, whoſe Head is in Champagne, near a Village called Meuſe, and Montigni le Roy; thence it runs through Lorrain; begins to be Navigable at St. Thibaud; receives the Sambre near Namur; joins with the River Vahal, near Hervoerden, where it takes the Name of Merwe; and having formed an Iſland called Yſſelmonde near Dort, runs into the Ocean.

MEXIA, or Meſſia, (Peter) born at Sevil in Spain, Charles V's Chronographer, died in 1552. Andrew Matamore de Doct. Hiſp. viris blames him, for introducing ſome Latin Words into the Spaniſh Tongue. He wrote Silva de varia Lecion, a Piece very much eſteem'd. His other Writings are, Los Cæſares. Laus Aſini, &c. Le Mire de Script. ſæc. 16.

MEXICO, or New Spain, a large Country of the Northern America, ſo denominated from its Chief City, called alſo New Spain, ſince the Spaniards ſettling there. It is 600 Leagues long, from the River Chagre in the Iſthmus of Panama, to that of del Norte de la mer Vermeille. Its Breadth is irregular. It has the Sea of Mexico on the Eaſt, its Gulph, Florida, and New Mexico, on the North, and the Southern Sea on the Weſt and South. All the Country is divided into Three Chief Audiences, or Governments, viz. Mexico, Guadalajava, or New Galicia, and Guatimala; The Firſt contains Seven Provinces, Mexico, Mechoachan, Panuco, Jucatan, Los Angelos, Guaxaca, and Tabaſco. I name the reſt in the Article of New Spain. It is a fruitful and healthful Country.

There the Cows, She-goats, Sheep, &c. breed twice a Year. Gold and Silver Mines are common, theſe Metals likewiſe being found in Rivers, nevertheleſs Cacao-Nuts ſerve for Money. Their Muguey, or Maquey, is an admirable Plant, furniſhing ſmall Wine, Vinegar, Honey, Needles, Thred, Stuffs, and Timber. All European Commodities, except Oil and Wine, are to be found there. The Chief Rivers are Panuco, Equitalan, Les Topes and Mexico. Nicaragua and Mexico are the Chief Lakes. The Inhabitants are good natur'd, and truſty enough, but cannot endure to ſubmit to Arbitrary and ill Uſage. They are Dextrous, Inventive, and good Artificers, but naturally Lazy. Their miraculous Bird Cincon, leſs than a May-bug, covered with wonderful Feathers, feeds, as they ſay, upon Dew, and the Smell of Flowers, and faſtening it ſelf to a Bough in October, ſleeps there till April. The laſt Kings were Motecuma, who ended ſo tragically and ſhamefully, and Quahutimoc, or Quicuxtemoc, was Elected in his place. Ferdinand Cortez conquered it in Three Years time, from 1518, to 1521. The noiſe of his Artillery made them believe him a God; but the Spaniard's Cruelty ſoon ſhewed that they were ſcarce Men. The Archbiſhoprick of Mexico, or Mexico ſtrictly taken, is 135 Leagues long from South to North, and 60 from Eaſt to Weſt, contains many little Provinces. Above 4000 Spaniards work, with a great number of Slaves, in the Silver Mines; and ſome Jaſper, almoſt like Porphyry, is alſo taken out of a Mountain there.

MEXICO, Lat. Mexicum, the Chief City of the Archbiſhoprick, and of the vaſt Country of that Name, 20 Degrees off from the Equinoctial Line, is ſituated near a Lake of the ſame Name, whoſe Water is ſalt, becauſe of the Niter at the bottom; this Lake joining another, both are above 30 Leagues about. It produceth a kind of Fiſhes without Scales, having four Feet, and Privy-Parts much like Women's, as alſo their Monthly Flowers, the Natives call them Axolotl; and the Spaniards, Juguete de agua. There are now 4000 Spaniards in Mexico, and about 30000 Natives. It is the Reſidence of the Vice-Roy, and Archbiſhop, and was built, as the Natives ſay, in 1322, all along the Lake, and not upon it, as Venice on the Sea. The Spaniards took it in 1519. It was almoſt drowned in 1629, but ſoon repaired. A Modern Author affirms, That there were 30 or 40000 Spaniards here in 1635, whereof many had rich and ſtately Coaches, drawn by fine Horſes ſhod with Silver Shooes. Men and Women wear commonly Silk Cloths, and rich Jewels, and even Slaves never go without Pearls, golden Bracelets, Necklaces, Buckles, Rings, &c. with precious Stones, which ſhews the Wealth of Mexico. Herriera, Linſchot, Sanſon, Duval, Robbe, Ovied. l. 17. *A. Councils of MEXICO.

The Miſſionaries called a Synod in 1524, and Condemned the Plurality of Wives. Another was held there 1585, to reform Manners.

MEXICO, or New Mexico, a Country in Northern America, divided by high Mountains from Canada and Florida on the Eaſt, has Mexico on the South, the Sea of California on the Weſt, but its Bounds and Extent are not well known on the North. Some ſay it was the Country of the Ancient Navatelcas, who ſettled in Mexico. Antonio d'Epeio diſcovered it about 1583, and named it New Mexico; the Chief Provinces whereof are Anien, Quivira, and Cibola, and Santa Fe the Chief Town. The Air is good and ſweet, and the Land, though Mountainous, fruitful. There are ſome Silver Mines, Turquoiſes, Emeralds, Cryſtal, &c. The Natives are naturally Good and Civil, governed by a Captain named Caſick, whom they chuſe themſelves; many of them were Converted by the Spaniards, who have a Governor at Santa Fe, but the reſt are given to Idolatry. Some of the Natives adore the Sun. Others believe a God, the Author of all things, who they ſuppoſe, keeps his Reſidence in Heaven; and ſome of them have no Religion at all.

MEYNE, a Place 200 Paces off from Arles in Provence, where there is a Spring of Mineral Water, good for the Gravel and Dropſy, Obſtructions and Foulneſs of the Blood. Its Virtue was found out 1680. Memoirs du Temps.

MEZERAY, (Francis Eudes de) Hiſtoriographer of France, and the French Academy's Secretary, named Eudes, which was the Name of his Family, and Mezeray, from the Village Mezeray, near Argentan in the Lower Normandy. Being acquainted at Paris with John Baudouin, Member of the Academy, who had undertaken to write a General Hiſtory of France, he helped him to ſeek and diſpoſe the Memoirs, concerning the Firſt Race of the Kings of France; and after Baudouin's Death, he was choſen to continue the Work; then he took the Name of Mezeray, and afterwards of de Mezeray, and had an Allowance from the Chancellor Seguier, another from the King, and a third from Cardinal Mazarin. He put out Three Volumes in Folio, of the General Hiſtory of France to the Death of Henry IV. and Abridged it in Six Volumes in Twelves. This Work acquired him the Name of the moſt Faithful and Learned Hiſtorian, that ever was in France. He died in 1683. Memoirs de Temps.

MEZIERES, on the Meuſe, a Town of Champagne in France, with a doubly fortified Cittadel, Lat. Maderiacum, and Maceria, between Sedan and Charleville, partly on the Hill, and partly in the Valley. Near this City Arioviſtus, King of the Germans, gave the Gauls a great Defeat, before the coming of Julius Caſar into Gallia; after which, he treated the Gauls with ſo much Severity, that they begged the Aſſiſtance of the Romans, for the Expulſion of the Germans, which occaſioned the Conqueſt of Gallia by Julius Caſar. Com. lib. 1.

MEZOROTTA (Lewis) of Padua, a Cardinal, Archbiſhop of Florence, afterwards Patriarch of Aquileia, left the Name of his Family, which was Arena, to take that of his Mother. He had a warlike Inclination, and was imployed by Pope Eugenius IV. in ſeveral Wars againſt Milan and Naples. Under Calixtus III. he was declared General of a Croiſade againſt the Infidels, whoſe Gallies he ſcattered, and took Lemnos, and other Iſlands of the Archipelago, and ſo got a great Name, but had better Qualities for a Soldier than a Churchman. He died in 1465. Platina, Spond. Auberi. Thomaſin. in Elog. &c.

MEZZAVACCA, (Bartholomew) a Cardinal, Biſhop of Rieti, born at Bologne, being unwilling to comply with the unreaſonable Deſigns of Urban VI. for the advancement of his Nephew, loſt his Cardinal's Cap, which Boniface IX. reſtored to him again. He died in 1396. Sigonius de Epiſt. Bonon. l. 3. Ciaconius, Auberi, &c.

MICAH, one of the 12 Leſſer Prophets, of the Town of Moreſeth, in the Tribe of Ephraim, Propheſied An. Mun. 3280, and 3310. and marked plainly the Birth of Jeſus Chriſt in Bethlehem. St. Hierom. in Comment. St. Epiphan. de vit. Prophet. &c.

☞ To avoid the Error of many Authors, we muſt remember that this Prophet is different from another Micah, alſo a Prophet, Son of Jambla, in the Reign of Ahab, King of Iſrael, An. Mun. 3120. When Ahab joined with Jehoſaphat, King of Judah, againſt the Syrians, An. Mun. 3138, he conſulted 400 Prophets, who all promiſed him the Victory. But Jehoſaphat deſiring to conſult a Prophet of the Lord, Micah, or Micajah, was ſent for, who declared boldly the future unſucceſsfulneſs of the War; whereupon one of the falſe Prophets buffeted him, and Ahab ſent him to Priſon; but the Event confirmed the truth of Micah's Prophecy, the Syrians being Conquerors, and the King of Iſrael killed. 3 *Kings c.*22. *Paralipom. c.*18. Torniel An. Mun. 3137. n. 3.

MICHA, a Jew, living on Mount Ephraim, who became an Idolater, An. Mun. 2620. In the time of the Judges, he made a Silver Idol, and kept a Levite in his Houſe. Thoſe of the Tribe of Dan took his Idol away, and worſhipped it themſelves. Judges 17 and 18. Torniel An. Mun. 2594. n. 15. Salian An. Mun. 2622.

St. MICHAEL, an Archangel mentioned in St. Jude's Epiſtle, Ver. 9. He was the Protector of the Jews, as we read Daniel, Chap. 12. and it is believed that he repreſented God's Majeſty in the Burning-Buſh, and on Mount Sinai. He has been more particularly conſidered as the Church's Protector, by the Roman Catholicks, who relate many Apparitions of his, and chiefly one in Apuleia in 493, in the Popedom of Gelaſius I. whereof the Anniverſary is kept the 8th May. Pope Boniface III. built a Church at Rome in his Honour, on the Top of Adrian's Sepulchre, therefore called the Mount St. Angel. He is alſo Protector of France in particular, where there is a famous Monaſtery named the Mount of St. Michael, which was built on a Rock in the middle of the Sea, after ſuch an Apparition to St. Aubert, Biſhop of Auranches in Normandy, in 709. Torniel An. Mun. 2583. n. 34.

MICHAEL I. of that Name, Emperor of the Eaſt, Surnamed Rangabe, was raiſed by his Merit; being made Lord High-Steward of the Emperor Nicephorus Logotheta's Houſhold, married his Daughter Procopia, and got the People's love, ſo that the Emperor being killed, and his Son wounded, he was Elected Emperor, and Crowned afterwards. He aſſociated his Son Theophylactus to the Empire, which he was forced to yield to Leo the Armenian, to whom he ſent the Diadem, and the Purple Cloak, in 818. Michael loſt almoſt all Thrace and Adrianople, and was defeated by the Bulgarians. Theophanes in Annal. Anaſtaſ. &c.

MICHAEL II. Surnamed The Liſper, born at Amorium in Phrygia. The Emperor Leo V. called the Armenian, kept him Priſoner, deſigning his Death after Chriſtmas. But Leo being killed the Night before, Michael was delivered, and raiſed up to the Throne in 820. He had no Religion, though reputed a Sabean. They ſay, he was for a Religion made up of the Opinions of the Jews, Manichees and Monothelites. He married a profeſs'd Nun, named Euphroſyne; but this Liberty was puniſh'd with a great many Misfortunes; for the Saracens took Candia; Dalmatia rebelled; Euphemius delivered up Sicily, Calabria, and Apulia, to the Infidels; and the Emperor died of a Bloody-Flux in 829. hated for his Cruelty. Cedrenus, Theodorus Studita, &c.

MICHAEL III. Surnamed The Drinker, or Drunkard, ſucceeded his Father Theophilus in 842, who being very young, his Mother Theodora took care of the Government, and reſtored the Images, and Methodius to the Patriarchate. Her Brother Bardas, a wicked Man, perſuaded Michael to Reign alone; and becauſe the Empreſs endeavoured to reform him, this blind and impious Prince, by the Advice of his Uncle Bardas, cauſed her to be ſhut up in a Monaſtery in 853, and the Patriarch St. Ignatius, refuſing to cut off her Hair, was Baniſhed, and Photius, firſt Secretary of State, elected in his place. Afterwards he made Bardas, Cæſar, but ſoon after put him to Death, and fell into a kind of Brutiſhneſs. Photius being Excommunicated by Pope Nicholas I. he called a Council at Conſtantinople, and Depoſed and Excommunicated the Pope himſelf, in 861, which was approved by Michael. In the mean while Baſilius, whom he had aſſociated to the Empire, knowing that Michael deſigned to Murther him, prevented him in 867. So Michael ended, having Reigned 25 Years, 8 Months, &c. Nicetas in vita S. Ignatii, Zonaras, &c.

MICHAEL IV. a Paphlagonian, of very mean Extract, a Goldſmith, but a very handſom, eloquent, and bold Man, being at Conſtantinople, the Empreſs Zoë, Romain III's Wife, fell in Love with him, and kept him privately in the Palace, and having diſpatched the Emperor, ſhe raiſed her Adulterer to the Throne in 1034. Michael became extraordinary ugly, and ſo tormented with the Devil, that he went to Salonica for help, and left the Government to his Brother John, who ſhut up Zoë, after ſhe had adopted one of the Emperor's Nephews. Michael took a Religious Habit, and died Penitent, in 1041. Zonaras, Cedrenus, &c.

MICHAEL V. called Calaphates, Adopted by Zoë, forgetting what he owed to his Uncle, and to Zoë, cauſed her Hair to be cut off, in order to ſhut her up in a Nunnery, and baniſhed her. Her Complaints provoked the People ſo much, that they pluck'd his Eyes out. Zonaras, Cedrenus in Annal.

MICHAEL VI. Surnamed The Stratiotique, that is, The Warrior, and The Old, becauſe of his great Age, Adopted by Theodora, Zoë's younger Siſter, was little Qualified for an Emperor, though Stout, and a good Soldier. He defeated Theodoſius, but was forced to yield the Diadem to Iſaac Comnenus, in 1057, having Reigned but a Year, and ſo retired into a Monaſtery. Johan. Silitz. in compend.

MICHAEL VII. Surnamed Parapinaceus, Son of Conſtantine Ducas by Eudoxia, ſucceeded Romanus IV. ſurnamed Diogenes in 1071. After Conſtantine's Death, Eudoxia had married Romanus, and made him Emperor. Michael removed his Mother, and pluck'd out Romanus's Eyes. His Covetouſneſs made him odious. During a Famine, he leſſened the Meaſure of Corn, thence came his Surname of Parapinaceus. Neverthelеſs he loved Learning, but neglected the Publick Affairs, which cauſed Nicephorus, Surnamed Batoniates, with the Turks Aſſiſtance, to take Conſtantinople; ſo Michael was forced to leave his Crown in 1078, and retire into a Monaſtery, out of which he was removed ſoon after, and made Archbiſhop of Epheſus. In his time, the Turks Conquered part of the Leſſer Aſia, which they named Turcomania. Zonar. in Hiſt. Baronius in Annal. &c.

MICHAEL VIII. Andronicus Paleologus's, Son by a Wife of the ſame Houſe, thence named, by ſome, Diplo-Paleologus. He was Deſpot only; but Theodorus Laſcaris making him his Son John IV's Guardian, he pluck'd out his Pupil's Eyes, and took Poſſeſſion of the Throne, in 1259. He took alſo from Baldwin II. in 1261, the City of Conſtantinople, which had been poſſeſſed 58 Years by the French; and was Surnamed The Great, for having enlarged his Dominions. He maintained a long War againſt the Venetians, and contributed to the Maſſacre in Sicily, called The Sicilian Veſpers, in 1282, thereſore Excommunicated by the Pope. Either out of Policy, or Piety, he ſubmitted to the Latin Church, which made him ſo odious to the Græcians, and to his own Son Andronicus the Young, that his Body was left unburied in 1283. This Michael was very nobly Born, being deſcended from five Imperial Families. He was likewiſe a Prince of a Majeſtick Preſence, of an obliging Temper, and a great Lover and Encourager of Learning. In ſhort, he was a great Man for the Functions, both of War and Peace; being a Perſon of Courage, a good General, and an excellent Stateſman. Theſe Qualities join'd with an uncommon Magnificence, gain'd him the Love and Eſteem of almoſt all ſorts of People. 'Tis pity, ſo brave a Character ſhould have had an Allay of Ambition, Cruelty, and Perfidiouſneſs in't, but theſe Vices were but too common among the latter Greek Emperors. Gregoras, Bzovius, Rainaldi, & Spondan. in Annal. Eccl.

MICHAEL, King or Prince of Bulgaria, in the IXth. Century, turned Chriſtian, and endeavoured to Convert his Subjects, aſſiſted by divers Churchmen ſent by the Pope for that purpoſe. Anaſtaſ. in Nicol. 1. Baronius in Annal. &c.

MICHAEL, named Federowitz, Great Duke of Muſcovy, Son of Fedornikitz, Patriarch of Muſcovy. The Muſcovites raiſed him to the Throne in 1612, having turned out, as an Impoſtor, Demetrius, and others, whoſe Conduct was odious. Michael retook Moſcow from the Polanders, whom he drove out of his Dominions, and was beloved for his Prudence, Moderation, and Courage. He made a Peace with the Polanders in 1635. and a Truce for 26 Years, and died in 1645. His Wife Eudoxia Lucanowna died alſo 8 Days after. Their Son Alexis Michaloua, or Michalewitz died in 1676.

MICHAEL, Patriarch of Conſtantinople for the Græcians in the XIIIth. Century, the IVth. of that Name, oppoſed about 1206. to Thomas Maurocene, then Patriarch for the Latins. The other Three Patriarchs of Conſtantinople named Michael, are Michael Cerularius, Michael Oxites, and Michael Anchialius. The Name of this Fourth is found only in ſome Catalogues.

MICHAEL ANGELO, a famous Painter and Carver, Son of Lewis Buonaruoti Simoni, of the Ancient Houſe of the Earls of Canoſſe. Many have blamed his extravagant and fantaſtical Fancies, his Licenciouſneſs againſt the Rules of Perſpective, and many other Faults; but others admire him, becauſe no Man has ever been a greater Maſter of the Principles of Painting, and of the Art of Drawing, that is, no Body has better repreſented things with Strokes or Lines, without any dependance upon Colours, Lights, and Shadows, in which the Excellency of that Art conſiſts. He likewiſe underſtood Architecture, and was a good Anatomiſt. His moſt celebrated Piece of Painting, is that of The Laſt Judgment, in the Pope's Chappel. He died Rich at Rome in 1564. See Tranſlation of Freſnoy's Art of Painting. See BONAROTA.

MICHAEL, (Cerularius) Patriarch of Conſtantinople in 1043. A Learned Man, but the Latins's Enemy, therefore Excommunicated, and afterwards Baniſhed by the Emperor Iſaac Comnenus in 1058. died ſoon after. Baronius in Annal.

MICHAEL, called Oxites, from the Iſland Oxia, whence he was taken out of a Monaſtery to be Patriarch of Conſtantinople in 1143, which Church he governed, till preferring a quiet and retired Life, before Epiſcopal Cares, he returned to his Monaſtery in 1146; where, as they ſay, he deſired all the Monks to tread on his Belly, to puniſh him for leaving ſo ſweet and rational a Life. Nicetas Choniates in Hiſt. Baronius in Annal. &c.

St. MICHAEL, a Military Order in France, Inſtituted by Lewis XI. at Amboiſe in 1469. He ordered the Knights to wear every day a Golden Collar of Shell-work, one within another, laid on a Golden Chain, where hangs a Medal of St. Michael the Archangel, Ancient Protector of France. The Statutes of that Order, are contained in 65 Chapters; the firſt preſcribeth, that there ſhall be 36 Knights, whereof the King ſhall be Head, and that they ſhall forſake any other Order, except they be Emperors, Kings, or Dukes: Their Motto was Immenſi tremor oceani. This Order was much honoured under Four King, but the Women-Favourites made it cheap by ſelling on't, and making it too common under Henry II. and Queen Catharine de Medicis gave it to every body, ſo that the Lords deſpiſed it. Favin l. 3. *du Theat. d'hon. & de Cheval. MICHAL, Saul's Daughter, married to David, 1 Sam. c. 18. and 2 Sam. c. 6.

MICHIELE, one of the moſt conſiderable Families of Venice; for beſides a great number of Biſhops, Senators, Generals, and Procurators of St. Mark, it hath produced Three Dukes of Venice, viz. Vitalis Michiele I. of that Name, Elected Duke in 1096. Dominick Michiele in 1117. and Vitalis Michiele II. of that Name, in 1157. In this Century, Peter Michiele was famous for his Wit and Poems. Bembo & Juſtinian Hiſt. Venet. Mantina in Elog. Duc. Venet. &c.

MICHIELE (John) a Venetian Cardinal, Son of Pope Paul II's Siſter. Alexander VI. to get his Eſtate, which was conſiderable, cauſed an Officer of the Kitchen to Poiſon him, in 1503. And by a Judgement of God, Alexander himſelf was poiſoned afterwards; and the unfaithful Servant, who had diſpatched his Maſter, was Executed in the Reign of Pope Julius II. Bemb. Hiſt. var. l. 6. Ughel Ital. Sacr. &c.

MICHON, (Peter) known by the Name of The Abbot Bourdelot, born at Sens in France in 1610. His Uncles by the Mother-ſide, obtained a Writ of Lewis XIII. in 1634. for changing his Name Michon, into that of Bourdelot, which was his Uncle's Name. He was made the Prince of Conde, and afterwards the King's Phyſician, in 1641. He began to hold a kind of an Academy in the Palace of Condé, and afterwards in his own Houſe, compoſed of very Learned Men. The Queen of Sweden, in her Sickneſs ſent for him, in 1651, and was ſo pleaſed with his Advices, that ſhe procured him the Abby of Macé, which he enjoyed with Urban VIII's Diſpenſation, provided he would practice Phyſick gratis. He died in 1685, very unhappily. For a heedleſs Servant, having put a piece of Opium in the Musk-Roſes's Pot, which were his ordinary Purge; one Morning, Bourdelot ſwallowed the Opium inſtead of Musk-Roſes, and perceiving, by the Taſt, what it was, he brought up part of it; nevertheleſs he continued ſo ſleepy, that he was inſenſible for near 20 Hours. But thoſe that look'd after him, endeavouring to keep him warm, the Warming-Pan burnt his Heel, which he felt not during his Drowſineſs, and ſoon after the Gangrene killed him. He left many Works, and ſeveral Manuſcripts; among others, a Treatiſe de la Vipere. Another Du mont Ætna. La Relationes des Appartenances de Verſailles, &c. Memoirs du Temps.

MICHOU or Michovia (Matthias) a Doctor of Phyſick, and Canon of Cracovia, flouriſh'd in the XVIth Century. He wrote a Chronicle of Poland, Dedicated to King Sigiſmond. There are likewiſe two other Geographical Books of his, One of the European, and the other of the Aſiatick Sarmatia; Theſe laſt were printed at Paris in 1532.

MICIPSA, King of Numidia in Africa, Son of Maſſiniſſa, who preferred him before his other Sons Monſtabal and Guluſſa, Micipſa had Two Sons, Adherbal and Hiempſal. Saluſt. de bell. Jug. See ADHERBAL.

MICON, or Miconius (Frederick) a German Proteſtant Miniſter, was a Monk, but embracing Luther's Doctrine; he was ſent into England, and was in great Eſteem. He died in 1546. He is different from another Oſwald Micon, called in German Geſizheuſer, Miniſter at Baſle. This laſt was born at Lucern in Switzerland, in 1488, Eſteemed for his Learning and Works. Eraſm. l. Epiſt. Glarianus, Melchior Adam. &c.

MICONE, now Micoli, formerly Myconos and Mycone, an Iſland of the Ægean Sea, one of the Cyclades. Its Commodities are Wine, Barley, Cotton, and plenty of Wild Fowl. There is but one Village, where the Turks take Tribute. The Poets feign'd that the Giants overcome by Hercules, were buried there; thence the Proverb Omnia ſub unam Myconem congerere. The Inhabitants were bald, and Spungers; thence thoſe Proverbs, Myconiorum more, and Myconius conviva. Strabo l. 10. Pliny l. 11. c. 37. Athenæus l. Plutarch. ſymp. l. 1.

MIDAS, King of Phrygia, Son of Gordius, had much Wealth but little Wit; thence the Fables in Ovid Metam. Herodotus ſaith, That he ſent a golden Throne to Diana's Temple at Epheſus. Euſebius ſpeaks alſo of Midas, King of Phrygia, who killed himſelf with drinking ſome Bull's blood, about the XXth. Olympiad, and An. Mun. 3356. An. Rom. 56. and before Chriſt 698.

MIDDELBOURG, or Mildebourg, the Chief Town of Zealand in the Low-Countries, in the Iſland of Walachrie, or Walcheren, named by ſome Middelbourg, that is, a Borough in the middle of the Iſland. A Modern Author that puts Middelbourg amongſt the Epiſcopal Towns of Flanders, takes it for a Village of that Name near Bruges. The Latins name it Metello-Burgus, or Metelli Caſtrum, as built by the Roman Metellus. It was at firſt a little Village, and by degrees became very conſiderable, being now a Town of great Trade, half a League from Rammeken's Port, joined with it by a Canal, and a Staple-Town for all the Wine tranſported by Sea. Thuan. hiſt. Valer. Andr. in Topogr. Belg. &c.

MIDDENDORPIUS (James) Canon of Cologne, and afterwards Rector of that Univerſity. He was look'd upon as one of the moſt Eminent Men of his Country, both for Learning and probity. He was employ'd, by ſeveral Princes, as one of their Privy Council; and the Advice which he gave was always founded upon a Bottom of Conſcience and Morality; being honeſt and Chriſtian, as well as Politick and Prudential; but theſe great Imployments did not hinder him from purſuing his Studies, and making himſelf a conſiderable Author, as appears by his Works, which are, De Accademiis Orbis Univerſi. De Officiis Scholaſticis. De vita Cœnobiali. Hiſtoria Ariſtæi de LXX. Interpretibus Script. Quæſtiones Juridicæ, Theologicæ, & Politicæ Imperatorum, Regum & Principum cum Reſponſis. Middendorpius dyed in 1611. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg. Miræus de Script. Sæc. 16, &c.

MIDDLEHAM, a Market-Town in the North Riding of Yorkſhire in Hangweſt Hundred, ſituate upon the River Youre.

MIDDLESEX, Lat. Middleſexia, Trinobantes, is bounded on the North by Hartfordſhire, on the Weſt by Buckinghamſhire, ſeparated by the River Colne, on the South by Surrey, cut off by the Thames, and on the Eaſt by Eſſex, It is 19 Engliſh Miles in length, and 16 in breadth, 275 Square, divided into 6 Hundreds, which have 7 Market-Towns, Brandford, Edgware, Enfield, London, Stanes, Uxbridge and Weſtminſter, one of the leaſt Counties in England, but its Fertility and nearneſs to London, recompenceth this want of Extent. The ancient Britiſh Inhabitants were the Trinobantes, afterwards it was a part of the Kingdom of the Eaſt Saxons. Whitehall and St. James's, the Royal Manſions of the Kings of England, are both in this County, Hampton-Court their Country-Houſe of Pleaſure; and London the Capital of England is its Head. The Honourable Charles Sackville, Earl of Dorſet, is alſo Earl of Middleſex, by a Creation of Feb. 4. 1674. which Title was firſt beſtowed by King James I. in 1622. on Lionel, Lord Cranfield, Lord Treaſurer of England, whoſe Son James enjoyed the ſame, and after him Lionel, Brother of James, in whom it was extinguiſhed.

MIDHURST, a Corporation in the County of Suffolk, in Chicheſter Rape, which ſends Two Members to Parliament; 42 Miles from London.

MIDLEWICH, a Market-Town in Cheſhire in Northwick Hundred, ſituated upon the River Croke, near its fall into the Dune. 'Tis a large Town governed by Burgeſſes, and having ſeveral Streets and Lanes; of chief Note for its Salt-pits; from Landon 128 Miles.

MIESKO, Mieciſlaus, or Miciſlaus I. of that Name, Duke of Poland, was the firſt Chriſtian King of that Country, Converted by marrying Dambronwche, Boleſlaus, Duke of Bohemia's Daughter. When he was a Pagan he kept Seven Concubines, and complaining to ſome Bohemian Merchants that he had no Children, they told him, That the Chriſtian's God did bleſs a lawful Marriage, and propoſed their Princeſs to him, which Marriage was happily Solemnized after his Baptiſm, and he had by her Chrobi, who ſucceeded him. Baronius ſaith, that his Wife dying, he married a Nun named Oda, by whom he had three Sons. He founded the two Archbiſhopricks of Cracow and Gneſna, beſides ſeven other Biſhopricks. Baronius, Cromer hiſt. Pol. &c.

MIESKO, or Miciſlaus II. King of Poland, Son of Boleſlaus I. Crowned in 1025, and Surnamed The Lazy, and Unhappy. Died in 1034.

MIESKO, or Miciſlaus III. called The Old, Son of Boleſlaus III. Brother to Ladiſlaus II. and Boleſlaus IV. ſucceeded this laſt in 1173, but was deſpoſed four Years after; and his Third Brother Caſimir II. called The Juſt, Crowned in his place. He had Three Sons, and endeavoured, in vain, to recover his Crown; ſo he died in 1202. Cromer's hiſt. Pol.

MIGDONIA an ancient Country of Macedonia, between the Rivers Stremon and Strimonia, and Axias or Vardari. Its chief Towns were Apollonia, Antigonia, Amphipolis, &c. The Name of Migdonia was given to a Country of Meſopotamia, along the River of that Name. Some think, that the Migdonians had their Name from a Prince called Migdonius; but Pliny affirms, that it was from the Migdonians of Macedonia, who probably ſent a Colony into Meſopotamia. However Herodotus, Strabo, Pliny and Ptolemy, mention it.

MIGDONIUS, or Migdon, King of Thrace, Son of Ciſſeus, Brother of Otreus and Hecuba, Priamus's Wife. Virgil. l. 2. ſpeaks of his Son Chorœbus, who was at the Siege of Troy, and in love with Caſſandra. A Modern Author was miſtaken, taking the Word Migdonides for a Nation; for Servius in Virgil obſerves, that thoſe Words never end in des. Porphyr. in Iliad. lib. 3.

MILAN, the chief Town of the Dukedom of Milan, with a fine Cittadel, and a famous Archbiſhoprick; Latin in Mediolanum, in Italian, Milano, and in German, Meilandt. It is one of the largeſt Towns of Europe, built by the Gauls about An.Rom. 170. as Tit. Livius ſaith. The Romans took it from the Gauls, and it was the Reſidence of divers Emperors. It has been often ruined by the Barbarians, and the Country expoſed to the Incurſions of the Goths and Huns; at laſt, Subdued and Poſſeſſed by the Lombards till Charlemaign's time. Neverthleſs it is to be obſerved, that Beliſarius took Milan from the Oſtrogoths, though it was re-taken by Vitiges, King of the Oſtrogoths, in 539. 300000 People being then deſtroyed. After Charlemaign, Milan, with its Territories became part of the Empire, and grew ſo rich and powerful, that it commanded and deſpiſed the other Towns. The Emperor Frederick I. defeated the Inhabitants, and to humble them, impoſed great Tributes upon them; which cauſed ſuch Animoſities, that the Empreſs, out of Curioſity, viewing the Town, the People ſeized her, made her ride on an Aſs, with her face towards the Tail, all over the Town, and deſtroyed the Garriſon. Whereupon the Emperor beſieged and took it in 1162, levelled all the Houſes, except three Churches, and, to the Inhabitants indelible ſhame, the Town was plowed and ſowed with Salt. Some ſay, that all the Captives, to ſave their Lives, were obliged to draw a Fig, with their Teeth, out of the Aſs's back-ſide, which they made the Empreſs beſtride; which Inſamy, many choſe rather to die than undergo. Thoſe that eſcaped, re-builded their Town in 1171, with their Neighbours Aſſiſtance, and Pope Alexander III's protection, and had many Lords and Dukes afterwards. It is enough to obſerve, that the firſt were the Viſconti, and afterwards the Sforza's. The Kings of France were to ſucceed the firſt, becauſe of Valentine John Galeas Viſconti, firſt Duke of Milan's Daughter, married to Lewis of France, Duke of Orleans, ſecond Son of Charles, named The Wiſe: For John Galeas left two Sons, that died without lawful iſſue; but the Inhabitants ſubmitted themſelves to Francis Sforza, a Baſtard of the Sforza's Family, but a great Soldier. Since that time Lewis XII. renewed his Claim to Milan, as being Valentine's Grandſon, which cauſed ſo many Wars in Italy. To end them after Francis Sforza's death in 1535, the Emperor Charles V. promiſed a long time, to put one of the Sons of Francis I. King of France, in poſſeſſion of this Dukedom; but notwithſtanding his Promiſe to the Electors, he gave it to Philip II. his own Son, King of Spain. The deſire of poſſeſſing this fine and fruitful Country, cauſed many Sieges and Battles; and it is obſervable, that Milan has been beſieged 40 times, and taken 22 times. 'Tis called La Grande, becauſe it is above ten Miles about. There are no great Rivers, but it enjoyeth the conveniency of the Rivers Teſin and Adde by two Canals. It has 22 Gates, above 230 Churches, whereof 96 are Pariſhes, 40 Monaſteries, 50 Nunneries, and 100 Societies. The Cathedral called Dome, it over-caſt within and without with white Marble, with above 600 Statues of the ſame, and 160 Columns ſo big, that three Men can hardly fathom one. The other Churches are very fine; the Palaces ſtately; the Trade conſiderable; and the Town extrordinary well inhabited. The Caſtle is one of the fineſt Fortreſſes in Italy, and is compoſed of ſix great Baſtions with large Ditches full of running Water; there is another compaſs, and the Platform which is the Duke's old Palace, the whole regularly fortified. The State of Milan called Milaneze, has Piedmont and Montferrat on the Weſt, Genoua's Dominions on the South, the Dukedoms of Parma and Mantua, the Principalities of Sabionetta and Bozolo, and the Territories of Venice on the Eaſt, the Valais, the Bailiwicks of Logan-Locarne and Mendriſio, the Earldom of Chavenne, and part of the Valtoline on the North. There are two famous Lakes, the Greater, and that of Come. The Towns are Milan, Pavia, Alexandria de la Paille, Compte, Cremona, Tortone, Lodi, Navarre, Bobio, Mortare, Valence, and Vigevane. The Apoſtle Barnabas is reputed the Founder of the Church of Milan; and it is obſerved, That of about 130 Prelates that have governed it, 35 were Canonized, amongſt whom St. Ambroſe, and Charles Borromée, are the moſt famous. Milan has produced four Popes, and many great Men, as Andrew Alciat, Hierom, Cardan, &c. The Spaniards have an Arbitrary Power there, which makes the Italians ſay, that the King of Spain governs Sicily with Meekneſs, Naples with Subtilty, and Milan with Authority. It is alſo ſaid of the Governors, That in Sicily they Gnaw, at Naples they Eat, and at Milan they Devour. The Moſt famous and ancient Authors ſpeak of Milan, as Pliny, Strabo, Solin, Platina, Corio and Merula, Guichardin, &c. See VISCONTI and SFORZA.

Councils of MILAN.

The firſt was held in 344, againſt the Arians. Some put another in 347. Another named the IId. Council of Milan in 350, againſt Photinus, Urſacius and Valens, Arians. Another in 355, againſt the Arians, which was in ſhort thus: Pope Liberius Succeeding to Julius, and being deſirous to cloſe the Diviſions of the Church, and put an end to the Arian Perſecution, Requeſted a Council of the Emperor Conſtantius, who, conſenting to the motion, a Council was convened at Milan, but the iſſue of it proved unfortunate, for here the Arians were extream violent to paſs their Cenſure upon St. Athanaſius; To this purpoſe, they got the Council remov'd from the Church to the Palace, where their Faction preſiding and overbalancing the other Party, they carry'd their cauſe, and baniſhed a great number of the Orthodox Prelates; particularly Dionyſius Biſhop of Milan, putting Auxentius, a Zealous Arian, in his Place. Another in 390, againſt Jovinian. Another in 451, where the Doctrine of the Incarnation of the Word was approved. Another in 679, againſt the Monothelites. Another in 1287. Another in 1291, about a Cruiſade. St. Charles called ſix Provincial Councils, viz. 1565, 1569, 1573, 1576, 1579 and 1582; and a Synod in 1584, concerning the Reformation of Manners, &c.

MILCOLUMBUS, or Malcolm I. the 76th. King of Scotland, Succeeded Conſtantine III. In his time Cumberland and Weſtmorland Revolted from the Engliſh, to their old Maſters the Scots; and Edmund of England, to ſtrengthen himſelf againſt the Danes, yielded them to Milcolumbus, on Condition, That the Heir Apparent to the Scottiſh Crown, ſhould take an Oath to the King of England, as Lord Paramount of that Country; after which, Edmund did eaſily reduce the Danes, but did not out-live this Victory long. The Danes rebelling againſt King Edred, and taking York, and many other ſtrong Places from him, were at laſt Subdued, by the Aſſiſtance of 10000 Scots, under the Conduct of Malcolm, who returning home, applied himſelf wholly to the Arts of Peace; and to remedy the Corruptions which had crept into the Courts of Juſtice during the War, did Viſit them all in Perſon once in two Years, and Governed with great Equity; but while he was buſie in puniſhing Robberies, and Reforming of Manners, he was ſlain by ſome Conſpirators in Murrayland, in the 15th of his Reign, about 950. The Villains were carefully purſued by the Nobles, and brought to condign Puniſhment. Buchan.

MILCOLUMBUS, or Malcolm II. the 83d. King of Scotland, Succeeded Grimus. At his Entrance upon the Government, he publiſh'd a General Amneſty; rooted out the Seeds of Faction and Diſcord; appointed juſt Men to Govern the Provinces; reſtrained Plunder and Robbery; and encouraged the Vulgar to follow their Husbandry, by which means Proviſions between Man and Man became cheap, and Commerce ſafe. During his Reign, Sueno, Son to Harald, King of Denmark, being Baniſhed his own Country, and many times taken, and ranſom'd from the Vandals, ſought help in vain from the King of Scandia, but profeſſing Chriſtianity, obtain'd it in Scotland, and paſſed from thence with it into his own Country. Whence, not long after, he Invaded England, where he defeated the Engliſh; firſt in a Battle by themſelves, and then a ſecond time, when joined by the Scots, whom he threatned grievouſly, to make them return: But finding they would not deſert the Engliſh, he ſent a great Army, under Conduct of Olavus of Scandia, and Enecus, into Scotland, where they ravaged the County of Murray, ſparing neither Age, Sex, nor Place; and having deſtroyed the open Countrey, attacked the Fortreſſes. Whereupon Malcolm advanced againſt them with an Army, which he had Levied from the Neighbouring Countries; but the Danes being ſuperiour both in Number, Diſcipline and Preparations, the Scots were quickly routed, and ſeveral Caſtles were thereupon Surrendered. The Danes treated the Captives with the greateſt Barbarity, and ſent for their Wives and Children to Inhabit the Country. Malcolm having Levied a better Army, Encountered them again at Mortlich in Marr, and at the firſt Onſet loſt three of his greateſt Captains and Subjects, viz. Kennethus, Thane of the Iſles, Grimus, Thane of Strathearn, and Dumbar, Thane of Lothian. The Scots being hereupon diſcouraged, retired to their Camp, which they fenced with a Trench, Ditch, and huge Trees. The Danes believing themſelves to be Conquerors, Attack'd the Scots with too much raſhneſs, ſo that Enecus one of their Generals, was killed in the Fight, and the Scots renewing the Charge with a great deal of Valour, put the Danes to the rout, and their ſurviving General Olavus fled into Murray. Sueno receiving the news of this Defeat in England, ſent a new Army to Scotland under Canus, but he was routed at Balbride in Angus, where the Monuments of the Victory do ſtill remain, and 500 of his Men who had eſcaped on board, being neceſſitated for want of Proviſions to come a-ſhoar, were every one deſtroyed; and to this Day, when the Winds blow up the Sand in thoſe places, the Bones of Men of a greater Stature than thoſe of our Age are diſcovered. Sueno being nothing diſcouraged, ſent his Son Canutus, with a new Army into Scotland, and Malcolm rencountring him in Buchan, there enſued a bloody and deſperate Battle, and though the Name of the Victory fell to the Scots, yet ſo many of the Nobility were ſlain, and the reſt ſo much wearied and wounded, that the Danes retired without being purſued, and the Prieſts, whom they ſent the next Day to interceed, did eaſily obtain a Peace on Condition, That the Danes ſhould leave the Country, That as long as Malcolm and Sueno Reigned, they ſhould live in Mutual Peace, and not aſſiſt one anothers Enemies. After this, Malcolm calling an Aſſembly of the States at Scoone, he divided all the King's Lands amongſt ſuch of the Nobility, as had deſerved well of the Country, and the Nobility in return Granted to the King, That when any of them died, their Children ſhould be under the Wardſhip and Tutelage of the King, till they came of Age, during which time, the King ſhould enjoy all the Revenues, but ſo much as was neceſſary, for the Education of their Children; and he was beſides to diſpoſe of them in Marriage, when grown up, and to receive their Dowry; which Cuſtom Buchanan thinks was taken from the Danes and Normans. Peace being thus reſtored to the Kingdom, Malcolm applied himſelf to the making of wholeſome Laws; and, according to the Cuſtoms of his Neighbours, Created new Titles of Honour, the Scots having none, at that time, Superiour to thoſe of Knight and Thane, who was Governor or Sheriff of a Province. After this, he Reigned ſome Years in great Fame and Glory, which he ſtained towards the latter end of his Days, with an horrible Avarice, inſomuch that he endeavoured to re-aſſume thoſe Lands, which he had unadviſedly diſtributed; for which end, he put ſome of the Nobles to death, and oppreſſed others, whoſe Friends being intent on Revenge, corrupted the King's Domeſticks, and murdered him in his Bed at Glames in Angus: but endeavouring to eſcape, together with his Villainous Servants, they loſt their Way in the Snow, and were all of them drowned in the Lake of Forfar, and their Bodies being found after the Thaw, they were hung upon Gibbets by the Highways. There are ſome who ſay, that he was ſlain in an Ambuſh, by the Kindred of Grimus and Conſtantinus, former Kings, who reckoned themſelves injured by the Hereditary Succeſſion, eſtabliſhed by Kennethus, Malcolm's Father, and which he himſelf had gotten to be confirmed by Parliament. This valorous Prince fell in the 30th of his Reign, about 1040. Buchan.

MILCOLUMBUS, or Malcolm III. the 86th. King of Scotland, Succeeded Mc Beth. He was Son to King Donald, but forced to fly from the Tyranny of Mc Beth, who had ſlain his Father; and being at the Court of England, Mc Duff, Thane of Fife, who had alſo fled from Mc Beth's Tyranny, perſuaded him to attempt the Recovery of his Crown. King Edward aſſiſting him with 10000 Men, he was quickly joined by his Friends in Scotland, and Mc Beth being deſerted of all, becauſe of his Tyranny, Malcolm was declared King at Scoone, April 25. 1057. He reſtored the Eſtates which Mc Beth had forfeited, and is ſaid to be the firſt who introduced the new Titles of Dukes, Marquiſſes, Earls and Barons, and Created Mc Duff, Thane of Fife, the firſt Earl of Scotland. Some think (but Buchanan diſſents) that it was in his Reign, that the Nobility of Scotland began to be Surnamed from their Lands. During the Meeting of the States at Forfar, Mc Beth's Faction declared his Son Luthlac, King at Scoone; but Malcolm defeated and killed him, about three Months after in Strabogy. During his Reign, Patrick Dumbar defeated a great Band of Robbers, who taking the Advantage of the Diſorders of the Time, poſted themſelves at Cockburnſpath, and infeſted the Neighbouring Counties, Patrick killed 600 of them on the Spot, with the loſs of 40 of his own Men, and for this Exploit, was Created Earl of March. Malcolm being now Eſtabliſhed on the Throne, yet could not be quiet from Secret Conſpiracies; whereupon he ſent for the Head of the Plot, and taking him aſide, upbraided him with his Ingratitude, and told him, That now ſeeing both of them were Armed, if he had Courage enough, he might try to obtain that by his Valour, which he deſigned by Treachery; whereupon he fell down at the King's Feet, and begged his Pardon, which was generouſly Granted. After this, Edgar Atheling, who was Heir to the Crown of England, as he fled from the Tyranny of William the Norman, was driven a-ſhoar in Scotland, courteouſly entertained by Malcolm, and married to his Siſter Margaret. William the Norman, ſent to Demand him, but Malcolm refuſed; whereupon it came to a War, the Scots defeated Roger, one of his Generals, in Northumberland; and Patrick, Earl of March; baffled Richard, Earl of Gloceſter. Then Odo, Brother to William the Conqueror, and Earl of Kent, invaded Northumberland, but Malcolm defeated him, and recovered the Prey. After this, William ſent his Son Robert at the Head of an Army, who Encamped at the Tine, but performed no Exploits. Whereupon the Norman came to a Peace on the following Conditions; That he ſhould reſtore Sibert, Earl of Northumberland, and leave Cumberland, as formerly, to the Scots. That the Boundaries of the Kingdoms, ſhould be [illegible] Croſs on Stanemoor; between Richmondſhire and Cumberland, which ſhould have the Statues and Arms of the Kings on both ſides, and that Edgar ſhould be received into Favour. The Peace being thus ſettled abroad, was followed by Inteſtine Rebellions at home, in the Weſt and the North, both of them being fomented by the Highlanders; that in the Weſt was quelled by Walter, Nephew of Bancho, for which the King made him Steward of Scotland; which Office gave Surname to his Poſterity, the Royal Family of Stuart. The King in Perſon compoſed the Diſturbance in the North, and perceiving his Standard-bearer to faint, as entring the River Spey againſt the Rebels, who were very numerous on the other ſide, he took it from him, and gave it to a valiant Knight Surnamed Carron, whoſe Poſterity did enjoy the ſame Honour, and on that account were called Scrimger. Having thus ſettled Peace by his Induſtry and Valour, he applied himſelf to Reformation of Manners, being induced thereunto by the Advice of his Queen, a pious Woman, who, together with her Mother and Siſter, ſhut themſelves up in a Monaſtery of Virgins, Nunneries having a greater Reputation of Piety in thoſe Days, than afterward. The King did alſo reform Abuſes, which had crept in amongſt the Clergy, and added the Biſhopricks of Murray and Caithneſſe to the former four. He firſt reformed his own Family, and afterwards enacted Sumptuary Laws. He is ſaid to have aboliſhed the villainous Law of Evenus, and ſubſtituted that called Marcheta Mulierum in its place. He built at the ſame time, the Cathedral of Durham, and that of Dumfermling, and made the Abbot of the former, Biſhop of St. Andrews, whilſt William Rufus, of England, pulled down Churches to make the New Foreſt. He alſo ſurprized the Caſtle of Alnwick in Northumberland, and put the Garriſon to the Sword. Malcolm demanded Reſtitution, but in vain, and thereupon beſieged it. The Garriſon being reduced to great Extremity, did offer to Surrender, and deſired the King to come and receive the Keys with his own Hand, which being tendered upon the Point of a Spear, the Soldier thruſt him into the Eye, as he was about to take them off, and killed him. His Son Edward carried on the Siege, but being eager to revenge the Death of his Father, and too careleſs of his own ſafety, was alſo ſlain in an Aſſault; whereupon the Scots were ſo much afflicted, that they raiſed the Siege, and buried their Two Kings at Tinmouth, whence they were afterwards Tranſported to Dumfermling. Malcolm reigned 33 Years, and rendred himſelf famous to all Poſterity, for his great Virtues. He had Six Sons, Three of whom ſucceeded him in the Kingdom; and Two Daughters, one of which was married to Henry, King of England, and the other to Euſtace, Count of Bologne. Before his Death, an Inundation of the German Ocean, over-threw Villages, Towns, and Caſtles, and more People were killed at that time by Thunder-Bolts, than ever was known to have been in Britain before. Buchan.

MILCOLUMBUS, or Malcolm IV. the 92d King of Scotland, ſucceeded David I. in 1153. In the beginning of his Reign, the Kingdom was viſited by a great Plague, and Sumerled, Thane of Argyle, Aſpiring to the Crown, becauſe of the King's Nonage, and the common Calamity, rebelled, but was defeated by Gilchriſt, Earl of Angus. This was ſcarcely over, when Henry of England, tho' he had ſolemnly Sworn to David I. King of Scotland, that he would never deprive himſelf, or any of his Poſterity of his Poſſeſſions in England, ſought occaſion to quarrel with Malcolm; and for that end, when the Biſhop of Glaſcow was performing his Office in Cumberland, Henry of England ordered Truſtine, Archbiſhop of York, to ſend another Biſhop thither, whom he called Biſhop of Carliſle. Malcolm being of a peaceable Diſpoſition, thought this no ſufficient Cauſe of War; but to compoſe Matters, went to Cheſter, where Henry circumvented him, and made him take the Oath of Fidelity to him in Perſon, for the Lands which he held in England, contrary to the Agreement by which the King's Brothers, or Sons, were only to ſwear. After this, he ſent for him to London, that according to the Cuſtom of his Anceſtors, he ſhould in Parliament acknowledge himſelf his Feudatory, for the Lands which he held in England, and Malcolm going thither upon the Publick Faith, was forced againſt his Will, with his ſmall Retinue, to accompany him in the War againſt France; Henry deſigning hereby, both to alienate the French King from the Scots, and keep them in quiet. King Henry having returned, without doing any great matter, ſuffered Malcolm to come home, where he had much ado to ſatisfy the States, who were then Aſſembled, and reproached him for joining his Enemies againſt his Friends. Henry knowing that their Reſentments were rather Suſpended than Extinguiſhed, ſummoned Malcolm to a Convention at York, and Charging him with the Miſcarriage of his Deſigns in France, deſpoiled him of Northumberland by Act of Parliament. The Scots, at his return, were ſo incenſed, that they beſieged him in Perth, and had almoſt taken him, but, by the Mediation of the Nobility, the Matter was adjuſted, and a War declared againſt England, which at laſt ended in a Conference near Carliſle; and Malcolm, for Peace's ſake, did part with Northumberland, but had his Rights confirmed to Huntingtonſhire and Cumberland, at which the Scotch Nobility were enraged afreſh, denying that he could alienate any Part of his Dominions, without the General Conſent of the States; ſo that being Univerſally deſpiſed by his Subjects, Rebellions were raiſed in ſeveral Parts of the Kingdom; that in Galloway was ſpeedily quelled; but the Murray-men obtained a Victory in the firſt, and were beaten in the ſecond Battel. Sumerled of Argyle, did alſo commence another Inſurrection; but was totally routed, and he and his Son both ſlain. A Parliament being called, many things were Enacted for the good of the Kingdom, and they deſired the King to marry, as being then above 22 Years of Age, but he refuſed it; and ſpending the reſt of his time in building Churches, and endowing of Monks, died Dec. 9. 1165. Buchan.

MILDEN-HALL in Suffolk, ſeated between Fen and Sand, is a large Town, and very populous, having diſtant Streets called Rows, as Beck-row, How-row, &c. to the Fenward; as big as ſome Towns, graced with a fair Church, and a tall Steeple; from London 57 Miles.

MILETUM, formerly one of the moſt conſiderable Towns of Ionia, with a good Port on the Ægean Sea, near the River Meander. It is not the Town called now Melaxo, or Milazzo, as ſome ſay. The Miletians were famous for their Courage, but degenerated afterwards. Their Town was taken by the Perſians, An. Rom. 250. in the LXIXth. Olympiad. Alexander the Great, and the Romans alſo ſubdued it. It has produced many Great Men, as Thales, Anaximander, Anaximenes, Hecateus, Pittacus, Eſchines, &c. and had a conſiderable Territory, where Apollo Didymeus's Oracle was. Some ſay it was built by Sarpedon, King of the Leſſer Lycia. Strabo l. 14. Pliny l. c. 29. Euſeb. in Chron. &c.

MILETUS, King of Caria, Son of Apollo by Acacalis, Minos's Daughter, who being forced by Apollo, expoſed ſecretly her Child in a Foreſt, to whom ſome Wolves gave ſuck. He was afterwards Educated by Shepherds; thence he went into Caria, where he obtained the Princeſs Idothea's Love, and King Eurythus's Eſteem. He built the famous Miletum, ſince the Chief Town of the Kingdom, and had a Son named Caunus, and a Daughter named Byblis. Antonius Liberalis Fab. 30.

MILEVE, or Mela, Lat. Milevum and Milevis, a Town of Numidia in Africa, miſtaken by ſome for Miletum in Ionia, Melitene in Armenia, or for Malta-Iſland.

Councils of MILEVE.

This Town is famous for Two Councils held there in Pope Innocent's I's Reign, in 402, and in 416, to examine the Cauſe of ſeveral Prelates, and againſt Pelagius. T. 11. Concil.

MILFORD-HAVEN in Pembrokeſhire, S. W. eſteemed the beſt in all England, not only for its largeneſs, being capacious enough to hold a 1000 Sail of Ships at a time, and to ride ſecure at a good diſtance from one another; but alſo for its variety of deep and ſafe Creeks, and nooked Bays to harbour in, having within it 13 Roads, 16 Creeks, and 5 Bays, all known by their Names.

MILIUS, (George) a German Miniſter, oppoſed the Reformation of the Calendar, and wrote divers Comments on the Bible. He died in 1607.

MILLAUD, or Milhaud, Lat. Millialdum, a Town of Rovergne in France, 7 or 8 Leagues from Rhodez, formerly ſtrong, but its Fortifications were demoliſhed in 1629. The Territory is fruitful in Almond-Trees.

MILLENNARIANS, Hereticks. See CHILIASTES, NEPOS, and PAPIAS. Some Ancient Authors ſpeak of certain Millennarians named ſo, becauſe ſpeaking of Hell, they believed that there was a Ceſſation of Pains once in a 1000 Years.

MILLIARIUM, a gilt Pillar in the middle of Rome, whereon were engraved all the Ways in Italy, and in the Roman Empire, erected and gilt with Gold by Auguſtus. Varro ſaith, that all the High-ways of Italy met there, as in their Center. Bergier Hiſt. des grands Chemins de l'Empire Romain.

MILO, or T. Annius Milo, a Roman, adopted into the Annian's Family, who appeared in Arms with his Friends to ſtand for the Conſulſhip, which made the Senate name Pompey Conſul alone, and give him Power to chuſe himſelf a Colleague, A. R. 702. Milo was baniſhed to Marſeilles, for killing Clodius, Tribune of the People, though Cicero made a Speech for him. When Milo was Indicted for the Murther; Tully was to plead for him, and made his Oration, Pro Milone, on purpoſe; but ſeeing Pompey and his Forces drawn up, in the Forum, he wanted aſſurance to deliver his Harangue, and making only a little extempore faint Defence, went off; upon which Milo was caſt; not long after, Tully recovering his Spirits, publiſhed his Oration, ſending Milo a Copy of it: After the reading of which, Milo return'd him a Letter of thanks, telling him withal, that he was exceeding glad that Tully did not plead his Argument in the Court, for if he had, the Rhetorick and Force of it would certainly have brought off his Client. And then, ſays he, I ſhould never have had the Satisfaction of being baniſh'd into Luxury, and eating ſo many delicious Mullets, as I have done at Marſeilles. Dion. Caſſ. Aſconius Pedianus in Milo, Dion. &c.

MILO, a Wreſtler of Crotona, ſo prodigiouſly ſtrong, that he carried a Bull on his Shoulders, and killed it with his Fiſt. He overcame the Sybarites, but endeavouring to divide a great Oak, which was already ſplit with Iron Wedges, the Wedges falling down by his pulling, the Oak cloſed upon him, and expoſed him to Wild Beaſts. Strabo l. 6. Aul. Gell. l. 15. c. 16, &c.

MILTIADES, a famous Athenian Captain, who with 12000 Men, routed above 500000 Perſians at Marathon, in the LXXIId Olympiad, An. Rom. 264. and purſuing the Enemies by Sea, he took many Iſlands in the Archipelago; but retiring to Athens without taking Paros, becauſe of his Wounds, and the Army's Panick fear, he was kept Priſoner, till he paid a great Fine, where he died miſerably, An. Rom. 265. Herodot. l. 6. Thucydid. l. 1. Plutarch. in Cimone, &c.

MILTON, (John) Son of John Milton, Scrivener, was born in London, in the Year 1608. being, as it is ſaid, deſcended from the Miltons of Milton in Oxfordſhire. He was Educated in Chriſt's College in Cambridge, where he took the Degree of Maſter of Arts, ſoon after which, he left the Univerſity, and travell'd into Italy; returning into England about the beginning of the Civil Wars, during which, he was a great Enemy to the King, and the Church of England, as alſo to the Presbyterians; when they declar'd againſt the Murther of the King. When Cromwell had graſp'd the pretended Protectorſhip, he made Milton his Latin Secretary. Having had the ſame Poſt before under the Council of State, in which he likewiſe continued, after Oliver's Death, under Richard and the Rump. As to his Religion, he was in his Youth a favourer of the Puritans, in his middle Years he was beſt pleas'd with the Independants and Anabaptiſts; but in the latter part of his Life, he was not a profeſſed Member of any Church, or pretended Church of Chriſtians, frequenting none of their Aſſemblies, nor making uſe of any thing peculiar to them in his Family. He died in 1674. As for the Remainder of his Character, the Reader may pleaſe to take it in the Words of Mr. Anthony Wood; " Milton (ſay he) " was a Perſon of wonderful Parts, of a very ſharp, biting, " and ſatyrical Wit. He was a good Philoſopher and Hiſto-" rian, an Excellent Poet, Latiniſt, Grecian, and Hebrician; " a good Mathematician and Muſician, and ſo rarely endow'd " by Nature, that, had he been but honeſtly principled, he " might have been highly uſeful to that Party, againſt which " he all along appear'd with much Malice and Bitterneſs. His Works are lately publiſh'd in Three Volumes in Folio. The two firſt containing the Engliſh, and the third the Latin Pieces. Athen. Oxon. Vol. 1, &c.

MILTON, Milton-Abbas, an ancient, but mean-built Market-Town in Dorſetſhire, 92 Miles from London.

MILTON in Kent, Scray-Lath, an Ancient Market-Town, ſeated on a Creek near Sittingburn, 37 Miles from London.

MIMICKS, (an Expreſſion of the Ancient Comedy) Buffoons, who diverted the People with ridiculous Poſtures, and repreſented any thing by ingenious Geſtures. They appeared ſometimes in the Chorus's to amuſe the People, and act a kind of dumb Comedy, repreſenting by their Geſtures, what was to be acted in the Act following. See PANTOMIMES.

MINA, or St. George of the Mine, a Place in Africa, on the Golden Coaſt in Guinnea, between the Cape of Three Points, and the Cape Corſe; there is a Fortreſs on a Hill, with a good Port. The French had a Colony there in 1383. And the Portugueſe ſettled in the ſame place in 1482. It was called Mina, becauſe of the Golden Mines near it. It is now under the Dutch ſince 1637.

MINARD, (Anthony) Lord of La Tour-Grollier, &c. Preſident of the Parliament of Paris, a great Enemy to the Proteſtants, murthered by Three Men near his Houſe in 1559, coming from the Parliament about Six in the Evening; ſince which, the Parliament decreed, That the Audiences ſhould end at Four in the Afternoon. Thuan. Hiſt. l. 22. Blanchard. Hiſt. des Preſid. &c.

MINARET, is an extraordinary high Tower, built with many Stories and Balconies jetting out. Theſe Minarets are inſtead of Steeples, whence the Officers of the Moſques call the Turks to Prayers, for Bells are not uſed in Turky. There are two of an admirable Structure, on both ſides of the Cupola of the Moſque at Mecca.

MINDANAO, one of the Philippine Iſlands, lying in about the 7th Degree of Northern Latitude; it is about 60 Leagues long, and 40 or 50 broad. The Soil, in general, is deep and black, and extraordinary fat and fruitful: The Valleys are furniſh'd with ſmall Rivers of delicate Water. The Trees are very large, and moſt of them of kinds unknown to us; the Libby Trees afford Sago, which furniſhes the Poor with Bread for Three or four Months in the Year. This Tree in bulk and ſhape, is much like the Palmeto or Cabbage-Tree, but not ſo tall as the latter. In ſome places of Mindanao there's plenty of Rice; but in the Hilly Land, they plant Yams, Potatoes, and Pumpkins. The other Fruits of this Iſland, are Water-Melons, Muſk-Melons, Plantains, Bonanoes, Guava's, Nutmegs, Cloves, Betel-Nuts, Durians, Jacks or Jaca's, Cacoa-Nuts, Oranges, &c. This Iſle is plentifully ſtock'd with Fowl and Fiſh; the Batts in Mindanao are as big as a Kite. The Weather there is temperate enough, notwithſtanding it lies ſo near the Æquator; the Inhabitants having commonly the benefit of the Breezes by Day, and cooling Land-winds by Night. As to their Religion, they are Mahometans; they have Schools to Inſtruct their Children to Read and Write, and to inform them in the Principles of Mahometaniſm. The Inhabitants are extremely affraid of the Dutch, being ſenſible how many of the Neighbouring Iſlands they have enſlav'd; and upon this Account, they have a long time deſired the Engliſh to ſettle among them, giving this reaſon for their preference, that they do not find theſe ſo encroaching, as the Dutch or Spaniſh. Dampier's New Voyage, &c.

MINDEN, an Hans-Town of Weſtphalia in Germany, with a Biſhoprick and Principality. It belongs to the Elector of Brandenburg, ſince the Peace of Munſter.

MINDORA, one of the Philippine Iſlands, 100 Leagues about, belonging to the Spaniards. Mindora, the Chief Town, has a good Haven.

MINEHEAD, a Market, Sea-Port, and Borough-Town in Somerſetſhire, It lies in Carhampton Hundred, in the S. W. parts of the County: Trades much with Ireland.

MINERVA, the Goddeſs of Wiſdom and Arts, and of what concerns Wooll; the ſame with Pallas, the Goddeſs of War. Vulcan ſtriking Jupiter's Head with his Hammer, ſhe came out of his Brain ready armed. Some Authors reckon five of her Name. The Romans kept Feaſts, named Minervalia, in Honour of her, the 3d of January, and the 19th of March. In the laſt, ſome Preſents were made to School-Maſters. Heſiod. in Theog. Ovid. Metam. Pauſanias in Attic.

MINGRELA, a large Borough, half a League from the Sea, in the Province of Viſapour, in the Peninſula of Indus, one of the beſt Shallow-Roads of all the Indies, where the Dutch take in freſh Proviſions. This Borough is famous for the Cardamom, which is eſteemed the beſt ſort of Spice in the Eaſt, and is very dear, becauſe it is found no where elſe. The Dutch Eaſt-India Company has an Exchange, with Ware-Houſes, &c. here, for not only the Ships which come from Japan, Bengala, Ceylan, and other Places, Anchor in this Road, in their Voyage to Surat, Balſora, the Red-Sea, &c. but alſo when the Portugueſe ſhut up the Bar of Goa, they ſend their Barks hither for Proviſions. Tavernier's Voyage des Indes.

MINGRELIA, named alſo Imereta, and Baciachiouch a Province in Georgia in Aſia, properly the Colchis of the Ancients, has the Black-Sea on the Weſt, Mount Caucaſus on the Eaſt, Armenia on the South, and Circaſſia on the North. There are ſome Gold and Silver Mines; whence the Fable of the Golden Fleece. The moſt conſiderable Towns are Sebaſtopolis and Fazzo; the Mountains, Caucaſus and Corax; the Rivers, Faſſo or Phaſis, and Ciano. The Country produceth Sena, Black Hellebore, Scammony, &c. White Bears, and plenty of Pheaſants, to which the River Phaſis giveth its Name. When the Mingrelians are made Friends after a falling out, they ſuck the Breaſts of their Enemies Wives. We muſt obſerve, that the Kingdom of Colchis formerly was much larger.

MINGRELIA, or Mengrelia, a Country of Georgia, ſituated between the Gurgiſtan, and the Black Sea, called by the Inhabitants Odiſci, and Colchis by the Ancients, has the Gurgiſtan on the Eaſt, the Abcaſſians, or People of Avogaſia on the North, and Turcomania on the South. It contains three Provinces, viz. Imereta, or Baſſachiouc towards the Eaſt, Guriel towards the South, and Danian, or Mingrelia properly ſo called, towards the North. That part of Mingrelia, call'd Imereta is Independent of the Turk, but the reſt of the Country is under Tribute.

Princes of MINGRELIA.

Mingrelia was formerly part of the Kingdom of Georgia. Its Kings ſent Eriſtaves, or Governors, into their other States, The Eriſtave of Odiſci, or Governor of Mingrelia, named Dadian, was the moſt conſiderable, who made himſelf Maſter of it, and from him are deſcended the Cheſilpes, or Princes of Mingrelia that have reigned ſince. Thoſe that Command now in the three Provinces of Mingrelia, take the Title of Kings, and are independent; they are continually at Wars, and all three called Dadian, that is, Chief Juſtice, from the Perſian Word Dad, Juſtice; and ſay, that they are deſcended from King David. The King's Revenue is about 20000 Crowns a Year out of the Cuſtoms, which he treaſureth up, for his Subjects ſerve him without Wages, and his Demeſnes keep all his Houſe. His Court on extraordinary Days, is compoſed of 200 Gentlemen, and the Queen's Court of Sixty fine Ladies. He has 300 Officers, beſides the Nobility. This Prince frequently preſents the King of Perſia with Faulkons, and all ſorts of Birds for Hawking. And the Sophy in Return, ſends him Gold and Silk Brockards, Tapiſtry, Plate and Arms.

The Qualities of the Country.

The Country is almoſt all covered with Woods, the Air temperate, but the Rains troubleſome. In Summer the Air infected, often cauſeth the Plague; the Inhabitants ſeldom live above Sixty, and Foreigners that live there, become yellow, dry and weak, in a Years time. The Soil is not fruitful, the Fruit not good, but the Vines, that grow to the top of Trees, (the Trunks of which are ſo very large, that a man can ſcarce fathom them) would produce the beſt Wine in the World, if they underſtood rightly how to make it. Their Bread is made of Gom, which is a kind of Corn like Hirſe Millet, very nouriſhing and opening, but muſt be eaten warm, and its cold and laxative Quality is remedied by drinking Wine. It is ſo good, that Travellers when us'd to it, diſreliſh that of Wheat: Beſides this Gom, there is a great deal of Millet, ſome Wheat, Rice, and Barley growing there. Their Meat is Beef and Pork; Fowl and Fiſh are ſcarce. The Nobility and Gentry do nothing but Hunt, having, like the Perſians, a ſmall Drum tied to their Saddle, to frighten, and make Fowl riſe. There are many Eagles, Pellicans, Caſtors, Tigers, White Bears, Leopards, Lions and Jack-calls, which are a kind of Foxes, but bigger, reputed to be the Hyana's of the Ancients, becauſe they dig out the dead Bodies, and devour Carcaſſes. The pooreſt Man keeps a Horſe, becauſe of the plenty of Paſture-Grounds; ſome Gentlemen keep 200, and the King above 5000. There is plenty of Honey, ſome white and hard, like Sugar. At the bottom of Mount Caucaſus there is a Wall above 60 Leagues long, flank'd with large Towers, kept by Muſqueteers relieved every Month, to keep the Country from the Abſcaſſian Incurſions. In many places, chiefly in Plains, the Earth ſounds under an Horſe, as if it were hollow; which makes ſome People believe that there has been a Subterranean Communication betwixt the Caſpian and Black Sea.

The MINGRELIANS Habitations and Manners.

They have neither Towns nor Boroughs, but ſome Villages, only near the Sea; all their Houſes ſtand alone, but there are ſo many, that it is impoſſible to go a Mile without finding three or four. There are nine or ten Caſtles in thick Woods to retreat unto. The Men are handſome, and Women very fair; their dreſs is like that of the Perſians, excepting their Heads, which reſemble the Faſhion of the Europeans. They are Witty and Civil, but Proud, Cruel, Perfidious and Laſcivious. The Men have alſo a greater ſhare of all theſe ill qualities than the Women. Each Mingrelian rides with a little Drum, tied to the Pomel of his Saddle, which he makes uſe of to ſtart his Game; their common ſaying is, That that Man is really happy, who has a good Horſe, a good Dog, and a good Falcon. Theft, Murder, Treachery, Adultery and Rape, are counted laudable Actions amongſt them. Inceſt is common there, and they have three or four Wives, beſides many Concubines. When the Husband takes his Wife in the Fact, he can force the Man to pay a Pig, which they commonly eat all three together. They think it charity to deſtroy the Infants newly born, when they can't keep them, and thoſe that are ſick, when they can't recover. The Mingrelians are divided into Ginaſca, or Ginandi, that is, Lords, or Gentlemen; Saccurs, rich Burgeſſes; and Moinali, or common People. The Ginaſca have Gentlemen for Servants; and the Saccurs, and Moinali, ſerve the Ginandi. No mans Merit can ever prefer him above the Quality of his Birth. The Lords are Sovereign Judges of their Vaſſal's Lives and Death, and take poſſeſſion of their Lands and Goods, when their Family is extinct. The Lords and Gentlemen, wear a Shirt imbroidered with Gold in the Neck and Bottom, and to ſhew that Ornament, their Veſt is ſhorter than the Shirt; they were alſo a Girdle, whereon hangs a Knife, a Whet-ſtone, a Tinder-box, and three Purſes, one for Salt, the ſecond for Pepper, and the third for Thread, Needles and Awls. They are ſerved in wooden Diſhes and Trenchers, except they be Noblemen. The King, Queen, and even the meaneſt Officers eat together, and Servants fill drink three times round. It is uncivil there to call for, or refuſe it. At Feaſts they drink till they be fuddled, and having roſted whole Oxen, Hogs and Sheep, ſerve them up on Hand-barrows. In their Mourning like deſperate Men, they tear their Cloths and hair off, and ſtrike their Breaſts with terrible Howlings for forty Days together; then they bury the Corps, and make a Feaſt. When a Lord dies, the Biſhop reads the Service, and the Gifts preſented to him, come to above 500 Crowns; and as the King is the Biſhop's Heir, he encourageth this Cuſtom. The Prince himſelf is invited to the Funerals. The next Day after Eaſter, they feaſt on the Tombs of the Deceaſed, imagining that this Regale is as good as Praying for the Dead. They can Arm 30000 Men, but have no Order in their Wars. They are extraordinary kind to Phyſicians, and civil to Strangers. Women can ride like Men. The Gentlemen ſelling their Subjects to the Perſians and Turks depopulate their Country. Beſides Slaves, they ſell Silk, Flax, Linen-cloth, Skins, Box, Wax and Honey. Their Religion ſeems to have been like that of the Græcians. Some Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtorians ſay, that a Slave converted the King, Queen and Lords of Colchis, in the Reign of Conſtantine the Great. Others affirm, that Cyrillus, in Sclavonian Chiuſil, did it in 860. But the Mingrelians ſhew a Church near the River Corax, where they affirm, that St. Andrew preached. Formerly they were under the Patriarch of Antioch; but are now under the Patriarch of Conſtantinople; nevertheleſs they have two Primates call'd Catholicos. The Primate of Georgia has five Provinces under him. The Primate or Patriarch of Odiſci has as many, and his Revenues are almoſt as Great as thoſe of the Prince; and indeed all the Biſhopricks are very rich. Formerly there were twelve Biſhopricks, and now but ſix. They take Money for Confeſſions. They offer Sacrifices, as under the ancient Law. They keep Lent very ſtrictly, eat no Fleſh on Mondays, becauſe they Reſpect or Fear the Moon. Friday is a holy Day to them, becauſe of the Good Friday; which Cuſtom came probably from Conſtantine. Church-men are none of the moſt knowing, and as our Author reports it, ſomewhat negligent in their behaviour at the Maſs. Their Prelates wear very Rich Habits, and little different from lay men of Quality; they Divert themſelves with Hunting, and in time of War they take the Field, and putting themſelves at the Head of their Subjects or Vaſſals, diſtinguiſh themſelves with no leſs Reſolution than the Temporal Nobility. St. George is their great Saint, as he is likewiſe to the Georgians, Muſcovites and all the Greeks. They keep four Lents, and, at that time, Maſs is ſaid Sundays and Saturdays only, becauſe Communion breaks the Faſt. They kill Beaſts and Birds, and pour Wine and Oyl on the Tombs of their Relations, as the Pagans did. Prieſts can marry a ſecond time, with the Biſhop's Diſpenſation, which coſts a Piſtol. Being called to to viſit ſick People, they only look in a Book, to find out the cauſe of the Diſeaſe, which commonly is attributed to ſome Image's Anger, which muſt be appeaſed with an Offering. As ſoon as a Child is born, they anoint him, and ſign his Fore-head with the Sign of the Croſs, deferring his Baptiſm till he be two Years old; then they dip him in warm Water, ſometimes in Wine, and being anointed all over, they give him ſome of the Panis Benedictus, or Bread Bleſs'd, but not conſecrated, to eat, and Wine to drink. Theatin Relation de la Mingrelie, Sir. John Chardin. Tavernier's Voyage de Perſe.

MINIMS, an Order of Monks, founded by St. Francis de Paule, they were named Bon hommes at Paris, becauſe Lewis XI. and Charles VIII. called Francis de Paule, and his Fellows, ſo: They took the Name of Minims out of Humility. See St. FRANCIS de Paule.

MINORI, Lat. Minora, a little Town of the Kingdom of Naples, with a Biſhoprick.

MINORCA, an Hilly and Woody Iſland of the Mediterranean Sea, Eaſt of Majorca, towards the Weſt of Spain, 45 Leagues about.

MINOS I. of that Name, King of Crete, reputed Son of Jupiter by Europa, a ſevere Judge, therefore feign'd Judge in Hell, began his Reign about An. Mun. 2645. He is different from Minos II. Androgeus's, Ariadne's and Phædra's Father. He forced the Athenians to pay a Tribute of young Men and Virgins, till Theſeus killed Taurus, his famous Champion. Ovid's Metam. l. 8. Plutarch. in Theſeo, Euſeb. in Chron.

MINOTAURE, a Monſter, part Man, and part a Bull, born of Paſiphae, Wife of Minus, King of Crete. Poets Romance thus, Paſiphae falling in Love with a Bull, Dædalus contrived it ſo by putting her into a Cows Hide, that ſhe enjoyed the Beaſt, and bore the Minotaure, which Minos ſhut up in a Labyrinth. But Servius ſays, That Paſiphae became enamour'd of Taurus, Secretary to Minos, and was naught with him in the King's Abſence, and was brought to Bed of Twins; whereof one was adjudg'd to Minos, the other to Taurus, which occaſioned the Fiction of a Minotaure.

MINTURNE, in Latin Minturnæ, a Town and Colony or Latium near Campania, famous for a Council, wherein it was decided, That no Judge was above the Pope; nothing remains of it now, but Ruines of Amphitheaters and Aqueducts. It is known in Hiſtory by Marius's Impriſoment, whoſe Look frighted the Soldier that went to behead him. Lucan. lib. 1. Pharſ. Ptolemy, &c.

MINUTIUS, a falſe God, implor'd by the Ancients for ſmall Things. Feſtus, Lamprid. &c.

M. MINUTIUS AUGURINUS, a Roman Conſul in 257 of R. The Family of the Minutians, Minutia gens, one of the Noble Families of Rome, produc'd many Magiſtrates, as Marcus Minutius Augurinus, who left L. Minutius Augurinus Conſul in 296. This Conſul had the Command of an Army againſt the Æqui, whoſe Courage being rais'd by deſpair, made him beat the Romans into their Camp, which they afterwards Beſieg'd; but the Senate making Cincinnatus Dictator, the Æqui were repuls'd, and Minutius brought off, however for the misfortune of his Conduct, he was obliged to lay down his Conſulſhip. P. Minutius Augurinus, Marcus's Brother, Conſul 262. whoſe Son was Conſul 297. T. Minutius Augurinus, Conſul 449. of R. &c. Tit. Liv. l. 2. & 3. Dion. Halic. l. 6. c. 16. Caſſiodor. &c.

MINUTIUS RUFUS, a Roman Conſul, to which Office he, and Cornelius Scipio Naſica were Elected in the 533 of Rome: 'Twas this Year that the Romans made War with the People of Iſtria, and that Hannibal ſat down before Saguntum in Spain: Soon after Hannibal paſſing into Italy, gained ſeveral Battles againſt the Romans, and amongſt the reſt that at the Lake of Thraſimene in 537; upon which Fabius Maximus, being choſen Dictator, Minutius Rufus was General of the Horſe; 'Twas at this time, that Fabius got the Name of Cunctator or the Delayer. Now the People of Rome, being naturally Hot, and impatient for Action, grew weary of Fabius's diſcretion, but not being able to depoſe him from his Dictatorſhip, found out an Expedient to cut off one half of his Authority, by making an Order, that the General of Horſe ſhould have an Equal Power with the Dictator, ſo that now Minutius, ſtanding upon equal ground with Fabius Maximus, was very deſirous to hazard a Battle; Hannibal underſtanding his Diſtraction, drew him into a Defile, where if Fabius had not diſingaged him, he had loſt all his Army. Minutius was ſo acknowledging, for this favour, that he did not think it any diſparagement to him to quit his new Privilege of Equality, and put himſelf, as formerly, under Fabius's Command. Livy Lib. 32, 33. Saluſt, &c.

Q. MINUTIUS THERMAS, a Roman Conſul in 561, R. and Collegue to L. Cornelius Merula: He made War upon the Ligurians, but not with Succeſs, for ſuffering himſelf to be drawn into a Defile or narrow Paſſage, he had undoubtedly been loſt, if Maſſiniſſa's Numidian Cavalry had not fetcht him off: For theſe Numidians who were deſpis'd by the Enemy, charging the Vanguard, and afterwards breaking through the whole Army, Rear'd the Ligurians; upon which advantage, Minutius making a Puſh with his Men, open'd the way, and Oblig'd the Enemy to Retire. Livy Lib. 33.

MINUTIUS FELIX, an Eminent Roman Lawyet, living in the beginning of the Third Century, or towards the end of the Second. St. Jerom gives this account of him. "Minutius a great Roman Orator, wrote a Dialogue, call'd Octavius, where he brings in a Chriſtian and a Heathen diſputing about Religion. There is another Intitled De Fato, "goes under his Name, but this, though writ by a Man of "Elocution, ſeems different from the Stile of the firſt. Lactantius likewiſe gives a great Character of Minutius. Some Authors fancy, the Dialogue above mentioned, was written by Arnobius, but this is very unlikely, for, as the Criticks obſerve, Arnobius's Works are written in a very different Stile from the other. Some are of Opinion that Cæcilius, whom Minutius Felix introduces on the Chriſtian ſide of the Diſpute, was St. Cyprian's Maſter, in Reſpect to whom, that Father took the Name of Cæcilius, at his Baptiſm. Hieron de Vir. cap. 58. *Epiſt. ad Magn. MIRAMOLIN, or Miramalolin by Corruption, for Emirelmemunim, that is, Chief or Prince of the Faithful, was a common Name to the Mooriſh Princes; and under this Name we have known many of thoſe Princes, as him, who in 1195 entered into Spain with 600000, and killed 50000 Chriſtians in 1233 of the Spaniſh Epocha, &c. Rhoderic, Mariana, Surita, Turquet, &c.

LA MIRANDE, or Mirandola, a Sovereign Dukedom of Italy, with a fortified Town of that Name between Ferrara, Modena, Mantua, and Concordia. The Town is defended with Seven Royal Baſtions, a Cittadel and Fort called Roua. It has been poſſeſs'd by the Family of the Pics theſe 5 or 600 Years. See PIC.

MIRCHOND, a Famous Perſian Hiſtorian, who writ the Hiſtory of that Country, in ſeveral great Volumes; theſe Books are ſo eſteemed in Perſia, that they are commonly Sold for more than 200 Crowns. There are ſome People at Paris and Leyden, who have ſeveral of theſe Volumes, but 'tis thought, they are not all of them brought into Europe. Olearius, Voyage de Perſe.

MIREFLEUR, or Miroflede, a poor Woollen-Weaver's Daughter, and one of the Maid-Servants of Ingoberge King Charibert's Wife. This Prince fell in Love with her and married her, his Wife being ſtill living. Marcoveſſe, Mirefleur's eldeſt Siſter, very fair and handſome, whom though ſhe had vowed Virginity, the ſame King married, after her Siſter's Death. S. Germain excommunicated them for this Scandal. Charibert dyed in 570. Gregor. Tur. l. 4. Valois de geſt. Franc.

MIREMONT, a Borough of Perigord in France, famous for the large Cave nam'd Cluſeau, which runs very far under Ground; and if we believe the Country People has Chambers, Paintings, Altars, &c. where the Ancient Pagans ſacrificed to Venus and the Infernal Gods.

MIREPOIX, in Latin Mirapicum, Mirapiſcæ, Mirapincum, and Mirapicium, a Town of the Earldom of Foix, in the higher Languedoc, with a Biſhoprick Suffragan to Toulouſe. Du Cheſne, S. Marthe, &c.

MIREUS (Albertus) Dean of Antwerp, was born at Bruſſels in 1573; He was a perſon of great Probity and Learning. His Works are, Elogia Illuſtrium Belgii Scriptorum. Elogia Illuſtrium Gentis Spinulæ. Vita Juſti Lypſii. Origines Monaſteriorum Benedictinorum, Carthuſianorum, Ordinum Equeſtrium, Carmilitani Ordinis, Auguſtinianorum, *Canonicorum Regularium S. Auguſt. MIRZAMAHAMED, The preſent King of Golconda's Son-in-Law, (in 1680.) Surnam'd Chek, becauſe he is related to the Great Chek, or Prince of Mecca. The Hiſtory of his Marriage is very remarkable. He went to Golconda in a Fakir's Habit, where his Wit being known, he was brought to the King, to whom he declared that his Deſign was to marry the Princeſs; which Propoſition was received as from a Madman; but he inſiſting, threatning, and foretelling many Miſfortunes, if he was denied, he was kept Priſoner, and afterwards ſent back to Mecca. Two Years after he went again to Golconda, and made himſelf ſo well known, that he married the Princeſs, and is now very powerful there. He hindered the ſurrendring of the Fortreſs of Golconda to the Mogul, threatning to kill the King if he would not reſiſt bravely. He loves Mathematicks, and is kind to the Chriſtians: Tavernier's Voyage des Indes.

MISACH PALEOLOGUE, Baſhaw and General of the Grand Seignior's Army, was a Græcian of the Imperial Houſe of the Paleologi; He turned Mahometan to ſave his Life, when Conſtantinople was taken by Mahomet II. 1453. Where that Prince put to Death all the Chriſtians of the Emperor Conſtantine's Family. He became the Sultan's Favourite and commanded the Army that beſieged Rhodes in 1480. But becauſe of his bad Succeſs there, he was baniſh'd. After the Sultan's Death he returned to the Port, and acquired Bajazet's Favour. P. Bouhours, Hiſt. de Pierre d' Aubuſſon.

MISCOU, an Iſland in New France, in the Northern America: 'Tis ſmall but extreamly fruitful; it lies in the Gulph of St. Laurence, between Canada and the Iſle of St. John.

MISELLUS, Myſcellus, or Myſcelus, of Argos, having Hercules's Order to go into Calabria, went into Italy, where he built a Town, which he nam'd Crotona, in Memory of Croton Hercules's Hoſt. Some ſay that Miſellus directed by the Oracle to ſettle where he ſhould find Rain with fair Weather, finding a Curtezan weeping, built Crotona there in the XVIIth. Olympiad and 45. of Rome, according to Euſebius. Ovid. l. 11. Strabo l. 6. &c.

MISERICORDIA, a Goddeſs worſhipped by the Heathens, had a Temple at Athens, and another at Rome, which was a Sanctuary for Criminals and unfortunate People. Virgil. 8. Æn. Pauſanias, &c.

MISITRA, a Town of Morea. See LACEDÆMON.

MISNIA, or Myſſen, a Province of Saxony in Germany, with the Title of Marquiſate, belonging to the Electors of Saxony, the Chief Town whereof is Dreſden on the Elbe, with a Stately Caſtle, the Reſidence of the Elector. The other Towns are Altemburg, Chemnitz, Hall, Leipſick, Mersburg, Meiſſen, &c.

MISON [Myſon] a Lacedæmonian, eſteemed one of the Seven Wiſe Men of Greece. Anacharſis asking the Oracle, who was wiſer than himſelf, was anſwered that Miſon was the Man, who was found mending his Plough. Diogen. Laert. lib. 1.

MISSIONARIES, Churchmen, or Monks ſent by the Pope, or Biſhops to convert the Infidels and Schiſmaticks. The Jeſuits, Carmelites, and Capuchin-Friars, are ſent now to preach in Turky, Perſia, Georgia, Africa, Eaſt-Indies, Congo, &c. There are always ſome of them that practiſe Phyſick, to introduce themſelves the better.

MITHECUS, a Sophiſter of Syracuſe, got a great Name by his Cookery, and was eſteemed the beſt Cook of his Time. With his Art, he thought he might ſettle at Lacedæmon, where he really found ſo many Diſciples among the young Men, that the Magiſtrates commanded him to go out. Ælian. l. 4. Hiſt.

MITHRA, a Name given to the Sun by the Perſians, Eaſtern People, Romans and Gauls. He was repreſented in Perſia with a Lion's Face, becauſe the Sun is in moſt force in that Country, when in the Sign Leo, and a Perſian Crown on his Head. Tertullian, Juſtin the Martyr, and St. Hierom, ſay, That the God Mithra's Ceremonies were performed in Caves, and Places under the Ground: Bulls and Humane Creatures were ſacrificed unto him. The Gauls adored him under both Sexes, which is not ſo ſtrange, ſince the Hebrews gave the Sun a Name, ſignifying The Queen of Heaven; and the Ancient Gracians of Meſopotamia repreſented the Moon under the Shape of a Man. Spon Recherches curieuſes d'Antiquite, Vatabl. crit. Sacr.

MITHRIDATES, King of Pontus, famous for his Wars againſt the Romans, a great and ſtout General, hating the Romans, as much as Hannibal did. He conquered almoſt all Aſia, and by Letters and Promiſes he cauſed all the Romans to be maſſacred the ſame Day and Hour, A. R. 666 or 667. Sylla overcame his Generals, with whom he made a Peace 670. Mithridates ſoon after began the War again, and had great Succeſs at firſt; but Lucullus defeated him ſeveral times in An. Rom. 682 and 83. He raiſed another powerful Army, was defeated again by Pompey 689. and loſt all his Troops, which made him retire into Armenia to his Son-in-Law Tigranes. But hearing that his Son Pharnaces had declared himſelf King, being poiſon Proof, he ſtabb'd himſelf in the CLXXIXth Olympiad, and 690 of Rome. He was a great Traveller, very Learned, and could ſpeak many Languages. He Compos'd a Treatiſe De Arcanis morborum, and the Sort of Antidote named Mithridate; but he was cruel. Appian, Tit. Liv. lib. 67. and 77. Plutarch, Dion, &c.

MITREUS and AUTOBEZACES, Two young Lords in Cyrus the Young's Court, who appearing before the King without hiding their Hands in their Sleeves, according to the Perſians Cuſtom, were executed without Mercy. It was likewiſe Death to ſit in the King's Seat, though in his Abſence, to look upon the Face of the King's Wife, or any of his Concubines, to wear the King's Cloaths after him, and even to hurt a Wild Beaſt in hunting, before the King had wounded it. Herodotus l. 13. Xenophon l. 2. Hellen, &c.

MNASON, a Prince or Tyrant of Elatea, a great Lover of Pictures, gave 300 Minæ of Silver a piece for the 12 Pictures of the Gods, drawn by Aſclepiadorus. He gave alſo 100 Minæ for each Picture of the Hero's, drawn by Theomneſtes another famous Painter. Pliny l. 35. cap. 16.

MNEMOSYNE, a Nymph, feigned the Muſes Mother, becauſe her Name ſignifieth Memory. Pliny l. 35. cap. 11. ſpeaks of her famous Picture drawn by Philiſcus.

MOAB, that is, my Father's Son, Son of Lot by his Eldeſt Daughter, born An. Mun. 2139. The Moabites deſcended from him, Gen. 19. 12. Joſephus Ant. Judaic. l. 1, &c. Torniel in Annal.

MOATAZALITES, or Mutazalites, the Name of a Sect of Mahometans ſignifying ſeparated, becauſe ſeparated from the reſt. They call themſelves Defenders of God's Unity and Juſtice. They ſay that God is Eternal, Wiſe, Powerful, &c. but not Eternal by his Eternity, nor Wiſe by his Wiſdom, for fear of admitting ſome Multiplicity in God. Ricaut of the Ottoman Empire.

MOAVIA, a Governor of Egypt, and General of Odman's Army; afterwards Califf of Syria, and the IVth Succeſſor of Mahomet. In Odman's Reign, he ruined Cyprus in 649, routed the Emperor Conſtans II. in 654; took Rhodes and pulled down the Coloſſus of the Sun, one of the Wonders of the World in 655. After Odman's Death, Ali endeavouring to come to the Throne, overcame Mahomet Odman's Son, and was proclaimed Califf, whom Moavia oppoſed, and cauſed him to be killed in a Moſque 659. Haſcen Ali's Eldeſt Son being declared Califf, Moavia feigning to yield, crowned him himſelf that he might have a better Opportunity to Impriſon him. After having diſpatched his Enemy, he made War againſt the Chriſtians, and the Perſians; and returning home to Damaſcus his Chief City, he took the Title of King and Emperor, inſtead of that of Califf. He attacked Conſtantinople 671, during Seven Years without Succeſs. Some few Years after he ſent two powerful Armies againſt the Chriſtians, which were defeated, ſo that he was forced to beg a Truce for 30 Years, which he obtained, upon Condition that the Emperor ſhould pay him Ten Beſants of Gold per diem, together with a Slave, and a good Horſe. Moavia enjoying Peace, began to regulate Religious Affairs, and chuſing 12 of the moſt Learned Doctors of his Law, he ſhut them up in an Houſe, commanding them to ſtudy aſunder, and extract out of Abubequer's, Omar's, and Odman's Books, what they ſhould like beſt; which extract of Six Books was named Alcoran, that is a Collection of the Law; and all the reſt were thrown into the River. Since that an Arabian named Leſhari, gathered thoſe Ten Books into One Volume, which has the Author's Name, viz. Leſhari's Alcoran. So Moavia having in a manner repaired his Law, after many Conqueſts, died 682 at Damas, leaving Two Sons, Jezid and Abdala. Marmol. de l' Afrique l. 2.

MOCENIGO, (Andrew) a Noble Venetian, Author of Two Books, De Bello Turcarum, and Belli Cameracenſis l. IV. The Family of Mocenigo has produced many great Men, and given Four Doges, viz. Thomas Mocenigo Elected 1413. Peter Mocenigo, 1474. John Mocenigo, 1477. and Lewis Mocenigo, 1570.

MODENA, the Chief Town of the Country named Modena in Italy, with a Biſhoprick Suffragan to Bolognia. It is called in Latin Mutina, and is ſituated between the Rivers Sechia and Panaro. There are many Springs, Porches, and Arches, but the Streets are very narrow. It was formerly a Roman Colony, where Brutus was beſieged in vain, An. Rom. 710. after Jul. Cæſar's Death. This Town was deſtroyed by the Goths and Lombards, and Rebuilt in the Reign of Charlemaigne's Sons. It is ſeen a far off, becauſe of its high Steeple. The Cathedral, Monaſteries, and other Churches are fine, the Duke's Palace is very ſtately, the Cittadel ſtrong, the Town well inhabited, the Country fruitful, and there they make the beſt Masks. Modena was erected into a Dukedom by the Emperor Frederic III. 1452. in Borſo d'Eſte's Favour, and has produced many famous Men. It has Parma on the Weſt; Bolognia and Ferrara on the Eaſt, the Dukedoms of Mantua, of Mirandola, &c. on the North; and part of the Dukedom of Tuſcany's, and the Republick of Lucca's Dominions, and Maleſpines on the South. The Duke of Modena's Lordſhips, beſides Modena, are the Dukedom of Reggio; the Principality of Carpi and Corregio, Frignan, Saſſevil; part of Guarfagnagne Vale, and the Earldom of Roli. Strabo l. 5. Pliny l. 3, &c. See ESTE.

Councils of MODENA.

A Synod was held at Modena in 973, to reconcile ſome Princes of Germany. Some Synodal Ordinances for that Dioceſs were publiſhed in 1565.

MODIUS (Francis) Canon of Aire in Artois, was born in 1556, near Bruges in Flanders. He was a good Linguiſt, a good Lawyer, and underſtood the polite Part of Learning. Modius wrote Notes upon Quintus Curtius, Livy, Vegetius, and Juſtin. His own Works are as follow; Octoſticha ad ſingulas Cleri Romani Figuras. Notæ in Corpus Juris. Rerum Criminalium Praxis. Pandectæ Triumphales, ſive Pomparum, Feſtorum ac Solennium Apparatuum, Conviviorum, Spectaculorum, &c. Tom. II. in Fol. Melchior Adam in Vit. Philoſ. Germ. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg.

MODON, a Town of the Province of Belvedere, on the Southern Coaſt of Morea, called by the Ancients Methone, and by the Turks Metune, with a Biſhoprick Suffragan to Patras, and a very good Haven. It is famous for trading, and the Reſidence of the Sangiack of Morea. In the times of Trajan it ſuffered very much by the Illyrian Barbarians, who ſurprized and ſlew many of its Inhabitants; which Loſs that generous Prince repaired by his Princely Compaſſion, and advantageous Grant to it. In 1208. the Genoueſe raviſhed it from the Venetians, but did not hold it long. The Venetians came into Poſſeſſion again, and were Maſters of it until Bajazet II. in 1498. beſieged it with an Army of 150000 Men, and took it by a kind of Surprize, after a ſtout Defence upon the Arrival of a conſiderable Succour, which drew the Inhabitants from their Poſts to their Ruin. In 1659. Moroſini the Venetian General took it, and might have taken Coron too if he had not been forced to ſail away to the Dardanelles for the Security of Candy. The Turks regained this Place in the end of the Candian War. But in 1686. the Venetian Arms again prevailed, to deliver this Noble and Strong City out of the hands of the Infidels. They found in it 90 Pieces of Cannon. P. Coronelli Deſcript. de la Morée.

MOEN, or Mone, an Iſland of Denmark in the Baltick-Sea, not far from Zeland Iſland.

MOENIUS, (Caius) a Roman Conſul, conquer'd the Latins, who liv'd in Campania di Roma: The Romans, in Reward of his Conduct, gave him the Third Part of the Booty. This Moenius was the firſt that ornamented the Roſtra in the Forum with Stems of Ships, taken from the Enemy at the Battel of Antium in the 416th Year of Rome. Pliny lib. 34. cap. 5. Livy lib. 8.

MOERIS, King of Egypt, who, as it is ſaid, digged the Lake Moeris on the W. of Memphis, from S. to N. 3600 Furlongs about, which is all the Extent of the Coaſts of the Mediterranean Sea all along Egypt, and therefore eſteemed one of the Wonders of the World. Its Depth was Fifty Paces. Many Pyramids were built in the middle of it, before the River Nile had filled it. Every Pyramid was Fifty Paces elevated above the Water, and had on the Top a Giant of a prodigious Bigneſs. Marmol de l' Afrique l. 11. See MOERIS.

MOERIS, a great Lake of Egypt, 72 Miles from Memphis Weſterly. Mela ſaith that it is 20 Miles about. There was the famous Labyrinth ſo much admired formerly, built, as ſome think, by King Peteſucus, or Tithoës, above 2000 Years before the taking of Troy. Herodotus ſaith, That all the Kings of Egypt were concerned in that great Work, finiſhed A. M. 3550. Others ſay, That Moeris built it for his Burying-place. Pliny thinks that it was erected in the Sun's Honour, and divided into Sixteen Parts, each containing many large Habitations; that there were as many Temples, as Egyptian Gods, beſides other Holy Buildings, and many high Pyramids. The coming in into the Turnings of the Labyrinth was through Entries leading to Porches, adorned with Columns of Porphyry, and extraordinary great Statues, repreſenting the Gods and Kings of Egypt, whence they went up Ninety Stairs. That Part that was the true Labyrinth was but the hundredth Part of that Illuſtrious Monument; and it was not like other Labyrinths, that have many Turnings in a little Compaſs; for it was extraordinary large, walled about, and divided into many diſtinct Parts, with ſo many Ways and Doors on all Sides, that it was almoſt impoſſible to get out without the help of Pack-thread,the End of which was to be tied to the firſt Door. Herodotus deſcribes it thus: Of the 12 vaulted Rooms or Halls,whereof the Doors are oppoſed one to another, Six are on the North, and Six on the South: The Lodgings are double,under and above the Ground,and contain 300 Rooms. Through the Windings and Turnings therein, one is led from a Hall into ſome Cloſets and Rooms, thence into other Parlours, and from them into other Cloſets and Rooms. Each Hall is almoſt ſurrounded with Columns, and all the Cielings adorned with carved Work. In the Corner, where the Labyrinth ends, is a Pyramid 40 Fathoms high, the Entrance whereof is under-ground. Pliny ſaith, That it was divided into Sixteen Apartments to anſwer the Sixteen Governments of the Country, each containing ſtately Palaces, Temples, Pyramids, and Galleries, adorned with Columns and Statues. According to Strabo, there were Thirty Apartments to anſwer the Thirty Governments of Egypt. There was a Statue of Serapis, Nine Cubits high, made of a ſingle Emerald, as Appion relates. The Place where this Labyrinth was, is called now Caſtr. Carun, or Caron's Caſtle, who was a famous Viſier; and ſome Travellers ſay, That there are ſtill 350 Rooms ſo well contrived one within another, that it is not eaſy to come out of them. This Labyrinth was imitated by Dædalus in Crete; by Theodorus at Lesbos, and by others in Hetruria, for King Porſenna's Tomb. Chevreau Hiſt. du Monde, Felibien vie des Architectes.

MOGOL, or the Empire of the Great Mogol, alſo called Indoſtan, containing the moſt part of the Continent of the Indies. The Indians named Mogols or Mogors, the People that are not ſo black as thoſe of the Peninſula's. The Empire of the Mogol has Tartary on the North, Perſia on the Weſt, the River Ganges and ſome Mountains on the South, and other Mountains on the Eaſt. It is about 650 Leagues long from Eaſt to Weſt, and above 450 from North to South, containing 40 Kingdoms that commonly take their Names from the Chief Towns. Agra and Delly are the Chief, becauſe of the Emperor's Reſidence. The Country is well inhabited near the great Rivers, fruitful in Cotton, Rice, and Millet or Hirſe, Limons, Oranges, Dates, Cocoa's, and Silk. The Indians are tawny with black Hair, and love the Europeans, whom they call Franquis. The Rivers Ganges and Indus run through all that Country from North to South. The Ganges's Water is extraordinary light, and ſanctifies, as the Indians believe; therefore at certain times 4 or 500000 Indians may be ſeen Waſhing and Bathing in that River, into which at their Departure, they throw Gold and Silver. The Mogols came out of Tartary and ſettled their Empire in 1401. They ſay that Timur-Lengue, that is Lame Lord or Prince, whom we name Tamberlain, married his near Couſin, the Prince of Great Tartary's only Daughter, and that the Great Mogols are deſcended from them. The Mogol is very powerful and rich in Money and Jewels. The great Lords of his Court, named Omrahs, have conſiderable Allowances; the others named Manſeb-dars, or leſſer Omrah's, are alſo kept by the Emperor. Divers Raja's, or Petty-Kings, are alſo under the Mogol, and pay him Tribute. The Omrah's are obliged to Guard the King's Houſe; and are commonly Governors of Provinces and great Towns. The Emperor is Heir to all his Subjects, and all the Lands are properly his, except ſome Houſes and Gardens, which he permits to be ſold or exchanged. The Mogol is a Mahometan, though many of his Subjects be Idolaters, whoſe Prieſts named Brachmanes or Brachmans, are very Superſtitious. See CHAH-JEHAN, BRACHMANES, and INDIES. Read Bernier's and Tavernier's Travels.

MOGOL, or Great Mogol, a Name given to the Emperor of the Continent of the Indies, on this Side, and about the River Ganges. Many Curioſities are related concerning his Feſtival-Day, his Throne and Court. The Mogol's Feſtival, or Birth-Day, laſteth Five Days; at which Time they weigh him, and if he weighs more than the Year before, they rejoice the more for it. After that, he ſits on the richeſt of his Thrones, where the Lords greet, and preſent him: The Court Ladies, and Governors of Provinces and Towns ſend their Preſents alſo; ſo that in Diamonds, Rubies, Emeralds, Gold and Silver, rich Stuffs, Elephants, Camels, and Horſes, the King receives that Day above 30 Millions of Livres. They begin the Preparations of that Feſtival-Day two Months before. The two great Courts of the Palace are covered with Tents of Crimſon Velvet imbroidered with Gold, and ſo heavy, that the Supporters are as big as Maſts, 35 or 40 Foot high. Seven ſtately Thrones are prepared for the Emperor, ſome adorned with Diamonds, others with Rubies, Emeralds, and Pearls. The great Throne erected in the firſt Court, is about Six Foot long, and Four Foot broad; the Four Feet and Bars that ſupport the Throne, are covered with enamell'd Gold, adorned with many large Diamonds, Rubies, and other precious Stones. The Ground of the Cieling is covered with Diamonds and Pearls, and a Fringe of Pearls round about it. Above the Ceiling is a Peacock, whoſe Tail is full of Blew Sapphires, and other Stones of different Colours: Its Body is of enamell'd Gold ſet with Jewels, and on its Breaſt is a large Ruby, from whence hangs a large Pearl like a Pear. A Cymetar, a Maſs of Arms, a Shield, a Bow, a Quiver full of Arrows, all inriched with precious Stones, hang on the Throne. The Twelve Pillars that ſupport the Cieling, are ſurrounded with many Rows of fine round Pearls. Overagainſt the King's Seat is a bored Jewel, whence hangs a Diamond of a prodigious bigneſs, with Rubies and Emeralds round about it. On both ſides of the Throne are two Umbrella's of Crimſon Velvet imbroidered with Gold, and a Fringe of Pearls round about it,the Sticks whereof are covered with Diamonds, Rubies, and Pearls. That famous Throne begun by Tamberlain, and ended by Chagehan, coſt above 160 Millions of Livres. Whilſt the King is on his Throne, there are 30 Horſes ready bridled; 15 on each ſide, every one held by an Officer; their Bridles being adorned with Diamonds, and other Stones, and ſome precious Jewels hanging on their Necks. The leaſt of thoſe Horſes coſts about 5000, and ſome 10000 Crowns. The King's Elephants with Covers of imbroidered Gold and Silver Chains, are brought one after another, near the Throne, to greet the Emperor, and bow to him. Thoſe that are particularly beloved, are fed with good Meat, Sugar, and Brandy. As ſoon as the King has ſeen his Elephants, he goes into the Haram, that is his Wiſe's Apartment for half an Hour,and returns to one of the Thrones in the other Hall. During the five Days, the Lords make their Preſents, and the Elephants are brought before the King, and ſometimes his Camels, &c. This Emperor is a Mahometan of the Sect of Sonnis, he is forced to keep great Armies on foot for his Security againſt the Raja's and Patens, his Domeſticks, and the Sophi of Perſia his Neighbour. Tavernier's Travels.

MOGOLS, Ancient People of Great Tartary towards the N. under a Sovereign Prince, whoſe Daughter and Heir married Tamberlain. About 1400. Tamberlain with thoſe Mogols conquered Indoſtan, now called the Empire of the Great Mogol. The true Mogols are White. Bernier Hiſtoire du Grand Mogol.

MOHATS, a little Town in the Earldom of Baranywar in the Lower Hungary, between Colocza and the Influx of the Drave into the Danube, Four German Miles from each, and Six N. of Eſſeck. This otherwiſe ſmall Place, is memorable for two great Battels fought near it, the Firſt between Lewis King of Hungary and Solyman the Magnificent, in 1526, in which this unfortunate Prince Lewis, being about twenty Years old, with 25000 Men fought 300000 Turks; when being over powered by Number, Twenty Two Thouſand of the Chriſtian Army were ſlain upon the Place, 5000 Waggons, 8 great Canon, 600 Field Pieces; with all their Tents and Baggage were taken by the Victors; and the King in his Flight over the Brook Curaſs fell into a Quagmire, and was ſwallowed up; after which, Solyman took and ſlew two Hundred Thouſand Hungarians, and got ſuch a footing in this Kingdom, that he could never be expelled: This Fatal Battle was fought October 29th. The Second in ſome Part retrieves the Loſs and Infamy of the former. The Duke of Lorrain being ſent by the Emperor with expreſs Orders to paſs the Drave, and take Eſſeck; His Highneſs July 10th 1687 with great Difficulty paſſed the River, then extreamly ſwelled with continued Rains: But finding the Grand Viſier encamped at Eſſeck, with an Army of an Hundred Thouſand Men, ſo ſtrong that it was not poſſible to attack him without the Ruine of the Chriſtian Army, he retreated and repaſſed the River on the 23d. of the ſame Month; whereupon, on the 29th. the Prime Viſier paſſed the River at Eſſeck, and upon Auguſt 12th. there followed a bloody Battle; in which the Turks loſt 100 Pieces of Cannon, 12 Mortars, all their Ammunition, Proviſions, Tents, Baggage, Treaſure and about 8000 Men upon the Place of Battle; beſides what were drowned in paſſing the River, which could never be known. After this Victory General Dunewalt found Eſſeck deſerted by the Enemy and took poſſeſſion of it.

MOLDAVIA, a Principality of Europe, known alſo under the Name of great Valachia, or Valachia Cis-Alpina, formerly Part of Dacia, and afterwards of the Great Kingdom of Hungary. It has its modern Name from a River, or from the Borough Moldavia. The Nieſter divides it from Podolia on the North; the black Sea and the Danube, divide it from Bulgaria on the Eaſt; it has the Rivers Danube and Serethe, or Miſſovo on the South; and the Mount Hæmus divides it from Valachia and Tranſylvania on the Weſt. It is about Ninety Leagues long from Eaſt to Weſt, and Seventy from North to South. It is divided into Moldavia particularly ſo called, towards the Weſt, and Beſſarabia, where the Danube's Mouths are, and belongs to the Turks. The Country of Budziack is inhabited by the Tartars Drobuces, who are great Thieves. Sockhow is the Chief Town of Moldavia, and the Reſidence of the Prince named Vaivode. Moldavia is fruitful in Corn, Pulſe, &c. The Air is very good. There is ſuch plenty of Wax and Honey, that their Tithes are worth above 200000 Crowns to the Prince. The Inhabitants are Chriſtians under the Greek Patriarch, and the Tribute they paid formerly to the Turks was about 1400 Pounds; i. e. 180000 Livres, but the Port increaſeth it from time to time, not caring how poor they make them, to render them obedient. In 1686 the Poles over-ran all this Country, and took their Principal Cities: They therefore ſince relinquiſhed the Ottoman Intereſt and voluntarily put themſelves under the Protection of the Emperour An. 1688. They have ſince till the Peace at Carlowitz in 1699. continued Fluctuating between the Intereſts of the Confederates and Turks, but for the moſt part have adhered to the Latter; and by the foreſaid Treaty, the Poles have Evacuated and Reſtored all the Fortreſſes or Cities, comprehended within the ancient Limits of Modavia before the preceeding War, and which were till then in their Poſſeſſion. *Cromer Hiſt. MOLINET (Lewis du) Biſhop of Seez in Normandy, was at the Council of Trent, as a Doctor. His Uncle reſigned him a Biſhoprick in 1564, which he governed 38 Years; and all that time was but Six Months abſent from it, to be near Henry IVth. He died in 1601.

MOLINET (Claude) a Canon Regular of St. Auſtin, very much eſteemed in the XVIIth. Century for his great Learning. He was born at Châlons in Champagne, in the year 1620, of an Ancient and conſiderable Family. He Publiſhed the Epiſtles of Stephen Biſhop of Tournay, Methodically digeſted, with an Addition of very learned Notes. The Hiſtory of the Popes, in Medals, from Martin Vth to Innocent IIth. He made it his Buſineſs to Search for Curioſities of Antiquity, and had a very valuable Collection himſelf. King Lewis XIVth, underſtanding his Talent, made uſe of him to put his Medals in Order, and to get new ones. This Task Molinet perform'd to Satisfaction, and procured the King Eight Hundred Medals, out of the Cabinet of St. Genevieve. He died at Paris, in 1687. Memoirs du Temps.

MOLINGAR, Lat. Molingaria, a ſmall City in the County of E. Meath, in the Province of Leinſter in Ireland, it's the Capital of its County, 30 Miles Weſt from Dublin.

MOLINOS (Michael) a Spaniſh Prieſt, who endeavoured to eſtabliſh new Doctrines in Italy; the Chief was, that Men ought to annihilate themſelves, in order to be united to God, and remain afterwards in Quietneſs of Mind, without being troubl'd for what ſhall happen to the Body: Therefore his Followers took the Name of Quietiſts, from the Latin Quies Reſt. By that Principle he pretended, that no real act was either meritorious, or Criminal; becauſe the Soul and her Faculties being annihilated, had no part in it; which Doctrine led people to tranſgreſs all Laws Sacred and Civil. Molinos being taken in 1687, and his 68 Propoſitions examined before the Inquiſitors and the Pope; it was decreed, That his Doctrine was falſe and pernicious, and that his Books ſhould be burnt. He was forced to recant his Errours publickly on a Scaffold erected in the Dominicans Church before the College of Cardinals, and was condemned to a ſtrict and perpetual Impriſonment, whither he was conducted in a penitential Habit. He was Sixty Years old, when he was taken, and had begun to ſpread his Doctrine in Rome 22 Years before, where his Art and natural Eloquence acquired him the Name of a Saint. He acknowledged that he had not gone to Confeſſion for Twelve Years together, and ſaid Maſs nevertheleſs. Four Thouſand Piſtols, and Twelve Thouſand Letters were found with him, whereby the Number and Quality of his Followers was known. 'Tis ſaid he was a true Penitent, and poſſibly, for this Reaſon he was not put to Death, that he might be Inſtrumental in recovering thoſe he had formerly miſled. He dyed in Priſon in 1692. Memoirs du Temps.

MOLISIA, a Province of the Kingdom of Naples, with the Title of Earldom, and a Caſtle of the ſame Name. Its Towns are Iſernia, Bojano, Latino, and Trivento.

MOLOCH, an Idol of the Ammonites, to which they ſacrificed Children and Beaſts. It was a Statue drawn but half way, with a Calf's Head, ſtretched Arms, and Seven holes on the Stomach, wherein the Victims were put; which holes were as ſo many Stoves in that hollow Statue; the firſt ſtove near the Waſt, was for the Flour; the ſecond, for Pigeons and Doves; the third, for Lambs and Sheep; the fourth, for Rams and Goats; the fifth, for Calves; the ſixth, for Bulls; and the ſeventh, for Children offered to the falſe God. That half Body was ſet over a kind of Oven, where a great Fire was kindled, and the crying of the Children drowned with the noiſe of Drums and other Inſtruments. Nevertheleſs ſome Hebrews ſay, That Children were not put into it to be Burnt, but went only through two Piles of Wood lighted before it that they might be purified by that Ceremony. Kirker Oedipus Ægyptiacus, Tom. I. The Jews that ſacrificed to that Idol, are called Molochites. Levit. 20, &c.

MOLORCHUS, an old Shepherd of Argos, received Hercules kindly, who to reward him killed the Nemæan Lion that ravaged all the Country; wherefore Feſtival Days were inſtituted, and called Molorcheans in his Honour. Virgil. Georg. 3. Tibul. l. 4.

MOLUCCA, Iſlands of Aſia in the Eaſt-Indian Sea, near the Equinoxial Line, in Latin Moluccæ, in Spaniſh, Las Molucas. They are divided into great and ſmall, the firſt are Celebes, Gilolo, Terra Papous, Ceram, &c. The ſmall which are the true Molucca, are Ternate, Tidor, Machian, Motir, Bachian, &c. all belonging to the Dutch, though Tidor, has a particular King. They are nothing in Compariſon of thoſe which are generally named Molucca. Celebes is the biggeſt. They are famous in Europe, for their Cloves, Pepper, and other Spices; were diſcovered by Magellan, and cauſed a War in 1520 between the Spaniards and Portugueſe. The Portugueſe turned the Spaniards out of them, and were themſelves turned out afterwards by the Natives aſſiſted by the Dutch, who are now Maſters of the Country and Trade. The Air is hotter than in the Philippine Iſlands; beſides Spices they produce nothing but Rice, whereof they make Bread, and a kind of ſowre Drink; the Earth is certainly dry and porous, ſo that it drinks up not only the Rain as faſt as it falls, but alſo all the Springs and Rivers before they can reach the Sea; and in many Places ſends out Fire and Smoak. The Plains are covered with Sand and Shells. The Inhabitants are almoſt all of them Mahometans, or Idolaters. Maffee Hiſt. des Indes.

MOLZA TARQUINIA, of Modena, a Lady famous for her Learning: She underſtood Hebrew, Greek and Latin very well. The Learned Men, her Contemporaries, had a particular Eſteem for her, and ſent their Works to be corrected by her; ſhe was alive in 1600. The Senate of Rome, gave her and all her Family, the Rights and Privileges of a Roman Citizen. Hilarion de Coſte Eloge des Dames Illuſtres.

MOMBARS, a famous Adventurer of this Century, a French Gentleman born, ſurnamed the Deſtroyer, becauſe of his Reſolution to exterminate the Spaniards, a great Number of whom he killed without Mercy. Hating them irreconcilably he followed his Uncle, Captain of a Frigate to the Weſt-Indies; where they took a Spaniſh Ship near S. Domingo, and put all the Spaniards to the Sword; afterwards he went with the Bucaneers, on purpoſe to fight the Spaniards. Eight Days after being attacked by four great Spaniſh Ships, his Uncle ſunk two of them, with ſo much uncautious heat, that his own went to the Bottom with them. Mombars, being Captain of the Ship taken before, ſunk another, and having boarded the Fourth, drowned all the Men to revenge his Uncle's Death, &c. Oexmelin Hiſt. des Indes Occidentales.

MOMUS, the God of Jeſting among the Poets, (who fanſied himſelf the Son of Sleep by the Night,) from the Greek μῶμος, Jeſt, or Rebuke. He did nothing elſe but examine the Actions and Works of Gods and Men, to rebuke and deride them. The Fable ſaith, that being choſen by Neptune, Vulcan, and Minerva to give his Judgment concerning the Excellency of their Works, he blamed them all; Neptune, becauſe he made not his Bull with Horns before his Eyes, or on his Shoulders, to ſtrike more ſurely, or ſtrongly; Minerva for Building a Houſe, that could not be removed in Caſe of bad Neighbours; and Vulcan, for making a Man without a little Window in his Breaſt, that his ill Deſigns and Treacheries might be ſeen. Lucian in Deor. Concil.

MONACO or Mourgues, a little Principality of Italy, between Nice and Genoua, compoſed of three little Places, viz. Monaco, Rocca, Bruna, and Menton. The Acceſs to Monaco is difficult, and the Caſtle is built on a ſteep Rock, waſhed by the Sea, where the Port is. It is the Monæcium, or Herculis Monæci Portus of the Latins. This Principality under the Protection of France belongs to the Family of Grimaldi. See GRIMALDI.

MONALDUS, of Juſtinopolis in Dalmatia, a Franciſcan Friar, and, as ſome ſay, Biſhop of Benevent, wrote a Summary of Caſes of Conſcience, named Summa Aurea, or Monaldina, about 1332. Bellarmin, Poſſevin, Le Mire, and others diſtinguiſh him not from another Monaldus, born at Ancona of the ſame Order, martyred by the Saracens 1288.

☞ Lewis Jacobili, in his Account of the Authors of Umbria, ſpeaks of Monaldus de Monaldis, a Franciſcan Friar, Biſhop of Melfe in the Kingdom of Naples, and ſaith that he wrote the Summary of the Canon-Law, and died in 1332. He ſpeaks alſo of another Monaldus, different from this Monaldus, Sirnamed De Roſariis, a Carmelite Friar, Author of ſome Sermons, de partibus pœnitentiæ, &c. who died at Bourdeaux in 1508.

MONARCHICALS, Hereticks about 196, who acknowledged but one Perſon in the Holy Trinity, and ſaid that the Father was crucified. They were Praxéas's Sprigs. St. Auſtin de Hær. c. 41. Baronius A. C. 196.

MONBAZE, a Kingdom on the Coaſt of Zanguebar in Africa, between the Kingdoms of Quiloa and Melinde. The Chief Town is in an Iſland of that Name, where is a ſtrong Fortreſs. Monbaze is large, ſituated on a Rock, and built after the Italian way. The King can arm 80000 Men, and when he comes to fight, he puts ſome Herds of Beaſts in the Van, to break the Enemies Ranks, and bear the firſt Attack. Officers alſo carry fire before the Prince's Guards, to ſignify that the vanquiſhed muſt expect to be roaſted and eaten, which is executed after the Victory. He takes the Title of Emperour of the World, pretending the whole Earth muſt obey him, and dares Heaven it ſelf, ſhooting againſt the Sun in extraordinary Rainy or Hot Weather. The Air is temperate, though near the Equinoxial Line, becauſe of the Rains and Dew; the Country being well watered produces plenty of Rice, Oranges, Limons, Pomgranates, and Peaches without Stones. It is inhabited by Whites and Negroes, and Tawny People cloathed like the Arabians. King and Subjects being Pagans formerly, imbraced Chriſtianity in 1510 for the Majority. But by an unhappy Revolution in 1631, the King falling out with the Portugueſe, ſtormed their Cittadel, Maſſacred all the Chriſtians, and turned Mahometan, to be protected by the *Turks. MONBELLIARD, in Latin Magetrobia, or Mons Belligardus, a Town and Earldom of the Empire, on the Borders of Alſatia and Franche Comté, belonging to the Duke of Wirtemberg, is ſituated at the bottom of a Rock, ſteep almoſt on all Sides, on which is a ſtrong Cittadel; the Town conſiſts only of Two or Three Streets, and its Inhabitants are Proteſtants.

MONBELLIARD, a Family. The Houſe of the Ancient Earls of Monbelliard has been famous, and has had divers Branches. The Earldom of Monbelliard came to the Family of Wirtemberg in 1397, by the Marriage of Eberard named the Young, Earl of Wirtemberg, and Duke of Teck, with Henrietta, Stephen Earl of Monbelliard her Grandfather's Heireſs; her Father Henry of Monbelliard having been killed before in 1396, at the fatal Battel of Nicapolis. The particular Branch of Wirtemberg Monbelliard began by Lewis Frederick, younger Son of Frederick, Duke of Wirtemberg. See WIRTEMBERG.

MONCHY, a Family. The Houſe of Monchy of Picardy in France is very Ancient, and has produced ſeveral great Men, as Monchy (Charles de) called the Mareſchal de Hoquincourt, a great General, who diſcontented, forſook his King and went to the Enemies Army; but obſerving the Lines of the French Army before Dunkirk, he was ſhot to Death in 1658, with five Musket Bullets.

MONCK, George Duke of Albemarle, General of the Armies of England, was Son of Sir Thomas Monck of Potheridge in Devon; where he was born in 1608. In 1626. after his Return from Cadiz in Spain, he was Enſign under Captain Burrough in the Expedition to the Iſle of Rhé, during the Siege of Rochelle, and Civil Wars of France. He went afterwards into the Low-Countries, where he gave ſuch Proofs of his Courage and Conduct in the Earl of Oxford's Regiment under the Prince of Orange, that he got a Captain's Place; at his Return thence, the Earl of Leiceſter being named Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, he made him Colonel of his own Regiment, and took him along with him into that Kingdom in 1640, being ſent for into England in the beginning of the unhappy Troubles, the King diſpatched him to Nantwich to review ſome Troops juſt arrived from Ireland; which Sir Thomas Fairfax having Advice of, with a good force out of Yorkſhire, ſurprized them, and with them Colonel Monck, who was ſent Priſoner to Hull, and thence to the Tower of London, where his Freedom, and a great Command in their Army was proffered him by the Parliament; but his Loyalty to the King out-weighed both. At laſt, by the Sollicitation of the Lord Liſle, Son to the Earl of Leiceſter, who was going Deputy into Ireland, he took the Command of a Regiment, and accompanied him thither; here he ſtayed till that Lord's Commiſſion expired. After King Charles I's Death, Cromwell perſuaded him to go along with him into Scotland, where after the Battel of Dunbar, he left him Commander in Chief when he marched againſt King Charles to Worceſter. The Noble General having ſubdued all that were in Arms in Scotland, was recalled and ſent to Sea againſt the Dutch, whom he beat in the famous Fight of 1653. wherein Admiral Tromp was killed with a Muſquet-ſhot. Peace being made with Holland, Cromwell ſent him back into Scotland to ſuppreſs ſome who had re-taken Arms for the King. Being at Edinburgh when Cromwell died, he proclaimed Richard, his Son, Protector, according to Order ſent him from the Council of England; but receiving Letters from King Charles II. ſoon after he form'd the Deſign of re-eſtabliſhing him on his Throne, and upon Advice from his Correſpondents at London of the State of Affairs there, he acquainted the Army with what he had purpoſed to do, and finding the Troops in General unanimouſly for it, he put Garriſons into Edinburgh, Berwick, and Leith, and having gained the Scotch, Iriſh, the Officers of the Engliſh Fleet, and a great Part of the Chief of the Kingdom of England, to his Side; he marched his Army to London, where by re-eſtabliſhing the Common Council of the City, he obliged it to declare for the King, and on the 17th of March in 1660, diſſolved the Long Parliament, and communicated the King's Letters to the Council of State, and to the Officers of his Army; and the Parliament meeting ſoon after, the ſame were read there, and King Charles II. proclaimed, to the inexpreſſible Joy of all Loyal Subjects. This done, the General went to Dover to receive his Prince, who embraced and kiſſed him, and made him Knight of the Noble Order of the Garter at Canterbury, the Duke of York, and Duke of Gloceſter, in Reſpect to him, aſſiſting at the Ceremony, put on the Garter and the George, and that Evening His Majeſty ſent him a Warrant to be Maſter of his Horſe; and about the beginning of July, advanced him to the Dignity of Duke of Albemarle, Earl of Torrington, Baron Monk of Potheridge, Beauchamp, and Tees. Beſides theſe Titles he was one of His Majeſties Privy Council, Gentleman of his Bed-Chamber, one of the Commiſſioners of the Treaſury, Lord Lieutenant of the Counties of Devon and Middleſex; and to maintain this Princely Honour beſides the Penſion mentioned in the Patent, his Majeſty ſettled for ever 7000 pound per Annum out of the Royal Revenue, to him and his Heirs. He commanded the Engliſh jointly with Prince Rupert, and fought the Dutch in 1666. Dying in 1669, he was honourably buried on the North-ſide of King Henry VII's Chappel. Chriſtopher, his Son and Succeſſor in his Honours, married the Lady Elizabeth, Eldeſt Daughter to Henry Earl of Ogle, Son and Heir Apparent to William Duke of Newcaſtle. He was ſent to Jamaica by King James II. in Quality of Viceroy, and died there without Iſſue. Vid. Charles II.

MONCONTOUR, a little Town of Poictou in France; in Latin Moncontuirum, famous for the Fight in 1569, in Charles IX's Reign, where Admiral Coligny was defeated.

MONCONYS (——) born at Lyons in France, went into Spain in 1628, becauſe of the Plague, where he ſtudied Mathematicks,. Judicial Aſtrology, and Chymiſtry. Afterwards he went into Portugal, where he got a great Name for drawing Horoſcopes; thence he viſited the Eaſtern Parts of the World, like Pythagoras and Plato, to learn ſomething of Triſmegiſtus's and Zoroaſter's Philoſophy; but finding nothing worth his ſtaying, he returned to Paris, where he became a famous Natural Philoſopher and Mathematician, and was reputed to know the moſt Secret Myſteries of Chymiſtry. His Travels in ſeveral Volumes are rather a Collection of rare and curious things, than an ordinary Deſcription of Countries. Memoirs du Temps.

MONDEVI, Mondevi, or Montdevis, a Town of Piedmont in Italy, having the Title of Biſhoprick Suffragan to Turin, in Latin Monſvici, or Mons Regalis. It is large, and the beſt inhabited of all Piedmont, next to Turin. There are an Univerſity, and a Cittadel, built in 1573. by Emanuel Philibert, Duke of Savoy, on a Hill which produces fine white Marble.

MONDONEDO, in Lat. Mindon or Mindonia, or Glandomirum, a little Town of Galicia in Spain, has the Title of Biſhoprick, Suffragan to Compoſtella. Some Authors take it for the Ocelum, or Ocellum of Ptolemy.

MONERVINE, or Monorbine, Lat. Minervium, Minervinum, and Mons Orvinus, a little Town of the Kingdom of Naples, with the Title of a Biſhoprick Suffragan to Bari.

MONFELTRO, Montefeltro, or S. Leon, Lat. Feretrum, Mons Feretranus, and Leopolis, a Town of the Dukedom of Urbin in Italy, having a Biſhoprick Suffragan to Urbin. It is the Chief Town of a little Country, and gave its Name to an Illuſtrious Italian Family. See URBIN.

MONFERRAND, a Town of Auvergne in France, very near Clermont, different from Monferrant, a Town, and the firſt Barony of Guienne, near the meeting of the Rivers Garonne and Dordogne.

MONFERRAT, a fruitful Province of Italy, between Piedmont, Milaneze, and Genoa, formerly part of Lombardy, having near 200 either Boroughs, Caſtles, or Towns. This Province has had particular Lords ſince the beginning of the Xth Century. Read Poſſevin. in Gonzag. Hiſt. Mont. Cap. & Virgilio Pagani, della Guer. di Mont. Sanſovin Orig. delle Famig. d'Ital. Guichenon Hiſt. de Savoye, Du Cange Hiſt. de Conſt. &c. There you will find their Genealogy. Charles V. gave Monferrat to the Duke of Mantua, notwithſtanding the Duke of Savoy's, and the Marquiſs of Saluces's Claim to it, which cauſed the War of Monferrat, begun in 1613, after the Death of Gonzague II. Duke of Mantua. Divers Treaties of Vercelle in 1614, of Aſt in 1615, of Pavia in 1617, could not end this War, which was like to inflame all Italy; but a Peace was at laſt happily thus concluded at Quieras or Quieraſque in 1631. Victor Amadeus, Duke of Savoy, had that part of Monferrat on this ſide the River Po, and beyond Tever; and the reſt of the Province was yielded to the Duke of Mantua. See GONZAGUE.

MONFIA, a little Town of Africa, on the Coaſt of Zanguebar.

MONFORT, called the Amauri, in Lat. Monfortium Amalrici, and Monfortium Almariæ, a little Town of Montoran in the Government of l'Iſle de France, 10 Leagues from Paris, had the Title of Amauri, which has been the Title of many of its Lords.

MONFORT, (L'Amauri) a Family. The Houſe of Monfort L'Amauri is very Ancient. The Ancienteſt that is come to our Knowledge was Amauri I. in 1053 and 72, Lord of Monfort, to which he gave his Name. He is reputed the Son of William ſurnamed of Hainault, by ſome; but this is uncertain. That Family has produced many conſiderable Men, and the laſt Dukes of Bretaigne came out of it. MONFORT, (Simon de) Earl of this Name, famous for the Wars which he made upon the Albigenſes, in the XIIIth. Century. He was pitch'd upon for General of the Croiſade againſt theſe Albigenſes in 1209. His Army rendezvous'd at Lyons about Midſummer, and then march'd into Languedoc, where thoſe Hereticks (as Morery calls them) were planted. His Forces firſt took Beziars, and then Carcaſſonne, which advantages were attended with ſeveral others, gain'd by the Courage and Conduct of the Earl of Monfort. Raymond, Earl of Toulouſe, took the Albigenſes part, and ſo drew the Croiſade upon himſelf, who attack'd his Capital in 1211, but were oblig'd to draw off: Monfort was likewiſe beſieg'd in Caſtlenau, but diſengaged himſelf very honourably, defeating the Count de Foix's Troops with a handful of his own; but the Victory which he gain'd at Muret, in 1213, was much more conſiderable. And here we are to underſtand that Peter, King of Arragon, the Earls of Toulouſe, Foix, and Cominge, beſieg'd this Town, which ſtands Three Leagues above Toulouſe. Theſe Confederates had an Army of above 100000 Men, and ſome ſay 200000, whereas the Croiſade was not above 800 or 1000, and yet they defeated the Enemy, killing the King of Arragon, and about 15 or 20000 of his Forces. In the Year 1215. the Council of Montpelier, and the General Council of Lateran under Innocent III. inveſted the Earl of Monfort with the Earldom of Toulouſe, on Condition of Homage to King Philip the Auguſt. After this Grant, he beſieg'd Toulouſe in 1218, and was knock'd on the Head there, by a Stone thrown out of an Engin by a Woman, having received five Arrows in his Body before, he left Three Sons, Guy, Count de Bigorre; Amauri, and Simon, Earl of Leiceſter in England. *Spondan. MONGATS, a Fortreſs of the Earldom of Pereczas in the Higher Hungary, ſituated on a ſteep Rock with a Borough at the Foot of it, well ſhut up and ſurrounded with a Ditch full of Water. A great Marſh is all about this Place, which Nature has made Impregnable. The Fortreſs contains Three Caſtles, the Firſt and Higheſt commanding the Second, and the Second above the Third; all Three ſurrounded with a Ditch wrought in the Rock, and the paſſage from one to another is over Three Bridges. The Princeſs Ragotski, Count Tekeley's Wife, defended this Place againſt a powerful Army, which was forced to raiſe the Siege, but after a Blockade of many Years, being not able to pay her Troops, ſhe Capitulated in 1688, and ſurrendred the Town to the Emperor, and was conducted to Vienna with her Children, where ſhe was to live quietly without correſponding with her Husband. Memoirs du Temps.

MONGOMERY, an Earldom of Normandy in France, belonging to the Family of Ponthieu formerly. Blanche de Ponthieu, John de Ponthieu's Eldeſt Daughter and Heireſs, brought it into the Houſe of Harcourt, marrying John V. Earl of Harcourt. Afterwards Jane of Harcourt, Counteſs of Mongomery being divorced by René II. Duke of Lorrain her Husband in 1485, gave this Earldom to Francis of Orleans I. Earl of Longueville, &c. her Couſin, in 1488. And James de Lorge bought it ſince of another Francis of Orleans, Marquiſs of Rothelin.

MONGOMERY, or Gabriel de Lorge, Earl of Mongomery, was ſent by Francis I. in 1545, into Scotland to Command the Auxiliary Troops ſent to Mary Stuart againſt the Engliſh. This made ſome Authors take James de Lorge, and the Earl his Son for the ſame Man. However he was very dextrous, though his Dexterity was fatal to France; for in the publick Rejoicings at the Wedding of Elizabeth of France with Philip II. King of Spain, Henry II. her Father, commanded the Earl of Mongomery to Tilt againſt him. He was unwilling at firſt, but being forced to it, his Launce breaking againſt the King's Breaſt-Plate, a Shiver wounded the Prince's Right Eye ſo much, that he fell down Speechleſs, and died Eleven Days after in 1559. De Lorge was Innocent, nevertheleſs retired into England, and returned into France during the Civil Wars, wherein he ſignalized himſelf in the Proteſtants Party. He was in Rouen in 1562, when it was taken from the Proteſtants, and with the Engliſh he got into a Galley, the whole Crew of Slaves whereof ſtrove ſo vigorouſly to win their Liberty, which he promiſed them, that it went over a Chain hung croſs the River Seine, near Caudebec. After this he behaved himſelf with Courage on ſeveral Occaſions in Normandy, Navarre, Languedoc, &c. During St. Bartholomew's Maſſacre in 1572, he was at Paris, but had time enough to make his Eſcape with his Friends into Normandy, thence he went for England to ſollicit ſome Help for Rochelle, beſieged then by the Duke of Anjou. In 1574. he joined with the Proteſtants in Normandy, that had rebelled again; but he was inveſted at S. Lo by Matignon, afterward Mareſchal of France; and followed as far as Donfront, where Matignon perſuaded him to Surrender, promiſing that he ſhould be treated as Priſoner of War. Matignon delivered him up unwillingly to Queen Katharine de Medicis, who to revenge Henry II's Death, gave Orders for his Tryal. He could not be juſtly condemned for killing his King, ſince it was an unlucky Accident, nor for what he had done in the Civil Wars, ſince all things were pardoned by Pacifications; ſo the only Charge againſt him was his taking up Arms lately: Nevertheleſs his Sentence mentioned that he was to die for ſetting up the Engliſh Colours, when he went to relieve Rochelle. He was condemned to be drawn in a Sledge to the Place of Execution, named la Greve, to be beheaded, and his Poſterity to be degraded. This Sentence was executed a little after Charles IX's Death, in 1574, and the Count died courageouſly, tho all bruiſed by the Rack. 'Tis ſaid that his Family deſcends from the Earls of Mongomery in Great Britain, by the Earls of Eglinton in Scotland come from a Younger Brother. 'Tis certain that the Family of Lorge had a great Eſtate in England; and it was to keep up his Name, that James de Lorge bought the Earldom of Mongomery in Normandy. MONGUS, (Peter) an Heretick, intruded into the See of Alexandria after the Death of Timothy Ælurus, an Intruder alſo. Mongus was ordained in 477. by Two depoſed Biſhops. Timothy Solofaciolus, the true Prelate of Alexandria, who had retired to Canopus, was reſtored to his Place by the Emperor Zeno, and Mongus turned out. Timothy being dead, John Telaine ſucceeded him. But this Election diſpleaſed Zeno, he reſtored Mongus in 481, who to deceive the Orthodox, pretended to defend the Council of Chalcedon; nevertheleſs he could not ſo perſuade them, and thereby he loſt many of his own Followers, who believing really that he was of the Council's Mind, left him, and began to meet together without head, whence they were called Acephali. This Diviſion grieved him ſo much, that he publickly Anathematized the Synod, which he had pretended to defend, but this was in vain. Afterwards he was ſo ſevere againſt the Orthodox, that he appeared more like a Tyrant, than a Biſhop. The Orthodox, though weak, defending themſelves, there was a Civil War in Egypt, which Zeno had much ado to appeaſe. Mongus died in 490, after having troubled the Church for Thirteen Years. Evagr. l. 3. *Baronius in Annal. MONIMA, or Monyma, King Mithridates's Wife, famous for her Chaſtity, would never conſent to have him, till he had ſent her the Habit, and given her the Reſpect of a Queen. Afterwards he put her to Death, as it is ſaid. Plut. in Vit. Lucul.

MONK, this Word ſignifying Solitary, from the Greek μόνος, alone, is chiefly underſtood of thoſe, who, according to their firſt Inſtitution, are ſeparate from the Company of Men. The Original of a Monaſtical Life is commonly attributed to St. Paul the Hermit, and St. Anthony, whoſe Examples filled Egypt with Monks, ſome altogether Solitary, others in Community. This kind of Life ſpread afterwards into Syria, Pontus, and the Leſſer Aſia. Thoſe of Egypt and Syria have always kept the Name of their Founder St. Anthony; but thoſe of Pontus and Leſſer Aſia, took the Name of St. Baſil, who brought in Anthony's Rule. St. Athanaſius coming to Rome, and publiſhing St. Anthony's Life, many follow'd this way of living in Italy, whence it ſpread into other Provinces. Monks at firſt lived out of Towns, moſt of them Lay-men, their Profeſſion keeping them from Eccleſiaſtical Duties, and all their Employment conſiſted in Prayers and Labour-work. Nevertherleſs Biſhops ſometimes took Monks out of thoſe Solitary Places, to make them Church-men, but then they ceaſed to be Monks, and were numbered among the Clerks. St. Hierom always diſtinguiſhes thoſe two kinds of Life,as it appears from his Epiſtle to Heliodorus, where he tells us, Alia Monachorum eſt Cauſa, alia Clericorum; and Monks were then under Biſhops, and Ordinary Paſtors. But becauſe many Learned Monks vigorouſly oppoſed ſeveral Hereſies ariſing in the Eaſtern Church; it was thought fit to take them out of their Solitary Places, and ſettle them in the Suburbs of Towns, that they might be uſeful to the People. And St. John Chryſoſtom's Opinion was, That they were to be admitted even in Towns, which made the Majority of them, who had addicted themſelves to Learning, enter into Holy Orders. Being uſeful to Biſhops, they got a great Name, chiefly in the Buſineſs of Neſtorius; but many abuſing their Authority, it was ordered in the Council of Chalcedon, that Monks ſhould be wholly under Biſhops, that they ſhould build no Monaſteries without their Leave, and that they ſhould be removed from Eccleſiaſtical Imployments, except called thereunto by their Biſhops. Monks had then no other Temporalities, but what they could get by their Labour, part of the Alms diſtributed by the Biſhops, and ſome Charities of the People. Nevertheleſs ſome would reſerve part of their Patrimony, which St. Hierom complained of. As to the Duties of Religion, they went to the Pariſh-Church with the People, or a Prieſt was allowed to go to their Houſes, and Adminiſter the Sacrament to them. At laſt they obtained to have a Prieſt out of their Order, which gave them occaſion to have particular Churches, and make a kind of Regular Clergy. Though the moſt part of Monks were then in the Eaſt, there was a great Number of them in the Weſt, before St. Benedict had eſtabliſhed a particular Order there. St. Ambroſe, St. Hierom, St. Gregory, and other Authors mention the Monks that were in Italy, France, and many other Places of Europe. And the firſt Monks in Europe, before St. Benedict, were different from thoſe that ſucceeded him, becauſe the firſt were obliged to no particular Order. To be a Monk then, was enough to gain Reception in all Monaſteries whatſoever, in their Travels. Concerning St. Benedict's Order, it may ſuffice to obſerve, that this Deſign was not to alter the Monaſtical Life, but to make a Collection of what he found moſt perfect in the other Orders. Since that, different Founders have eſtabliſhed new Religious Orders in the Church. As for the Greek Monks, though they differ among themſelves, they all acknowledge St. Baſil to be their Father and Founder, and it would be a Crime among them to depart from his Rules. There are fine Monaſteries in Greece, where the Monks ſing Day and Night; but their way of living is different; ſome being called Koinobiakoi, and others Idiorythmoi. The firſt live together in Community, having nothing particular in their Cloaths and Duties, and are ſo named from κοινὸς, Common, and βίος, Life. Nevertheleſs there are Two Orders of them, ſome called of the Great Angelical Habit, which are of a higher, and more perfect Rank; and others named of the Little Habit, of an inferior Rank, whoſe Life is not ſo perfect. Thoſe that are named Idiorythmoi live as they pleaſe, from ἴδιος, Proper or Particular, and ῥυθμὸς, Meaſure or Rule;

Rule; therefore they pay ſome Money for a Cell and other things in the Monaſtery, before they take the Habit. The Butler furniſhes them with Bread and Wine, as in other Monaſteries; and they provide the reſt themſelves; for being free from what is burdenſome in the Convent, they mind their own Affairs. One of theſe being near his end, leaves by Will all he has in or out of the Monaſtery to him that has relieved his wants. This Monk increaſeth by his Induſtry, the Goods he has inherited, and leaves what he has got himſelf to one that has aſſiſted him; and the reſt of what he poſſeſſed, that is what was left him by Will, remains to the Monaſtery. Nevertheleſs there are ſome amongſt theſe laſt, ſo poor, that being not able to buy Land, they are forced to give all their Work to the Convent, and take in Hand the baſeſt Employments. There is a third Order of thoſe Monks named Anchorets, who being not able to work and bear the other Charges of the Monaſtery, by a Cell in a remote Place, with Land enough to maintain them, whence they go to Divine Service only on holy Days, and afterwards return to their Cells, where they ſpend their time in Prayers and private Affairs. Some of theſe get ſometimes the Abbot's leave to go out of the Convent, to lead a more retired Life fitter for Meditation. Then the Convent ſends them once or twice a Month ſome Victuals, if they have nether Land nor Vineyard. But thoſe that have no mind to be under the Abbot, hire ſome Vineyard next to their Cell, and live upon the Grapes, Figs, or like Fruits. Several get alſo their livelyhood by tranſcribing Books. Beſides Monks, there are Nuns alſo ſhut up in Convents under the Rules of St. Baſil. They are as ſtrict in the Monaſtical Life as the Monks, and have an Abbeſs, but are always under an Abbot, who ſends them one of the moſt ancient and vertuous Monks to be their Confeſſor. Their Head is ſhaved, and they wear all the ſame Habit of black woollen Stuff, with a Cloak of the ſame. Their Arms and Hands are covered as far as their Fingers ends. Every one has her particular Cell, where are lodgings above and below. The richeſt keep a Maid-ſervant, and ſometimes young Girls board with them, for pious Education. When their ordinary Duties are performed, they make Needle-Work, and ſell them to the Turks, who have a great Reſpect for thoſe Nuns. Leo Allat. l. 3. *de l'Egliſe d'Orient & Occid. MONLUC (Blaiſe de) Mareſchal of France, had all Qualities neceſſary for a Soldier, and ſignalized himſelf in ſeveral Occaſions, according to the Memoirs of his Life written by himſelf. At the taking of Rabaſtiens in Bearn, he was dangerouſly wounded with a Muſquet-bullet in both his Cheeks, which ſo disfigured him, that he wore a Mask as long as he lived. He had the Honour to ſerve five Kings faithfully, wrote his Commentaries, and died 1577, aged 77. Thuan. Hiſt. Davila, P. Matthieu, Dupleix, Mezeray Hiſt. Brantome Memoirs, Godefroy, &c.

MONLUC (John) Biſhop of Valence and Die in Dauphiné, Blaiſe d' Monluc's Brother, was a Man of extraordinary Parts, and imployed by five Kings of France in ſeveral Negotiations. It is reported that he was ſent Ambaſſador ſixteen times, almoſt into all Parts of Europe, though at firſt ſuſpected to be a Proteſtant. He wrote divers Books, particularly ſome Rhetorical Pieces, which are well worth the Reading, and died in 1567. He was a Perſon of great Senſe, Elocution and Learning; of a quick apprehenſion and of a very cautious Conduct. Thuan. Hiſt. St. Marthe in elog. Doctor. Gal. l. 3. Brantome Memoirs, &c.

MONLUC (John) Lord of Balagni, Mareſchal of France, natural Son of John Monluc Biſhop of Valence, by Anne Martin, legitimated 1567, imployed in Poland to procure the Crown to Henry of France Duke of Anjou 1573, was made Governour of Cambray by the Duke of Alençon 1581. And this Prince being dead, he joined the Leaguers. His Wife Renée de Clermont the brave Buſſi d' Amboiſe's Siſter, and an Heroical Lady, managed ſo well his Intereſts with Henry IV. that this Monarch made him Prince of Cambray and Mareſchal of France. But Cambray being beſieged by the Spaniards 1595, and the Inhabitants deſirous to ſurrender, ſhe went to them with a Pike in her hand to hinder ſuch a Deſign; and all her Exhortations, Prayers, Promiſes, and Oaths being in Vain, during the Capitulation ſhe ſhut up her ſelf in her Cloſet, where ſhe died ſuddenly for Grief. *Thuan. MONLUCON, Lat. Monluſſonium, a Town of Bourbonnois in France, on the River Cher, near Berry, ſurnamed the Fruitful, becauſe of its Woods, Vineyards, and Paſture-Grounds.

MONMEDY, a ſtrong Town of Luxemburg in the Low Countries; Lat. Mons Medius, or Mons Maledictus. 'Tis ſituated on a Mountain, and belongs to the French ſince 1659.

MONMELIAN, Lat. Monmelianus, a little Town of Savoy, having a Fortreſs on the Top of a ſteep Rock. A Well cut in the Rock ſupplies the Garriſon and Inhabitants with Water. The French took it 1691.

MONMIRAIL, a Borough of Brie in France, Lat. Monmiralium. Authors obſerve a remarkable thing of a Wood thereabout, where the Oak-branches falling down, are by degrees turned into Stones. It is different from Monmirail, one of the ancient Baronies of Perche-Gouët.

MONMOUTH (James Duke of) was Son to King Charles IId. by Mrs. Mary Barlow. He was born at Rotterdam April 9th. 1649. For Privacy, his Nurſe and he were both Lodged at the Houſe of Mr. Claes Ghyſen, a Merchant at Schiedam, within a Mile of Rotterdam, and his Mother at the ſame Time lodged at the Houſe of Mrs. Harvey, Mother to the famous Dr. Harvey, where ſhe lived handſomely, being attended by a Gentleman and other Servants. Upon King Charles IId's going for Scotland he recommended him to his Royal Mother, who took Care of him, and made one Mr. Goff of her own Retinue his Governour. About Nine Years of Age he was committed to the Care of one Mr. Roſe, who after the Reſtauration went Secretary to the King's Ambaſſador for Sweden. King Charles being reſtor'd, commanded Mr. Roſe to put away all the Dukes former Servants, and to take new ones more befitting his Quality; and bring him to Court: Whereupon, he was immediately provided with a conſiderable Equipage; and ſet forward for England, his Mother being dead before. The Duke Landing at Dover in July 1662, he repaired to the King at Hampton-Court; who received him with all imaginable Joy, created him Duke of Orkney, and afterwards changed the Title into Monmouth, and he took his Seat in the Houſe of Peers in the enſuing Parliament; and in April 1673, he was inſtalled Knight of the Garter, after which he was married to Anne the Heireſs of Francis Late Earl of Buckcleugh, the greateſt Fortune in the Three Kingdoms, her Mother the Counteſs of Weems, having before-hand received all the Satisfaction which ſhe could deſire of his Majeſty, in Relation to the Contract. Hence it came to paſs, that he had alſo the Title of Duke of Buckcleugh, and took the Surname of Scot, according to the Cuſtom of Scotland; where he who marries any Great Heireſs Chief of a Family, is obliged to change his Name into hers to preſerve the Family; and thus the Counteſs, being chief of the Surname of Scot, an ancient and honourable Family in the County of Teveotdale, where her Anceſtors were the powerfulleſt Men in the Country, the Duke took her Surname for his own. In 1668 his Father King Charles II. made him Captain of his Life Guard of Horſe, and in 1670 a Member of his moſt Honourable Privy Council, in 1672 he attended the French King, during that ſucceſsful Campaign, into the Netherlands, where he acquired much Honour for his Valour and Conduct. At his Return his Dutcheſs was brought to bed of a Son, who was baptized Charles, the King and Duke of York ſtanding as Godfathers; and the Counteſs of Weems for God-mother. This Son died in 1679, and was buried amongſt the Royal Family at Weſtminſter, his Title of Earl of Doncaſter and Dalkeith, being enjoyed by his Second Brother. In the Latter end of 1672 he returned again to France, being entertained in a Princely Manner at all the Cities which he paſſed, and had the Keys delivered him by the Governour of Belville, where his own Regiment lay; whence he went to Paris, where he was received with all Imaginable Honour by the King and Court, and ſoon after return'd to London. In 1673 he went to the French Court again, where the French King made him Lieutenant General of his Army, which he drew up near Courtray in Battalia, in the preſence of the King and Court, with ſo much Gallantry and Conduct that they were all filled with Admiration. And marching at the Head of the Army came before Maeſtricht, where he behaved himſelf with ſuch inimitable Valour that he gained the Counterſcarp and a Half-moon; whence his Men being beat he recovered it again, expoſing himſelf to the Enemies Fire, being the firſt who entred it himſelf; and in ſhort, the taking of the Town at that time was chiefly owing to his Heroick Valour, as the French King himſelf was obliged to own. Returning after this to England, he was received by the King and Court with all poſſible Reſpect. On July 28th, 1674 he was elected Chancellor of the Univerſity of Cambridge. In 1678 King Charles II. having taken part with the Confederates, the Duke of Monmouth being General of his Land-Forces went to aſſiſt the Prince of Orange, to raiſe the Siege of Mons, and by his Valour did not a little contribute to the forcing of the French Camp under Luxemburg, and Mons being thus relieved, the Duke returned to England: ſome ſay this Attempt prov'd more feaſible in the Execution, becauſe the French were unprovided to receive the Enemy, as not expecting to be attacked. Theſe performances in the Field having rais'd the Duke's Reputation, he was ſent to ſuppreſs an Inſurrection of the Presbyterians in Scotland, who after the Murther of the Arch-Biſhop of St. Andrews, began their Rebellion at Ragland, where they Proclaim'd the Covenant, burnt ſeveral Acts of Parliament, and committed many outrages upon the Kings Subjects. His Grace arriving there on the 18th. of June in 1679, he was honourably received by the Nobility and Gentry of that Kingdom, and marching with the King's Forces againſt the Rebels, who were encamped camped near Hamilton, to the Number of 6 or 7000, ſome of them came and preſented their Declaration to the Duke in Print; but the Duke refuſing to treat with them upon any other Terms than laying down their Arms and ſubmitting to the King's Mercy, ſome ſkirmiſhing began, wherein the Rebels behaved themſelves well enough at firſt, but wanting Arms, Ammunition, Conduct and all things neceſſary for War; and being alſo divided amongſt themſelves, they were quickly diſperſed, Robert Hamilton who commanded them being among the firſt who fled. They had but one ſmall piece of Cannon which was taken, with about 1100 Priſoners and ſeveral Hundreds were ſlain in the Field. The Priſoners being brought to Edinburg, the Duke allowed them a conſiderable Suſtenance, daily out of his own Eſtate in that Kingdom; and upon the whole he carry'd himſelf with ſo much lenity, that ſome People were at a loſs to underſtand the Reaſon of his Conduct. However, he was careſſed by the Nobility of Scotland, and honourably received by all the Cities, &c. in his Return to Court. King Charles II. falling ill at Windſor, the Duke being then Lord General, his Preſence was needful at London; from whence he went and returned every Day, which was very pleaſing to his Father. But now his Cabals beginning to be diſcovered, he is outed of his Offices, and declared Illegitimate by the King in Council. Afterwards, this Duke being by his own Confeſſion concern'd in the Conſpiracy, for which Col. Sidney &c. Suffer'd, was upon his Submiſſion Pardon'd by the King; who admoniſh'd him at the ſame time, to decline the Company and Counſels of thoſe who had brought both him and the Kingdom into ſuch Circumſtances of danger: But the Duke forgetting his Duty, Relaps'd into his former Intrigues and withdrew to Holland, from whence after the death of King Charles II*d*, he return'd in a Hoſtile manner into England, and landed at Lime with a Hundred and fifty men: whereof King James IId. having given notice to the Parliament, they preſently attainted the Duke; then a Proclamation was iſſued, making it High-Treaſon to publiſh any of the Duke's Declarations, wherein he invited the Kingdom to join with him, to vindicate their Laws and Religion from the Tyranny of James Duke of York; and alſo Ten Days after William Diſny being taken with ſome of them about him, he was tryed for Printing the ſame and executed. The Duke advancing into the Country his Number increaſed to about 6000, who after ſome Advantages in ſmall Rencounters were after a brisk Reſiſtance by their Foot, the Horſe commanded by my Lord Grey having preſently fled, entirely routed at Sedgmore, and their Three Canon with all their Arms taken, as was the Lord Grey afterwards in Diſguiſe at Ringwood, and the Duke in a Corn-Field; being betrayed in the whole Affair as was commonly given out. He was brought up to London and beheaded on Tower-Hill, July 15. 1685; where he deliver'd the following Paper. "I Declare that the Title of King was "forced upon me, and that it was very much contrary to "my Opinion when I was proclaim'd. For the Satisfaction "of the World I do declare, that the Late King told me, he "was never Marry'd to my Mother: Having ſaid this, I hope "the King who now is, will not let my Children ſuffer upon "this account; and to this I put my hand this 15th Day of "July 1685, Monmouth. Manley's Hiſtory of the Rebellions of England, &c. MONMOUTH, Lat. Monumethia, the chief Place of Monmouthſhire, bears from London W. by N. and is diſtant therefrom about 100 Miles. It ſtands in the North Eaſt Parts of the County, at the Influx of the Monow into the Wye, from the firſt of which it took the Name of Monmouth, as this gave it to the whole County. Monmouth was heretofore a Place of ſo great Note, that Arthur the great King of Britain is ſaid to have kept his Court here; where there was alſo a kind of Academy. But, as all things find their fatal Period, ſo Monmouth has little to ſhew of its former Greatneſs. That once ſtately Caſtle, which was the Birth-Place of our Conqueror of France Henry V. from hence called Henry of Monmouth, lies now buried within its own Ruines. It was built round, and mounted upon a Hill, with a high and ſtrong Tower in the midſt of it, raiſed upon another Mount. However here are ſtill two Churches. That called the Monk's Church is a curious (but decayed) Edifice. 'Twas in her Monaſtery that our great Antiquary Geofrey of Monmouth wrote his Hiſtory of Great Britain, which is for the moſt part looked upon as fabulous, though learned Men have undertook the Defence of it. He lived in the 12th. Century. But, as decayed as this Town is from its former Glory, it is ſo well ſituate betwixt the Rivers aforeſaid, over which it has two fair Bridges, that it keeps up in ſome Meaſure its Reputation, being well frequented, and kept in good Repair. This Town was once the Barony of John Lord Monmouth, on whoſe Attainder, it was ſettled in the Houſe of Lancaſter; from which it afterwards received great Privileges and Immunities, which the Inhabitants do enjoy to this Day. Anno 1625. the Title of Earl of Monmouth was conferred upon Robert, Lord Carey of Leppington, but went no further than Henry Carey his Son. In the Year 1663 King Charles II. erected it into a Dukedom in the Perſon of James Fitz-Roy, his Natural Son. Upon the late Revolution, the Title of Earl was renewed by his preſent Majeſty in the Perſon of the Right Honourable Charles Mordant, the preſent Earl of Monmouth.

MONMOUTHSHIRE, Lat. Monumethenſis Comitatus, formerly a Welſh County, is now reckoned among the Engliſh. It lies between Gloceſterſhire Eaſtward, Herefordſhire Northward, the two Welſh Counties of Brecknock and Glamorgan Weſtward, and the Mouth of the Severn Southward. Its length from North to South is 24 Miles, its Breadth from Eaſt to Weſt 18. The whole divided into 6 Hundreds, wherein are 127 Pariſhes, and 8 Market-Towns, all in the Dioceſs of Landaff, whoſe ancient Inhabitants were the Silures, ſo called by the Romans; and though the Welſh be to this Day the common Language hereof, yet it does wear a double Badge of Engliſh Relation. For, whereas all Welſh Counties ſend but one Knight to the Parliament, this alone has the Privilege of two, as all Engliſh Counties. Nor is it ſubject to the Welſh Juriſdiction, ſuch Itinerant Judges as go the Oxford Circuit, having this County within the Compaſs of their Commiſſion. The County is very Hilly and Woody, but yet very fruitful; the Hills being grazed upon by great and ſmall Cattle, and the Valleys yielding plenty both of Corn and Graſs, having the Advantage of being watered by a Multitude of Rivers. The principal whereof, next to the Severn, Rompney, Wye, and Monow its bordering Rivers, are the Vsk, Avon and Ebwith. Formerly Cap-making was the Chief Manufacture here, till upon occaſion of a great Plague in theſe Parts, it was removed from Monmouth to Bewdly in Worceſterſhire; yet ſo, that they are called Monmouth-Caps to this Day. The Market-Towns are Monmouth the County-Town, Abergaveny, Caer-Leon, Chepſtow, Llangoven, Newport, Ponte-pool and Vsk; amongſt which, Monmouth is the only Place that ſends a Member to ſerve in Parliament, beſides the two Knights of the Shire. As to the Monaſteries that ſtood here in the time of Popery, I find five of them, at Monmouth, Chepſtow, Caer-Leon, Goldcliff and Llantony.

MONO-EMUGI, a Kingdom of Africa, bounded with Abyſſinia and the Country of Macoco to the North, with the Kingdoms of Monomotapa and Moſambick to the South, the Kingdoms of Monbaza and Quiloa to the Eaſt, and upon the Weſt, with the Nile and two Lakes, where, in the Opinion of ſome, lies the Head of this River. There are ſeveral Petty Princes in this Country, whoſe Dominions lie between the Kingdom of Mono-Emugi, and the Grand Negus. There are a great many Mines, of Gold, Silver and Copper in this Kingdom, with Store of Ivory. The Inhabitants are Whites, and Taller than the Europeans: They make uſe of Grains of Amber for Money, becauſe Gold is ſo very Common. The King of Mono-Emugi makes it his Buſineſs to keep up a good Correſpondence with the Kings of Quiloa, Melinda and Monbaza, this being the way to preſerve Trade; and give his Subjects an Opportunity to furniſh themſelves with Silks, Cotton, and Grains of Amber, which they receive in Exchange for the Product of their own Country abovemention'd. Dapper Deſcription de l'Afrique.

MONOLOGY, is the Diſcourſe of a Perſon alone on the Stage from μόνος, alone, and λόγος, Diſcourſe. The Monody of the Ancients was ſomething different. It was at firſt a piece of Poetry ſung or recited by one Man alone; but afterwards it ſignified only doleful Verſes, ſung by one of the Quiriſters in Honour of a deceaſed Perſon; and Olympus a famous Muſician is reputed the firſt that uſed it in Python's favour. Scaliger Poetic. l. 1. Hedelin Pratique du Theatre, &c.

MONOMOTAPA, a Country and Kingdom of Africa, between the Rivers Cuana and de Spiritu Santo on which is ſituated the Town of Monomotapa, which gives the Name to the Kingdom. This Name Monomotapa or Benomotax, which is pronounced two or three other ways, ſignifies Emperor, according to Cluverius, who gives a larger extent to it, from the Æthiopick Ocean to the Red Sea. New Relations ſpeak otherwiſe, though they acknowledge that the King of Monomotapa's Territories reach as far as the Cape of Good-Hope. It has the Mountains of the Moon on the North, and the Country of the Caffares on the other ſides. The Country is good, fruitful in Rice, Sugar, Fruit, Paſture-grounds, &c. It produces Gold, and the Trade of Oſtriches Feathers, and Elephants Teeth is conſiderable. The Inhabitants are witty and courageous, but inconſtant, and apt to rebell. They are black, and go all naked as far as the Waſt. The King is reputed ſevere, and divers States are tributary to him.

☞ It is worth obſerving, That when the King of Monomotapa ſneezes in a Room, thoſe preſent greet him with a loud voice, enough to be heard by them in the Anti-chamber; theſe give the ſame Warning to them in the next Rooms; thence it goes into the Court, and from thence to the places near the Palace, and thence through the Town; ſo that in a Moment, all places ſound out Acclamations of Happineſs and Proſperity to the Prince. Nicolaus Godigne in vita Patris Gonſalvi. Sylveira. l. 2. c. 11.

MONOMOTAPA, an Empire, or Great Kingdom in the Lower Æthiopia. Its Chief Town, Banamotapa, or Madrogan, near the River De Spiritu Santo, is very large and well built; the Palace is ſtately and well furniſhed. There is a Country inhabited by Women, who go to War, and are the King of Monomotapa's beſt Soldiers. Sanut calls it the Amazons Kingdom. The Portugueſe name this Prince, the Emperor of Gold, becauſe many Golden Mines are found in his Dominions, and the Sand of the Rivers is full of that Metal. The Emperor maintains always a great Army of Infantry, there being no Horſes at all. His Subjects never ſpeak to him but on their Knees; the Portugueſe and his deareſt Favourites only excepted. Teixeira ſaith, That he muſt be called Munemotapa, becauſe the Kings beyond the Caffares, are named Mune inſtead of Mani, which is uſed in Congo, and ſignifies Lord. He exacts no Tribute of his Subjects, but receives many Preſents from the Princes or Kings, his Vaſſals, and from thoſe that beg a Favour of him. He is ſo great a Lover of Perfumes, that he ſpends Two Pounds in Gold that way, every Day, having all his Flambeau's perſum'd with Musk. He has commonly a Bill with an Ivory handle hanging by his ſide to encourage Husbandry, and Two Arrows in his Hands, one to ſhew his Readineſs to defend his Subjects, and the other to ſhew his Power to puniſh Criminals. He has a great many Wives, all his Vaſſals Daughters, and the firſt that brings forth a Son, is called Queen, and the Eldeſt of thoſe Sons ſucceeds his Father. The Inhabitants are Negro's, but very well made and ſtrong, and are obſerv'd to have more Quickneſs and Apprehenſion, than the People of Mozambick and Melinda. The Emperor has an Army always in the Field, but it conſiſts wholly of Infantry, the Country affording no Horſe. In the Camp, near the King's Pavilion, there is a little boarded Tent, where they keep a ſort of veſtal Fire, which is never to go out. The Majority of the Inhabitants are Idolaters, though many were converted by the Portugueſe. The Emperor, his Mother, and above 300 Gentlemen were baptized 1560 by Gonſalvez Sylveira; but the inconſtant Prince perſuaded by the Turks, that Sylveira was a Magician, he cauſed him to be Beheaded; for which he was ſorry afterwards, when he knew the Calumny. Dapper Deſcript. de l' Afrique.

MONOPOLI, a little Town of Barry in the Kingdom of Naples, having a Biſhoprick Suffragan to Brindiſi.

MONOSCELES, People of Æthiopia in Africa, having but one Leg, as the Ancients ſaid, nevertheleſs good Jumpers, were alſo called Sciopodes, becauſe lying down in Summertime, their Foot ſhadowed their Body. That Name comes from μόνος, alone, and σκέλος, a leg. Pliny l. 7. c. 2. St. Auſtin l. 16. de Civit. Dei.

MONOTHELITES, Hereticks, who denied Two Wills, and Two different Operations in Jeſus Chriſt, and ſo renewed Eutyches's firſt Errors. Theodorus Biſhop of Phorane, was the Author of that Sect in the VIIth Century, and was followed by Sergius of Conſtantinople, and Cyrus of Placida. Read the Acts of the VIth General Council held in 681; and St. John of Damaſcus, who ſaith that thoſe Hereticks were alſo named Monophyſites, Egyptians, and Schiſmaticks. We have of late an Hiſtory of the Monothelites. St. John of Damaſcus l. 1. de Hæreſ. Baronius in Annal.

MONS, the Chief Town of Hainault in the Low-Countries, ſituated on a Hill near the River Trulle, named Berghen by the Natives, and Montes, or Montes Hannoniæ in Latin. It is large and well fortified with Bulwarks, and three Ditches. There are fine Buildings, and an old Caſtle. This Town is famous for its Trade, good Workmen, and the Abby of the Canoneſſes of St. Waltrude. They are Virgins of Quality, who are preſent at the Morning-Service in Canonical-Habit, but wear Secular Cloaths the reſt of the Day, and are permitted to Marry. The Ancient Earls of Hainault took the Title of Earls of Mons. In 1678, this Town was beſieg'd by the Duke of Luxembourgh, who had taken and fortified his Poſts with great Skill and Induſtry, but was attack'd with ſuch Vigour by the Engliſh and Dutch, under the Command of the Prince of Orange, that his Camp was put into ſome diſorder: The French being under no Apprehenſions of a Battel, the Diſpute was obſtinate and bloody, but Night prevented the end of the Action. Temples Memoirs. 'Tis now in the Poſſeſſion of the French ſince 1691. *Guichardin Deſcript. du Pais bas. DU MONT, or de Monte (Peter) the 49th Great Maſter of St. John of Jeruſalem's Convent, reſiding at Maltha. In his time the Turks were beaten by the Chriſtians in the famous Battel of Lepanto. He died in 1572. Boſio Hiſt. de l' ordre de S. J. de Jer. Naberat, &c.

MONTACUTE, a ſharp Hill in the South Parts of Somerſetſhire. Noted for giving the Title of Viſcount to the Right Honourable Francis Brown, derived to him from Anthony Brown, created Viſcount thereof by Queen Mary, Anno 1554. Which Anthony was deſcended from the Lady Lucy, Daughter of John Nevil, Grand-child of Thomas Montacute, Earl of Saliſbury.

MONTAGNE, (Michel de) a French Gentleman, born in Perigord in 1533. His Father educated him with great Care, and made him learn Latin, as other Children learn their Mother Tongue. His Tutors were Nicholas Grouchi, who wrote De Comitiis Romanorum; William Guerente, who wrote Notes on Ariſtotle; George Buchanan, and M. Anthony Muret. He was alſo taught Greek by way of Recreation; and becauſe ſome think that ſtarting Children out of their Sleep ſpoils their Underſtanding, he was awaken'd every Morning with the Noiſe of Muſick. He was Councellor in the Parliament of Bourdeaux for a while; afterwards made Mayor of Bourdeaux. He publiſhed his Eſſays, ſo much known in the World, in 1580. He tranſlated alſo Raimond of Sebonde's Theology by his Father's Order, &c. Read his Life in the beginning of his Works. He died in 1592. Montagne, though he did not want Senſe, yet his Principles appear ſlender and ſcandalous. He was likewiſe prodigiouſly over-grown with Vanity and Conceit; and though he valued himſelf extremely upon a Gentlemanly way of Writing, yet Malbranch has prov'd him an arrant Pedant. *Malbranch la le Cherche de la Verite. MONTAGNIA, a Town of Natolia towards Marmoræ Sea, five Leagues from Burſa. Some take it for the Ancient Apamea, others for Nicopolis. 'Tis built in a pleaſant Place on the Gulf, formerly called Cianus Sinus, and by the help thereof, trades much with Conſtantinople. There are 5 or 6000 Inhabitants, Turks, Græcians, and Jews, almoſt all Merchants. Grelot Voyage de Conſtantinople.

MONTAGUE (John de) Vidame de Laonnois, King Charles V. and Charles VI's Secretary. This laſt made him Lord Treaſurer, and afterwards he obtained the Place of High Steward of France in 1408, and the Management of all Affairs for himſelf; the Archbiſhoprick of Sens, and the Biſhoprick of Paris for his Brethren, whereof one was made Lord Chancellor. His Enemies charged him with divers Crimes, arreſted him, and picked out Commiſſioners who condemned him to be beheaded, after having been cruelly tormented on the Rack. This Sentence was executed, and his Corps hang'd on a Gibbet. Three Years after his Son reviv'd his Memory, his Body being taken down from the Gibbet, and carried in Proceſſion into the Church of the Monaſtery of Marcouſis, Founded by him in 1404, where it was honourably Buried in 1412. Hiſt. de Charles VI. *l. 29. c. 7. Paſchal MONTH, a Month in which Eaſter day is kept. It is the Lunar Month in which the Spring Equinox (fixed, by the Gregorian Account, to the 21ſt. of March) happens the 14th. day of the Moon, or ſome other day following. Eaſter day is kept the Sunday immediately following the 14th. of that Moon, whereof the firſt day, or the New Moon, is between the 8th. of March, and the 5th. of April incluſively; that is, it may be on one of the days comprehended in thoſe two Terms. P. Petav. de Doctr. Tempor. In England they find out Eaſter day thus: If the Moon Changes in February on a Tueſday, that day ſeven-night is Shrove-Tueſday; but if upon any other day, the Tueſday following is Shrove-Tueſday; the Sunday following the firſt Sunday in Lent, and that day ſix Weeks Eaſter day.

Roman MONTHS. A kind of Aid, or Contributions paid Monthly to the Emperor of Germany, by the States and Members of the Empire in each Circle, to maintain the Army, and for publick Wants; for a certain number of Horſe and Foot. This Name was given, as ſome ſay, becauſe the Tax was at firſt to maintain 20000 Foot, and 4000 Horſe, who were to follow the Emperor in his Journey to Rome; ſo that thoſe that could not ſend Men, paid Monthly in Money the equivalent. All the Taxes paid for a Roman Month by all the Circles of the Empire make all together 2681 Horſe, and 12795 Foot; or in Money, 83364 Florins, each Florin, being a little above three Shillings of our Money, at the rate of twelve Florins for each Horſeman, and four Florins for a Foot Soldier. Heiſs. de l'Empire d'Allemagne.

MONTHELON, or Montelon, a Borough of Burgundy in France, near Autun, gave its Name to the Illuſtrious Family of the Monthelons.

MONTHELON, a Family commended by ſeveral Authors, has produc'd many great Men. Golut Mem. de Bourg. Munier Mem. d'Autun, Guichenon, Paradin, Du Cheſne, S. Marthe, &c.

MONTI, a Family. The Family of Monti in Tuſcany, famous for many Brave Men, as John Marie Monti, made Pope Julius III. &c. It took its Name as they ſay, from a Borough call'd, Monte di Sanſovino, in the Dioceſs of Arezzo. It is ſaid, that the Family of the Monti's of Verona, was a Branch of the Monti's in Tuſcany. The Family of Monti is Extinguiſhed by the Death of the Marqueſs of Monti, who had no Iſſue.

MONTI, Damonte, or Dumont (Anthony) a Cardinal, Archbiſhop of Siponto born at Monte di Sanſovino in Tuſcany, compil'd the Council of Lateran, put it in Order, and caus'd it to be printed at Rome. He dy'd in 1533.

MONTIGNAC, call'd, le Compte; a little Town of Perigord in France, with a Caſtle, the Reſidence of the ancient Earls of Perigord, therefore nam'd des Comptes, Lat. Montiniacum.

MONTILLI, or Monteil; a Place near the Rhone. Catel believes that it was in Languedoc; but it is more probable, that it was Montelimar in Dauphine, according to Chorier.

Councils of MONTILLI.

Milon, the Pope's Legate, call'd in 1208, the neighbouring Biſhops to Montilli, againſt the Albigenſis. Peter and Hugh the Pope's Legates, met alſo about 1248, at Montilli, or Montelimar, about material Affairs.

MONTIOSIEU, call'd Lewis de Montioſieu, a Learned French Mathematician, compos'd a Treatiſe of Daniel's Weeks, and another, de re nummaria & ponderibus, about 1584.

MONT-JOYE. This Name is very famous in Hiſtory; and it is neceſſary to obſerve the ancient Signification of it. They call'd Mont-joye formerly a heap of Stones, to mark the ways. The Cuſtom of the Mont-joyes is ſo ancient that Solomon, Prov. 26. ſpeaks of the Pagans Superſtition, who to honour Mercury that preſided over the ways, gather'd heaps of Stones about his Statues in the High-ways, Sicut qui mittit Lapidem in acervum Mercurii. Upon which Cardinal Hugh of St. Cher, mentions the Pilgrims Cuſtom, who made Mont-joyes with heaps of Stones, on which they planted ſome Croſſes, as ſoon as they ſaw the place of Devotion whither they went; Conſtituunt acervum Lapidum & ponunt Cruces, & dicitur Mons Gaudii. Delrio in his Sacred Proverbs, ſaith the ſame thing of the Croſſes which are in the way to St. James's in Galicia, Lapidum à prætereuntibus poſitorum congeries, Galli Mont-joyes vocant, ut ſecuri indicium itineris inde capiant. The Croſſes in the way from Paris to St. Denys, are ſtill call'd St. Denys's Mont-joyes. In War the word Mont-joyes, ſignifies the Banner which was the ſign of the Army's March, as the Mont-joyes were deſign'd to mark the ways: So when they cry'd Mont-joye St. Denys, it was as good as giving the Soldiers notice to repair to St. Denys's Banner. This ancient Standard of the Kings of France did ſerve to lead the Army, and the Soldiers repaired to it to Rally. The Dukes of Burgundy's Cry, was Mont-joye S. Andrieu; that is, to St. Andrew's Banner: And when the Duke was preſent, they cry'd, Mont-joye to the Noble Duke. The Dukes of Burgundy, cry'd, Mont-joye Lady, becauſe of the Virgins Image that was in their Colours. Many Fables have been invented about this Cry, which it is needleſs to mention; for this is the true Signification of it. This name of Montjoye remained to the King at Arms in France: And Gaguin has obſerved, that Lewis de Rouſſi was the firſt that had it. P. Menétrier Origine des ornaments des armoiries.

MONT-JOY, The name of an Order of Knight-hood, Eſtabliſhed at Jeruſalem, by Pope Alexander III. and Confirm'd, in 1180, under St. Baſil's Rules. The Knights wear a Red Croſs, and were Inſtituted to fight the Infidels. King Alphonſus the Wiſe, introduced them into Spain, to fight againſt the Moors, and giving them ſome Revenues, called them Knights of Moſfrac. But in King Ferdinand's Reign, they were united to the Order of Calatrava. Tamburinus du droit des Abbes.

MONTLEHERI, a Town of l' Iſle de France, near Paris, Situated on a Hill, with a Caſtle. It is remarkable for its ancient Lords, and a Battle fought in 1465, between King Lewis XI. and Charles of France his Brother; wherein the King had ſome advantage. Philip de Comines ſaith, That a conſiderable Perſon of the Kings Party, ran away as far as Luſignan in Poictou without ſtopping; and that another alſo of the other Party ran away as far as Queſnoy in Hainault, both publiſhing their own Party's loſs of Victory. Montleheri has the Title of Earldom; and King Lewis XIII. bought it of Cardinal Richelieu, to unite it to the Dukedom of Chartres, the Appennage of Gaſton-John-Baptiſt of France, Duke of Orleans, his Brother. Du Cheſne Hiſt. de Montmor. & Antiq. de ville de France.

MONTLEHERI, a Family. The Family of Montleheri, was a Branch of that of Montmorency, and has produc'd many Conſiderable Men. Du Cheſne Hiſt. de la Maiſon de Montmor. Mezeray, &c.

MONT de MARSAN in Latin, Mons Marſiani, the Chief Town of a little Country of that Name in Gaſcony in France. It is called the Province's Granary, becauſe of its Fertility, and was remarkable during the Civil Wars.

MONTMARTRE, a Hill near Paris, on the North-ſide, where is an Abbey of the ſame Name. Some think it was called formerly Mons-Martis, or Mars's Mountain, becauſe this falſe God was adored there. They add that there was a large Plain near it, named Mars's Field, where the Kings of the firſt Race appeared once a Year before the People, the firſt of March or May. Others believe that Mercury was adored there, before whom St. Denys and his Companions were beheaded, refuſing to ſacrifice to this falſe God; and that 'tis called Montmartre for Mont-Martyr, becauſe of St. Denys's Martyrdom. Therefore the Chappel built there was called the Holy Martyr's Chappel, which was given to the Monaſtery of S. Martin in the Fields in 1098. And Lewis VI. exchanged it for another, and built there a Nunnery of St. Benedict's Order. The fine Gallery that comes down from the Convent above, to the Chappel below, was built in 1611 by Mary Beauvillers, Abbeſs of Montmartre, who adorned this Chappel, as it is now. A Convent dedicated to the Lady of Grace, founded by Katharine of Orleans in St. Honore's Suburb, and given in 1613 to the Abbey of Montmartre, is called little Montmartre. Le Maire Paris ancien & nouveau.

MONTMELIAN is a ſtrong Fortreſs in the Dutchy of Savoy, but taken by the French, Decemb. 22. 1691. whereby they made themſelves Maſters of that Country; but was reſtor'd to the Duke of Savoy by the ſeparate Peace made with France, in 1696.

MONTMORENCY, in Latin Montmorenciacum, a little Town of l' Iſle de France, on a Hill, Four Leagues from Paris, giving its Name to a pleaſant and fruitful Valley, as alſo to the Houſe of Montmorency. It is the firſt Barony of France, and the firſt Eſtate, that had this Title, which formerly was only granted to Princes. More than 600 Mannours were Vaſſals to it, as is reported. It is now a Dukedom and Peerdom.

It was firſt erected into a Dutchy by Henry II. in favour of Anne of Montmorency Conſtable of France, &c. Afterwards this Honour being extinct, Lewis XIIIth. reviv'd the Title, in 1633, for Henry of Bourbon IId. Prince of Conde, &c. The Town was burnt in 1358 by the Engliſh, and by its Ruins, one may gueſs that it was very large formerly.

MONTMORENCY, a Family. The Family of Montmorency, one of the moſt Noble, Illuſtrious, and Ancient of France, has produced more great Men, Conſtables, Mareſchals, Admirals, High Stewards, Lord Chamberlains, Great Butlers, and Great Maſters of the Pantry, than any other. Thoſe Lords have their Names from the Town and Eſtate of Montmorency, and take the Title of firſt Chriſtians, and firſt Barons of France. You may find their Genealogy in Du Cheſne's Hiſtory of the Houſe of Montmorency, Forcadel's Montmorency Gaulois, &c. Quarto Printed in 1551. Traité ſur les Genealogies &c. de la Maiſon de Montmorency, Octavo; and another Genealogie de la Maiſon de Montmorency, Quarto in 1595, by Mamet Patiſſon, &c. All Authors of French Hiſtory ſpeak of this Family, &c.

MONTMORENCY (Anne de) Firſt Baron, Peer, Mareſchal, High Steward, and Conſtable of France, Knight of St. Michael, and of the Garter, Groom of the Stole to the King, Governor of Languedoc, &c. was William Lord of Montmorency's Second Son by Anne Pot, and obtained by his Vertue the beſt Preferments of the Kingdom. It is acknowledged that he was ſevere and moroſe, imperious, and not liberal, nevertheleſs a Man of great Experience and Courage, which he ſhewed to the laſt, for being mortally wounded in the Fight of St. Denys in 1567. and ſome Body proffering to preach unto him, Doſt thou think, anſwered he to the Man, That one that has lived with Honour to the Age of Fourſcore Years, has not learned yet to die for a quarter of an Hour? His Funeral at Paris was almoſt Royal, for his Picture was carried at his burying, which is an Honour peculiar to Kings and Emperors. This great General rendered conſiderable Service to the Crown of France in King Francis his Reign. In King Henry II's, he took Metz, Toul, and Verdun, in King Charles the IXth's. he won the Battles of Dreux and St. Denys, and took Havre-de-grace from the Engliſh. His Family furniſhed France with many, and thoſe very great Generals, as Charles of Montmorency, Lord Chamberlain, Great Maſter of the Pantry, and Mareſchal of France, Governour of Picardy, Son of John de Montmorency, Charles V's. Favourite, ſignalized himſelf on ſeveral Occaſions, and died in 1381. Charles Duke of Damville, Peer and Admiral of France, was the third Son of the Conſtable Anne of Montmorency by Magdalen of Savoy. He died Iſſueleſs in 1612. Francis de Duke of Montmorency, Peer, Mareſchal, and High Steward, Knight of St. Michael and of the Garter, Governor of Paris, Eldeſt Son of Anne de Montmorency, Conſtable of France, ſignalized himſelf on many Occaſions, married Diana King Henry IId's. natural Daughter, and died Iſſueleſs in 1579. Henry I. Duke of Montmorency, Firſt Baron, Peer, Mareſchal, and Conſtable of France, Governour of Languedoc, &c. the Second Son of Anne de Montmorency, hated by Katherine de Medicis, who cauſed him to be poiſoned; but he was cured, and died very old in Languedoc, in 1614. Henry II. Duke of Montmorency and Damville, Peer and Mareſchal of France, &c. Governor of Languedoc, Son of Henry I. Conſtable of France, made Admiral of France being but Eighteen Years of Age; was naturally ſo Civil, Liberal, Noble, and Obliging, that he got the Love and Eſteem of all. He ſhewed his Courage on ſeveral Occaſions. Cardinal Richlieu's Authority was intolerable to him. Montmorency made an Inſurrection in the lower Languedoc, all that Country running into Rebellion with him. Fighting near Caſtelnaudari againſt the Mareſchal de Schomberg, he was wounded in two Places, and made Priſoner in 1632; and the Parliament of Tolouſe condemned him to be beheaded for High Treaſon, which Sentence was Executed. He died Iſſueleſs. Davila, Thuanus, Le Laboureur, Mezeray, &c.

MONTPELLIER, a Town of the Lower-Languedoc in France, on the River Lez, having a Biſhoprick Suffragan to Narbonne, in Latin Mons Peſſulus, or Peſſulanus, Monſpelium, Mons Puellarum and Mons Peſterius. The Biſhoprick was removed from Maguelone thither in 1533, or 1536. 'Tis not ſo ancient as they ſay, but is the biggeſt of the Province after Tolouſe, and famous for its Univerſity of Phyſick; founded, as it is ſaid, by Averroes's and Avicenna's Diſciples in 1196, and re-eſtabliſhed in 1220. It is eſteemed one of the fineſt Towns of Languedoc, ſituated on the top of a Hill. The Inhabitants Wit and Civility, and the pleaſant things met with there, make it conſiderable to Foreigners. It glories in a very ſtrong Cittadel, flanked with four Royal Baſtions, a fine Phyſick Garden out of the Town, and many other Curioſities. 'Tis famous for its Treacle, Green or Verdigreaſe made by the Inhabitants, the whitening of Wax, Silk Mills, Cyprus Powder, Angel Waters, and divers other Manufactures. You may find the Hiſtory of this Town, and its Lords in Gabriel, Hiſt. Præ. S. Magal, Catel Hiſt. du Lang. Thuan. Hiſt. ſui Temporis, S. Marthe Gall. Chriſt. &c.

Councils of MONTPELLIER.

Arnuſtus, Archbiſhop of Narbonne, called a Council in 894, at Juncaire, in the Dioceſs of Montpellier. Peter de Benevent, the Pope's Legate, called another Council at Montpellier in 1215, where five Archbiſhops, Twenty Eight Biſhops, beſides Abbots and Barons, met, to put Simon Earl of Montfort in Poſſeſſion of the Earl of Tolouſe's Eſtate, becauſe he ſided with the Albigenſes reputed Hereticks. Another Synod was held in 1225 about the Buſineſs of Raymond Earl of Tolouſe, and of the Albigenſes. Another in 1258, about Eccleſiaſtical Affairs. M. Baluzius has publiſhed ſince 1668 three Councils held at Montpellier, the Firſt in 1195, and two others; which I put in 1215 and 1225, and he puts them in 1214, and 1224.

MONTPENCIER, a little Town of the Lower Auvergne, having the Title of Dukedom and Peerdom, ſituated on a Hill. There was a Caſtle formerly, but deſtroyed in Lewis XIIIth's Reign. It had formerly ſome particular Lord's, and ſince was erected by Francis I. into a Dukedom and Peerdom in 1538, and has been the Title of two Illuſtrious Branches of the Houſe of Bourbon. See BEAUJEU and BOURBON.

MONT-REAL, a Town of Sicily, erected into an Archbiſhoprick by Paul III. in 1183, in Latin Mons Regalis, different from Mondevi in Piedmont. There is an old Caſtle on the Point of a Rock, that commands the Town, and a Metropolitan Church, built by William II. named The Good, King of Sicily, which is a curious Building. Hierom. de Vierriero publiſhed there ſome Synodal Ordinances in 1622.

MONT-REAL, otherwiſe Krach, and Crac, a Town of Arabia Petræa in Aſia, formerly called Petra deſerti, but now more known by the Name of Krach, &c. There is an Archbiſhoprick under the Patriarch of Jeruſalem, towards Suez; between the Red-Sea and the Dead-Sea.

MONT-REAL, a Town of Spain, where Alphonſus VI. ſettled the Templars, and after their Diſſolution the Knights of S. Sauveur ſucceeded them. Mariana, Annal. Arag Hiſt. Hiſp. Favin. Zurita.

MONTREUIL, in Latin Monſtrolium and Monaſteriolum, a Town of Picardy in France. One muſt be a Lover of Fables to believe that it was called Montreuil, becauſe of a Monſter found there, that had but one Eye. I do not think neither that Montreul ſignifies Mont-Royal, as ſome ſay. It is more probable, that it comes from the Latin Monaſterium or Monaſteriolum, becauſe this Town has two Ancient Abbeys of St. Benedict's Order, one of Men, and another of Women. However it is a ſtrong Town with a good Cittadel, three Leagues from the Sea. 'Tis diſtinguiſhed into the Lower-Town all along the River, and the Higher Town, which is divided from the other by a Wall. Large Barks come up to it with the Tide. King Philip I. having divorced Berthe his Wife, ſent her away thither, where ſhe died in 1093. This Town is named Montreuille on the Sea, to diſtinguiſh it from Montreuille-Bellay, a Town of Anjou in France near Poictou, on the River Toua. Du Puy, Du Cheſne.

MONTREUL (Eudes de) a famous Architect, followed St. Lewis into the Holy Land, where he fortified the Port and Town of Joppa, and at his Return directed the Buildings of St. Katharine du Val, of the Hotel Dieu, of the Mathurins, Carthuſians, and Cordeliers at Paris. He died in 1289. Felibien Vie des Architectes.

MONTREUL, or Montereul (John) born at Paris, a Member of the French Academy, Secretary to the Embaſſy in England, and left Reſident in Scotland, ſent word that the Elector Palatine was to go through France incognito, to head the Duke of Weimar's Army, and take Briſac; upon which Notice, the Elector was ſtopped and ſecured. It was he that thinking to ſerve Charles the II. King of England, negotiated his being delivered into the Scots Hands. He was frequently admitted to the converſation of that Prince, of whom Montreul gave this Character, that he never met with a Perſon of greater ſenſe and probity than his Majeſty. He left divers Pieces in Proſe and Verſe. Peliſſon de l' Academie Francoiſe.

MONTROSE, Lat. Mons Roſarum, a ſmall Town in the N. of Scotland, in the County of Angus, 25 Engliſh miles from St. Andrews to the N. E. upon the mouth of a River which there falls into the German Ocean. This place, though ſmall, deſerves to be remember'd on the account of James Graham, Marquiſs of it. He was in the beginning of the Troubles, of the Covenanters Party in Scotland, and was the firſt that march'd his Men over Tweed, in the firſt Scotch Invaſion, but when he perceiv'd his Country men deſign'd the Ruine of the King and Monarchy, he diſengag'd from them, and waiting upon the King at Oxford, diſcover'd the Councels and Deſigns of the Covenanting Rebels, and particularly, acquainting the King with their Intentions of Invading England once again, which they actually did in 1643; but the Faction of the Hamiltons being then too prevalent at Court, Montroſes Informations were ſlighted, till at laſt the King heard the Scots were march'd over Tweed, and then, finding himſelf abus'd, he ſent Duke Hamilton Priſoner to Pendennis-Caſtle; diſpatching Montroſe, at the ſame time, as Chief Governor into Scotland. The Marquiſs of Montroſe, upon his coming into this Kingdom, found the King's Intereſt at a low Ebb. 'Tis true, the Marquiſs of Huntley had lately rais'd a conſiderable Army, but being over apprehenſive of Danger, quitted the Field upon the firſt noiſe of the Enemies Trumpets. About this time, it happen'd that ſome Iriſh, under the Command of Alexander M^c Donald, were, by good fortune, heard of, and join'd by Montroſe, their number was but about 1000, ſo that had they not been ſeaſonably headed by this Marquiſs, they had undoubtedly been deſtroy'd by the Marquiſs of Argyle and the Low-Landers; but Montroſe being not only a Native, but a Perſon of Quality and Intereſt, made the Atholians to the number of about 800, willing to joyn them. Montroſe being thus Reinforc'd, paſs'd the River Tay, where he was further ſtrengthen'd by the coming in of 500 Men under the Command the Laird Kilpont and Sir John Drumond, with theſe Supplies he beat the Rebels, conſiſting of 6000 Foot, and 700 Horſe, commanded by the Laird of Elchon, and the Earl of Tullibarden, at Tippermoor: In this Fight, Montroſe had no Cavalry, and yet the Slain were reckon'd at 2000, the Priſoners amounting to a greater number. Soon after, Montroſe charg'd the Lord Burgley with great diſadvantage of Forces, and routed him at Aberdeen. Afterwards the Earl of Argyle, notwithſtanding his numerous Army, was baffled by Montroſe; for underſtanding this General was marching to Attack him, he order'd his Men to ſhift for themſelves, and fled himſelf into Perth: Upon this Advantage, Montroſe march'd into Argyle, which Country he over-run with Slaughter and Victory, forcing the Marquiſs of it, to ſave himſelf in a Boat. They Royaliſts having quitted theſe Quarters, met Argyle at Innerloch, charging his Men with ſuch Fury, that they broke their Ranks, entirely defeating them, and killing above 1500 upon the place. And now the Citizens of Elgin ſurrender'd to Montroſe, and the Lord Gordon, Eldeſt Son to the Marquiſs of Huntley, left his Uncle Argyle, and came over to the King's Party with a choice Squadron: Upon this Reinforcement, Montroſe oblig'd Hurry, who commanded the Rebels Horſe, to Retreat. And now the Royaliſts had like to have been ruin'd by an unlucky Accident, for Lodowick Gordon, Brother to the Lord Gordon, who had lately been reconcil'd to the King's Party, falling into another fit of Rebellion, carry'd off moſt of the Gordons with him; notwithſtanding this Defection had extremely weaken'd Montroſe, he took Taodun by Aſſault, and afterwards made a moſt admirable Retreat from Baily and Hurry, who were above four times his number, and advanc'd within Muſket-ſhot of his Forces. Sometime after, the Lord Gordon brought back thoſe Troops which his Brother had debauch'd, Recruiting Montroſe at the ſame time by new Levies. In confidence of theſe Advantages, the Royaliſts charg'd Hurry and Baily, and routed them at Aldernay and Alford, at which latter place, the Noble Lord Gordon was ſlain: Upon this Victory, Montroſe was ſtrengthen'd with a numerous Recruit of Highlanders, and by the Succours of the Earls of Aboyne and Airley, who came up to him with 300 Horſe. This Re-inforcement encourag'd Montroſe to march into Fiſe, to diſturb the Enemies Levies, and to ſcatter the Convention in Perth; the Rebels being ſtrong in this County, and miſconſtruing Montroſe's Marches, reſolved to Attack him at Kilſythe; and here, tho' the Rebels were ſuperior, both in Foot and Horſe; yet the Royaliſts by the Bravery of the Earl of Airley, broke, routed, and ſlaughter'd the Enemy to that Degree, that ſcarce a hundred of the Foot eſcap'd; the News of this Victory chang'd the Face of Affairs, made the Confederate Lords quit the Kingdom, and brought over the Cities and Provinces to their Duty to the King, which Advantages Montroſe had maintain'd, if the Horſe, which his Majeſty had detach'd under my Lord Digby and Sir Marmaduke Langdale, had join'd him; but theſe Forces being diſpers'd in England, the Confederates ſent David Leſley with 6000 Horſe, who, by their Intelligence with the Earls of Traquaire and Rosburg, who prov'd unfaithful to the King, ſurpriz'd and defeated him at Selkirk. However, he was not ſo broken with this Loſs, but that he ſoon recover'd to a degree of being formidable; but (the King having now put himſelf under the Protection of the Scotch Army) being forc'd to Disband his Soldiers upon his Majeſty's Command, he left the Kingdom to the Enemy. Montroſe continued beyond Sea till 1649, when King Charles II. order'd him to Return into Scotland with what Forces he could Levy, and endeavour to Reduce that Kingdom to its Duty; his Majeſty hoping, by this Diverſion, to make the Scots, with whom he was then Treating, more reaſonable in their Demands: But the Event prov'd unſucceſsful, Scotland was then full of Soldiers, and their Forces entire, whereas the Marquiſs was ſcarce 700 ſtrong at his Landing; the diſadvantage being thus apparent, and the Country poſſibly being fatigu'd with the War, and frighted with the Notion of Foreigners, came but ſlowly in to him. Montroſe being thus diſappointed and over-power'd, was defeated by Leſley and Straughan, and being afterwards betray'd by the Laird of Aſton, was taken, carried to Edinburgh, and Murther'd with all the Circumſtances of Malice and Ignominy. The Marquiſs behaved himſelf with great Bravery and Fortitude, at his Tryal and Execution; and being Sentenc'd to have his Quarters fix'd upon the Gates of the four Principal Cities of the Kingdom: He told them, That he took it for a greater Honour to have his Head fix'd upon the Priſon-Gate in ſuch a Cauſe, than to have his Picture in the King's Bed-Chamber; wiſhing withal, that he had Fleſh enough to have ſent a Piece to every City in Chriſtendom, to witneſs his Loyalty to his King and Country. This Noble Marquiſs ſuffer'd in 1650, and at the Reſtauration of King Charles II. his Quarters were taken down, and honourably bury'd. MONT-SANTE-MARIE, or the Lady of Tartenois, a little Country of the Dioceſs of Soiſſons in France, Lat. Mons Sanctæ Mariæ. I mention it becauſe of two Synods held there, the firſt in 973, and the ſecond in 983. T. IX. Concil.

MONY or Money. All ſorts of Gold or Silver Pieces, or other Metal coined by Sovereign Authority, and mark'd with a Prince's or Sovereign State's ſtamp, are nam'd Money. The common Opinion is, that Moneta comes from Monere, to give notice, becauſe its matter and ſtamp ſhew its value, and him who cauſed it to be coined. The chief end of Money is the Publick Good, Trade being a great deal more eaſy with it, than by way of exchanging things in kind, becauſe Pieces of Gold, Silver, or other Metal, have a certain rate. Before Money was ſtamp'd, they did groſly cut Pieces of Metal, which were given by weight, as it is practiſed ſtill in many places of the Eaſt. Afterwards the weight of every Piece was fix'd; and at laſt they printed on them a Mark to ſhew their Value. The ordinary matter of Money is Gold, Silver, and Copper, which are uſed either alone, or with allay, that is, by mixing Silver with Gold, or Copper with Gold or Silver. To mark the quantity of the allay, 24 Degrees of Goodneſs, called Carats, were given to Gold, and 12 to Silver; ſo that Gold at 20 Carats, is Gold that has loſt four Degrees of Goodneſs, and wherein a ſixth part of Silver or Copper is mix'd. Formerly the Carat was the 24th part of a Golden Mark, ſo the Mark was of pure Gold, when there were 24 Carats without mixture. Afterwards the name of Carat was given to a 24th Degree of Goodneſs. In long Wars, in beſieged Towns, and in publick Wants, Iron, Lead, Pewter, Wood, Leather, Paſt-board, Paper, and other matters have been uſed for Money; but that was only for a time; and thoſe that made it current promiſ'd to take it again, and return the value afterwards. As for the Stamp, the common Opinion is, that they printed firſt on Pieces of Money ſome Figures, either of Oxen, Sheep, and Hogs, or other Creatures Heads, whence came the word Pecunia, from the Latin, Pecus, that is Cattle. Since that, they printed the Prince's Heads, the States Motto's, the Symbols of Piety, Greatneſs, or Victories of thoſe that ordered the Money to be coined. A Legend is added, that is, the Words that are about the edge, or in the middle of a piece of Coin; the place of the Coining, which is mark'd in France by the Alphabetical Letters; the mark of the Ingraver; and the ſecret Title to approve the good Money. The Power of Coining belongs to Sovereign Princes and Republicks; nevertheleſs, ſome Dukes, Earls, Barons, Corporations, and Towns, enjoy this right, either by Uſurpation, or by Grant from Sovereigns. Money was looked upon by the Ancients as a ſacred thing; for they coined it in Temples, or erected Altars in the middle of Mints. Many carried ſome pieces on their Necks, like Jewels or Counterpoiſons, from whence 'tis ſo many ancient Pieces are pierced in the edges.

The firſt Inventor of Money is unknown. The H. Hiſtory doth not mention it before the Flood. Joſephus ſeems to attribute it to Cain, when he ſaith, That he invented Weights and Meaſures; for Money may be comprehended under the name of Weight. Others attribute it to Tubal-Cain, the firſt that wrought Copper and Iron. However it is incredible, that during above 1650 Years, Money ſhould be unknown to thoſe that poſſeſs'd all Sciences and Arts. After the Flood Noah renewed its uſe, which ſpread afterwards among the Civiliz'd People, to maintain Society the better. Nevertheleſs the Bible mentions Money only about 2139 of the World, 483 after the Flood, Gen. 20. 23, and alſo 33; the hundred Keſchitah or Lambs, ſignify 100 Pieces of Silver with the Stamp of a Lamb.

Of the Jewiſh Money.

The chief Money of the Jews, common to them with the Chaldæans, Syrians, Egyptians, and Perſians, was the Shekel coined of unmix'd Silver, from the Hebrew word, which ſignifies to weigh. Many have thought that they had two ſorts of weights, one Sacred, or of the Sanctuary; and the other Royal or Profane; but this Diſtinction is grounded upon no place of the Bible; for it mentions only the weight of the Sanctuary, which was called the moſt heavy and juſt, becauſe it was the Standard and Rule for all the reſt; therefore the Prieſts kept it in the Sanctuary. The Jews Weights were of Stone; thence the Royal Weight is named Lapis Regius, the King's Stone in Leviticus; and juſt Weight is named 1 Kings, the Stone of Juſtice, Lapis Juſtitiæ; and a light Weight is called by the Prophet Micah, Lapis Doli, a Stone of Deceit. It doth not appear that the Jews had coined Pieces of Gold; but foreign Money, either Gold, Silver, or Copper, was alſo current among them. And it is certain, that ſome Figures were printed on their Money; though all Images and Shapes of Beaſts were forbidden by the Law, as Joſephus ſaith, l. 17. c. 8. ſo that Pilate was forced to ſend back to Cæſarea, the Banners whereon Cæſar's Effigies was, Joſephus l. 18. c. 4. But this hinder'd not the uſe of ſome Figures in thoſe Ornaments, which had no relation to Divine Worſhip, and did not tend to Idolatry, which the Jews feared in the Roman Colours, whereon the Images of falſe Gods and Emperors were repreſented, becauſe the Romans did worſhip them; as Suetonius ſaith in Caio c. 14. Signa Romana Cæſarumque imagines adoravit. For the Rabbi's Opinion is, That the Image of the Sun was put on Joſhua's Sepulchre: The Ark had two Cherubims. The great Veſſel of the Temple, named Sea, was ſupported by twelve Oxen. Moſes himſelf, who received the Law, erected the Brazen Serpent; and Solomon cauſed two Cherubims of Olive-wood covered with Gold, to be made in his Temple. And they ſcrupled it leſs in Money; for it is ſaid Matth. 22. That they received and expoſed the Roman Money, on which the Emperor's Head was repreſented with other Figures.

The Money of the Ancient Gauls.

Before the Gauls were ſubject to the Romans, they were governed by ſome Magiſtrates named Kings, who cauſed Gold, Silver, and Copper Money to be coined, whereon the whole Figures, or their Divinity's Heads, were repreſented, or ſome Beaſts which ſignified the richneſs of the Country, the Peoples Courage, or their Victories. Some ſay, That they uſed alſo Leather Money; and Caſſiodorus pretends, That Pecunia was a word of the Ancient Gauls; and that the Gauls called Money ſo, becauſe it was Pieces of Leather coined, pecudis tergo. The Romans having conquered the Gauls; eſtabliſhed ſome Mints at Arles, Treves, and Lyons, beſides thoſe that the Gauls had before, which they left them to coin ſmall Pieces.

The Roman Money.

Before the Foundation of Rome the Latins had Copper, and afterwards Gold and Silver Money; the chief Mark was a double Head on one ſide, and a Ship on the other, to repreſent Janus, the firſt King of Italy, and Saturn, who reigned with him, and arrived in Italy in a Ship. Rome being built by Romulus, and inhabited by Slaves, Shepherds, and Vagabonds, their Money was made at firſt of Leather, and painted Wood; but after the Rape of the Sabines, their Money was current. Numa coined ſome Copper Money. The moſt conſiderable was named As, Æs, or Raudus, becauſe of its matter, and Pondo or Aſſipondium, becauſe it weighed a Pound of Twelve Ounces, (which was the common weight in Italy). To divide this piece, leſſer Money was coined, viz. Semis (for Semi-As) half an As, or ſix Ounces.

Quadrans (for quarta pars Aſſis) the fourth part of the As, or three Ounces.

Triens (for tertia pars Aſſis) the third part of the As, or four Ounces.

Bes (for bis triens) two thirds of the As, or eight Ounces.

Dodrans (for deeſt quadrans) three fourths of the As, or nine Ounces.

Uncia, or ſtips uncialis; an Ounce, or the twelfth part of the As.

Sextans (for ſexta pars Aſſis) the ſixth part of the As, or two Ounces.

Quincunx (from quinque & uncia) five Ounces.

Septunx (from ſeptem & uncia) ſeven Ounces.

Dextans (for deeſt Sextans) ten Ounces.

Deunx (for deeſt uncia) eleven Ounces.

They coined alſo heavier kinds than the As, viz. Dupondius, which was worth two; the Seſtercius, which was worth two and half; the Treſſis; the Quadruſſis; and as high as Decuſſis, alſo called Denarius or Roman Penny, becauſe it was worth ten Aſſes. Though theſe ſeem too heavy for Money, nevertheleſs there are heavier yet; as ſome in Sweden, now weighing above 30 pounds Mark-weight. The firſt Pieces coined by Numa had no mark, but were only cut ſquare, and the weight made the value; they named them Æs rude. This Money was current for about 180 Years. Afterwards Servius Tullius, the Sixth King of Rome, changed the ſhape of it, but not the weight nor the value. Then the Pieces were made round, with ſome Figures of Gods, Men, Beaſts, &c. on both ſides, and ſome Marks to know their weight and value; for Example, the Dupondius with two II's or two LL's; the Seſtercius had two II's or two LL's join'd with a ſtroke, and and an S, thus II-S. to ſhew that it was worth two Aſſes and a Semis, or half; the Denarius had an X. In the following Ages the Romans uſed Silver Money, to which they gave Names, with reſpect to the Copper kinds; ſo they called Denarius or Silver-penny, which was worth a Penny, or ten Copper Aſſes. This Silver-penny was coined at firſt weighing a Roman Ounce, and was worth about a Crown. When they began to uſe Gold, the Aureus (called ſince Golden Penny) weighed near two Drams, or the eighth part of an Ounce; for the Roman Pound was Twelve Ounces, which made 96 Drams; ſo the Aureus was worth about 22 Shillings. The value of Money changed afterwards; the Copper As was reduced from twelve to two Ounces; ſince to one; afterwards to half an Ounce; and at laſt to two Drams. The Silver-penny was alſo brought to fifteen; afterwards to 24, to 36, to 40, &c. and at laſt to 96 in the Pound or Twelve Ounces. The Aureus was reduced alſo to 45 in the Pound, each Piece being a little above two Drams. When the Silver-penny was coined at the rate of 40 in the Pound of Silver; and the Golden-penny alſo at the rate of 40 in the Pound of Gold, the Aureus was worth ten Silver-pennies (from whence it was named Golden-penny, as the Money that was worth ten Copper Aſſes was called Silver-penny) and then a Pound of Gold was worth ten Pounds of Silver. In Alexander Severus's Reign, 225 of J. Chriſt, Golden-pennies were coined 72 in a Pound, each being worth about 12 Shillings. The following Emperors coined ſome Gold and Silver pieces, to which they gave their Names, as Philips, Antonians, Valerians, Aurelians, &c. We muſt obſerve alſo, That Conſtantine imitating his Predeceſſors, who coined ſome kinds with their Wives Heads on them, coined alſo Golden Pieces, whereon his Mother's Effigies was; and that after having imbraced Chriſtianity, he ordered a Croſs to be repreſented on all ſorts of Money.

French Money.

In the Salick Law made by Pharamond, the firſt King of France, four different kinds of Money are mentioned, viz. the Golden-penny, the Half-penny, the third part of a Penny, and the Silver-penny. The ſize of the Golden-penny was then of 72 in the Roman Pound (which were current till the ſecond Race) and the ſize of the Silver-penny was of 288 in the Pound. The Golden-penny had the Prince's Head ſurrounded with a Diadem, and his Name for a Legend, with ſome Hiſtorical Figure; but ſince the Kings have imbraced Chriſtianity, a Croſs is impreſs'd on the other ſide. The Silver-penny had ſometimes the ſame Figure, and often no Head at all. Many kinds of Money were coined afterwards, but their weight, quality, and value is unknown, nothing being certain on this Subject, but ſince Philip le Bell, in the beginning of the XIVth Century, coined ſome Golden Florins worth 20 French Sols in 1308; ſome Royaux worth 24 Sols Paris in 1328, &c. King John coined ſome Golden Francs worth 20 Sols; Charles VI. ſome Crowns worth 30 Sols in 1418, and raiſed to 50 Sols in 1419, &c. Lewis XIII. and Lewis XIV. coined ſome Lewis d'ors worth 10 Livres at firſt, but raiſed to 11 Livres and half, and 12 Livres. The Silver Franc is worth 20 Sols; the Quart d'Eeu, 15 Sols; the Teſton, 10 Sols, &c. Read Bouteroue Recherches Curieuſes des Monoyes, there you'll find more particulars.

Monies of Aſia.

Mr. Tavernier ſaith, That the Monies of Arabia are called Larins, and half Larins. They are Silver Pieces, long and round, ſtamp'd with the Emirs, or Princes of Arabia's Mark. The Larin is about ten Pence; nevertheleſs in changing Money the Arabians give but five for a French Crown. The Kings of Perſia coin no Golden Money, except ſome Pieces thrown to the People when they come to the Throne, and thoſe are not current among Merchants, having no fixed value. There is no other Golden Money, but the Ducats of Europe. The Silver are the Abaſſi, worth about 17 Pence, and large Pieces of five Abaſſies more or leſs. Thoſe large Pieces have theſe Arabick Words on one ſide, Lailla illa allah, Mahomet reſoul allah; that is, there is no other God but one, and Mahomet his Prophet; and on the other ſide, the King's and the Town's Name where they were coined. In the Great Mogul's Empire, there are ſome Gold and Silver Roupies; the Golden Roupie is about 20 Shillings, and the Silver Roupie under half a Crown. The Copper Pecha is about an Halfpenny. They uſe alſo Shells and wild Almonds for Money; 50 Shells, or 40 Almonds, are worth a Pecha. Thoſe Shells named Cori, have the edges turned up-ſide-down, and are found no where in the World but in the Maldive Iſlands, whence ariſes the greateſt Revenue to the King of thoſe Iſlands; for they are exported into all the Mogul's Dominions, the Kingdoms of Golconda and Viſapor, and the Iſlands of America, for the ſame uſe. The Almonds named Baden are more bitter than Coloquintida, ſo Children won't offer to eat them: They grow in the Deſarts of the Province of Lar in Perſia. The current Pieces of Gold in the Kingdom of Golconda, and others of the Peninſula of Indus on this ſide of the Gulf, are called Pa-gods, and go for four Silver Roupies, though they don't weigh above half a Spaniſh Piſtole. The King of Achem in Sumatra Iſland coins Golden pieces, each worth about fifteen Pence and two Farthings. There are Pewter pieces alſo, 75 making a Penny. In Celebes Iſland the Golden Pieces are worth about 22 Pence, and the Dutch take them for a Florin. The King of Camboia in the Peninſula beyond the Gulf, coins ſome Silver pieces, which are almoſt four Pence a piece, and there is none above. This Prince has Gold enough, but he trades with it by the weight, like Silver, as they do alſo in China. The Golden pieces of Siam are long and ſquare, and worth about eleven Shillings a-piece; Silver pieces are as big as a Filberd, made flat on the four ſides, and worth about half a Crown. Two hundred Copper pieces go for one Silver piece. The aforeſaid Shells are alſo inſtead of ſmall Money. In China and Tunquin they have Copper pieces for ſmall Money; but for Gold and Silver Money, they make Maſſes or Lumps of different weight. The great lumps of Gold are ſhap'd like a ſolid Gondola, named in Dutch Golſchut, that is, Golden-boats, and by other Nations Golden Loaves. The biggeſt are worth 1350 Livres, or about 104 Pounds Sterling. The Silver Lumps or Loaves are alſo different in bigneſs, and their value depends on their weight. In great payments they uſe Silver Wedges mark'd, worth about eight Pounds; and if they cannot make the payment even, they cut out of another piece enough to make up the Sum. As for the Copper Money, there is a hole in the middle of thoſe pieces to thread a dozen, 30, or 100 together. In Japan they coin pieces of Gold and Silver, that are oval, and have two ſides; they call them Coupentz, and their value is different according to their weight. There are alſo Silver Wedges current. Tavernier's Travels.

MONZA, a little Town of the Milaneze, on the River Lambro, the place where the Emperors formerly receiv'd the Iron Crown. There is a fine Church dedicated to St. John the Baptiſt, and built by Theodelinda Queen of Lombardy. Baudrand.

MOOR (Sir Thomas) Son of Sir John Moor Knight one of the Juſtices of the King's Bench, was born in Milk-ſtreet within the City of London, An. 1480; train'd up in Grammar Learning in St. Anthony's School there, and afterwards received in the Family of Cardinal John Moreton, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, meerly for the towardlineſs of his perſon, and the great hopes that the pregnancy of his Parts then promiſed. The ſame Cardinal ſent him ſoon after to the Univerſity of Oxford, when Grocynus read the Greek Tongue publickly there, whom he conſtantly heard, and became a great Proficient in that Language, and in moſt other ſorts of Learning, by the care of Linacer, his Tutor. From Oxford he removed to an Inn of Chancery at London, called New Inn, and thence to Lincoln's Inn, where eaſily conquering thoſe Studies, he was at length call'd to the Bar. Afterwards growing into great favour with King Henry VIII. who highly valued him for his Learning, Wiſdom, Experience, and the extraordinary gifts of Nature he was endowed with, he conferr'd theſe Honours and Employments ſucceſſively upon him, viz. The Maſterſhip of the Requeſts, the Honour of Knighthood, the Treaſureſhip of the Exchequer, Chancellorſhip of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, the Embaſſage to the Emperor and French King; and at length, upon the removal of Cardinal Woolſley, he had the great Seal delivered to him 25 Octob. 21 Henry VIII. and was then alſo declared High Chancellor of England, in which laſt Office, no perſon ever before did carry himſelf more uprightly, or with greater liking to the generality of People than he. On the 16th. of May 24 Henry VIII. he delivered up the Seal to the King at his Mannor-Houſe, called York-place, near Weſtminſter, upon the foreſight of ſome Matters that were to come to paſs. Woolſley was not ſo reſerv'd as Sir Thomas was open and free to the meaneſt. When his Sons complained how little they gained under him: I will do Juſtice, ſaid he, for your ſake, to any Man, and will leave you a Bleſſing. No Subpæna, was granted but what he ſaw; no Order but what he peruſed; neither the King nor Queen could corrupt him; nor the whole Church, in Convocation faſten any thing upon him. In fine, he managed his Truſt with Integrity, and with ſo much Dexterity, that he did not leave one Caſe undecided in the Chancery. His Apophthegms were grounded on Experience and Judgment. He would ſay, 1. The World is undone by looking on things at a diſtance. 2. To aim at Honour here, is to ſet a Coat of Arms over a Priſon Gate. 3. He that is covetous when he is old, is like a Thief that ſteals when he is going to the Gallows. 4. The greateſt puniſhment in the World were to have our Wiſhes. 5. We go to Hell with more pains than we might go to Heaven with. 6. The more of any thing elſe we have, but Riches, the more good we are. 7. Who would not ſend his Alms to Heaven? Who would not ſend his Eſtate whether he is to be baniſhed? 8. When any detracted from others at his Table, he ſaid, Let any Man think as he pleaſeth, I like this Room well. He wiſhed three Things to Chriſtendom, 1. An Univerſal Peace. 2. An Uniform Religion, and 3. A Reformation rather of Lives than Religion. Mr. Cambden reports of him, That he uſed to compare the great number of Women to be choſen for Wives, to a Bag full of Snakes, having amongſt them but one Eel; if a Man puts his Hand into this Bag he may chance to light on the Eel, but 'tis a hundred to one if he be not ſtung with a Snake. Being once at Bruges in Flanders, where an arrrogant Fellow had ſet up a Theſis, that he would anſwer any Queſtion that could be propounded unto him in what Art ſoever; he ſent this Queſtion to be put up for him to anſwer: Whether Averia capta in Withernamia ſunt irreplegibilia, adding, That there was one of the Engliſh Embaſſadors Retinue that would diſpute thereof with him. This bragging Thraſo, not ſo much as underſtanding the terms of our Common-Law, knew not what to anſwer to it, and ſo became ridiculous to the whole City for his preſumptuous bragging. Sometime after he had quitted his Chancellorſhip he was cited to Lambeth before the Biſhop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor, and Secretary Cromwell, to take the Oath of Supremacy and Succeſſion, which refuſing, he was committed to the Tower. After a Year's Impriſonment, he was called to his Arraignment at the King's Bench Bar. His Indictment being read, he pleaded Not guilty, and to the admiration of the Hearers, ſo quitted himſelf, that he put the Bench to a ſtand; but one Rich, the King's Solicitor, depoſing againſt him, That he heard him ſay, The Parliament could make the King no more Supreme Head of the Church, than they could make a Law, that God ſhould not be God; though Sir Thomas denied he had ſaid ſo, and excepted againſt the Witneſs, the Lord Chancellor proceeded to Sentence, That he ſhould be drawn upon a Hurdle to Tyburn, there hanged untill half dead, his privy parts cut off, his Belly rip'd, his Bowels burnt, and his four Quarters ſet up over the four Gates of London, and his Head upon the Bridge. This Sentence being afterwards, by the Kings Pardon, changed unto only Beheading, and word being brought to Sir Thomas, he anſwer'd merrily, God forbid the King ſhould uſe any more ſuch Mercies to any of my Poſterity or Friends. During the time he remained in Priſon, being urged by a certain Courtier, to an importunity to change his Mind; he told him, to rid himſelf of him, That he had altered it; which the inconſiderate Courtier haſting to acquaint the King with, was commanded to know wherein his Mind was changed; Sir Thomas told him, That it was in reſolving his Beard ſhould undergo the ſame tribulation with himſelf, whereas he intended ſome time before to be ſhaved, that he might appear to the People as before. The day appointed for the Execution being come, he was brought out of the Tower at Nine in the Morning; aſcending the Scaffold, it ſeemed ſo weak, that it was ready to fall, whereupon turning briskly to the Lieutenant, I pray, ſaid he, ſee me ſafe up, and for my coming down, let me ſhift for my ſelf. Having ſpoke to the People, and deſired them to pray for him, he kneeled down, and his Prayers ended, turned to the Executioner, and with a chearful Countenance ſaid, Pluck up thy Spirits, Man, and be not afraid to do thine Office, my Neck is very ſhort, take heed therefore thou ſtrike not awry for ſaving thine Honeſty: then laying his Head upon the Block, he bad him ſtay untill he had put aſide his Beard, ſaying, That had never committed any Treaſon; which was look'd upon to be too airy and light at ſo ſerious a time. Thus died Sir Thomas in 1535, a Man admirable in all ſorts of Learning. His Utopia is admired over all the World; his Richard III. was of ſo much credit with Hiſtorians, that they have placed it in their Works, without the alteration of a word. He compoſed ſeveral other Works. De Quatuor Noviſſimis, &c. His Monument is in Chelſey Church, where it is reported Biſhop Fiſher lies buried with him in the ſame Grave.

MOPSUESTIA, a Town of Caramania in the Leſſer Aſia, mentioned by Pliny and Strabo, had the Title of Biſhoprick, and afterwards of Metropolis under the Patriarch of Antioch. Nine Biſhops held a Synod there in 550, againſt Theodorus, Prelate of that Town.

MOPSUS, Son of Apollo by Manto, was ſo famous a South-ſayer, that he was the occaſion of this Proverb, More Infallible than Mopſus, to ſignifie thoſe that were not deceived in their Conjectures. Meeting one day with Calchas at Colophon, a Town in Ionia, and deſiring to diſpute with him about his Art, he asked him, How many Figs a certain wild Fig-tree did bear: Calchas could give no anſwer; but he told it without miſtaking one; which ſo confounded Calchas, that he died for grief, according to the Oracle, which had foretold his Death, when he ſhould find a better South-ſayer than himſelf. Then Mopſus was eſteemed the moſt skilfull in the World in that Science. Strabo, Lib. 13, &c.

MOQUA, a Riot of ſome Mahometans, returned from Mecca againſt thoſe that receive not Mahomet's Law. He that makes this Riot takes his Dagger in his Hand, whoſe Blade is commonly half poiſoned; and running about the Streets, kills all thoſe he meets, that are not Mahometans, till he be killed himſelf. Theſe mad Men think to ſerve God and Mahomet in killing their Enemies. As ſoon as they are killed, all the Mahometan Rabble run to them, and bury them like Saints, every one contributing to procure a noble burial unto them, Tavernier's Travels.

MORABITES, the name of thoſe that follow the Sect of Mohaidin, the laſt Son of Huſſein, who was the ſecond Son of Ali, Mahomet's Son-in-law. The moſt zealous of that Sect live in deſert places, like Monks, either alone, or in company, and profeſs Moral Philoſophy, obſerving many things contrary to Leſhari's, or Omar's Alcoran followed by the Turks. They live very licentiouſly, becauſe they ſay, That having purified their Souls by Faſting and Prayer, it is lawful for them to enjoy the Creatures. At Feſtivals and the Weddings of great Men, they ſing Verſes in Ali's and his Son's honour, and having ſtuffed their Bellies with Meat and Drink, they dance and ſing Love Songs, till being weary they fail down with many Sighs and Tears, and then ſome of their Diſciples take them up and carry them into their Hermitages. Their Order began about 700; but the Founder gave not his Rules in Writing. Marmol de l' Afrique lib. 1. The Name of Morabites is given in Africa to thoſe that make profeſſion of Learning and Holineſs. They live almoſt like the Pagan Philoſophers, or Chriſtian Hermits, and are ſo much reſpected by the People, that ſometimes they go to their ſolitary places to Crown them, Moüette Hiſt. du Royaume de Marroc.

MORALES (Ambroſe) a Spaniſh Prieſt, who brought the Belles Letters into Faſhion and Credit, much neglected before in Spain. He was born at Corduba in 1513. 'Tis reported, That being enter'd into St. Dominick's Order, he was expell'd it, becauſe, out of an exceſs of Zeal for Chaſtity, he followed Origen's Example, and made himſelf an Eunuch, taking too literally the words of Jeſus Chriſt in the Goſpel, That ſome make themſelves Eunuchs, to inherit the Kingdom of God. He was ordained Prieſt, and choſen to be King Philip II's Hiſtoriographer. He compoſed many Books. Quince Diſcurſos, &c. and died 1590, being 77 Years Old, which was the eleventh Climacterical Year of his Life, fatal to many great Men. Baronius. Thuanus. Scaliger. Ortelius, &c.

MORAT, Murat and Mourat, Lat. Moratum and Muratum, in German, Murten, a little Town of the Earldom of Romont, and Canton of Friburg, in Switzerland, ſituated on a Lake of the ſame name, famous for the Victory got there by the Swiſſers over Charles the Raſh, Duke of Burgundy. They gathered up the Bones of the Slain, and laid them in a Chapel near the Lake, with this Inſcription; Invictiſſimi atque fortiſſimi Caroli Ducis Burgundiæ exercitus Muratum Obſidens, contra Helvetios pugnans hic ſui Monumentum reliquit An. 1476. Philip de Comines Memoires. Guichenon Hiſt. de Savoye, &c.

MORAVIA, in German Mahren, a Province of Bohemia in Germany, taking its name from the River Morawi, in German, DIE MAHR, called by Pliny, Morus, and by Tacitus, Marus. There are two other Rivers of that name; one in Bulgaria, and the other in Servia. The other Rivers of Moravia are the Swarte, the Igle, and the Teya, &c. The form of the Province is perfectly Triangular. The majority of the Inhabitants are Sclavonians. Its Towns are Olmutz, Brinn, Iglaw, Znaim, Newſtadt, Ingerwitz, Cremſir, Bernſtein, &c. Olmutz was formerly the chief Town of the Province, but becauſe it ſurrender'd too eaſily to the Swedes, this honour was conferr'd on Brinn, that reſiſted bravely under the Earls of Souches. Moravia was formerly part of the Marcomans Country, and had for a while the Title of Kingdom, afterwards of Dukedom, and at laſt, of Marquiſate. It is about 45 Leagues long from Eaſt to Weſt, and 30 from South to North. It abounds with plenty of Game, Corn, Cattle, and Mineral Waters. Cluver. deſcr. Germ. Dubravius. Pulkava. Cuthenus, &c. Hiſt. Bohem.

MORBIHAN, a Sea-port of Bretaigne in France near Vannes. The Gulf it takes its name from, contains above 30 ſmall Iſlands, where are no Venomous Beaſts. It is ſo convenient, that it gave occaſion to the deſign of building a new Town there, to which the King granted conſiderable Privileges to incourage the Trade.

MORDANT (John) of Turvey in Com. Bedf. Eſquire, was one of the King's Commanders in 2 Henry VII. at the Battle of Stoke, near Newark upon Trent, againſt John Earl of Lincoln and his Adherents, then in Arms; and being a perſon learned in the Laws, he was called to the ſtate and degree of Serjeant 11 Henry VII. and within a ſhort time after, made Chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, and meriting much by reaſon of his great Abilities, was ſummoned to Parliament amongſt the Peers of this Realm in 28 Henry VIII. By Elizabeth, his Wife, Daughter and Co-heir to Henry de Vere, Lord of Drayton and Adington, in Com. Northt. he had Iſſue, John his Son and Heir, and Dorothy, a Daughter, married to Tho. Moor Eſquire; which John was made Knight of the Bath 25 Henry VIII. at the Coronation of Queen Anne of Bollen, and upon the death of King Edward the VIth. though the Lady Jane Grey was proclaimed Queen by direction of the whole Privy Council, appear'd in Arms with the firſt, on the behalf of Queen Mary. By his Teſtament, bearing date 13 Eliz. he appointed that his Mannors and Lands called Tiptofts, Pinkneys and Warley ſhould be aſſured to the King's Hall and Brazen-noſe College in Oxford, for the maintenance of certain Scholars to thoſe Houſes, and other deeds of Charity; and that thoſe Scholars ſhould be ſucceſſively named from time to time by his Executors, and afterwards, by his Heirs for ever. To him ſucceeded Lewis, Lord Mordant, his Son and Heir, who dying in 1601 was ſucceeded by Henry his Son, who, by Margaret his Wife, Daughter to Henry Lord Compton, had iſſue, John, who by Letters Patents bearing date 9 Martii, 3 Car. I. was advanced to the dignity of Earl, by the Title of Earl of Peterborough; which John married Elizabeth, ſole Daughter and Heir to William Howard, commonly called Lord Effyngham, and by her had Iſſue, two Sons, Henry, now Earl of Peterborough, and John, and Elizabeth, a Daughter, married to Thomas, Son and Heir to Edward, Lord Howard of Eſcrick; which Henry, ſhortly after the marriage of King Charles the IId. took poſſeſſion of Tangier in Africa for his Majeſty. He married Penelope, Daughter to Barnabas Earl of Thomond in Ireland, and by her hath Iſſue, the Lady Mary — John, ſecond Son to John Earl of Peterborough, bearing moſt Loyal Affections to King Charles I. adventured his Life in raiſing what Forces he could, under the Conduct of Henry, then Earl of Holland, to reſcue him out of the Iſle of Wight; and ſince that time, not ceaſing to hazard himſelf again, in order to the Reſtauration of King Charles the IId. was in conſideration thereof, advanced by that Prince, in the 11th of his Reign, to the dignity of a Baron of this Realm, by the Title of Lord Mordant of Rygate in Com. Sur. as alſo to the honour of Viſcount Avalon in Com. Somerſet. He married Elizabeth, Daughter to Tho. Carey, ſecond Son to Robert Earl of Monmouth, by whom he had iſſue, four Sons, Charles, Henry, Lewis and Oſmund; as alſo four Daughters, Charlotte, Carey, Sophia and Anne. Charles, his Succeſſor, being active in the Revolution, was created Earl of Monmouth by King William. Dugdale Bar. pt. 2d.

MORDUATES, Lat. Morduvæ, People of Muſcovy, having the Don or Tanais on the South; great Mountains towards the Volga on the North; the Dukedom of Wolodimer on the Weſt, and the People called Czeremiſſes-Nagornoi on the Eaſt. Their Country is Wild, full of Foreſts, and little known.

MORE or Moore (Anthony) a Dutch Painter of Utrecht: as good a Courtier as Painter. He drew Philip II's Picture at Madrid in 1552. He practiſed likewiſe his Art in Portugal, England, and the Low-Countries, where he left a Picture of the Circumciſion unperfect. Felibien entr. ſur les vies des Peintres.

MOREA, a large Peninſula, named formerly Peloponneſus, on the South of Greece, ſurrounded with the Sea on all ſides, except the North, where the Iſthmus of Corinth joyneth it with Achaia. Its ſhape, like a Mulberry-leaf, called in Greek Μορέα, and in Latin Morus, gave occaſion to the laſt Emperors of Conſtantinople to call it Morea. Others ſay, that Morea has been tranſpoſed for Romea, to imply that Countries Subjection to New Rome. Doglioni believes, that the Moors gave their name unto it, when they made Incurſions thither. This Peninſula is near 550 Miles about, now divided into four Provinces, viz. 1. Sacania, or Leſſer Romania; 2. Tzaconia, or Maina's Arm; 3. Belvedre, and 4. Clarence. This laſt is the moſt conſiderable, and had formerly the Title of Dukedom. It has Sacania on the Eaſt, Tzaconia and Belvedere on the South; the Canal of Zant, and the Gulfs of Patras and Lepanto on the Weſt and North. There are many Towns and Boroughs, whereof Patras is the moſt remarkable; Clarence, Camintza, Caſtel-Torneſe, with ſome others are of the ſecond rank. Belvedere has Clarence on the North, Tzaconia on the Eaſt, the Gulf of Coron on the South, and the Gulfs of Arcadia and Zunchio on the Weſt: The chief Town is Modon, the others are Coron, Navarin, Calamata, &c. Sacania or Leſſer-Romania, has Clarence and part of Tzaconia on the Weſt. Its chief Town is Napoli di Romania now, as Argos was formerly. Corinth is on the Iſthmus. This Province is famous for Lerna-Marſh, where Hercules conquer'd the Hydra, having ſeven Heads; that is, the ſeven Brethren, who deſtroyed the Country by their Tyranny. Tzaconia or Maina's Arm is between Sacania on the Eaſt; Belvedere and Clarence on the Weſt and North. Its chief Towns are Malvaſia, or Malvoiſia, Miſitra or Sparta, Zarnata, Chieleſa, Paſſava, and Vitulo. And as the Venetians had made a Conqueſt of this Country during the War, it was confirmed to them by the Peace of Carlowitz in 1699, as entirely including the full circumference of the Country, incloſed between the Sea and the Iſthmus on that part, where there are ſtill to be ſeen ſome remains of the ancient Wall, but ſo as to make no extention of the Continent of the Morea into the firm Land, beyond the confines of the ſame Province. That Country produceth Dogs much valued in Turkey There are many Rocks and Caves which occaſion frequent Earthquakes. The Cape Malea, or Capo-Maleo, towards the South in the Sea of Candia, is famous for its excellent Wines, and dreadful to Pilots, becauſe of its Sandy-banks. The moſt conſiderable Mountains of Morea are Mount Dimizana, the Cyllenian, Miſena or Lyceus, Poglizi, Grevenos, Olonos and Maina. The Mount Dimizana or Diminiza, formerly Pholoë, is in the Northern part of Tzaconia. There Hercules kill'd a great number of Centaurs. The ruines of Mercury's Temple are to be ſeen ſtill on the Cyllenian. Mount Miſena, called formerly Lyceus, is in the ſame Country; there the Lacedæmonians ſtoned the Tyrant Ariſtocrates. Poglizi formerly Stymphalus, is in the Northern part of Maina's Arm. The famous Birds called Stymphalides were in a Lake near it, whence they were driven away by Hercules. Grevenos, formerly Coronius, is in the ſame Province of Maina, where the Stone called Cylinder is found, and is looſened from the Rock in tempeſtuous Weather cauſed by Thunder. Olonos, formerly Minthus, is in Belvedere, where is to be ſeen, a Temple conſecrated by the ancient Pagans to Pluto and Proſerpina, and plenty of Odorifetous Mint. But the moſt famous is Mount Maina in the Mainotes Country, or Tzaconia, formerly dedicated to Apollo, Diana, Bacchus and Ceres, and full of Stags, wild Boars, and other wild Beaſts. There are alſo extraordinary good Whetſtones. The two principal Rivers of Morea are the Carbon or Orſea, formerly Alpheus; and the Baſilipotamo or Iris, formerly Eurotus. The Poets feigned, That the firſt ran under the Sea into Sicily, to be joined with the Waters of the Spring Arethuſa. 'Tis true it goes often under the Ground, and comes out always with more ſtrength. The Baſilipotamo, that is, Imperial River, was ſo named, becauſe the Deſpots of Morea, which were Princes of the Imperial Blood, reſided commonly at Miſitra, and hunted often near this River. There are Flocks of Swans extraordinary beautiful, and its Banks are full of Laureltrees, therefore formerly conſecrated to Apollo. The Climate of Morea is temperate, the Soil fruitful, the Inhabitants Witty and Courageous. This Peninſula having had different Governments, was at laſt ſubdued by Emanuel, a Greek Emperor, about 1150. This Prince divided his Dominions among his ſeven Sons, who were named Deſpots, that is, Lords. Afterwards thoſe Dignities were given not only to the Emperor's Children, or Relations, but alſo to thoſe that had ſignalized themſelves by their brave Actions. Conſtantine Dracoſes, Deſpot of Morea before, coming to the Imperial Throne, divided Morea between Demetrius and Thomas, his Brethren, who fighting cruelly one againſt another, gave occaſion to Mahomet II. to take poſſeſſion of their Dominions, under pretence of aſſiſting Demetrius againſt Thomas. This laſt retiring to Rome, carried the Apoſtle St. Andrew's Head along with him; and the Turks breaking their Word, ſent Demetrius to Adrianople. Ever after the Infidels were Maſters of Morea till 1687, except ſome places which the Venetians kept and took there. F. Cornelli's Deſcription of Morea. Morea is now under the Venetians, who, in 1687, took the Towns of Patras, Lepanto, Caſtel-Torneſe, Corinth and Miſitra; as you may ſee in the particular Articles of each of thoſe Towns. After which Conqueſt, General Moroſini cauſed all the Churches which were Moſques before, to be re-conſecrated; ſo that many Greek Families have left Achaia, to ſettle in Morea, and more than 12000 Inhabitants have reſorted thither. Many Corporations of Romelia have alſo deſired the Republick of Venice's Protection; and the Generaliſſimo has ſent Ships in order to tranſport them thither.

MOREL (Frederick) a Learned Printer at Paris, was born in Champagne, and died 1583. He was a good Linguiſt, and compoſed ſome Books. One of his Sons of the ſame name was alſo a learned Man, and we have divers of his Works.

MOREL (John) Lord of Grigny, born at Ambrun in Dauphine, obtained a great name among the Learned of the the XVIth. Century. Camilla, Lucretia and Diana, Morel's three Daughters by Antoinette de Loynes, his Wife, were all very Learned as well as their Mother. They underſtood Greek and Latin, compoſed very fine Verſes in thoſe two Languages, and their Houſe was the true Temple of the Muſes. Morel became blind in his old Age, and died 1581. We have a good collection of Verſes on his Death. Camilla was a wonder for her great Learning; beſides Greek and Latin, ſhe ſpoke Italian and Spaniſh very fluently; ſhe compoſed divers Poems. Thuan. Hiſt. ſui temp. S. Martha, l. 4.Elog. La Croix du Maine Bibl. Franc.

MOREL (Julian) born at Barcelona, a Nun of S. Dominick's Order at Avignon, famous in the XVIIth. Century for her Vertue and Learning. Being 12 Years of Age ſhe defended a Philoſophical Theſis at Lyons, which was dedicated to Margaret of Auſtria, Queen of Spain, 1607. It is reported, that ſhe ſpoke 14 Languages, and underſtood Philoſophy, the Law, and Muſick. Lopez de Vega in Lauro Apoll. Andreas Scotus, Bibl. Hiſp. &c.

MOREL (Meraud) of Dauphine, a famous Lawyer in the Reign of Francis I. Chorier Hiſt. de Dauphine.

MORENA (Otho) born at Lauden in Germany in the XIIth. Century, began the Hiſtory of the Emperor Frederick Barbaroſſa's Life, which Acerbus Morena, his Son, afterwards finiſhed. This Work ſufficiently ſhews, that the Author ſided with the Emperor againſt the Popes. Baronius. Voſſius de Hiſt. Lat.

MORERI (Lewis) Doctor of Divinity, born at Bargamont in Provence in 1643. His Father, Francis Moreri, was Son of John Moreri, whoſe Father N. Chatranet took the name of Moreri, becauſe he was Lord of the Mannor of Morier, a Village in Provence. Lewis Moreri went to Draguignan School, Learned Rhetorick and Philoſophy at Aix, and Divinity at Lyons. When he was but 18 Years of Age, he compoſed a ſmall Allegorical Work, intitled, Le Pais d' Amour, and a Collection of the fineſt French Poems entitled, Doux plaiſirs de la Poeſie, to which Works he only put the firſt Letters of his name, viz. L. M. He applied himſelf carefully to Learn the Italian and Spaniſh Tongues, and tranſlated out of Spaniſh into French the Book intitled La Perfection Chrétienne de Rodriguez, which was printed at Lyons in 1667. He endeavoured afterwards to refine the Saints Lives to the purity of the French Tongue, aud added to them ſome Methodical and Chronological Tables for the uſe of Preachers. Being ordain'd Prieſt, he preached five Years at Lyons. At that time he undertook to compoſe a new Hiſtorical Dictionary, containing what is more curious in Holy and Prophane Hiſtory in Alphabetical Order, of wonderful uſe for Information upon all kinds of Subjects in a moment. He knew what Modern Books were to be conſulted, and could ſpeak Italian and Spaniſh, though he underſtood Latin but indifferently, and Greek and Hebrew not at all. That great Work was printed at Lyons in one Volume Fol. 1673. And every body wondered that a man at thirty could publiſh a Book full of ſo different Subjects. He went to Paris in 1665 with the Biſhop of Apt, where he was quickly known by all the Learned. In 1677 he inlarged his Dictionary to two Volumes. Mr. de Pompone, Secretary of State, perſwaded him to live in his Family; but this Lord leaving his place in 1679, Moreri took occaſion to retire to his own Houſe, that he might finiſh his great Work, the firſt Volume whereof was then printed; but the ſecond was not publiſhed till after his death, viz. 1681. His continual labour mightily impaired his Health, ſo he died in 1680, like a good Chriſtian, being but 37 Years and three Months old; it may be ſaid, That he ſacrificed his Fortune and Life for the Publick, when he undertook ſo laborious a work, which was the cauſe of his Sickneſs and Death. He left ſeveral Works imperfect, viz. A General Hiſtory of the Councils; An Hiſtory of the Illuſtrious Men of Provence; An Account of the Authors of that Country, and a Treatiſe of New-years-gifts, which are in his Eccleſiaſtical Brother's Hands, where they are like to remain buried. Taken out of the Abbot Baudrand's Memoirs, and Memoirs du temps.

The MORESTAN, a large Hoſpital at Cairo in Egypt. open to all kinds of ſick People, of what Religion ſoever.

MORET (Balthazar) a Printer born at Antwerp, Son of John Moret, and Chriſtopher Plantin's Nephew, was eſteemed for his Learning, and divers Poems. He compoſed ſome Geographical and Hiſtorical Commentaries on Ortelius's Theatre of the World, and died in 1641. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg.

La MORGANA, a name given by the Inhabitants of Rhegio in the Kingdom of Naples, to a certain Viſion ſeen almoſt every year in the middle of Summer, near their Town. There appears at firſt, in the dark, a kind of Stage, with a magnificent Decoration; afterwards ſtately Palaces and Caſtles, ſupported with a great number of Columns; then comes a ſight of thick Foreſts of Cypreſs-trees, and other Trees regularly planted in Plains, with many Companies of Men, and Flocks, and Herds of different Beaſts. All this appears ſo lively, and ſo well ordered, that no body can ſufficiently admire ſuch wonderful effects. F. Kircher wrote a long Diſſertation concerning it, A. M. Luc. l. 10. p. 2. wherein he mentions Ignatius Angelucius's Letter, who ſaw it himſelf.

MORIMOND, a conſiderable Abby of St. Bernard's Order in Champagne, founded 1115 by Alderic d' Aigremont, Lord of Choiſeul, having at leaſt 100 Monaſteries in its dependency, beſides the five Military Orders of Spain, viz. of Calatrava, Alcantara, Monteſa, Avis, and of Chriſt, which acknowledge the Abbot of Morimond, though Regular, for their General. Santa Martha Gallia Chriſtiana.

Le MORIN, a River of Brie in France, whoſe Head is near Sedan, named the great Morin, to diſtinguiſh it from another River called the little Morin, whoſe Head is near Montmirel, and runs into the River Marne.

MORIN (John) Father of the Oratory, illuſtrious for his Vertue and Learning, born at Blois in 1591, of Proteſtant Parents, ſtudied in Holland, and returning to Paris turned Papiſt by the perſwaſion of Cardinal Du Perron. Afterwards he entred into the Congregation of the Fathers of the Oratory, lately inſtituted in France by Cardinal Berulle; where he endeavoured to convert the Jews, uſing always the Septuagint's Tranſlation, which he cauſed to be printed at Paris 1628, and defended in that fine Work printed 1629, and intitled Exercitationes Biblicæ, which he corrected 20 Years, and which was printed after his death. This Book contains learned Criticiſms. He was ſo valued by Churchmen, that the Prelates aſſembled together, took commonly his Advice in the greateſt concerns. Pope Urban the VIIIth. deſiring to ſee him, he went to Rome, where he endeavoured to advance the Union of the Greek Church with the Roman. But Cardinal Richlieu obliged his Superiours to call him home.

As he was very Learned in the Oriental Tongues, he renewed, in a manner the Hebrew Samaritan Pentateuch (which had not been mentioned ſince St. Hierom's time) cauſing it to be printed in the Paris Polyglott Bible. The deſign he had to confute the Rabbies extravagancies, who cannot clear the Difficulties about Religion, as he endeavours to prove it againſt Mercerus, Maſius, Scaliger, and Salmaſius, was the motive of his being ſo perfect in thoſe Languages. He died 1659, the 58th of his Age, after having compoſed many other Books, as De Pœnitentia. De Ordinationibus, &c. All the Learned Men of his time commended him to the higheſt degree; and if he had ſtaid at Rome, without doubt the Pope would have made him a Cardinal. Bernier Hiſt. de Blois. Read his Life by M. Simon in the beginning of his Antiquitates Orientales.

MORINGE, (Gerard) born at Bommel in Guelderland, in the XVIth Century, Doctor and Profeſſor in the Univerſity of Louvain; afterwards Prebendary and Rector of S. Trudon in the Dioceſs of Leige, where he died 1556. Thoſe that make him a Benedictine Friar in 1100, are miſtaken. He wrote St. Auſtin's, St. Trudon's, and Adrian VI's Lives; commented on Eccleſiaſtes, &c. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg. &c.

MORINS, Morini, People, part of the Ancient Gauls, mentioned by Cæſar, l. 4. Comm. Mr. Sanſon in his Remarks on the Ancient Gauls, thinks that thoſe People were in the ancient Dioceſs of Terouenne; and truly, the Town of that name was the Chief Town of thoſe People, contained in the Dioceſs of St. Omar, Bologne, and Ypres, ſuch as they are now. Pliny ſpeaks of them, and Virgil Æn. l. 8.

MORLAIX, a Town in Bretaigne in France, in Latin Mons relaxatus and Morleum, ſituated between Two Vallies. The Ruins of an Ancient Caſtle are ſeen on the top of the Hill; and the River Morlaix runs in the Valley; it is properly an Arm of the Sea, becauſe the Tide brings up Ships of 100 Tuns, and the biggeſt Barks as far as this Town, which has a good Port, and is conſiderable for its Bigneſs, Buildings, and Trade of Hemp, Flax, Linen-Cloth, &c. The Fort called Taureau, is built in an Iſland on this River, and great Ships that can't come up ſo high as the Town, Anchor there.

MORLAQUES, are a People who Inhabit the Mountains of Croatia, on that ſide which looks towards the Adriatick Sea. In the year 1648, the Baſha of Boſnia and Tekely, Father or Grandfather to the Famous Count Tekely of theſe times, committed a Maſſacre upon many of theſe poor People at Krun; in reſentment whereof, at the inſtance of a certain Prieſt called Stephen Horien, who could uſe his Sword as well as his Crucifix, they wholly ſubmitted themſelves to the Venetians, and deſired to live under their Protection: they receive no Pay from them; but have the Reward of a Sequin (which is Nine Shillings Six pence Engliſh) for the Head of every Turk they bring to the Venetian Officers; for lucre of which, they have made ſuch conſtant Enterprizes upon the Turks, and ſuch cruel Slaughters, as have rendred them irreconcileable Enemies to the Port: they are a ſort of Militia always on the Wing, under no Diſcipline but their own, Encamp on the Plains, but live with their Families on the Mountains, avoiding the Licentiouſneſs which much Converſation brings, and the Luxury of Cities: they have no Learning amongſt them, neither do they much underſtand what it is to keep Faith or Promiſes with an Enemy, an Inſtance whereof we have, in their dealing with the Turks of the Garriſon of Gliſſa, which in the Year 1648. having Surrendred it ſelf up to the Venetians on Capitulations, as the Soldiers were Marching out of the Town, they fell upon them, and killed twelve Hundred Men, and not one of the reſt had eſcaped, had not the Venetian Oficers interpoſed their Perſons and Authority, to ſave thoſe that yet ſurvived. Ricaut.

MORLEY, (George) Son of Francis Morley, Eſq;, by Sarah Denham, his Wife, Siſter to Sir John Denham, one of the Barons of the Exchequer, was born in Cheapſide, London, Feb. 27. 1597. He was firſt bred a Weſtminſter-Scholar, and afterwards became Student of Chriſt's Church in Oxford, where he proſecuted his Studies with great Application, and continued in the ſame Houſe till he was Seven Years ſtanding Maſter of Arts: After ſome other Preferments, he was made Canon of Chriſt-Church in 1641; the firſt Years Profits of which he gave the King, who was then engag'd in a War, begun upon him by the Rebellious Long Parliament. Some time afterwards, being then Doctor of Divinity, he was nominated one of the Aſſembly of Divines by both Houſes, as were alſo Prideaux,Biſhop of Worceſter, and Dr. Hammond, but none of them thought fit to appear among them. When his Majeſty was kept Priſoner at Hampton-Court, he employ'd Dr. Morley to engage the Univerſity of Oxford not to ſubmit to the Illegal Viſitation; which Affair was ſo well managed by him, that the Convocation immediately paſs'd an Act for that purpoſe, which they carried by an Univerſality of the Houſe, one Vote excepted, though the Town was then in the Rebels Poſſeſſion. The Doctor, though one of the firſt that was depriv'd at Oxford, was yet offer'd by one of the Leading Men of the Houſe of Commons, to keep his Preferments without ſaying or doing any thing more, than only giving his Word, That he would not appear againſt their Proceedings. When the Treaty of the Iſle of Wight came on, he was ſent for by the King to be preſent at it: This Treaty being broke off by the unreaſonable Demands of the Rebels, he reſolv'd to go beyond Sea, having firſt aſſiſted Arthur Lord Capel, at the Place of Execution. Having quitted England in the 51ſt Year of his Age, he waited upon King Charles II. at the Hague, and was kindly receiv'd by him. His learned Acquaintance abroad were Rivet, Daniel Heinſius, and Salmaſius: He was likewiſe intimately acquainted with the famous Samuel Bochart, to whom he wrote a Latin Letter from Paris, in which he declar'd his Reaſons for not joining in the French Hugonot Communion. After his Majeſty's Reſtauration, he was firſt made Dean of Chriſt's Church, then Biſhop of Worceſter, from whence he was tranſlated to the See of Wincheſter in 1662. where he ſpent 8000 l. in Repairing of the Caſtle at Farnham, and 4000 in Purchaſing Wincheſter-Houſe at Chelſey, which he annex'd to that See. He died at Farnham-Caſtle, October 29. 1684. being 87 Years of Age. He was a Perſon of great Loyalty and Courage, of a Regular Converſation, Charitable Temper, and a Careful and Worthy Governor in his Dioceſs. His Writings in Print are, A Sermon at the Coronation of King Charles II. in 1661. A Letter to a Friend,in Vindication of himſelf from Mr. Baxter's Calumny, Epiſtola Apologetica & Parænetica ad Theologum quendam Belgicum Scripta. The Sum of a ſhort Conference between Father Darcy, a Jeſuit, and Dr. Morley at Bruxels, in 1649. An Argument drawn from the Evidence and Certainty of Senſe againſt the Doctrine of Tranſubſtantiation. A Vindication of the Argument drawn from Senſe againſt Tranſubſtantiation, from a pretended Anſwer to it by the Author of a Pamphlet, call'd, A Treatiſe of the Nature of the Catholick Faith and Hereſy. An Anſwer to Father Creſſy's Letter; the Subſtance of this Diſcourſe, is concerning Religion, and the Clergy of England. A Sermon before the King at White-Hall, Novemb. 5. 1667. An Anſwer to a Letter, written by a Romiſh Prieſt, in 1676. A Letter to Ann, Dutcheſs of York, ſome few Months before her Death, written in 1670. Ad Clariſſimum Virum Janum Ulitium Epiſtolæ duæ de Invocatione Sanctorum. A Letter to the Earl of Angleſey, Of the Means to keep out Popery, &c. A Vindication of himſelf from divers Falſe, Scandalous, and Injurious Reflections made upon him, by Mr. Richard Baxter in ſeveral of his Writings, &c. Athen. Oxon.

MORNAY, (Philip de) Lord of le Pleſſis-Morlay, the King's Privy-Councellor, Governor of Saumur in France, &c. His Noble and Ancient Family has been divided into ſeveral Branches, which have produced many Illuſtrious Men. He did what he could to perſuade King Henry IV. not to change his Religion; but the thing being done in 1592, he left the Court by degrees, and applied himſelf to write concerning the Euchariſt, whereby he got a great Name; which Work occaſioned the Conference at Fontainbleau in 1600, between Mr. Du Perron, then Biſhop of Evereux, afterwards Cardinal, and Mr. Du Pleſſis, who was ſo conſiderable among the Proteſtants, that he was named by many, The Proteſtant's Pope. He compoſed alſo a Treatiſe Of the Truth of the Chriſtian Religion; another, Of the Myſtery of Iniquity; beſides other Works. Lewis XIII. took away the Government of Saumur from him 1621, and he retired to his Barony, named La Foreſt in Poitou, where he died 1623, the 74th Year of his Age. *Liques en vie de Mr. du Pleſſis. MORON, (John) a Cardinal and Biſhop of Modena, born at Milan, Son of Count Hierom Moron, one of the moſt Illuſtrious Politicians of his time; made Biſhop of Modena by Clement VII. was ſent by Paul III. as Nuncio into Germany in 1542. to perſuade the Emperor, and the Princes of Germany, That a General Council was neceſſary for the good of the Church; to which he got their conſent; and thereupon was made Cardinal in 1542, Legate at Bolognia, and Preſident in the Council ſummoned at Trent. Julius III. ſent him alſo Legate to the Diet of Ausburg. But Paul IV. made him Priſoner as well as Cardinal Pool, for favouring the Proteſtants; afterwards being ſatisfy'd that he was innocent, he ſent him word, that he had liberty to go out; which Moron refus'd, demanding Satisfaction for the Injury done to his Reputation. Paul IVth delayed his Abſolution for fear of condemning himſelf. But Pius IVth highly juſtified him, and ſent him Legate to preſide over the Council at Trent, which ended in 1563. He had once twenty eight Votes in the Conclave, but was not elected Pope. He died 1580. Guichardin. Thuan. Hiſt. &c.

MOROSINI, a Venetian Family, very Noble, Ancient, and Famous for many Great Men and Doges, as Dominick Moroſini, Lat. Maurocenus, elected Doge 1148, who died 1156; Marin Moroſini elected Doge 1249, who died 1252; Michael Moroſini, who died of the Plague, four Months after his Election, 1381. Mark Moroſini and Nicholas Moroſini, both Biſhops of Venice, the firſt in 1235, and the ſecond 1338; John Francis Moroſini, Patriarch of Venice 1644; and Moroſini who was Generaliſſino in Candia, and ſince Doge, in 1688, who after he had done the Republick divers ſignal Services in the Levant, died on the 6th of January, 1694, at Napoli di Romania, &c. *Bembo & Juſtiniani Hiſt. MOROSINI, (Peter) born at Venice, was a Cardinal, and one of the moſt Learned Lawyers of his time. He wrote with ſucceſs on the Sixth Volume of the Decretals, and left other Law Works, which are found in Manuſcript, in the Vertuoſo's Libraries. He died 1424.

MOROSOU (Boris Juanovitz) Alexis Michael, Great Duke of Moſcovy's Favourite, and firſt Miniſter of State 1645, was ſo great with his Prince, that he perſuaded him to marry a Gentleman's Daughter, named Miloſlauski, and afterwards married her Siſter, and ſo became related to the Great Duke. His Monopolies and Exactions made the People riſe and plunder his Houſe, and the Duke could ſcarcely appeaſe the Mutiny; which Danger made Moroſou more prudent and moderate afterwards. Olearius's Travels into Moſcovy.

MORPETH, in Northumberland, a very fine Borough Town, ſeated by the River Wentbeck, ſtrengthned with a Caſtle, and having the beſt M. of the County on W. 'Tis governed by two Bailiffs. From London 291 Miles. It's Capital of its Ward, returns two Members to Parliament, and gives the Title of Viſcount to the Earl of Carliſle.

MORPHEUS, one of the Miniſters of the God of Sleep, who provoked to Sleep, and repreſented divers Shapes in Dreams. A Relation of the Hurons Country, in 1642. ſaith, That thoſe People adored Morpheus. Ovid ſpeaks of him, Metam. l. 11.

MORT, (Lewis) an Italian Painter, the firſt that applied himſelf to Grotesk Works, about the end of the XVth Century. He was very melancholick and retired, and was killed in a Fight againſt the Turks.

MORTAGNE, a little Town of Flanders, fortified formerly, two or three Leagues from Tournay, on the meeting of the Rivers Scheld and Scarpe, Lat. Moritania.

MORTAGNE, Lat. Mortagnia, or Moritania, a Town of the higher Perche in France, with a Caſtle, ſeveral fine Churches, and well peopled.

MORTAIN, Lat. Moritonium, or Moritolium, a little Town of Normandy in France, honoured with the Title of an Earldom. Their ancient Cuſtom is to carry a naked Sword inſtead of a Banner in their Proceſſions. It belongs now to the Dukes of Montpenſier. Du Puy, Du Cheſne.

MORTON, in Devonſhire, an indifferent large Town, ſeated on a Hill, has a good Market on Saturday, eſpecially for Yarn. From London 150 Miles.

LE MORUAN, a little hilly Country of Burgundy, towards Autun, Lat. Moruinus Tractus & Morundia.

MOSAICK-WORK, is a Work of many little Stones of different Colours joined together, to repreſent divers Shapes. The Learned diſtinguiſh Moſaick Works from Inlaid-Works; and ſay, That in the Moſaick, each little Stone has but one Colour, like the Stitches of Needle-work; ſo that being cubical and perfectly join'd together, they imitate the Figures and Shadowings of Painting. But in Inlaid-works they chuſe Stones which naturally have the Shadowings and Colours wanted; ſo that the ſame Stone has together the Shadow and the Light; which is the reaſon why they cut them of different Shapes. It is a curious thing to obſerve the Original of ſo admirable an Art. Pliny ſaith, That painted Pavements, induſtriouſly wrought, came from the Gracians; that, amongſt others, that of Pergama, named Aſarotos, was the fineſt. Ἀσάρωτος ſignifies unſwept, and this Name was given unto it, becauſe the Crumbs, and other ſuch things, were ſo induſtriouſly repreſented on thoſe Pavements that every body thought them real, and that the Servants had neglected to ſweep the Hall. This Aſarotum was made of ſmall Shells of different Colours. Afterwards came the Moſaical-works, named in Greek, Lithoſtrota. And Sylla had a Pavement made that way at Præneſte in Fortune's Temple, about 170 Years before J. Chriſt. The word Λιθόστρωτον ſignifies only, A Pavement of Stones; but they underſtood by it thoſe Pavements made of ſmall Stones ſet in the Cement which repreſent divers Figures by the variety of their Colours, and the exactneſs of their Order. Some time after they overlaid with that ſort of Work, the Walls of Palaces and Temples, particularly the Buildings, called Muſea, which repreſented natural Grots. They were ſo nam'd, becauſe ingenious Works were attributed to the Muſes, and that the Muſes and Sciences were repreſented in them. Perhaps alſo the publick Buildings deſigned for the Aſſembly of Learned Men, and called Muſea, were adorned with this kind of Work; thence came the Name of Moſaick for Muſaick; for we muſt not believe that it comes from Moſes, or the Jews. Thoſe Moſaick-works, or Pavements of Inlaid-work, are found almoſt in all Ancient Towns, and particularly in thoſe which were Roman Colonies. The Pavement of the Choire of St. Remy's Church at Rheims, is one of thoſe Works admired by the Ingenious. It is compoſed of ſmall pieces of Marble, ſome of their natural Colour, and others dyed or enamell'd, ſo well ſet and cemented that they repreſent an infinite number of Figures, as if they had been drawn with a Limner's Pencil. There's, 1. David repreſented playing upon the Harp, with theſe Words over his Head, Rex David. 2. A Picture of St. Hierom, about whom are the Figures and Names of all the Prophets, Apoſtles, and Evangeliſts; 3. The Four Rivers of the Earthly Paradiſe, with theſe Names, Tigris, Euphrates, Gihon, Phiſon; 4. The Four Seaſons of the Year; 5. The Seven Liberal Arts; 6. The Twelve Months of the Year; 7. The Twelve Signs of the Zodiack; 8. The Shape of Moſes ſitting in a Chair, and holding an Angel on one of his Knees; 9. The Four Cardinal Virtues; 10. The Four Parts of the World, viz. the Eaſt, Weſt, South, and North; and many other Figures made of painted Pieces of Moſaick-work on a yellow ground of the ſame Work, the biggeſt Stones whereof are not bigger than one's Nail; except ſome white and black Tombs, and ſome round Pieces of Jaſper ſpotted, or watered with divers Colours, which are ſet there in ſome Compartments made with pieces of Marble, like Jewels ſet in a Ring. Near the great Altar is another ſort of Pavement of ſmall Pieces of Marble, which is divided into fine Compartments of Inlaid-work; and on the Altar's Step is repreſented Abraham's Sacrifice, Jacob's Ladder, and other Hiſtories of the Old Teſtament. Moſaick-works became ſo common at Rome, that the Popes adorn'd many Churches with them, ſome being gilded over, as may be ſeen ſtill in St. Mark's Church at Venice. Spon Recherches Curieuſes d' Antiquité.

MOSCH, (John) named Enirate, a Prieſt and Hermite in the VIIth Century, as it is ſuppoſed, compoſed a Book intituled, The Spiritual Meadow, or, The New Paradiſe. Some attribute it to Sophronius, to whom John dedicated it. Ambroſe, General of the Camaldules, tranſlated it into Latin. Baronius, An. Chr. 407. Voſſius, Nicephorus, &c.

MOSCH, or Moska, a River in Moſcovy, riſing in the Province of Tuver, it runs to Croom, Voratin Moſco, the Capital of Moſcovy, and after having receiv'd ſeveral Rivers, falls into the Volga.

MOSCO, or Moſcow, the Chief City of Moſcovy, the Reſidence of the Great Duke or Czar. It is divided into Four Parts, named, Cataygorod, Czargorod, Scoradom, and Kremnenagorod, ſeparated by three Walls, one of Bricks, and the other two of Stones and Wood. The Brick Wall ſeparates the Cataygorod from the reſt of the City; the Stone Wall ſurrounds the Czargorod, where the Czar's Palace is; and the Wooden Wall is for Bulwark, or Strelitza Sloboda, ſo named, becauſe it is the Strelits's Quarters, which are the Prince's Guards. This Town is watered by the Moſcha, and other Rivers; and its Palaces and Churches are its beſt Ornament. Moſcow ſeems to be rather a Collection of divers Boroughs, than a Town. It once conſiſted of 40000 Houſes; but it was taken, and almoſt burnt down by the Tartars, 1572. The Polanders took it alſo, 1611. And it was burnt again, 1668. There are two Caſtles built by two Italian Engineers, after the Model of that of Milan. It is a Trading Town, the Merchandizes, being tranſported on the Moſcha and Occo down to the River Volga. This City is three German Miles in Compaſs, and looks like a Maſs of divers Towns, rather than one City. The Streets are broad but very miry; the Houſes generally low, built all of Deal, covered with Bark, and ſometimes with Flag over the Bark, which made them extremely ſubject to Fire. The Houſes of ſome great Lords are built with brick and Stone. It ſtands 170 Miles from the Borders of Lithuania to the Eaſt, 54 Poliſh Miles from Smolensko, and 250 from Belgrade to the North-Eaſt. Long. 66. 00. Lat. 55. 36.

MOSCOSO D'ALVARADO, (Lewis) General of Florida, went with Francis Pizarro to conquer Peru, and afterwards into Florid with Fernand Soto, whom he ſucceeded in the General's place, 1542. Hiſtoire de la Floride traduite, 1685.

MOSCOVY, a large Country of Europe, named alſo White-Ruſſia, or Great Ruſſia, is part of the Ancient Sarmatia; named Ruſſia from the Ancient Roxolans, a People's Name; White-Ruſſia, becauſe of the Snow that covers the Country almoſt eight Months in the Year; and Great-Ruſſia, becauſe of its large Extent, it being the largeſt Country in Europe. Moſcovy is properly the Name of a Province only, the Chief Town whereof is Moſcow. But as l' Iſle de France gives its Name to the whole Kingdom; ſo by Moſcovy they commonly underſtand all that vaſt Country which obeys the Great Duke or Czar.

The Situation, Limits, and Diviſion of Moſcovy.

It has the Frozen Sea, or Northern Ocean, on the North; the Rivers Oby and Tanais on the Eaſt, which parts it from Great Tartary; the Little-Tanais, the Rivers Deſna and Sola, with the Leſſer-Tartary, on the South; the Boryſthenes, Narva, Poland,

Poland, Sweden, and Norway, on the Weſt. Its length from Kola to Aſtracan is above 600 Leagues, and its breadth from W. to E. from Livonia to Siberia, is of the ſame Extent. It is commonly divided into two principal parts, viz. the Southern, towards the Volga; and the Northern, towards the Dwina. Others divide it more naturally into four parts, viz. into Peculiar or Weſtern Moſcovy, Eaſtern Moſcovy, Moſcovian Tartary, and Moſcovian Lapland. All this Country may contain about forty Provinces, ſome whereof have the Title of Kingdoms, and others the Title of Dukedoms, whoſe Names are commonly taken from the chief Towns. We muſt obſerve alſo, That many of thoſe Dominions are in Aſia which the Moſcovites have conquered or made tributary in Tartary. Theſe are the Provinces, viz. Aſtracan, a Kingdom; Biela Ozera, a Dukedom; Bielki a Dukedom; Bulgar, Cargapol, Caſan, Nagaiski and Bulgal, all Kingdoms; Condora, Czeremiſſes, Logowoi, and Nagornoi, Dwina, Jeroſlaw, Juhorsky, Lapland, or Leporie, Loppie, Lucomoria, the Morduates, Moſcovy, Novogorod or Niſi Novogrod, and Novogrod-weliki, Obdora, Permski, Petzora, Pleskou, Pole, Rſchou, Rezan, Roſtou, the Samojedes, Siberia, Suſdal, the Tingoeſes, Tuver, Viatka, Ukrain, Wolodimer, Wologda, Worotin, Ouſtiuga, Sewiera, Smolensko; with divers people, viz. the Samojedes, the Tingoëſes, Scibanski, Giuſtiuski, Calami, Huguitski, Voguluci, and others already named. The Chief Towns are Archangel, Moſcow, and the others which give thoſe Provinces their Names.

The Qualities of the Country.

Moſcovy in general is a Marſhy Country, full of Foreſts, Pools, Lakes and Rivers. Some Lakes are fifty or fifty five Leagues long; Ladoga or Onega, near Finland, are the biggeſt in Europe, &c. The biggeſt Rivers are the Volga, the Boryſthenes, Tanaïs or Don, Dwina, Jag, Moſcha, Occo, &c. The Winter is long and extraordinary cold, chiefly in the Eaſtern and Northern parts. In that Seaſon they travel on very convenient Sledges. The Country is not well inhabited becauſe of the Fens and vaſt Foreſts, chiefly on the North part, where the little quantity of Corn ſowed never comes to perfect maturity. But it is not ſo towards Poland, where it is very hot in Summer. They ſow only Rie before Winter, and the other Corn in May, tho' their Harveſt be in July and Auguſt. There is alſo plenty of Fruit, Melons, &c. as alſo of Honey, Fowl and Fiſh, &c. The Country adjoining to Little Tartary is almoſt Deſart becauſe of thoſe Peoples Incurſions, who take as many Slaves as they can, to ſell them at Crim, from whence they are ſent to Conſtantinople. And becauſe fine Women are found amongſt thoſe Slaves, Merchants are not wanting to buy them. The Care taken to fell the Woods, and a Ditch made 100 Leagues long, cannot hinder thoſe frequent Incurſions. They ſo abuſed the Ruſſians in the preceeding Centuries, that, beſides the Tribute, the Duke of Moſcovy was forced to alight before the Tartarian Embaſſador, to offer him a Diſh of Milk; and which is more wonderfull, to lick up what was ſpilt by chance on his Horſe's Hair; and to be bare-headed whilſt the Tartarian was ſitting, as is affirmed by ſome. Olearius and other Authors ſpeak of a Plant that is found near Samara, Aſtracan and Caſan, like a Cucumber, in ſhape of a Lamb; and they affirm that the Graſs withers in every place where theſe extraordinary Plants reach, and that when they are ripe, the Stump groweth dry, and the Fruit is covered with a certain hairy Skin, which being prepared, makes a good Fur-lining; Wolves devour it becauſe it is like a Lamb; therefore the Moſcovites name it Bonnaret, that is, Little Lamb; and others, Zoophyte, or Animal Plant or Plant Animal. The Country affords alſo Salt, Brimſtone, Pitch and Tar, Hemp, Flax, Iron, Steel, and Copper-mines; alſo a kind of Fiſh named Morſe, which has very long Teeth fit for Handles of Knives and Scimitars, much valued in Perſia. Near Saint Michael the Archangel, there is a certain Rock called Slude, wherewith they make ſome Plates more tranſparent than Glaſs, that can neither be broken nor burn'd. Two or three different ſorts of Beer and Mead are the ordinary Drink among them. Their Buildings are almoſt all of Timber, Stones being ſcarce, which makes them ſo ſubject to be burn'd. It is true their loſs is not conſiderable, for their Houſes are very ordinarily furniſhed. Their woollen Cloth is very courſe. Ruſſian Leather is much valued in Europe. Fur-linings are ſo common there, that they have enough of them for themſelves and their Neighbours; and their Hunters are ſo skilfull, that they can wound the Beaſts Noſes only, to have the Skins whole.

The Moſcovites Manners and Cuſtoms.

The Moſcovites boaſt of being deſcended from the Græcians; they are generally very ſtrong; and their Boyars or Nobles love to appear with beg Bellies, as if their Nobility lay in their Guts. They have no other Surname but their Fathers proper Name, as Alexis Alexiewitz, that is, Alexis Son of Alexis. They delight alſo in long Beards, though they wear veary ſhort Hair. Their Gowns, with narrow Sleeves, reach down to their Heels. Their Collars and Shirts are commonly embroidered with Silk of different Colours. They wear only Caps and Buskins of read Leather inſtead of Shooes. Women are almoſt dreſſed like Men, only their Gowns are wider, their Caps very fantaſtical, and the Sleeves of their Shirts four or five ells long and much plaited. The Moſcovites are miſtruſtfull, treacherous, and ſo naturally cruel, that even the Executioner's Office is no diſcredit amongſt them. They are cunning in Trading, and deceive without Puniſhment, it being reputed Induſtry. They are ſo well us'd to Cold and Heat, that they indure both ſucceſſively without hurt. In their Collations they give Ginger bread, Brandy and Mead. They are naturally lazy, and Drunkenneſs is ſo common there, that they generally kill themſelves with it. Formerly they took Tabaco exceſſively; but in 1634 it was ſeverely prohibited, and the Tranſgreſſors were to be whipped, or to have their Noſtrils ſlit, if they ſhould but take any Snuſh; not only becauſe Families were ruined by ſuch an Expence, but becauſe it happened often that a Drunken Man falling a-ſleep with his Pipe lighted, fired the Houſe and part of the Town. Neverthelesſ, they ſmoak it ſtill privately, and uſe a Bull's Horn, with a Hole in the middle, and a little wooden Box to put the Tabaco in, having ſome Water in the Horn to ſweeten the Smoak. There is ſo little Complacency and Civility among them, that 'tis no wonder if they be unkind to Foreigners. They are naturally Proud, deſpiſe all Men, and think none comparable to themſelves. They live very frugally, and lie all on the Ground or on Benches, the Nobility and Gentry excepted. They are much addicted to Stealing, though ſeverely puniſhed for it. Their Sports are Wreſtling, Fighting at Fiſtycuffs, or with Sticks, and Sliding on the Ice. Their Muſick is compoſed of Hoboys and Bag-pipes, and their Dances are ſo ridiculous and brutiſh, that dancing Bears excell them.

The Duke's Succeſſion. The Government and Laws of Moſcovy.

We are ſo little acquainted with the Affairs and the ancient Hiſtory of Moſcovy, that it is difficult to ſpeak certainly of them. Nevertheleſs thus much we may collect; 'Tis ſaid that Wolodimier, Son of Steſlaus, was converted to the Catholick Faith in 988; and that he is properly the firſt Duke or Prince of that Country. The Græcians converted him, and he took the Name of Baſilius when he was baptized. Joreſlaus ſucceeded him; they reckon afterwards, Wzevold, Wolodimier II. Wzevold II. and 7 others whoſe Names are unknown. George I. Demetrius I. George II. Iroſlaus, George the Second's Brother, Alexander, Daniel, John named Kaleta, that is, The Purſe, becauſe he uſed to take a Purſe with him for Alms; Simeon, John II. Demetrius II. in 1400; George III. Baſilius III. John Baſilides, ſurnamed The Great, ſucceeded, and ſhook off the Tartars Yoke, who abuſed the Dukes of Moſcovy. This Prince married Sophia Palæololus, Daughter of Thomas, who was Brother to Conſtantine XIII. the laſt Emperor of Conſtantinople. He left Baſilius IV. who died in 1533. John Baſilides II. who was born in 1528, and died in 1584. Theodorus ſucceeded him, and died in 1598. Borius Hodrinus, or Boritz his Brother-in-law, took the Ducal-crown, and was charged with the Death of Theodorus, and of one of his Brethren named Demetrius. Others ſay, That the true Demetrius was alive, and appeared in Poland, where he married the Daughter of the Palatine of Sandomiria, who reſtored him. But becauſe he favoured Foreigners too much, he was called an Impoſtor, and put to death in 1606. Baſil John, named Suiski, was put in his place, and his tyrannical behaviour made him odious. The Polanders made him Priſoner, with two of his Brethren in 1610, under Ladiſlaus, Prince of Poland, whom the Muſcovites elected Duke. He took Moſcow in 1611; but was ſoon turned out; and the Muſcovites, naturally Enemies to all ſorts of Strangers, and deſirous to have a Duke of their own Nation, elected Michael called Federowitz, Son of Fedornikitits; Patriarch of Moſcow, and nearly related to the Tyrant Baſilius. Michael died in 1645. and left by Eudoxa, Lucanowena, Alexis, Michael or Michalouk, Duke of Moſcovoy, who died in 1676, and left among other Children, Alexis II. Duke of Moſcovy. The Czar alone gives Laws to his People, names the Governours of Provinces, ſends and receives Embaſſadors, and fixes the Taxes as he pleaſes. His Title, which ſeems to be derived from Cæſar, ſignifies King or Emperor. He is alſo called Grand Signior, and Velika-Knes, that is, Great Duke. His Coat of Arms is an Eagle with two Heads bearing three Crowns. His Council of State is commonly held in the night. There are ſix Juriſdictions to decide all Affairs; The firſt is for Strangers; The ſecond, for War-affairs; The third, for the Treaſury-affairs; The fourth, to receive divers Accounts; The fifth, for Civil-law-ſuits; And the ſixth, for Criminals. The Prince's Revenue is very conſiderable; for, beſides his Demeaſnes and the Taxes, he has an incredible Revenue from the Taverns he keeps; and, beſides that, he takes five per cent. of all Merchandizes. He has other Revenues for himſelf in particular, and takes poſſeſſion of all the Eſtates and Goods of all thoſe that die without Iſſue. And if there be any rich perſons incapable of ſerving him in the War, or elſewhere, he takes part of their poſſeſſions for himſelf, or for ſome Officer. And the Czar's Power is ſo great, that he is Maſter of the Lives and Fortunes of all his Subjects, who acknowledge themſelves his Slaves, and whom he never calls but by diminutive Names, as Jonny or Jenny, for John and James, &c. This Power is maintained by three Rules; The firſt, That it is Death to all Moſcovites to travel without the Prince's leave. The ſecond, That to prevent all Changes which might happen by foreign Alliances, the Czars marry none but their Subjects. The third is, Ignorance; The Moſcovites being contented if they can but read and write. Juſtice is quickly adminiſtred, each Party pleading for himſelf. When a Debtor is unwilling to pay or to give Security, he becomes Slave to the Czar, or to ſome other, if the Prince pleaſes. Criminals are condemned to ſuffer the Strappado; or if the Crime deſerves Death, they are hanged or beheaded. Their Trade is conſiderable, and Moſcovy in general furniſhes foreign Countries with Honey, Wax, Tallow, Leather, Flax, Hemp, Furs, Feathers for Beds, Pitch and Tar, Salt, Sea-calf's-oil, Cavayar, &c. As for their Forces, they would be formidable to their Neighbours, if their Officers had Inclination, Conduct or Integrity which they often have not. For the Czar can in a little time Raiſe 100 or 200 thouſand Men. He keeps commonly 15000 Horſe, and 120000 Foot for his Guard and Garriſons, and 65000 Men beſides, under about an hundred Officers, to view the Frontiers every year towards Tartary, and prevent Incurſions. When the Czars want a great Army, the Nobles are forced to find Soldiers, and to keep them, proportionably to their Servants. Their Arms are the Sword, the Axe, the Bow, and the Muſket; they are hardy, and can live upon a ſmall matter; nevertheleſs more proper to maintain a Siege than to fight a Battle; for they have been always beaten in the Field by the Polanders and Suedes; and have had good Succeſs when beſieged. In general their Infantry is much more valued than their Cavalry. Their Forts are commonly of Wood and Earth. It is a very hard matter to know the Czar's Titles, and the Pretence of War he made againſt the Polanders in 1645, was, That they had not given him the Titles due to him. One of his Predeceſſors cauſed an Italian Embaſſador's Hat to be nailed to his Head, becauſe he kept it on before him.

Their Language and Knowledge.

Their Language is very like that of the Sclavonian and Poliſh; and the Sclavonian is the Mother Tongue from which the Moſcovite was taken. They have borrowed their Letters of the Græcians, though they have much altered them, having ſo many double Letters, that their Alphabet contains forty. They write on Rolls of Paper cut like Fillets and paſted together twenty five or thirty ells long. They are extraordinary ignorant; having no Colleges nor Univerſities, and that out of Policy. Their Prieſts never preach, only read ſome Homilies in the Church. Becauſe they don't willingly admit Strangers, all Languages but their own are unknown to them. Their Children learn to read and write, which is enough to make a Doctor with them. They only acknowledge the artificial day, that is, from the Riſing of the Sun to his Setting. Their Year begins the firſt of September, receiving no other Epocha, but that of the Creation, which they believe was in Autumn. Their Leagues are certain Spaces named Voreſt.

Their Religion.

The Moſcovites were converted to Chriſtianity by the Græcians. All their Images are only in Paint; and St. Nicholas is the Protector of the Nation. Of all the Holy-days in the year, properly they keep none but the Annunciation of the Bleſſed Virgin. But whatever is ſaid of their Converſion to the Faith; in ſeems plain that Chriſtianity was eſtabliſhed there in the very firſt Centuries, ſince in the Subſcriptions of the Council of Antioch held under Jovian, we find the Name of one Antipater Biſhop of the Roſſians or Ruſſians. Nevertheleſs Chriſtianity afterwards was certainly aboliſhed there; for it is believed that it was reſtored in the Xth. or XIth. Century, as Baronius proves it. It is thought that Wolodimier was converted in 988, and that he took the Name of Baſilius, whom Joreſlaus ſucceeded. Let that be as it will, they have a particular Metropolitan Patriarch reſiding at Moſcow, not depending upon the Patriarch of Conſtantinople. There are three Arch-biſhops, viz. at Novogrod, Suſdal, and Roſtrow; and divers Biſhops. Anthony Sielanua, Metropolitan of all Ruſſia, Patriarch of Moſcow, was depoſed in a General Synod, for having contributed to the Diſorders in Moſcovy about Religion. The Patriarch is elected by the Arch-Biſhops, Biſhops, Abbots, and all the Clergy, and confirmed afterwards by the Duke; but if the Election doth not pleaſe him, another is choſen. They obſerve all the Ceremonies of the Græcians; receive the Communion in both kinds, and give it to Children of 7 years old, becauſe they begin then to ſin, as they ſay. They go to Confeſſion, and keep divers Faſts and Lents very ſtrictly. They pray for the Dead; make Proceſſions, Pilgrimages, the Sign of the Croſs, &c. but acknowledge not the Pope's Authority. They have divers Monaſteries of Monks and Nuns, whoſe Lives are very ſtrict.

Authors that ſpeak of Moſcovy.

Thoſe that deſire to know more Particulars may read Paulus Jovius's Treatiſe concerning an Embaſſy from the great Duke Baſilius to Pope Clement VIIth. Sigiſmond, Baron of Herberſtein's Relation, Poſſevin de rebus Moſcoviticis. Another with the ſame Title printed at Franckfort in 1600. Rainer Heidenſtein concerning Stephen, King of Poland's War againſt the Moſcovites. The Works of eight Authors collected in one Volume De Ruſſorum Religione, printed in 1582 at Spire. *Petr. The MOSELLE, Lat. Moſella and Obrinca, according to Ptolemy. It ariſeth from Mount Vauge, a little above the Village of Buſſans, in the Confines of Alſatia, and Franche Comte, and then flowing Northward through Lorrain, watereth Toul, beneath which it takes in the Seylle, another great River from the Eaſt, ſo paſſeth Thionville and Luxemburgh to Trier or Treves, above which it takes in the Sar, and at Coblentz falls into the Rhine.

MOSES, a Prophet and Lawgiver of the Jews, Son of Amram by Jochabed, born after his Siſter Miriam, and his Brother Aaron in 2464 of the World, 808 after the Flood, and 428 after Abraham. The King of Egypt ordering all the Hebrew Male-Children to be killed, Jochabed hid him three Months; but for fear he ſhould be diſcovered, ſhe truſted to Providence, and expoſed him on the River Nile, in a place where Thermutis, Pharaoh's Daughter uſed to bathe. This Princeſs finding him, and Miriam his Siſter asking her, If ſhe would have an Hebrew Nurſe for him, ſhe liked it, and the Child was delivered to his own Mother. Three years after he was carried to the Princeſs, adopted by her, and named Moſes, that is in the Egyptian Tongue, Saved out of the Water, Clemens Alexandrinus ſaith, That his Relations named him Joachim when he was circumciſed; and Philo adds, That Thermutis feigned her ſelf with Child, and pretended to bring forth Moſes. However he was educated with great Care, and having good Natural Parts, he quickly became perfect in all the Egyptian Sciences. Philo ſaith, That Maſters were ſent for out of Greece, Chaldæa and Aſſyria, to teach him; but it is certain, that Sciences were taught then in Egypt, Joſeph having increaſed them there. Joſephus and Euſebius ſay, Moſes made War againſt the Æthiopians, defeated and purſued them as far as Saba, which he took by the King's Daughter's Treachery; who falling in love with him, had his promiſe of marriage. But Theodoret and others account this a Fable. Holy Writ tells us, That Moſes, at forty years old, left Pharaoh's Court to viſit his Brethren; and that he ſlew an Egyptian abuſing an Iſraelite, and thereupon retired into the Deſarts of Midian, where he married Zipporah, the Prieſt Jethro's Daughter, whom Artapanus in Euſebius makes King of Arabia, and had two Sons by her, Gerſhom and Eliezer. In the year 2544 of the World, 887 after the Flood, and the 8th of Moſes's life, he having ſpent forty years with his Father-in-law, God's Glory appear'd to him in the middle of a burning Buſh as he went towards Horeb, declaring his purpoſe of delivering his People Iſrael by his means: Moſes, out of Modeſty, alledged his Inability and Liſping; but God's Authority ſilenced his Excuſes; changing his Rod into a Serpent, and the Serpent into a Rod again; and made his Hand Leprous, and immediately cured it by the ſame application. Then he gave him his Brother Aaron to be his Interpreter: So to Pharaoh he went, to deſire him that the Iſraelites might go out to ſacrifice to the Lord their God. Pharaoh laughed at him, and at his Rod turned into a Serpent, ſeeing his Magicians do the like. And ſo his hardneſs of heart occaſioned the ten Plagues of Egypt, after which he let them depart in 2545 of the World, and God opening them a paſſage through the Red Sea, Moſes led them into the Deſart, where, after many Miracles, he received the Law on Mount Sinai, where ſtaying once forty days and forty nights, he found at his return, the People adoring a golden Calf, puniſhed the moſt Seditious, and obtained God's pardon. Afterwards he appointed all things belonging to the Tabernacle, and Conſecration of Prieſts, according to the pattern in the Mount. He had much adoe to govern ſo Seditious a People, though by his means they defeated divers Kings. Being near Nebo, God commanded him to go to the top of that Mountain, whence he ſaw the promiſed Land, and dy'd without pain or ſickneſs the 120th of his age, 2584 of the World. Holy Scripture ſaith, That he was buried in a Valley of the Land of Moab over-againſt Beth-Peor, and that the place of his Sepulture is unknown. St. Jude ſaith, The Arch-angel, St. Michael, contended with the Devil, who would as it's ſuppos'd have manifeſted Moſes's Body to the Iſraelites to perſwade them to adore him. They mourned thirty days for him, &c. This holy man's Praiſes are to be found in the Book of Eccleſiaſticus, and Philo has wrote his Life in three Books. Joſephus, Euſebius, and St. Cyril of Alexandria mention many Pagan Authors, who commended him. Numenius ſaid, That Pythagoras and Plato took their Doctrine out of his Books, and that the laſt was an Attick Moſes. The Book of Job is attributed unto him, and the five Books called the Pentateuch, viz. Geneſis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy. *Philo in vita Moſis. ☞ What is ſaid of Moſes's Rod is curious. Moſt of the Doctors of the Cabbala affirm, That Moſes's Miracles in Egypt and elſewhere were products of his Rod's Virtue, which as they believe, was created between the two Veſpers of the Sabbath; that is, in the Evening of the Sixth Day of the Creation, and on which was wonderfully ingraven God's moſt venerable name Tetragrammaton, or of four Letters. In the Zoar, a Comment on the five Books of Moſes, 'tis ſaid, the Miracles were marked on this Rod, with God's moſt holy Name. And Jonathan in his Targum, or Chaldaick Paraphraſe on the Bible, ſaith, That Jethro, his Father-in-law, hearing that Moſès had eſcaped out of Egypt, ſecured him in a Dungeon, where Zipporah, his Grand-daughter maintained him twenty Years. He adds, That Moſes, one day in Jethro's Garden, returned thanks to God for his wonderful deliverance, and perceived afterwards a Rod, on which God's adorable Name was ingraven, which he pluck'd up, and took along with him. In the Scalſeleth Hakabala, a Chronological Hiſtory from the beginning of the World to the laſt Century, the ſame thing may be read. But it may be ſeen more particularly in a very ancient and ſcarce Commentary, intitled, Medraſch Vaioſcha printed at Conſtantinople. The Author ſays, That Moſes was about forty when he went out of Egypt; That one day being near a Well, and Zipporah, one of Jethro's Daughters, coming thither, he liked her, and propoſed to marry her; to whom ſhe anſwered, That her Father led all thoſe that came to marry her, to a Tree in the middle of his Garden, of ſo particular and dangerous a quality, that it was preſent death to go near it: Then Moſes enquired whence that Tree came; Zipporah anſwered, That God, the Evening of the firſt Sabbath of the Creation, created a Stick, and gave it to Adam; Adam gave it to Enoch; Enoch to Noah; Noah to Sem; Sem to Abraham; Abraham to Iſaac; Iſaac to Jacob, who carried it into Egypt, and gave it to Joſeph; and Joſeph being dead, the Egyptians plundered his Houſe, and finding this Stick, carried it to Pharaoh's Palace, where Jethro, one of the chief Magicians, perceiving it, took it away. Sometime after, Jethro, being in his Garden, thruſt it into the Ground, where it preſently took root, and Brought forth Bloſſoms and Fruit, therefore he left it there, and by the help of it, grown into a Tree, try'd all thoſe that deſigned to marry his Daughters. The ſame Author adds, That Moſes was introduced by Zipporah into Jethro's Houſe, who promiſed him his Daughter, provided he fetched him ſuch a Stick out of his Garden, which Moſes did. Jethro ſurpriz'd at this, look'd upon Moſes as a Prophet, who was to deſtroy Egypt; therefore he put him into a Dungeon, where Zipporah found away to maintain him ſeven Years: At laſt ſhe deſired her Father to look if Moſes was ſtill alive, concealing that ſhe had kept him: Jethro finding Moſes in health, embraced him as God's Prophet, and gave him his Daughter in marriage. Another Doctor named Abravenel, whoſe Works are much eſteemed by the Jews, explains this Fable almoſt in the ſame ſence. He obſerves, That this wonderful Stick was never given to any other, not to Joſhua himſelf, who was his Diſciple and Succeſſor; and that when Joſhua hid the Ark with Aaron's Rod, the Pot of Manna, and the Veſſel of Sacred Incenſe, Moſes's Stick is not mentioned at all; whence he concludes, That Moſes going up to Mount Nebo, took God's Rod in his Hand, and was buried together with it, in an unknown Sepulchre. Spon Recherches Curieuſes d' Antiquité.

☞ Here I add a curious Obſervation concerning the manner how Moſes could eaſily and certainly know the Hiſtory from the Creation of the World, by the help of eight perſons only, who might reveal things one to another by word of mouth, though there were near 25 Centuries between Adam and Moſes. Thoſe eight perſons are Adam, Methuſelah, Sem, (Noah's Son) Abraham, Iſaac, Jacob, Levi (Amram's Grandfather) and Amram Moſes's Father; which may be eaſily ſeen in the following Table.

Adam dy'd 930 of the World.

Methuſelah	born 688 dy'd 1656	was 242 years old when his Predeceſſor dy'd.
Sem	born 1559 dy'd 2158	was 97	when his Predeceſſors dy'd.
Abraham	born 2039 dy'd 2213	was 119
Iſaac	born 2139 dy'd 2318	was 74
Jacob	born 2199 dy'd 2345	was 119

MOSES BAR-CEPHA, Biſhop of the Syrians in the Xth. Century, wrote a Treatiſe concerning Paradiſe in three parts, tranſlated out of Syriack into Latin by Andrew Maſius. MOSES BEN-MAIMON or Maimonides, a Rabbi, called by the Jews, the Eagle of the Doctors, and Rambam, from the firſt Letters of his name. They add, that from Moſes the Lawgiver, to Moſes Maimon, no Genius has been comparable to theſe two. He was Learned in the Law, Ariſtotle's Philoſophy, and Phyſick, and left divers Works; one concerning Aſtrology, call'd Doctor perplexorum, tranſlated by John Buxtorf. He was the moſt Learned Man among the Jews, and it may be moſt averſe from their Superſtitions. He was born at Cordoua in Spain, and is commonly named Moſes Ægyptius, becauſe he retired into Egypt, where he was the Soldan's Phyſician, about the middle of the XIIth Century. Thoſe that deſire to learn the Doctrine and the Canon-Law, contained in their Talmud, may read this Authors Compendium of it in good Hebrew, wherein he has cut off moſt part of the Fables and Impertinencies of the Talmud; the Title of the Book is Jadhazaca, and it was printed at Venice and Conſtantinople; ſome Treatiſes whereof were tranſlated into Latin. He alſo wrote ſome Comments on the Miſna, which is as the Talmud's Text; and thoſe Comments have been tranſlated into Rabbinical Hebrew, which is read now, it being not found in Arabick. He alſo compoſed another Work in Arabick, intituled, Mòre Nevokim, tranſlated alſo into Rabbinical Hebrew, and afterwards into Latin, probably the ſame that was printed at Paris in 1520; Buxtorf's Son alſo tranſlated it. This Book More Nevokim, ſeems to deſtroy the Jewiſh Religion, containing many Philoſophical Arguments contrary to their Fathers Traditions; and it cauſed great quarrels among the Rabbies of the XIIth. Century. The French Jews condemned the Author, and burnt the Book, but ſome moderate Spaniards appeaſed all thoſe Diſputes; and ever ſince the Jews prefer this Rabbi's Opinions before any others. MOSES MICOTSI, a Spaniſh Rabbi, Author of a learned Book on the Commandments of the Jewiſh Law, printed in Fol. at Venice in 1547, which is very often quoted under the Title of Sepher Mitſevoth Gadol, that is, The great Book of Precepts; becauſe it explains at large what relates to thoſe Precepts. M. Simon. There are few Jews that have handled this Matter ſo Learnedly and Judiciouſly as this Author.

MOSKESTROOM or Maelſtroom, a famous Abyſs in the Northern Ocean, towards the Weſt part of Norway, commonly called the Sea's Navel, or the Northern Carybdis: Some ſay that it is forty miles about, though but thirteen according to Kirker. It ſwallows up the Waters for ſix hours, and caſts them up again with ſuch a terrible noiſe, that it may be heard many Miles off in calm weather. When its motion is violent, it is impoſſible to draw back and ſave a Ship that is got into its Circumference. Whales themſelves cannot eſcape at that time; but their Bodies bruiſed againſt the Rocks, are caſt up again, like the Relicks of Wrecks. Herbinius de admirandis Mundi Cataractis.

MOSQUES, the name given to publick places, where Mahometans meet to pray, from the Arabian word Meſged, which ſignifies the place of Worſhip: Many Travellers have ſpoken of thoſe Moſques. Quiclet ſpeaks thus; All Moſques are ſquare, and built with good Stones. Before the chief Gate there is a ſquare Court paved with white Marble, and low Galleries round about, whoſe Roof is ſupported with Marble Columns, where the Turks waſh themſelves before they go into the Moſque, even in the middle of Winter. The Walls are all white, except ſome places where God's name is written in large Arabick Characters. In each Moſque there is a great number of Lamps, and betwixt the Lamps hang many Chryſtal Rings, Oſtriches Eggs, and other Curioſities ſent out of Foreign Countries, which make a fine ſhow, when the Lamps are lighted. About every Moſque there are ſix high Towers, each having three little open Galleries, one above another; thoſe Towers, as well as the Moſques, are all covered with Lead, adorned with Gildings and other Ornaments; and are called Minarets; from thence inſtead of a Bell, ſome Men named Muezins, call the People to Prayer. Moſt part of the Moſques have each an Hoſpital, where all Travellers, of what Religion ſoever, are entertained during three days. Each Moſque has alſo a place called Tarbé, which is the Burying-place of its Founders; within it is a Tomb ſix or ſeven foot long, covered with a large Velvet or green Satin-cloth, like our Palls; at the two ends are two Candleſticks, and two Wax-tapers, with many Seats round about for thoſe that read the Alcoran for the deceaſed Souls. It is not lawful to enter the Moſque with Shooes, or Stockings on; therefore they cover the Pavement with Stuffs ſow'd like Fillets, a little diſtant one from another, and the Moſques are full of them; each Fillet may hold a row of Men kneeling, ſitting, or proſtrated, according to the time of their Ceremonies. And it is not lawful for Women to enter, ſo they ſtay in the Porches without. They have neither Altars nor Images, but when they pray, they turn towards Mecca, where Mahomet's Tomb is. Quiclet Voyage de Conſtantinople.

MOSTIERS (Anſelm de) a French Aſtrologer and Poet, famous in Robert named the Good and the Wiſe King of Naples, and Earl of Provence's Court. He foretold Charles Duke of Calabria, the King's Son's death; and Queen Jane I. Charles's Daughter, and Robert's Grand-Daughter's unhappy end. Their Profeſſion was to take a particular care of Widows and Orphans, and to pacifie diſunited Families. They had a great Maſter over them, but no Convents to live in common, every one living in his own Houſe, with his Family, and therefore were called in jeſt, *The joyfull Brethren. Andr. MOUCHI (Anthony de) or de Monchi named Demochares, Doctor of Sorbonne, and Prebendary of Noyon in France, was ſo zealous in perſecuting the Proteſtants in the XVIth. Century, that he was named Inquiſitor of the Roman Faith. The Men whom he imployed to look out the Proteſtants, even in Deſart places and Caves, from him were denominated Moucharts. He was at the Council of Trent, wrote ſeveral Books, and dyed at Paris in 1574. The moſt conſiderable of his Works. is that De Sacrificio Miſſæ.

MOUHEMMET-EL-MOHADI, Sahab-Zaman, the name of the 12th. Califf, Mahomet's Succeſſor in the Sect of the Perſians or Schaiais. He is ſurnamed Sahab Zaman, that is, Lord of Time, becauſe the Perſians believe that he is not dead, but remains hidden till a certain time, and then ſhall come to maintain his Religion: Upon this Perſuaſion many Perſons bequeath him Houſes ready furniſhed, and Stables of fine Horſes to accommodate him at his return. Thoſe things are kept with much Superſtition, it being unlawful for any to uſe them, the Houſes being ſhut up, and the Horſe well kept, with a Revenue ſettled upon them for their maintenance. Tavernier's Travels.

MOULEY-ARCHY, King of Tafilet, Fez, Morocco and Sus; Mouley Mahomet's Brother, not thinking himſelf ſecure at Zaoüias, retired to Quiviane, where the Prince named Hali-Solyman received him honourably for his Merit's ſake, his Quality being unknown. He made Archy his Lord Treaſurer and Chief Juſtice, and committed the whole Government to him, which gave him occaſion to make himſelf abſolute Maſter. Firſt of all he ſurprized the Caſtle or Dar Michael, under pretence of viſiting the Governor, whom he rack'd to death to make him confeſs where his Treaſure was; he took alſo above 200000 Metecals, which make about 80000 pounds, from a Jew, and diſtributing ſome Money to the Inhabitants thereabouts, raiſed Men, and with them defeated the King of Quiviane, his Benefactor, whom he forced to declare where his Treaſure was, and to put to death afterwards. Mouley-Mahomet, his Brother, hearing this, marched with an Army againſt him, but was defeated and beſieged in Tafilet, where he dyed; then the Town ſurrendered, and all the Xeriffs or Princes of the Country ſubmitted unto him. Having thus conquered that Country, he took alſo Theza and the two Towns of Fez, the New and Old, and became Maſter of the richeſt Kingdom in Africa in 1665. The year following he conquered the Algarbes near Gibralter, and the Town of Zaoüias. He conquered the Kingdom of Morocco in 1667, whoſe King, or rather Tyrant, he cauſed to be drawn at a Mule's Tail. In 1668 he reduced Taradant, a Town of the Principality of Sus. Afterwards he overcame the Chavanets, eſteemed the beſt Soldiers of Barbary, and the Province of Hacha ſubmitted unto him. Thence he went to St. Cruz or Aguader-Aguer with 48000 Foot, and 25000 Horſe; but the Inhabitants capitulated preſently; afterwards he beſieged Illec, which the Prince having abandoned, the Inhabitants ſurrendered: But going further to Sudan, an Army of 100000 Negroes forced him to retire, and end his Conqueſts, which extended from the Limits of Tremeſen to thoſe of Sudan, near 300 Leagues long, and about 350 Leagues broad from the Sea-coaſt to Touet and Dras, Provinces of the Kingdom of Tafilet. Being returned to Fez in 1669, he applied himſelf to heap up Money, and tyrannize over his People. Nevertheleſs he enacted very good Laws for the ſecurity of the High-ways and Trade, which inriched the Country. He died ſtrangely in 1672: Having kept the Paſſover according to the Turkiſh way at Morocco, and drunk exceſſively at a Feaſt, as he uſually did, he took Horſe in that condition, and coming to a Walk of Orange-trees, his Horſe ran away with him ſo ſpeedily, that a large branch of an Orange-tree broke his Scull in pieces. Moüette Hiſt. du Royaume de Moroc.

MOULEY-CHERIFF, King of Tafilet, pretended that he was of Mahomet's Blood by the marriage of Fatima, Mahomet's Daughter with Hali, whoſe Poſterity was ſpread in the Kingdoms that had embraced the Alcoran. He had 24 Sons, the chief whereof were Mouley-Mahomet, King of Tafilet; Mouley-Archy alſo King of Tafilet, mentioned in the foregoing Article; Mouley-Iſhmael, or Semein, Archy's Succeſſor, who reigned in 1686. Moüette, Hiſt. du Royaume de Moroc.

MOULEY-ISHMAEL or Semein, King of Fez, Morocco and Tafilet, ſucceeded the famous Mouley-Archy, his Brother, in 1672. But Mouley-Hamet Meherez, his Nephew, who was Vice-Roy of Morocco, made himſelf be proclaimed King of Morocco; and Mouley-Aram, his Brother Vice-Roy of Tafilet made himſelf abſolute there. Semein made War againſt them, and took Morocco in 1676, and Tafilet in 1678. He took alſo in 1681, from the Spaniards, the Fortreſs of Mamora, wherein he found 88 pieces of Braſs, and 15 of Iron Cannon, beſides Muskets and other Arms, which was more than he had before in all his Kingdoms. He ſent the ſame year ſome Embaſſadors into France, for the continuing a Peace with France. Moüette, Hiſt. du Royaume de Moroc.

MOULEY-MAHOMET, King of Tafilet ſucceeded his Father Mouley-Cheriff; but Mouley-Archy, his Brother, rebelled, and left the Court to make War againſt him. Mahomet having purſued and taken Archy, was contented to ſend him to Priſon, out of which he eſcaped, but was retaken and ſhut up more ſtrictly; nevertheleſs he eſcaped again, and went to Zaoüias, and thence to Quiviane; as you may ſee in the Article of Mouley-Archy, &c.

MOULIN or Molin (Charles du) a famous Lawyer born at Paris in 1500. His Family was Noble, and Papyrius Maſſon mentions a thing that is very ſingular, viz. That thoſe of the Family of Moulin were related to Elizabeth, Queen of England, which ſhe acknowledged her ſelf in 1572, ſpeaking with Francis, Duke of Montmorency, Mareſchal of France, and Embaſſador of England. This Relation probably came by Thomas Bulloigne, Viſcount of Rochefort, that Queen's Grandfather by the Mother's ſide. For Sanderus and others ſay, That this Rochefort being Embaſſador in France, gave his Daughter Anne of Bulloigne, to a Gentleman of Brie, a Friend and Relation of his, to take care of her Education; and this Gentleman is ſuppoſed to be the Lord of Fontenay in Brie, of the Family of du Moulin. This Branch came from Denis du Moulin, Lord of Fontenay in Brie, Archbiſhop of Tholouſe, Patriarch of Antioch, and biſhop of Paris, where he dy'd in 1447. Charles du Moulin was a very learned Man, and compoſed many Works, collected into three Volumes Fol. De Uſuris. Extricatio Labyrinthi dividui & individui. De Dignitatibus, Magiſtratibus & Civibus Romanis. Novus Intellectus quinque Legum. De Muneribus & Honoribus, &c. He was called the French Papinian, the French and German Lawyer, and dyed at Paris in 1566, a Roman Catholick, as it is ſaid, though a Proteſtant before. *S. Marthe. Thuanus. Sanderus. MOULIN (Peter du) a Proteſtant Miniſter, Son of Joachim du Moulin, Miniſter at Orleans, taught Philoſophy in Holland, was Miniſter at Charenton, and Catharine de Bourbon, Princeſs of Navarre, Henry the IVth's Siſter's Chaplain. He compoſed many Works, and died at Sedan in 1658, the 90th. of his Age, leaving three Sons. La vie de du Pleſſis Mornay. Galter. Chron. Meurſius Athen. Batav. &c.

MOULINS, the chief Town of Bourbonnois in France, on the River Allier, in Latin Molina and Molinum, the Reſidence of the Princes of Bourbon, who built the Caſtle, where many Kings have taken their delight. It is a large, pleaſant and ancient Town, famous for its Mineral Waters, and for Sciſſors and knives made there. Charles IX. called thither a conſiderable aſſembly of the Nobles of the Kingdom and the firſt Preſidents of Parliaments in 1565; where the famous Edict of Moulins was publiſhed, containing 86 Articles. Thuanus, Du Cheſne, &c.

MOUNCH-DENNY, or Cadier Arthur, that is, Arthur's Chair, a prodigious high Hill of Brecknockſhire in South-Wales, three miles South of Brecknock; of which this wonder is reported by Speed, atteſted unto him by eight of the chief men of Brecknock, who came out of civility to viſit him when he was in theſe Parts, and gave him this account upon their Credit and Trials; That from the top of this Hill they had often caſt down from the North-Eaſt Rock, their Cloaks, Hats and Staves, but that they were ſtill repulſed and blown up, ſo that none of them would fall. This they attributed to the Clouds, racking much lower than the top of the Hill, affirming, that nothing would deſcend from thence but Stones, or things of a Metallick Subſtance.

MOUNSTER, Lat. Momomia, one of the four Provinces of the Kingdom of Ireland on the [illegible] ſeparated from Connaught, by the River Shannon, on the E. it has Leinſter, on the S. and W. the Virginian Ocean. It is in length from N. to S. 90 Miles, in breadth 100, divided into ſix Counties, viz. Limerick, Kerry, Cork, Waterford, Deſmond and Tipperary. The Soil is for the moſt part extraordinary for Corn and Paſture. The chief City is Limerick, the reſt are Caſhal, Cork, Kingſale and Waterford, The Iriſh call this Province Mocon.

MOUNT or Mountain, an aſcent of Ground above the Surface of the Terreſtrial Globe. Some are very high, always covered with Snow; ſome middling, and others low, which w[illegible]ll Hills, or Riſing-grounds. Eratoſthenes affirms, That [illegible] higheſt Mountain's perpendicular aſcent is not above ten [illegible]ongs, or about half a League. Pliny obſerves, That Dicæarchus found by Dioptrick Inſtruments, that Mount Pelion in Theſſaly was ſo high. And Plutarch in Paulus Æmilius ſaith, That Xenagoras, another famous Mathematician, found Mount Olympus, in the ſame Country, to be of the ſame height, which is about 1270 paces. We find no greater perpendicular height attributed to Mountains by ancient Authors, except Cleomedes, who l. 1. Of Meteors, makes it of 15 Furlongs, or about two miles. But thoſe Authors ſpoke only of the Mountains of Greece, becauſe known to them, and not of others; as, the Alps in Europe, the Taurus in Aſia, the Atlas in Africa, and the Andes in Peru. Theſe laſt are the moſt conſiderable, after which are the Pyrenæan, the the Cevennes, the Vogeſe, the Jura, the Appennine, the Sudetes, the Rhodope, Pindus, Grampius, &c. in Europe. The Antitaurus, Libanus, Antilibanus, Imaus, &c. in Aſia. The Mountains of the Moon in Africa. As for particular Mountains, we have alſo thoſe Mountains of Greece ſo famous in the Poets, viz. Parnaſſus, Helicon, Cytheron, Olympus, Athos, Pelion, Oſſa, &c. In Aſia, the Mountains ſo famous in Holy Writ, viz. Horeb, Sinai, Carmel, &c. In Africa, the Pic of Teneriffe, reputed one of the higheſt Mountains of the Earth. There are alſo Mountains that vomit Fire, as Ætna or Mount Gibel in Sicily; the Veſuvius or Monti di Somma in the Kingdom of Naples; the Hecla in Iſeland, &c. See all theſe Mountains each in its particular Article.

MOUNTACUTE, a ſharp-pointed Hill in the South parts of Somerſetſhire, which has the honour to give the Title of Viſcount to the Right Honourable Francis Brown, deſcended from Anthony Brown, created Viſcount Mountacute in the Reign of Queen Mary in 1554, which Anthony was deſcended from Thomas Mountacute Earl of Salisbury, created Lord Mountacute, and afterwards Marquiſs Mountacute by King Edw. IV. Dugdale.

MOUNTAGUE (Edward) of Hemyngton in Com. Northampt. Eſq; a deſcendant (as 'tis generally ſuppoſed) of a Branch of the ancient Family of Mountacute, whence thoſe who were long ſince Earls of Salisbury did ſpring, being a perſon learned in the Laws, and thereupon called to the ſtate and degree of Serjeant, was in 29 Henry VIII. made choice of for one of the King's Serjeant, whence he mounted by degrees, and at laſt became Lord Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench, in the 37th. of that Reign. Edward his Son and Heir had Iſſue, ſix Sons, 1. Sir Edward made Knight of the Bath at the Coronation of King James; 2. Sir Walter; 3. Sir Henry; 4. Sir Charles, all Knights; 5. James Biſhop of Wincheſter, and 6. Sir Sidney Mountague Knight; of which Sons, Sir Edward was by Letters Patents, bearing date 19 Jac. advanced to the Dignity of a Baron of this Realm, by the Title of Lord Mountague of Boughton in Com. Northamp. living to be very aged, and ſtanding firm in his Loyalty to King Charles I. was ſeized on by the command of the Parliament, and made Priſoner in the Savoy in the Strand. He died in 1664. Edward his Son and Heir ſucceeding him, married Anne, the ſole Daughter of Sir Ralph Winwood, principal Secretary of State to King James, and by her hath had Iſſue, two Sons, Edward, who died unmarried, and Ralph; as alſo one Daughter called Elizabeth, married to Sir Daniel Harvey Knight, lately Embaſſador—— The Third Brother to Edward the firſt Earl of Mountague, was Henry, who being a ſedulous Student of the Laws in the Middle Temple, London, became the Autumn-Reader in that Honourable Society in 4 Jacobi, and ſhortly after that Recorder of the City of London; 8 Jacobi conſtituted the King's Serjeant; 14 Jacobi made Chief Juſtice of the Court of King's Bench, and in the 18th of that Reign conſtituted Lord Treaſurer of England, and advanced to the dignity of a Baron of this Realm, by the Title of Lord Mountague of Kymbolton in Com. Hunt. and Viſcount Mandeville; and after this, 1 Car. I. being created Earl of Mancheſter, was made Lord Privy-Seal in the 4th. year of that King's Reign. Edward his Son and Heir ſucceeding him, for his good ſervice in order to King Charles II's Reſtauration, was by that Prince made Lord Chamberlain of his Houſhold. He married five Wives, 1. Suſanna, Daughter to John Hill of Honiley in Com. Warw. 2ly, Anne, Daughter to Robert Earl of Warwick, by whom he had iſſue, Robert his Son and Heir; and two Daughters, the Lady Frances, married to Henry, Son to Robert Sanderſon Biſhop of Lincoln; and Anne, married to Robert Earl of Holland. His 3d. Wife was Eſſex, Daughter to Sir Thomas Cheeke of Pirgo in Com. Eſſex. Knight, by whom he had Iſſue, ſix Sons, Edward, Henry, Charles, Thomas, Sidney and George; and two Daughters, Eſſex and Lucie. His 4th Wife was Eleonor, Daughter of Sir Richard Wortley of Wortley in Com. Ebor. Knight and Baronet. His 5th, Margaret, Daughter to Francis Earl of Bedford, who had formerly been married to James Earl of Carliſle, and afterwards to Robert Earl of Warwick. Robert, his Son and Heir married Anne, the Daughter of Sir Chriſtopher Yelverton of Eaſton Mauduit in Com. Northampt. Knight of the Bath, and hath had Iſſue by her, four Sons, Edward and Henry who died young; as alſo Charles and Robert; and four Daughers, Anne, Elizabeth, Catharine and Eleonor

Sir Sidney Mountague, youngeſt Brother to Edward the firſt Lord Mountague, ſucceeded Edward his Son and Heir of Hinchinbrook in Com. Hunt. Eſq; which Edward being ſingularly skilled in the Mathematicks, whereby he arrived to very great knowledge in Maritime Affairs, having by his prudent Deportment in the time of the late Uſurpation, obtained the ſole command of the Engliſh Navy, made ſuch uſe of his Power and Intereſt with the Mariners, as that without Bloodſhed or any hazardous Conteſts he ſo wrought upon them, that they peacefully delivered up the whole Fleet unto King Charles II. for which good Service he was made choice of for one of the Knights Companions of the Noble Order of the Garter; and 12 Car. II. advanced to the Dignity of a Baron of this Realm, by the Title of Lord Mountague, of St. Neots in Com. Hunt. as alſo to the Honour of Viſcount, by the Name of Viſcount Hinchinbrook, and likewiſe created Earl of Sandwich. This Earl married Jemima, Daughter to John Lord Crew of Stene in Com. North. by whom he had Iſſue ſix Sons, Edward, who ſucceeded him in his Honours; Sidney, Oliver, John, Charles and James; and four Daughters, Jemima, married to Sir Philip Carteret, Knight, eldeſt Son to Sir George Carteret, Knight and Baronet, Vice-chamberlain of his Majeſty's Houſhold; who died unmarried; Anne, wedded to Sir Richard Edgecombe of Mount Edgecomb in Com. Cornub. Knight of the Bath; and Catharine. And ſerving his Majeſty as Vice-admiral with great Courage and Loyalty in the dangerous Fight at Sea, betwixt the Engliſh Fleet and Dutch, on Tueſday 28 Maii, 1672, being at that time 47 years of Age, had the unhappy Fate then to loſe his Life. Edward, his eldeſt Son and Succeſſor, married the Lady Anne, Daughter to Richard, Earl of Burlington, by whom he hath Iſſue two Sons, Edward and Richard, and Elizabeth a Daughter. Dugdale.

THE MOUNTAINS OF THE MOON, Lat. Montes Lunæ, are a ridge of Mountains which run croſs Africa from Eaſt to Weſt, ſeparating the Kingdom of Goiame to the North, from the Lower Æthiopia to the South. The Ancients ſuppoſed the Nile to ſpring out of theſe Mountains which is found to be a Miſtake; that River riſing in a Plain on the North-ſide of theſe Mountains.

MOUNT-AVENTIN, a Mountain of Rome, ſo named from Aventinus, King of Alba; in Italian il Monte Aventino, or il Monte di S. Sabina. There Remus and Tatius, Kings of the Sabines, were buried, and there Remus ſeeing but ſix Vultures, was obliged to yield to Romulus, who ſaw twelve on Mount-Palatine, therefore this Mountain was a long time out of the City, as a Place of ill Omen; but the Emperor Tiberius took it in; or Ancus Martius the fourth King of Rome, as others ſay. Aul. Gell. l. 3. c. 14. Eutrop. l. 1.

MOUNT-CAPITOLINE, a Mountain of Rome included in the City by Romulus, was ſo named from the Latin word Caput, a Head; becauſe a Man's Scull was found in the Foundations of Jupiter Feretrius's Temple. It was before called Saturnian, becauſe Saturn dwelt there; afterwards Tarpeian, becauſe of the Veſtal Tarpeia buried there under the Sabines Shields; and now, il Campidoglio. There were ſixty Temples or holy places on it, the moſt conſiderable being that of Jupiter Capitolinus. The top of the Mountain, named Rupes Tarpeia, was the place of Execution, whence Malefactors were thrown down. Tit. Liv l. 1. Florus, l. 1.

MOUNT CARMEL, a Name of an Order of Knights, to which is joined the ancient Order of S. Lazarus of Jeruſalem, by the French. The Knights have on the left ſide of their Cloak a velvet or Cheſnut colour'd Satin Croſs hemmed with a border of Argent, and the middle of the Croſs in a Circle charged with the Image of the Bleſſed Virgin environed with Rays of Gold, all embroidered; and wear before their Stomach a golden Croſs, and in the middle of it the Virgin's Picture enamell'd, and hanging on a ſilk Ribbon. Lewis XIVth. King of France, confirmed the Inſtitution of this Order in 1664. Favin, Theatre d' Honneur & de Chevalerie. There are five great Priories in this Military Order, and 140 Commanderies, viz. 28 under each Priory, to which the King names the Officers either by Sea or by Land, whoſe Services are conſiderable. The chief conventual Houſe of the Order, is the Commandery of Boigny near Orleans. The firſt grand Priory is that of Normandy, the Reſidence whereof is near Rouen. The ſecond is that of Bretaigne. The third, that of Burgundy. The fourth, that of Flanders. And the fifth, that of Languedoc. The Council for the Order's Affairs is held at Paris, and is compoſed of the great Vicar-general, who is Preſident; the Attorney general, the great Maſter of Ceremonies, the Treaſurer, the Secretary, and five Councellors of the Order, &c. Etat de France, 1687.

MOUNT-ÆOLUS, a Mountain of Umbria in Italy, about eight miles long from Eaſt to Weſt, hollow within and of all ſides of the Rocks full of Cracks and Chinks, out of which impetuous and violent Winds burſt in Summer, which the Inhabitants of Cæſium, a Town ſituated behind this Mountain, by their Induſtry make uſefull, diſpoſing ſome Pipes ſo, that the Wind comes through them into their Cellars, and cools their Wines, Waters and Fruits. 'Tis reported that the Heat is as violent thereabouts in Summer as under the torrid Zone, and that no Creature can endure it at Noon. The Winds are more or leſs violent according to the degree of Heat, for they only blow four hours before Noon, and four hours after, and not at all in the Night. Kirker in Latio.

MOUNT-ESQUILINE, a Mountain of Rome added to the City by Servius Tullius, the ſixth King of Rome, ſo named from Excubiæ, which ſignifies watch and ward, becauſe Sentinels ſtood there. 'Tis now called il Monte di S. Maria Maggiore, becauſe Saint Mary the Greater's Church is built on it. Varro de L. Lat. lib. 4.

MOUNT-FALCON, Prior of the Templars of Toulouſe, was the firſt Promoter of the extraordinary Proceedings againſt the Knights of that Order in 1307. He had been condemned to perpetual Impriſonment by the Grand Prior of Paris, with the Italian Noffus. Theſe two Wretches, to gain Liberty, reſolved to charge all the Knights with Impiety and other horrid Crimes, and found ways to ſpeak, and deliver ſome Memoirs to the King's Officers. The Order was aboliſh'd, and many Templars burnt publickly. But theſe two Informers had an unhappy End; one was hanged, and the other killed. La Faille's Annales de Toulouſe.

MOUNT OF OLIVES, near Jeruſalem Eaſtwards, 600 Paces high from the Brook of Cedron, which is in the Valley of Jehoſaphat, to the Top. And this agrees with the 600 Furlongs or 750 Paces, according to Joſephus, the Valley being deeper at that time than it is now, becauſe filled up ſince with the Ruins of the Town and Temple. It affords a pleaſant proſpect. And the Weſt-ſide gives you a ſight of all the Town of Jeruſalem, and Eaſt-ward, you may ſee the Mountains of Arabia, the River Jordan and the dead Sea: towards the South, the Proſpect reaches as far as Hebron and towards the North, up to the Country about Samaria. 'Tis about 2000 Paces long from North to South, and is divided into three Tops or little Hills, the middlemoſt whereof is the higheſt, and that on the South the loweſt, which is named the Mount of Scandal. 'Tis ſaid that they were all polluted by the Tabernacles of the falſe Gods worſhipped by Solomon's Concubines; viz. The higheſt by the Idol Aſtaroth; The ſecond, by Chemoſh the Moabites Idol; And the third, by Milchom the Ammonites Idol. 'Tis very fruitfull, being covered with Corn, or Olive-trees, whence it has its Name. On the middle Hill the Ruins of a ſtately Church built by Helena are to be ſeen, viz. Some Pieces of Walls, with the Baſes or Columns that ſupported the Roof. In the middle of the Round there is a little Octogon Chapel, whoſe Roof ends in a Cupola, built with Stones. The Pavement is alſo of Stones, except the Place where our Saviour is ſaid to have ſtood when he aſcended into Heaven, there the Rock is naked, and the Print of his left Foot miraculouſly made 3 large Inches deep. To hinder the People from treading upon this Sacred Rock, the Chriſtians have laid about it a little edge of cemented Stone, a little above the Pavement, leaving one Side open to kiſs the Footſtep. On the Weſt there is a little Moſque for the Turks who are Maſters of the Place. 'Tis obſerved by the Figure of J. CHRIST's Foot printed in the Rock, that his Face was towards the North; and there is but one Footſtep. Some ſay that the Impreſſion of his two Feet was there, and that the Turks have taken away that of the right Foot, to keep it in their great Moſque. The pretended Holineſs of that Place deſerves the mentioning of ſome few Obſervations ſaid to be made by St. Paulin and St. Hierom, &c. And firſt, That the ancient Chriſtians, endeavouring to pave the Chapel with Marble and Jaſper, could never fix them to the Rock where the Foot-ſtep is. Secondly, That the Footſtep being printed on the ground, and the Chriſtians out of Devotion taking ſome away, the Figure was never the deeper, and no way altered. Thirdly, That St. Helen, building the ſtately Temple mentioned before, the Cupola directly above the Place whence J. CHRIST aſcended into Heaven, could never be covered; ſo that they were forced to let it ſtand uncovered, like the Pantheon at Rome. Nevertheleſs things are altered now; for the Pavement in the Chapel is perfectly joined to the Rock at this time; the Footſtep is not ſo whole as it was, by the Pilgrims imprudence, who broke ſome little pieces out of it, to keep them as Reliques; and the Chapel is wholly covered. Towards the foot of the middle Hill ſome Remains of the Garden of Gethſemani are to be ſeen, and towards the top is the Cave called The Prophets Sepulchres. The People enter firſt into the Rock, and from thence through a little Door into thoſe Sepulchres, which are digged very deep under the Ground, and make two broad Galleries cut round, where are ſome Niches even to the ground, to put the Dead Bodies in; except a Cloſet a little above the ground, where the Prophets Haggai's and Zachariah's Tombs are reputed to be. About the middle of the ſame Hill is a little Moſque, and another on the top. On the loweſt Hill or Mount of Scandal are the Ruins of the Village Siloam; and higher, thoſe of Mo[illegible]'s Temple. Doubdan's Voyage de la Terre Sante.

MOUNT PALATINE, a Mountain of Rome [illegible] about by Romulus, to make the firſt Compaſs of the Town. The ſix other Mountains, viz. Mount Capitoline, Quirinal, Viminal, Eſquilino, Cœlius, and Aventine, were ſince taken in: but Mount Palatine was always the chief, whereon the firſt Kings and all the Roman Emperors reſided. Afterwards ten ſtately Temples, ſixteen little Temples, and a vaſt number of magnificent Buildings were erected on it. The Figtree under which Remus and Romulus were brought forth, was kept there above 800 years. The Emperor Heliogabalus joined this Mount to the Capitoline with a Gallery ſupported with Marble Columns. That part of the Town has nothing remarkable now, except fine Gardens. Some ſay its Name came from the Goddeſs Pales, worſhipped there by Shepherds; others, from Pallas, King Evander's Great-grand-father, &c. Solin. c. 11. T. Liv. l. 1.

MOUNT-CASIN, in Italian Monte-Caſſino, and in Latin Caſſinum, and Mons Caſſinus, a Town, and formerly a Biſhoprick of the Kingdom of Naples. The Biſhoprick of the Metropolis of Capua was extinguiſhed in 1367, and the Town ruined. The Borough of St. Germano is there now. Near it, on a Mountain, is the famous Abby of Mount-Caſſin founded by St. Benedict, where a Synod was held in 1626.

MOUNT-COELIUS, now Monte-Cœlio, from Cœlius, a Tuſcan Captain, who aſſiſted Romulus againſt the Sabines. Tullus Hoſtilius took it into the City. There the famous Church of Saint John of Lateran is; thence it is named, Il Monte di S. Giovanni. Roſſini Ant. Rom. l. 1. c. 7.

MOUNT OF PIETY, a Purſe and Publick Store, to lend Mony and other neceſſary things without Uſury to thoſe that are in want. Many think that Pope Leo X. firſt authorized this pious Invention by a Bull in 1515. But in that Bull Paul II. is mentioned, who had approved it before. They are of two ſorts; Some eſtabliſhed only for a time, and others for ever, becauſe a ſufficient Fund is ſettled, which is always kept up, obſerving Rules to prevent its Diſſipation. The moſt ordinary Conditions are, Firſt, That the Mount of Piety ſhall be only for the uſe of the Inhabitants of the place where it is eſtabliſhed, and not for Strangers. Secondly, That the Loan be for a certain time. Thirdly, That the Borrowers give Pawns, which may be ſold away when the time is out, for the keeping up of the Fund. Fourthly, That the Borrowers give ſome ſmall thing for the Salary of neceſſary Officers, the Rent of a Warehouſe, and other unavoidable Charges. There are alſo ſome Mounts of Piety whoſe Directors borrow great Sums, paying a ſmall Rent or Intereſt for it, and thoſe Sums make a Fund capable of ſupplying the wants of all ſorts of perſons, who re-imburſe the Rent proportionable to the Sums they have borrowed; and this Settlement is made by the Prince's Authority. The ancienteſt Mount of Piety mentioned in Hiſtory is that of Padua, eſtabliſhed in 1491, where they ſhut up 12 Banks of Jews, who exacted the fifth part of the Principal for Uſury; and inſtead of it took only the twentieth part. This Cuſtom began in Italy, and paſſed into other places. as Bruſſels, Antwerp, Ghent, &c. There are ſome likewiſe at Bruges, Ypres, and Liſle, where Borrowers give only Pawns, the Founders having left ſome Sums to ſupply the neceſſary Charges. Zechus de Vſuris, Scardeon's Hiſt. Petav. Beyerlink tom. 5.

MOUNT-QUIRINAL, a Mountain of Rome ſo named, becauſe there was a Temple dedicated to Romulus ſurnamed Quirinus. It was called Agon before, and taken into the Town by Numa; now Monte-Cavallo, becauſe two Marble Horſes made by Phidias and Praxiteles are ſeen there. The Church of the Jeſuits Novitiate is the place where Romulus's Temple was formerly. Dion. Halicarn. l. 2.

MOUNT OF SCANDAL, or OFFENCE, the third Hill of the Mount of Olives towards the South; ſo named, becauſe Solomon erected ſome Altars there to the Idols Moloch, Chemoſh, and Aſhtaroth, which was a great Scandal to the Jews, and made many fall into Idolatry. Others ſay that the Temple of Moloch, the Ammonites Idol, was on the Mount of Scandal, but that the other two were built on the great and middle Hill. Some ruins of Moloch's Temple, and of Solomon's Concubines Palace, are to be ſeen ſtill here. In Tophet's Valley, at the bottom of this Hill Southward, is to be ſeen the Well of the Holy Fire, commonly called Nehemiah's Well, covered with a ſmall Building, like a Hall. It is famous becauſe of the Miracle, when the Jews under Nehemiah ſeeking ſome Fire hidden there by the Prophet Jeremiah's order, found nothing but water, with which as they were watering the Victims, a ſudden Fire was kindled, and they were conſumed. This Well is indifferently deep, and full enough of Water. There is a Moſque near it. Doubdan's Voyage de la Terre Sante.

MOUNT-SOREL, a Market Town in Leiceſterſhire, in Goſcote Hundred, near the Stower, over which it has a Bridge, and had formerly a Caſtle that ſtood upon a ſteep and craggy Hill, but long ſince demoliſhed. From London 104 m.

MOUNT-SERRAT, Lat. Mons Serratus, a high Mountain of Catalonia in Spain, nine Leagues from Barcelona; ſo called becauſe of many Points of Rocks riſing like the Teeth of a Saw, called in Latin Serra (as ſome think.) It is famous for the Devotions performed to the Virgin's Image, commonly called The Lady of Mount-Serrat, in an Abbey of Benedictine Fryars, about the middle of that Mountain. After Loretta this Devotion is the moſt famous in Europe; and very ancient, ſome ſay before the VIIIth. Century; but interrupted by the Saracens Incurſions, and the Image hid in a Cave, till it was found out in 883 by ſome Shepherds. On the top of the Mount ſome Hermits live ſo intirely out of the World, that no body can go to them without Ladders. Caniſius, a Jeſuit, l. 5. de l' Hiſtoire de Mount-Serrat.

MOUNT-SINAI, or SAINT KATHARINE, the Name of an Order of Knights in Greece, eſtabliſhed by ſome Gentlemen in 1063, under St. Baſil's Rules, to keep St. Katharine's Sepulchre on Mount-Sinai, and to protect the Pilgrims. They bear a red wheel nailed with white Nails, and pierced with a Sword. Joſeph Micheli.

MOUNT-VIMINAL, a Mountain of Rome, from Vimen, a Twig of Elm, Oſier, and other ſuch Trees, which windeth and is pliant, becauſe there were many ſuch Trees. It was taken into the Town by Servius Tullius. Some Poplars, Willows, Gardens and Vineyards are to be ſeen there ſtill, and Saint Laurence's Church. Varro de L. Lat. l. 4.

MOUSKES (Philip) Biſhop of Tournay, named by Authors Mus and Meuze, died in 1283, wrote The Hiſtory of France in Verſe, beginning from the Rape of Helen by Paris, to the year 1240. This Hiſtory is in Manuſcript in ſome Libraries, as the K. of France's Library, &c. but ſcarce, and full of curious Obſervations. S. Marthe, Du Cange, &c.

MOUSON, or MOUZON, a ſtrong Town of Champagne in France, on the River Meuze, between Sedan and Stenay, in Latin, Moſomum. Du Cheſne, Recherches des Villes de France, &c.

Councils of Mouſon.

Flodoart mentions a Council held there in 948, where Hugh of Vermandois made Archbiſhop of Rheims, being but five years of Age, was ſuſpended. Another Council was held there in 995, where Gerbert, afterwards Pope Silveſter II. gave his Reaſons for taking Arnoul, Archbiſhop of Rheim's place, and was depoſed.

MOZAMBIQUE, or MOSAMBIQUE, a Town and Kingdom of Zanguebar in Africa, over againſt Madagaſcar Iſland, having Abyſſinia on the North, and the Æthiopick Ocean on the South. Its King is a Mahometan, and the chief Town is an Iſland belonging to the Portugueſes, half a League long, unfruitfull and unwholeſome, but much inhabited, becauſe of the Trade. There is a ſtrong Caſtle, and the Portugueſe Ships ſtay there for fair Weather in their Voyage into the Eaſt-Indies.

MUAVIA, the ſeventh Caliph and Head of the Saracens, who conquered Africa. This Prince began his Conqueſts by the Coaſts of the Mediterranean Sea, called now the Coaſt of Barbary, and formerly Mauritania, whence came the Name of Moors. Afterwards he went farther into Africa, conquered Spain, and ravaged Italy and France. Sometime after his death the vaſt Empire of the Saracens was divided into ſeveral parts; for Perſia, Egypt, Africa properly ſo named, and Spain, had particular Lords who refuſed to obey the Caliph of Syria any longer. Birague's Hiſt. Africaine.

MUCA, a famous General ſent by Gualid Calyph, of Syria, into Africa in 710, to ſubdue the rebellious Africans, whom he reduced with an Army of 100000 Men, going through the Deſarts of Barca and Barbary, as far as Teſtane or Teſetna, in the Kingdom of Morocco; and finding no more Land that way, he ſpurred on his Horſe into the Ocean, out of a Bravado, to ſignifie that there was nothing more to conquer. After this Expedition he went back to Carvan, leaving Taric to govern thoſe Provinces. Julian, Earl of Ceuta (a Government belonging to the Goths of Spain) hearing that his Daughter Caba had been forced by Roderick, King of Spain, becauſe of her great Beauty, diſſembled this Affront, and took occaſion of the Arabians War in Africa to go to his Government, with all his Family, except his Daughter, who had afterwards leave to viſit her dying Mother. Then being in her Father's power, he reſolved to be revenged of the King, and offered Muça, not only to ſurrender all the Towns of his Government unto him, but to make him Maſter of all Spain beſides, if he would lend him an Army. Muça having acquainted Gualid with this Propoſition, had leave to ſend 12000 Men under Taric in 712, and to follow him with the beſt part of his Troops; ſo that in fourteen months time he ruined the Empire of the Goths, and deſtroyed them all. Spain was then inhabited by Arabians and Africans, and the reſt of the Gothiſh Nobility retired towards the Pyrenæan Mountains. Muça and Taric quarrelling in 718. Taric being abuſed went back to Damaſcus, where he charged Muça with Sedition and other Crimes. Muça was called to an Account; but he found Gualid a-dying at his Arrival; and Solyman Haſcein ſucceeding his Brother Gualid, took away the Government of Africa and Spain from Muça, who died for Grief. His Son, Abdulaſis, maintained himſelf in Spain, where he took the Title of King. Marmol de l' Afrique l. 2.

MUCHES, or MICHES, (John) a Jew, who being ſaved with the other Jews and Moors that had been turned out of Spain under Philip II. was ſent to Venice by them, to ask leave to ſettle ſomewhere in their Republick; being denyed, notwithſtanding all his Offers, he retired to Conſtantinople, where by his preſents and Advices to the greateſt Men at the Port, he was known by Solyman II. and Selym II. his Succeſſor. Being familiar with Selym, who took great delight in Drinking, he commended much the Wines, Fruits, Fertility and Riches of Cyprus, which Iſland he ſaid did belong to the Grand Seigniors, becauſe Selym I. conquered Egypt, upon which Cyprus depended. He perſuaded him alſo that the Venetians had uſurped it, and that it was eaſie to take it from them, becauſe they could have no Aſſiſtance from France, Spain or Poland, and that their Arſenal had been lately burnt. All this was true enough. So that this revengeful Jew being backed by Muſtapha Baſhaw, encouraged the Sultan to ſend out a Fleet, and to conquer Cyprus in 1572. Chevreau's Hiſt. du Mond.

MUDEUS (Gabriel) an Eminent Lawyer, born at a Village, near Antwerp in 1500; He was a general Scholar, and one of the greateſt Lawyers in his Time. MUFTI, the High-Prieſt of the Mahometan Religion, has a great Authority among the Mahometans.

MUGNOS, (Giles) Antipope, named Clement VIII. was eſteemed for his Learning and Virtue. After Benedict XIII's Death, in 1424, he was elected Pope by two Cardinals in Obedience to Benedict, who charged them when he was a dying, to proceed to a new Election; which they did alſo by the Sollicitation of Alphonſus, King of Arragon, Pope Martin V's Enemy. Mugnos made a Promotion of four Cardinals, that he might have a lawful Conſiſtory. But Alphonſus being reconciled with Martin V. in 1429. Mugnos abdicated willingly with great Solemnity; for he named firſt a fifth Cardinal, and in a numerous Aſſembly revoked all his Predeceſſors and his own Excommunications; declaring that for the Peace of the Church, he joyfully parted with the Supreme Prieſt-hood, and that the Throne being vacant, the Cardinals might freely and canonically proceed to a new Election. Then he deſcended from the Throne, and retired into a Room, where leaving his Pontifical Apparel, he returned into the Hall in Doctor's Apparel; and as Martin V. had deſigned to give him the Biſhoprick of Majorca, he took place after the Cardinals, and deſired them to chuſe a good Paſtor for the Church; and immediately they elected, as by way of Iuſpiration, Otho Colonna, naming him Martin V. who had already been elected in the Council of Conſtance. Thus ended the great Weſtern Schiſm. Maimbourg. Hiſt. du grand Schiſm.

MUIS (Simon de) born at Orleans in France, the King's Profeſſor in the Hebrew Tongue, compoſed many Learned Works, as a Literal Comment on the Pſalms, &c. His Controverſies with F. Morin made a great Noiſe in the World, and he is ſaid to attribute ſome Privileges to the Maſorah which are not due to them. 'Twas upon this occaſion that he wrote a Treatiſe, entituled, Defenſe de l'Autoritè de l'Edition Hebraïque. M. Simon.

MUISIS, known by the Name of Ægidius Mucidus, Abbot of St. Martin, at Tournay, compoſed divers Hiſtorical Works, as a Chronicle from CHRIST's Birth to the Year 1348, &c. He died in 1353. Voſſius de Hiſt. Lat. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg.

MULDAW, Molde, and Multaw, Lat. Mulda, a River of Bohemia in Germany, whoſe Head is towards the Limits of Bohemia, and runs into the Elbe, above Prague; the Inhabitants call it Wiltava.

MULGRAVE, an ancient Caſtle in the North-Riding in Yorkſhire, near the Sea, and not far from Whitby, firſt built by Peter de Mauley in the time of Richard I. and continued in the Line of its Founder for Seven Generations. Afterwards through other Families it came to the Sheffields; Edmund, Lord Sheffield of Bulterwick, Lord Preſident of the North, being created Earl of Mulgrave by King Charles I. in 1625, who was great Grandſon to Edmund Earl of Mulgrave. John, the preſent Earl, has been advanced by King William III. to be Marquiſs of Normanby.

MULHAUSEN, an Imperial Town of Thuringia in Germany, near the River Unſtrut, Seven German Miles from Erford to the Weſt, and four from Eyſenach to the North. It's a fine City, under the Protection of the Elector of Saxony; being otherwiſe free and Imperial.

MULHAUSEN, another Imperial Town of the Higher Alſatia, in Germany, on the River Ill, once an imperial and free City; but in 1515 leagued with the Swiſs, and united to Suntgow. It ſtands three Leagues from Ferrette to the North, and Baſil to the South-Weſt, but heretofore belonged to Alſatia.

MULKI-KADIN, a Favourite to the Sultaneſs, Mahomet IV's Grandmother. She was a bold Young Woman, and governed the whole Empire in the beginning of that Prince's Reign, becauſe ſhe had the Sultaneſs's Love entirely. The Grand Viſier, and other Officers, could do nothing without her Conſent, and the Cabinet-Council was held in this Woman's private Apartment. But at laſt the Soldiers, weary of Female Adminiſtration, ſent impudently to the Sultan, to deſire him to come to the Kioſch, or Banqueting-houſe, where they demanded the Eunuchs Heads that were Favourites, whom they ſtrangled immediately, and next day they maſſacred Mulki, and her Husband Schaban Kalſa. Ricaut of the Ottoman Empire.

MULLER, or Regiomontanus, (John) a famous German Aſtronomer. Cardinal Beſſarion deſired Purbach to abridge Ptolemy's Almageſtum, but he dying, his Diſciple Muller finiſhed it happily. At Rome he found very material Errors in the Book tranſlated into Latin by George of Trebizonde, which was fatal to him. For Sixtus IV. having made him Archbiſhop of Ratisbon, and deſired him to come to Rome, to reform the Calendar, he was murthered there by George of Trebizonde's Sons in 1476, leſt his great Learning ſhould obſcure their Father's Reputation. Others ſay, that he died of the Plague being Forty years old. We have divers of his Works. Paul. Jov. in Elog. c. 144. Gaſſendus in vita Regiomont. &c.

MULTAN, a Town and Kingdom of the Indies in the Mogol's Dominions, on the Indus, below Attock, formerly more conſiderable than it's now.

MULVIA, a great River of Barbary in Africa, running from Mount Atlas into the Mediterranean. It divides the Kingdom of Fez from the Province of Tremeſen in the Kingdom of Algier.

MUMMIUS, (Lucius) a Roman Conſul, with Cn. Cornelius Lentulus, in 608 of Rome, ſubdued Achaia, took and burnt Corinth, from whence came the famous Metal called Corinthian. He was Cenſor afterwards, and died very poor. Strabo l. 8. Tit. Liv. l. 52. Pliny l. 37. c. 3.

MUMMOL, a Patrician, reputed Earl of Auxerre, famous for his Victories, was General to Gontran, King of Orleans and Burgundy, Son of Clotaire. He was killed in 585, in Comminges. They ſay that his Wife was forced by being put to the Queſtion to declare that he had a conſiderable Treaſure in Avignon. Greg. Turon. l. 5, 6, & 7. Aimoin. l. 3.

MUMMIES of EGYPT, are Dead Bodies embalmed and wrapped in certain Linen Cloths that prevent Corruption. They may be ſeen in Egypt, not far from Cairo, near the Village Sakara. The Ground where they are found is like a vaſt Burying-place, adorned in divers places with many Pyramids. There are under the Ground many vaulted Rooms cut in Quarries of White Stones, with a Hole to go down into them, like a Well. Thoſe Wells are ſquare, built with good Stones, and filled with Sand, to cloſe the Grotto, which Sand is taken out when People will go in. Then by the help of a Rope under their Arms, they are gently let down to the bottom, where the Door is. The Rooms built under ground are commonly ſquare, and contain many by-places, where Mummies are found, ſome in Stone-Tombs, others in Cheſts or Coffins, made of Sycamore with many Ornaments. The Dead Bodies are wrapped up with Fillets of Linen Cloth dipped in a Compoſition fit to preſerve from Corruption; and thoſe Fillets are ſo often wound about, that ſometimes there are above a thouſand Ells. The fillet going in length from Head to Foot, is often adorned with many Hieroglyphicks painted in Gold, which ſhew the Quality and brave Actions of the deceaſed. Some Mummies have alſo a golden Leaf delicately ſet on the Face. Others have a kind of an Head-piece made of Cloth and prepared with Mortar, on which the Face of the Perſon is repreſented in Gold. In unwrapping them ſmall Metal Idols are ſometimes found wonderfully well wrought; and ſome have a little Piece of Gold under their Tongue. Some Mummies are ſhut up in Cheſts, made up of many Cloths paſted together, which are as ſtrong as Wooden ones, and never rot. The Balm that preſerves thoſe Bodies is black, hard, and ſhining like Pitch, and ſmells pleaſantly. It is called Mummy, becauſe compoſed of Amomum, Cinnamon, Myrrhe, and Wax. The Dead Bodies were alſo powdered with Nitre or Sea-ſand. The Amomum of the Ancients is ſuppoſed to be the little Tree, the inner Bark whereof is called Cinnamon. They took the ſmall Branches full of Knots in the ſhape of Grape-Kernels, and a kind of ſweet Gum that came out of its Root, to make that Compoſition with other Plants and Aromatical Liquors, which keep Bodies from Corruption. From the word Amomum came Amomia, which we pronounce Mummy. Some derive it from the Perſian word Mum ſignifying Wax, uſed chiefly by the Perſians and Scythians to preſerve Corpſes. M. Thevenot. Voyage du Levant.

MUNASICHITES, a Sect of Mahometans following Pythagoras's Opinion, believe the Metempſychoſis, or Tranſmigration of Souls from one Body into another. Munaſachat in Arabick ſignifies Metempſychoſis. They are alſo named Altenaſochites, from Altenaſoch, that is, Metempſychoſis. Ricaut of the Ottoman Empire.

MUNCER, (Thomas) was called Luther's Vicar, becauſe he taught the ſame Doctrine in Saxony. But afterwards he made himſelf Head of the Anabaptiſts and Enthuſiaſts in 1525. feigning to have particular Revelations from God, and preached both againſt the Lutherans and Roman Catholicks. He joined with Nicholas Stork and Pſeiffer, and having drawn a prodigious number of Peaſants to him, he boldly declared, That God could no longer bear the Sovereign's Tyranny, and the Magiſtrates Injuſtice, and had commanded him to deſtroy them, to put godly Men in their Places. By ſuch Doctrines they raiſed a conſiderable Army of wicked People, which cauſed great Diſorders in Germany; but they were all cut to Pieces, or made Priſoners. Muncer and Pſeiffer were beheaded, the firſt being converted before he died; but the other unwilling to recant his Doctrine, died obſtinate. Maimbourg, Hiſt, de Lutheraniſm.

MUNDA, an Ancient Town of Granada in Spain taken by Mariana, for Ronda la Veja is famous for Pompey's Son's defeat by Julius Cæſar in 709 of Rome. Hirtius, Sueton. Dion. Plutarch.

MUNICK, or Munich, on the Iſer, Lat. Monachum and Monachium. The Chief Town of Bavaria in Germany, and the Reſidence of the Dukes, is counted one of the pleaſanteſt and ſtrongeſt of Germany. It was built in 962, and walled about by Duke Otho in 1156, or 57. The Prince's Court is extraordinary Polite, and the Palace one of the moſt ſtately of Germany for its divers Apartments, precious Houſhold-goods, Gardens, Pictures, Riches, the Duke's Cloſet full of Curioſities, the fine Library, &c. The Town is very fine, its Streets are broad and ſtraight, with Houſes almoſt of the ſame Architecture. The Suburb is on the other ſide of the fine Bridge. Guſtavus Adolphus, King of Sweden, took this Town in 1632, and admired the Palace built by the Elector Maximilian; where Marble is as common, as if the whole Country were a Marble Quarry. Each Corner, Nich, Door, and Chimny, has a Statue drawn half-way. The Hall of Anticks contains 354 ſuch Statues of Jaſper, Porphyry, Braſs, and Marble of all Colours. In the firſt Gallery are an 100 Pictures of Illuſtrious Men, chiefly for Learning. The Cieling of the ſecond Gallery repreſents the Chief Towns of Bavaria; its Rivers and Caſtles, &c. One of Guſtavus's Captains perſuading him to deſtroy the Palace; he anſwered, That he ſhould be ſorry to rob the World of ſo fine a thing. Cluvier, *Deſcr. MUNSTER, an Imperial and Hanſe Town of Weſtphalia in Germany, the Reſidence of a Biſhop, Prince of the Empire, and Lord of the Town and Territory, Lat. Monaſterium, was formerly called Monigroda, or Moningroda. It is ſituate in a large Plain, on the River Aa, and is regularly fortified. It is famous for the fantaſtical Kingdom of thoſe Anabaptiſts, who ſettled there in the XVIth Century, having elected John of Leyden, a Taylor, for their King, perpetrating horrid Villainies, under the pretence of Enthuſiaſtick Zeal, and could not be ſuppreſſed till this City had endured a Year's cloſe Siege. The Plenipotentiaries of the Princes of Europe met there to make a General Peace in 1648, and hence it was called, The Treaty of Munſter. Inhabitants rebelled ſince againſt their Prince, but were reduced in 1661. The Caſtle is diſtant from the Town. The Biſhoprick of Munſter, called by the Germans, Das Biſthum buon Munſter, is a Province in the Circle of Weſtphalia in the German Empire, which has its Name from its Capital. Bounded on the Weſt with Over-Yſſel, on the North with the Earldoms of Embden and Oldenburgh, and the Counties of Diepholt and Ravenſperg. Almoſt a hundred Miles in length from North to South, but not of equal breadth, and divided into Thirteen Bailiwicks. The Principal Cities are Munſter, Meppen, Vecht, and Varendorp. It is extremely full of Woods and Marſhes, and abounds much in Cattle. This Biſhoprick was founded by Charles the Great. Bertius, lib. 3. Germ. Marmol. Deſcrip. Urb. Monaſt. &c.

MUNSTER, (Sebaſtian) a German Monk, who turned Proteſtant about 1529. So good a Mathematician, and ſo Learned in the Hebrew Tongue, that he was called the Strabo and Eſdras of Germany. MURADAL, in Spaniſh, El puerto de Muradal, a paſſage of Mountains of Morena, to go from New Caſtile into Andalouzia towards the Borders of Portugal. This Place is famous in Hiſtory for the great Victory got by the Spaniards in 1202. againſt the Moors, who loſt 200000 Men upon the place. The Ancients call it Saltus Caſtulonenſis, becauſe it is near Caſtulon, an ancient Town, now but a Village named Caſlona. Florian, Navager, Baudrand.

MURAT, a little Town of Auvergne in France, having the Title of Viſcounty, near the River Alagnon, four or five Leagues from S. Flour.

MURCIA, a Country of Spain, that has the Title of Kingdom, having Valencia on the Eaſt, Granada on the Weſt, New-Caſtile on the North, and the Mediterranean on the South. It is about 25 Leagues long, and a little leſs broad. Murcia is a hilly Country, producing very little Corn. But there is ſuch plenty of Fruit, that it is called the Garden of Spain. There are Rocks of Alum, Amethiſts, and Chalcedonies. Murcia is the Chief Town.

MURCIA, an heatheniſh Goddeſs, whoſe only imployment was, to preſide over Idleneſs. Her Name came from Murcus, or Murcidus, a Name given by the Romans to ſtupid, ſimple, dull, ſlothful, and lazy Men. Her Statues were always covered with Duſt and Moſs, to expreſs her Idleneſs and Negligence. Her Temple was at the Foot of Mount Aventine at Rome. Many Authors ſay, that ſhe was not different from Venus, and was called Murcia by miſtake, inſtead of Murtea; from Murta, a Myrtle-Tree, in old Latin; a Plant dedicated to Venus. According to others, ſhe was called Murcia, to ſignify the dangerous effects of Luxury, which makes Men degenerate. Pliny l. 15. S. Auſtin de Civit. Dei.

MURET, (Mark Anthony) born at Limoges in France, and without any Maſter learned ſo perfectly the Greek and Latin Tongues, that he was eſteemed one of the moſt Learned Men of his time. He taught in the ſame College at Paris with Turnebus and Buchanan, and went afterwards into Italy, where he died in 1585. He wrote ſome Annotations on moſt of the Ancient Authors, and compoſed many Books. As Orationum, Vol.II. Variæ Lectiones. Poemata. Hymni Sacri. Diſputationes IV. in Lib. 1. Pandectarum. De Origine Juris. De Legibus & Senatus-Conſulto. De Conſtitutionibus Principum; & de Officio ejus cui mandata eſt Juriſdictio. Epiſtolæ. Juvenilia Carmina, &c.

MURMEL, (John) born at Ruremonde, renewed Learning in an Age of Ignorance and Barbarouſneſs. He compoſed divers Works in Verſe, and died at Munſter in 1517. Le Mire, Melchior Adam, Valer. Andr.

MURRAY, or Moray, the Name of an Ancient, Noble, and Numerous Family in Scotland, ſaid to come originally from Moravia, a Province in the Kingdom of Bohemia. The time of their coming into Scotland (if the Hiſtorians of that Nation be not miſtaken) is ſuppoſed to be about the middle of the firſt Century; at which time they are repreſented as a daring People, of goodly ſhape; they were very aſſiſtant to that excellent Prince, Corbred the firſt of that Name, who was then King, taking part in his Wars with the Romans, and driving out the ſeditious Inhabitants of Varara. Nor was their ſhare inconſiderable in that famous Expedition of Boduo, Queen of the Iceni, and Siſter to Corbred, King of Scotland, when in Revenge of Indignities offered to her ſelf, and a Rape committed upon her Daughters, ſhe ſlew 70000 of the Romans, and their Allies; made Catus, the Procurator, fain to fly into France, and defeated Petilius Cerialis, Lieutenant of the Ninth Legion. Tacitus bluſhing at this Victory, conceals her Name, though in the next Pape he ſpeaks out, calls her Boudicia, and ſhews her at the Head of a vaſt Army, where ſhe had the misfortune to be overcome by the Roman Lieutenant, Suetonius, and 80000 of her Subjects and Confederates ſlain, among whom were many of the Moravii, with their Captain Roderic, who married Dalila, Daughter to King Caratacus, and Niece to Corbred I. Thoſe of them who ſurvived, for their Signal Service in this War, got from Corbred a pleaſant and fruitful Province lying betwixt Spey and Neſs, two Rivers in the Kingdom of Scotland. It was then call'd Varar, but they by the King's Order, ſoon expell'd the tumultuous Inhabitants, and ſettling themſelves there, gave it the name Moravia, or, as the Scots did afterwards pronounce it Moray, which Name continues to this Day. Hector Boethius ſpeaking of Corbred I. his Eſteem of the Moray's, and his willingneſs to accept of their Aſſiſtance againſt the Romans, ſaith, —— Auxit ſpem ingens Corporum moles, alacritas vultu geſtuque, &c. And a little after, expreſſing the general Satiſfaction of the Scots in accepting the offers of the Moravii, and the hopes they had conceived of this new Alliance, hath theſe Words, —— Gaviſis plurimum viros corporibus ingentis magnitudinis, incredibiliſque virtutis & exercitationis in armis ſibi auxilio adeſſe. Nor were they leſs in the Eſteem of Corbred II. ſurnam'd Galdus, and Son to the firſt Corbred. He was alſo a Wiſe and Valiant Prince, as is plain, even from the Account given by Tacitus in the Life of Agricola, where calling him Galgacus, he ſpeaks him a Great General, as well as a Wiſe King, and at the Head of his Army, puts ſuch a Maſter-piece of Eloquence in his Mouth, as is not eaſily to be match'd in any other part of his Hiſtory. This Galdus was much aſſiſted by the Moray's in his vigorous Oppoſition of Agricola; alſo in reducing his Rebellious Subjects to Obedience, and ſettling the Peace of his Kingdom. Biſhop Leſley in his Hiſtory of Scotland, ſpeaking of the Prudence, and other Eminent Virtues of this Excellent Prince, addeth, —— Moraviorum opera, ſublatis publicis Graſſatoribus & Latronibus, priſtinam Patriæ ſecuritatem reddidit, &c.

In the Reign of Malcolm the 4th. ſurnamed the Maiden, the Morays, by the inſtignation of one Gildominick an Ambitious and Deſigning Gentleman of that name, were induced to take up Arms againſt their lawful Sovereign, a heinous and unnatural Crime; for puniſhing of which in others, and by force reducing them to their Allegiance, they had formerly gain'd a great deal of honour. Againſt them was ſent one Gilchriſt Earl of Angus, who had been ſucceſsful in ſuppreſſing two Rebellions not long before, one of which had been manag'd by Æneas of Galloway, and the other by Sommerled Thane of Argyle. But the Morays retaining the ſame fortitude and skill in War, though 'twas now unhappily miſapply'd, did ſoon defeat Gilchriſt and diſpers'd his Army which was greater and more formidable, than that wherewith the ſame Gilchriſt had got himſelf a name, and was become famous by his Succeſs in Argyle and Galloway. Upon the News of this Victory, King Malcolm having a vaſt Army, went in Perſon againſt theſe Rebellious Morays, and cut them off. Here the Reader has a ſhort account of the Moravii as they have been repreſented by ſome of our Scots Hiſtorians: But others are of opinion, that this Rebellion hath been unjuſtly fixed upon them, and that it was begun and carried on by People of another name, ſo that the Moravii who revolted againſt the King, were not the Morays, but a different People, who at that time were inhabitants of the Shire of Moray, and the Countries about. But however this be, 'tis more than probable, that the Family of Bothwell had no hand in theſe tumults; for in the ſame King Malcolm's Reign, and in the Reign of his Brother William, who ſucceeded the very next Year after the ſuppreſſing of this Rebellion, there lived one Joannes de Moravia, Lord Bothwell and Cluidsdale: He is witneſs in a Charter granted by King William to the Earl of Strathern; and 'tis not very likely, that the King would have allow'd him to keep the Surname of Moray, and enjoy a plentiful Eſtate in one of the moſt fruitful Countries of his Kingdom, had he not been a perſon of approv'd Loyalty, as indeed his Poſterity have been ever ſince, notwithſtanding the many Commotions and Revolutions, which the laſt five hundred Years have produc'd in that Kingdom. This John de Moravia, was Father to Maurice Moray Lord of Bothwell and Cluidsdale, who lived in the Reign of King Alexander IIId. He married .... Cummin, Daughter to Red John Cummin Earl of Buchan, by whom he had three Sons, Thomas, Andrew and Malcolm. Thomas lived to a great Age, all his Children dying before him, ſave one Daughter married to Grim Archibald, Earl of Douglaſs, who had with her the Eſtate of Bothwell; but the Titles and Honours fell to Andrew the ſecond Son, of whom is deſcended the Houſe of Abercarnie. The IIId. Son Malcolm, of whom the preſent Marqueſs of Athol, had from his Father the Barony of Neither-Gask and had a Son called William, who had the Lands of Tullibardin, by marrying Ada Daughter to Maliſe, and Siſter to Henry Seneſcals, or Stuarts of Stratherne, which Maliſe had Tullibardin by his Wife Muriel the Daughter of Congal, Son to Duncan Earl of Mar. In the Year 1292, amongſt thoſe who were call'd to Berwick by King Edward Iſt. of England, to hear the claims betwixt Bruce and Baliol, this William de Moravia de Tullibardin in the impreſſion of his Seal had a Cheveron betwixt three Stars, and at the ſame time on the Seal of his Uncle Andrew, the ſecond Son of Maurice, there was the Plain Coat of the Houſe of Bothwell. Thomas the Eldeſt Son of Maurice Moray dying without Iſſue Male, was ſucceeded by his Brother, Andrew Moray Earl of Bothwell, Second Son of Maurice Lord Cluidsdale, &c. He married Iſabella Bruce, eldeſt Siſter to King Robert Bruce, and by her had two Sons, Andrew Moray afterwards Governor of Scotland, and Sir Maurice Moray of Drumſhergart. This Andrew Lord Bothwell, Father to Andrew the Governor, and famous for his Bravery and good Conduct in our Wars with England, was kill'd Fighting in Defence of his Country at the Battle of Sterlin, where the Scots obtained a Signal Victory over the Engliſh in the year 1297, of which Buchanan. Hæc victoria, in qua, è Scotis nemo illuſtrior præter Andream Moravium, cujus filius aliquot poſt annos pro Rege rem Scoticam adminiſtravit, periit, &c. He had to his Succeſſor his Son Andrew Moray, Lord Bothwell, who was Governor of Scotland, and married ..... Leſly a Daughter of the Family of Rotheſs chief of that name, and by her had a Son call'd Maurice, afterwards Earl of Stratherne. Buchanan ſpeaking of Andrew Moray's being choſen Governour of Scotland, hath theſe words. In locum Duncani Proregis, Andream Moravium ex Roberti Bruſſii ſorore genitum virum illuſtrem ſubſtituunt, &c. And afterwards ſpeaking of his Death, his words run thus. Summum apud omnes bonos deſiderium ſui reliquit, tantas enim res biennio, ac ſemeſtri, quibus in magiſtratu fuit geſſit, ut ſuffecturæ cujuslibet magni Ducis ætati viderentur. There are many great things ſaid of him in the Scots Hiſtory, but for brevity we have choſen to cite this from Buchanan. He died in the year 1338, and was buried in the Cathedral Church of Elgine, in the ſhire of Moray, where at the head of his Monument is the Coat of the houſe of Bothwell without a difference, and at the foot that of Leſly. He was ſucceeded by his Son Maurice Moray Lord Bothwell and Cluidsdale, who was with great ſolemnity created Earl of Stratherne by King David Bruce in the Caſtle of Edinburgh, anno 1343, with his paternal Coat; he quartered the arms of the Old Earls of Stratherne, who bore, Or, two Cheveronells Sable, which occaſioned his Uncle and neareſt Heir, Sir Maurice Moray of Drumſhergart, after the Death of his Nephew, to put a Cheveron in his Coat, as a mark of his Title to that Earldom, which his Succeſſors of the Houſe of Abercarnie ſtill bear. This Maurice Lord Bothwell and Cluidsdale, and Earl of Stratherne, married Regia Randolf, Daughter to Thomas Randolf Earl of Moray, and was kill'd at the unfortunate Battle of Durham, fighting in Defence of his Country and King. David the ſecond who was there taken Priſoner by the Engliſh on the 17th. of October 1348. This Maurice Earl of Stratherne having no children, his neareſt Heir was his Uncle and Tutor, Sir Maurice Moray of Drumſhergart, which is now called Kemſlang and belongeth to the Duke of Hamilton, lying oppoſite to Bothwell on the South ſide the River Clyde. He was Son to that Andrew Moray who married King Robert Bruce's, Siſter, and Brother to Andrew the Governour. He aſſum'd the Title of Cluidsdale after his Nephew's Death, as appears from Friebarne's M. S. and likewiſe from Hector Boethius, who ſpeaking of his being at the head of one of the four Squadrons, at the Siege of Perth, ſaith, Quartæ præerat, Mauritius Moravius Dominus Cludivallis, &c. He was a man of great Activity and Spirit, and for his good conduct at the Siege of Perth, was, as Friebarne affirms, ſoon after made Governor of the Caſtle of Sterlin, of which Bucchanan; Intra paucos dies Sterlinum quoque oppugnatum, & eadem lege deditum Mauritius Moravius Andreæ filius Arci eſt præfectus, &c. To this that of Joannes Major agrees. Poſt Pertham captam Strivilingam arcem cuſtos obſedit —— cujus cuſtodiam Mauritio de Moravia de Clidsdale cuſtos tradidit, &c. This Sir Maurice of Cluidsdale and Drumſhergart, upon the death of his Nephew put a Cheveron in his Coat, and had hopes of ſucceeding to the Earldom of Stratherne, but Robert Stuart, afterwards King, ſtept in betwixt him and it; and finding Maurice's diſcontent, gave him the Lands of Ogilvie, which were a part of that Earldom, and continue in the poſſeſſion of his ſucceſſors of the Houſe of Abercarnie to this day. This Maurice of Cluidsdale and Drumſhergart, was ſucceeded by his Son John Moray, Lord of Drumſhergart, who married Mary, Daughter to Maliſius firſt of that Name, Earl of Stratherne, by whom he had two Sons, Alexander and Walter, and had with her the Lands of Abercarnie. The charter of theſe Lands granted by this Maliſius is ſtill extant, and in the hands of Sir Robert Moray of Abercarnie, who hath alſo a Charter granted by John Moray, Lord of Drumſhergart, before his marriage with Mary, daughter of Maliſius, Earl of Stratherne, and to their Iſſue, of the Lands and Barony of Balnacrief, alſo a Charter of confirmation from Robert Stuart of Scotland, afterwards King, to this John, of all the Lands Maliſius had given him with his Daughter Mary: The Charter of Confirmation is dated the 18th. day of March, 1368. This John Lord of Drumſhergart and Balnacrief, had for his ſucceſſor his eldeſt Son, Sir Alexander Moray, of Drumſhergart, Ogilvie and Abercarnie. He married Jannet, daughter to Hugh Earl of Roſs, and Siſter to Euphan Roſs, Queen of Scotland. Their contract of marriage is ſtill extant, to which is appended, the Seals of the Queen and her eldeſt Son, David Count Palatine of Strathern, and Earl of Cathneſs: Of this contract there were two Copies, one with the Seal of Alexander appended remained in the Queens hands, the other is ſtill in the cuſtody of Sir Robert Moray of Abercarnie, wherein 'tis agreed, that the Queen and her eldeſt Son David, ſhall at their own proper charge, aſſiſt Sir Alexander in the Recovery of his Inheritance, &c. The Queen's Seal appended to it, hath the Image of the Queen Crown'd and ſitting on a Throne, upon the right ſide of the Throne is a Shield, with the arms of Scotland, a Lyon within a Double Treſſure, and on the left, a Shield with the Queens paternal Coat, three Lyons rampant for the name of Roſs. This Sir Alexander was ſucceeded by his Son Winfrade Moray, of Ogilvie and Abercarnie, who married Katharine Greme, Siſter to the Lord Greme, and had with her two Sons, Andrew and George. There is in the hands of Sir Robert Moray of Abercarnie, a Charter by King James the third, erecting the Lands of Ogilvie, Abercarnie, &c. into a free Barony, independent of the Stuartry of Stratherne, in favour of Winfrade Moray of Ogilvie and Abercarnie; the Witneſſes in this Charter are, Andrew Biſhop of Glasgow, Thomas Biſhop of Aberdeen, William Biſhop of Orkney, and keeper of the great Seal, Andrew Lord Annadale Chancellor .... Earl of Argyle, David Earl of Crawford, James Lord Hamilton, Sir David Guthrie of that ilk Knight, Captain of the King's Guards, &c. After this Charter of Erection, they are commonly deſign'd by the Lands of Abercarnie. The eldeſt Son and Succeſſor of this Winfrade was, Sir Andrew Moray of Abercarnie, to whom John Lord Drummond, Steward of Stratherne, grants a Diſcharge of all dependance or attendance on that Court, in reſpect, King James the Third, out of his ſpecial favour had ſo ordered by Letters under his own hand, and erected all his Lands into a free Barony, independant of the Stuartry, which Letters are ſtill in the hands of Sir Robert Moray of Abercarnie. This Sir Andrew Moray, married Margaret, Daughter to Alexander Robertſon of Strowan, chief of that name; and had by her a Daughter, married to Maurice Keer Drummond of Concraig, Seneſchal or Stuart of Stratherne; but having no Sons, the Eſtate fell to his Nephew, John Moray of Abercarnie, Son to George Moray, the Brother of Sir Andrew. He married Nicola Greme, Siſter to William Earl of Montroſs, and had Children, William their eldeſt Son, Robert and David; they had likewiſe three Daughters, Catharine, Annas and Barbara. This John was Kill'd at the Battle of Penkincleugh. There is in the cuſtody of Sir Robert Moray of Abercarnie, an Inſtrument of Seſin, in favour of William Moray of Abercarnie, as heir to his Father John of the Date, May 16th. 1548. upon a precept from the Queen (Mary) to the Sherif of Perth, wherein 'tis ſet forth, that the Queen was pleaſed out of her Royal favour, to diſpence with William, his being under Age, becauſe his Father John was kill'd, fighting in defence of his Country, at the Battle of Penkincleugh. His Succeſſor was his Son, William Moray of Abercarnie, who married Oliphant, Daughter to the Lord Oliphant, and dying without Children, was ſucceeded by his Brother, Robert Moray of Abercarnie, who married Catharine Moray, Daughter to Sir William Moray of Tullibardin, and by her had ſix Sons, and two Daughters, Sir William their Heir and Succeſſor, Sir David, who was Deputy Governor to Prince Henry, and one of the Gentlemen of his Bedchamber. The care of forming the mind of that Young Prince of great hopes, was put upon this Gentleman, by King James the Sixth, as one, whoſe Vertues and Fidelity had ſet him above the reſt of his Country-men. Of this Johnſtone: Daturque Rector pueritiæ David Moravius Abercarneus, virtute animi fideque inſignis, &c. Their Third Son Mongo, married .... Hacket, Daughter to Hacket of Pitfirren, and by her had two Sons, Sir Robert who was Colonel in France, and upon King Charles the Second's Reſtauration, was made Lord Juſtice Clerk of Scotland. He was one of the principal perſons who put King Charles upon founding the Royal Society at Greſham College, of which he was afterwards Fellow. He married ..... Linſay, Siſter to the Lord Balcarras, and dying without Iſſue, was buried in Weſtminſter Abby, where he had a Monument erected for him, by King Charles the Second. Sir William Moray of Dreghorn, his Brother was Maſter of the Works to King Charles the Second, and married ..... Foulis, Siſter to the Lord Colintone, one of the Senators of the College of Juſtice, and had by her three Sons and a Daughter, Sir James, who was Captain in the Earl of Dumbarton's Regiment, and died a Batchelor; Robert their Second Son who died Young, their Third Son Sir Charles, ſucceeded Sir James, and married ..... Maxwell, Siſter to Sir John Maxwell of Polocke. Maſter John Moray, Fourth Son to Robert Moray of Abercarnie, by Catharine, Daughter to Sir William Moray of Tullibardin, was Miniſter of Dumfermline, and married Leſly, Daughter to the Earl of Rotheſs. Andrew their fifth Son was a Captain in Holland, and died there, James their Youngeſt Son died a Batchellor. ..... Moray their eldeſt Daughter, was Lady Moncrief..... Moray their youngeſt Daughter, was married to Douglaſs of Balheav'n. Sir William Moray, eldeſt Son, and ſucceſſor to Sir Robert Moray of Abercarnie, by Catharine, Daughter to Sir William Moray of Tullibardin, was Maſter of Horſe to Queen Anne, and Gentleman of the Bed-chamber to King James the Sixth. He married .... Mercer, Daughter to Mercer of Adie and Montclour chief of that name, and had by her Sir Robert his Heir and Succeſſor, Mary Moray Lady Augtartyre, and Annabella Moray, who died unmarried. He was ſucceeded by Sir Robert Moray of Abercarnie, who married Helena Bruce, Daughter to Bruce of Cultmalindie, and had by her William their eldeſt Son, David their ſecond Son, who married Margaret Hay, Siſter to Hay of Pitfowr, and died without Iſſue. Their Daughter Anna Moray, was married to Alexander Moray of Strowan. MURTOLA, (Gaſpard) an Italian Poet, Author of ſeveral Italian and Latin Poems, died about 1624.

MUSA (Anthony, or Antonius) a Græcian, the Emperor Auguſtus's Phyſician; Brother to Euphorbus Juba, King of Mauritania's Phyſician. Having cured Auguſtus of a dangerous Sickneſs by Bathings and cool Remedies, the Romans erected his Statue near that of Æſculapius. But the ſame Remedies killed Marcellus. Horat. l. 1. ep. 15. Pliny lib. 19.

MUSARABES, or Moſarabes, or Miſtarabes, Chriſtians of Spain ſo called, becauſe they lived under the Arabians Government. Muſa in Arabick ſignifies a Chriſtian. So Muſarabe ſignifies a Chriſtian, the Arabians Subject; or Miſtarabes, from the Latin Miſtus, mixt among the Arabians; or Muçarabes, from Muça, an Arabian Captain, who conquered Spain. Jacob Almanzor, King of Morocco, took ſome Muſarabes along with him in 1170, to guard his Perſon, and permitted them to Worſhip God after their own way, in a Church built on purpoſe. They were commonly 500 Life-guardmen, very rich, and favoured with great Privileges. The Muſarabine Divine Service is celebrated ſtill in the Seven Pariſhes of Toledo, as it was before the Roman Service was eſtabliſhed by St. Gregory in 1080. It is likewiſe celebrated at Salamanca on certain Days in the Year. Marmol. de l'Afrique l. 3.

MUSERRIN, a Name taken in Turky by thoſe that profeſs to believe no God. This Word ſignifies thoſe that keep the ſecret, from the Verb Aſerra, to conceal. Their ſecret is flatly to deny a Deity. The moſt part are ſome Cadi's and Learned Perſons in the Arabian Book: The others are Chriſtian Renegado's, who, purpoſely to ſhake off the Fear of God's Judgments, and the Remorſe of their Conſciences, embrace this Opinion, which they dare not profeſs publickly. Ricaut of the Ottoman Empire.

MUSES, Goddeſſes, reputed Daughters to Jupiter and Mnemoſyne. They are Nine, to whom the Invention of Sciences is attributed, viz. Clio, Urania, Calliope, Euterpe, Erato, Thalia, Melpomene, Terpſichore, and Polyhymnia. Some make them Daughters to Cœlus and the Earth, to expreſs the Qualities of the Body and Spirit for Sciences. See each of their Names in their particulars Articles.

MUSEUM, a place of Alexandria in Egypt, like the Pritaneum of Athens, where Learned Men of extraordinary Merit, were kept by the Publick, becauſe of their conſiderable able Services to the Commonwealth. Salmaſ. in Ælii Spart. notis.

MUSEUS, an Ancient Greek Poet, Orpheus's Contemporary, to whom Cæſar Scaliger attributes the Poem of Leander and Hero. But it is certain that Muſeus, Author of that Poem, lived in the Roman Emperors time. Scalig. de re Poet. Voſſius de Hiſt. Græc.

MUSKETEERS, the King of France's Life-guards. There are two Troops of them of 250 Men each: All thoſe of the firſt Troop, formerly called Great Musketeers, ride on White Horſes, and have a Gold Galloon upon their Hats. Thoſe of the ſecond Troop, which did belong to Cardinal Mazarini, are mounted on Black Horſes, and have a Silver Lace on their Hats. Beſides the King, who is the Captain of all the Musketeers, each Troop has its Captain-Lieutenant, and other Officers: And their Pay is 20 Crowns a Month. Memoires du Temps.

MUSORITES, Jews who reverenced Rats and Mice, from Mus a Mouſe, and Sorex a Rat. The Original of this Superſtition is thus: The Philiſtines having taken the Ark of the Covenant away, God ſent a great number of Rats and Mice, that devour'd all they had, which forc'd them to return the Ark, that they might be deliver'd from that plague; but their Prieſts advis'd them firſt to put five Golden Mice into it, as an Offering to the God of Iſrael, that they might be rid of thoſe Vermin. 1 Sam. 6.

MUSTAPHA, Solyman the Second, Emperor of the Turk's Eldeſt Son, the fineſt, ſtouteſt, and moſt ingenious Prince, that had been ſeen for a long time in the Ottoman Family, was made Governor of ſeveral Provinces. But Roxelana, whom the Sultan married, contrary to the Cuſtom, eſtabliſh'd ſince Bajazet the Firſt, to ſecure the Crown to one of her own Sons, charged him with Rebellion againſt his Father, who cauſed him to be ſtrangled immediately, without hearing his Defence. The People, deſirous to revenge his Death upon Roxelana, communicated the deſign to Bajazet, one of Roxelana's younger Sons, who pretending to exclude his Brother Selym, and get the Crown, approved the thing, and elected one of his Slaves whoſe Stature and Face were very like Muſtapha's. This ſuppoſed Prince departed in 1553, feigning to avoid his Father's Anger, who would certainly execute upon him, what he had done to a Slave, whom he took for his Son. His Officers told it as a great Secret, that he was the Emperor's Son; yet this Secret was quickly made a publick thing. Solyman ſent Baſſa Pertau againſt him, who brought him Priſoner to Conſtantinople, where he was forced upon a Rack to confeſs the Truth; and Roxelana obtained Bajazet's Pardon. De Rocoles des Impoſteurs inſignes.

MUSTAPHA, Emperor of the Turks, Mahomet IIId's Son, and Achmet's Brother, ſucceeded Achmet in 1617, whoſe Son Oſman was but 12 Years old. Muſtapha was raiſed up to the Throne by the Janizaries, who turned him out of it two Months after, becauſe he diſpleaſed them. Oſman, his Nephew, ſucceeded him, and he was ſhut up in a private Priſon, out of which he was drawn by the Janizaries, and was again put upon the Throne in 1622. The next day after he put Oſman to Death. But his Conduct diſpleaſing again, he was confined 16 Months after to perpetual Impriſonment, and Amurath, Oſman's Brother, ſucceeded him. There are particular Relations of all thoſe Revolutions.

MUSTAPHA II. Son to Mahomet IV. Emperor of the Turks, ſucceeded his Uncle Achmet in 1695. His beginnings have been very brisk, for at his Inauguration, when the Grand Viſier veſted him, he told him, That he ſhould be careful what he did; that he ſhould treat his Soldiers well, and above all be ſure to tell him the truth, and if not, he ſhould ſoon know, and be ſenſible of what would follow. The firſt Succeſſes of his Reign, were the worſting of the Venetians in two ſeveral Engagements at Sea, which being unuſual, and of many Years not known, made it Matter of Wonder to all the World, and theſe were attended with the regaining of Scio; for which, and his other Wars in Hungary, he finds out ways to raiſe great Sums of Money; and going into the Field in Perſon this Year, at the Head of an Army of about 50000 Men, directed his March towards Tranſilvania, took the Palanca of Lippa by Storm, and put the Garriſon to the Sword, then fell upon General Veterani in his Camp, who had about 8000 Men with him; and who, after an incredible Reſiſtance was Slain with moſt of his Men; and this ſame ill News was attended with the unfortunate Loſs of Titul, which the Turks deſtroy'd and abandon'd; the Imperial Army, under the Command of the Elector of Saxony, being not able all this while to come up with the Turks; but next Year, viz. 1696. there was a terrible Battel fought between the two Armies, headed by the ſame Generals at Olaſch, not far from Temeſwaer, with the loſs of many Men on both ſides, and only thus advantageous to the Chriſtians, that the Chriſtians remained Maſters of the Field, and intended to attack Muſtapha's Camp next Morning; but that the Turks had laboured ſo hard all Night, that they had fortified, and rendered it almoſt impregnable; the Turks and Tartars alſo, this Year loſt Aſoph to the Muſcovites. In 1697. the Imperialiſts failed in their Deſign upon Bihatz; but the Turks never received ſuch an overthrow as they did this Year at Zanta upon the Theyſſe, where while Sultan Muſtapha was content to keep on the other ſide of the River with a Body of Spahees. Prince Eugene of Savoy, who Commanded the Chriſtian Army, fell upon the Turkiſh Army, under the Grand Viſier on this ſide, and made ſuch a Slaughter and Deſtruction of the Infidels, as was never known to have hapned in the Memory of Man, or any Age; for no leſs than five Viſiers, beſides the Supream Viſier, 8000 Janizaries, and a vaſt number of Spahees, and a long Catalogue of Officers fell in this Battel, which was of ſo high a Concernment, and the Conſequences thereof were ſo conſiderable, that from thence the following Peace was derived, which this Emperor Muſtapha, now Reigning, concluded by his Embaſſadors at Carlowitz, with the Emperor, Venetians, Poles, and Muſcovites, about the beginning of the Year 1699, through the Mediation of the King of England and States of Holland, by which the reſpective Conqueſts of the ſaid Nations were in a manner entirely conceded to them.

MUSULMEN, that is, True-believers, a Name given by Mahomet to all thoſe that embraced his Religion.

MUSURUS, (Mark) born in Candia, a Learned Archbiſhop of Raguſa, in the XVIth Century. Being Profeſſor at Padua, he had ſo many Auditors, that they were forced to inlarge the Publick School. He had an extraordinary Talent in reading upon the Greek Poets. He was promiſed a Cardinal's Cap the next Promotion; but being diſappointed, he complained of it as an Affront to all the Græcians, and died ſoon after. De Varillas, Anecdotes de Florence.

MUTAFARACA's, in Turky, are Officers who conſtantly follow the Grand Signior, chiefly when he goes from Village to Village. They are Spahi's of a higher Rank than the reſt, who receive a greater Reward when they go out of the Seraglio. Mutafaraca ſignifies Eminent Spahi, from farac, to diſtinguiſh. When the Grand Viſier goes to the Divan, he is alſo attended by many Mutafaraca's. Ricaut of the Ottoman Empire.

MUTIAN, or Conradus Mutianus Rufus, Prebendary at Gotha in Germany, a famous Lawyer, eſteemed by the Learned of his time, neglected preferments, and ingraved theſe Words on his Door, Beata Tranquillitas. He died in 1526.

MUTIAN (Hierom) a famous Italian Painter, who followed Titian's way, and made a great number of Pictures at Rome. Gregory XIIIth imployed him to draw the firſt Hermit, St. Paul and St. Anthony, which are to be ſeen in St. Peter's Church. He finiſhed alſo the Deſigns of the Baſſo Relievo's of Trajan's Column begun by Julio Romanus; and by his means we have thoſe Cuts which Ciaconius has explain'd. He died in 1590. Gregory XIII. founded St. Luke's Academy at Rome for his ſake, by a Brief confirmed by Sixtus V. Mutian left two Houſes to the ſaid Academy, and his whole Eſtate alſo, in caſe his Heirs ſhould have no Iſſue, to keep poor young Painters that would come to Rome to learn that Art.

MUTIMUS, the God of Silence, from the Latin, Mutire to Mutter. The Ancients believed that this falſe Divinity did help one to keep his thoughts conceal'd. Turneb. l. 17.

C. MUTIUS, named Cordus, and afterwards Scævola. Porſenna, King of Tuſcany, beſieging Rome in 247 of Rome, to reſtore the Family of Tarquin; and Mutius reſolving to diſpatch him, killed his Secretary in his ſtead. And being brought before Porſenna, who was offering a Sacrifice, he told him boldly, that Three hundred young Men like him were bound by Oath to Murther him. But ſince my hand, added he, has miſs'd thee, it muſt be puniſhed for it. Then putting his Right-Hand on the burning Coals, he let it burn with ſuch a Conſtancy that the Beholders were all amazed. Porſenna charmed with his Virtue ſent him ſafe to Rome, where they gave him the Name of Scævola, or Left-handed, which remained to his Family. Florus, Tit. Liv. l. 2. Mart. l. 1. ep. 30. Dion. Halicarn.

Q. MUTIUS SCÆVOLA, a famous Lawyer, and Roman Conſul, who governed Aſia with ſo much Prudence and Juſtice, that he was commonly propoſed as an Example to the Governors ſent thither. He compoſed many Works, and had the Reputation of an accompliſh'd Orator. Cicero calls him the moſt Eloquent of all the Lawyers, and the beſt Lawyer of all the Orators. He was murthered in 672 of Rome, during Marius and Sylla's Wars, being accuſed by his Aſſaſſin of too much Honeſty. Cicero de Orat. ad Attic. Solin. c. 29. Velleius Paterc. &c.

MUTIUS, or Mucians, Lat. Gens Mucia, a very Illuſtrious Family at Rome, has produced many Magiſtrates, as Q. Mutius Scævola, Conſul in 580; P. Mutius Scævola, alſo Conſul in 579, Father to P. Mutius Scævola, an Excellent Orator, High-Prieſt, and Tribune of the People in 613, Prætor in 618, and Conſul in 621; 'Tis ſaid this Mutius, in the time of his Conſulſhip, put Tiberius Gracchus, Tribune of the People upon publiſhing the Lex Agraria, which made a great Noiſe at Rome: All the People of Fortune oppos'd the paſſing of this Law; whereas, on the other ſide, the poorer Sort were very violent for't. Octavius likewiſe, Tribune of the People, either concerned for his own Eſtate, or gain'd by the Senate, oppos'd the Bill, and broke all Gracchus's Meaſures: Tiberius not knowing how to get over this Difficulty, got Octavius depos'd. Upon this Commiſſioners were nam'd to Parcel out the Lands after the Bill or Law had been agreed to by the Commons. Tiberius Gracchus was one in the Commiſſion; now, ſoon after this, Attalus, King of Pergamus, happening to die, and making the People of Rome Heir of all his Dominions and Eſtate; this Tiberius, to ingratiate himſelf further with the People, mov'd that all Attalus's ready Money might be diſtributed among them. The Senate made a ſtrong Oppoſition againſt this Motion, and order'd Mutius to diſpatch Gracchus, who, upon this, fled to the Capitol; but Scipio Naſica, Jupiter's High-Prieſt, going up thither with a great number of the Senate, together with the Commons of the beſt Fortunes, was the occaſion of Gracchus's being kill'd. Mutius had the Character of a pleaſant Man, who, though he did not neglect the buſineſs of his Office, yet loved to divert himſelf, when he had leiſure. Q. Mutius Scævola, called The Augur, was Conſul in 637. Tit. Liv. Pliny lib. 2.

MUTUNUS, or Mutinus, a ſcandalous pretended Deity of the Romans, like the Gracian Priapus. New married Women worſhipped Mutunus's Statue, before which ſhameful Ceremonies were performed. The Ancient Fathers have often reproach'd the Pagans with them. S. Auſtin. de Civ. Dei, l. 4. c. 9. Lactant.

MYAGRUS, the Name of a certain Heathen God, whoſe Office was to hunt or drive out Flies, called in Greek Μυῖα. The Arcadians ſacrificed to him. And the occaſion of this Worſhip comes probably from the Importunity of Flies, which is ſuch in hot Countries, that the Aſſiſtance of a Divinity was thought neceſſary to drive them away. It is Solinus's Opinion, or rather his Jeſt, on this Superſtition. S. Greg. Nazianz. in his firſt Diſcourſe againſt Julian, mentions another God, named Ekron, appointed to hunt Flies. So named, becauſe the Ekronites, a People of Judæa, had an Idol worſhipped under the Name of Beelzebub, that is, The God of Flies. Cartari Imag. des Dieux. Pliny l. 10. cap. 28. Selden de Diis Syris.

MYCONE, an Iſland of the Archipelago, Three Miles from Delos, near Thirty Miles about, has no Fortreſs, and therefore not inhabited by the Turks, for fear of the Chriſtian Privateers. Nevertheleſs, they take the Caraſch, or Tribute, every Year. There are not above 2000 Inhabitants; but four Women to one Man, becauſe Men being generally Seamen, or Privateers, often miſcarry. There are about Thirty Greek Churches, and one Latin only. J. Spon. Voyage de Italie, &c.

MYLITTA, a Name given by the Babylonians, or Aſſyrians to Venus. The Aſſyrian Women were obliged by a Law, to go once in their Lives near Venus's Temple, and proſtitute themſelves to ſome Foreigner, who was to put a Sum of Money into their Lap. Herod. l. 1. Strabo l. 16.

MYRA, a Town in Lycia, in Aſia, now call'd Strumita; 'twas formerly an Archbiſhoprick with 36 Suffragans under it. It ſtands upon a Hill about Twenty Leagues from the Sea.

MYRBACH, a little Town and Abbey of the Higher Alſatia, which ſome years ago was an Eccleſiaſtical Principality, and the Monks had right to elect themſelves an Abbot when the Dignity was vacant. But ſince Alſatia has been yielded to the French, by the Treaty of Munſter in 1648, it was decreed, That in caſe of Vacancy the Monks ſhould preſent Three Perſons to the King, that he might chuſe one of them. Heiſſ. Hiſt. l'Empire l. 6.

MYRMIDONS, a People of Theſſaly, who follow'd Achilles to the Siege of Troy. The Poets feign'd that they were Piſmires at firſt, being metamophos'd afterwards into Men, at the requeſt of Æacus, King of Ægina. Virgil. Æneid. 2. Ovid. Metam. &c.

MYRMILLONS, a ſort of Gladiators, who commonly fought againſt the Retiarii. The Myrmillons Arms were, A Sword, A Shield, and An Head-Piece; on the top whereof was the Shape of a Fiſh. The Retiarii's Arms were, A Fork with Three Tips, and A Fiſher's Net to cover the Myrmillon's Head, againſt whom he was to fight. Myrmillon comes from the Greek Μορμύρος, Ros, which ſignifies A Sea-Fiſh, ſpotted with ſeveral Colours, mentioned by Ovid in Halieut, becauſe thoſe Gladiators had the Shape of this Fiſh in their Head-piece. They were alſo named Galli, becauſe the firſt came out of Gaul, or becauſe their Armour was after the Gauls Faſhion. When they were a fighting, the Retiarius did ſing to this purpoſe, I don't aim at thee, but at thy Fiſh; Why doſt thou ſhun me, thou Gaul? Suetonius in Caligula ſaith, That Caligula ſuppreſſed theſe ſorts of Gladiators. Turneb. Adverſ. l. 3. c. 4.

MYRON, an admirable Statuary, living in the LXXXIVth Olympiad, and the 320 Year of Rome. His Figure of a Brazen-Cow, got him a great Reputation, and was the occaſion of many fine Epigrams in Greek. See Anthologia lib. 4. Plin. 34. cap. 8. Ovid. lib. 3. de Ponto, &c.

MYRSES, a Name given to Tartarian Princes, who are Tributary to the Great Duke of Moſcovy. 'Tis alſo given to Perſian Princes. Olearius's Voyage de Moſcovie.

MYSIA, a Country in Aſia the Leſs, divided into Great and Little Myſia. The firſt was ſituated between the Leſſer Myſia, Phrygia, Bithynia, and the Ægean Sea, and had the Towns of Pergamus, Trajanopolis, Adramyttium, and likewiſe the Mountains of Olympus, Cimon, and the River Rhindacus in it. Little Myſia lay between the Helleſpont, Troas; and had the Towns of Cyzicum, and Lampſacum, the Mountain Ida, the Rivers of Simois, Granicus, &c. All this Country now goes by the Name of Natolia, and is ſubject to the Turk.

N

N. The Romans made uſe of theſe two Letters, N L, for Non Liquet, to ſignifie that the Evidence againſt any Criminal was not ſufficient to acquit or condemn him, being much the ſame as Ignoramus with us. The Ancients put it betwixt E and S to ſoften the Pronunciation, as quotiens for quoties; and Auſonius thinks it was form'd from the Greek Z turn'd upwards. S. Aug. l. 2. c. 2. emend.

NAAMAN, a Leper, General to the King of Syria, being inform'd by a Hebrew Captive that the Prophet Eliſha could Cure him, his Maſter recommended him to Joram King of Iſrael for that end, which he lookt upon as a deſign of the Syrian to pick a quarrel, and ſeek occaſion of War; and being ſollicitous about it, the Prophet ſignify'd to the King, That if Naaman would come to him, he ſhould know there was a God in Iſrael. The Syrian going to the Prophet's door with a great Retinue, he ſent him word to go and waſh ſeven times in Jordan; which Naaman taking as a ſlight, went away in a rage; but being prevail'd upon by his Servants to obey, was cleans'd, and return'd to acknowledge the Prophet's kindneſs, and his being convinc'd that the God of Iſrael was the only true God. 2 Kings 5.

NAAS, a Barony and Town in the Province of Lemſter and County of Kildare in Ireland. Long. 7. 9. Lat. 55. 37.

NAASSON, one of the Anceſtors, according to the Fleſh, of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; he was the Son of Aminadab, and Prince of the Tribe of Judah ſoon after their departure out of Egypt. Numb. 1. 7. Matth. 1. 4.

NAB, Lat. Nabus, a River of Franconia; which paſſing through the upper Palatinate, empties it ſelf into the Danube, above Ratisbon.

NABAL, a rich Jew, that dwelt near Carmel in Judæa, whom David, for his churliſh and ungratefull Behaviour to him, deſign'd to have kill'd, but was hindred by the prudent interpoſition and preſents of his Wife Abigail, whom David afterwards Married about An. M. 2977. 1 Sam. 25. from ver. 2. to 43. Salian. Sponde.

NABARZANES, one of Darius's Generals, who Commanded the Horſe in the Right Wing at the Streights of Cilicia; he Conſpir'd with Beſſus againſt Darius, with this Reſolution, That if Alexander purſued 'em, they would deliver up the King, and ſo make their terms; and if he did not, that they would kill Darius, uſurp the Government, and renew the War. They perform'd the Latter, and Nabarzanes was afterwards reconcil'd to Alexander. Diodor. Q. Curt.

NABATHEANS, a People of Arabia Petræa. St. Iſidore ſuppoſeth 'em to have their Original and Name from Nebajoth, Iſmael's Firſt-born, Gen. 25. 12. Their Country had Arabia Deſerta on the Eaſt, Palæſtin on the Weſt, Arabia Fœlix on the South, and Syria on the North. This was the People whom Gabinius defeated, according to Joſephus. Strab. Plin.

NABIS, a Tyrant of Lacedæmon, infamous for his Cruelty. He wag'd War with the Romans, but was defeated by L. Quintius, who forc'd him to more Moderation; and taking Argos left him only Lacedæmon, where he was kill'd not long after. Florus. Livy. Polybius.

NABONASSAR, the firſt King of the Chaldæans, or Babylonians, after the Diviſion of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, famous in Hiſtory for his Epocha; the beginning of which Petavius fixeth in the Year 3237. Torniel. Spondanus and Salian, with others, fix it on the 3306, beginning on Wedneſday, Feb. 26. in the 3967. of the Julian Period, 747 before Chriſt; the firſt of the Eighth Olympiad, and the Sixth of Rome, being not finiſh'd: Spanheim concurrs with 'em; adding, That it was 265 after the Building of Solomon's Temple, and the Eleventh of Jotham King of Judah. Certain it is, that the beginning of this new Empire of the Chaldæans is very obſcure; and all that, by way of Conjecture, we know concerning it, is, That the Babylonians being revolted from under the Government of the Medes, who had overthrown the Aſſyrian Monarchy, did, under the Conduct of Nabonaſſar, Governor of the Medes, lay the foundation of a Dominion, which was very much increas'd afterwards under Nebuchadnezzar. It ſeems moſt probable that this Nebonaſſar is that Baladan mention'd in 2 Kings 20. 12. the Father of Merodach, or Berodach, whom Ptolemy calls Mardokempade, the ſame that ſent Embaſſadors to Hezekiah, 2 Kings 20. NABONNIDES, Nabonnadius, Nabonnidocus, or Labinet King of Babylon, to whom theſe Names are given by Prophane Authors; who having kill'd Belſhazzar, the laſt of Nebuchadnezzar's Race, Reign'd 17 years at Babylon. The Aſtronomical Canon, Beroſus, Joſephus, Sulpitius Severus, St. Maximus, Scaliger, Petavius, and divers others, ſuppoſe him to be the ſame with Darius the Mede, who kill'd Belſhazzar at the Banquet of Wine, Dan. 6. But Joſephus, Torniel, Hierom and Uſher think him to be the laſt of Nebuchadnezzar's Race, and him whom the Scripture calls Belſhazzar, Jer. 27. 7. Dan. 7. 5. in the 209 Year of Nabonaſſar.

NABOTH, a Native of Jezreel, whoſe Vineyard Ahab coveted; and being diſcontented, becauſe he could not have it, Jezebel his Wife ſuborn'd falſe Witneſſes, who ſwore Treaſon againſt Naboth; whereupon he was ſton'd to Death, and Ahab took Poſſeſſion of his Vineyard An. M. 3123. but Elijah meeting him there, charg'd him with the Murther, and propheſied his Deſtruction. 1 Kings 21. Torniel.

NADAB, and Abihu, the Sons of Aaron, who preſuming to offer ſtrange Fire before the Lord, were devour'd by a Fire that went forth from him, A. M. 2545. Lev. 10 from v. 1. to 8. Torniel.

NADAB, King of Iſrael, ſucceeded his Father Jeroboam, A. M. 3081, and following his wicked courſes, was, after two years Reign, kill'd by Baaſha, one of his Generals, who uſurp'd his Throne. 1 Kings 15. 25. to 29.

NADASTI (Francis) Preſident of the Soveraign Council of Hungary, being diſguſted at the Emperor's refuſal to create him Palatine of that Kingdom, conſpir'd with the Counts, Serini, Frangipani, and Ragotski, and begun the Revolt there in 1665. He corrupted a Joyner to fire the Palace which he was repairing, that during the Conſternation, he might kill or take the Emperor. The Palace was accordingly burnt, Feb. 23. 1668. but Nadaſti fail'd in his deſign. After this he invited the Emperor and Court to divert themſelves with the Fiſhing of Puttendorf, Apr. 5. 1668. againſt which time he had order'd his Cook to prepare a Pigeon-pye, which the Emperor loved, and to poyſon it; but herein he was prevented by his Counteſs. In 1669. and 1670, he poyſoned the Wells, whence the Emperor had his Water; but alſo without ſucceſs. At laſt Nagiferents, Secretary of the Plot, being taken with his Papers about him, Anno 1670. Nadaſti gather'd together 500 Men to Conduct him to Venice; but was ſurpriz'd in his Bed, and brought to Vienna, where he acknowledged his Crime, and Petitioned the Emperor to ſpare his innocent Children, and content himſelf with his Puniſhment. During his Impriſonment, a Letter was intercepted to the Grand Vizier at Adrianople, ſeal'd with his Seal, which he denied nevertheleſs. On the 30*th* of April, 1671, he was beheaded according to Sentence, his Eſtate confiſcated, his Children degraded, and his Corps expos'd to the Publick for a Days time; after which he was Interr'd. His Children quitting his Name and Arms, took that of Crutzemberg.——The Counts Serini and Frangipani were alſo Condemned for Conſpiring with him to deliver the Kingdom of Hungary into other Hands. Hiſt. of the Troubles of Hungary.

NADER, a great City in the Empire of the Mogul, between Seronge and Agra, built round a Mountain which has a Fort on the top. The Houſes are generally Thatch'd, and but one Story high, except the better ſort, which are of two. A River waſhes it on three ſides, and then falls into the Ganges. Tavernier.

NADIN, a Fortreſs of the County of Zara in Dalmatia, which Solyman II. took by Compoſition: But in 1647, General Piſani re-took it for the Venetians, who afterwards yielded it again to the Turks. In 1682, the Inhabitants quitted and burnt it in the Night, and laid the fault upon the Mortlacks. In 1683, Mehemet Aga, at the Head of 150 Horſe, march'd to Nadin with a deſign to take Poſſeſſion of it once more for the Grand Signior: But a conſiderable Number of the Subjects of the Republick having notice of his intention, prevented him, by putting themſelves into the Place. Coronelli's Deſcription of the Morea.

NÆNIA, a Heathen Goddeſs, to whom the Romans built a Temple without the City, near the Gate call'd Viminalis, and ſuppoſed her to preſide over the Dolefull Ditties which were uſed to be ſung at Funerals in honour of the Dead, to Flutes and other Inſtruments, by Women that were hired for this Service, and call'd Præficæ. Theſe Funeral Ditties, if we believe Horace, lib. II. Ode I. were firſt invented by Simonides, a Greek Lyrick, and called Næniæ from the Name of the Goddeſs that had the care of 'em; which word, ſome think, was firſt uſed, becauſe it naturally expreſſeth the Dolefull whining Tone of their Funeral Singſters: Whence the word is ſtill uſed to ſignifie fooliſh Songs and idle Tales. The Flutes at the Funerals of both Greeks and Romans were not only uſed to accompany the Voice of thoſe who ſung the Næniæ in praiſe of the Dead, but alſo to point out the Time when the Aſſiſtants were to ſtrike their Breaſts in token of their ſorrow, for theſe Knockings were to be perform'd in Cadence with the Muſick of the Flutes. *Varro de Vet. NAGAYA, a part of Tartary, upon the Sea of Sala or the Caſpian. In 1400 the Weſtern part of Tartary was divided into two Kingdoms, whereof the one was call'd Zavolh on the further ſide of the River Volga; and the other Crim, or Precops, on this ſide the River, near the Sea of Zabache. The Kingdom of Zavolh was afterwards divided into three great Hords or Bands, viz. that of Nagaya, Caſan, and Aſtracan. Nagaya is tributary to the Emperor of Ruſſia. Hornius. Tavernier's Travels into Perſia. The Naga Tartars inhabit on the Eaſt-ſide of the Wolga in Aſia, over-againſt the Kingdom of Caſan, as far as the River Jayesk, which falls into the Caſpian Sea. They are ſubject to three Dukes, Scharayezk, Naga and Siberia. The Country is full of Woods, except the Dutchy of Scharayezk, which is more Champian. To the Eaſt of theſe lie the Jurgenezii, and next them the Great Cham, who has lately Conquered China. In 1558, 100000 of this People periſh'd by Sword, Famine and Plague, during their Civil Wars; before which they flouriſhed, and were divided into many Hords, each of which had a Prince of their own, called Murſe. They have no Towns, but live in Tents, and remove with their Flocks, where they can find Paſture; and for this reaſon their Tents have Wheels, and are drawn by Chamels. They have no Money, but Barter one Commodity for another. Learning nor Manufacture they have none, and their greateſt Wealth is their Cattel. They have no Corn nor Bread, nor do they deſire it. Since the Civil War above-mentioned, the Country is almoſt deſolate, to the great ſatisfaction of the Ruſſians, to whom they were troubleſome Neighbours. They were ſo pinch'd with Famine in their Civil War, that they offered their Children to Sale for 6 d. Worth of Proviſions; and ſo many of them died of Hunger about Aſtracan, that the ſtench of their Corps infected the Air, and occaſioned a Plague. Jenkinſon in Hackluit To. 1. p. 325.

NAGIVANIA, a Town of Tranſilvania, ſix Miles Weſt of Biſtiſz, having Silver Mines belonging to it.

NAGUNNER, one of the Weſtern Iſles of Scotland, abounding with Wood and Rabbets. It lies near the Iſle of Sky. Buch.

NAHASH, King of the Ammonites, having Beſieged Jabeſh Gilead, would not grant the Inhabitants any other terms but their Lives, upon condition that they ſhould ſubmit to the putting out of their Right Eyes. NAJAC, a Town of France in Roüergue, ſituate upon the River Aveirou, between Ville Franche in Roüergue, and St. Antonin, is famous for the Vitriol made there, and was of Note in the Civil Wars.

NAIADES, Nymphs of Fountains and Rivers which were worſhipped by the Heathens.

NAJARA, or Nagara, a City of Spain in Old Caſtile, formerly an Epiſcopal See, of whoſe Biſhop mention is made in an Act of the Year 1102. This City is honour'd with the Title of a Dutchy, is 30 Leagues North-Weſt of Saragoza, and 18 North-Eaſt of Burgos, Memorable for the Battle betwixt Peter King of Portugal, and Henry King of Caſtile, An. 1356. Wherein the latter was Victorious; and becauſe the French aſſiſted his Enemy in Memory of the Victory, he Inſtituted the Knights of the Flower de Lys. Mariana.

NAIBODA, or Naibod (Valentine) Native of Cologne, liv'd towards the end of the XVI. Century. He was a Perſon of Learning, and more particularly excell'd in Mathematicks and Aſtronomy. He Travelled into Italy, and taking up his Abode at Padua, he there writ his Commentaries upon Ptolemy; beſides which, he alſo writ Aſtronomicarum Inſtitutionum Libri III. Commentaria in Alchabitium, in Sphæram Joannis à Sacro Boſco, &c. There is a remarkable Story of him, that diſcourſing with his Friends, he told them, That he ſhould die ere long of a ſudden Death, and that he was fully perſwaded of it by his own Nativity, which he had Calculated not long before. His Friends laugh'd at him for his Credulity; but however, five or ſix Months after he was miſs'd on a ſudden. It was conceiv'd at firſt that he was gone ſome Journey; but the Perſon where he lodged hearing nothing of him in a long time, broke open his Chamber-door, where, to his great aſtoniſhment, he found the Body of Naibod half rotten on the ground. NAILLAC (Philibert de) the 33 Grand Maſter of the Order of St. John of Jeruſalem, whoſe Convent at that time time was at Rhodes. He ſucceeded in 1396 to Ferdinand of Heredia; he was a French-man, and great Prior of Aquitain; Sigiſmond King of Hungary having demanded his aſſiſtance againſt Bajazet, he joyned the Chriſtian Army with the Flower of his Knights in 1396; at which time the French Knights advancing too far amongſt the Janizaries of Bajazet's Guard, were ſurrounded by 'em, and cut to pieces; but the Grand Maſter made his retreat with great Courage and Conduct, and accompanied King Sigiſmond to Rhodes, where he treated him with Royal Magnificence. Bajazet afterwards approaching Conſtantinople to Beſiege it, whilſt the Emperor was gone to demand Succour in France, the Empreſs fearing the worſt, ſent the Jewels of the Empire to the Grand Maſter for him to keep. And at the ſame time Theodorus Porphyrogeneta, Deſpot of Morea, Duke of Sparta, and Brother of the Emperor of Conſtantinople, being affrighted with the News of the Turks appearing before that City, came to Rhodes, and ſold to the Order the Deſpotat of Sparta and Corinth for a great Summ of Money; but the Biſhop of Sparta fearing to be ſubject to the Latin Church, ſtirr'd up the People to an Inſurrection; whereupon the Lordſhip of Corinth was again reſtor'd to the Deſpot. As ſoon as Bajazet had rais'd the Siege of Conſtantinople, the Grand Maſter return'd the Jewels he had been intruſted with; and ſome time after having prepar'd a Fleet, he took a ſtrong Caſtle from the Turks, on the Coaſt of Caria, which was built upon the Ruins of Halicarnaſſus, anciently the Capital of that Kingdom, which he fortified and call'd St. Peter's Caſtle. In 1403, the Grand Maſter mediated a Peace between the King of Cyprus and the Commonwealth of Genoa; the Sultan of Egypt ſent an Ambaſſador to Rhodes, who concluded a Truce; during which, there was a free Commerce betwixt the Subjects of the Sultan and the Chriſtians of the Latin Church; and the Grand Maſter obtained leave for ſix Knights of the Order to have their Abode in the ancient Hoſpital of St. John of Jeruſalem, to give Entertainment to all Pilgrims, and to Wall in the Holy Sepulchre. In 1409, Naillac, aſſiſted at the Council of Piſa, and was entruſted with the Keys of the Conclave; and after the Election of Pope Alexander V. he Held a General Chapter at Aix in Provence. In 1417, the Sultan of Egypt demanded his Aſſiſtance againſt the Turks, who had Invaded him; and accordingly he ſent him two Gallies, but with a ſtrict Charge to the Captain, not to ſet any of his Men aſhoar, becauſe he was at Peace with the Turk by Land, though not by Sea: He died in 1421, at Rhodes, having been Grand Maſter 25 years; his Succeſſor was Antonius Flavianus. Boſio's Hiſtory of the Order of St. John of Jeruſalem.

NAILOR (James) was born in the Dioceſs of York. After he had ſerved as a Quarter-Maſter for ſome time in Colonel Lambert's Regiment, he for Conſcience-ſake quitted the Army, and embraced the Principles of the People called Quakers, and was a Faithfull Labourer in the Word and Doctrine of Eternal Life, while he abode in the ſimplicity of the Goſpel: but for want of Watchfulneſs, and Obedience to God, and diligent Minding the Reproof of Life, he was exalted with ſtrange Imaginations, and Death and Darkneſs prevailing over him, he gave way to thoſe Ranting, Wild Spirits, which gathered about him, in the Night of his great Temptation. Whereupon he rode into Briſtol in the year 1656, a Man and a Woman holding his Horſe by the Reins, and ſome others following after, and ſinging, Holy, Holy, Holy Lord God of Sabbath. A Thing, that as he himſelf afterwards declared, he never Intended. The Magiſtrates of Briſtol ſeized, and ſent him to the Parliament, who Tried and Condemned him, as a Blaſphemer and ſeducer of the People, to have his Tongue bored with an Hot Iron, to be Marked in the Forehead with the Letter B to ſignify a Blaſphemer, then to be Carried back to Briſtol, where he ſhould make his Entry on Horſe-back, with his Face towards the Tail, all which were Executed, and born by him with wonderful Patience, and then to be caſt into Priſon there to ſpend the Remainder of his Days. For which Actions of his, the People called Quakers diſowned him, and Condemned all thoſe Extravagancies; and ſo did he himſelf by Diverſe Papers, which he Publiſhed after his Return to the Lord, through Deep Repentance and Humiliation. Upon which, and his Publick Recantation, he the ſaid James Nailor was received again, by the ſaid People called Quakers, into the Society with them; and having obtained his Inlargement he publickly Preached among them in London, and Diverſe

Parts of this Nation, untill near the Time of his Death in Huntington-ſhire in the year 1660. ☞ Note that the foregoing Account of this famous Impoſtor, was given in by the Quakers.

NAIN, or Nain, an ancient City of Palæſtina in Galilee near to Mount Tabor, wholly ruin'd, and contains only at preſent ſome few Cottages of the wild Arabs. It was here that our Saviour rais'd to Life the only Son of a Widow, as he was carried out to be buried. Luke 7. 11, 12, 13, 14, 15.

NAKSIVAN, Naxivan, Naxuana, a City of Armenia Major, three Leagues from Mount Ararat, and ſeven from the River Araxis, on the Borders of Perſia and Turky. Its Name is derived from Nak a Ship, and Sivan ſignifying Dwelling or Abode, in their Language, becauſe they alledge that the Ark reſted in their Neighbourhood, and that Naoh Founded this City at his coming out of it; and conſequently, that it is the eldeſt City of the World: They do alſo confidently affirm, that Noah was buried here. It is ſtill a great City, but was much more flouriſhing before it was ruined by the Army of Amurath, Emperor of the Turks. There are ſtill to be ſeen the Remains of many fair Moſques, which the Turks have demoliſhed, becauſe they had been uſed by the Perſians; for the Followers of Abubeker and Hali's Diſciples will not enter one anothers Moſques; and therefore they deſtroy them. This City is the Capital of one part of Armenia, and is Governed by a Cham. The Armenians formerly drove a great Trade here with Silks, which begins of late to be revived. Amongſt other Monuments of Antiquity, there is that of a great Moſque, one of the moſt Magnificent and Sumptuous of Aſia, and ſuppoſed to be built in Memory of Noah's Sepulchre. In going out of the City is a Tower of very curious Architecture, conſiſting of four Domes join'd together, which ſupport a kind of Pyramid, that ſeems to be compos'd of twelve Spires, but about the midſt ſhews only four Sides; which leſſening by degrees, do end in a ſharp point. The whole Building is of Brick, curiouſly Varniſh'd within and without, and Adorned with Flowers and other Emboſs'd Figures. They ſay it was Erected by Tamerlan, when he Conquer'd Perſia. Between Nakſivan and Zulfa are ten Convents of Armenian Chriſtians, who have each of them an adjoining Village. They did own the Pope, and their Archbiſhop when Elected, uſed to go to Rome for his Confirmation; but they are turn'd again to their own Patriarch, though the Pope procur'd great Favour to thoſe who owned him as Head, by his Embaſſy to the Court of Perſia in 1664; about which time this City ſuffered very much by the Turks, who of 40000 Houſes ſcarcely left 2000 ſtanding. One of theſe Villages called Kiſouk, near the Frontiers of Curdiſtan, is very famous amongſt the Armenians, who ſuppoſe that St. Bartholomew and St. Matthew ſuffered Martyrdom there, of whom, they ſay, they have ſtill ſome Relicks; to which even divers of the Mahometans, troubled with Fevers, do alſo reſort. There are two or three of theſe Convents where the European Chriſtians are kindly entertain'd, notwithſtanding that the Religious are very poor, by reaſon of the Tyranny and Oppreſſion of their Governors, to whom they are forc'd to make frequent Preſents. This City ſtands in a fruitful Soil. Long. 81. 34. Lat. 38. 40. Tavernier. Chardin.

NAMAQUAS, a ſort of Caffres, diſcovered by the Hollanders in 1661, near the Cape of good Hope. They are naturally white, but dye their Skins black to beautifie themſelves, as they imagine. Dapper's Deſcription of Africa.

NAMAZ, the Name of a Prayer which the Turks repeat five times every day; viz. between Day-break and Sun-riſing, at Noon, between Noon and Sun-ſet, after Sun-ſet, and an Hour and half after the beginning of Night. Ricaut's Hiſt. of the Ottoman Empire.

NAMNES, a King of the Ancient Gauls, Son of Galatæus II. Some from the Conformity of Names ſuppoſe him to have been the Founder of the Colony of the Nannetes, and the City of Nantes. Dupleix's Memoirs of the Gauls.

NAMUR, a City and Biſhoprick of the Spaniſh Netherlands, the Capital of the Earldom of Namur, which is one of the ſeventeen Provinces. The County of Namur lies between Hainault, Brabant, Luxemburg, and the Country of Liege. It is but of a ſmall extent, and Mountainous, and water'd with the Maes and the Sambre, being about twelve Leagues in length, and ſomewhat leſs in breadth. It hath ſeveral Mines of Lead and Iron, Quarries of divers ſorts of Marble, and Pits of Stone-coal. Its Cities beſides Namur, are Bovines, Charlemont, Valcour, Til-le-Chateau and Charleroy, with about 180 Villages, and many fair Monaſteries. The City of Namur, Lat. Namurcum, ſituate upon the Sambre, and near to the Maes, lies between two Mountains, and hath a very ſtrong Caſtle. The Cathedral, Dedicated to St. Aubin, was built in 1569, and the Biſhoprick is under the Archbiſhop of Cambray; beſides the Cathedral, there is alſo the Collegiate Church of our Lady; there was another of St. Peter, which is now United to that of St. Alban: Beſides which, it hath ſeveral other Churches, and Monaſteries, and fair Buildings, and is a rich and pleaſant City. The Council-Royal of the Province reſides here, from which they appeal to that of Malines. Pontus Heuterus de Belg. Gram. Namurcum. This City is divided by the River Sambre, over which it has two fair Stone-bridges. It has a large and handſome Market-place, a ſtately Guild-hall, and abundance of good Stone-buildings: It is by ſome thought to derive its Name from Nanus, one of the Heathen Oracles, which was ſtruck Dumb here at the Coming of Chriſt; or according to others, it took Name from Novo Muro, a New Wall built here by the Romans: It is 9 Miles South of Louvain, 10 Eaſt of Bruſſels, and 7 North of Philipville. In 1692, the Strength of the Place being diſcovered to the French by the Treacherous Baron de Breſſe, who, under pretence of being taken, did actually deſart the Spaniſh Service, Lewis XIV. with 80000 Men, ſat down before it, Luxemburg Covering the Siege with another great Army. The Town was taken after a few days Reſiſtance, a Parly being beat by a Drummer, who was put in Cuſtody for doing it, becauſe he refuſed to diſcover who Commanded him; So that there was undoubtedly Treachery within. While the French continued to Beſiege the Caſtle, King William IIId. of Great Britain, March'd with 80000 men to its relief, and came in ſight of the Duke of Luxemburg, with only the River Mehaign remaining between them, and the Confederates made themſelves ſo far maſters of the River, that the French Soldiers could not come for a drop of Water to it, ſo that the King gave immediate orders to build Bridges on it, in order to paſs it next Day to attack the Enemy, which was ſo ordered, that the Army might move in a Front at the ſame time, but the great Rains that began to fall that Evening, and continued for ſeveral days, rendred this glorious undertaking abortive, ſo that the Caſtle was ſurrendred on the 30th of June to the French, and herein alſo there was Treachery ſuſpected. The ſecond Seige of this place in the Year 1695, will make one of the moſt glorious actions in the Annals of time, conſidering there were ſo many additional fortifications to it, that it was really accounted impregnable by the French themſelves, who had an Army of about 15000, furniſhed with all neceſſaries within it, and a Marſhal of France to Command them, yet the Confederates under the Command of William IIId. King of England made themſelves Maſters of it, in the ſight of a French Army without of 100000 Men, under the Duke de Villeroy, that came up to relieve it, the ſame being on the 24th. of Auguſt intirely delivered into their hands.

NANCHANG, a City of China, formerly very conſiderable, but now in a manner wholly laid waſte by the Tartarian War; it is ſituate in the Province of Chiamſi. Martin. Atlas Sinicus.

NANCI, Lat. Nancium, or Nanceium, the Capital City of Lorrain; and the ancient Reſidence of the Dukes, lies about 100 Paces from the Bank of the River Meurte, in the midſt of a large Plain, which is a great Ornament to it. It is divided into two Parts; the Upper or Old Town, and the Lower or New Town; its Situation, Buildings, fair Streets, and great Squares, contribute to make it very pleaſant. The Old City is diſtinguiſhed from the New by its Ditches and other Fortifications; which latter hath a large Square, faced with ſtately Buildings after the modern manner, and opens upon three large Streets. In this Part are alſo the Courts of Judicature, the Town-houſe, ſeveral Churches and Monaſteries, and a College of Jeſuits. The Old Town contains the Pariſh Church of St. Epurus, and the Old Palace of the Dukes of Lorrain; the Entrance whereof is very ſtately, and leads to a very fair Court or Square, ſurrounded with Piazza's, and adorn'd with large Towers; embelliſh'd with Figures and Baſs-Reliefs; one of the Towers ſerves for an Arſenal, and the reſt for Stair-caſes. The Garden is very curious, and ſtands on a Baſtion, in the place where formerly was the City-wall. The City of Nanci hath four Gates, a Chamber of Accompts and High-Court of Judicature, &c. It hath been often beſieged and taken. Charles the laſt Duke of Burgundy took it in 1475, from Renatus Duke of Lorrain, who re-took it again in October 1476. Charles not being able to ſuffer this affront, laid Seige to it, but loſt his Life, and the Battle before it, in January the year following. There is an Old Chappel near to the River Meurte, where the Particulars of that Battle are Engraven on a Copper-plate. The French took it in 1631. It was Diſmantled in 1661; but ſince that hath been Fortified again. This place by the Peace of Reſwyck, with his Country has been reſtored to the Duke of Lorrain, but the Ramparts and Baſtions of the New City, with the whole exteriour Fortifications of both New and Old, to be entirely raſed and never re-built.

NANGAZACHI, a great City of Japan, with a commodious Haven in the Iſland Ximo, and Province of Figin, ſeparated from the Continent by Water 40 Foot broad, over which is a Draw-bridge, where Pope Sixtus V. Erected an Epiſcopal See under the Archbiſhop of Goa; but at preſent it has no Biſhop, though report ſaith there be ſtill many Chriſtians in it.

NANI (John Baptiſta) a Noble Venetian, Procurator of St. Mark, was the Son of John Nani, who was poſſeſſed of the ſame Dignity, and of Marina Landi. He was born the 13th. of Auguſt 1616. He ſerved his Country very faithfully in divers negotiations, and twice procured Succours from France, during the War of Candia ; wherefore, in conſideration of his good Services done to the Republick, he was made Procurator of St. Mark ; and not long after, in 1663, he was choſen Captain-General of the Fleet ; but the Sea-air not agreeing with him, he was excuſed from that Employment. Cardinal Mazarine, firſt Miniſter of France, entertained him frequently at his Houſe, where Nani Projected the Plan, and gave in the meaſures for the Peace of Europe, ſo that his advices may be ſaid to have contributed very much to the ſettling the Treaty of Munſter in 1648. And the Senate having recommended to him the Care of Writing the Hiſtory of Venice ; he undertook the Work, and writ the Firſt Part, which is highly eſteem'd throughout all Europe ; and the Second Part was begun to be Printed when Nani died the 5th of November 1678, in the 63 Year of his Age. He hath Compoſed ſeveral other Pieces, that are not yet publiſhed ; as, the Paraphraſe of Lucan's Pharſalia ; Animadverſions on Tacitus his Annals, ſeveral diſcourſes, &c. He was named to aſſiſt at the Conferences of the Treaty of Nimeguen, but the Spaniards would not allow of it. See his Elogy amongſt thoſe of Learned Men, by Lorenzo Craſſo.

NANNINI (Remigius) a Dominican of Florence, a Celebrated Preacher and Divine. Pope Pius Vth. order'd him to come to Rome, to Overſee the Edition of Thomas Aquinas. Nannini wrote ſeveral Tracts, the moſt conſiderable of which, is his Comment upon the whole Bible, in which he gives a Hiſtory of the moſt eminent Perſons, of Plants, Animals, Precious Stones, Rivers, Mountains, &c. mention'd in the Holy Scriptures. He dy'd at Venice in 1581. Ghilini, &c.

NANNIUS (Petrus) Canon of Arras, and Profeſſor in the Univerſity of Lovain, was born at Alkmaer in Holland in 1500. He was a Perſon of great Parts, excellent Memory, and a very ſweet Temper. His works ſhow him to have been a good Critick, excellent Grammarian, able Orator, and a great Divine, Lawyer and Mathematician. He hath left behind him ſeveral Orations, and Notes upon moſt of the Claſſical Authors ; as likewiſe upon divers Treatiſes of the Fathers ; beſides Miſcellaneorum ſive Συμμικτῶν Decas. De Claris Romæ Corneliis. Scholia in Cantica, in Sapientiam. Annotationes in Inſtitutiones Juris Civilis, &c. Petrus Nannius was Profeſſor 18 Years at Lovain, where he died the 21ſt. of July 1557. in the 57th. Year of his Age. Le Mire. Valer. Andr. Melchior Adam. Paulus Jovius.

NANQUIN, Nanking or Nanchin, a great Province of China, North Latitude about 31 ; Longitude 145 ; with a City of the ſame Name, which is alſo called Kiangnang. The Province of Nanquin is divided into 14 Parts, and in every one of them a great City, which again have under them about 110 leſs Conſiderable Cities. That of Nanquin is the Capital, and was formerly the Ordinary Reſidence of the Court, becauſe of the beauty and ſumptuouſneſs of its Buildings, and the fruitfulneſs of its Soil. It ſtands upon the River of Kiang, and contained the Palace of the Emperors of China, which the Tartars have ruined. This Province hath beſtowed its Name on the Gulph or Bay of Nanquin ; which the Portugueſe call Enſeada de Nanquin. Martini Atlas Sinicus & Hiſtor.

NANSBERG, a Mountain of the County of Tyrol, three Miles from Trent : It is 12 Miles long and 3 Miles broad, contains 350 Pariſh-Churches and 32 Caſtles, abounds with Salt, Spice, and all manner of neceſſaries. Munſter.

NANTERRE, Lat. Nemptodurum and Nemetodurum, a Town in the Iſle of France, two Leagues from Paris, between that City and St. Germain, and near to the River Seyne. A great Aſſembly was held here of the Prelates and Nobles of the Kingdom, in order to the Baptizing of King Clotharius II. An. 591. Gregor. of Tours.

NANTES, Lat. Nannetæ, Nannetum, Condovicum, a City of France in Upper Britany, upon the Rivers Loire and Ardre ; the Situation whereof is ſo agreeable and commodious, as well with relation to Commerce, as for the pleaſantneſs of the Country ; ſurrounding it, that nothing ſeems to be wanting ; either for Pleaſure or Riches. It hath the Title of an Earldom annexed to it, and is a Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Tours. It had at firſt Earls of its own, and ſince that hath been the Reſidence of the Dukes of Britany. Beſides the Biſhops See, there is a Sovereign Court, Chamber of Accompts, and Univerſity. The City is very ſtrong, and hath a very fair Caſtle ; the River Loire provides it with a very large Haven ; and here receives the River Andre, and contributes much to the great Commerce that is driven here, as well as the Tide, which brings up not only the greateſt Barges, but ſmall Ships alſo, the greater being forc'd to Ride 4 Leagues below Nantes. This City hath ſuffered much upon ſeveral occaſions. Neomenus deſcended of the ancient Kings of Britany, made himſelf Soveraign of that Province, after the bloody Battle of Fontenay A. C. 841. And at the Sollicitation of Count Lambert, being enraged, becauſe Charles the Bald had beſtowed the City of Nantes on Reinold Earl of Poictiers, perſwades Neomenus to rebell, and with his aſſiſtance kill'd Reinold, and took the City of Nantes ; but Neomenus afterwards falling out with him, drove him from the City ; whereupon Lambert, aſſiſted by the Normans, ſurprized the Town by Night A. C. 844. kill'd moſt of the Inhabitants, who were fled for ſafety into St. Peter's Church, and Murther'd the Biſhop that was ſaying Maſs at the High Altar, and carried away with him all thoſe that were left alive. A. C. 851. Lambert a ſecond time took this City. Neomenus died not long after, and King Charles the Bald gave the City of Nantes to Heriſpoux his Son. In this City Henry IV. publiſht the Edict of Nantes in ſavour of the Proteſtants of his Kingdom in the Month of April 1598, which ſome Years ago was revok'd by the preſent King Lewis XIV. in 1685. Argent. Hiſtor. Britan. Auguſtin de Pas. Du Cheſne. Sincerus. S. Marth. Pope Vitalian held a Council at Nantes in 658. We have alſo 20 Canons of a Council celebrated in this City, which according to the common opinion, were made in 895, under Pope Formoſus ; but it ſeems more probable they were Enacted in the Council before mentioned of 658. Another Council was held here in 1127, in the Pontificate, of Honorius II. as appears from the 65 and 66 Epiſtle of that Pope. Vincentius de Pilenis, Archbiſhop of Tours, held a Synod here in 1263, or 64. And Gabriel de Beauvau, Biſhop of this City, publiſhed Synodal-Ordinances here in 1642.

NANTWICH, a Market-Town of Nantwich Hundred, in the South Parts of Cheſhire. It ſtands on the Eaſt-ſide of the River Wener, and is next to Cheſter for Greatneſs and Beauty. Here is made great plenty of white Salt, the beſt in England : It lies upon the Road from London to Cheſter. The Market is on Saturday abundantly provided with Corn, Cattle, and other Proviſions, and is diſtant from London 126 Miles.

NAPÆÆ, Nymphs of Woods and Foreſts, according to the Opinion of the Heathens, from the Word, Νάπος, which ſignifies a Wood or a Valley covered with Trees. Servius.

NAPHTALI, a ſtrong City of the Tribe of that Name in the Land of Canaan, on the Dotham, North-Weſt of Sephet, and South-Eaſt of Bethſaida, mentioned 1 Kings 4. Tobias is ſaid to have been Born here, and carried thence with the 10 Tribes, by Salmanaſſer, King of Aſſyria, in the 6th. Year of Hezekiah, King of Judah. Tobit 1. 2 Kings 17.18.

NAPIER (Archibald) of Marchiſtone in Scotland, a profound Scholar, and of great Worth : His Logarythms have rendred him famous throughout the whole World. He wrote alſo an Expoſition of the Revelation, and died in 1622.

NAPLES, Lat. Neapolis, a great and fair City of Italy, which is the Capital of the Kingdom of Naples. The Italians call it Napoli, and the Spaniards Napoles. Its Name at firſt was Parthenopea, from a Sirene ſo called. See Silius Italicus lib. 12. Though Naples be but accounted the third City in Italy for its Bigneſs, yet for its Strength and Beauty it may well be accounted the firſt ; wherefore alſo the Italians give it the name of Gentille, Gentile or Noble : It boaſts not without reaſon of excelling all the Cities of Italy for Beauty, or at leaſt for its Inhabitants and Situation ; which is ſo pleaſant, that it allures all the Nobility of the Kingdom ; having on one ſide a moſt fertile and delightful Country ; and on the other the proſpect of the open Sea, which affords it a very ſafe Haven. The ancient Romans had ſo high an eſteem for the Goodneſs of the Air about this City, that moſt of the Men of Quality had their Country-houſes in the Neighbourhood of it. There are few Cities in Europe that have more Churches than Naples. The Metropolis is Dedicated to St. January, being one of the 14 Patrons of the City. In this Church is a Chappel built after the Modern way, which is very beautiful and ſumptuous, as well by reaſon of its Statues of Braſs as by its extraordinary Painting. The Church alſo hath a Dome painted by Dominichino. The Egg-Caſtle, ſo called, becauſe it ſtands upon a Rock of an Oval form in the Sea, was built by William III. a Norman. There is alſo the New-Caſtle, built by Charles I. of France, and enlarged by Ferdinand of Arragon, which contains the Palace of the Governor, and a vaſt Magazine, ſtor'd with all manner of Warlike Inſtruments and Arms. The Caſtle of St. Elmo is a Fort that overlooks the City, being b[illegible]n a high Rock, which commands the Country round about, and was built by the E. Charles V. Beſides which, there is the Tower of the Carmelites, that of St. Vincent, and the Caſtle of Capua. The Palace of the Viceroy is very ſumptuous and beautiful ; next to which, the moſt conſiderable are thoſe of Toledo, the Urſins, Caſſignani, Caraffa, of the Princes of Sulmona, Stigliani, and thoſe of the Dukes of Atri, Matelona, Gravina, &c. The Street called La-ſtrada di Toledo, is the faireſt of all Naples, being paved with free Stone, and adorned with a great number of Palaces and Magnificent Houſes, moſt of them covered with flat Roofs, where the Inhabitants uſe to take the freſh Air in the Evening. Naples hath alſo ſeveral fair Squares, ſurrounded with Iron Baliſters, and all painted within, where the Nobility take their Walks. The Mole is an admirable Piece of Work, which runs a quarter of a Mile into the Sea, with a ſtately Pharos or Light-houſe at the end of it, where there is a Fountain of freſh water. There are two Academies of Learned Men in this City, Gl' Ardenti and Gl' Otioſi. In 1456, there was an Earthquake in this City which laſted for a Month ; and in 1528, it was Beſieged by the French, who were forced to raiſe the Siege by a Peſtilence, which conſumed above 20000 of their Men. The Kingdom of Naples is the greateſt Dominion that is in all Italy; it extends it ſelf in the form of a Peninſula, having the Ionian Sea on the Eaſt, the Gulph of Venice on the North, the Tyrrhene Sea on the South, and the Dominions of the Church on the Weſt. It is commonly divided into 12 Provinces, viz. Terra di Lavoro, the hither Principality, the further Principality, the Baſilicata, the hither Calabria, the further Calabria, Terra di Otranto, Terra di Barri, la Capitanata, the County of Moliſſo, with the hither and further Abruzzo. All theſe Provinces were ſo well Peopled, that they contained formerly no leſs than 2700 Cities, Villages or Pariſhes, though it may be at preſent ſomewhat diminiſhed. Beſides, there are in this Kingdom 23 Archbiſhopricks, about 125 Biſhopricks, 45 or 50 Principalities, 65 or 80 Dukedoms, 90 or 100 Marquiſates, 65 Earldoms, and 1000 Baronies; whereof there are about 400 that are very ancient. The moſt conſiderable Cities of this Kingdom, next to Naples, are Acerenza, Amalphi, Lanciano, Capua, Gayeta, Gravina, Conſenza, Otranto, Manfredonia, Nola, Nocera, Roſſana, Regio, Salerno, Tarento, Conza, Sorento, Brunduſium, Barri, Benevento, which belongs to the Pope, &c. The Lakes of Fundi and Averno, and the Mountains Veſuvius, Poſilippo, Falerno, are conſiderable. Its moſt noted Rivers are Volturn, Trionto, Offrant, and Galleſſe. The Air of the Country is wonderful clear and healthy, and the Soil extreamly fruitful, affording great plenty of all things; which makes the Italians ſay, That Naples is a Paradiſe inhabited by Devils; and another Proverb of theirs ſaith, Napoli Odorifera & Gentile, ma la Gente cativa; Naples is a ſweet and genteel, or noble City, but its inhabitants are Miſcreants. The Neapolitans were always very faithful to the Romans, but their Country came into the Hands of the Goths in the Vth Century. Beliſarius, the Emperor Juſtinian's General, having made his Soldiers enter by the Conduits, took Naples A. C. 537. but Totilas took it again in 543. Next the Lombards were poſſeſſed of it, till their Kingdom was deſtroyed by Charlemaigne in 774, whoſe Children ſhared this Kingdom with the Greeks, who ſometime after ſubdued the whole, but were diſpoſſeſs'd of the greateſt part of it by the Saracens in the 9th and 10th Century, who continued here until the Normans, Fierabras, Dreux, and Guiſchard Duke of Calabria and Puglia, quite drove them away in the 11th Century, and continued in Poſſeſſion of the Kingdom, till the Marriage of Henry IV. Son of the Emperor Frederick Barbaroſſa, with Conſtantia the Poſthumous Daughter of Roger, Duke of Puglia, in 1186. of which Marriage was Born Frederick II. who was the Father of Conrade, and he of Conradine; but the Kingdom of Naples ſubmitted it ſelf to Manfredus, Baſtard to Frederick the II. who was dethron'd by Charles of Anjou, Brother to St. Lewis, upon whom the Popes Urban IV. and Clement IV. had beſtowed the Inveſtiture of that Kingdom. The Princes of the Houſe of Anjou poſſeſſed this Dominion till the time of Queen Joan the II. who Adopted Alphonſus V. King of Arragon, but his Ingratitude made her afterwards declare Lewis III. Duke of Anjou her Heir; who dying, ſhe bequeathed it by her Laſt Will to Renatus of Anjou, Brother of Lewis, who took Poſſeſſion of it after the Death of Joan, but did not enjoy it long, the Arragonians making themſelves Maſters of it, who poſſeſſed it till the Conqueſt made of that Kingdom by Charles VIII. and afterwards Lewis XII. of France. But at laſt the famous Captain Gonſalvo expell'd the French under the Reign of Ferdinand, King of Spain, and ever ſince that time his Succeſſors have been Maſters of it, who do homage for it to the Pope every Year, by preſenting a White Hackney, and a Purſe with 6000 Ducats, being a Fief of the Church; becauſe the Popes had formerly chaſed the Saracens thence. The Right the See of Rome has to the Soveraignty of this Kingdom, may be ſeen in Cardinal Baronius; we may likewiſe take notice, that when the Normans, and afterwards the Princes of the Houſe of Suabia, and laſtly, the Branch of Anjou, were poſſeſs'd of this Principality, they were abſo[illegible] Lords of Sicily, as well as of the Kingdom of Naples; th[illegible]wo Principalities being then comprehended under the Name of the Kingdom of Sicily. The unjuſt Poſſeſſion, ſays Morery, of Sicily, being ſeiz'd by Peter King of Arragon, in the Year 1267. occaſion'd the Diſtinction of Sicily on this ſide, and beyond the Fare: Of the Two Sicilies, of the Kingdom of Trinacria, and of the Realm of Naples and Sicily. The Arragonian Princes making uſe of all theſe different Names, to diſtinguiſh the Two Principalities, and give ſome colour to their Invaſion. The City and Kingdom of Naples have produced many great Men, as Statius, Sannazzaro, Marini, Alexander ab Alexandro, &c. See divers Travels of Italy; and more particularly la Guida de Foraſtieri Curioſi de vedere le Coſe piu notabili della Regal Citta di Napoli, dal Abbate Sarnelli in 12°. Printed at Naples 1686. and the Treatiſe of Father Cantel the Jeſuit, intituled, Metropolitanarum Urbium Hiſtoria. It is known to all that the Neapolitans rebelled in 1646 and 1647. and that the Rebellion began in the Market-place by means of a poor Fiſher-man, called Thomas Angelo Maja; but for ſhortneſs, Maſſaniello, who for 15 Days together Commanded 200000 Men, who obeyed him without reſerve. The Number of Kings of Naples from 1055 to 1666, are 48. This City is 125 Miles South-Eaſt of Rome, and thought to have been founded by Hercules, A. M. 2725. when Tola judged Iſrael. The Chalcidians enlarged it, and the Romans took it from the Samnites about the 463 of Rome. It has a Noble Palace, formerly belonging to their Kings, but now the Reſidence of the Viceroy. It has 110 Magnificent Churches, and 100 Convents very rich and ſtately, every one of which would be thought worth the ſeeing in another place. Naples is reckoned to be ſituated the beſt of any City in this part of the World, and is one of the largeſt and moſt populous in Italy, being 7 Miles in compaſs; its Latitude is between 40 and 41. and Longitude ſomewhat more than 38. Sanſon. And beſides its advantageous ſituation betwixt the Sea and the Mountains, is guarded by four ſtrong Caſtles or Cittadels. It's not above half ſo big as London or Paris, but more beautiful than either, the Streets being large and broad, and the Pavement great and noble; the Stones of it generally a Foot ſquare. The City abounds with Palaces and great Buildings, and is well ſupplied by daily Markets, their Wine and Fleſh being reckoned the beſt in Europe. It's ſcarcely ever cold in the Winter, and the cool Breezes from the Mountains refreſh it in the Summer. The Catacombs of this City are more noble and large than thoſe of Rome, both of which Dr. Burnet proves to have been the Sepulchres of the Pagans, and not as was commonly thought, the Works of the Primitive Chriſtians. It has a very ſafe and capacious Harbor, and much frequented by all Trading Nations of Europe. The Kingdom is the richeſt in Italy; the very Mountains which compoſe near one half, producing Wine and Oyl, the latter of 'em being Exported by the Engliſh for Soap, &c. as is their Corn for Spain. The Inhabitants, eſpecially the Women, are very Superſtitious, and generally ſo Lazy, that they Starve in the midſt of Plenty; and their Clergy are Ignorant and Covetous. June the 5th and 6th, 1688. there happened an Earthquake here, which on the 6th overturned abundance of the Churches and Religious Houſes, particularly the Jeſuits Church, deſtroyed three Ships in the Harbor, and a third part of the City. It continued more or leſs to the 17th, when the Earth opened in ſeveral places, vomiting out Smoak and Flames, like Veſuvius; which ſo terrified the Inhabitants, that two Thirds of them went to ſeek new Habitations. Dr. Burnet's Travels, &c.

NAPLES, (Garnier de) Ninth Great Maſter of the Order of St. John of Jeruſalem, ſucceeded Roger de Moulins in 1187. He was born at Naples, or Napoli de Syria, and Lord of the City Crac in Arabia, which he beſtowed upon the Order, now called Montreal, and is ſituate upon the Confines of the Holy Land. It was the Capital of Arabia Petræa, in the time of the Arabian Kings; at preſent the Grand Seignior hath made a kind of Magazine of it, where he keeps the Revenues of Egypt and Arabia. There was alſo a Caſtle of the ſame Name in the Earldom of Tripoli in Syria. Garnier enjoyed this Dignity only two Months, for he died of his Wounds received in a Battel againſt Saladine, where King Guy of Luſignan was made Priſoner, with moſt of the Chief Men of his Kingdom; for finding the Army to be totally routed, he fought his way through the Enemy, and got to Aſcalon, where he died 10 Days after, and Emengardus Daps ſucceeded him. Boſio's Hiſtory of the Order of St. John of Jeruſalem.

NAPLOUSE, or Napoulouſe, a City of Palæſtina, where Garamond, Patriarch of Jeruſalem, celebrated a Council for the Reformation of Manners in 1120. as we are informed by Gulielmus Tyrius. We muſt not confound this City with Sebaſte, which was the ſame with Samaria. Napoulouſe is ſeated at the foot of Mount Gerizim. It was formerly called Sychar. See Cellarius Hiſt. Samar. c. 1.

NAPOLI DI MALVASIA: See MALVASIA.

NAPOLI DI ROMANIA, Lat. Nauplia, ſo called from Nauplius, the Son of Hercules. 'Tis ſituate on the Eaſt-ſide of the Morea, upon a Bay, to which it gives the Denomination, in the Province of Sacania, or the Leſſer Romania. It is built upon the Top of a ſmall Promontory, which is divided into Two Parts; one ſide whereof runs into the Sea, and forms a ſafe and ſpacious Haven; and the other ſide, towards the Land, renders the Paſſage to the Town almoſt inacceſſible, there being no other but a narrow and ſtony way to come to it, between the Mountain Palamida and the Sea-ſhore. The Entrance of the Haven is ſo narrow, that no more than one Galley can paſs at once; but the inſide of it is capable of a whole Fleet. This City, formerly, was a Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Corinth; but is now an Archbiſhoprick. It contains above 60000 Greeks, beſides a vaſt number of Inhabitants of other Nations. In 1205. it was taken by the French and Venetians; and a little after, King Giannoviza ſeized and plundered it. The Venetians bought it of Peter Cornaro's Widow in 1383, and defended it gallantly againſt Mahomet II. in 1460, obliging him to raiſe the Siege, as they did Solyman, Anno 1537. Two Years after they quitted it to the Grand Seignior to procure a Peace. In 1686, General Moroſini, after he had taken Navarin and Modon, ordered General Coningſmark to poſſeſs himſelf of Mount Palamida, which is within Musket-ſhot of the Town, and Commands it; and whilſt he battered it from this place, General Moroſini gave Battel to the Seraſquier, who came to relieve it; defeated him, and took Argos, their Fleet at the ſame time taking Ternis. Auguſt the 29th, the Seraſquier advanced again with 10000 Men, and fell upon the Venetians in their Trenches, where the Battel was dubious for three Hours; but at laſt the Turks fled, General Coningſmark, the Princes of Brunſwick and Turenne ſignalizing themſelves in the Action. After the Battel, the Siege was puſht on with Vigour, and the Turks capitulated to Surrender on the uſual Terms, and were conducted to Tenedos. The Venetians found in the Caſtle 17 Braſs Cannon, 7 Iron Cannon, and 1 Mortar. This City is Capital of the Morea, and was the Reſidence of the Sangiac. It is ſeated on the River Inachus, 60 Miles North-Eaſt of Miſitra, 55 North-Weſt of Athens, and 36 South of Corinth, and ſituated as well for Defence and Commerce, as any place in Europe. Latitude 35 Degrees and a half, Longitude 49. Maps, Sanſon. Coronelli Deſcript. Morea.

NARBARTH, a Market-Town of Narbarth Hundred, in the North-Weſt of Pembrokeſhire, about two Miles from the Sea.

NARBON, a City in France in Languedoc, upon the River Aude, and an Archbiſhop's See. It is one of the moſt ancient Cities of that Kingdom. The Romans ſettled a Colony here, and made it the Capital of Gallia Narbonenſis, and beſtowed ſeveral Names upon it, as Narbo, Narbona, Narbo Martius, Civitas Atacinorum, Colonia Decumanorum, &c. It is ſituate in the midſt of a low Plain, and watered by an Arm of the River Aude, which brings up Barges from the Sea, whence it is but two Leagues diſtant. The Romans had a great Eſteem for this place; for we find that Craſſus, Julius Cæſar, Tiberius, &c. did People it three ſeveral times, and beſtowed great Privileges upon it. The Pro-Conſuls had their Ordinary Reſidence here, and honoured it with a Capitol and Amphitheatre, erected Schools, built Baths, Aquaducts, &c. and fill'd it with all the Marks of the Roman Greatneſs: In acknowledgement of which Favours, the Inhabitants erected an Altar in Honour of Auguſtus, as appears by an Inſcription found in the XVIth Century. In 435, the Viſigoths beſieged this City in vain; but it was treacherouſly delivered to them in 462, by Count Agripin. And in 732, the Saracens took it from them, being admitted into the City as Friends, but ſlew all, except the King. In 736, Charles Martel took it from the Saracens; ſince which it hath been ſubject to the Crown of France. The Cathedral Church is very ancient and famous, and is by ſome ſuppoſed to have been a Metropolitan See, ſince the Year 309. It is Dedicated to St. Juſtus and St. Martyr, and famous for its Organs, and the Hiſtory of the Raiſing of Lazarus, painted by an excellent Hand. The City is well fortified, and hath only Two Gates. The Dukes of Septimania, were alſo Dukes of Narbon; and the Earls of Tholouſe, who ſucceeded them, uſed the ſame Title; and the City and Dioceſs was governed under them by Viſcounts. Gaſton de Foix, King of Navarre, in 1468, beſtowed the Viſcounty of Narbon upon John his Second Son, who married the Siſter of Lewis XII. by whom he had Gaſton de Foix, kill'd at the Battel of Ravenna in 1513. This Gaſton exchanged the City and Lordſhip of Narbon with his Uncle, for other Lands in 1507, by which means it became United to the Crown of France. Pontanus Itinerar. Gall. Narbonenſ. Jul. Gallia Chriſtiana. D. Marca, Archbiſhop of Paris, hath publiſhed and cleared ſeveral Antiquities of this City in the VII. and VIII. Chapters of his Marca Hiſpanica, Printed at Paris, in Fol. 1688. Latitude 43. Longitude 24. Map. Sanſon.

NARCIS, Biſhop of Gironne, whoſe Body the Inhabitants of that City pretend to have whole and entire; and report, that when Philip III. of France, beſieged it in 1285, a vaſt Swarm of Flies came out of his Tomb, and deſtroyed the French Army: But an Hiſtorian, quoted by de Marca, and who lived at the ſame time, ſaith, That the French having taken Gironne, and being deſirous each of them to have ſome Relique of this Saint, crumbled him into a thouſand Pieces. Marc. Hiſpan.

NARCISSUS was the Son of the River Cephiſſus, and of Liriope; he was a Youth of extraordinary Beauty, and diſdained the Love made to him by the Nymph Echo; but afterwards chancing to ſee his own Face in a Fountain, fell in love with himſelf; which Paſſion conſuming him, he was changed into the Flower Narciſſus, or Daffadil. Ovid. Metamorph. lib. 3.

NARCISSUS, Biſhop of Jeruſalem, lived towards the end of the IId Century. He held a Council to ſtate the time of the Celebration of Eaſter. This Holy Man was accuſed of Unchaſtity by three Perſons, whom he had ſeverely rebuked for their Vices. They curſed themſelves with horrible Imprecations, if what they ſaid was not true, and God puniſhed them accordingly; for the firſt of them was burnt in his Houſe, together with his whole Family; the ſecond was ſtruck with a Sore, which rotted away his Fleſh by piecemeal; and the third loſt his Eye-ſight. Narciſſus, who upon this falſe Accuſation had voluntarily baniſht himſelf, returned to Jeruſalem towards the end of his Life, where God confirmed his Innocence by many Miracles. Euſeb. lib. 6. Baron. A. C. 198, 199.

NARCISSUS, mention'd by St. Paul, in the 16th Chapter of his Epiſtle to the Romans. Some Authors believ'd him to be the Libertus, or freed Man of the Emperor Claudius, who had ſo great an Aſcendent over his Prince, and was put to Death by Agrippina, as Tacitus informs us; but this Conjecture is a miſtake.

NARDEN, or Naerden, Lat. Nardenum, a City of Holland, being the Capital of Goylandt, three Leagues from Amſterdam, and about as far from Utrecht. It was almoſt entirely ruined in the XIVth Century, and the remaining part of it was drowned by the Sea, but rebuilt by William III. of Bavaria, Earl of Holland, in 1355. Thoſe of Utrecht took it in 1481, by diſguiſing their Soldiers like Country Women; who entering the place on a Market-day, made themſelves Maſters of it; but the Inhabitants were quit with them not long after. This City was, in a manner, wholly conſumed by Fire in 1486; but about 100 Years after it ſuffered much more by the Cruelty of the Spaniards, under the Command of Frederick de Toledo, Son of the Duke of Alva; for the Inhabitants having opened their Gates to him, he cauſed them to be butcher'd in a moſt barbarous manner. The French took Naerden in 1672; but it was retaken again, after a Siege of ſome Weeks, in 1674. Junius in Batav. Deſcript. Marczuerius Theatr. Holland. Grotius & Strada de Bel. Belg.

NARDO, a City of the Kingdom of Naples in Terra di Otranto, with the Title of a Dukedom belonging to the Houſe of Converſano, and a Biſhoprick under the Archbiſhop of Brindes; ſituated in a very pleaſant Plain, two or three Miles from the Bay of Tarentum, and nine from Gallipoli to the North. The Biſhoprick was Inſtituted by Pope John XXIII. in 1413. and Pope Alexander VII. was Biſhop there before he attain'd the Papal Chair.

NARENZA, or Narenca, Lat. Naro, a City of Dalmatia, on the Gulph of Venice, belonging to the Turks; which was formerly conſiderable, but at preſent is in a manner wholly ruined. It was formerly the Capital of Dalmatia, taken by the Venetians in 987, and by the Turks in 1479. It ſtands 35 Miles North of Dulcigno, and 14 North-Eaſt of Raguſa. Baudr.

NARNI, by Strabo called Narna and Narnia, and by Pliny Nequinum, from the word Nequitia, for the Wickedneſs of its Inhabitants, who rather choſe to cut their own and Childrens Throats, than to ſurrender themſelves to their Enemies, who beſieged their City. It is ſituated upon the River Nera, in Umbria, a Province of the Eccleſiaſtical State, and is a Biſhop's See. It was the Birth-place of Nerva the Emperor, and of one of the Pope Johns.

NARSES, King of Perſia, ſucceeded his Father Varanes III. in 295, and reigned about Seven Years; and finding that the Roman Emperors were taken up with quelling ſome inteſtine Rebellions, took that opportunity to make himſelf Maſter of Meſopotamia and Armenia. Diocleſian the Emperor ſent Maximianus Galerius againſt him, who, after ſome loſs, totally routed the Perſian Army, took Narſes Priſoner, with his Wife, Children, Siſters, and many Perſons of Quality, and re-took Meſopotamia, and five Provinces, beyond the River Tigris. Narſes died in 301. Euſeb. in Chron. Eutrop.

NARSES, at firſt a Treaſurer of the Army, afterwards Conſul and Patrician, and Succeſſor to Beliſarius, as General of the Roman Armies under Juſtinian the Emperor, was a Perſian by Birth. He came over to the Emperor at the firſt Battel he gained over the Perſians in 528. He defeated the Goths in two pitch'd Battels in 552, in the latter of which (fought in the ſame place where Camillus formerly had defeated the Gauls, called Buſta Gallorum,) Totilas their King was killed. In 553, he reaped more Laurels, by vanquiſhing Leutharis and Bucellinus, German Generals, who had entred Italy. Some Authors report after Paulus Diaconus, that Sophia the Empreſs being incenſed againſt Narſes, ſent a Meſſage to him to quit his Arms, and go and ſpin amongſt the Women, to reproach him for his being an Eunuch: To which he anſwer'd, That ſince ſhe had been pleas'd to appoint him that Task, he would obey her, and ſpin her ſuch a Thread, as ſhe ſhould not eaſily untwine; and thereupon called the Lombards into Italy: though Baronius ſuppoſeth this to have been only a Story, and is alſo of opinion, that this is the ſame Perſon to whom St. Gregory writ three Letters; and who rebelling againſt Phocas, to avenge the Death of Mauritius the Emperor, was taken by him, and burnt alive about the Year 604. Which if it be true, Narſes muſt have been very aged at that time. Procop. de Bell. Goth. Euagr. lib. 4. Nicephorus, Agathias, Cedrenus, Zonaras, Paul. Diacon. quoted by Baron.

NARSINGA, a City and Kingdom of the Eaſt-Indies, in the Peninſula on this ſide the River Ganges, towards the Coaſt of Cormandel, abounding with precious Stones. The Dominions of the King of Narſinga were formerly very conſiderable, ſiderable, but they are now ſubject to the King of Biſnagar. The City lies upon a large River, and is great and well Peopled. Formerly the King of this Country, ſtyl'd himſelf King of Kings, and the Husband of a thouſand Wives; and was uſed to reward the Valour and Services of his Officers, by beſtowing upon them the moſt beautifull Maids of the Country. This Kingdom is infeſted with a horrible and very odd kind of Idolatry. There being an Idol which Pilgrims viſit with their Hands bound, Ropes about their Necks, or Knives ſticking in their Fleſh, accounting themſelves Holy if their Wounds feſter. They caſt Gold, Silver, and Jewels into a Lake for its uſe; carry it yearly in Proceſſion, and ſtrive to be cruſh'd to death under the Chariot that bears it: If any happens to be kill'd thus, they Burn his Body, and keep the Aſhes as holy Relicks; ſome cut off pieces of their Fleſh, and throw them to the Idol; Women proſtitute themſelves for Money to maintain it. When Men make Vows to it, they perform them by ſuffering their Prieſts with ſharp Hooks faſtned to the croſs Yard of a Maſt to pull them up, untill the Blood runs down it; then they are taken down and lifted up again by the middle to give Thanks to the Idol for accepting their Sacrifice. The Prieſts licence the Women to Marry, by Sealing them with a hot Iron upon their Shoulders. They have Feſtivals, ſome to their Kine, ſome to the Sun, and other Gods; when the Sun and Moon are eclips'd, they ſay they are bit by the celeſtial Sign call'd the Dragon. Vertomandes, Fernandes.

NARSINGAPATAN, a City of the Eaſt-Indies, in the Kingdom of Golconda, in the Peninſula beyond Ganges, upon the Bay or Gulph of Bengala, on the Eaſt of Condapoli, between Pahor and Vixnapatan, on the ſame Gulph.

NARVA, or NERVA, commonly call'd the Narve, a City of Livonia, near the Coaſt of the Gulph of Finland, towards the Province of Ingria, which is well fortified, and hath a good Caſtle. It ſtands upon a River of the ſame Name, which formerly was the Boundary between Livonia and Moſcovy: On the other ſide of the River is the Fortreſs of Jüanogorod, built by the Moſcovites on a ſteep Rock, which the River makes a Peninſula, and was taken by Guſtavus Adolphus in 1617. Below this Fortreſs is a Town called the Ruſſian Narve, as being inhabited by Moſcovites, Subjects to the King of Sweden. The River Narve is ſaid to riſe from the Lake Czuasko, and is ſwell'd with the Rivers Pskowa and Vielika Rika. It is very ſwift in its courſe, and hath a great fall about half a League above the City, whence the Water falls into a Precipice, with a dreadfull noiſe, and ſo much violence, that daſhing againſt the Rocks it is diſperſed into a meer Vapour; which filling the Air, affords oftentimes the repreſentation of a Rain-bow, eſpecially in the morning. This fall obliges the Merchants to unlade here all their Commodities that come from Pleskow and Derpt to the Narve, to be Shipt in the Bay of Finland. The City Narve was built in 1213, by Wolmar II. King of Denmark. The Moſcovites took it in 1558; but it was re-taken by the Swedes in 1581; ſince which time it hath continued in their poſſeſſion. The Moſcovites of the Ruſſian Narve, on the Eve of Pentecoſt, meet in the Church-yard, and the Women ſpread their Handkerchiefs, bordered with Party-coloured Silk upon the Graves, and lay broiled and roaſted Fiſh, Cakes, Eggs painted with divers Colours upon them. In the mean time the Prieſt Cenſes the Tombs, while the Women make a barbarous howling; but the Clerk at the ſame time gathers up the Handkerchiefs, &c. for his Maſter, who afterwards feaſts liberally upon the good chear. Olear. Voyage de Muſco. While Narva was poſſeſſed by the Ruſſians in 1559, Sigiſmund, King of Poland, forbad Trading with it; ſaying, That if Arts, Trades, Riches, Ammunition and Cannon, were carried thither, that cruel and barbarous Nation would ſubdue all their Neighbours: But, Anno 1561, Hen. Lane, an Engliſhman, diſcovered the way of Trading to Ruſſia by the Narve, till then unknown. The Moſcovites ſat down before it, in 1700 with 80000 Men, which Army was totally rooted by leſs than half that Number of Swedes, under the Command of their Young King, and the Siege rais'd.

NASAMONES, a People of Libya, who lived near the Atlantick Ocean, and chiefly on Piracy. It was their Cuſtom at Marriages for the Bride to lie with every one of the Gueſts the firſt night, but afterwards to live chaſtly. Some Authors charge them alſo with having worſhipt the Infernal, but not the Celeſtial Gods. The Romans, under Domitian, did totally deſtroy them for their Rebellion. Q. Cur. Herodot. Polyd. Virgil. Strab. Plin.

NASCI, a Hebrew word, which ſignifies a Prince, and is often met with in Jewiſh Writings; it formerly was the Title of their Soveraign Judge and Preſident of their Great Sanhedrim, as may be ſeen in R. Moſes his Treatiſe of the Sanhedrim. The Jews ſtill uſe this Name, and often beſtow it upon their chief Rabbins or Princes, as a Mark of their Dignity. Peter Simon.

NASCIVAN: See NAKSIVAN.

NASEBY, a ſmall Town of Guilsborough Hundred, in the Weſt of Northamptonſhire, near which the Avon and Nine do riſe; this on the Eaſt, and that on the Weſt ſide. Hard by this Town, June 14. 1645. was fought the Battle, from hence call'd Naſeby Fight, betwixt King Charles I. and the Parliament's Forces; Thoſe Commanded by Prince Rupert, and Theſe by General Fairfax, who got the day.

NASSAU, a City and Earldom of the Empire in Weteravia, its Latin Name Naſſovia, according to Berthius, is the ſame with Naſs. Gavia, which is as much as to ſay Wetland. The City ſtands upon an Hill, in the midſt of a Mooriſh or Fenny Country, near the River Loen, between Marpurg and Hermerſtein, five Miles North from Bingen, and twelve from Cologne. The Earldom of Naſſau is very conſiderable, and gives its Name to the ancient Houſe of Naſſau, Eminent for great men. Adolphus the Emperor was of this Family, who was ſlain in a Battle againſt Albert I. of Auſtria in 1297. Henry the Rich, Earl of Naſſau, died in 1254, leaving two Sons, Walramus and Otho, from whom proceed the two principal Branches of that Family; the firſt comes from Walramus, the Father of the Emperor Adolphus; which Branch, at preſent, is ſub-divided into three other, viz. Naſſau-Sarbruck, Naſſau-Wisbaden and Idſtein, and Naſſau Veilburg. The ſecond Branch proceeds from Otho, who married Agnes the Counteſs of Solmes; and is ſub-divided into five others, which are Naſſau-Orange, Naſſau-Siegen, and Naſſau-Dillenburg, the Princes of Naſſau and Naſſau-Hadamar. See Orange. Bertius Rer. Germ. Cluver. Deſcript. Germ. La Piſe Hiſtoir. d' Orang. Tobias Weber Genealogia Com. Naſſov.

NASSAU. The Hollanders have given this Name in honour of the Princeſs of Orange, to divers of their Iſlands; as one in America, and another in the Indian Sea; as alſo to their Forts; as Fort of Naſſau in Guinea; and another in Motira, one of the Molucca Iſlands. There is alſo a Streights of Naſſau, alias Wayegats, on the North or Frozen Sea.

NASSIB, a word uſed by the Turks, to ſignifie Fate or Deſtiny, which according to them is in a Book writ in Heaven, containing the good and ill Fortune of all Men, that can no way be avoided; in which perſuaſion, with the greateſt unconcernedneſs, they expoſe themſelves to the worſt and moſt threatning of Dangers. Ricaut's Hiſt. of the Ottoman Empire.

NASSUF Baſſa, Grand Vizier and Favourite of Achmet, Emperor of the Turks in 1612. He was born a Chriſtian, his Father being a Greek Prieſt. He was brought to Conſtantinople amongſt other Children that are yearly ſent thither for Tribute, in the time of Amurath III. and being put to Service in the Seraglio, under the Kuſler Aga, he got into the favour of the Sultana, who procured him the Government of Aleppo, and afterwards that of Diarbekir; whence he was ſent for to Conſtantinople, and made Grand Vizier, and married one of Achmet's Daughters: But not long after the Emperor having been inform'd of his Exactions and other Crimes, ſent for the Seal from him, together with his Head; but thoſe who had charge of the Execution not being able to ſtrangle him, were fain to cut his Throat; and being brought before the Grand Viſier in that condition, he ordered his Head to be cut quite off, for fear, ſaid he, that the Dog ſhould live again. His body was afterward, by the Grand Seignior's Command, caſt into the Sea: but at the Petition of his Daughter, Naſſuf's Wife, his Body was taken up and buried in a Church-yard, without any Pomp. The Emperor having commanded an Inventory to be made of his Goods, they amounted to an ineſtimable Summ. Du Puy Hiſtoire des Favoirs.

NATAGAI, an Idol worſhipt by the Tartars, and ſuppoſed to be the God of the Earth and all living Creatures: There is not a Houſe amongſt them where the Images of this Idol, his Wife and Children, are not kept, with great Honour and Veneration: They are ſo ſenſeleſs as to preſent them Meat, and to rub their Mouths with its fat, as ſuppoſing them to ſtand in need of Nouriſhment. Kircher of China.

NATALIS COMES: See COMES.

NATALIUS, a famous Confeſſor, who having ſuffered innumerable Torments for Chriſt, was at laſt ſeduced by the Theodoſian Hereticks, and made their Biſhop: But was often admoniſhed of his Errors by God in Dreams; which he neglecting, becauſe of his Gain and Preferment, he was ſcourged a whole night by Angels, according to Euſebius: And when he got up in the morning, he put on Hair-cloth, proſtrated himſelf at the feet of Zephyrinus the Pope; and with floods of Tears acknowledging his Errour, humbled himſelf both to the Clergy and Laity; begg'd their Prayers, and was received again into the Communion of the Church. Euſeb. Lib. Vth. Hiſt.

NATHAN, the Prophet, who fore-told ſeveral things to David, and reproved him for his Adultery and Murther. He alſo writ the Hiſtory of David, as appears from 1 Chron. 29. 29, 30. 2 Sam. 7. ver. 2. to 18. and 12. 1. to 16.

NATHANIEL, a Jew, to whom our Saviour gave this Teſtimony, that he was an Iſraelite indeed, in whom was no guile, John 1. 45. to the end. Abbot Rupert and ſome others think him to be the ſame with the Apoſtle St. Bartholomew; but St. Auguſtin thinks contrary, alledging that Chriſt call'd no Doctors of Law.

NAVARINO, Lat. Navarinum, Pylus Meſſeniaca; A City of the Morea, in the Province of Belvedere near to Modon, which the Turks call Javarin. It is divided into the New and Old City; the Old is built upon a ſteep Rock which runs into the Sea, and makes its Situation very ſtrong; beſides what Art hath done to make it yet more impregnable. On the left ſide whereof is the New City, on the ſide of a Hill; which is fortified with good Walls, and a Cittadel with ſix Baſtions, built by the Turks in 1572; at the bottom whereof is a Haven, the beſt and moſt capacious of all the Morea; the Entrance whereof is Commanded by the Canon of New Navarino. In 1644, Sultan Ibrahim choſe this Haven for the Rendevous of his Fleet; conſiſting of 200 Sail, deſign'd againſt Candia. In 1498, the Turks, after the Surrender of Modon, took it from the Venetians. In 1686, Moroſini appeared before Old Navarin with 200 Sail, Commanded by General Coningſmark, which then frightened the Garriſon to a Surrender: but the New Town made a ſtout defence, in hopes of being relieved by the Seraſquier of Morea, then upon his March. General Coningſmark leaving the Management of the Siege to Chevalier Alcenago, fought and defeated the Seraſquier, upon which the Town ſurrendred. It is one of the moſt ancient Towns of the Morea, and pleaſantly ſituate, 10 Miles North of Modon, and 15 Weſt of Coron. Long. 48. 36. Lat. 35. 50. Coronelli Deſcript. Morea.

NAVARRE, a Kingdom of Europe; part of which belongs to Spain, and part to France. It is ſituate between Bearn, the Pyrenæan Hills, Biſcay, Caſtile and Arragon: Its Capital City is Pampeluna. This Kingdom, at preſent, is divided into the Upper and Lower Navarre; the latter whereof, which is the leaſt, belongs to the French; and the Spaniards are in poſſeſſion of the other. And beſides, Pampeluna hath the Cities of Viana, Tudella, Eſtella, Sangueſſa, Olita, Lumbiera, &c. And in the Lower are, St. Jean de Pié de Port, St. Palais, &c. This Kingdom is barren and ill inhabited, eſpecially that part of it which belongs to Spain; and is generally more fit for Paſture, than Tillage, though there are ſome places where Corn and Wine grows: And it abounds with Veniſon. The Lower Navarre produces Millet and Oats, with great ſtore of Pears and Apples, whereof they make Cyder and Perry, which is the common Drink of the Country. The principal Rivers are the Ebro, which receives the Aragon, the Arga and the Egba. This Kingdom took its Riſe in the IXth. Century, or, as ſome ſay, in 716, under Garcia Ximenes, the firſt King, by occaſion of the Rebellion of thoſe of Gaſcoine, againſt the Kings of France, Lewis the Debonnaire, and Charles the Bald. The firſt King was Eneco, called Ariſta or Harizetta, whoſe Deſcendents enjoyed the Crown till 1234, when Zancho VII. died without Children: He had two Siſters, Berangeria Married to King Richard I. of England; and Blanche, Wife of Thibaud V. Earl of Champagne, whoſe Son Thibaud VI. was King of Navarre, and left behind him Thibaud and Henry III. who were both of them Kings ſucceſſively; the latter left an onely Daughter Joan, who was Married to Philip the Fair, King of France and Navarre. King Lewis X. left behind him a Daughter Joan, Heireſs of Navarre, who transferr'd the Crown into the Family of Evreux by being Married to Philip Earl of Evreux in 1316, who left behind him Charles the Bad, who was Father of another Charles, Sirnamed the Noble, who died in 1425, and left Blanche, the Heireſs of his Eſtate. This Princeſs Married Martin King of Sicily, and in ſecond Marriage John King of Arragon and Navarre, by whom ſhe had Charles Prince of Viane, who died in 1461, without Children: Blanche, the firſt Wife of Henry IV. called the Impotent, King of Caſtile, who died in 1464; and Eleonor who transferr'd the Crown of Navarre to Gaſton Earl of Foix, and Bigorre Viſcount of Bearn, and their Daughter Catharine, convey'd it to John Lord of Albret, from whom Ferdinand of Arragon uſurped it in 1523. Henry, Son to this Albret, had by Margaret of Valois, Siſter to Francis I. King of France; Joan d' Albret Married to Anthony de Bourbon Duke of Vendoſme, and was Mother to Henry the Great, who united the Crowns of Navarre and France, about which there had been a long Controverſie betwixt the French and Spaniards, the latter being countenanced by Pope Julius II. who Excommunicated John d' Albret, King of Navarre, in 1512. Whereupon Ferdinando, King of Arragon, ſeized his Dominions. *Favin. Hiſt. of Navarre, Arnoldus Oihenard not. utriuſq; Vaſcon. De Mare Hiſt. of Bearn. Marian. Hiſt. Hiſp. Louis Mayerne. Turquet. NAVARREINS, a City of France in Bearn, with a Fortreſs, upon the Gave or Rivulet of Oleron, between Sauveterre and the City Oleron, is a ſtrong place, and was famous in the late Civil Wars of France. The Count Montgomery, with an Army of Proteſtants, rais'd the Siege of it in 1569.

NAUCLERUS (Joannes) a Noble German, Native of Suevia: He lived in the XV. Century, was Provoſt of the Church of Tubingen, and afterwards Profeſſor of the Canon Law in that Univerſity, which was Founded in 1477, by the Earl, ſince Duke of Wirtemberg. He compoſed a Chronicle from the Beginning of the World, till the Year 1500, which Nicolaus Baſilius hath carried on to the Year 1514, and Surius to 1574. The time of his Death is not well known; onely thus much, that he was yet alive in 1501: Bellarm. de Scrip. Eccl. Geſner in Bibl. Poſſevin. in Apparat. Voſſius Hiſt. Lat. Melchior Adam, &c.

NAUCRATES, is ſaid to have taught the Egyptians to write by the Figures of Trees, Animals, &c. They believe him to be Mercurius Triſmegiſtus, or at leaſt another Mercury, Son of Jupiter, who fled into Egypt after Argus was kill'd. Hoffman.

NAUCRATES, a Greek mention'd by Euſtathius, in the preface to his Scholia upon the Odyſſes. This Naucrates affirms, that Homer travel'd to Memphis and there in the Temple of Vulcan, Tranſcrib'd the Writings of a Lady call'd Phantaſca, from whom, 'tis ſaid, he borrow'd all the beautifull thoughts in his Iliads and Odyſſes.

NAUCRATIS, the Capital City of a Precinct, in the Lower Egypt, which upon that account was called Naucratique. It is ſituate near the Mouth of the moſt Weſtern Channel of the Nile, and was the Birth-place of Athenæus, the Author of the Deipnoſophiſts, as himſelf tells us in his XI. Book. Herod. Athenæus.

NAUDÆUS (Gabriel) Canon of Verdun, and Prior of Artige in Limoſin: He was Born at Paris in the 17th. Age; and applying himſelf to Study, he made a very great progreſs in the Liberal Sciences, Critical Learning, and Knowledge of Languages. He was Library-keeper to the Cardinals Bagni and Antonio Barbarini at Rome, and afterward to Cardinal Mazarin in France. He had provided himſelf a very copious Library; and his Fame ſpreading far and near, Chriſtina, Queen of Sweden, ſent for him to Stockholm, and beſtowed many Marks of her Favour and Eſteem upon him. At his return from this Voyage, he died at Abbeville the 29th. of July 1653. Gabriel Naudæus writ ſeveral Books, viz. *Syntagma de ſtudio Militari. An Apology for great Men, who have been accus'd of Magick. Inſtruction concerning the Chimerical Society of the Roſicrucians. Advice for the ordering of a Library. NAXOS, Lat. Naxios, Naxia, an Iſland of the Ægean-Sea, or Archipelago, one of the Cyclades, which is alſo called Nicſia and Strongyle. It belongs to the Turks, and the Inhabitants pay a Tribute yearly of 6000 Piaſters. It abounds with Marble and good Wines; for which reaſon the Ancients conſecrated it to Bacchus, who there received and entertained Ariadne, when forſaken by Theſeus. The Air of this Iſle is wonderful healthy for Old People. There is never a Port or Haven in this Iſland; and therefore the Veſſels that Trade hither are forced to Ride in the Haven of the Iſle of Paro, about ſix Miles from Naxia. In this Iſle are the Ruins of a Temple dedicated to Bacchus; and here is alſo found the Stone called Emeril, wherewith Jewellers poliſh their Jewels, and Glaſiers cut Glaſs. As to the Religion of the Iſle, ſome are of the Latin Church, and others of the Greek, and each of them have their Archbiſhop. Tavernier's Perſian Travels. Bacchus's Temple was built on a Rock, encompaſſed by the Sea, and joyned to the Iſland by a Drawbridge; the Gate of the Temple is ſtill to be ſeen, and the Pipes which conveyed the Wine into the Reſervatories. This is reckoned the faireſt Iſland in the Archipelago, and was the Reſidence of the Ancient Dukes, who commanded the Cyclades. It has three Cities, Barequa, Quſa, and Falet; abounds with Fruit, Cattle, and Deer, and is about 84 Miles in Compaſs. The Inhabitants have plenty of all things; but are not reckoned above 5000. Moſt of the Inhabitants of the Chief Town, which ſtands in the North-Weſt of the Iſland, are Papiſts. It was taken by the Turks, under Solyman the Great, in 1537. ſince which it hath paid Tribute. The North-ſide is Mountainous, but the South Plain and Arable, and has the Ruins of two of Apollo's Temples, one of them now dedicated to St. Salvador. Struys, page 109, ſays, he was there in 1657, and that the City Naxia has a large and commodious Haven, capable of the greateſt Ships, and lies fair for all Winds, which was not known to other Geographers, as appears by the above-mention'd Deſcription. The Inhabitants of this Iſland have a very extraordinary Cuſtom, for after the Death of Husband or Wiſe, the ſurviving Perſon never ſtirs out of the Houſe, let the occaſion be never ſo urgent, for Six whole Months together; no, not ſo much as to go to Church. Tavernier.

NAZARETH, a Town of Galilee, in the Tribe of Zebulon, famous for Chriſt's abode there. It is 30 Leagues North of Jeruſalem, on the ſide of a Mountain, where the Inhabitants have hewed out ſmall Grotto's in a Rock, in form of Chambers, and before them a kind of a Hall, making the Houſe conſiſt of two Rooms, a Floor, and but one Story high. The Bleſſed Virgin's Houſe was thus: The fore Room, from Eaſt to Weſt, 26 Foot long, and 13 wide; the Door toward the South, and at the Eaſt-end a little Chimny, and on one ſide of it a little Cupboard in the Wall; on the Weſt-ſide was a Window; the inner Room toward the North, was 16 Foot long, and 5 and a half wide at one end, and 10 at another; the height 10 Foot; and the Roman Catholicks will have it, that after Chriſt's Aſcention, the Apoſtles turn'd this Houſe into Two Chappels, with an Altar in each; and ſo they continued till St. Helena's time, who incloſed them in a Magnificent Church, leaving them in their ancient ſimplicity. In 1291. Seraph, Sultan of Egypt, having ſubdued the Holy Land, deſtroyed the Town, levelled the Churches, and baniſhed the Chriſtians; at which time, they ſay, that Angels tranſported the Virgin's Houſe firſt into Dalmatia, and 3 Years after into Italy, placing it in a Field belonging to a Devout Lady, called Loretto; and 8 Months and a half after moved it to a Neighbouring Hill; and then a little further, where it now ſtands. However, the Eaſtern Chriſtians built a Houſe, reſembling it, afterwards in that ſame place whence it was taken; and there they pretend to ſhew you the Houſe where the Virgin was born, and part of the Synagogue where our Saviour explain'd that Paſſage of Iſaiah concerning himſelf, Joſeph's Shop, and the Well whence the Virgin had her Water, &c. This Town was afterward made an Archbiſhoprick, but now it's a poor ruinous Village, inhabited by Moors; and there is nothing to be ſeen but the Chappel and Cave, which are kept by ſome Franciſcans. *Doubdan Voiage de la Terre Saint. NEACLES, an Ancient Painter, mentioned by Pliny. It is reported of him, that having on a time painted a Horſe, and not being able to repreſent according to his Mind, the Foam proceeding from its Mouth, did in a Paſſion fling his Pencil againſt the Picture; which lighted ſo luckily, that, to his great Amazement, he found that better done by chance, in an inſtant, than he could have done with much Time and Pains.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR II. Sir-named The Great, Son of the former, began his Reign during his Father's Life. He wag'd War againſt the Aſſyrians and Egyptians; and being diſpleaſed with Jehoiakim, King of the Jews, for entring into Alliance with Pharaoh Necho, King of Egypt, he took Jeruſalem, and made him Priſoner A. M. 3428, the 128th of Rome, in the XVIII. Olympiad. After this Nebuchadnezzar returned into his own Country to take poſſeſſion of his Father's Throne; the news of whoſe Death he received in Judæa, or in ſome neighbouring Country. Euſebius and St. Jerom, with ſeveral Authors more, are of opinion, that it was at this time that Daniel, Hananiah, Miſhael and Azariah were carried Captives to Babylon. Nebuchadnezzar had left Jehoiakim in poſſeſſion of the Throne of Judæa, contenting himſelf to lay a great Tribute upon him; but within three years after he rebelled againſt him, which coſt him his Kingdom; and his Body, according to the Prophecy of Jeremiah, was caſt out into the Fields without burial; and Jehoiachin, called led alſo Jechonias, ſucceeded him, whom Nebuchadnezzar not long after carried Captive to Babylon with his Wife and Children, beſides 10000 Inhabitants of Jeruſalem; and at the ſame time took along with him all the Treaſures of the Temple, and all the Veſſels of Silver and Gold which Solomon had cauſed to be made. Zedekiah being put into his place by the King of Babylon, ſoon after rebelled likewiſe; whereupon the Armies of the Chaldæans entring into Judæa, wholly ſubdu'd it, and laid Siege to Jeruſalem the tenth Day of the tenth Month, 3444, being the ninth Year of Zedekiah's Reign, which Siege laſted till the fifth Day of the fourth Month of the Year 3446, when the Chaldæans entred the City, and Zedekiah, who had made his eſcape, was taken; and being brought before Nebuchadnezzar, he commanded his Sons to be kill'd before his Face, and his Eyes to be put out, and carried him bound in Fetters to Babylon. Nebuchadnezzar, after this, having ſubdued the Ethiopians, Arabians, Idumæans, Philiſtines, Syrians, Perſians, Medes, Aſſyrians, and almoſt all Aſia; being pufft up with Pride, cauſeth a Golden Statue to be ſet up, and commanded all to Worſhip it; which Daniel's Companions refuſing to do, they were caſt into the fiery Furnace. It was the ſame Nebuchadnezzar to whom Daniel interpreted his Dream of the Myſtical Image, which ſignified the four Monarchies; and the other he had of the Tree that reached up to Heaven, and ſpread it ſelf to the ends of the Earth, &c. according to the Interpretation of which his laſt Dream, as he was in the pride of his Heart admiring the Magnificence of his Royal City Babylon, he was by a Divine Sentence, pronounced from Heaven, driven from Men, and did eat Graſs as Oxen, and his Body was wet with the Dew of Heaven, till his Hairs were grown like Eagle's Feather's, and his Nails like Birds Claws, as the Scripture expreſſeth it. Not that he was really transform'd to an Ox, but that by a diſtemper of mind, from a juſt Judgment of God upon him, he imagined himſelf to be ſo. In which condition he continued ſeven Years eating Graſs like Beaſts; at the end of which time, his reaſon returned to him, and he was reſtored to his Throne and all his Glory, and then adored and praiſed the great God of Heaven and Earth. He died A. M. 3471, the 171ſt. of Rome, and in the XLVIII. Olympiad, being the 43d. of his Reign, in the 5th. Year whereof happened that Eclipſe of the Moon, mention'd by Ptolemy, and which is the ſureſt foundation of the whole Chronology of his Reign, 2 Kings 24. 25. Jerem. 32 to 40. Dan. 1. 2, 3, 4. *Perer. in Daniel. NECAUS, a large, rich and populous City of Barbary, 180 Miles South of Bugia, 80 Eaſt from Staſe, and 180 South-Weſt from Conſtantia: It is ſurrounded with an ancient Wall, ſituate on a River in a fruitful Soil, yielding excellent Walnuts and Figs; has a fine College for Students, neat and convenient Houſes, and moſt pleaſant Gardens. The Inhabitants are Rich and Courteous. Leo Africanus.

NECESSITY, Lat. Neceſſitas, a Goddeſs worſhipt by the Heathens for the moſt abſolute and ſovereign Divinity, to which even Jupiter himſelf was forc'd to ſtoop. Horace gives this Deſcription of her.

Te ſemper anteit ſæva Neceſſitas
Clavos trabales, & cuneos manu
Geſtans Ahena, nec Severus
Uncus abeſt, liquidúmq; plumbum.

NECHO (Pharaoh) called alſo Nechepſos, began to Reign A. M. 3411, of whom ſee 2 Kings 24. ver. 29. to 36. and 2 Chron. 35. 20. Prophane Authors report of him, that he undertook to cut through the Neck of Land which is between the Red Sea and the Mediterranean, in which attempt he loſt 120000 Men. This Prince defeated King Joſias at Megiddo. Joſeph. Antiq. Herodot. Torniel.

NECKAM, an Engliſhman, and Auguſtinian Monk at Exeter, where he was afterwards choſen Abbot. The moſt conſiderable of his Works are, Expoſitions upon Proverbs, Eccleſiaſtes, and upon the Pſalms. Lectiones Scripturarum. Moralia in Evangelia. De Virtutibus. Cur Filius Incarnatus. De Puritate Maria, &c. He dyed at Worceſter in 1227.

NECKAR, or Necker, Lat. Nicer, Nicerus and Neccanus, a River of Germany, which hath its Riſe in Suevia (Schwaben) about 7 or 8 Leagues from that of the Danube, near the Village of Schweiningen, at a place called Neckerfurts in the Black-foreſt; not far from whence it receives the River Breim, and ſo paſſeth to Rotweil; and entring the Dutchy of Wirtemberg, waters Tubingen, Eſlingen; and paſſing near to Stutgard, runs to Hailbrun, &c. and entring the Palatinate, encreaſed with ſeveral other Rivers, runs by Heidelberg and Lademberg, and at Manheim loſeth it ſelf in the Rhine. Vopiſcus. Ammian. Marcellin, and divers other Ancient Authors ſpeak of this River. See Cluver. Bertius, &c.

NECROPOLIS, an ancient City of Egypt, about four Miles from Alexandria, where Cleopatra is ſaid to have ſtung her ſelf to Death with an Adder, but this Story is partly a Romance, for Cleopatra died at Alexandria, in the Mauſoleum of the Egyptian Kings. Plut. in Anton.

NECTANEBO, the laſt King of Egypt, the Son of Tachon, who being vanquiſht by Ochus King of Perſia, aſſiſted by Mentor and his Greeks, fled into Æthiopia in 404 of Rome. In him ended the Race of the Egyptian Kings, whoſe Dynaſties are ſet down by Manetho. Euſebius.

NECTARIUS, Patriarch of Conſtantinople, and Succeſſor of Gregory Nazianzen, was born at Tharſus, of a Noble Family, being very well qualified for Government and State, affairs. The Emperor, Theodoſius the Younger, nominated him to the Patriarchate of Conſtantinople, when he was yet a Catechumen; and being thereupon baptized he was conſecrated Patriarch by the Council held there in 381. Nectarius governed the Church with great Piety. It happened in his time, that a Deaconeſs, who was a Widow of Quality, having confeſs'd the Actions of her paſt Life to the Penitentiary, he impos'd ſuch a Penance upon her, as imported that a Deacon had debauch'd her; and the Deacon being thereupon depoſed, encreaſed the ſuſpicion, which gave riſe to a great Scandal, and occaſion'd Nectarius to aboliſh the uſe of Confeſſion; ſo that the Rite wholly ceaſed in the Eaſt. St. John Chryſoſtom ſucceeded Nectarius, who died 397, Sozomen. Socrates. Baronius.

NEEDHAM, a Market Town in the County of Suffolk, and Hundred of Boſmere, whoſe principal Trade is in Blue and Broad Cloaths for Ruſſia, Turky, and other Foreign Countries.

NEEDHAM-POINT, a Fortreſs in Barbadoes, which ſuſtain'd an attack of four Hours by de Ruyter the Dutch Admiral, ſent with a Squadron of Ships in 1665, to conquer that Iſland, whence he was repuls'd.

NEGAPATAN, a City of the Eaſt-Ind[illegible]nſula, beyond the Ganges, upon the Coaſt of Cor[illegible]n the Province of Tanjaur. It was formerly poſſeſſed [illegible] Portugueze, but now by the Hollanders. The Product of the Country is Rice and Bombay, but they have no great Trade.

NEGOMBO, a City in the Iſle of Ceylan, in Poſſeſſion of the Hollanders. It was at firſt poſſeſſed by the Portugueze; but the King of Ceylan being weary of their Neighbourhood, invited the Dutch to his Aſſiſtance; who being alſo joined by the French, took the Town by Storm in 1643: But the Ceylanders being diſguſted at the Dutch, aſſiſted the Portugueze to drive them out again, when their Forces were taken up in the Siege of Cochin; but in 1651, the Hollanders retook it.

NEGREPELISSE, a ſmall City of France in Quercy, upon the River Aveirou, between Bourniquel and Albias, two or three Leagues from Montauban. Negrepeliſſe was a ſtrong and conſiderable Place, during the late Civil Wars in France. After the Siege of Montauban, Lewis XIII. ſent 400 Men to Garriſon the Town, who were all of them kill'd in one Night by the Proteſtant Inhabitants; whereupon the King came and beſieged the City in [illegible]2, and put all the People to the Sword; and as it oft happens in ſuch diſorders, a Fire being kindled, reduced the greateſt part of the City to Aſhes.

NEGRO, call'd by the Ancients Tanager, a River in the Kingdom of Naples, having its Source near a Lake of the ſame Name in the Baſilicate, about 13 Miles E. of Policaſtro, at the foot of the Appennine: It takes its Courſe Northward, waters Allena, hides its ſelf for four Miles under-ground, and riſing up again falls into the Bay of Amalfi, not far from Cappiachio, 20 Miles from Salerno.

NEGROPONT, an Iſland of the Archipelago, on the Coaſt of Europe, ſeparated from Achaia by Euripus. It was of old called Eubœa and Chalcis; the Turks call it Egribos, and the Inhabitants Egripos. Some Authors tell us that this Iſland formerly was part of Bœotia, a Province of Achaia, from whence it was ſeparated by an Earthquake. It is 365 Miles in compaſs, 90 in length, from South to North, and 40 in breath. Its two moſt noted Promontories are Cabo Figera, or Cabo d' Oro, and Cabo Lithar; the former of which was of old called Capharæus. The Capital City hath the ſame Name with the Iſle, and ſtands upon the Bank of Euripus, towards the continent of Achaia; to which it is join'd by a Draw-bridge, which leads to a great Tower, formerly built by the Venetians in the Euripus, from whence they paſs to the Continent by a Stone-bridge of five Arches. The City is about two Miles in compaſs; but the Suburbs, which are inhabited by Greek Chriſtians, are more populous than the City, having about 5000 Inhabitants, where none but Turks and Jews dwell. It hath four Moſques, one whereof was formerly the Cathedral Church dedicated to St. Mark, and was under the Archbiſhop of Athens. The Jeſuits have alſo a Houſe in the Suburbs where they teach Youth. The Governor of this Iſle is a Captain Baſſa, who has the Command alſo of Achaia. During the Government of Doge Pietro Ziani, the Emperor of Conſtantinople beſtow'd this Iſland upon the Common-wealth of Venice, and Pietro Zanco was the firſt Governor of it for the Republick. This City is ſometimes called Euripont, from Euripus, famous for its Flux and Re-flux. The Turks attack'd this Iſland in June, 1459, with a Fleet of 300 Sail, and an Army of 120000 Men, Mahomet II. being preſent, the beſieged over-powered by Numbers, were fain to give way after a Gallant defence. The Proveditor Erizzo, upon the Turks entring the City, retrenched himſelf in a place of ſtrength, and did not ſurrender till the Sultan had promiſed him his Life, but he broke his Promiſe, and cauſed him to be ſawed through in the midſt. He had a Daughter called Anne, who becauſe of her Beauty was preſented to Mahomet, but ſhe diſdaining his Careſſes, incenſed him to that degree, that he cut off her Head with his own Hand. She was not yet twenty Years of Age, when ſhe died. Afterwards the Turks exerciſed all manner of Cruelties upon the Garriſon and the Inhabitants of the City, putting all to the Sword above twenty Years old. The Iſland is very fruitful, and abounds in all Proviſions; a Pound of Mutton coſts but a Penny, and a Pound of Fiſh three Farthings; a meaſure of Wine containing a Paris Pint, coſts one Penny, and other things proportionable. The Mountain of Cariſto, famous for its excellent Marble, and the Stone Amiantos or Aſbeſtos, whereof they make a kind of Linen, which is made clean by caſting it into the Fire, as being incombuſtible. This Iſland produces Cotton enough to furniſh Sails for a whole Fleet. There are two Rivers in this Country, Similio and Cereo, the firſt of which makes the Fleeces of the Sheep white, and the other makes them black, if the Poets may be believed. In 1688 the Venetians beſieged it with 24000 Men, and ſtorm'd it twice, but without ſucceſs. Coronelli Deſcription de la Moree.

NEGRO'S, Lat. Nigritæ, a People of Africa, whoſe Country called Nigritia, lies along the River Niger, on both ſides of it, between Zaara and Guinea, the firſt of which bounds it on the North, and the latter to the South, having the Atlantick Ocean on the Weſt. It contains fourteen Kingdoms, the chief Ci[illegible]g Cantory, Cano, Caſſena, Gago, Gangara, Geneboa, G[illegible]ndinga, Maraſa, Tombut, Zanfara, Zegzeg. The In[illegible]ts of the Sea-coaſt are ſomewhat civiliz'd, by their commerce with the Portugueze, and many of them have embraced Chriſtianity, but thoſe that dwell up higher in the Country are Savage and Brutal. They are continually engaged in Wars againſt each other, and all the perſons they take in War, whether Men, Women, or Children, they ſell to other Africans, or to the Arabians and Portugueze for Slaves. They ſow neither Wheat nor Barley but Millet only, their chief Food being a certain Root they call Gnames, and a ſort of Cheſnuts, call'd Gores. They have alſo Peaſe of an extraordinary bigneſs, and of divers Colours, and great Beans of a bright red Colour. The overflowings of the River Niger occaſions many Lakes up and down the Country which are ſurrounded with Woods, abounding with Elephants, and ſupply the want of Rain, which never falls here but in the Months of July, Auguſt, and September. There are no Vines in the whole Country, and conſequently no Wine, ſave what they get from a certain ſort of Palm-trees, after this manner: They give three or four ſtrokes with a Hatchet on the Trunk of the Tree, and ſet Veſſels to receive the diſtilling juice, which at firſt is very ſweet, but within two or three days grows ſtronger, yet will not keep long, for in fifteen or ſixteen days time it turns ſowre. One of theſe Trees will yield about three or four Quarts in 24 Hours. Marmol. See Nigritia.

NEHEMIAH, a Jew, who was Cup-bearer to Artaxerxes Longimanus. See the Book of Scripture that bears his Name, which gives a full account of his Life and Actions. Beſides which, Prophane Authors give this account; That he came to Jeruſalem about the 3609th Year of the World; and having finiſhed the Temple, at the Solemn Dedication thereof, the ſacred Fire which had been hid by Jeremy was found; or rather, the Water which they found being poured upon the Wood, the Sacrifice took Fire by the Rays of the Sun. At that time alſo they alledge, that the Ark of the Covenant and the Altar of Incenſe were found again. He returned to Jeruſalem a ſecond time about 3629. Euſeb. Salian. Spond. Torniel.

NEISS, Lat. Niſſa, a Town in Sileſia in the Dutchy of Grotkaw, taking its name from the River Neiß, two Miles South of Grotkaw, the uſual Reſidence of the Biſhop of Vratiſlaw.

NEKIR, or Neker, the Name of one of the Angels Inquiſitors who come to examine the Dead in their Sepulchres, as the Mahometans think, who believe, That both Body and Soul remain in the Grave untill the day of Judgment, and that immediately after the Burial, the Angel Munker with a heavy Mace, accompanied with another called Nekir, preſent themſelves to the Dead, and ask them, Who is their God? Who is their Prophet? What's their Belief and Devotion? If they be true Mahometans, and profeſs the ſame, then they are ſuffered to reſt in quiet, and ſee what's done in Heaven through a little Window; but thoſe who are not, look upon the Angel to be God becauſe of his extraordinary bulk, and therefore adore him, whereupon he gives them a blow with the Mace, and ſhuts them up within their Sepulchres ſo as they ſee nothing of what paſſes. Iſaac Barrow's Abridgment of the Turkiſh Faith.

NEMEA, a City of Argos where are inſtituted Games in honour of Hercules in the LI Olympiad, which was long after thoſe which had been appointed by Archemorus the Son of Lycurgus.

NEMEA, a River of the Morea, called ſince Langia, near which Pericles vanquiſht the Sicyonians in 301 of Rome.

NEMEA, a great Wood or Foreſt of Peloponneſus, now the Morea, in the Country of Argos, now Romania, famous for having been the Theatre of one of Hercules his Labours. This Wood was the Lurking-place of a Lion great and terrible, who waſted the Country and made it unpaſſable; Hercules returning from the Slaughter of the Son of Molorchus, one of the chief Citizens of Argos, ſought out this Lion, and having met with him choaked him. The Græcians, to Eternize the Memory of their Deliverer, inſtituted the Nemæan Games in Honour of Hercules in the City of Argos. Strabo. Diodorus Siculus. Hyginus.

NEMESIANUS (Aurelius Olympius) an Eminent Latin Poet of Carthage living in the IIId. Century, in the Reigns of Carus, Carinus and Numerianus. Vopiſcus mentioning this laſt Emperor, reports, that he had ſo great a fancy for Poetry, that he ſeem'd to diſpute the preference in that Faculty with Olympius Nemeſianus. This Poet wrote concerning Fiſhing, and we have now extant a Poem of his Entitl'd Cynegeticum, and four Ecloges, they were firſt publiſh'd by Manutius in 1538, the laſt Edition of them was Printed at Leiden in 1653, with Janus Vlitius's Notes.

NEMESIS, a Goddeſs, whom ſome made the Daughter of Jupiter and of Neceſſity, and others of the Ocean and Night, who had the Charge of puniſhing thoſe crimes which Humane Juſtice left unpuniſhed. She was alſo called Adraſtea, for that Adraſtus was the firſt that dedicated a Temple to her; and, Rhamnuſia, becauſe ſhe was worſhipt in a Village of that name. Pauſanias in Arcad.

NEMESIUS, a Philoſopher who turned Chriſtian, and was Biſhop of Emeſa. He flouriſhed, according to ſome, about A. C. 380, but according to others, in the V. Century. We have a Book of his, de Natura hominis, in Greek and Latin, which was Printed at Oxford in 1671.

NEMESTRINUS, the God of the Foreſts and Woods, ſo called from Nemus, which ſignifies a Wood or Foreſt. Arnob. Lib. 4. Auguſt. de Civit. Dei, lib. 4.

NEMOURS, Lat. Nemoſium, a pleaſant Town of France, with the Title of a Dutchy, upon the River Loing Eighteen Leagues South from Paris. Nemours formerly gave its Name to a Noble Family ally'd to the Dukes of Savoy —— Mezeray. du Cheſne.

NENNIUS, D. of Loegria and Son of Helius, King of the Britains, behav'd himſelf with extraordinary Courage againſt the Romans, kill'd Labienus the Tribune in a Battle, and diſarm'd Julius Cæſar, who nevertheleſs gave him a Mortal Wound of which he died, and was buried at London, with Julius Cæſar's Sword by him. *Pitſ. de Illuſt. NEOCÆSAREA, called by ſome later Hiſtorians Nixar, and Tocato, the Metropolis of Cappadocia, famous for having had St. Gregory Thaumaturgus for one of its Prelates; it ſtands upon the River Lycus, which the Turks call Cholelit. It was wholly overthrown by an Earthquake in 343, except the Church; the Biſhop and thoſe who were in it eſcaping the common calamity. St. Gregory Biſhop of Neocæſarea celebrated a Council here in the Year 261. An. 313. Thirteen Prelates who aſſembled the Council of Ancyra, called another here, where they made Fourteen Canons: The Firſt of them depoſed Married Prieſts; the Second ordered Penitence to thoſe who married often, not to condemn Marriage, but becauſe it ſavour'd of Incontinence: The Seventh forbids Prieſts to be preſent at the Wedding-Feaſts of Second Marriages: The Eleventh orders, that if a Prieſt confeſs the ſin of Uncleanneſs before his Ordination, he ſhall not give the Communion, but may perform whatever elſe belongs to his Function, ſo that they thought Ordination did efface other ſins. The Twelfth was made againſt the Clinici, or thoſe who were Baptiz'd in their Beds. Iſidore Mercator's laſt Edition of Councils. Hoffman ſays there was a Council held here in 261 againſt thoſe who eat things ſacrificed to Idols.

NEOCÆSAREA, called Euphrateſiana, a City of Syria.

NEOMENIA, that is to ſay the New Moon, or the beginning of the Lunar Month, which day the Jews by the command of God, kept as a great Feſtival or Holiday, as appears Num. 10. 10. and Chap. 28. 11. The Great Sanhedrin, only had the Power to determine the day of the New Moon, becauſe it was part of their Juriſdiction to determine all Holy Days or Feſtivals which the Jews were to obſerve. R. Leo of Modena ſaith, That in the time of the Sanhedrin, thoſe Judges ſent two Men expreſs to diſcover the appearing of the Moon, which as ſoon as they had perceiv'd, they return'd and ſignified to them, who thereupon cauſed publication to be made, that the New Moon was begun that day; but ſince the deſtruction of the Temple, they have every Year an Almanack or Ephemeris printed to inform them of the New and full Moons, the four Seaſons of the Year, their ſeveral Feſtivals, and other ſuch like. The Jews are not forbid on their New Moons to work or go about their Buſineſs, only the Women are uſed to abſtain from their Domeſtick Drudgery; and the Jews generally have their Tables better furniſhed that Day, than at other times. The Evening of the Sabbath which follows next after the New Noon, or any other Night when the Moon begins to appear, the Jews aſſemble themſelves together, and ſay their Prayers to God, calling him the Creator of the Planets, and the Reſtorer of the New Moon; and afterwards lifting up themſelves towards Heaven, they beg of God, that he would be pleaſed to guard them from all Evil and Miſchief; and after having made a Commemoration of David, they ſalute one another, and ſo take their leave. To equalize the Solar Years with the Lunar, they make a Cycle or Revolution of Nineteen Years, and of theſe Nineteen, there are Seven that are of Thirteen Months a piece, ſo that every Second or Third Year; has XIII Months, which they call Meubar, that is intercalated, in which Years they count the Month Adar twice; the one whereof they call ſimply Adar, and the other Ve-Adar. See Leo of Modena, Jewiſh Rites, Part 3. Chap. 2.

NEOPHYTÆ, (new ſet Plants) a name given to thoſe Chriſtians who had lately quitted Judaiſm or Paganiſm to embrace the Faith of the Goſpel. It was alſo given to thoſe that had been newly received amongſt the Clergy,or into any Religious Order. Macer in Hierolex.

NEPTUNALIA, Feaſts which the Romans celebrated in the Month of July, in Honour of Neptune. Tertullian.

NEPTUNE, the pretended God of the Sea, was the Son of Saturn and Ops, and Brother to Jupiter and Pluto. He married Amphitrite. 'Tis fabled of him, that being driven out of Heaven for conſpiring againſt Jupiter, he built the Walls of Troy, and that in a conteſt he had with Minerva, about giving a Name to the City of Athens, ſtriking the Ground with his Trident in his Anger, a Horſe came forth, for which reaſon they ſacrificed to him a Horſe, and the Romans inſtituted the Circenſian Games in Honour of him, which conſiſted in Horſe-Races. Hygin. Ovid. Neptune, in the Greek Ποσειδῶν, was a Pyrate, ſo formidable at Sea whilſt he liv'd, that when he died the Græcians thought him to be the God of that Element, and that he could raiſe Storms, &c. at pleaſure. Poſedoni in the Phœnician Tongue uſed at that time in Greece, ſignifies a Breaker or Deſtroyer of Ships. The VI. Tome of the Univerſal Bibliotheque in the Deſcription of the Myſteries of Ceres.

NERAC, a City of France in Guienne, Capital of the Dutchy of Albret, on the River Baiſe, which divides it into Two Parts, called the Great and Leſs Nerac, about Three Leagues below Condom, and Two from the Garonne. King Henry IV. kept his abode for ſome time in this City, which during the Civil Wars was in the Hands of the Proteſtants: And Queen Catharine de Medicis held a Treaty there with the King of Navarre, the Town holding then for the Proteſtants.

NERATIUS, (Lucius) an inſolent Roman, who was never uſed to walk along the Streets without a Slave following him that carried a Purſe of Money, and as ſoon as he met with any mean Perſon, would commonly give him a Box on the Ear, and then take 25 Pence out of his Purſe (which was the Mulct appointed for that Affront by the Twelve Tables) and give it to him whom he had abuſed for Reparation. The beſt Editions of Aulus Gellius, call this Man Veratius. Aul. Gellius.

NERATIUS (Priſcus) a famous Lawyer that lived in 110, under the Reign of Trajan, who had a great kindneſs for him, and thought of declaring him his Succeſſor. He writ divers Works, viz. Membranarum, Lib. VII. Quæſtion. III. Reſponſ. V. Epiſt. IV. è Plautio X. Regular. XV. De Nuptiis I. which are quoted in the Pandects. Rutil. in vit. Juriſconſ. Aul. Gell. lib. 4. cap. 4. Geſner. in Biblioth.

NEREUS was the Son of Oceanus and Thetys. He married his Siſter Doris, and had by her 50 Daughters called Nereides. Orpheus in H[illegible]n. Nereid.

NERGAL, an [illegible] of the Samaritans repreſented in the Figure of a Cock, which was the Symbol of the Sun. This Idolatry was originally introduc'd amongſt the Samaritans by the Cutheans, a People of Perſia, who worſhipt the Sun and the Fire. Nergal in the Samaritan Language ſignifies a Cock. Kircher. Oedipus Ægyptiacus.

NERIGLISSAR, whom the Aſtronomical Canon calls Nericaſſolaſſar, King of Babylon, is the ſame with Balthaſſar, Son of Evilmerodach, and Grandſon of Nebuchadnezzar the Great. See Balthaſſar. Petavius ſuppoſed that Neriglіſſar had married the Siſter of Evilmerodach, by whom he had Laboroſſarchod,who according to him is the ſame with Balthaſſar. Neriglіſſar killed Evilmerodach, and cauſed his Son to be proclaim'd King in his place, and governed the State in quality of a Tutor or Guardian for four Years, at the end of which he died. Rationar. Tempor.

NERITIA, or Nerk, a Province of the Kingdom of Sweden, which lies between Weſtmania, Sudermania, and Gothia. Its Capital City is Orebo.

NERMONSTER, a French Iſland in the Coaſt of Poitou.

NERO, a very pleaſant place near the City of Antioch in Syria, which the Ancients called Daphne. The Name Nero was given it from the abundance of its Waters, for Ner in the Syriack ſignifies a Fountain or River; and Nero in the modern Greek impo[illegible] Water; and the Ancient Greeks themſelves call a well watered place Nero. This place of Pleaſure was ſurrounded with a Wood of Cypreſs, and other tall Trees, and beautified with many Fountains, and Gardens thick ſet with curious ſweet ſmelling Flowers, neither was any one ſuffered to enter it, except accompanied with his Miſtreſs. It was conſecrated to Apollo, whoſe Temple and Statue were overthrown by a Thunder-bolt in the time of Julian the Apoſtate, in 362. Procop. Perſic. Sozom. Baron.

NERO, (Domitius) Emperor, was the Son of Caius Domitius Ænobarbus, and of Agrippina, Daughter of Germanicus, who having married the Emperor Claudius, her Uncle, did perſwade him to adopt Nero into his Family, which made way for him to the Soveraignty in prejudice to Britannicus, the Son of Claudius. Nero ſucceeded him in the 18th Year of his Age, the 13th of October, 54. At the beginning of his Reign he proteſted that he would follow the Example of Auguſtus in his Government, and not loſe any occaſion of evidencing his Liberality and Clemency; he eaſed the People, either by taking away, or diminiſhing the Taxes and Impoſitions, and by great Liberalities to the Poor. As they preſented him the Sentence of a Perſon condemned to Death to be ſign'd, I wiſh, ſaid he, that I could not write. At another time, when the Senate made him a publick Acknowledgment for his juſt Adminiſtration, he anſwered with great Modeſty, Pray let me deſerve it firſt. In a word, during the firſt five Years of his Reign, he uttered many excellent Sentences, and well deſerv'd the Commendation given him by his Maſter Seneca in his Book de Clementiâ. But from that time forwards he ſpent his Life in the moſt extravagant Enormities, horrid Crimes, and monſtrous Abominations, that ever entred the deprav'd Imagination of Man, viz. He appear'd with Comedians upon the Stage ſometimes in Woman's Dreſs, and either ſung or repeated Verſes; at other times he would be carried into the Company of the greateſt Debauchees, where he committed Sodomy with thoſe whom he thought moſt deſerving of his abominable Favours, and particularly Sporus, whom he kept in quality of his Wife, and caus'd to be dreſs'd like a Woman, which gave occaſion to that remarkable and pleaſant ſaying, That the World had been happy if his Father Domitius had had ſuch a Wife. He invented a ſort of Pleaſure altogether beaſtly and monſtrous, for covered with ſome Beaſt's Skins, he would come out of his Den, and having ſatisfied his abominable brutality upon Men and Women, that he cauſed to be tied naked to Poſts, proſtituted himſelf to Doryphorus his enfranchis'd Slave. Neither was his Cruelty leſs deteſtable than his other infamous and unnatural Practices: He cauſed his Mother to be murthered, and as if this had not been enough, he took a view of her dead Body ſtark naked, praiſing ſome, and diſpraiſing other Parts of her Corps, and call'd for a Drink in the mean time. He cauſed his Wife Octavia to be put to Death, and his Wife Poppæa he himſelf killed with a Spurn of his Foot; he cauſed his Maſter Seneca to loſe his Life, and exerciſed the ſame Cruelty againſt his Relations, Friends, and many other famous Men, and wiſh'd that Mankind had but one Head, that he might have the pleaſure of cutting it off. To have the Glory of rebuilding Rome, and having it call'd by his Name, he ſet that famous City on fire, and to inſult over it the more, got up to a high Tower, and thence taking a view of the Flames, in a Comedians Habit, ſung a Song of the burning of Troy to his Harp. The Fire continued ſix Days, and of Fourteen Wards or Quarters of the City, there were only four that eſcaped the direful Effects of that Burning; and afterwards to rid himſelf of the hatred of this deteſtable Action charged upon him, he laid the blame of it upon the Chriſtians, and began the firſt Perſecution againſt them; and not being contented with expoſing them to the utmoſt of Cruelties in the City, he cauſed rigo[illegible] Edicts to be publiſhed, whereby they were made liable to the ſame Cruelties throughout all the Roman Provinces. Having taken a Journey to Achaia, with a vaſt Profuſion of Treaſure, he endeavoured, in vain, to dig through the Iſthmus of Corinth; and in all other things his Expences were no better ordered than the reſt of his Life. He commonly play'd away 10000 Crowns at a caſt of Dice, and uſed to Angle with a Golden Rod, and a Line of Scarlet. His Treaſure being exhauſted by his immeaſurable Profuſion, and himſelf become the common Deteſtation of Mankind, as the moſt execrable of Monſters for his Cruelty and Abominations; his Armies in Gaul declared themſelves againſt him, and Galba revolted in Spain, which News caſt him into ſuch Deſpair, that he deſigned to have poiſoned himſelf, or to have gone to Galba, and demanded the Pardon of the People; but as he was purſued on every ſide, to have been ſacrificed to the Reſentments of the Publick, he was abandoned of all Men, and as he ſaid himſelf, could find neither Friend nor Enemy, ſo that he was forced to turn his own Executioner, nor could he have found a more infamous Hangman. So that being abandoned of all Men, he in a rage cry'd out, Have I neither Friend nor Enemy? The Marks of his Horror and Deſpair continued on his Face after he was Dead, his Eyes ſtaring in a moſt dreadful manner, to the affrighting of all the Beholders. He was then in the Two and thirtieth Year of his Age, having governed the Empire Thirteen Years, Seven Months, and Eighteen Days, from the 13th of October 54, to the 10th of June 68. Nature had delineated his Manners on his Face, and the whole make of his Body; for he had little Eyes, and cover'd with Fat, his Throat and Chin joyn'd together, a thick Neck, a great Belly, and his Legs ſlender. All which Proportions made him not unlike a Swine, whoſe filthineſs he well expreſt. His Chin turn'd upwards, which was a ſign of his Cruelty. Fair Hair, ſmall Legs, and his Face rather Fair than Majeſtical, were pregnant Signs of his Effeminateneſs. His unheard of wickedneſs had been long before prognoſticated by his Father Domitius, from a Calculation of his own, and his Wife Agrippina's Manners in theſe words, It is impoſſible that any thing that is good ſhould ever proceed from me or her, which proved but too true. Spond. Sueton. Aurelius Victor, S. Auguſtin.

NERO, a famous Impoſtor who appeared, A. C. 72. two Years after the Death of Nero, and was a Slave of Pontus; or as others, an enfranchiſed Slave of Italy; he declared himſelf to be that Emperor, and was ſo like him in his Face and Body, and could play upon Inſtruments, and Sing ſo like him, that he got credit amongſt ſome, eſpecially a Company of Vagabond Deſerters, of whom, by making great Promiſes to them, he made a ſhift to get an Army together, and putting to Sea, he took the Iſle of Delos, which Succeſs would have much ſtrengthened and encreaſed his Party, but that Galba in all haſte ſent Calpurnius Aſprenas to ſubdue him, who coming to that Iſland fought and ſlew him. His Body being carried to Rome, all Perſons admired his reſemblance of Nero, whom he had endeavour'd to counterfeit. Tacitus Hiſtor. Zonar. Annal. Græc.

NERVA, (Cocceius) was choſen Emperor after the Death of Domitian, who had before baniſht him in 96. He immediately upon his Acceſſion to the Throne, recall'd thoſe that had been baniſhed for their Religion; he extended his Favour alſo to the Jews, and forgot nothing that might contribute to the reſtoring of the Empire to its former Luſtre. But finding that his great Age would not ſuffer him to go through with the Work he had begun, he adopted Trajan, a Man highly eſteemed for his Valour and Virtue. Nerva died January 27, 98. in the 66th Year of his Age, or as Eutropius in his 72, having reigned one Year, Four Months, and Eleven Days. He had the Command of the Army in Gaul, when he was declared Emperor. Dion in Nerva. Aurel. Victor. de Cæſar. Eutrop. Herodian.

NERVII, a People of Old Gaul, whoſe Courage and Conduct in War is commended by Cæſar; they belonged to the Dioceſs of Cambray, which ſtands in the place of the Ancient Baray, the ſame with the Baganum of Ptolemy, or Bagacum, as it is writ by the Roman Itineraries. Cæſar. Comment.

NERY, (St. Philip de) Founder of the Congregation of the Prieſts of the Oratory in Italy, was born at Florence. He was much given to Prayer and Contemplation, inſomuch that it is reported of him, That he would continue for Forty Hours together at his Devotion. He died in the Eightieth Year of his Age in 1595, and was Canonized by Pope Gregory XV. in 1622. Spondan. & Rainald. in Annal. Anton. Galon in his Life.

NESLE, Lat. Nigella, a ſmall City of France, in the Territory of Santerre in Picardy, with the Title of Marquiſate, upon a ſmall River called Ignon, which diſcharges it ſelf into the Somme, two Leagues from Ham, between Peron and Noyon. Charles the Hardy, Duke of Burgundy, took Neſle by Storm in 1472, and becauſe the Inhabitants had kill'd one his Heralds, who was ſent to Summon them to Surrender, and two of his Men more during a Ceſſation of Arms, he exerciſed great Cruelty againſt them, inſomuch that the reſpect of Holy Altars did not ſave thoſe who had fled into the Churches, and thoſe who eſcap'd the Fury of the Soldiers, were either hang'd, or had their Hands cut off. This Town gave its Name to the Family de Neſle, many of whom have been great Men. Morlier de Famil. de Picardie.

NESTOR of Laranda in Lycaonia, a Greek Poet, who writ an Iliad, whereof the I. Book had never an Alpha in it, the II. never a Beta, and ſo on. Heſychius, Suidas, and others ſpeak of him, but it is not known about what time he lived.

NESTOR of Pylos in Arcadia, the Son of Neleus and Cloris, much ſpoken of by Homer, and other Poets. Whilſt his Father was yet alive, he ſubdued the Æleans, and being preſent at the Wedding of Pyrithous, he diſcomfited the Centaures, and A. M. 2870, he was at the Siege of Troy with Agamemnon, who highly eſteemed him for his Wiſdom and Eloquence. Homer reports of him, that he lived 300 Years.

NESTORIANS, the Diſciples of Neſtorius, the Heretick, whom neither the Death of their Ring-leader, nor the Anathema's of Councils, nor the Edicts of Emperors, could hinder from ſpreading themſelves far and wide throughout the Eaſt, where they ſtill continue, and have their Patriarch at Moſul, (which is the Ancient Seleucia) at Caramit, and elſewhere, though indeed they ſeem to differ much from the Ancient Neſtorians, as appears by their Confeſſions. They have alſo often ſubmitted themſelves to the Latin Church, as in the time of Eugenius III. in 1274, under Pope Eugenius IV. Julius II. Pius IV. and Paul V. They are alſo called Chaldæans. See Petrus Strozza de Dogmatibus Chaldæorum, Bzovius, Spondanus, Rainald A. C. 1247, 1445, &c. Thoſe Chriſtians, which at this Day, are called Neſtorians and Chaldeans, are very numerous, and have ſpread themſelves over Meſopotamia, and along the Rivers Euphrates and Tigris; yea, they are got into the Indies, and the further Parts of Aſia. Paulus Venetus, who lived in the XIIIth Century, and made his abode a great while in Tartary and China, aſſures us, that there were great numbers of them in the Provinces of Tangu, Erginul, and Mogul in Tartary, and in Cinghianfu, and Quinſay, great Cities of China. This agrees with the account the Portugueſe give us, who diſcovered the way to the Eaſt-Indies, by the Cape of Good Hope; for they tell us, that all the Chriſtians they met with on the Weſt and Eaſtern Coaſt of the Indies, as at Goa, Cochin, Angamala, Meliapour, Bengala; and in the Empire of the Great Mogul, were all Neſtorians, and ſubject to the Patriarch of Babylon in Chaldæa, whoſe See is at Moſul, a City built on the Ruins of Nineve, and who takes the Title of Catholick or Univerſals, as all the other Patriarchs do, therefore theſe Chriſtians are call'd both Neſtorians and Chaldæans. Joſeph, an Indian Chriſtian, who in the Year 1500, came to give an Account of the Belief of the Eaſterns, to Pope Alexander VI. ſays the ſame thing, and aſſures us, That this Patriarch, beſides other Biſhops, Ordains two Primates, one for the Eaſt in Cathay, and the other for the Indies. India being the Principal place, where the Neſtorians were ſettled under a Neſtorian Prieſt call'd John, who in the Year 1145 got himſelf declar'd King in Indoſtan, who by his remarkable Victories over the Perſians, Medes and Aſſyrians, grew very famous under the Celebrated name of Preſter John, which Title remain'd upon his Succeſſors for a long time after: The greateſt part of the Neſtorians of Dierbeck, are now Roman-Catholicks, and call themſelves Chaldæans; their Biſhop, who came over to the Church of Rome, has, at the Inſtance of the Capuchins, been declar'd Patriarch about Eight or Ten Years ſince, by the Grand Seigniors Order. In the Year 1681, This Patriarch receiv'd the Abbot Piquet then Biſhop of Cæſarea with all imaginable reſpect, as he paſt through Dierbeck, in his Travels into Perſia. The other Neſtorians have two Patriarchs, who, as Moreri Relates, have Inclination enough for the Roman-Catholick Communion, however they are not yet advanc'd to a publick Profeſſion of it. Maimburg Hiſt. Du Schiſme des Grecs. Michel le Fevre Theatre de la Turquie. The Patriarchate is as it were Hereditary amongſt them, and is always given to the Nephew, or one that is neareſt of kin to the Patriarch, though he be but eight or nine Years of Age, and cannot ſo much as read. He who's deſign'd for the Patriarchal Dignity may not marry, but the Prieſts may marry twice or thrice, as well as the Seculars, contrary to the practice of other Eaſtern Chriſtians, who oblige their Prieſts to live in Celibacy after the Death of their firſt Wives. They officiate in the Chaldee Language. They ſpeak according to the different places of their abode either Greek, Arabick, or the Curds Language. The Prince of which People makes uſe of them for his Guards, and by their means maintains himſelf againſt the Puiſſance of the Turks. Many learned Men queſtion, whether theſe Chriſtians now mention'd be indeed tainted with the Neſtorian Hereſie, they having by ſeveral Confeſſions of their Faith, and other publick Acts, quoted by the above-mentioned Petrus Strozza, fully clear'd themſelves from that Imputation; and that they are Orthodox in the main, though they expreſs themſelves in other terms than the Latin Church commonly does. See Strozza de Dogmatibus Chaldæorum. M. Simon. The Learned give us this account of the Neſtorians Belief, concerning the Myſtery of the Incarnation, viz. That they affirm the Word took a Body in the bleſſed Virgin, that both Natures are united in Jeſus Chriſt without mixture or confuſion, and that therefore the Properties of both remain entire. And as for their not calling the bleſſed Virgin Mother of God, but Mother of Jeſus Chriſt; the Patriarch Elias ſays, they ſpeak ſo to condemn the Apollinariſts, who pretend, That the Divine Nature was without the Humane; and to confute Themiſtius, who aſſerted that Jeſus Chriſt was but meer Man. This Patriarch ſent the ableſt of his Church to Rome with his Confeſſion of Faith, wherein he ſhews, That they agree in the main, but differ in Ceremonies. He reduces the differences to five Heads, viz. That they call the Virgin, Mother of Jeſus Chriſt, That they admit two Perſons in Jeſus Chriſt, That they allow him but one Power and one Will, That they hold the Proceſſion of the Holy Ghoſt from the Father alone; and aſſert a miraculous kindling of the Fire in the Holy Sepulchre on Eaſter Eve. Thus they juſtified what they advanc'd before Pope Paul the Fifth. 1. That it is a receiv'd Principle in both Churches. That the Divine Nature does not beget, nor is of it ſelf begotten; That though it is true, the Virgin conceiv'd Jeſus Chriſt, who is both God and Man; yet there were not two Sons, but one only true one; and added that the Neſtorians do not deny but the Virgin may be call'd Mother of God, becauſe Jeſus Chriſt is really God. 2. They ſay the Latins allow two Natures and one Perſon; whereas they affirm, there are two Perſons and one Parſopa, or viſible perſon, and but one Will and Power: Which they reconcile thus. They diſtinguiſh in their Underſtanding two Perſons that anſwer the two Natures allow'd; but beholding with their Corporeal Eyes but one Chriſt, who has the Parſopa, or appearance of one only Filiation, they allow him but one Power and Will which does not hinder their acknowledgment of two Operations and two Wills, ſuitable to the two Natures. As for the two laſt Points, they are common to them, with all the Eaſtern-Church. Strozza de dogmatibus Chaldæorum. M. Simon. Roſſe ſays, that the Cauſe of their Increaſe was the Encouragement which they had from Coſroes the Perſian King, who in hatred to the Emperor Heraclius, cauſed all Chriſtians, within his Dominions, to become Neſtorians; adding, That they rejected the Council of Epheſus, and all other Councils after it; but have now renounced that Opinion. They Adminiſter the Sacrament with Leavened bread, and in both kinds; permit their Prieſts to Marry, diſown Confirmation and Auricular Confeſſion. Roſſe's View of all Religions. Spanheim writes, That Neſtorius, the Author of the Sect, was Biſhop of Conſtantinople, Ann. 428. That he was a proud ſevere Man, but ignorant of Antiquity: That he was Author of the Law made by Theodoſius Junior, againſt all Hereticks; and that he himſelf was a Pelagian: That his Hereſie was occaſion'd by the raſhneſs of a certain Judaizing Presbyter, call'd Anaſtaſius. His Favourers were Theodoretus Biſhop of Cyrus, and Joannes Antiochenus: but they favoured his Perſon more than his Opinion. Theodorus, Biſhop of Mopſueſta in Cilicia, and Ibas of Edeſſa, were his Friends, and the former reckoned his Maſter. Spanheim's Epitome.

NESTORIUS of Germanicia, a Town of Eufrateſia or Syria, near Mount Amanus; he was elected Biſhop of Conſtantinople in the place of Syneſius; was a very Eloquent perſon, and one that expreſs'd at firſt a great deal of Zeal againſt Hereticks; but not long after he openly defended Anaſtaſius the Prieſt, who maintained that the Bleſſed Virgin ought not to be called Θεοτόκος Deipara; and that there were not only two Natures, but alſo two Perſons in Chriſt; and that therefore the Bleſſed Virgin muſt only be ſtyled Χριστοτόκος, or the Mother of Chriſt, who was found worthy to be united to the Word, by the Word's inhabiting in his Humanity, as it were in a Temple, and to which it was only Morally united; by this means denying the Myſtery of the Incarnation, and the infinite Merit of his Works, as proceeding from a Perſon that was God-man. To which he alſo added, that the Jews did not crucifie God. Which Opinions of his were oppoſed and refuted by Cyrillus in ſeveral Treatiſes, ſent to Theodoſius the Younger, and to Pulcheria and Eudoxia his Siſters. But theſe not reclaiming him, Pope Celeſtine condemned him in a Synod held at Rome in 430; and St. Cyril celebrated another at Alexandria, wherein they agreed upon XII. Anathema's, or Articles, which they ſent to Neſtorius for him to ſubſcribe; but he not yet ſubmitting, a General Council was conven'd at Epheſus by Theodoſius the Younger, A. C. 431, in which St. Cyril of Alexandria did preſide, whither Neſtorius being three times Summon'd and refuſing to appear, his Caſe was Examined, and Sentence given againſt him, which was afterwards confirm'd by the Emperor, who baniſh'd him to Oaſis in Egypt; which being deſtroyed by the Blemyæ, a People of Æthiopia, he was forc'd to wander up and down, and at laſt died of a Conſumption, though ſome attribute a more direful Death to him; viz. That his Tongue was eaten up by Vermin, his whole Body putrefied, and at laſt he broke his Neck by a fall. Hiſtor. Trip. Caſſian. de Incarnat. lib. Cyrill. contra Neſtorium. Socr. Evagr. Baron.

NETHERLANDS, or Lower Germany, ſo call'd from their Situation; the Latins call it Belgium. It made formerly a part of Gallia Belgica; as for its Situation, it lies between France, Lorrain, Germany, and the Ocean. It is divided into Seventeen Provinces: Four of which are Dukedoms, as Brabant, Limburg, Luxemburgh and Guelderland: Seven of them are Earldoms (viz.) Flanders, Artois, Hainault, Holland, Zeland, Namure and Zutphen. One Marquiſate, which is that of Antwerp; and five Baronies, (viz.) Weſtfrieſland, Mechlen, Utrecht, Over-Iſſel and Groningen: Theſe Provinces which were formerly govern'd by diſtinct Lords or Princes, were all united under Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy, who left them to his Son Charles the Hardy: This Prince being kill'd at Nancy, in 1477, The Seventeen Provinces fell to his only Daughter, Mary of Burgundy, who carried them into the Houſe of Auſtria, by a Marriage with the Emperor Maximilian the Firſt. The Kings of France pretended a Right to ſeveral of theſe Provinces, as, Artois, Flanders, &c. But let that paſs. 'Tis ſufficient to obſerve, that in the Reign of Philip IId. of Spain, William of Naſſaw Prince of Orange, and ſeveral other diſcontented Noblemen gave beginning to thoſe diſturbances, which terminated in the loſs of Holland, and thoſe other Countreys, call'd the United Provinces. This War to ſpeak properly, began in 1566, and laſted till the Peace of Munſter 1648, I ſay it laſted thus long, excepting a Truce for Twelve Years, concluded in the Year 1609. The Dread of the Inquiſition, The Inſupportable rigour of the Duke of Alva's Government, and the Spaniards encroaching upon the Liberties and Privileges of the Country, were the occaſion of theſe extraordinary Commotions, as is further taken notice of in its proper place. The Principal Rivers of the Netherlands, are, The Rhine, the Shelde, the Meuſe, the Aa, the Iſſel, the Moſel, the Lis, the Sambre, the Scarp, &c. The Principal Towns, are Antwerp, Bruſſels, Amſterdam, Utrecht, Arſchot, Arras, St. Omer, Boiſledue, Cambray, Nimigen, Deventer, Delf, Gaunt, Ipre, Groningen, Zutphen, Valenciennes, Maeſtricht, Thionville, Rotterdam, Liſle, Louvain, Namure, Middleburg, Mons, Leyden, Harlem, Dort, &c. mention'd elſewhere. *Guicchardin. NETTER (Thomas) Waldenſis, ſo call'd from his being born at Walden in Eſſex, was a Carmelite Monk in London, and afterwards Provincial of his Order. He was imploy'd by King Henry IV, V, and VIth. in ſeveral important Negotiations. Waldenſis afterwards went to the Council of Conſtance, where he diſputed againſt the Huſſites and Wicliffites, againſt whom he wrote his Treatiſe, entitled, Doctrinale Antiquitatum Fidei Eccleſiæ Catholicæ, Dedicated to Pope Martin Vth. He dy'd in 1430. Trithem & Bellarmin de Script. Eccl. Cochleus, &c.

NEUBRIGENSIS (William) an Engliſhman and Canon Regular of the Order of St. Auguſtin, Liv'd in the XIIth. Cent. and wrote ſeveral Tracts, of which the moſt conſiderable, are his five Books of the Hiſtory of England, beginning at the Year 1066, or at the Conqueſt, and ending at 1197. Neubrigenſis is call'd Viridicus Auctor, by Polydor Virgil. He was born in 1135, and liv'd, as ſome ſay, to 1208. The beſt Edition of his Hiſtory was Printed, in Octavo, at Paris in 1610. Bale, Voſſius, Bellarmin, &c.

NEUBURG, a City, has given its Name to the Houſe of Neubourg, Branch of that of Bavaria. In 1569, that Family quitted Deuxponts, which was Hereditary to them. It has been obſerv'd, in ſpeaking of Bavaria and Deuxponts, that Stephen IId. Son of the Emperor Robert the Little, left two Sons, Frederick and Lewis the Black; this laſt had Alexander, Sir-nam'd the Lame Duke of Deuxponts, and Father of Lewis II. who left Wolfgung, that died in France in 1569, leaving Philip Lewis, in whom began the Branch of Neubourg; he died in 1614, leaving beſides ſeveral other Children, Wolfgang William, who ſucceeded him, and Auguſt, the firſt of the Branch of the Count Palatins of Sultzbach. Wolfgang became a Roman Catholick in 1614, and put in for the Succeſſion of Juliers, which involv'd him in the Netherland Wars. He died in 1653. His Son Philip William, born Nov.23. 1615. after many Diſputes with the Marqueſs of Brandenburg, about the ſame Succeſſion of Cleves and Juliers, ſucceeded Charles the Elector Palatine in 1685, by virtue of the Fifth Article of the Treaty of Oſnabrug. In 1688, the King of France outed him of moſt of the Palatinate againſt all Right and Juſtice, ſo that he now keeps his Reſidence at Neubourg. This Prince took to his firſt Wife Anna Catharina Conſtantia, Daughter of Sigiſmond IIId. King of Poland; and after her Death in 1651, he married Elizabeth, Daughter of George Prince of Heſſe Darmſtadt, who made him Father of the following Illuſtrious Offspring. 1. Eleonora Magdalena Tereſia, born at Duſſeldorp in 1655, and married to the preſent Emperor Leopold the Firſt in 1674. Johannes Wilhelmus Joſephus, Hereditary Prince, born in 1658, married to Maria Anna Joſepha, Daughter of the Emperor Ferdinand III. Lodovicus Antonius, born in 1660, Great Maſter of the Teutonick Order. Carolus Philippus, born in 1661, married to Loviſa Charlotte, Widow of the Marqueſs of Brandenburgh. Alexander Sigiſmund, born in 1663, Dean of the Chapter of Conſtance. Franciſcus Ludovicus, born in 1664, choſen Biſhop of Vratiſlaw, in 1683. Fredericus Wilhemus, born in 1665. Maria Sophia Elizabetha, born in 1666, married to Peter King of Portugal in 1687. Maria Anna, born in 1667, married to Charles II. late King of Spain, in 1689. Philipus Wilhelmus Auguſtus, born in 1668. Dorothea Sophia, in 1670. Hedewig Elizabetha Amalia, born in 1673. Leopoldina Eleonora Joſepha, born in 1679, which, with one Prince and two Princeſſes that died young, make up 17. *Schowart. obſerv. NEUBURG, in Briſgow, upon the Rhine, South of Baſil, betwixt it and Briſac, formerly an Imperial City, but in 1410 granted to the Houſe of Auſtria. It ſuffer'd much in 1675.

NEVERN, a Market Town of the Hundred of Kems in Pembrokeſhire.

NEVERS, upon the River Loire, is a City of France, the Capital of Nivernois, with a Biſhoprick under the Archbiſhop of Sens. It is very ancient, and mention'd by Cæſar in his Commentaries, under the Name of Noviodunum in Æduis. By other Latin Authors it is called, Niverna, Nivernium, Nivernum Vadicaſſium, Noviodunum Auguſtonemetum. It was made an Earldom under the firſt Kings of France, and Charles the Seventh made it a Dukedom and Peerage in 1457. In this City is ſtill to be ſeen the Caſtle of the ancient Earls; beſides which its Fortreſs, its Bridge of 20 Arches over the Loire, and its Manufactures of Glaſs and Earthen Ware, are Particulars worth the notice of Travellers. This City hath 11 Pariſhes, a conſiderable Chapter, and divers Eccleſiaſtical and Religious Houſes. The Nivernois, or Territory of Nevers, lies between Burgundy, Bourbonnois, Berry and Gaſtinois; is about 20 Leagues in length, and near as much in breadth: Its moſt conſiderable places, next to Nevers, are La Charite, St. Pierre le Mouſtier, Decize, Donzi, Clamecy, Vezelay, &c. This Province is alſo ſtor'd with Woods, Iron Mines, and ſome of Silver, with divers Quarries of curious and fair Stone. Henrietta of Cleves, Dutcheſs of Nevers and Rethel, was born the 31ſt. of October 1542, and was married the 5th. of March 1565, with Lewis of Gonzaga, Prince of Mantua, &c. Governor of Champagne, and died the 24th. of June 1601, and are the Stock from whence the late Dukes of Mantua proceed, of whom Cardinal Mazarine purchaſed the Dutchies of Nevers and Rethel, and left them to Philip Mancini Mazarin his Nephew, who at preſent is Duke of Nevers. *Du Bouchet. NEVEU (Magdalen) Lady of Roches in Poictou, lived, in the XVI. Century, and was famous for her Parts, Ingenuity and Learning, of which the Works ſhe hath writ are an abundant Teſtimony. She had a Daughter that was not inferior to her Mother in all theſe Accompliſhments. They both died of the Plague. Saint Marth. in Elog. lib. 3.

NEUFCHASTEL, a City of Normandy, in the Territory of Caux, upon a ſmall River, which runs into the Bethune, 7 or 8 Leagues from Diepe, and 4 from Aumale.

NEUFCHASTEL, or Newemburg; Lat. Neocomum, a City of Switzerland, upon a Lake of the ſame Name, Eight Leagues from Lauſanna, and a little leſs from Berne; it is Allied with the Swiſſe-Cantons, and is a Soveraign Earldom, which Joanna of Hochberg tranſported to the Houſe of Longueville in 1504, by her Marriage with Lewis of Orleans, firſt of that Name, Duke of Longueville.

NEUFMARCHE, Lat. Novus Mercatus, a Town on the River Ette, in the Dioceſs of Rouen, and Province of Normandy. It was formerly a Town of good Note. In 1151, Lewis VII. took it after a ſharp Siege. It was reſtored to the Engliſh in 1154. In 1161, Henry II. of England, order'd a Provincial to be call'd here, wherein Pope Alexander III. was owned, and the Anti-pope Victor rejected. It is 20 Miles South of Roan, and 20 Miles Weſt of Paris.

NEUHAIS, or Neuhaus, Lat. Novum Caſtrum, a ſtrong Hold in Livonia, upon the River Wop, 10 German Miles from Derpt, to the South-Eaſt, and as many South-Weſt from Pleſco. The Great Duke of Muſcovie inveſted this place in 1381, with an Army of 300000; but being ſlain by a random Shot from the Caſtle, his Forces withdrew from before it, though the place was much ſtreightned. John Baſilovits, one of his Succeſſors, took it in 1558. Guagninus.

NEVIL. This noble, ancient and ſpreading Family is derived from Gilbert de Nevil, ſaid to have been William the Conqueror's Admiral. His Grandſon Geoffry Married the Heireſs of Bertram de Bulmer (a great Baron in the North) and his Heireſs Iſabel was married to Robert Fitz-Maldred, Lord of Raby, in the Biſhoprick of Durham; and her Son Geoffry took his Mothers Sir-name, becauſe a great Heireſs, and from him that Branch, whoſe Seat was at Raby, and became afterwards Earl of Weſtmorland, did ſpring. The moſt remarkable of this Family of Raby was Allan de Nevil, a great Defender of the ancient cuſtoms of England againſt the Pope's Uſurpations; and therefore Excommunicated by Becket. He was Chief Juſtice of the Foreſts thoughout England, and Juſtice Itinerant in 16. Henry II. and ſeveral of their Succeſſors had the ſame Offices in After-reigns. Hugh took part with King John againſt the Barons, which aton'd for Robert and Hugh, two of his Predeceſſors; the one having ſided with the famous Boleſme, Earl of Shrewsbury, againſt Henry I. and the other with Robert de Vipont againſt Henry III. This Hugh was alſo in that Naval Expedition againſt the French with William Longeſpee, Earl of Salisbury, when they took moſt of the French Fleet at Dam in Flanders, and brought them to England in 15. John: but in the 18. of John, he took part with Lewis the French King's Son. Several others of this Family were Governours of Berwick, Norham, Wark and Bamborough Caſtles in Northumberland. In 5 Edward III. Ralph was retained by Indenture to ſerve the Lord Henry de Percy in Peace and War againſt all Men but the King, with 20 Men at Arms, whereof 5 to be Knights, receiving 100 l. Sterling per. an. Robes, &c. for himſelf and them, and in time of War to have Diet for himſelf, his Gentlemen, 6 Grooms, Provender and Shooes for 59 Horſes, Wages for 53 Inferiour Servants, and Harneſs for his own Body: That at Tournaments he ſhould attend him with 4 Knights, being allowed Diet for himſelf, them and their attendants, 5 Grooms, the Keeping of 36 Horſes, and Wages for 32 Servants: And at Parliament ſhould attend him with 6 Gentlemen and 9 Horſes, having Diet for 3 Men in his Hall, Proviſion for his Horſes, and Wages for 6 Servants. This ſame Ralph had a great Conteſt with the Prior of Durham, about offering him a Stag on Lammas-day, in token of Fealty for the Mannor of Raby. He was often one of the Commiſſioners to Treat about Peace with the French King before the Pope, and with the Scots about Peace, and the Ranſome of their King, David Bruce, having won great honour in the Battle of Durham, where that King was taken. And he was alſo made Warden of the Marches. He died Auguſt the 5th. 41. Edward III. and was the firſt Secular that ever was buried in the Cathedral of Durham. He was brought to the Church-yard in a Chariot with 7 Horſes, carried into the Church on the Shoulders of Knights. At ſaying of Maſs, 8 Horſes, with 4 Men at Arms, were offered for War, and 4 more for Peace, and 3 Cloths of Gold of blue Colour, his Lady giving 120 l. to repair the Cathedral Veſtments for Celebrating his Anniverſary. Sir William de Nevil his Son was at the raiſing the Siege of Breſt, and made Admiral for the King in the North of England. In the Firſt of Richard II. he was one of the Commiſſioners to Treat of a Peace with Scotland, and was one of the Chief of thoſe early Oppoſers of the Church of Rome, called Lollards. John his Son Signalized himſelf in France under Edward III. was his Admiral for the North, retain'd both by him and John Duke of Lancaſter: He entered Scotland with Edward Baliol, was at the Siege of Dunbar, took Alnwick from the Scots, was made Seneſchal of Bourdeaux in France, Lieutenant of Aquitain, and ſole Warden of the Eaſt-Marches towards Scotland. He was alſo employ'd againſt the Turks, and won 83 Walled Towns, Caſtles and Forts in France. He firſt Married a Daughter of the Earl of Northumberland's, and afterwards the Heireſs of Latimer, Lord Danby, by which means that Eſtate came to Ralph Earl of Weſtmorland. He died at Newcaſtle, Octob. 17. 12. Rich. II. His Son, Sir Ralph Nevil, ſucceeded, was imploy'd in ſeveral Treaties with Scotland and France, Warden of the Weſtern-Marches, Conſtable of the Tower; and in 21 of Richard II. Created Earl of Weſtmorland, had the Honour of Penrith, and all the Royalties formerly belonging to the Crown in Weſtmorland, conferred on him. Henry the 4th. whoſe Cauſe he eſpouſed againſt Richard, gave him the Honour of Richmond, and Created him Marſhal of England: He oppoſed the Earl of Northumberland in his Rebellion, and forced Henry Hotſpur, Son to that Earl, to retire with his Army from Durham, which occaſion'd his Defeat and Death in the Battle of Shrewsbury. He was one of thoſe that Treated with Rupert, King of the Romans, about a Match betwixt his Son and Henry the Fourths Daughter; was Warden of the Weſt-Marches towards Scotland, and Governor of Roxborough. He Founded the Collegiate-Church of Staindrope, in the Biſhoprick of Durham, for one Maſter, ſix Prieſts, ſix Clerks, ſix Eſquires, ſix Grooms, and ſix poor People, endowing them amply: He was twice Married, firſt with the Earl of Stafford's Daughter, and next with a Daughter of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaſter: He died Octob. 21. 4. Henry VI. and was buried at Staindrope under a ſtately Tomb, with the Figures of himſelf and his Wives. John his Son was Warden of the Marches, and Governor of Roxborough, impowered to make Truce with the Scots, made Governor of Vernoil in France, and Commiſſioned to ſubdue ſuch places there as ſtood out againſt Henry V. He died Anno 1423, his Father living, and was buried in the Gray Fryars Church, London. Ralph, Earl of Weſtmorland, was Son to this John, Married into the Family of Northumberland; and then Sir Reginald Cobham's Daughter, and died in the 2d. Richard III. John his Son by the Lord Piercy's Daughter, ſucceeded, Married the Daughter of John Holland, Duke of Exeter; but having no Iſſue, was ſucceeded by Sir John Nevil, his Father's Brother, who adhered to Henry VI. againſt the Houſe of York; and was ſlain at Touton-Field in that quarrel. His Son Ralph ſucceeded, of whom there is nothing remarkable. His Grandſon Ralph ſucceeded, and was one of them who ſubſcribed the Letter to Pope Clement VII. That if he did not allow of Henry VIII's Divorce from Queen Catharine, they would ſhake off his Supremacy. He Married Catharine, Daughter of Edward Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, whoſe Daughters, by her, were Married to the Earls of Oxford, Rutland, Gilleſland, Sir Thomas Danby, Sir Bryan Stapleton, and Sir Foulk Greeneville of Beauchamp's Court Com. War. Henry his Son ſucceeded, Married Jane, the Earl of Rutland's Daughter, by whom he had Charles, who ſucceeded him; and being privy to the intended Marriage of Mary, Queen of Scots (then Priſoner in England) to the Duke of Norfolk, ſubmitted himſelf to the Earl of Suſſex, and deſired his Interceſſion to the Queen; but afterwards broke out into open Rebellion with the Earl of Northumberland; but the Earl of Suſſex aforeſaid being Preſident of the North, marching againſt them, they fled into Scotland; and this Earl lurking ſometime with Car of Ferniharſt, fled into the Netherlands, where he was entertained by the Spaniards till his Death, being attainted here in the Parliament 13 Eliz. and all his Poſſeſſions confiſcated, leaving no Male Iſſue: His Lady was Daughter to Henry Earl of Surry, and Siſter to Thomas Duke of Norfolk, by whom he had Catharine, Married to Sir Thomas Gray of Chillingham, Com. Northumb, Margaret Wife of Nicholas Pudſey, and Anne, Wife of David Engleby, Brother to Sir William Engleby of Ripley Com. Ebor. Dugdale.

NEVIL (Thomas) Lord Furnival, was Brother to Ralph Lord Nevil, the firſt Earl of Weſtmorland, Married the Heireſs of Willi[illegible] Lord Furnival, in 7. Rich. II. and ſo had that Title; He was Commiſſion'd, with others, to Treat of a Peace with the Scots; was by Henry IV. made Warden of Anandale, and entruſted by the Commons to receive and pay the Money which they gave that King during his Wars; made Governor of Berwick upon Tweed, Alnwick and Werkworth, Com. Northumb. and died in the 8th. of Henry IV. He had no Iſſue Male. His eldeſt Daughter, Maud, was Married to the famous John Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury, and brought her Eſtate into that Noble Family. Dugdale.

NEVIL (Richard) Earl of Salisbury, eldeſt Son to Ralph Earl of Weſtmorland, was Warden of the Weſt-Marches, towards Scotland, in the firſt and ſecond of Henry VI. and one of the Commiſſioners to Treat with James I. of Scotland, about a firm Peace; and Marrying Alice, Daughter and Heireſs to Thomas de Mountacute, Earl of Salisbury, had that Title. In 11 Henry VI. he was made Warden both of the Eaſt and Weſt-Marches; and in 14 Henry VI. retain'd to ſerve the King in France with 7 Knights, 249 Men at Arms, and 1040 Archers. In 26 Henry VI. he was made Governor of Carliſle, and with his Son Richard, Earl of Warwick, had a grant of 9083 l. 6 s. 8 d. per annum out of the Cuſtoms: Both of them took part with Richard, Duke of York, who at that time aſpired to the Crown; and in 36. Henry VI. defeated the King's Forces at St. Albans, accompanied the Duke with a great Force to London to Treat of a Reconciliation; afterward he defeated Sir James Audley and the King's Forces at Bloreheath, near Drayton in Shropſhire. In the 38. of Henry VI. the Old Soldiers having deſerted the Duke of York, he fled to Calais, and was Attainted in the Parliament held at Coventry: But adventuring again with the Duke of York into England, and obtaining a notable Victory againſt the Lancaſtrians at Northampton, he was made Lord Great Chamberlain of England; but a little after he was taken in a Battle againſt the Lancaſtrians near Wakefield, his Son Sir Thomas ſlain, he himſelf was Beheaded, and his Head ſet on a Pole over one of the Gates of York; his Sons were Richard Earl of Warwick, (and after his Death Earl of Salisbury,) John Marqueſs of Mountague, Sir Thomas, George Biſhop of Exeter, and Lord Chancellor of England, and afterward Archbiſhop of York: His Daughters were Joan, Married to William Fitz-Allan Earl of Arundel, Cicely to Henry Beauchamp Duke of Warwick, Alice to Henry Lord Fitz-Hugh of Ravenſrath, Eleonor to Thomas Stanly, the firſt Earl of Derby of that Name, Catharine to the Lord Bonville's eldeſt Son, and Margaret to John de Vere Earl of Oxford, and afterwards to William Lord Haſtings, Chamberlain to King Edward IV. Dugdale.

NEVIL (Richard) Earl of Warwick, eldeſt Son to Richard Earl of Salisbury, Married the Heireſs of Henry Duke of Warwick, in regard of which and his Services in the War againſt the Scots. July 23. 1449, he was Inveſted with that Title, in 27 Hen. VI. He was called the ſtout Earl of Warwick, becauſe of his Activity in the Broils betwixt the Houſes of Lancaſter and York, he deſerted Hen. VI. becauſe of a quarrel betwixt himſelf and the Duke of Somerſet and the Queen's favouring the latter. His Father the Earl of Salisbury was the firſt who gave the onſet to Henry VI. at St. Albans, where he took the King, cauſed him to ſummon a Parliament, made himſelf Protector of the King and his Son Richard Governor of Calice. When he came afterwards to Treat with the King at London, he brought 600 Men with him in red Coats embroidered with white ragged Staves before and behind. A quarrel happening betwixt one of them and a Servant of the King's, the Earl pretended a Deſign againſt his Life, and got over to Calice, which he would not reſign to the Duke of Somerſet, ſent by the King, but maintained himſelf with a booty worth 10000 l. which he had got at Sea, as Admiral, having after three days fight taken three Genoeſe and two Merchant Ships loaden with Merchandiſe, killing 1000 and loſing 100 Men. In 38 Hen. VI. he came over with Andrew Trollop a Valiant Commander, and a Band of ſtout Men, joyned the Yorkiſts at Ludeford in Herefordſhire, ſuborning divers to ſwear that the King was dead, to animate the People, which Trollop deteſting, went over with the beſt of his Men to the King, ſo that the Earl and his Father retired again with much difficulty to Calice. And were afterwards Attainted by the Parliament. Then they ſail'd to the Duke of York in Ireland, but finding themſelves too weak, deceived King Henry by ſpecious pretences of fidelity, obtained permiſſion to land in Kent, and Swore to the People at Canterbury that they bore true Allegiance to the King, and only deſired admiſſion to ſpeak to him, whereupon many joyned them; but when they came to Northampton, where the King was, the Earl of Warwick led the Van, gave the King Battle, took himſelf, and ſlew many of his Men; but the Queen raiſing an Army in Yorkſhire, defeated and kill'd the Duke of York at Wakefield, and afterwards routed the Earl of Warwick with his Son's Party, and recovered the King from them at St. Albans, but the Earl of Warwick and the Dukes Son the Earl of March eſcaping, came up again with a great Power toward London, which ſo terrified the Queen, that ſhe retired with the King and Prince to the North, and left London to the Yorkiſts, where they proclaim'd Edward Earl of March King, by the Name of Edward IV. march'd againſt King Henry to the North, and receiving ſome loſs at Ferrybriggs, which ſtartled many; the Earl of Warwick killed his Horſe in King Edward's Preſence, ſaying, Let him flee that flee will, I'll tarry with him that tarries with me, and kiſſed the Croſs of his Sword to confirm the Reſolution. The day after King Edward obtain'd a mighty Victory over the adverſe Party at Touton. The Earl of Warwick, for his good Services, was created Governor of Calice, Ryſebank, and Caſtle of Guynes in France, General Warden of the Eaſt-Marches towards Scotland, Lord Great Chamberlain of England for Life, Conſtable of Dover Caſtle, and Lord High Steward of England. In ſhort, being the Great Support of the Houſe of York, there was nothing of Honour, Authority, or Benefit, which he deſired, that he miſs'd of, having got many Crown-Lands, Forfeitures, &c. So that, beſides his own Inheritance, his Revenues were valued at 80000 Crowns per An. After this he was ſent into France, to Treat of a Marriage betwixt King Edward, and the Duke of Savoy's Daughter, Siſter to the French Queen, in which he had good Succeſs; but the King falling in Love with Sir John Grey's Widow, whom he ſaw as hunting in Wychwood Foreſt, broke off the Treaty, which diſguſted the Earl of Warwick; and the King, ſuſpecting his Greatneſs, ſought to leſſen him; and on the other ſide,he endeavoured the King's Ruin. Yet after this he was employed in ſeveral Treaties in France, Burgundy, Britainy, and Scotland. The firſt Diſcovery that he made of his Deſign, was in the 7 of Edw. 4. when, being in Warwickſhire, he communicated his Purpoſe of reſtoring King Henry to his two Brothers, the Archbiſhop of York, and Marquiſs of Montague, and drew over the King's Brother, George Duke of Clarence, by giving him his Eldeſt Daughter with a vaſt Portion. His own Brethren rebelled in Yorkſhire, and defeated the Royaliſts at Edgecott in Oxfordſhire, while the King marched toward Warwick at the Head of a great Army. In the mean time the Earl ſends to Treat of a Peace, which rendring the King ſecure, he ſurpriz'd him in his Camp at Wolvey, carried him firſt to Warwick, and then to Yorkſhire, committing him to the Cuſtody of his Brother, the Archbiſhop; but he eſcaped not long after, raiſed Men, defeated Sir Robert Wells with his Forces in Lincolnſhire, which obliged the Earl and Duke of Clarence to retire into France, where they were well received. The Earl applied himſelf to Margaret, (Wiſe of King Henry VI.) fled thither for Shelter, and to make ſure of the Lancaſtrian Intereſt, match'd his other Daughter Anne to Edward, Prince of Wales, and took an Oath to reſtore King Henry, which procured him great Aſſiſtance from the Queen's Friends; ſo that Landing in the Weſt of England, and Proclaiming King Henry, his Power, he increaſed ſo much, that King Edward was forced to flee the Land, and the Earl of Warwick entred London in October, brought King Henry out of the Tower, reſtored him to the Throne, and was made Lord High Admiral of England. But e'er a Year paſſed, King Edward landed again, and grew ſo ſtrong that his Brother, the Duke of Clarence, made his Peace with him, and offered to do the like for the Earl, who diſdain'd it; and, taking Arms, loſt his Life in Barnet-Field on Eaſter-day, with a great Number of his Followers. His Corpſe with that of his Brother, the Marquiſs de Montague, were brought to London, expoſed in St. Paul's, and afterwards interred at Biſham, Com. Berks. This Earl was in ſo great Repute, that no Man eſteemed himſelf Gallant, that did not wear his ragged Staff, and every well-frequented Houſe wore his white Croſs: he always uſed to fight on Horſe-back after he had led his Men to the Charge, and if the Victory fell on his ſide, to fight among his Soldiers; but otherwiſe to depart in time: But here, being perſuaded by his Brother, the Marquiſs of Montague, he ſent away his Horſe. He was ſo Hoſpitable that at his Houſe in London ſix Oxen were generally eaten for a Break-Faſt, and any who had Acquaintance in his Family, might have as much boil'd and roaſt Meat as they could carry away on a Dagger. He was ſtil'd Great Captain of the Sea, had all the King's Tonage and Poundage for his Support, 1000 l. per An. out of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, and a peculiar Officer at Arms for his Service in Martial Employments, called Warwick Herauld. His Counteſs was reduc'd to great Straits after his Death, being forced to take Sanctuary in Abbies, in a very mean Condition, 'till Hen. 7. annull'd the Acts of Parliament, by which ſhe was diſinherited. Dugdale's Baronage.

NEVIL, (John) Marqueſs of Montague, Son to Richard, Earl of Salisbury, and Brother to the Earl of Warwick laſt mentioned, was, for his Service to the Houſe of York, created Lord Montague by Edward IV. General Warden of the E. Marches of Scotland, and Earl of Northumberland; he defeated the Lancaſtrians at Hexam, was a Commiſſioner in ſeveral Treaties with Scotland. Edward IV. being jealous of him, reſtored Young Percy to Northumberland, and created the Lord Montague Marquiſs, and his Son George, Duke of Bedford. But he joyn'd with his Brother Richard above-mentioned, againſt the King, becauſe he took the Earldom of Northumberland from him. Yet he afterwards held private Correſpondence with King Edward, and was privately Slain by ſome of his Brother's Servants, as putting on King Edward's Livery at Barnet-field, though he made a ſhew of joyning with the Lancaſtrians. Dugdale's Baronage.

NEVIL, (William) Lord Fauconbridge, was Son to Ralph, the firſt Earl of Weſtmorland, and Uncle to Richard, Earl of Warwick; he was Governor of Roxborough Caſtle in Scotland, ſignalized himſelf at the Siege of Orleans, taken by the French, ſet at Liberty, won a great deal of Honour againſt the Lancaſtrians at the Battel of Touton, created Earl of Kent, and Lord High Admiral of England by Edward IV. but died without Iſſue Male. Dugdale.

NEVIL, (Edward) Lord Bergavenny, married Elizabeth, Heireſs of Richard Beauchamp, Earl of Worceſter, Son of William, Lord Bergavenny, but was kept out of Poſſeſſion of Bergavenny, by Richard, Earl, and Henry, Duke of Warwick, till Henry VI. gave him Livery and Seiſin. Sir George, his Second Son, ſucceeded, was ſent over to Calice, to aſſiſt Maximilian the Emperor againſt the French, and died in 7 Hen. 7. being ſucceeded by George his Son, who was one of the principal Perſons in the Battel of Black-Heath, where the Corniſh Rebels were defeated in 8 H. 7. was made Conſtable of Dover Caſtle, Warden of the Cinque-Ports, and was preſent at the Interview betwixt Henry VIII. and Francis I. of France, betwixt Guiſnes and Ardres; he was one of thoſe who ſubſcribed the Letter to Pope Clement VII. renouncing his Supremacy, if he did not allow of the Divorce. He married Mary, Daughter to the Duke of Buckingham, and therefore was ſuſpected of favouring his Treaſon, but cleared. He died about 1535. and was buried at Birling in Kent. His Son Henry, by the Duke of Buckingham's Daughter, ſucceeded; was one of the Embaſſy that preſented the French King with the Garter, and died Feb. 20. 1586. leaving only one Daughter, who marrying Sir Thomas Fane, diſputed the Title of Baroneſs of Bergavenny, againſt Edward Nevil, her Uncle, to whoſe Heir Male it was adjudged May 25. 1 Jac. She having the Barony of Le Deſpenſer granted to her and her Heirs. This Edward was one of the Judges who ſat upon Mary, Queen of Scots, and died 31 Eliz. ſucceeded by Edward his Son, and he by Henry his Son, who married Mary, Daughter of Thomas Sackville, Earl of Dorſet, by whom he had Sir Thomas Nevil, who died without Iſſue; ſo that John, Son of Catharine Howard, Second Wife to Henry, Lord Bergavenny, ſucceeded, and having no Iſſue, was ſucceeded by George, his Brother, who married Mary, Daughter of Henry Giffard, Dr. of Phyſick, by whom he had George, now Lord Bergavenny, and died June, Anno 1666. Dugdale.

NEVIL, Lord Latimer. The firſt who bore this Title, was John, Son to Ralph, Lord Raby, by Elizabeth, Heireſs to William, Lord Latimer, of Danby; but dying without Iſſue, his Nephew, George Nevil, Son to Ralph, Earl of Weſtmorland, ſucceeded, was employed in the War againſt, and ſeveral Treaties with the Scots, by Henry VI. In his latter Days he became an Idiot, and his Eſtate was managed by his Nephew, Richard, Earl of Warwick: he died Decemb. 30. 9 E. 4. His Grandſon, Richard Nevil,ſucceeding, his own Son, Sir Henry, being ſlain at Edgecott-Field, in Edward IV's time. This Richard was one of the Commanders at the Battel of Stoke, near Newark upon Trent, againſt John, Earl of Lincoln, and his Adherents, who were there vanquiſh'd. He was alſo a Commander againſt the Scots at Flodden-Field, and one of the Subſcribers of the Letter to Pope Clement VII. about King Henry VIII's Divorce. His Son John ſucceeded, who was choſen by the Lords Scroope, Lumly, and Darcy, the Chiefs in the Inſurrection againſt Henry VIII. called, The Pilgrimage of Grace, to Treat with the King's General, the Duke of Norfolk, then advancing againſt him. His firſt Wife was Daughter to the Earl of Oxford; and his Second, Daughter to Sir Thomas Parr of Kendal, who was the laſt Queen to Henry VIII. Whoſe Son John ſucceeded, and having no Iſſue Male, but Four Daughters for Heirs, he was the laſt Lord Latimer of this Family. His Daughter Catharine was married to Henry, Earl of Northumberland; Dorothy to Thomas Cecil, Lord High-Treaſurer of England, and afterward Earl of Exeter; Lucy to Sir William Conrwallis, Knight; and —— to Sir John Davers, Knight. Dugdale.

NEVIL's-CROSS, a noted Place near Durham for the Battel fought there Octob. 20. 1346. betwixt the Engliſh and Scots, whilſt Edward III. was taken up with the Siege of Calice; the Battel was chiefly manag'd by the Lords Mowbray, Percy, and Nevil; the Queen her ſelf being in Perſon in the Field; and ſuch was our Succeſs in it, that the Scots were entirely defeated, and their King, David Bruce, taken Priſoner by one Copland, a Man of mean degree, but knighted for the Action.

NEUMARK, Lat. Nova Marchia, a City of Tranſilvania, called Waverhely by the Hungarians, on the River Meriſch, at the Foot of the Carpathian Mountains, 36 M. North-Eaſt from Clauſenburg. The States of Tranſilvania uſually meet here.

NEUSTAT, Lat. Neoſtadium, one of the Principal Cities in Auſtria, on a ſmall River in a Marſhy Ground, ſix German Leagues South of Vienna. The Town is Square, having a Piazza in the middle, and is defended with Two Walls and a Ditch; and tho' not very ſtrong, yet Solyman the Magnificent, An. 1529. ſtorm'd it ſeven times in one day, and was [illegible] often repulſed. The Emperor has a great Palace here, with Four Towers to be ſeen at a great diſtance. There is another Town of this Name, five Miles Weſt from Opelin in Bohemia, another on the Rhine, four Miles from Spire, and two North of Landaw. A fourth in the Dutchy of Wirtzburg,two Miles Eaſt of Hailbron. And a fifth in Brunſwick, ſix Miles Weſt of Zell, under the Duke of Hanover.

NEURE, a River in Kilkenny, in the Province of Leinſter in Ireland, which waters Roſſe, falls into the Sewre, ſeparates Leinſter from Munſter, and runs into the Sea beneath Waterford.

NEURY, a Town of Ireland in the Province of Vlſter, County of Down, and Barony of Vpper Evagh. Long. 8. 50. Lat. 51. 12.

NEUSTRIA, or Weſtria, a Part of France, anciently ſo called, and contain'd the Weſtern Part of it, that reach'd from the River Saone and the Maes, or Meuſe, to the Loire and the Ocean. This Name is uſed by the Writers that lived under Charlemaigne and his Son: and hath been ſince changed into that of Normandy, though that Province, according to the Bounds it hath at preſent, be indeed but a Part of the Ancient Neuſtria.

NEVYN, a Market and Sea-Town in the South-Weſt of Carnarvanſhire, in Trullain Hundred.

NEW-ALBION: See CALIFORNIA.

NEWARK, a Market and Borough-Town of Newark Wapen-take in the Eaſt Parts of Nottinghamſhire, ſituate on the Eaſt-ſide of the River Trent, and call'd Newark, from a Caſtle built here on the River's ſide by Alexander, Biſhop of Lincoln, the Ruins whereof yet ſtanding are a ſufficient Proof of its former Strength and Beauty. This, in ſhort, is one of the chiefeſt Places in the whole Country, and a great Thorow-fare on the Northern-Road; having a fair Market-Place, with a Church and a Steeple of curious Architecture. In this Town died King John coming from Lincolnſhire, when he went thither to fight Lewis the Dauphin of France. Edward VI. made it a Corporation, and gave it the Privilege of ſending two Burgeſſes to Parliament. In the Year 1643. it was beſieged by the Parliament Forces, and the Siege raiſed by Prince Rupert. But in 46 it was forc'd to ſurrender, King Charles I. being then in the Hands of the Scots, and all his Forces diſſipated. The ſame gives the Title of Viſcount to the Earl of Kingſtone.

NEWBERY, a Market-Town of Fair-croſs Hundred in the South-Weſt Parts of Berkſhire: It ſtands upon the River Kennet, and is chiefly noted for the two Battles fought here in the Civil-Wars, the firſt, Septemb. 10. 1643. the ſecond, Octob. 27. 1644. whereof take this Account extracted from Dr. Fuller. The Earl of Eſſex having raiſed the Siege of Gloceſter, and returning towards London, was rather followed than overtaken by the King's Army, both Sides might have been trac'd by a Track of bloody Footſteps, eſpecially at Aubrun in Wiltſhire, where they had a ſharp Encounter. At Newbery the Earl made a Stand, and here hapned a fierce Fight on the Eaſt-ſide of the Town, wherein the Londoners ſhew'd that they could uſe a Sword in the Field, as well as a Mete-yard in the Shop. The Parliament was conceiv'd to loſe moſt, and the King the moſt conſiderable Perſons, amongſt whom where the Earls of Carnarvan and Sunderland, the Viſcount Faulkland, Colonel Morgan, &c. Both ſides were ſo beaten, that neither of 'em had cauſe to boaſt the next Day of a Victory, or car'd to renew the Fight. As to the Second, one would wonder how the Earl of Eſſex, ſo lately ſtript of all his Infantry in Cornwall, ſo ſoon recruited himſelf with more Foot. In fine, he gave the King Battel, which was as long and ſharp as the former, but more favourable to the Parliament ſide. The Royaliſts, ſenſible of their Diſadvantage, thought it beſt to withdraw, and, to amuſe the Enemy, they hung lighted Matches upon the Hedges, and marched off in as good Order as their Condition would allow. Charles Fitz-Roy, Duke of Southampton, was created Baron of this Place in 1675.

NEW-BISCAYE, a Country of New-Spain in Northern America, bounded with the Kingdom of Mexico to the North; it has ſome Towns and ſtrong Forts poſſeſſed by the Spaniards; and is of note for its two Silver Mines.

NEWBURY, a Market-Town of Menay Hundred, in the South Parts of the Iſle of Angleſey.

NEW-CASTLE, Lat. Novum Caſtrum, the Chief Town of Northumberland, lies North by Weſt from London, on the North-ſide of the River Tine, which parts Northumberland from the Biſhoprick of Durham, and not above Seven Miles from its Fall into the Sea. For Diſtinction's ſake it's call'd New-Caſtle upon Tine, to difference it from New-Caſtle upon Line in Staffordſhire. Over the River it has a fair Stone-Bridge leading to Gates-Head in Durham, with an Iron-Gate in the middle, parting the two Counties. The Town ſtands high and low, moſt of it upon a Hill of no eaſy Aſcent, and the reſt upon the bottom near the River; it contains in all four large Pariſhes; the Houſes are moſt of Stone, ſome all Timber, and a few Brick: The whole encompaſſed with a Wall, and fortified with a Caſtle now falling to ruin, built by Robert, Son to William the Conqueror. From whence this Town, formerly call'd Monk-Cheſter, took the Name of New-Caſtle. It was made a Mayor-Town by Richard II. Amongſt the other Publick Buildings of this Place, the Key and Town-Houſe, the Cuſtom-Houſe upon Sandy-Hill, and St. Nicholas Church in the middle of the Town, are the moſt remarkable. Ships of good Burthen come up to the very Bridge, though the New-Caſtle Fleet ſeldom comes higher than Sheels, at the River's Mouth. Under the Town is the Exchange or Meeting-Place for Merchants. St. Nicholas Church ſtands very lofty on the Hill, and looks more like a Cathedral than a Pariſh-Church, with a fair Steeple of curious Architecture. But the main buſineſs of New-Caſtle, is the great Trade it drives both by Sea and Land in moſt ſorts of Commodities, which has made it long ſince the richeſt Place of the North. The Coal-Trade, eſpecially, has much contributed to its Wealth, being ſurrounded as it is with Coal-Pits, bleſs'd with the Convenience of a Navigable River for the Tranſportation of ſo neceſſary and uſeful a Commodity; and endow'd with great Privileges. Inſomuch that no Owner of Coals can load a Ship with his own Commodity without the Inſpection of a Fitter, who has 6 d. a Chaldron allow'd him, beſides 3 d. a Chaldron the Town takes as a Duty. To conclude, New-Caſtle was made a County of it ſelf by King Henry VI. by which it has the Privilege of governing it ſelf independently from the reſt of the County. In the Reign of King James I. it gave the Title of Earl to Lodowick Stuart, Duke of Lenox, afterwards made Earl, and at laſt, Duke of Richmond, An. 1627. It was revived in the Perſon of William Cavendiſh, Viſcount Mansfield, and Baron Ogle, which King Charles I. improv'd afterwards to the Title of Marqueſs, and at laſt to that of Duke of New-Caſtle: Wherein he was ſucceeded by Henry, his Son and Heir, the late Duke, with whom the Title died. But has been ſince, by William III. revived in the Perſon of John Holles, Earl of Clare, who married one of the ſaid Duke's Daughters, and now enjoys the Honour of Duke of New-Caſtle, and was after made Knight of the Garter.

NEW-CASTLE, a Market and Borough-Town of Pyre-Hill Hundred, in the North-Weſt Parts of Staffordſhire. This is commonly call'd New-Caſtle upon Line, from the Revolet Line, upon which it is ſeated, to diſtinguiſh it from New-Caſtle upon Tine in Northumberland.

NEW-CASTLE, a Market-Town in the North-Eaſt Parts of Carnarvanſhire.

NEW-CASTLE, a Barony and Town of Ireland, in the Province of Leinſter and County of Dublin. Long. 6. 59. Lat. 53. 17.

NEW-ENGLAND was firſt diſcovered by Sebaſtian Cabot, in 1497, and 1584. Mr. Philip Amadas and Mr. Arthur Barlow, took Poſſeſſion of it for Queen Elizabeth. Next Year Sir Richard Greenvil conveyed an Engliſh Colony thither under Mr. Ralph Lane, who in a Year after returned with Sir Francis Drake into England. It has Canada on the North, New-York on the Weſt, Penſilvania on the South, and the Atlantick-Ocean on the Eaſt. Hath 70 Miles of Sea-Coaſt, with ſeveral good Havens, ſome capable of giving ſafe Harbor to 500 Sail; about 200 Iſles, which lie on the Coaſt breaking the Rage of the Sea and Winds. Captain Smith, being taken by the Natives, gives this Account of their Superſtition; That in a Houſe where he lay, Seven of their Prieſts, each with a Rattle began at Ten in the Morning to Sing about a Fire which they encompaſſed with a Circle of Meal; at the end of every Song they laid down ſome Grains of Wheat; then the Chief Prieſt, cloathed with a Skin, and his Head adorned with Weeſels Skins, &c. and a Coronet of Feathers, painted as ugly as the Devil, at the end of every Song he uſed ſtrange and vehement Geſtures, throwing Cakes of Deer Suet and Tabaco into the Fire, and thus continued for three Days till Six at Night: Pretending that it was to know of their God, whether any more Engliſh would come, and what they deſigned. They fed the Captain ſo high, that he was afraid of being Sacrificed to their God, than whoſe Image nothing can be more Monſtrous. Being ſet at Liberty, and Preſident of the Company, the Women gave him a very odd Entertainment, thus; Thirty of them came out of the Wood, their Rodies being covered with Leaves, and variouſly painted; their Leader had a Pair of large Stagg's Horns, Bows and Arrows, the reſt were dreſſed in the ſame manner, they ruſh'd through the Streets with helliſh Shouts, and danced round a Fire for an hour; after which they ſolemnly invited him to their Lodging, where they all ſurrounded him, crying, Love you not me; and after having feaſted him with great Variety in their mad way of Cookery, conducted him home with a Firebrand. The Natives wear looſe Mantles, Aprons of Deer-Skins round their middle, all elſe being naked; their Stature is like ours in England; they Paint themſelves; and he is reckoned the greateſt Gallant that is moſt deformed. The Women embroider their Legs, Hands, &c. with Figures of Serpents, &c. and Black Spots in their Fleſh. Their Houſes are made of ſmall Poles ſet round, faſtned at top like our Arbors, and covered with Matts. They are expert Archers, and ſhoot flying or running. One of our Men was ſhot through the Body and both the Arms at once with an Arrow. And an Indian ſhot an Arrow of an Ell long through a Target which was Piſtol-proof. Their Bows are of tough Hazel, their Strings of Leather, their Arrows of Cane or Hazel, pointed with Stone or Horn. They ſoon faint, if their Arrows do not execution in Battle. They ſay they have Men of above two hundred years old. When they deſign to make War, they firſt conſult with their Prieſts and Conjurers, and adore whatever they think may unavoidably hurt them, as Fire, Water, Lightning, Thunder, our Guns, Muskets, and Horſes. Nay ſome of them were once ſo terrified at ſeeing an Engliſh Boar ſet up his Briſtles, that they were in a mighty fear, taking him to be the God of the Swine, and angry at them. Their chief object of Worſhip is the Devil, whom they call O-kee; conferr with him, and faſhion themſelves like him. In their Temple they have his Image Ill-favouredly carved and painted, with Chains, Copper, and Beads, and covered with a Skin. When their Kings die they unbowel them, dry them on a Hurdle adorn'd with Chains and Beads, and wrapping them in white Skins and Mats, intomb them in Arches of the ſame with their Wealth at their Feet, but the common People they wrap in Skins and Mats, put them in a Hole, and laying Sticks upon them, cover them afterwards with Earth, which being done, the Women paint their Faces black with Coal and Oyl, and mourn in the Houſe together twenty four hours, yelling by turns. In 1606. A ſmall Colony of Engliſh was ſent hither under Captains Popham and Gilbert, at the Charge of Sir John Popham, but without effect. Soon after ſome Honourable Perſons of the Weſt of England obtained of King James I. a Patent of North America, called New-England, from 40 to 48 degrees of North Latitude; but the Deſcriptions being uncertain and falſe, little other Improvement was made, ſave the erecting ſome few Cottages for Fiſhers and Planters. In 1610. Mr. Robinſon, a diſſenting Miniſter, with other Engliſh then at Leyden, obtain'd a Grant from King James I. to plant themſelves in New-England, about Hudſon's River, and enjoy the Liberty of their Conſcience. They ſail'd from Plimouth in September, for the South of New-England, but eſcaping many Dangers, were about the 11th. of November caſt upon a boſom of Cape-Cod, in Maſſachuſet's Bay. Winter drawing on a pace, wanting opportunity to remove, and being encouraged by the Soil and Courteſie of the Heathen, they founded a New Colony, calling it New-Plimouth, (becauſe Plimouth was the laſt Town they ſailed from in England,) extending about 100 Miles in length, but not half ſo broad. From thence to 1636. they were very ſucceſsful, and increaſed; but the Naraganſets, the Fierceſt and moſt Warlike of the Natives, murthered ſeveral of them, and the Dutch, as Captain Stone, Captain Oldham, &c. but the Inhabitants of the Colonies falling unanimouſly upon them in 1637. cut off about ſeven hundred, and the reſt were kill'd by the Neighbouring Indians to whom before they were terrible, upon which Miantonimoh, Chief of the Magahins, expecting to be ſole Ruler over the Indians, fell upon ſome that were Confederate with the Engliſh, which was proved upon him at Boſton by one of his Fellows, called Uncas, for which he made War upon him at his Return; but Uncas taking him, cut off his Head by Advice of the Engliſh, An. 1643. from whence to 75. there was Peace on all Sides, till Sachem of Mount-Hope raiſed ſome Diſturbances againſt the Engliſh. So that from firſt to laſt the Engliſh gave no Ground of Quarrel. In 1620. three Months after the firſt Plantation of Plimouth Colony, Maſſaſoit, or the Chief Commander of that Side of the Country, entred a League offenſive and defenſive with them, which he confirmed in 1630, a little before his Death, for himſelf and his Heirs, his two Sons Alexander and Philip being with him; he would fain have engaged them not to draw any of his Subjects from their Heatheniſm, but they would make no ſuch Treaty with him; ſo that he hated the Engliſh for being Chriſtians, which appearing more diſcernibly in his Son, it occaſioned the rooting out of that Part of the Indians; ſo that Paſtaconaway, the great Sachim or Sagamore of Merimack River, being ſenſible of the fatal Conſequence of oppoſing the Engliſh, in his laſt Farewell to his Children and People, cautions them againſt it. But Alexander, Son to the Maſſaſoit aforeſaid, plotted againſt the Engliſh, whereupon a ſtout Gentleman was ſent to bring him before the Council of Plimouth, who ſurpriz'd him and Eight more in a Hunting-houſe, at which he was ſo grieved that he fell into a Fever, and died. His Brother Philip, commonly called King Philip for his haughty Spirit, came in Perſon in 1662. with Sauſaman, his Chief Secretary, to renew the above-mentioned League, and for ſeven Years lived in good Correſpondence with the Engliſh; but in 1676. he plotted a General Inſurrection againſt their Colonies, and cauſed Sauſaman to be murthered for diſcovering it; for which the Murtherers being apprehended, were executed; and Philip took himſelf openly to Arms, deſtroying the Engliſh and their Habitations with the utmoſt Cruelty for two Years; till at laſt, being ſeveral times defeated, having loſt his Wife, Son and Treaſures, he was ſurpriz'd in his Den upon Mount-Hope, and ſhot through the Heart by one of his own Subjects that joined with the Engliſh. The Country is poſſeſſed by divers ſorts of People judged to be Tartars by Deſcent, and are divided into ſeveral Tribes, the Churchers, Tarentines and Monhegans to the Eaſt and North-Eaſt, the Tequets, and Maraganſets to the South, Connecticuts and Mowhacks to the Weſt, Matachuſets, Wippanaps and Tarentines to the North; and the Poranets who live Weſt of Plimouth. There was a great Mortality among them at the firſt Arrival of the Engliſh, ſo that the Matachuſets from 30000 were reduced to 300. The Pequods were deſtroyed by the Engliſh, the Mowhacks are about 500, and ſpeak a Dialect of the Tartars: They are Tall, well Limbed, Pale and Lean Viſag'd, black Ey'd, have long, curled black Hair, but no Beards; their Teeth are white, ſhort and even, and they have generally flat Noſes; their young Women are plump in Face and Body, of a ſoft and ſmooth Skin, and good Complexion, but that they dye themſelves Tawny, and all of a modeſt Demeanour conſidering their ſavage Breeding. The Natives are Inconſtant, Crafty and Timorous, but very Ingenious, quick of Apprehenſion, ſoon Angry, barbarouſly Cruel, prone to Revenge, Haters of Strangers, very Thieviſh, and all of them Cannibals; the Men keep two or three Wives according to their Ability or Strength of Body, and the Women have the eaſieſt Labour of any in the World; when their Time is come, they go out alone, carrying a Board with them two Foot long, and a Foot and a half broad, bored full of Holes on each Side, having a Foot beneath, and on the top a broad ſtrap of Leather, which they put over their Forehead, the Board hanging at their Back; when they come to a convenient Buſh or Tree, they lay them down, and are delivered in an Inſtant, without one Groan, wrapping the Child in a young Bever-skin, with his Heels cloſe to his Buttocks, and laced down to the Board upon its Back; thus they trudge Home with the Child, and dye it in Liquor of Hemlock-bark; and if they ſuſpect it begot by any other Nation, throw it into the Water; and if it ſwim, acknowledge it to be their own. They love Engliſh Names, as Robbin, Harry, Philip, and are very indulgent to their Children, as well as Parents; but if they live ſo long as to be burthenſome, they either ſtarve, or bury them alive. There Apparel was the Skin of Wild-beaſts with the Hair on, Buskins of Deer-skin or Mouſe drawn with yellow, blue or red Lines; but ſince the Engliſh came among them, they buy of them a Cloth called Trading-Cloth, with which they make Mantles, Caps and Coats. They deck themſelves with white and blue Beads, paint their Faces with variety of Colours, and weave Coats of Turkey-feathers for their Children. They abound with Rivers, in which together with the Sea are taken abundance of excellent Fiſh of all ſorts. Nor are they worſe provided with Fowl, wild and tame Beaſts of all kinds. The moſt hurtful things of this Country are rattle Snakes and ſtinging Flies. Here are alſo Oak, Cyprus, Pine, Cedar, and the ordinary ſorts of Fruit-trees, as alſo Timber to build Ships, Furs, Flax, Linen, Amber, Iron, Pitch, Tar, Cables, Maſts, and ſeveral ſorts of Grains wherewith they drive a conſiderable Trade to Barbado's and other Engliſh Plantations, whence they bring Sugars and other Commodities. They trade alſo with England for Wearing-Apparel, Stuffs, Cloth, Iron, Braſs, &c. Their Coins, Weights and Meaſures are the ſame with thoſe of England, though they uſe Barter more than Money. The Engliſh in this Country are very powerful, have many potent Colonies, and are Governed by Laws of their own making, aſſembling once a Month for making of new, aboliſhing old Laws, and determining Caſes. Each County elect their Officers Annually, the Government both Civil and Eccleſiaſtical is in the Hand of Independants and Presbyterians; and the Military Government is by one Major-General, and three Serjeant-Majors. Boſton is the Metropolis, a large Town, well built, commodiouſly ſeated, and hath a conſiderable Trade to Barbado's, the Caribbes, England and Ireland. It is alſo a place of good ſtrength, the adjoyning Hills being fortified and mounted with Cannon. They have ſeveral other remarkable Towns, as Charles-Town, Dorcheſter, Cambridge which hath two Colleges, New-Plimouth, Reading, Salem, and abundance of others ſeated on the Shore or Navigable Rivers, and having their Names from ſome Towns in England. This Colony would never ſubmit to any Governor ſent from England, but liv'd like a Free State, till a Quo Warranto being ſent againſt them in 1683, by King Charles II. they ſubmitted to Henry Cranfield Eſquire, and in 1686, accepted Sir Edward Andrews as Governor for King James II. It lies in 40 and 41 Deg. of Northern Lat. Long. 68.

NEWENT, a Market Town of Botlow Hundred in the utmoſt Weſt Parts of Gloceſterſhire.

NEW FOREST is one of the chiefeſt Foreſts in England. It lies in the South-Weſt Parts of Hampſhire, and is about thirty Miles in Compaſs. A Foreſt which William the Conqueror ſo delighted to hunt in, that to make it compleat and intire, he cauſed many Towns and Villages, with no leſs than ſix and thirty Pariſh Churches to be pull'd down and levell'd with the Ground; which Exorbitance of his did not eſcape unpuniſh'd, for in this very Foreſt Richard his Second Son was gor'd by a Deer and died, William his Third Son accidentally ſlain by Sir Walter Tyrrel; and his Grandchild Robert Curtoyſe being in purſuit of the Game, was ſtruck by a Bough into the Jaws, and died of the Wound.

NEW-FOUND-LAND, an Iſland of the Northern America, in Canada or New-France. This Iſle is of a great extent, the chief Town in it is called Plaiſance, from its pleaſant Situation. Some Normans and Baſques were the firſt Inhabitants of this Iſland, but the Engliſh have ſince ſettled themſelves here alſo. It is the moſt famous place of Fiſhery for Cod in the known World, which the Engliſh and French exchange with the Natives for Beaver Skins, and other Furrs, with which the Country aboundeth. Under the name of New-found-land are alſo comprehended the Iſles that lie on the Weſt ſide of it, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and the River of Canada; they lie in the North-Sea, which they have on the Eaſt and South of them, and Canada, or New-France to the North and Weſt. They were diſcovered by ſome Fiſhers of Normandy in 1504; but John Verazzan, who diſcover'd them more particularly, and gave them the Name of Terre-Neuve, or New-found-land, was the firſt that took poſſeſſion of them in the Name of Francis I. of France: This Verazzan was afterwards eaten by the Savages, as he was going to diſcover Cape Breton. Theſe Iſles are about fifteen or ſixteen in number, the moſt conſiderable whereof are the Iſles of the Sand or Bank of Cape Breton, of St. John, and that of the Aſſumption. The Iſle of Cape Breton is on the South of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and is almoſt cut in two parts by the Gulf of Labrador. The chief Port is that of St. Peter, which is defended by a Fort. The Iſle of St. John is on the Weſt of the Iſland of Cape Breton, and is properly nothing elſe but a great Foreſt of Fir-Trees, and the Shoar ſurrounded with ſteep Rocks. The Iſle of Aſſumption is alſo called Anticoſti, and lies at the Mouth of the River of St. Lawrence. The Bears Port is the moſt conſiderable of its Havens. Between this and the Flat Iſland, ſo called, is the chiefeſt place of Fiſhing for Cod. On the Eaſt and South Eaſt of the Iſle of New-found-land is the Great Bank, where they are alſo taken in vaſt quantities. This Great Bank is a Sand, which in ſome parts is fifteen fathom from the top of the Water; but in others much leſs, yet ſo as that Veſſels may paſs over it without danger. This Bank is 150 Leagues long, and 50 broad. All its extremities are Perpendicular, ſo that at the ends of it, no bottom can be found. The Fiſhermen diſtinguiſh two ſorts of Cods, whereof they call the one White or Green Cod, the other Dry; they call thoſe Dry Cod, which are proper to be dried, and kept a long while; and theſe they fiſh for between the Iſles of Aſſumption and Cape Breton; but the White or Green Cod they fiſh for on the Great Bank, where they often ſwarm to that degree, that the Veſſels have much-a-do to paſs for them. The great time for fiſhing is in the Months of September and October, and is performed with a Line about the thickneſs of a Quill, furniſht with a Hook, and baited with the Livers of Cod, and a bit of Herring, the Skin whereof, by its glittering, doth allure them. A good Fiſher can take 3 or 400 of them in a Day; but the fiſhing proves very troubleſome when Cod keep cloſe to the Bank, and come not to the top of the Water. Denys Hiſtoire Natural de l'Amerique Septentrionale. A late Author in his Deſcription of New-found-land, adds, That it is of equal extent with England, whence it is above 600 Leagues, half way betwixt Ireland and Virginia, betwixt 46 and 53 Degrees North Lat. It is ſeparated from the Continent of America by a narrow Sea like our Channel. The North part is beſt inhabited, tho the South be the better Soil. It has many excellent large Bays and Harbours, and abounds with Springs of delicious Water. It has plenty of Fiſh, Land and Water Fowl, and hath ſufficient ſtock of Deer, Hares, Otters, Foxes, Squirrels, and other beaſts which yield good Furs; they have ſtore of Cod, Herrings, Salmon, Thornback, Oyſters and Muſſels; Wood enough for Fewel, and Trees fit for Maſts and building of Ships. The Soil is fruitful, and the Climate wholeſome, tho exceſſive hot in the Summer, and cold in Winter. It was firſt diſcovered by Sebaſtian Cabot. Three of the Natives were taken and brought to Henry the Seventh, and Mr. Thorn and Mr. Elliot diſcovered it further in 1530. Mr. Hore attempted a new diſcovery, but was reduced to ſuch Straits, that many of his Company were kill'd and eaten by their Fellows, and thoſe who ſurvived, were ſo changed, that Sir William Butts, a Norfolk Knight, could not know his Son Thomas at his return, but by a Wart that grew upon his Knee. After this, the Engliſh did not trade thither in many Years, but the Portugueſe and French reſorted to it, and changed the Names of the Bays, &c. which the Engliſh had given them. In 1583 Sir Humphrey Gilbert took poſſeſſion for Queen Elizabeth, forbad other Nations to Fiſh there, and deſign'd to have ſettled an Engliſh Colony, but was Shipwreck'd in his return. In 1608, John Guy, a Merchant of Briſtol, undertook it, and after three and twenty Days Sail landed in Conception Bay. In 1611 they had very little Froſt in the Winter, and the whole was warmer and dryer than in England; they had Filberts, Fiſh, Mackarel and Foxes in the Winter, and white Partridges in the Summer. In 1612 they found ſome of the Natives Habitations, being nothing but Poles ſet round and meeting on the top, about ten Foot broad, covered with Deer Skins, and the Fire in the midſt. The People are of a middling ſtature, Beardleſs, broad-fac'd, and delight to paint with Oaker. Some of them went naked, having only their Privities covered with a Skin. They believed in one God, who created all things, and alledged, that God took a number of Arrows and ſtuck in the Ground, from whence Men and Women firſt ſprung up. One of their Sagamores or Governors being ask'd concerning the Trinity, anſwered, There was one God, one Son, one Mother, and the Sun which were Four, yet God was above all. And being queſtioned whether they or their Anceſtors had heard, that God was come into the World, they ſaid, They had not ſeen him. Some of them converſe viſibly with the Devil, who tells them what they muſt do in War and other Matters. Samuel Chaplain gives an account of a Feaſt made by one of their great Lords in his Cabbin in 1603, eight or ten Kettles of Meat, being ſet on ſeveral Fires ſome Yards aſſunder; the Men ſat on both ſides the Room with Diſhes of Bark. Before the Meat was boyled, one took his Dog and danced about the Kettles, and when he came before the Sagamore, threw the Dog down; a ſecond did the like, and after the Feaſt they danced with the Heads of their Enemies in their Hands, ſinging all the while. They have many Fires in their Cabbins, ten Families ſometimes living together, lying upon Skins one by another, and their Dogs, which reſemble our Foxes, with them. At another Feaſt the Women and Maids ſat in ranks, the Men ſtanding behind ſinging, and of a ſudden the Women ſtript themſelves ſtark naked, without any ſhame, and their Song being ended, cry'd with one Voice, Ho, ho, ho, then covered themſelves with their Mantles of Skin. At 14 or 15 Years old, their Maids have many Lovers, and live in Impurity with as many of them as they pleaſe, for five or ſix Years, and then takes one of them, whom ſhe likes beſt, for her Husband, provided he be a good Hunter, and lives chaſtly with him, except he forſake her on account of Barrenneſs. They put their Dead in a Pit with all their Goods, ſetting many pieces of Wood and a red Stake over it; they believe the Immortality of the Soul, and that the Dead go into a far Country to make merry with their Friends. When ſick, they ſend to one Sagamon Memberton a Conjurer, who prays to the Devils, blows upon the Party, cuts him and ſucks the Blood; he heals Wounds in the ſame manner, applying a round ſlice of Beaver Stones, for which they preſent him with Veniſon or Skins. They conſult the Devil for News, who always anſwers doubtfully, and ſometimes falſe. He alſo directs them where to find Game when Hungry, and if they miſs, he excuſes it by ſaying, That the Beaſt changed place; but moſt times they ſpeed, which makes them believe the Devil to be God. The Conjurers, when they Conſult, fix a Staff in a Pit, to which they tie a Cord, put their Head into the Pit, and invoke Satan in an unknown Language, with ſo much pain till they ſweat again: Then the Wizzard perſwades the People, that he holds the Devil faſt with his Cord, forcing him to anſwer; then he ſings to his praiſe for his diſcovery, which is anſwered by the Savages dancing and ſinging in a ſtrange Tongue; after which they leap over a Fire, and put a Pole out of the top of the Cabbin with ſomething on it which the Devil carries away. Memberton wore a triangular Purſe about his Neck, with ſomething in it like a Nut that he called his Spirit. This Office is Hereditary. In 1613, fifty four Engliſhmen, ſix Women and two Children wintered there. They killed Bears, Otters, Sables, ſowed Wheat, Rye, Turnips and Coleworts; their Winter was Moderate. Some of them had the Scurvy, which their Turnips cured. Near the Coaſts are Musk Cats and Rats, and abundance of Marſes or Sea-Oxen, ſo that one Ship in a little time ſlew 1500 of them; they live both by Water and Land, are bigger than an Ox, and their Hides thicker than Bulls, their Teeth are like Elephants, but a foot longer, and go downward from the upper Jaw; it's dearer than Ivory, and as great an Antidote as the Unicorns Horn: The young ones eat like Veal, and are defended by the old to the utmoſt. Out of the Bellies of five of theſe Fiſhes they commonly make a Hogſhead of Train-Oyl. They ſleep in great Companies, and have one Centinel to wake the reſt upon occaſion; they are ſhort haired like Seols, and reſemble Lions in their Faces. About ſeventy Miles eaſt of New-found-land, over againſt Cape Bay, lies a Bank 300 Miles long, and about 70 broad: It is covered when the Sea is high and dry at ebb: on all ſides of it the Sea is 200 Fathom deep, and about it lie ſeveral ſmall Iſles called Los Buchaloos, or the Iſles of Cod-Fiſh, which abounded ſo there, that they are ſaid to have obſtructed the firſt Diſcoverers paſſage. Three or four hundred Ships trade Yearly hither for fiſhing, and never fail of their Loading of Cod and Poor John, one Man catching 100 per hour, another cuts off their Heads, a third Guts, and a fourth Salts and Barrels them, and ſo tranſport them: They Fiſh only in the Day, the Cod not biting in the Night. The Fiſhing Seaſon is from the Spring to September: This they call the Green-fiſh: And then they fiſh for Dry Cod thus, they retire into a Harbour, and ſend out their Shalops which return loaden about Noon, and order-was Piſtol-proof. Their Bows are of tough Hazel, their Strings of Leather, their Arrows of Cane or Hazel, pointed with Stone or Horn. They ſoon faint, if their Arrows do not execution in Battle. They ſay they have Men of above two hundred years old. When they deſign to make War, they firſt conſult with their Prieſts and Conjurers, and adore whatever they think may unavoidably hurt them, as Fire, Water, Lightning, Thunder, our Guns, Muskets, and Horſes. Nay ſome of them were once ſo terrified at ſeeing an Engliſh Boar ſet up his Briſtles, that they were in a mighty fear, taking him to be the God of the Swine, and angry at them. Their chief object of Worſhip is the Devil, whom they call O-kee; conferr with him, and faſhion themſelves like him. In their Temple they have his Image Ill-favouredly carved and painted, with Chains, Copper, and Beads, and covered with a Skin. When their Kings die they unbowel them, dry them on a Hurdle adorn'd with Chains and Beads, and wrapping them in white Skins and Mats, intomb them in Arches of the ſame with their Wealth at their Feet, but the common People they wrap in Skins and Mats, put them in a Hole, and laying Sticks upon them, cover them afterwards with Earth, which being done, the Women paint their Faces black with Coal and Oyl, and mourn in the Houſe together twenty four hours, yelling by turns. In 1606. A ſmall Colony of Engliſh was ſent hither under Captains Popham and Gilbert, at the Charge of Sir John Popham, but without effect. Soon after ſome Honourable Perſons of the Weſt of England obtained of King James I. a Patent of North America, called New-England, from 40 to 48 degrees of North Latitude; but the Deſcriptions being uncertain and falſe, little other Improvement was made, ſave the erecting ſome few Cottages for Fiſhers and Planters. In 1610. Mr. Robinſon, a diſſenting Miniſter, with other Engliſh then at Leyden, obtain'd a Grant from King James I. to plant themſelves in New-England, about Hudſon's River, and enjoy the Liberty of their Conſcience. They ſail'd from Plimouth in September, for the South of New-England, but eſcaping many Dangers, were about the 11th. of November caſt upon a boſom of Cape-Cod, in Maſſachuſet's Bay. Winter drawing on a pace, wanting opportunity to remove, and being encouraged by the Soil and Courteſie of the Heathen, they founded a New Colony, calling it New-Plimouth, (becauſe Plimouth was the laſt Town they ſailed from in England,) extending about 100 Miles in length, but not half ſo broad. From thence to 1636. they were very ſucceſsful, and increaſed; but the Naraganſets, the Fierceſt and moſt Warlike of the Natives, murthered ſeveral of them, and the Dutch, as Captain Stone, Captain Oldham, &c. but the Inhabitants of the Colonies falling unanimouſly upon them in 1637. cut off about ſeven hundred, and the reſt were kill'd by the Neighbouring Indians to whom before they were terrible, upon which Miantonimoh, Chief of the Magahins, expecting to be ſole Ruler over the Indians, fell upon ſome that were Confederate with the Engliſh, which was proved upon him at Boſton by one of his Fellows, called Uncas, for which he made War upon him at his Return; but Uncas taking him, cut off his Head by Advice of the Engliſh, An. 1643. from whence to 75. there was Peace on all Sides, till Sachem of Mount-Hope raiſed ſome Diſturbances againſt the Engliſh. So that from firſt to laſt the Engliſh gave no Ground of Quarrel. In 1620. three Months after the firſt Plantation of Plimouth Colony, Maſſaſoit, or the Chief Commander of that Side of the Country, entred a League offenſive and defenſive with them, which he confirmed in 1630, a little before his Death, for himſelf and his Heirs, his two Sons Alexander and Philip being with him; he would fain have engaged them not to draw any of his Subjects from their Heatheniſm, but they would make no ſuch Treaty with him; ſo that he hated the Engliſh for being Chriſtians, which appearing more diſcernibly in his Son, it occaſioned the rooting out of that Part of the Indians; ſo that Paſtaconaway, the great Sachim or Sagamore of Merimack River, being ſenſible of the fatal Conſequence of oppoſing the Engliſh, in his laſt Farewell to his Children and People, cautions them againſt it. But Alexander, Son to the Maſſaſoit aforeſaid, plotted againſt the Engliſh, whereupon a ſtout Gentleman was ſent to bring him before the Council of Plimouth, who ſurpriz'd him and Eight more in a Hunting-houſe, at which he was ſo grieved that he fell into a Fever, and died. His Brother Philip, commonly called King Philip for his haughty Spirit, came in Perſon in 1662. with Sauſaman, his Chief Secretary, to renew the above-mentioned League, and for ſeven Years lived in good Correſpondence with the Engliſh; but in 1676. he plotted a General Inſurrection againſt their Colonies, and cauſed Sauſaman to be murthered for diſcovering it; for which the Murtherers being apprehended, were executed; and Philip took himſelf openly to Arms, deſtroying the Engliſh and their Habitations with the utmoſt Cruelty for two Years; till at laſt, being ſeveral times defeated, having loſt his Wife, Son and Treaſures, he was ſurpriz'd in his Den upon Mount-Hope, and ſhot through the Heart by one of his own Subjects that joined with the Engliſh. The Country is poſſeſſed by divers ſorts of People judged to be Tartars by Deſcent, and are divided into ſeveral Tribes, the Churchers, Tarentines and Monbegans to the Eaſt and North-Eaſt, the Tequets, and Maraganſets to the South, Connecticuts and Mowhacks to the Weſt, Matachuſets, Wippanaps and Tarentines to the North; and the Poranets who live Weſt of Plimouth. There was a great Mortality among them at the firſt Arrival of the Engliſh, ſo that the Matachuſets from 30000 were reduced to 300. The Pequods were deſtroyed by the Engliſh, the Mowhacks are about 500, and ſpeak a Dialect of the Tartars: They are Tall, well Limbed, Pale and Lean Viſag'd, black Ey'd, have long, curled black Hair, but no Beards; their Teeth are white, ſhort and even, and they have generally flat Noſes; their young Women are plump in Face and Body, of a ſoft and ſmooth Skin, and good Complexion, but that they dye themſelves Tawny, and all of a modeſt Demeanour conſidering their ſavage Breeding. The Natives are Inconſtant, Crafty and Timorous, but very Ingenious, quick of Apprehenſion, ſoon Angry, barbarouſly Cruel, prone to Revenge, Haters of Strangers, very Thieviſh, and all of them Cannibals; the Men keep two or three Wives according to their Ability or Strength of Body, and the Women have the eaſieſt Labour of any in the World; when their Time is come, they go out alone, carrying a Board with them two Foot long, and a Foot and a half broad, bored full of Holes on each Side, having a Foot beneath, and on the top a broad ſtrap of Leather, which they put over their Forehead, the Board hanging at their Back; when they come to a convenient Buſh or Tree, they lay them down, and are delivered in an Inſtant, without one Groan, wrapping the Child in a young Bever-skin, with his Heels cloſe to his Buttocks, and laced down to the Board upon its Back; thus they trudge Home with the Child, and dye it in Liquor of Hemlock-bark; and if they ſuſpect it begot by any other Nation, throw it into the Water; and if it ſwim, acknowledge it to be their own. They love Engliſh Names, as Robbin, Harry, Philip, and are very indulgent to their Children, as well as Parents; but if they live ſo long as to be burthenſome, they either ſtarve, or bury them alive. There Apparel was the Skin of Wild-beaſts with the Hair on, Buskins of Deer-skin or Mouſe drawn with yellow, blue or red Lines; but ſince the Engliſh came among them, they buy of them a Cloth called Trading-Cloth, with which they make Mantles, Caps and Coats. They deck themſelves with white and blue Beads, paint their Faces with variety of Colours, and weave Coats of Turkey-feathers for their Children. They abound with Rivers, in which together with the Sea are taken abundance of excellent Fiſh of all ſorts. Nor are they worſe provided with Fowl, wild and tame Beaſts of all kinds. The moſt hurtful things of this Country are rattle Snakes and ſtinging Flies. Here are alſo Oak, Cyprus, Pine, Cedar, and the ordinary ſorts of Fruit-trees, as alſo Timber to build Ships, Furs, Flax, Linen, Amber, Iron, Pitch, Tar, Cables, Maſts, and ſeveral ſorts of Grains wherewith they drive a conſiderable Trade to Barbado's and other Engliſh Plantations, whence they bring Sugars and other Commodities. They trade alſo with England for Wearing-Apparel, Stuffs, Cloth, Iron, Braſs, &c. Their Coins, Weights and Meaſures are the ſame with thoſe of England, though they uſe Barter more than Money. The Engliſh in this Country are very powerful, have many potent Colonies, and are Governed by Laws of their own making, aſſembling once a Month for making of new, aboliſhing old Laws, and determining Caſes. Each County elect their Officers Annually, the Government both Civil and Eccleſiaſtical is in the Hand of Independants and Presbyterians; and the Military Government is by one Major-General, and three Serjeant-Majors. Boſton is the Metropolis, a large Town, well built, commodiouſly ſeated, and hath a conſiderable Trade to Barbado's, the Caribbes, England and Ireland. It is alſo a place of good ſtrength, the adjoyning Hills being fortified and mounted with Cannon. They have ſeveral other remarkable Towns, as Charles-Town, Dorcheſter, Cambridge which hath two Colleges, New-Plimouth, Reading, Salem, and abundance of others ſeated on the Shore or Navigable Rivers, and having their Names from ſome Towns in England. This Colony would never ſubmit to any Governor ſent from England, but liv'd like a Free State, till a Quo Warranto being ſent againſt them in 1683, by King Charles II. they ſubmitted to Henry Cranfield Eſquire, and in 1686, accepted Sir Edward Andrews as Governor for King James II. It lies in 40 and 41 Deg. of Northern Lat. Long. 68.

NEWENT, a Market Town of Botlow Hundred in the utmoſt Weſt Parts of Glouceſterſhire.

NEW FOREST is one of the chiefeſt Foreſts in England. It lies in the South-Weſt Parts of Hampſhire, and is about thirty Miles in Compaſs. A Foreſt which William the Conqueror ſo delighted to hunt in, that to make it compleat and intire, he cauſed many Towns and Villages, with no leſs than ſix and thirty Pariſh Churches to be pull'd down and levell'd with the Ground; which Exorbitance of his did not eſcape unpuniſh'd, for in this very Foreſt Richard his Second Son was gor'd by a Deer and died, William his Third Son accidentally ſlain by Sir Walter Tyrrel; and his Grandchild Robert Curtoyſe being in purſuit of the Game, was ſtruck by a Bough into the Jaws, and died of the Wound.

NEW-FOUND-LAND, an Iſland of the Northern America, in Canada or New-France. This Iſle is of a great extent, the chief Town in it is called Plaiſance, from its pleaſant Situation. Some Normans and Baſques were the firſt Inhabitants of this Iſland, but the Engliſh have ſince ſettled themſelves here alſo. It is the moſt famous place of Fiſhery for Cod in the known World, which the Engliſh and French exchange with the Natives for Beaver Skins, and other Furrs, with which the Country aboundeth. They conſult the Devil for News, who always anſwers doubtfully, and ſometimes falſe. He alſo directs them where to find Game when Hungry, and if they miſs, he excuſes it by ſaying, That the Beaſt changed place; but moſt times they ſpeed, which makes them believe the Devil to be God. The Conjurers, when they Conſult, fix a Staff in a Pit, to which they tie a Cord, put their Head into the Pit, and invoke Satan in an unknown Language, with ſo much pain till they ſweat again: Then the Wizzard perſwades the People, that he holds the Devil faſt with his Cord, forcing him to anſwer; then he ſings to his praiſe for his diſcovery, which is anſwered by the Savages dancing and ſinging in a ſtrange Tongue; after which they leap over a Fire, and put a Pole out of the top of the Cabbin with ſomething on it which the Devil carries away. Memberton wore a triangular Purſe about his Neck, with ſomething in it like a Nut that he called his Spirit. This Office is Hereditary. In 1613, fifty four Engliſhmen, ſix Women and two Children wintered there. They killed Bears, Otters, Sables, ſowed Wheat, Rye, Turnips and Coleworts; their Winter was Moderate. Some of them had the Scurvy, which their Turnips cured. Near the Coaſts are Musk Cats and Rats, and abundance of Marſes or Sea-Oxen, ſo that one Ship in a little time ſlew 1500 of them; they live both by Water and Land, are bigger than an Ox, and their Hides thicker than Bulls, their Teeth are like Elephants, but a foot longer, and go downward from the upper Jaw; it's dearer than Ivory, and as great an Antidote as the Unicorns Horn: The young ones eat like Veal, and are defended by the old to the utmoſt. Out of the Bellies of five of theſe Fiſhes they commonly make a Hogſhead of Train-Oyl. They ſleep in great Companies, and have one Centinel to wake the reſt upon occaſion; they are ſhort haired like Seols, and reſemble Lions in their Faces. About ſeventy Miles eaſt of New-found-land, over againſt Cape Bay, lies a Bank 300 Miles long, and about 70 broad: It is covered when the Sea is high and dry at ebb: on all ſides of it the Sea is 200 Fathom deep, and about it lie ſeveral ſmall Iſles called Los Buchaloos, or the Iſles of Cod-Fiſh, which abounded ſo there, that they are ſaid to have obſtructed the firſt Diſcoverers paſſage. Three or four hundred Ships trade Yearly hither for fiſhing, and never fail of their Loading of Cod and Poor John, one Man catching 100 per hour, another cuts off their Heads, a third Guts, and a fourth Salts and Barrels them, and ſo tranſport them: They Fiſh only in the Day, the Cod not biting in the Night. The Fiſhing Seaſon is from the Spring to September: This they call the Green-fiſh: And then they fiſh for Dry Cod thus, they retire into a Harbour, and ſend out their Shalops which return loaden about Noon, and ordering them as before, dry them in the Wind. At this fiſhing they alſo take Fowls by baiting their Hooks with the Cods Liver, which the Fowls fight for, and ſo are catched. In 1623. Sir George Calvert, Principal Secretary of State, obtain'd a Patent for Part of this New-found-land, erected into a Province, and call'd Avalon, where he ſettled a Plantation, built a ſtately Houſe and Fort, and went thither with his Family, and the Plantation is now enjoyed by his Son, Cæcilius Lord Baltemore.

NEW GALICIA, or Gallæcia, a large Country of New Spain, having the Province of Mechoana to the Eaſt, Zacatecas to the North, and ſurrounded with the Pacifick Sea to the Weſt and South, the Chief Town of this Country is Guadalaxara, ſituate near the River Barania. Baudrand.

NEWHAUSEL, Lat. Neoſelium, a City of Hungary, which the Hungarians call Owar. It ſtands upon the River Neutra or Nitrach, 2 Leagues from Komorra, and 11 Eaſt of Presburg: It is little, but ſtrong and well ſituated, and Capital of a large Country. The Turks made themſelves Maſters of it in 1663, but it was retaken the 19th of Auguſt, 1685, by General Caprara, under the Duke of Lorrain, after a Siege of 40 Days, and all the Garriſon put to the Sword. It is built in a Mooriſh Plain, which is hard at the bottom, ſo that it is paſſable every where: Its Fortifications are in form of a Star with ſix Rays, having at each Point a high rais'd Baſtion. The Place is ſurrounded with a Ditch full of Water, of a Fathom and a half deep, and 18 in bredth. It hath only Two Gates, and before each of them there is a Half-Moon, without any other Out-works but a covered Way. On the 9th of July, 1685, the Duke of Lorrain, with the General Officers of his Army having review'd the Place, reſolv'd to Attack it. On the 16th of Auguſt, he defeated the Seraſquier that marched to relieve it, took 20 Pieces of Canon, ſome Mortars with Bombs, &c. and 40 Standards, and three Days after the Town was carried by Aſſault. There were 80 Braſs Canon found in it, with Plate and other Booty, to above the value of Two Millions. Hiſt. des Troubles de Hungarie.

NEW-JERSEY, part of New-Albion, ſubdivided into Eaſt and Weſt-Jerſey. The firſt lies between 39 and 41 Degrees of North Latitude, bounded on the South-Eaſt by the Main Sea; Eaſt by Hudſon's River; Weſt by a Line of Diviſion, which ſeparates it from Weſt-Jerſey, extending it ſelf in length on the Sea-Coaſts, and along Hudſon's River above 100 Engliſh Miles. Its Situation is conſiderable for the Temperature of the Air and Fertilty of the Soil; for its Navigable River, and noted Bay, call'd Sand-Hook; for its Fiſhery of Whales, Cod-Fiſh, Cole, Hake-Fiſh, and large Mackarel; and Hudſon's River is plentifully ſtored with Sturgeon, great Baſte, and other Scale-Fiſh. There is alſo great plenty of Oak-Timber, and variety of Wood, as Cheſnut, Walnut, Poplar, Cedar, Aſh, Fir. The Land produces plentiful Crops of Engliſh Grain, beſides Indian Corn, Flax, Hemp, &c. Nor do they want Fowl of any ſort, and are well provided with Fruit. The Country Commodities are Horſes, Beef, Pork, Pipe-Staves, Corn, Butter, and Cheeſe, which they export for Barbadoes, Jamaica, and other adjacent Iſlands, as alſo to Portugal and Spain, the Canaries, &c. Their Whale-Oyl and Whale-Fins, Bever, Monkey, Raccoon, and Martin-Skins, they ſend for England. The Indian Natives are but few comparatively to the Neighbouring Colonies, and therefore rather ſerviceable than formidable, or injurious to the Planters. The South and Weſt Parts lying on the Sea and Delaware River, is call'd Weſt-Jerſey, and hath all the Conveniences of the other part. The Engliſh that ſettle in it buy the Lands of the Natives, whereby they are aſſur'd of their Love and Friendſhip. The Land lying generally high and healthy is not troubled with the Musketo-fly. Here they have Pitch, Tar, and Roſin, and a large vaſt Creature called a Mooſe, of whoſe Skin is made excellent Buff. The Chief Towns of the whole, are Shrewsbury, Middle Town, Burgin, Newark, Elizabeth's Town, Woodbridge, and Piſcataway.

NEW-MARKET, a Town of Chevely Hundred in the Eaſt Parts of Cambridgeſhire, but part of it ſtands alſo in Suffolk. It conſiſts of Two Pariſhes, the one in Cambridgeſhire, the other in Suffolk. In the Reign of King Charles II. this Place became noted for the Diverſion of Horſe-Races on New-Market-Heath, during the King's uſual Reſidence here, about the latter end of the Summer. The Heath is of that vaſt Extent, that it has a Proſpect three quarters of the Compaſs, almoſt to the Bounds of the Horizon; near which is the Ditch uſually called the Devil's Ditch, of which in its proper place. A Fire breaking out in this Town, ſaved the Life of King Charles II. by neceſſitating his Return before the time appointed, which prevented the Deſigns of the Rye-Houſe Conſpirators.

NEWPORT; of this Family which hath been Eminent and Ancient in Shropſhire, Sir Richard Newport of High Ercall in that County, for his many Services to King Charles I. was in the Fourteenth of his Reign created Baron Newport of High Ercall. This Richard Lord Newport retir'd into France during the Civil Wars, and died there Feb. 8. 1650. ſucceeded by his Son Francis, who alſo ſignalized himſelf in the King's Service in North-Wales, and elſewhere; till Anno 1644. that he was made Priſoner, in conſideration whereof King Charles II. upon his Reſtauration, firſt made him Comptroller, then Treaſurer of his Houſhold, and afterward Viſcount Newport of Bradford in Salop, March 11. 27 Car. II. and having married the Lady Diana, Daughter to Francis late Earl of Bedford, had by her five Sons, Richard, Thomas, Francis, Thomas, the other being dead, and Andrew who died young. He had alſo five Daughters, Elizabeth married to Sir Henry Littleton, Cornelia, Wigern, Katharine who died young, another Katharine Anne, and Diana. Dugd.

NEWPORT, a Market-Town of Kemes Hundred in the North-Weſt of Pembrokeſhire, about two Miles from the Sea.

NEWPORT, or Newport-Pagnel, a Market-Town of Newport Hundred, in the North Parts of Buckinghamſhire. It ſtands on the South-ſide of the River Ouſe, over which it has two Bridges.

NEWPORT, Lat. Novus Portus, a Market and Sea-Port Town in the South of Monmouthſhire, ſeated on the River Usk, about three Miles from its Fall into the Severn-Sea.

NEWPORT, a Market-Town of South-Bradford Hundred in the North-Eaſt Parts of Shropſhire.

NEWPORT, Lat. Medena, Novus Portus, the Chief Town of the Iſle of Wight, ſends two Burgeſſes to Parliament by Grant of King James I. is conveniently ſeated about the middle of the Iſland, 72 Miles from London. It has a Creek before it, through which ſmall Veſſels come up to the very Key. This is a pretty large, populous, and trading Town, formerly dignified with the Title of an Earldom in the Perſon of Mountjoy Blunt, Lord Mountjoy, created Baron of Thurlſton, and Earl of Newport, Anno 1628. Long. 19.14. Lat. 50 40.

NEWPORT, a ſtrong Sea-Port Town of Flanders. A little River runs on one ſide of it, which though but a mean Channel, yet where it falls into the Sea, makes a conſiderable long and ſecure Haven, eſpecially at High Tides. This Town is of good Strength, has broad and ſtraight Streets, but the Houſes are generally low, and moſt part of Timber. The Inhabitants ſupport themſelves chiefly by the Fiſhing-Trade. It ſtands five Leagues Eaſt from Dunkirk, three Weſt of Oſtend, and is 40 Miles diſtant from Ghent. Prince Maurice of Naſſaw gave the Spaniards a great Defeat near this Place in 1600.

NEW-RIVER which ſerves the North Part of the City of London with Water, the Work of Sir Hugh Middleton, Goldſmith, born at Denbigh in Wales, who brought it up from Amwell and Chadwell, Two Springs near Ware in Hartfordſhire, by ſo many Turnings and Windings that it's thought to run 60 Miles. The Channel in ſomes places is 30 Foot deep, in other places, as Valleys, the Water is conveyed in open Troughs 20 Foot at leaſt above Ground. In ſhort, there are reckoned over this River about 800 Bridges, ſome of Stone, ſome of Wood, and others of Brick.

NEW-SWEDELAND, a Country of Northern America, lying between Virginia and New-York. It was firſt inhabited by Swedes, afterwards poſſeſſed by the Dutch, but is now under the Engliſh, and makes part of New-York. Its Chief Town is Gottemburgh. Raw.

NEWTON, Newton-Buſhel, a Market-Town of Heytor Hundred in the South-Eaſt Parts of Devon.

NEWTON, the Name of ſix ſeveral Towns in Lancaſhire, whereof one is a Borough-Town.

NEWTON, or Newton-Nottage, a Sea-Town in the South of Glamorganſhire, about two Miles Weſtward from the Mouth of Ogmore, noted for a Well wherein the Water is low at the flow, and high when the Tide ebbs. Cambden affirms this for Truth.

NEW-TOWN, a Market-Town of Kidriorn Hundred, in the South-Eaſt Parts of Montgomeryſhire, ſeated on the Eaſt-ſide of the River Severn, with a fair Bridge over it.

NEW-TOWN, a Borough-Town in the North-Weſt of the Iſle of Wight.

NEW-YORK, is a Colony adjoyning to Mary-Land Northward, ſo called from King James II. when Duke of York, who obtained a Grant thereof from his Brother King Charles II. It was firſt diſcovered by Mr. Hudſon, and forthwith ſold by him to the Dutch in 1608. without the King's Licenſe. In 1614. the Hollanders begun to Plant there, and called it New-Netherlands, but were expelled by Sir Samuel Argal, Governor of Virginia. After this they got leave from King James to put in there for freſh Water in their way to Brazile, but did not offer to Plant till a good while after the Engliſh were ſettled. In 1664. Charles II. ſent over four Commiſſioners to regulate the Colony, who marching to the Chief Town, then called New-Amſterdam (now New-York) with 300 Red-Coats, took it from the Dutch, turned out their Governor, who had a Silver Leg; but ſuffered thoſe who acknowledged the King of England, to enjoy their Houſes and Eſtates. Thirteen Days after Sir Robert Car took the Fort and Town of Aurania, now Albany, then the Fort and Town of Araſapha, and Delaware Caſtle, ſo that the Engliſh became Maſters of three handſome Towns, three ſtrong Forts, and one Caſtle, without loſing a Man; and the firſt Governor for the King of England was Colonel Nichols.

The Country is rich, fruitful, well watered, and abounds with Fowl, Fiſh, and Fruit. It's reported, that one Buſhel of European Wheat has yielded a hundred in one Year. This Province formerly contain'd all that Land which is ſeated in the North of America, betwixt New-England and Mary-Land, the length not fully known, but the breadth about 200 Miles. The principal Rivers are Hudſon's River, Raritan, and Delaware Bay. The Chief Iſlands are Long-Iſland, Staler-Iſland, and Manahatan, within Land, betwixt 41 and 42 Degrees of North Latitude, 14 Miles long, and 2 broad. In this Iſland is ſeated New-York, the Metropolis of the Country, lying commodiouſly for Trade, Strength, and Pleaſure, ſeparated from Long-Iſland by Hudſon's River, which is two Leagues broad, and Navigable. The Town conſiſts of about 500 well-built Houſes, the meaneſt valued at 100 l. To the Landward it is defended by a thick Wall, and James-Fort Commands the River. The Civil Government is like that of England, and the Inhabitants are Engliſh and Dutch, who Trade with the Indians for the Skins of Elks, Deer, Bears, Beaver, Otter, Raccoons, and other rich Furs, and are ſupplied in the Summer by the Indians with Veniſon, Fiſh, and Fowl, very cheap. The Natives are much like the Virginians, well-proportioned, ſwarthy, black-hair'd, expert Archers, and live principally by Hunting, Fowling, and Fiſhing, while their Wives manage the Husbandry. They feed on Fiſh, Fowl, and Veniſon, Polcats, Turtles, Raccoons, &c. They have ſmall Tents which they move thrice a Year to their Planting, Hunting, and Fiſhing-Quarters; they are now reduced to a ſmall number by raging Diſeaſes and civil Broils; they are Courteous, of a ready Wit, Serviceable, and ready to be inſtructed by the Engliſh. Their Recreations are Foot-ball and Cards, at which they will play away all but a Flap to cover their Nakedneſs; they care not for Drink, if they have not enough to be Drunk, and if any of their Company happen to be ſo before he hath taken a Quart of Brandy, Rum, or Strong-Waters, they pour the reſt down his Throat: They often kill one another in their Cups, which the Friends of the Deceaſed revenge, except he purchaſe his Pardon with Perriwinkle-ſhell black and white, ſtrung like Beads, which is their Money. They worſhip the Devil, and about Michaelmas, when their Corn is ripe, they go a-hunting. When they aſſemble, if their Prieſt wants Money, he tells them That no other Sacrifice will be acceptable, whereupon each gives according to his Ability, and the Prieſt ſetting it upon the Top of their Flat-roof'd-houſes, calls upon their God to take it, howling, beating the Ground and themſelves with Sticks, till a Devil appears like a Man, Bird, or Beaſt, and then they dare not ſtir; mean time the Prieſt goes out, ſecures the Money, and returns to lay the Spirit, who is many times gone before he return, and takes ſome of the Company with him; but if at ſuch times any Engliſh come among them, it ſtops their proceedings, and they will deſire him his abſence, ſaying, Their God will not come till he depart: They are much inclined to War with one another, fight no pitcht Battels, but ſecure their Wives and Children, way lay their Enemies, count it a great Fight wherein ſeven or eight are Slain, yet give no Quarter to any but Women and Children, whom they preſerve for Breed. Their Cloathing is a Yard and half of Broad Cloth, which they hang on their Shoulders, and another Piece put between their Legs which they tie with a Gridle, and let it hang with a Flap before and behind. They wear either a Snake's Skin, a Belt of Perriwinkle-Shell, or a Ruff of Deers-Hair died Red, which they eſteem richeſt, about their Heads; they greaſe their Bodies and Hair, and paint their Faces. They Marry thus, The Man gives ſo much Money to the Woman, after which he keeps her during pleaſure, turns her off on the leaſt diſlike, and takes another. It's reckon'd no Offence to lie with another Man, if ſhe acquaint her Husband, or ſome of her neareſt Relations, but otherwiſe it's puniſhable by Death. They will not ſuffer Men to touch them when quick with Child, or giving Suck. They have two or three Wives, or more, but of late imitate the Engliſh. It's neither reckoned ſcandalous nor unlawſul for their Maids to lie with whom they pleaſe for Money. They are very charitable to one another, and freely impart what they have to ſpare. They bury their Dead upright upon a Seat, with his Gun, Money, and Goods, to furniſh him in the other World, which they believe to be Weſtward, where they have great ſtore of Game, and live at eaſe. The Relations paint their Faces black, lament once or twice a Day at the Grave till the blackneſs wear off; and after that Mourn a-freſh for him once a Year, trim up the Grave, fence it with a Hedge, cover it with Mats, and ſuffer no Graſs to grow near it: The Name of the Dead muſt no more be mentioned, leaſt it ſhould renew the Grief of their Relations, and therefore all of the ſame Name change it for another; and if the Name be a Word uſed in common Speech, they invent a new one, which makes the Language difficult to learn. When all other means fail to recover the Sick, they ſend for their Pawaw, or Prieſt, who ſitting down by them, without enquiring into the Diſtemper, expects a Fee, and works accordingly, calling ſometimes on one God, ſometimes on another, beating his naked Breaſt till he ſweat, and be almoſt out of breath, and ſo with the remainder, breathing upon the Face of the Sick Perſon, takes his leave. When their King, or Sachen, ſits in Council, he is guarded by armed Men, and the People ſhew their reſpect by Silence; then he declares the Cauſe of their Meeting, demands their Opinion, and appoints who ſhall begin; every one having leave to ſpeak as long as he pleaſes without Interruption, till he tells them he has no more to ſay. The King gives the definitive Sentence, to which the People give their Aſſent by a Shout; and if any be condemned to die, which rarely happens, but for Murther and Inceſt, the King himſelf goes to ſeek him in the Wood, (for Priſons, they have none) and when found, ſhoots at him, though at never ſo great a diſtance, and then happy is he who can ſhoot him down, for he is certainly made a Captain or Military Officer in Reward. Hudſon's River runs by New-York Northward, towards the Head of which is New-Albany, which has a great Trade with the Natives. Betwixt it and New-York, being 100 Miles, is as good Corn-ground as any in the World. And was ſubdued to the Crown of England by Colonel Nichols, who concluded a League betwixt the Inhabitants and Indians.

NEW-ZELAND, a large Country of South America, or Antartickland, diſcovered by the Hollanders in 1642. It lies South of the Pacifick Sea, and far Eaſt of New-Guiny and Solomon's Iſland. It's not yet known whether it be an Iſland or Continent, there being no European Colony ſetled there. Baudr.

NEW-ZEMBLE, a large Country of Europe, almoſt joyning Northern Muſcovy, from which it's parted by Vaits-Streight, called alſo the Streight of Naſſaw. It lies Latitude about 72. This Country is generally thought to be an Iſland, though Modern Writers, from the Relations of Mariners, rather ſuppoſe it a part of Great Tartary, to which they believe it joyns on the Eaſt. In 1553. Sir Hugh Willoughby diſcovered Cape-Zemble, but he and all his Company were frozen to Death in Lapland. In 1596. ſome Dutch being Shipwrack'd built themſelves a Hut, and winter'd in it, but ſaw no Sun for two Months and twenty Days, and next Year they returned to Lapland in a Boat. No Inhabitants were ever diſcovered in this Country, though Finmark in the ſame Parallel is inhabited.

NEYLAND, a Market-Town of Babergh Hundred, in the Eaſt Parts of Suffolk, upon the Borders of Eſſex. 'Tis watered by the Stowre, and has a Bridge over it.

NICANDER, a Greek Author, was not only a Grammarian, but alſo a Poet and Phyſician. He lived about the CXXXIVth Olympiad, and in the 512 of Rome. He writ divers Works which are frequently quoted by the Ancients, whereof we have only left his Theriaca and Alexipharmaca. Alſo another of the ſame Name of Alexandria, and an Hiſtorian, who wrote a Treatiſe of the Diſciples of Ariſtotle. Alſo a Third Perſon of the ſame Name, who was an Hiſtorian of Chalcedonia, quoted by Athenæus, lib. 11.

NICANOR, General of the Army of Demetrius Soter, King of the Syrians, who made himſelf Famous by his Valour and Enterprizes: He was ſent into Judæa to aſſiſt Alcimus, but without the deſired Succeſs. In a Second Expedition ſometime after, he vow'd to ruin the Temple and City of Jeruſalem, but Judas Maccabæus with 3000 Men only engaged, and killed him, with 35000 of his Men. This happened A. M. 3893. in the CLIVth Olympiad, and 592 or 3 of Rome. I Macchab. Ch. 7. and II. Ch. 14, 15. Joſeph. Antiq. lib. 12. cap. 17.

NICANOR, born in the Iſle of Cyprus, was one of the Seven Deacons choſen by the Apoſtles, mentioned Acts 6. Hiſtorians tell us that he preached the Goſpel in his own Country, and died a Martyr there. Baron. in Annal. & Mart. There have been many Greek Authors of this Name.

NICARAGUA, a Province of New-Spain, belonging to the Government or Lieutenancy of Guatimala; is a Country very fruitful in Maiz, but wants Corn. It abounds with excellent Paſtures and Cattle, but hath no Sheep. There is alſo great ſtore of Cotton, and the Woods are full of great Trees, whereof ſome are of that bigneſs, that 15 Men joining their Hands together cannot compaſs the Trunk or Body of them. Almoſt all the Savages of this Country can ſpeak Spaniſh, and are very skilful and ingenious Artiſts. The Lake of Nicaragua is very conſiderable for its largeneſs, as being above 130 Leagues in Compaſs; it breeds a vaſt number of Fiſh, and plenty of Crocodiles, and Ebbs and Flows like the Sea. The Capital City of this Province is called Leon of Nicaragua, ſtands upon the Shoar of the great Lake, and is the Reſidence of the Governor, and other Officers of the King of Spain, and is alſo a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Mexico. About three Leagues from this City, is a Vulcano, or burning Mountain, which every Evening and Morning ſends forth a thick Smoak, and caſts up a prodigious quantity of burnt Stones. The Second City of this Province is Grenada, 16 Leagues from Leon. About 7 Leagues from Grenada, is another Vulcano, the Top whereof, notwithſtanding the Fire and Smoak it caſts forth at times, is covered with fruit-bearing Trees. Laet's Hiſtory of the New World.

NICARIA, of old called Icaria, is an Iſland in the Archipelago, which hath the Iſland Samos on the Eaſt, Naxia, on the Weſt, Chio on the North, and the Iſland Patmos on the South. Its Circuit is not above 40 Miles, and is much longer than broad, and was therefore by the Greeks called Macris, or the long Iſland. It is called Icaria, becauſe the Poets ſuppoſe that Icarus, the Son of Dædalus, was drown'd hereabouts. The Soil of the Iſland is very good, but the Inhabitants are ſomewhat careleſs in cultivating the ſame, becauſe of the frequent Incurſions of Pirates. On the Eaſt Coaſt of the Iſle is a very high Tower, which they make uſe of for a Light-houſe, to prevent Mariners from running upon the dangerous Rocks which are between this Iſle and Samos. It is about 200 Years ago that the Turks took it, together with the Iſle of Chio, from Juſtinian of Genoa, and is now under the Governor of Gallipoli. It formerly had a City of the ſame Name which was a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Rhodes. Becman's Hiſtor. Inſul. cap. 5.

NICASIUS de Voerda of Mechelen, was in great repute in the XVth. Century. Notwithſtanding that he was blind from the Third Year of his Age, yet by his Induſtry he attained great Knowledge in the moſt profound Sciences. He was Doctor of Lovain, and writ ſeveral Works. He was made Prieſt by a ſpecial privilege from Rome, preach'd and heard Confeſſions. He died in 1491. Trithemius. Valerius Andreas.

NICASTRO, Lat. Nicaſtrum, a City of the Kingdom of Naples, in the further Calabria, with a Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Reggio. It is but a little City, at the Foot of Mount Appennine, 5 or 6 Miles from the Sea.

NICAULIS, Queen of Egypt and Æthiopia. Joſephus ſuppoſeth her to be the Queen of Sheba, called alſo Makeda, that came to viſit Solomon, A. M. 3046. But it is difficult to ſay any thing poſitive on this Subject. Some Authors are of opinion that ſhe came out of Arabia Fœlix, others that it was from that part of Æthiopia that lies beyond the Red ſea. However when ſhe had ſeen that Prince's Magnificence, obſerved his Wiſdom and Penetration into the moſt ſecret things of Nature, the Order and Oeconomy of his Houſe, and the Number of his Officers; ſhe acquainted him how much ſhe admired it, adding that ſhe held them happy that had the advantage of living with him. Then ſhe preſented him with 120 Talents of Gold, with Pearls of ineſtimable Value, and a great quantity of Perfumes, and acknowledging that he deſerved to be conſidered as the Wonder of his Age, ſhe returned home highly ſatisfied with what ſhe had ſeen and heard; and laden with more valuable Preſents than ſhe had brought with her. Baronius. Torniel. Origen. Abulenſis.

NICE, Lat. Nicia, a City of Provence, with the Title of an Earldom and Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Ambrun, was built by thoſe of Marſeilles, and probably took its Name from ſome Victory they obtained againſt the Ligurians. The City at preſent is great, ſplendid and populous, ſeated upon the Shoar of the Mediterranean Sea, at the foot of the Alpes, with a capacious Haven, and one of the ſtrongeſt Caſtles in Europe, between the River Var and Villa Franca, and Seven Miles from Monaco to the Weſt. This City was under the Earls of Provence till 1365, when Queen Joan left it to Lewis II*d*. Duke of Savoy, with the County belonging to it, and has ever ſince been ſubject to that Family, till the Year 1691, when it was taken by the French King. The Amphitheatre that is ſtill to be ſeen here, with the Inſcriptions and other Roman Monuments are abundant Teſtimonies of the Antiquity of this City. Nice was taken by Francis of France, and by the Turks under Barberouſſe, who appear'd before it with 200 Sail, the 20 of Auguſt, 1543. but neither of them was able to take the Caſtle. The County of this Name is divided into the Vicariate of Nice, Barcelonne, Soſpello, Puerin, and into the Counties of Bueil and Tende. It hath a Cathedral, three Pariſhes, 1 College, and diverſe Religious Houſes. Long. 30. 20. Lat. between 43 and 44. Petrus Joſredus hath writ the Hiſtory of it.

NICE, or Nizza della Paglia, a City of Italy in Montferrat, between Aſt and Aqui, which ſuffered much during the Wars of Italy. It was beſieged by a French Army under Monſieur Catinat in March 1691, and entirely ſurrendred to him by the Second of April following, to the great mortification of the Duke of Savoy, to whom before it did belong; but it was reſtored to the ſaid Duke by the ſeparate Peace made between him and France, in the Year 1696.

NICE, Lat. Nicæa, a City of Bithynia in Aſia minor, an Arch-biſhop's See, and formerly Metropolis of Bithynia, of old called Antigonia, from its Founder Antigonus, the Son of Philip; as alſo Olbia and Ancore; and named Nicæa by Lyſimachus, in honour of his Wife; but is now called Iſnich, Nichor and Nichea. This City is famous for the firſt General Council held here by Conſtantine the Great in 325, againſt the Arians, which had 318 Biſhops in it. It was held in Pope Silveſter's time. Conſtantine the Emperor being inform'd of the Hereſie of Arius, wrote to him to ſtop the Progreſs of it, but perceiving his obſtinacy, thought it neceſſary to apply to the laſt remedy of a Council. To this purpoſe he wrote to the Prelates in all the Provinces of the Empire, deſiring them to appear at Nice, at the time prefixt, and to make their journey the more convenient, furniſht them and their attendance with Carriages. Hoſius Biſhop of Corduba, Preſided in this Council, which was compos'd of a great many Confeſſors, who had the Honourable marks of their Sufferings upon them. Arius likewiſe had ſome few Friends there, who deſigning to embroil the Council, charged the Catholick Biſhops with ſome Miſdemeanors, but the Emperor burnt the Libels. The Council was held in the Emperors Palace, being open'd the 19th. of June in 325. The Emperor came into the Aſſembly in his Purple Robes, Embroidered with Gold, and took his Place among the Biſhops, refuſing to ſit upon his Throne, and ordering the Bible to be laid there, He made a Speech to the Council, in which he publickly declar'd, that the determining matters of Faith, did not belong to him, but the Biſhops. Arius likewiſe appear'd in the Council, where having his freedom to ſpeak, he delivered a great deal of Blaſphemy, but being confuted by the Biſhops, and particularly by St. Athanaſius, his Errors and Writings were condemn'd, and eſpecially his Book, call'd Thalia: The Conſubſtantiality of the Second Perſon of the Trinity, was ſettled there, in a Creed drawn up by an Order of the Council; which likewiſe made a Regulation for the keeping of Eaſter, ſo that this Council was conven'd upon two accounts, one of which related to points of Doctrine, and the other concern'd the Diſcipline of the Church; for the better preſerving of which, they fixt a certain Day for the keeping of Eaſter: There was further care taken concerning the Diſcipline of the Church, the Council having made twenty Canons for that purpoſe, which Theodoret calls the Laws of Eccleſiaſtical Polity; The Firſt Canon forbids the Ordaining of thoſe, who had maim'd themſelves. The Second Declares againſt the Ordination of Novices, or thoſe who were lately Converted. The Fourth lays down a Rule concerning the Ordination of Biſhops. The reſt Relate to particulars of Diſcipline, for the Governing of Dioceſſes, Excommunications, Penance, Ordinations, &c. The Arabians ſtretched the number of the Canons to Seventy, but 'tis evident that this Collection is ungenuine, there being not the leaſt mention made of them in all Antiquity. Euſeb. vit. Conſtant. Ruffin. Lib. 1. Hiſt. Theodoret & Sozomen Lib. 1. &c. The Second Council of Nice, call'd, by the Greek and Roman Churches, the Seventh General Council. It was conven'd under Conſtantine and his Mother Irene, at the Inſtance of Terraſius Patriarch of Conſtantinople, and Pope Adrian the Firſt, in the Year 787. The Fathers firſt met at Conſtantinople, in the Church of the Holy Apoſtles, but being diſturbed by the Citizens, who apprehended the ſettling of Image Worſhip, they broke up, after a Seſſion or two: The Year after the Council being tranſlated to Nice, ſat in the Church of St. Sophia, beginning the Eighth of the Calends of October, and ending the Tenth of the Calends of November. At this Council there were abundance of Monks, which, with 350 Biſhops of the Eaſtern Empire, and the Pope's Legates, made up the Body of the Council. 'Tis true, there were two pretended Legates from the Patriarchs of Alexandria and Antioch, but their Credentials were counterfiet, having never ſeen their Principals, and receiving their Commiſſion, only from a Parcel of Monks in Paleſtine. There were 22 Canons made in this Council. As to the Proceeding of this Council concerning Image-worſhip, They Decreed that the Images of our Saviour, the Bleſſed Virgin, and the Saints ſhould be ſet up, and have Religious honour paid them, that by this means People might be excited to imitate their Virtues, that the regard which was paid them, ſhould terminate, in the Originals, or Perſons repreſented; This Council likewiſe Ordain'd a Regard to be paid to the Reliques of Saints, and that thoſe who refus'd it, ſhould be Excommunicated. We may likewiſe Obſerve, that though theſe Fathers were carryed to an Exceſs, in their Veneration of Images, yet they allow'd them only an Inferior Degree of Worſhip, Reſerving Latria, or the higheſt Inſtances of Worſhip, to God alone. As for their wreſting Texts of Scripture, and making uſe of Counterfiet Authorities to carry their Point, and overthrow the late Council at Conſtantinople, See Cave's Hiſtoria Literaria pars 2. and Council of Francfort, ſupra. Labbee's Concil. There was another deſigned here in 359 for the Promoting of Arianiſm, but was diſappointed by an Earthquake. Nice ſtands 44 Miles from Nicomedia to the North, and 25 from Pruſſia to the Weſt. It was taken by Godfrey of Bulloigne in his way to Jeruſalem, An. 1097. and reſtor'd to the Greek Emperor. Solyman Cutlimuſt, at that time Governor, rebelled againſt the Sultan, and called himſelf King. In 1329 it was beſieged by the Sultan Orchanes II. of the Ottoman Line; and Andronicus the Greek Emperor coming to relieve it, was wounded and forc'd to retire, yet the Turks took it not until next Year, and that by a Stratagem. The Town ſtands partly on the deſcent of a Hill, and partly on a Plain. The Haven conſiſts of two Moles built of Free-ſtone, and three great Incloſures encompaſſed with Walls, where they lay up their Timber for Houſes and Shipping. The adjacent Country is pleaſant and fruitful and abounds with Wine and rare Fruit, which induc'd Sultan Amurath to build a Seraglio in the higheſt place of the Town, where there is a delicate proſpect both by Sea and Land; the greateſt Trade is in Timber and Corn; and it's but eight hours ſail from Conſtantinople with a fair Wind. There was another Town of this Name in Macedonia, formerly a Biſhop's See, and very large, but now reduced to a ſmall Village inhabited by Turks and Bulgarians: it ſtands 34 Miles from Heraclea; in Long. 57. 30. Lat. 42. 25. Stephan. de Urbibus. St. Athanaſius. Baronius in Annal.

NICEPHORUS I. of that Name, Emperor of Conſtantinople, ſurnamed Logotheta, was Treaſurer and Chancellor to the Emperor Leo IV. but in 802. took poſſeſſion of the Throne, having baniſh'd the Empreſs Irene, to the Iſland Mitylene or Lesbos. He was a zealous Hater of Images, and a great Defender of the Liberties of the Greek Church againſt the Encroachments of the Church of Rome. He put Bardanes his Competitor into a Monaſtery, and came to an Agreement with Charles the Great, about the Limits of their reſpective Dominions; declared his Son Stauratius, Auguſtus, and gave a great Defeat to the Bulgarians, whoſe King, Crunnus, was forc'd to beg a Peace at his hands; which the Emperor refuſing, the Bulgarians, made deſperate thereby, ſet upon his Army in the night time, defeated it, and kill'd him, with all his Nobility, A. C. 811. whoſe Skull, plated over with Silver, Crunnus after made uſe of for a Cup to drink in; his Son Stauratius, being dangerouſly wounded, hardly eſcaping. Michael Curopalates, his Son-in-law, ſucceeded him. Theophanes. Credenus. Zonar. in Annal. Græc.

NICEPHORUS II. ſurnamed Phocas, was Commander of the Armies of Romanus the Younger, and by the Soldiers put into his place, becauſe that Emperor's Sons were too young to govern. He was crown'd by the Patriarch Polyeuctes the 16th. of Auguſt, 963, and married Theophania the Emperor's Widow. This Emperor was famous for his Victories obtain'd before and after he came to the Crown, for he drove the Saracens out of Syria, Cilicia, and the Iſle of Cyprus, and took from them the Cities of Antioch and Tripoli. But his extraordinary Covetouſneſs ſtained all his brave Actions, and put him upon oppreſſing his Subjects by horrid Extortions. And ſome ſay of him, That to reward his Soldiers, he ſuffered them to plunder Churches. Thus being become hateful to all, John Zimiſces, the Empreſs Theophania's Gallant, murthered him in his Palace, the 11th of Decem. 969, Curopalates. Credenus in Annal.

NICEPHORUS III. ſurnamed Botoniates, being Commander of the Troops of the Empire in Aſia, became very conſiderable, and being aſſiſted by the Turks, made himſelf Maſter of Conſtantinople, and was declared Emperor the 25th of March, 1078; and having baniſhed Michael Paripanaces, with his Wife and Son Conſtantine, into a Monaſtery, reign'd from the 7th of April, till the end of March, 1081, when he was forc'd to change the Imperial Purple for a Monk's Habit, quitting the Throne to Alex. Comnenus. Zonaras. Cedrenus, &c.

NICEPHORUS I. of that Name, Patriarch of Conſtantinople, ſucceeded Taraſius in 806, was the Son of Theodorus, who had been Secretary to the Emperors of the Eaſt, which Office himſelf alſo diſcharged for ſome time, but being weary of a Court life, retired to a Monaſtery, whence the Emperor Nicephorus ſent for him to be Patriarch; ſome time after the Emperor Leo the Armenian baniſhed him to a Monaſtery on the farther ſide of the Streights of Conſtantinople, for his being a zealous defender of Images, where he died at the Age of 70 or 71, in 828, after having lived Fourteen Years in exile. We have a Treatiſe of his called Hiſtoriæ Breviarium, from the Death of the Emperor Maurice to Leo IV. which was publiſhed by Petavius in 1616, and afterwards joyn'd to the Hiſtoria Byzantina in 1648. He writ alſo a Book entitled, Chronologia Tripartita, publiſhed by Joſeph Scaliger, and others. Photius. Cod. 66. Theodorus Studita. Cedrenus. Zonaras. Glycas, &c.

NICEPHORUS Chartophylax, who 'tis thought lived about the Year 800. We have ſome of his Works tranſlated into Latin, in the Bibliotheca Patrum, and in the Collection of Jus Græco-Romanum. Cave's Chartophylax.

NICEPHORUS, a Macedonian, the Author of a Greek Book entitled, Commentarii de rebus Byzantinis, which Fra. Poſſinus publiſhed at Paris, 1661. with Notes and Du Cange hath alſo publiſhed ſome Obſervations upon this Author in 1670. at the end of Cinnamus. He died in 1137. Cave's Chartoph.

NICEPHORUS, ſurnamed Calliſtus, (becauſe he was Son of Calliſtus) and Xantopulus, was a Greek Hiſtorian who lived in the XIVth. Century, under the Empire of Andronicus Paleologus the Elder, and Michael Andronicus the Younger, and compoſed an Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory in XXIII. Books, whereof we have only XVIII. left, which contain an account of what paſs'd from the Birth of Chriſt to the Death of the Emperor Phocas in 610, which was tranſlated into Latin by Joan. Langius, and whereof we have ſeveral Editions, that of 1630 at Paris being counted the beſt. Voſſius. Poſſevin.

NICEPHORUS (Gregoras) a Greek Hiſtorian, who flouriſhed in the XIVth. Century, and writ an Hiſtory in XI Books, containing the Paſſages from A. C. 1204 when Conſtantinople was taken by the French, to the Death of Andronicus Paleologus the Younger, in 1341. We have this Hiſtory, with the Latin Tranſlation of Jerom Wolfius, printed at Baſil, in 1562, and at Geneva, in 1615. This ſame Nicephorus interpreted a Piece of Syneſius de Inſomniis, which Turnebus publiſhed in 1552. Dr. Cave in his Hiſt. Liter. adds that he was commanded to Silence by the Patriarch Calliſtratus upon pain of Excommunication, which Sentence he deſpiſed, and retiring into a Monaſtery diſpers'd a Writing in which he accus'd the Emperor and Patriarch of the Injury he pretended was done him; the Greek Church of corrupt and falſe Doctrine; the Monks in general of Lazineſs, Luxury and Hereſie; whereupon he was commanded by the Emperor Cantacuzenus to remain in that Monaſtery, and forbidden all Company and Books. In 1355. Cantacuzenus having abdicated the Empire, called a Council to examine Theological Controverſies and the Imputations of Gregoras, whither being ſent for, he was convicted of his Lyes and Calumnies. How long he lived after this is uncertain.

NICETAS I. of that Name, Patriarch of Conſtantinople, was a Sclavonian, an Eunuch, and a great Enemy of Image-worſhip, which endeared him to the Emperor Conſtantinus Copronymus, who preferred him to the See of Conſtantinople, in 766. in which place he continued to his Death in 780. Curopalat. Cedrenus in Compend. Baron. in Annal.

NICETAS (Acominatus ſurnam'd Choniates) a Greek Hiſtorian who lived in the XIIIth. Century. He had had conſiderable Offices in the Court of the Emperors of Conſtantinople, and when that City was taken by the French in 1204. he retired with a Young Woman he had taken from the Enemies, to Nicæa in Bithynia, where he married her, and ſpent the reſt of his days. He writ an Hiſtory or Annals from the Death of Alexis Comnenus in 1118, to that of Baldwin in 1205. This work having been tranſlated by Hierom Wolfius, hath been added to the Body of the Byzantine Hiſtory of the Louvre Impreſſion. Petrus Morellus of Tours, in the XVIth. Century tranſlated the firſt V. Books of the Treaſure of the Orthodox Faith, attributed to this Nicetas, which were printed at Paris in 1580, and have been ſince added to the twelfth Volume of the Bibliotheca Patrum. There are alſo ſome other fragments of this Author. Hierom Wolfius in Præfat. Poſſevin. in Appar. Bellarm. de Script. Eccl. Voſſius de Hiſtor. Græc. Leo Allatius de Nicetis.

NICETAS, a Monk of Conſtantinople, who lived about 1120, and writ in Defence of the Council of Chalcedon againſt the Prince of Armenia. Alſo another of the ſame Name ſurnamed Pectoratus, who lived about the midſt of the eleventh Century and writ a Treatiſe of Unleavened Bread againſt the Latins. Alſo Nicetas, ſurnamed Seidus, who 'tis ſuppoſed lived at the beginning of the tenth Century, and writ ſeveral Treatiſes againſt the Latins. Allatius. Cave.

NICETAS (David) a Greek Hiſtorian, living to the latter end of the IXth. Century. He wrote the Life of Ignatius Patriarch of Conſtantinople, tranſlated by Metius Biſhop of Termuli, and after by Raderus, which was Printed at Ingolſtadt in 1604.

NICETAS (Serſon) a Biſhop of Heraclea, was Contemporary with Theophylact, and flouriſh'd to the Year 1077; Allatius miſtakes him for Nicetas of Paphlagonia abovemention'd. There are extant of his, Commentaries in Greek and Latin, upon St. Gregory Nazianzen, a Catena upon Job; and ſeveral other Tracts of the ſame Nature. Cave Chartophyl.

NICHOLAS (Colonel Oliver) of Auburn in Wiltſhire, Groom of the Bed-Chamber to King James II. He Bears in a Field Azure, a Cheveron Engrail'd between three Owls, Or, plac'd in the Breſt of an Eagle Diſplay'd, with two Necks Gules. NICIAS, an Athenian Captain, and the Son of Niceratus, whom his Vertue and Riches had made very conſiderable in his Country. His Merit rais'd him to ſeveral conſiderable Poſts in the Field: He was alſo Admiral of their Forces by Sea, and obtained ſeveral famous Victories over his Country's Enemies. He perſuaded the Athenians to conclude a Truce of fifty Years with the Lacedæmonians. Afterwards, when the War of Sicily was reſolved upon, he was choſen to be one of the Commanders in Chief of that Expedition; but they of Syracuſa, having beaten the Athenian Fleet, he and Demoſthenes the General of it were put to Death in the XCIſt. Olymp. and 441ſt. of Rome. Thucid. Diod. Sic. Plutar.

NICIAS of Nicea. He writ the Lives of the Philoſophers and ſome other Treatiſes, quoted by Athenæus. Ælian makes mention of a Painter of the ſame Name, and Plutarch of a Greek Author. Alſo a famous Athenian Painter, whoſe Excellency conſiſted in drawing Women to the Life. He made a Picture wherein he had repreſented Hell in the ſame manner as Homer deſcribes it, for which he refuſed 60 Talents, as having more mind to make a Preſent of it to his Country, than to enrich himſelf by it. Felibien. vit. Peint.

NICOCLES, King of Salamine in the Iſle of Cyprus, Son of Evagoras IId. received the Crown and Title of the King of Paphos from the hands of Ochus, King of Perſia. After the Death of Nicocreon, Son of Protagoras, he got again into the Throne of Salamine, by the Protection of Ptolemæus Lagus, but having quitted his Benefactor, to ſide with Antigonus, he was accuſed of Perfidiouſneſs, and ſeeing his Palace inveſted by Ptolemy's Forces, who had ſentenc'd him to die, he deſpair'd of Relief and diſpatch'd himſelf; his Wife ſeeing this horrid Spectacle, kill'd her Sons and Daughters, and afterwards ſtabb'd herſelf; and Pythagoras and Protagoras, who were the onely Remains of Teucer's Poſterity, concluded this direfull Tragedy by ſetting Fire to the Palace, and caſt themſelves into the midſt of it. Diodorus, lib. 20. Alſo a Comical Greek Poet who lived at the ſame time with Ariſtophanes, in the XCVIth. Olympiad, and 366 of Rome. Cauſab. Animad. in Athenæum.

NICOCRATES, a Tyrant of Cyrene in Libya, was a very cruel Prince. He put to death Phædimus, to marry his Wife Aretaphile, with whom he was fallen in Love. He murthered Menelippus, High-prieſt of the Temple of Apollo, and took upon himſelf the Prieſthood, to prevent any of the Townsmen of Cyrene eſcaping by being carry'd out in a Coffin, he order'd all the Corps to be examin'd and ſtruck through with a Lance. Theſe unheard-of Cruelties made his Wife deſire to be rid of him; for which end ſhe prepared a poiſonous Draught, but that failing, ſhe got Prince Leander to diſpatch him. Plutarch of the Vertues of Women.

NICODEMUS, a Phariſee, and Senator of the Jewiſh Sanhedrin, who came and diſcourſed our Saviour by night: See John, ch. 3. who alſo took care of our Saviour's Burial, John, chap. 19. We have a Book called The Goſpel of Nicodemus, which is ſuppoſititious.

NICOLAI (Laurentius) a Jeſuit born in Norway, who was ſent from Rome to Sweden in 1577, to aſſiſt Queen Catharine, the Wife of King John IIId. for the reſtoring the Roman Catholick Religion in that Kingdom; to which end he had a Divinity Profeſſor's Place beſtowed upon him at Stockholm; having this opportunity put into his hands, he in his publick Lectures made it is buſineſs to undermine the Foundations of Lutheraniſm, which when the Principal of the College and the Curate of the Town perceived, they oppoſed him therein, but were put out of their Places, and Nicolai made a Principal; but two years after, when the King was informed of the Truth of the Matter, he baniſhed Nicolai, and reſtor'd his Adverſaries to their Places. Maimbourg's Hiſtory of Lutheraniſm.

NICOLAITANS, Hereticks who are ſuppoſed to have riſen in the Church during the time of the Apoſtles, and are taken to be the Fathers of the Gnoſticks. Some of the Fathers affirm that Nicolas, one of the ſeven firſt Deacons was Founder of this Sect; that being blam'd by the Apoſtles for keeping company with his wife whom he had left before to live in Continence, he invented this brutal Error to excuſe his Proceeding, and taught that Impurity was a neceſſary means to attain eternal Bliſs. Others ſay that the Apoſtles reproaching him with being jealous of his Wife, who was very handſome, he ſent for her, and in a great Aſſembly gave her leave to marry whom ſhe pleas'd; upon which ſome Libertines formed a Hereſie, and unjuſtly called it by his Name. They denyed Chriſt's Divinity by an Hypoſtatical Union, ſaying, the Divine inhabited, but was not united to the Humane Nature. They held, That all Pleaſures were good, and that it was lawfull to eat the Meats offered to Idols. Becoming too much known by this Name, they took that of the Gnoſticks, and divided themſelves into other Sects, called Phibionites, Stratioticks, Leviticks, and Borborites. Baronius, A. C. 68. Godeau. Clemen. Alexandrin. St. Iren.

NICOLAS I. Pope ſurnamed The Great, was a Roman, and ſucceeded Benedict. III. the 24th. of April, 858. He boldly withſtood the Emperor Michael III. who had depoſed Ignatius, Patriarch of Conſtantinople, and put Photius into his place; and being informed that Photius had a deſign to out him, he Excommunicated him. He Excommunicated alſo John, Archbiſhop of Ravenna, but afterwards reſtored him. He was a zealous Maintainer of the Pontifical Authority, and writ a vaſt number of Epiſtles. And died 867. Platina gives him the Character of being a frequent viſiter of the ſick, A Nurſing Father to the poor, a Comforter of the miſerable and hopeleſs, and a zealous Patron of the Widow and Fatherleſs. NICOLAS II. called Gerard the Burgundian, a Frenchman, or as others a Savoyard, ſucceeded Stephen IX. in 1059, and at the ſame time the Count of Freſcati ſet up Johan. Nincius, Biſhop of Velitri, who took upon him the Name of Benedict X. but Nicolas condemn'd him in a Council held at Sutri, whereupon Benedict was fain to ſubmit himſelf. He alſo celebrated a Council, wherein he oblig'd Berengarius to recant. In this IId. Lateran Council, he procur'd the Paſſing of a Canon againſt Simony and undue methods of promotion, by which it is Decreed, "That, if any one, "either by Simony, or by the Favour of any great Man, "or any Tumult, either of the Townſmen or Souldiery, "ſhall be plac'd in St. Peter's Chair, he ſhall be reputed not "Apoſtolical, but an Apoſtate, One that tranſgreſſeth the "Rules even of common Reaſon, and that it ſhall be lawfull "for the Cardinals, Clergy and Devout Laity, with weapons "both Spiritual and material, by Anathema's and by any "humane Aid, him to drive out and Depoſe; and that Ca"tholicks may aſſemble for this End, in any place whatſoever "if they cannot doe it in the City. He died 1061, after having govern'd the Church two years and 6 months. Baron. Platina.

NICOLAS III. of the Family of the Vrſini, called John Cajetan, ſucceeded to John XXI. the See having been vacant ſix months and four days; he was choſen at Viterbo, the 25th. of November 1277; he was Learned and a Favourer of Learning, and was of ſuch a prudent behaviour, that before his coming to the Papacy he was commonly called Cardinalis Compoſitus, The Compoſed or Grave Cardinal. Many Popiſh Writers accuſe this Pope of having been too forward in promoting and enriching his Relations; and for his unjuſt perſecuting of Charles of Anjou, King of Sicily, and of having been the Author of the Maſſacre of the French in Sicily, called the Sicilian Veſpers, tho' he died two years before it was executed, of an Apoplexy at Sutri, the 22d. of Auguſt, 1280. *Platina. NICOLAS IV, a Franciſcan, called Hieronymus, born at Aſcalon, ſucceeded Honorius IV. A. C. 1288, after XI months vacancy of the See. He appeaſed the Diſſenſions at Rome, reconciled the Kings of Sicily and Arragon, took care for the Converſion of the Tartars, and the Inhabitants of Dalmatia, and did his beſt endeavours for recovery of the Holy-land. He died in 1292. Commentaries upon the Scripture, and on the Maſter of the Sentences, Sermons, and other Treatiſes are attributed to him. Du Cheſne in his Life. Bzovius. Spondan. & Raynald. in Annal. Eccleſ.

NICOLAS V. before called Thomas, was choſen after Eugenius IV. the ſixth of March, 1447, and crowned the nineteenth of the ſame month. He made the Anti-pope Felix V. to renounce all his Pretenſions to the Papacy. He celebrated a Jubilee in 1450, and crowned the Emperor Frederick IVth. with his Wife Eleonora of Portugal; but being ſorely troubled with a Conſpiracy formed againſt him and the Cardinals by Stephanus Porcarius, and the News of the taking of Conſtantinople, he fell ſick, and died 1455. He was a great Reſtorer and Favourer of Learning. He augmented the Vatican with 3000 Books, and made it his buſineſs, with incredible Charges, to collect a vaſt number of Greek and Latin Manuſcripts. He was very liberal and magnificent to the Greeks, to Gentlemen falling to decay, poor Maids, and eſpecially to learned Men, whom he ſent for from all parts to his Court. He was alſo very magnificent in his publick Buildings. He is highly commended by ſeveral Authors. Antonin. Æneas Sylvius. Platina. Spondan. Raynal. Poſſevin. Du Cheſne.

NICOLAS I. ſurnamed Myſticus, which is a Name of dignity, Patriarch of Conſtantinople, ſucceeded Antonius in 890. He governed the Church with much Sincerity. The Emperor Leo VI. depoſed him in 901, becauſe he would not approve of the fourth Marriage of that Prince with Zoe; but Alexander reſtored him again in 911, and made him Tutor to Conſtantinus Porphyrogenetus. He ſent Legates to Pope John X. for the Union of the Greek and Latin Church. He died in 930. Curopalat. In Compend. Hiſtor. Baron. in Annal.

NICOLAS II. ſurnamed Chryſoberges, was the Succeſſor of Antonius Studita, in 981, and with great Sweetneſs governed the Church till 995. Curopalat. & Baron.

NICOLAS III. ſurnamed Grammaticus, a Perſon highly eſteemed among the Greeks, ſucceeded Euſtathius in 1089. He died in 1117. Zonar. in Annal. Baron. in Annal.

St. NICOLAS, Biſhop of Mira in Lycia, who according to ſome Greek and Roman Writers lived at the beginning of the IVth Century. He was taken during the Perſecution of Licinius, and ſent into Baniſhment; after the Death of that Tyrant he viſited his Dioceſs, and deſtroyed all the Idol-Temples he found in it. It is ſaid that he aſſiſted at the General Council of Nice, where he ſtrongly oppoſed Arius. Metaphraſt. & Surius. Baron. in Annal. & Martyr, Godeau Hiſt. Eccleſ.

NICOLAS-STUR, the Son, as 'twas ſaid, of Steno Stur, King of Sweden, and of Chriſtina, was proclaim'd King by the People of Dalecarlia, after the Death of Steno, who had been killed in a Battle againſt the Danes in 1520. But Chriſtina who was reſolved to marry Guſtavus, perſuaded the People that ſhe had never a Son, and that Nicolas Stur was an Impoſtor, whereupon he was forced to make his Eſcape to Norway, and from thence to Roſtock, where Guſtavus cauſed him to be ſeized, and tried, and upon many Informations brought in againſt him from Sweden, he was condemned to be beheaded. The Abbot of Vertat is poſſitive that this Nicolas-Stur or Nils-Steno was no better than an Impoſtor, that his true name was Hants, of a mean birth, and no more than a Groom in the Pariſh of Blorchſtrat in the Province of Weſtmania. See Hiſt. of the Revolutions of Sweden &c. part 2d. p. 62, 65. Varillas.

NICOLAS the Hermit, commonly called Brother Clauſs, a Swiſſer, who being Father of Five Sons, and as many Daughters, retired into a Wilderneſs in the Valley of Melchtal in 1481, where he lived 21 years in Meditation and Prayers, eating nothing but Roots, thinly cloathed, and always went bare-foot, and without either Hat or Cap; exhorting all that viſited him to Penance and a Contempt of the World; wiſhing them never to be dejected at the Viciſſitudes of Fortune: He foretold a great many things, and ſaid, his Country, if united in it ſelf, would always flouriſh and prove invincible, eſpecially if the Inhabitants did give over their foreign Alliances, and yearly Penſions, and furniſhing Princes with mercenary Troops, and did apply them to cultivate their Land at Home. Tempted by the Biſhop of Conſtance, he eat ſome Meat, which much prejudiced his Health. He kept nothing in his little Cell but two Stools on which he uſed to reſt himſelf ſometimes. His uſual Prayer was, Domine, Rape me mihi, & redde me totum tibi: Lord, Deliver me from my ſelf, and take me wholly to thee. He died in 1502. Hoffman.

NICOLAUS de Cuſa, or Cuſanus, was of great eſteem in the fifteenth Century; he took his Name de Cuſa from a ſmall Village on the Moſelle, in the Dioceſs of Trier. He was a Perſon of extraordinary Learning and Parts, and more particularly excelled in Law and Divinity, tho' withall a moſt abſtruſe Philoſopher. He was made Cardinal and Biſhop of Brixia by Nicolas the Fifth. In 1451 he was ſent Legate into Germany to preach the Croiſade, but without ſucceſs. He died at Todi, a City of Umbria, in 1464, in the 63d. year of his Age. He founded the Hoſpital of St. Nicolas near Cuſa the Place of his Birth, and furniſhed it with a moſt noble and ample Library of Greek and Latin Authors. He left many excellent Works which were Printed in three Volumes at Baſil, 1565. Onuphr. Platina, Ciacon. Trithem. & Bellarm. de Script. Eccleſ. Spondan. & Raynald. in Annal. Poſſevin. in Apparat. Sixtus Senenſ. Biblioth. Sacra.

NICOLAUS Damaſcenus was a Perſon highly eſteemed amongſt the Learned Men of his Age. He lived in the time of Auguſtus, and was in great favour with that Emperor, and Herod the Great, King of the Jews. He was a Peripatetick Philoſopher, Poet and Hiſtorian, and writ the Hiſtory of Aſſyria, whereof we have only ſome Fragments left, with many other conſiderable Pieces. Henry of Valois or Valeſius hath publiſhed at Paris in Greek and Latin, the Collection which Conſtantinus Porphyrogennetus had made of the Works of this Author.

NICOLAUS de Lyra, or Lyranus. His Surname was given him from his native Place Lyre, a Country Town in Normandy, and the Dioceſe of Evreux. He was born of Jewiſh Parents, but having got himſelf baptized, he enter'd the Order of St. Francis, in the Monaſtery of Verneuil, and afterwards was ſent to Paris, where he taught many years with eſteem and applauſe. He died in 1349, or as others ſay, in 1340. He hath left behind him of his Writing, Poſtils upon the whole Bible, A Treatiſe of the Body of Jeſus Chriſt againſt the Jews, Commentaries upon the Maſter of the Sentences, Of the Beatifick Viſion, Sermons, &c. *Trithem. & Bellarm. de Script. NICOLE (Giles) Secretary to King Lewis XIIth. and Controuler of the Treaſury, liv'd to the year 1500. This Nicole wrote the Annals and Chronicle of France from the Deſtruction of Troy to the year 1496, to which Denys Savage, Francis Belleforeſt, Gabriel Chapuys, & ſome others have made ſeveral additions. La Croix du Maine Bibl. Franc. p. 358. Du Cheſne Bibl. des Hiſt. de France.

NICOLE (Peter) was born at Chartres in 1625; of an Ancient and conſiderable Family; and one of the fineſt Writers of his Time. He was a ſtrong Janſeniſt, and aſſiſted Monſieur Arnaud, in compoſing ſeveral of his Works, particularly he had a hand in the Treatiſe, call'd, Là Perpetuite de la Foi. Monſieur Nicole Tranſlated Monſieur Paſchal's Provincial Letters, againſt the Jeſuits, into Latin and wrote Notes upon them. The Book in which he has ſhown moſt of the beauty of his Genius, are his Eſſaies de Moràle: The Controverſial Tract which he wrote againſt the Hugonots, Intitl'd Prejugez legitimes contre les Calviniſts; as likewiſe another of his, Intitl'd, Les Pretendus Reformez convaincus de Schiſme, are ſpun with ſomewhat too fine a thread, and are likewiſe many of them capable of being turn'd upon himſelf. He wrote Likewiſe a Treatiſe of the Unity of the Church; Of the Refutation of the New Syſteme of Monſieur Jurieu, in which he has ſhown a great deal of Wit, Learning and Elocution. He dyed at Paris November 1695, ſoon after he had publiſh'd his Treatiſe concerning the Quietiſts; A little Treatiſe call'd Delectus Epigrammatum, is ſaid to be his, with a Learn'd Preface prefix'd to it. Bayle Diction. Hiſtor.

NICOMACHUS, a Greek Hiſtorian, who lived in the time of the Emperor Aurelianus, in the IIId. Century, and is ſuppoſed to be the ſame that writ the Life of Apollonius Tyanæus. Voſſ. lib. 2. de Hiſt. Græc. Alſo Nicomachus the Father of Ariſtotle, who had a Son of the ſame Name, to whom he dedicated his Ethicks.

NICOMEDES, King of Bithynia, who was driven from his Dominions by Mithridates, but reſtored again to them by the Romans, and dying about 679 of Rome, he left the Romans Heir of his Eſtates. Vell. Paterc. Tit. Liv. Flor. Polyb.

NICOMEDES II. ſurnamed Epiphanes, the fifth King of Bithynia, was ſent to Rome, and recommended to the Senate by his Father Pruſias, but having afterward gained the favour of the Senate and of the Bithynians, he conceived a mortal hatred againſt his Father, ſeized his Throne and cauſed him to be put to Death. He built Apamea in honour of his Mother, and at laſt was killed by his own Son, Nicomedes III. by a juſt effect of the Divine Retaliation. Appion. de Bello Mithrid.

NICOMEDIA, a Capital City of Bithynia, in the leſſer Aſia, was in ancient times one of the moſt important and conſiderable Cities of the Eaſt. It was built by one of the Nicomedes, Kings of Bithynia, who put his Name upon it; and being ſubdued by the Romans, became the Seat of the Empire, under divers Emperors, A. C. 358. It was wholly deſtroyed by an Earthquake at the time when the Emperor Conſtantius was about to hold an Arian Council there. At preſent this City is called Comidia, and by the Turks Iſmid, and is ſituate near the Coaſt of the Sea of Marmora, at the bottom of a Gulf to which it gives its Name, upon the ſide of a little Hill full of Fountains, and Laden with Vines, Corn, and abundance of Fruit-trees. In the City are found a multitude of Greek and Latin Inſcriptions, as alſo many Moſques and Greek Churches of a magnificent Structure. It is inhabited by about 30000 Greeks, Armenians, Jews and Turks, who drive a Trade with Silks, Cottons, woollen and linen Cloth, and other Merchandices. It was to this Place Hannibal retired after his Defeat, and where he poiſoned himſelf, for fear of being delivered to the Romans by Pruſias, King of Bithynia. It was one of the firſt Cities that embrac'd the Chriſtian Faith. Moſt of the Ships, Saicks and Barks uſed by the Merchants of Conſtantinople are built in the Gulf of Nicomedia. On the Weſt of this City is a Mineral Fountain to which the Greeks and Turks repair in great Numbers, and according to their report there is ſcarcely any Diſeaſe which is not cured by it. Grelot Voyage of Conſtantinople.

St. NICON (Μετανοεῖτε) An Armenian Monk, living towards the end of the Tenth Century, the Holineſs of his Life, and his preſſing Exhortations to Repentance, were the occaſion of that Additional Name. He took a great deal of pains to Convert the Armenians, and afterwards travelling into Crete, then in the Saracens hands, he preach'd the Goſpel to them, with extraordinary zeal and application; and his Miſſion, as 'tis ſaid, was confirm'd by frequent Miracles. Baron. in Annal.

NICON, or Conqueror, the Name of an Aſs, whoſe Story take as follows. The Morning before the Sea-fight at Actium, Auguſtus being gone abroad to take a View of his Fleet, met a Man upon an Aſs, and having demanded of him who he was, anſwered, that his Name was Eutychus, that is, Fortunate; and his Aſs, Nicon, that is, Conqueror, whence Auguſtus took a good Omen for the undertaking he was going about. And after his Victory he cauſed a Brazen Statue of a man ſitting upon an Aſs to be plac'd for a Trophy near the Place of that Victory. Plutarch. in Vita Auguſti.

NICON, a famous Wreſtler, who having been Conqueror very often at the Olympick Games, had a Statue erected to him in Taſſo an Iſland of the Archipelago. After his Death a certain fellow that envyed his Fame whipt the Statue, which happened to fall, and kill'd him. The Children of the Deceas'd Perſon proſecuted the Statue upon one of Draco's Laws, who ordered even inanimate things to be puniſhed, condemned to Baniſhment, and caſt into the Sea. But ſome years after, the Inhabitants of the Iſland lying under a Diſaſter, conſulted the Oracle, which told 'em, that to be rid of what they labour'd under, They ſhould ſeek and re-place Nicon's Statue. Suidas.

NICOPING, a Town of Denmark in the Iſle of Falſtria, over againſt Laland, 11 m. S. of Copenhagen. It's a very neat, but ſmall Town.

NICOPING, Lat. Nicopia, a City of Sudermania, a Province of the Kingdom of Sweden, near the Baltick Sea, 13 m. North of Stockholm, 7 m. South-eaſt of Norway, and hath a Caſtle, where Charles, Duke of Sudermania, was a long time kept Priſoner before he was advanced to the Crown of Sweden.

NICOPOLIS, the Capital of Myſia, which ſome call Nigeboli and the Turks, Sciltaro. Ammianus Marcellinus tells us this City was built by Trajan the Emperor, after his Conqueſt of Decebalus, King of Dacia. Alſo a City of Bulgaria upon the Danube near Walachia, where the Chriſtians were beaten by the Turks, in the time of Sigiſmond, King of Hungary, in 1396. Alſo a City of Epirus, called Preveſa, which was built near the Place where Auguſtus obtained a Victory over Mark Anthony in 723 of Rome.

NICOPOLIS, called alſo Gianich, and Chiorme, an Epiſcopal City of Armenia, under the Metropolis of Sebaſte. Alſo an Epiſcopal City of Judæa, and is the ſame with Emmaus. See EMMAUS.

NICOSIA, the Capital City of the Iſle of Cyprus, with an Archbiſhop's See. Some Authors ſay its ancient Name was Thremithum. It was taken by the Turks in September, 1570, after a Siege of 42 days. This Town is 3 Miles in Compaſs; and ſtands in a fruitfull and well watered Plain. The Gentry of the Country all live here; yet it is not very populous, a great part of the Ground within the Walls being taken up with fine Gardens, which with the well pav'd Streets renders this one of the pleaſanteſt Places in the whole Country, but far ſhort of the Strength of Famaguſta, whoſe Walls are cut out of the main Rock. The Greeks have four Churches, the Franks two, and the Armenians one in this City. The Turks demoliſhed the noble Buildings left here by the Venetians, in hopes of finding Treaſure. When the Turks took it they ſhipp'd off 250 Field-pieces, with a rich Booty, and many Captives, one of which being a Woman, blew the Ship and all up. It was formerly 9 miles in Compaſs, but the Venetians reduced it to 3, and made it one of the ſtrongeſt and moſt beautifull Fortreſſes in the World. The Air is temperate, the Soil fruitfull, and abounds with Dates and Pomegranates. It's 40 m. Eaſt of Salina, ſeated at the Foot of a Hill in a great Plain. Hackluit.

NICOSTRATUS, an Orator mentioned by Suidas; alſo a Sophiſter of Trebizonde, who lived under the Empire of Claudius and Valerian, in the Third Century. He writ the Hiſtory of the Philips, Gordianus, Decius, and of ſome others. Evagr. Voſſ. de Hiſtor. Græcis.

NICOT (John) of Niſmes in Languedoc, and Maſter of Requeſts to the French King, was Ambaſſador in Portugal in 1559, 60, and 61, from whence he brought the Plant called from his Name in Latin Nicotiana, and more commonly Tabaco. He writ ſeveral Works, viz. a French and Latin Dictionary in folio, a Treatiſe of Navigation, &c. He dyed at Paris, May 10. in 1600. Blancard.

NICOTERA, a City of the farther Calabria, in the Kingdom of Naples, upon the Shoar of the Tyrrhene Sea, with a Biſhop's See, Suffragan to the Archbiſhop of Reggio. It's very ſmall and thinly inhabited, being almoſt quite ruined by an Earthquake in 1638. Long, 40. 00. Lat. 38. 25.

NIDROSIA, a River of Norway, alſo a City of the ſame name, the Capital of a Province there, with an Archbiſhop's See, commonly called Drontheim, and a place of conſiderable Trade. The Swedes were Maſters of it ſince 1658, but by a late Treaty it hath been reſtored to the Kings of Denmark. Lat. 64. 36.

NIEPER, a River of Poland which hath its riſe in Muſcovy: See Boryſthenes.

NIESTER, Lat. Tyras or Turla, a Poliſh River which has its ſcource from a Lake in Ruſſia Rubra, nine Poliſh Miles Eaſt from Primiſlaw, and four South of Lemberg. It flows through Podolia, Pokutia, and is the boundary betwixt Braclaw and Walachia, and falls into the Black-ſea in Beſſarabia, ſixty, or as ſome ſay, not above twenty Miles from the Mouth of the Danube. Baudr.

NIEUHAUS, or Neuhaus, Lat. Nienhuſium, a Caſtle near Paderborn, and the Ancient Reſidence of their Biſhops, who made it a place of retreat from the fury of their Rebellious People. It is built on the very place where Druſus erected a Caſtle. The firſt of the Biſhops of Paderborn that reſided here, was Theodore Furſtemberg. Nero Claudius and Charles the Great built Caſtles alſo in this place, to bridle the Sicambri and Saxons.

NIGER, the greateſt River of Africa called by the Inhabitants Hiud Nijar. It ariſeth in Æthiopia from a Lake of the ſame name, and running Weſtward divides Nigritia into two parts. After a long courſe and the Reception of divers Rivers, whoſe names are unknown to us, it falls into the Atlantick Ocean by ſix great Streams, which are all South of Cape Verde but one. A remarkable thing is obſerved concerning this River, viz. That whereas on the South ſide of it, the Inhabitants are black, ſtrong, and well made, and the Soil fertile; yet on the other ſide to the North, the People are white or ſomewhat tawny, little and weak, and the ground very barren. The Tide which ebbs and flows from ſix to ſix hours, runs up above five and twenty Leagues into the Country. It increaſeth and decreaſeth like the Nile, overflowing all the Fields, and covering the Valleys: Its overflowing begins in the midſt of June, and laſts eighty Days, encreaſing and diminiſhing before it returns within its Banks. Ptolemy was miſtaken in ſaying that there was an Arm of Niger which ran towards the Eaſt, for the Merchants and others that have travelled that Country inform us of the contrary. Marmol. deſcr. of Africa.

NIGER (Dominicus Marius) a Venetian who lived about the Year 1490. He publiſhed Six and twenty Books of Geography, Eleven of Europe, as many of Aſia, and four of Africa, but takes no notice of America, whence it appears he compoſed that work, before Americus Veſpucius, had diſcovered that fourth part of the World in 1492. It was printed at Baſil in 1557.

NIGHT, the time from the Sun's ſetting to it's riſing. It is worth our obſerving that the Ancient Gauls and Germans (and we Engliſh to this day) reckoned the time by Nights and not by Days, as other Nations are wont to do. It is probable, that the reaſon of this was, that they began their Civil day at Sun-ſet, and ſo reckoned their time by that which was the beginning or firſt part of their Day, following the Divine order mentioned by Moſes, Ex veſpere & mane factus eſt dies unus, which our Tranſlators render, and the Evening and the Morning were the firſt Day.

NIGHT, Lat. Nox, a Heathen Divinity, whom ſome Authors make Daughter of the Chaos and Darkneſs, and others of Heaven and Earth: She was married, as the Poets tell us, to Erebus the God of Hell, and by him had four Children, Fate, or Deſtiny, Old-age, Sleep, and Death. The Ancients painted her holding two Children in her Arms, one aſleep and freſh coloured, the other ſeemingly aſleep but black, with its Feet aſtride; theſe denoted Death and its true Image Sleep, both commonly the off-ſpring of Night. Heſiod. Theogonia. Macrob. Saturnal, Lib. 1. Cap. 20.

NIGIDIUS FIGULUS, accounted the moſt learned of the Romans after Varro, was a Pythagorean Philoſopher and foraſmuch as the Pythagoreans were ſuſpected to be Magicians, he was baniſhed, and ſo died in 709 of Rome. Cicero and others ſpeak with high eſteem of him, and Janus Rutgerſius hath carefully collected all the Fragments of Nigidius Figulus found in Ancient Authors. Cicero. La Popeliniere.

NIGRITIA, the Land of the Blacks, a large Country of Africa in the farthermoſt Libya, having the Deſarts of Zaara to the Eaſt and North, Guinea to the South, the Atlantick Ocean and River Niger to the Weſt. It was generally divided into Kingdoms, whereof the moſt known are Borno, Guangara, Cano, Caſſena, Agades, Tombut, Canvia, Gualata, Geneboa, Fouli, which lie North of the Niger, Zanfara, Zegzeg, Gago, Bangana, Cantori, Mandinga, Caragoulis, Souſos, Beccabena, Melli, to the South of that River; about the Mouth of which live the Biafares, Jaloſes, and Gambayes, who are all Mahometans, beſides a few Idolaters and ſome that live in Deſarts, who have no Religion at all. The Negro's are brutal in their Pleaſures, lazy, dull and ignorant, moſt of 'em trade in Slaves which they take from the neighbouring Countries, and often ſell their own Children and Wives to the Spaniards and Portugueſe, who carry them to America to work in their Sugar Mills: See NEGRO'S. Morden adds, That the Niger ſomewhat qualifies the heat of this Country, but that the Rains occaſion ſeveral Diſeaſes. That Cape Banco or Caput Album, is a long extent of Sand as hard as a Rock, about ten or twelve Cubits high, with a ſpacious Port, where Ships ride ſafe whatever Wind blows, that the Hollanders have ſome Holds here, and trade with the Natives for Oſtridge Feathers, Gums, Amber, and ſome ſmall parcels of Gold. On the South of Nigritia are ſandy Deſarts not habitable for want of Water, ſo that the Paſſengers muſt carry it with 'em. On the Banks of the Niger are Indian Reeds, Woods of Ebony, Box, Tamariſk, &c. which ſhelter the Natives and their Cattle from the ſcorching heat. In the ſaid Woods are Lions, Camelo-pards, Debuths, &c. The Negro's Arms are Bows and Arrows, which with their Bow ſtrings are made of Reeds. They have alſo Clubs of Ebony, and are very Courageous; their Houſes are little and built of Earth; their chief Ornaments are Necklaces and Bracelets, but they go moſtly naked by reaſon of the heat. They have Onions, Gourds, and Melons extraordinary big, but their principal Meat is Fiſh and Camels Fleſh. They worſhip Guighimo the Lord of Heaven. They were firſt Jews, afterwards Chriſtians, but turned Mahometans about 830.

NILE, a great River of Africa, which has its riſe in the upper Æthiopia in the Kingdom of the Abyſſines, from very high Mountains called the Mountains of the Moon, in a Country called Sacahala; others ſay the Nile hath two Fountains whereof the one traverſeth the Lake Zembre or Zaire, and the other proceeding from the ſame Mountains of the Moon, paſſeth through the Lake Saflan, and being enlarged by the Gema, Kelti and Branti, runs through the South part of the Lake Dambea, where it forms the greateſt Cataract or Arm of that River; before it enters Nubia, it takes in the River Meleg, and afterwards the Tacaze, at Jalac, and entring the Upper Egypt four Miles beneath Grand Cairo, it divides firſt into two and after into more Branches, which anciently made the number Seven, but are now reduced to Four, the reſt being ſtopp'd by the Sands of the Mediterranean, and thoſe brought down by the River. The Eaſtern branch falls into the Mediterranean near Damiata, of old Peleuſiacum; the Weſtern was called Canopus, and falls into the ſame Sea near Roſetto. There are two other Channels between theſe, but inconſiderable. This River is the cauſe of the fertility of Egypt, beginning every Year to riſe with the riſing Sun June 17. and ſwelling ſometimes to twenty four Cubits, and begins to decreaſe about the middle of September. About a Month after they ſow their Grounds, and in May reap them: The cauſe of which Inundation is now known to be the Rains which fall in Æthiopia for three Months together in their Winter, which is the Egyptian Summer. The Egyptians owe not only their Food, but their Lives too in a great meaſure to the ſwelling of this River; for it is obſerved, That when 500 die of the Plague at Grand Cairo the day before, not one dies the day after. Thoſe Waters are ſweet to the taſte, cool and wholſome, and very nouriſhing both to Plants and Animals. It has plenty of Fiſh, and too many Crocodiles, ſome of which are thirty Foot long. Monſieur Thevenot begins the encreaſe of the Nile May 16 or 20, and ſaith, They give no account of its increaſe beyond September 24, though it often ſwells to the beginning of October, and gradually abates till the Month of May. He gives alſo this account of the Head of the Nile from the Report of an Æthiopian Ambaſſadour he met at Grand Cairo. The Head of the Nile is a Well that ſprings in a large Plain called Ovembromma, in the Province of Ago, which caſts up the Waters very high, and is twelve days Journey from Gouthar, the Capital of Æthiopia. Theſe Waters running Northwards paſs by ſeven Cataracts before they enter into Egypt, neither are there any Mountains near its Head by three weeks Journey. If the River doth not ſwell ſixteen Foot, a Famine follows for want of Water; if it ſwells to twenty four, there is a Dearth becauſe the Seed time is loſt. During this Inundation, the Country-people keep their Cattle on the tops of Hills till the decreaſe of the Waters, and on theſe Hills ſtand moſt of their Towns and Villages, appearing in the time of the Flood like ſo many Iſlands, and holding a commerce by the continual Entercourſe of Boats and Shallops in which they tranſport their Marketable Commodities from one place to another. If it does not thus overflow, it's not onely a fore-runner of Dearth, but prognoſticates ſome enſuing miſchief to the Prince or State, confirmed by the Teſtimony of good and credible Authors, who affirm, That in the Tenth and Eleventh Years of Cleopatra the River increaſed not at all. On the Banks of this famous River grew thoſe ſedgy Weeds called Papyri, of which Paper was made in former times. They were divided into thin flakes, into which they naturally parted, then laid upon a Table and moiſtened with the glutinous Waters of the River, afterwards preſs'd together and dry'd in the Sun, by means of which Invention Ptolemy Philadelphus made his Excellent Library at Alexandria. And underſtanding how Attalus, King of Pergamus, by the benefit of this Egyptian Paper, ſtrove to exceed him in that kind of Magnificence, prohibited the Exportation of it out of Egypt. Hereupon Attalus invented the uſe of Parchments made of the Skins of Calves and Sheep; from the Materials call'd Membrana, and Pergamena from the place where invented. It's worth taking notice of, That before this Paper and Parchment were known, there were three ways of writing; 1. On the inſide of the Bark of a Tree, which is in Latin call'd Liber, and hence Books are called Libri. 2. On Tables fram'd out of the main body of a Tree, which being called Caudex gave the Latins occaſion to call a Book Codex. 3. They uſed to cover their Tables over with Wax, and thereon to write what they had to ſignifie, whence a Letter-carrier was called Tabellarius. The Inſtrument wherewith they wrote was a Sharp-pointed-Iron, which they call'd Stylus, a word now ſignifying the peculiar phraſe which a Man uſes. Helyn. Leo Africanus ſays, That the Crocodiles of the Nile deſtroy more Men ſince the Turks were Maſters of Egypt than before, People being thin, and not ſo able as formerly to deſtroy 'em. Gabriel Sionita de Urb. Orient. ſays, The Waters of this River being expoſed in Pans three days to the heat of the Sun, turns to pure white Salt, whence the Egyptians abound with that Commodity. He adds, That the Waters are naturally muddy, but being ſettled, excell all others for ſweetneſs and clearneſs. Ludolf. Hiſt. Æthiop. Thevenot's Travels.

St. NILUS, the Diſciple of St. John Chryſoſtom, and Præfect of the City of Conſtantinople; but the love of a Contemplative Life, made him retire to Mount Sinai with his Son Theodulus, where they liv'd in a Monaſtery. Sometime after the Saracens came and kill'd the Prieſts of the Monaſtery, and took away ſeveral of thoſe Solitaries Priſoners with them, and amongſt the reſt his Son, of which St. Nilus gives an account in a Hiſtory of his own compoſing, which Poſſin the Jeſuit hath tranſlated and printed in Quarto; and Bollandus hath inſerted this Hiſtory in his Lives of the Saints, on the fourteenth of January. The ſame Jeſuit hath alſo publiſht in another Volume in Quarto, 355 Epiſtles of this Saint in Greek and Latin with curious Obſervations; and we have, beſides in the Bibliotheca Patrum his Exhortations to a Monaſtick Life in 229 Articles. St. Nilus was look'd upon as one of the great Maſters of a Spiritual and Contemplative Life, of which he writ a Treatiſe called Chriſtian Philoſophy. He died in 420, and was buried at Conſtantinople with Theodulus his Son, whom a Biſhop redeemed out of the Hands of the Saracens. The Menology of the Greeks, and Martyrology of the Romans, make mention of him on the twelfth of November, Sixt. Senenſ. Bellarmin. Baron. Poſſevin. Godeau.

NILUS, Archbiſhop of Theſſalonica, flouriſh'd in the middle of the XIVth. Century. He wrote two little Tracts againſt the Pope's Primacy; afterwards the Council of Florence Condemned his Errors, concerning the Holy Ghoſt. Spondan A. C. 1355.

NILUS DOXAPATRIUS, a Greek Writer, who writ by order of Roger King of Sicily, a Treatiſe of the five Patriarchates, towards the end of the XIth. Century, which Monſieur le Moine Profeſſor at Leyden, hath publiſh'd in Greek and Latin in 1685, wherein he treats particularly of the Patriarchates of Antioch, Alexandria, Rome, Jeruſalem and Conſtantinople, deſcribing the riſe and bounds of each of them. He gives the pre-eminence to the three Patriarchates of Antioch, Alexandria and Rome, becauſe, as he ſaith, they were founded by St. Peter himſelf. F. Simon. He aſſigns all Europe, otherwiſe call'd the Weſt, to the Roman Patriarchate; All Aſia, comprehending the Indies, to the Patriarch of Antioch. All Libya and Æthiopia, as far as Marmarica and Tripoli, together with all Egypt and Palæſtine, to the Patriarch of Alexandria. Afterwards he dilates upon the two other Patriarchates, Jeruſalem and Conſtantinople, and ſets down their Limits and Dependances; at the end of his Treatiſe, he mentions Rome, Lombardy, Sicily, and the Agreement between the Pope and Charlemaigne King of France, to whom the Pope gave the Title of Emperor; by vertue of this Treaty, as Nilus Doxapatrius reports, Charles was to poſſeſs Lombardy and the Neighbouring Provinces; and the Pope was to have Tuſcany, the Country from Rome to Lombardy, and Sicily: And laſtly, That Charles was to pay all due regards to the Pope and his Succeſſors, and to give the greater ſtrength to this Agreement, it was confirm'd by the Oath of both Parties. R. Simon.

NIMEGHEN, or Nimeguen. Lat. Noviomagum, a City of the Low-Countries, and Capital of the Lower Guelderland under the States of Holland; ſeated upon a part of the Rhine called the Wael, between the Rhine and the Maes, two Leagues from Arnheim to the South, and ſix from Utrecht to the Eaſt; three from Cleves to the Weſt, and twenty from Collen to the ſame. This City was taken in 1672 by the preſent French King, but was the Year after deſerted by the French. In 1678 there was a Peace agreed here between the French and the Spaniards, and 1679 between the Germans and the French. It was anciently the Capital of the Batavi before the Roman Conqueſt, and by Charlemaigne made an Imperial City, but exempted about 1585. It ſtood out for the Spaniards in 1589, and was attack'd by Skenk a Dutch General, who entred it, but being repulſed, was drown'd in the Wael. In 1591 Prince Maurice took it after a ſharp Siege. It was founded by the Catti, and the Caſtle by Julian the Apoſtate. Charles the Great had a Palace here, which, together with the Town, was burn'd by the Normans, but rebuilt by the Germans. It is ſeated in a good Air on the ſide of a Hill, having three great dry Heaths on three ſides of it, and the Wael on the fourth. It hath been more fam'd in the Wars both Ancient and Modern than any other in the Low-Countries; and its Inhabitants have with ſmall force obtain'd many great Victories: They had a peculiar Law, That every Citizen ſhould have a compleat Set of Armour. Pontanus.

NIMETU-LAHITES, a kind of Turkiſh Monks, ſo called from their Founder Nimetu-lahi, famous for his Doctrine and the Auſterity of his Life. They meet every Monday Night to ſing Hymns to the praiſe of God. Thoſe who deſire to be receiv'd into this Order, muſt continue forty Days ſhut up in a Chamber, where they have only allowed them four Ounces of Food a Day, neither are any ſuffered to go to them. At the end of this faſt the other Religious take the Novice by the Hand and dance a Morrice-Dance, in which they make ſeveral extravagant Geſtures, during which exerciſe the Novice commonly happens to fall down in a Trance, at which time they ſay he receives ſome wonderful Revelation. Ricaut of the Ottoman Empire.

NIMROD the Son of Cuſh and Grandchild of Ham lived A. M. 1879. It ſeems probable by the account Bochart gives us, Canaan, Lib. 1. Chap. 2. that the Greeks confounded Bacchus with Nimrod. See BACCHUS. The Scripture obſerves Gen. 10. 9. That he was a great Hunter, foraſmuch as at the firſt peopling of the World, when Humane kind was not yet multiplied into any great numbers, it was neceſſary for men to apply themſelves to Hunting for fear of being overpowered by the Beaſts. And the ſame thing appears from many Greek Fables. Tho the Suppoſititious Beroſus and Annius of Viterbo will have Nimrod to have been the Saturn of the Ancients, and that Mercator thinks him to have been Ninus; yet the moſt probable Opinion is, That he was Belus ſo often mentioned in prophane Hiſtory. Nimrod ſignifies Tygre, Bel Lord, or Powerful.

NINEVE, Lat. Ninus, an ancient and moſt celebrated City of Aſſyria, built by Aſſur about A. M. 1807, or Ninus (Gen. 10. 11.) or as others by Nimrod; ſee Bochart Phaleg Lib. IV. Chap. 12. Diodorus Siculus gives us a magnificent deſcription of it, and ſaith, it was 480 Stadia in compaſs; and the Scripture ſaith, it was a City of three Days Journey, which according to St. Hieron. is to be underſtood, not of the Length, but of the Tower or Circumference. It lies now in ruins, but out of it is ſprung a new City called Moſul or Muſal on the Weſt ſide of the Tigris in Meſopotamia, whereas Nineve was in Aſſyria, on the Eaſt Bank of that River. It was deſtroyed by Nebuchadnezzar's Father A. M. 3235, built again, and was a great City in the time of Ammianus Marcellinus, until deſtroy'd in 1173 according to Sir John Marſham, Chron. Lat. 36. Long. 82.

NINOVE or Nienove, a ſmall City of the Low-Countries in the Earldom of Flanders, and Territories of Aloſt, ſubject to the King of Spain. It ſtands upon the River Dender, two Leagues South of Aloſt, in the middle between Bruſſels to the Eaſt, and Oudenarde to the Weſt.

NINUS, or Aſſur, whom Euſebius makes the firſt King of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, he built, or rather enlarged Nineve, conquered Zoroaſter King of the Bactrians, and married Semiramis of Aſcalon, ſubdued almoſt all Aſia, and died after a Reign of Two and fifty Years. We have no certainty that Aſſur mentioned in Scripture (Gen. 10. 11.) was the ſame with Ninus of the Ancients, the Son of Belus, as is commonly believed; it being more probable that Ninus lived not till about the time of Deborah, and that he only embelliſhed Nineve, whoſe Foundations had been laid long before by Nimrod, and beſtowed upon it the name of Nineve; that is, the Abode or Habitation of Ninus. Voſſ. Chronolog. Hiſt. Univerſ. of the Biſhop of Meaux.

NIOBE, the Daughter of Tantalus, and Wife to Amphion King of Thebes, being puft up with Pride for her Beauty and numerous Iſſue, ſhe arrogantly preferr'd them before the Children of Latona, at which ſhe being incenſed, cauſed them to be all killed, whereupon Niobe being ſeiz'd with extream grief was turn'd into a ſtone. That which gave occaſion to this Fable, is, That we find that extraordinary and overcoming ſorrows, make the party ſtiff and unmoveable like a ſtone, and therefore it is ſaid 1 Sam. 35 . 37. that Nabal's Heart, upon hearing the account which his Wife gave him of David's anger againſt him, died within him, and he became a ſtone.

NIPHATES, now Curdo, a part of Mount Taurus between Armenia and Meſopotamia; from whence proceeds a River of the ſame name, which paſſing through Armenia and Meſopotamia, empties it ſelf in the Tigris.

NIPHON, an Iſland of Aſia belonging to Japan, and the principal Province of that Empire, in which are Meaco and Jedo, the Royal Cities where the King reſides. It is about ſixty Leagues in compaſs. In this Iſland are five Provinces, viz. Jamayſtera, Jetſegen, Jeſten, Ochio and Quanto.

NIPHUS, called Eutychius and Philotheus (Auguſtinus) was of Seſſa or Sueſſa, a City in the Kingdom of Naples. He taught Philoſophy in almoſt all the Univerſities of Italy; and beſides his Learning, was of a very pleaſant Humour, and good Company; only is blamed for having too much doated upon Women: He died about the Year 1537. He hath left ſeveral Works, as his Commentaries upon Ariſtotle; a Treatiſe of the Immortality of the Soul againſt Pomponatius; divers Moral and State Treatiſes publiſhed by Naudæus in Quarto; Epiſtolæ Adverſus Aſtrologos, De inimicitiarum lucro, De armorum & literarum comparatione, De Tyranno & Rege, De Auguriis, De diebus criticis, &c.

NISAN, the firſt Month in the Hebrew Calendar which anſwers to part of our March and April; famous for the Sacrifice to be offered on the firſt Day of it, and the Feaſt of Eaſter. Sigon. in Calend. Hebr. Torniel.

NISE or Niſne, which is alſo called Niſſi Novogorod, is a great City of Moſcovy built by the great Duke Baſilius upon the confluent of the Occa and Volga, and had that name becauſe moſt of its Inhabitants came from Novogorod. It is a place of great Trade, and is inhabited by Moſcovites, Tartars and Hollanders, and is called the Lower Novogorod. It lies 100 German Miles from Moſcow to the North Eaſt, and forty from Wologda to the S. E.

NISIBIN, Lat. Niſibis, the Capital of Meſopotamia, of great Antiquity. It is ſuppoſed to have been a Colony of the Romans, and is mentioned by Pliny and Strabo. It is now an Archbiſhop's See, and the Capital of Diarbeck under the Turks. It ſtands upon the River Zaba, which falls into the Tigris under Mount Taurus, thirty five Miles from the Tigris to the Weſt, fifty from Amida to the South, and ſeventy five from Taurus to the South-Weſt. Eccleſiaſtical Authors make frequent mention of the Protection this City received from its Biſhop, St. James, when it was Beſieged by Sapor King of Perſia in 338, who, by his Prayers ſcattered his Armies. Theodoret. Plin. Strabo.

NISITA, Lat. Neſis, a ſmall Iſland of Italy in Terra di Lavoro in the Kingdom of Naples, three Miles from Pozzuolo. In 1550 there was found here the Marble Sepulchre of a Roman Citizen, having a lighted Lamp in a Glaſs Vial or Bottle, which had no opening nor vent at all, which was very extraordinary. As ſoon as this Bottle was broke the Lamp went out; the flame of this Lamp was exceeding bright and lively, and the Glaſs was not blackened or ſtained in the leaſt, which was an evident Argument, that it was pure Æthereal Fire, which caſts no Smoke. Licetus de Lucern. antiquis.

NISMES, Lat. Nemauſus, Nemauſium, a City of France in the Lower Languedoc, which was a Roman Colony of great Antiquity, as appears by many Monuments yet remaining, the moſt conſiderable whereof is the Amphitheatre, the form of which is round, and built of hewn ſtone of an extraordinary bigneſs, with Seats for Spectators. The outſide of it is encompaſs'd with Pillars and Corniches, where are ſtill to be ſeen the Roman Eagles, and the figures of Romulus and Remus ſuckled by a Wolf. Without the City is to be ſeen the Temple of Diana, the great Tower call'd by the Inhabitants Tour magne, with divers other Antiquities, and the Fountain mentioned by Auſonius;

> Non Aponus potu, vitrea non luce Nemauſus
> Purior, æquoreo non plenior amne Timavus.

The ancient Medals found in and about this City prove it to have been a Colony of the Soldiers whom Auguſtus brought back with him from Egypt, after the Conqueſt of that Province as repreſenting a Crocodile bound to a Palm-tree, with theſe letters Col. Nem. which import Colonia Nemauſus, or Nemauſenſium, which Medal conſtitutes at preſent the Arms of Niſmes. Another conſiderable Monument is the Square-houſe, ſo call'd, being a long ſquare building ſeventy four Foot in length, and one and forty Foot ſix Inches broad: Some have thought this to be the Baſilica which Adrian the Emperor built at Niſmes, but the Baſilica had their Pillars within, whereas this building, like the Temples, hath them without; wherefore it ſeems very probable, that this Square-houſe was formerly a Temple of the Romans, who were uſed to build their Temples long ſquare for their Figure. The Situation of Niſmes is the moſt pleaſant of any other of the whole Province, as having on the one ſide of it Hills covered with Vines and all manner of Fruit-Trees, and on the other ſide of it, a great and fruitful Plain. It is a very fair City, and an Epiſcopal See, lying in the middle between Avignon to the Eaſt, and Montpelier to the Weſt, ſeven Leagues from either. This City was in ſubjection to the Goths till the time of Charles Martel; afterwards had its own Counts, and was united to the Crown in 1214. Long. 25. 05. Lat. 43. 06. Sueton. Strabo. Du Cheſne. Spon.

NISSA, a conſiderable City of Turkey in Servia, ſituate upon the River Nichawa, which falls into the Morava; fifteen German Miles North from Scopia, twelve Weſt of Giuſtandil, and forty two N. W. from Theſſalonica, memorable for the defeat of the Turks by the Imperialiſts, on the twenty fourth of September 1689, under Prince Lewis of Baden, whereupon all Servia and Albania ſubmitted to the Emperor, as did the Town next day after the Victory; but it was retaken by the Turks in 1690, after a Siege of three Weeks. It's ſtrong by its Situation, capable of being improved, and has five Moſques. It's ſeated in a fruitful and pleaſant Soil.

NISSE, or Niſi, Lat. Nyſa, a City of Armenia the leſſer, and a Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Cæſarea, famous for having had St. Gregory for its Prelate. There was of old a City of this name in the Indies, built by Bacchus.

NISUS, King of Megara in Achaia, had amongſt his fair Hair a lock of a purple colour, which he kept with great care, as that upon which the Preſervation of his Kingdom depended, but Scylla his Daughter being fallen in love with Minos King of Crete, who beſieged the City of Megara, cut off her Father's lock, and ſo delivered her Native Country to its Enemies; whereupon Niſus died for grief, and, as the Poets feign, was changed to an Oſprey, and Scylla finding her ſelf ſcorned by Minos died of Deſpair, and was chang'd into a Lark. This Fable reſembles the true Story of Samſon, in whoſe Hair, cut by Dalila, lay all his ſtrength. Apollodor. Ovid Metam. Lib. 8.

NITHARDUS, Abbot of St. Riquier, was much eſteem'd in the IXth. Century. His Father Angelbert was a great Lord, and Bertha his Mother was Daughter to Charlemagne. He was kill'd by the Danes in the Year 853. He wrote a Hiſtory of the Wars between the three Sons of Lewis the Debonnair. Intituled, Libri IV. De Diſcordia Filiorum Ludovici Pii. Pithæus, Printed it in 8vo. in 1588, and afterwards Du Cheſne inſerted it in the ſecond Volume of the French Hiſtorians. The Hiſtory begins at the Death of Charles the Great, in 814, and ends in 843, St. Marth. Gall. Chriſt. T. IV. De Abbot S. Ricardi.

NITHISDALE, a County in the South of Scotland near the Borders. having Clidſale on the North, Anandale on the Eaſt, Solway firth on the South, and Galloway on the Weſt. It gives Title to an Earl of the Family of Maxwell.

NITOCRIS, Queen of Babylon, was the Mother of Labinetus, dethron'd by Cyrus. She turned the Courſe of the River Euphrates, which ran ſtreight through the City, another way, to hinder the Enemies from coming unawares upon them by the rapid courſe of that River; ſhe caus'd alſo a Bridge to be built over it; and ordered her Tomb over the Principal Gate of the City, with an Inſcription, which promiſed great Treaſures to the Opener of it, which Darius having done, found nothing in it but theſe words for his pains, Hadſt thou not been the moſt Covetous of all Men, thou wouldſt not have troubled the Repoſe of the Dead. Herod.

NITRIA, a Mountain of Egypt famous for having been the Retreat of many holy Anchorets.

NITRIA, called by the Inhabitants Nitracht, a City of the upper Hungary, and a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Gran. It ſtands upon a ſmall River of the ſame Name, ten German Miles from Presburg to the Eaſt, the ſame from Gran to the North, and five from Newhauſel. It's Capital of a Province of the ſame Name.

NITT, the Reſidence of the Dukes of Curland in Germany.

NIVATA, a Province of Japan, with a City of the ſame Name in the Province called Quanto. Sanſon.

NIUCHE, Lat. Niucanum, called alſo Tenduc and Charchir, a Kingdom in the Aſian Tartary, the King whereof has lately conquered China.

NIVERNOIS: See NEVERS.

NIVILLE, a ſmall but ſtrong Town of the Low-Countries in the Dukedom of Brabant, and Quarter of Bruſſels, ſtill under the King of Spain. It ſtands twelve Miles S. of Bruſſels and eighteen N. E. of Mons.

NIXIDII, certain Gods worſhipped by the Romans, and ſuppos'd by them to be the helpers of Women in their Child-bed-throes, from the Word Nixus, which ſignifies the throws of a Woman in Labour. They were three in Number. The Romans placed their Statues in the Capitol, over againſt the Altar of Minerva. It's ſaid, the Romans brought 'em out of Syria after the Defeat of Antiochus. They repreſented theſe Gods in the poſture of Women in Labour, Ovid. Feſtus.

NIZYNUM, a large and ſtrong Town of Ukrania, on the Borders of the Dukedom of Czarnich, beyond the Boriſthenes, taken from the Coſſacks in 1652, by Caſimir King of Poland.

NOAH, the Patriarch, Son of Lamech, who was born An. Mund. 1057; and he alone, with his Family, preſerv'd from the Deluge in an Ark, to re-people the World after that Univerſal judgment. God having reſolv'd to puniſh the Abominations of Mankind by an univerſal Deluge, and willing to ſave Noah, commanded him to build the Ark, which he perfected in 100 Years, during which, the People continuing impenitent, he was ordered to take in Food for himſelf and the Beaſts that were to be preſerv'd, and to enter the Ark with his three Sons Sem, Ham, and Japhet, and their three Wives; and God having ſhut it on the out-ſide, the Waters begun and continued to fall for forty Days, and deſtroy'd all the Living-creatures of the Earth, whilſt the Ark, the Figure of the Church, ſav'd the Patriarch and his Family. After 150 Days, that the Surface of the Earth was thus covered, there aroſe a Wind that diminiſhed the Flood, and ſeven Months after its beginning the Ark reſted upon a Mountain of Armenia; ſome think upon Mount Taurus; others hold it was upon one of the Gordiens. St. Epiphanes ſays, That in his time they ſhew'd ſome of its remains in this laſt place. Noah having ſent a Crow and a Pigeon out to know by their return, what condition the Land was in, came out of the Ark 357 Days after he had gone into it, An. Mund. 1657. and rais'd an Altar to Sacrifice in acknowledgment of his particular delivery. God was pleas'd with his Gratitude, and bleſs'd him and his Family. After this they began to till the Land, and plant Vines; but Noah having drank of the Juice, whoſe force he was not aware of, became drunk, and uncovering himſelf, was derided by Ham, but the other Sons hid his Nakedneſs, whereupon he curſed the firſt. Noah died An. Mund. 2006, the 950th of his Age, and 350 after the Deluge, Gen. 6. 9. Joſeph. Torniel. Sponde. Bochart.

NOCERA, called for diſtinction Nocera di Pagani, a City in the Kingdom of Naples in the Hither Principality which is a Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Salerno, and a Dukedom belonging to the Family of Barberino. It ſtands eight Miles from Salerno to the S. W. and two and twenty from Naples to the S. There is alſo a Town of this Name in Calabria, eight Miles from Amantea to the S. and three from the Tyrrhenean-Sea, by the Latin Hiſtorians called Nuceria, and Alfaterna. Hoffman.

NOCTURNA. The Roman Catholicks beſtow this name upon that part of the Church Office or Prayers, which they alſo call Matutina or Mattins, which are commonly divided into three Nocturns, ſo called, becauſe they were us'd to be ſung onely by Night; which is ſtill obſerv'd in ſome Cathedral Churches, where they ſing their Mattins at Midnight, in imitation of the Primitive Chriſtians, who by reaſon of the Heathen Emperor's Perſecutions, were forc'd to meet at Night, which gave their Adverſaries occaſion of loading them with moſt abominable Calumnies. F. Simeon.

NODINUS, a Heathen God, who, as St. Auſtin tells us from Varro, was worſhipped by the Romans, as having the care of making the Nodes and Joints of the Corn-ſtalks. St. Auſtin de Civit. Dei.

NOELL (Edward) deſcended of an ancient and noble Family in Leiceſterſhire, was made Baronet An. 1611, 9. Jac. ſoon after the erection of that Degree of Honour, and was afterwards advanc'd to the Dignity of a Baron of this Realm, by the Title of Lord Noell of Ridlington, 14 Jac. And having married Julian the Daughter and Coheir of Sir Baptiſt Hicks, created Lord Hicks of Ilmington in Warwickſhire, and Viſcount Campden of Campden in Gloceſterſhire May 5. 4. Car. I. he obtained a Grant of theſe Titles to himſelf and the Heirs Male of his Body in reverſion, in caſe the ſaid Sir Baptiſt ſhould die without Iſſue; and accordingly enjoy'd 'em afterwards. He was engag'd in the Civil Wars, and receiv'd firſt a Commiſſion from King Ch. I. to raiſe 500 Horſe, and a ſecond to raiſe three Regiments of Horſe, and three of Foot, but died in that King's Garriſon in Oxford, in 1643, leaving two Sons, Baptiſt and Henry, and two Daughters. Baptiſt, his Son and Heir, firſt married Ann, Eldeſt Daughter to William, Earl of Denbigh, by whom he had two Sons, who died Infants: ſecondly, Ann, Daughter to Sir Robert Lovet of Liſcombe, Widow of Edward, Earl of Bath, by whom he had no Iſſue that liv'd: thirdly, Elizabeth, one of the four Daughters and Co-heirs of Thomas, Lord Wotton, by whom he had Iſſue two Sons, Edward and Henry, and four Daughters. Mary, married to James, Earl of Northampton, and Juliana, to the Lord Allington: his fourth Wife is, Elizabeth, Daughter to Mountague, late Earl of Lindſey, by whom he has had Iſſue three Sons, Lindſey, who died an Infant; Baptiſt and James, and three Daughters; Catharine, married to John, Lord Roos, only Son to John Earl of Rutland; Bridget and *Martha. NOLI, Lat. Naulum, Naulium, a ſmall City in the State of Genoua, being a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Genoua. It ſtands in a Plain on the Shores of the Ligurian-Sea, but has no Harbour, and was once a Free-State, but now ſubject to the State of Genoua, from which City it ſtands 31 Miles to the Weſt, between Savona and Albengua.

NOMADES, the Name of ſeveral Nations in Europe, Aſia, and Africa; ſo called from the Greek word νέμεσθαι, which ſignifies to feed Cattle, becauſe their Chief Buſineſs and Occupation was, to feed their Cattle, as the Tartars now do, and ſome other Nations, as the Arabians, &c.

NOMBRE DE DIOS, Lat. Nomen Dei, a City of Terra Firma, which is a Province upon the Streights of Panama, in Caſtile del Oro, 25 Leagues from Panama to the N. on the North-Sea, Eaſtward from Porto Bello, and has a noble and ſafe Harbor, but is now forſaken, becauſe of its unhealthful Air. Sir Francis Drake ſack'd this Town in 1572. In 1614, it was demoliſhed by the King of Spain's Orders, and Porto Bello built with its Materials.

NOMENTO, or Nomentano, an Epiſcopal City formerly in the Country of the Sabines, which at preſent is but a Village belonging to the Dukedom of Monte Ritondo, in the Eccleſiaſtical State. It was formerly the Capital of the Nomentii, and much talk'd of in Claſſick Authors.

NOMENY, Lat. Nomenium, a great Town in the Dukedom of Lorrain, upon the River Seile, (Salia) between Vic and Metz, 5 Miles from Nancy to the S. and 7 from Marſal to the S. E.

NOMOCANON, a Collection of Canons, with the Addition of thoſe Civil-Laws to which they refer. Joannes Antiochenus, Patriarch of Conſtantinople, made the firſt Nomocanon, about the Year 554, which was divided into 50 Titles, to which he reduced all Eccleſiaſtical Matters. Photius, Patriarch of Conſtantinople, made another Nomocanon, or a comparing of the Laws with the Canons, about the Year 883, the ſeveral Matters therein being reduced to 14 Heads or Titles. Balſamon writ a Commentary upon it, about the Year 1180, taking notice of what was, and what was not in uſe in his time, and the Places of the Baſilici, that is, the Ordinances of the Emperors of Conſtantinople, where ſome Laws of the Digeſta, and Code of Juſtinian, or ſome Chapter of Juſtinian's Novels, had been inſerted, to make up this New Body of Law, which was then received amongſt the Greeks. In the Year 1255, Arſenius, Monk of Mount Athos, made a new Nomocanon, to which he hath added Notes, ſhewing the Conformity of the Imperial Laws with the Patriarchal Conſtitutions. Matthæus Blaſtares, Monk of the Order of St. Baſilius, in 1335, made a Collection of Eccleſiaſtical Conſtitutions, and the Civil Laws that did agree with, and anſwer to them, which Nomocanon of his he called Syntagma, that is, A Collection of Canons and Laws relating to each other. Doujat. Hiſt. du Droit. Canon.

NONA, Nat. Ænona, a Sea-Port Town of Dalmatia, which is now a Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Zara or Zadar, 10 Miles from Zara to the North, between that City and Segna. The Sclavonians call it Nin. It is under the Venetians, and well fortified.

NONES. The Ninth Day before the Ides, i. e. the Seventh or the Fifth Day of the Month. In the Months of March, May, July, and October; the Nones are the Seventh, but in the other Months, upon the Fifth. Roſin. Antiq. lib. 4. cap. 4. See Calends.

NONIUS MARCELLUS, an Eminent Grammarian and Peripatetick Philoſopher of Tibur. He wrote a Treatiſe, De Proprietate Sermonum, conſiſting of Nine Chapters, and printed at Paris, 1614, with Mercier's Notes upon it.

NONNUS, a Greek Poet, called Panopolita, becauſe he was of Panopolis in Egypt, according to Suidas. He lived in the Vth Century. He writ a Poem in Heroick Verſe, whoſe Title was, Dionyſiacorum, Lib. XLVIII. which Gerard Falkenberg got out of the Library of Joan. Sambucus, and printed it at Antwerp, in 1569, and which Eilhardus Lubinus of Roſtock, ſince tranſlated into Latin, and it was Re-printed at Hanaw, in 1610, with the Notes of ſome Learned Men. The ſame Author made alſo a Paraphraſe in Verſe upon the Goſpel of St. John, which Aldus Manutius firſt publiſhed in Greek at Venice, in the Year 1501, and it was afterwards tranſlated into Latin, by Chriſtoph. Hegendorphius, Joan. Bordatus, and Erardus Hedeneccius, whereof we have ſeveral Editions, with the Notes of Franciſcus Nanſius, Daniel Heinſius, and [illegible]. It is alſo printed in Bibliotheca Patrum. Suidas. v. [illegible]. Sixt. Senenſ. Bibl. San. Le Mire de Script. Eccleſ. Poſſevin. in Apparat. Nanſius. Silburg.

NONSUCH, a Stately and Royal Palace, not far from Epſom, in the County of Surry. It is ſeated in a moſt pleaſant part of the Country, in regard of which, and the Magnificence of its Structure, it was called Nonſuch. It was built by King Henry VIII. and hath a delightful Park.

NORADIN, Son of Sanguin, Sultan of Aleppo and Nineve, ſurpaſs'd his Father in his Qualifications and Succeſſes, notwithſtanding he had been the moſt Potent, and beſt qualify'd Prince that had then govern'd the Turks. Noradin and his Brother divided their Fathers Dominions after his Death, which happen'd at the Siege of Cologembar upon Euphrates, in the Year 1143. By this Diviſion, Noradin was made Sultan of Aleppo, and in a ſhort time, he became one of the moſt conſiderable Princes in Aſia. He was poſſeſs'd of all the Qualities of a great General, being equally Prudent and Brave; awake upon every occaſion, and always ready to make his advantage of an Opportunity. He had likewiſe a great deal of Humanity and Probity in him, and was alſo Pious upon the Principles of his own Religion. One of his firſt Exploits, was the Defeat of Jocelin de Courtenai, Earl of Edeſſa, whoſe Troops he ſo entirely defeated, that Jocelin had much ado to diſengage his own Perſon, and recover Samoſata, whither he retir'd with but a very few of his Forces. The greateſt part of his Dominions fell into the Hands of Noradin, who ſtill puſh'd his Conqueſts further, upon the Miſcarriage of the Croiſade at the Siege of Damaſcus, in the Year 1148. Upon this Juncture, he enter'd the Principality of Antioch with a great Army, gain'd a Battel againſt Prince Raymond, who was kill'd upon the Spot, after which he made himſelf Maſter of the Fortreſs of Harenc, and moſt of the Places of Strength: He ſurpriz'd the Earl of Edeſſa in an Ambuſcade, and kept him in Chains at Aleppo till he died: He likewiſe expelled the Greeks out of the whole Earldom of Edeſſa, to whom the Counteſs, and Baldwin King of Jeruſalem, had reſign'd it. This Prince likewiſe made himſelf Maſter of the Town and Territory of Damaſcus. Baldwin made a vigorous Effort to ſtop the Progreſs of this Victorious Sultan, and indeed did it to the purpoſe, having defeated him more than once, behaving himſelf in the War with that advantage of Character, that even Noradin, his Enemy, admir'd him; for 'tis ſaid, that when Baldwin was poyſon'd by his Phyſician, Noradin refus'd to make uſe of the Occaſion, and take the advantage of the Diſorder of his Subjects, ſaying withal, That 'twas more proper to Condole with his Friends, and Lament the Death of ſo Brave a Prince, that had not left his Equal behind him. Soon after he made himſelf Maſter of all Syria and Meſopotamia, and carry'd his Conqueſt beyond Cilicia, into the Dominions of the Sultan of Iconium, whom he defeated in a ſet Battel. Afterwards he had a fair pretence for a Deſcent upon Egypt. Sultan Sanar, who was diſpoſſeſs'd by Dorgan, begging his Protection. This War was manag'd by Syracon, his General, who after ſeveral Revolutions of Fortune gain'd his Point; and having defeated the Enemy, he Aſſaſſinated Sanar, whom he came to Aſſiſt, and died himſelf the firſt Year of his Uſurpation, ſettling the Succeſſion upon his Nephew Saladin. Noradin likewiſe died in the Year 1173. After which, his Widow marry'd Saladin, by whom his Son was diſpoſſeſs'd of his Dominions. Gulielmus Tyrius. Maimburg. Hiſt. de Croiſades. Bayle Diction. Hiſt.

NORBEN, a Sea-Port of Norway, much frequented by the Engliſh and German Merchants till 1394, that the Swedes took it, and did them great Damage. It's now called Bergen. Crantz.

NORCIA, Lat. Nurſia, a ſmall City of Umbria, in the Dominions of the Church, formerly a Biſhop's Sea. It ſtands amongſt the Hills, near the Appennine, by the River Fredda, 6 Miles from the Marchia Anconitana to the South, between Aquila to the Eaſt, and Spoleto to the South, 13 Miles from either. It is famous for having been the Birth-place of St. Benedict, or Bennet, as alſo of Sertorius, the great Roman Commander ſlain in Spain.

NORDEN, Lat. Nordenum, a City of Germany in Eaſt-Friezland, with a conſiderable Harbor upon the German Ocean, under the Earl of Eaſt-Friezland, 16 Miles from Embden to the North.

NORDLINGEN, Lat. Nerolinga, Alæ Flaviæ, a City of Schwaben, in 1251, made a free Imperial City. It ſtands upon the River Eger, 4 German Miles from Lawingen to the North, 10 from Werden to the South-Weſt, and as many from Ingolſtadt to the Weſt, between the Territories of the Duke of Newberg, and the Count of Oetingen, famous by a Defeat of the Swedes in 1644, and a Victory of the Swedes and French againſt the Bavarians, in 1645, though otherwiſe inconſiderable but for its Fairs.

NORFOLK, Lat. Norfolcia, is a large Maritime County of England, and very near an Iſland of it ſelf, bounded on the North and Eaſt with the Ocean, Weſtward with the Great Ouſe, which parts it from Lincoln and Cambridgeſhires, Southward with the Little Ouſe and Wavency, which divide it from Suffolk. Its Length from Eaſt to Weſt is about 50 Miles. Its Breadth from North to South 30; the whole divided into 31 Hundreds, wherein are 660 Pariſhes, and 31 Market-Towns, which is an Argument of its Populouſneſs. The Ancient Inhabitants, together with thoſe of Suffolk, Huntington and Chambridgeſhires, were known to the Romans by the Name of Iceni, and their Country made part of the Kingdom of the Eaſt Angles during the Saxon Heptarchy, which now with Suffolk, makes the Dioceſs of Norwich. Here the Air is ſomewhat ſharp, whereby the Spring and Harveſt are the more backward. The Soil differs very much; for there are Fens and Heaths, Sand and Clay Ground, light and deep Meadows and Paſture, Arable and Woody; ſo that taking the County all together, it affords enough for Pleaſure and Profit, that being ſupplied in one part which is defective in another. But of all Parts of Norfolk, Marſhland, and Fleg, are counted the richeſt, that for Paſture, this for Corn. This County particularly abounds in Rabbets. The Sea on the other ſide yields ſuch abundance of Herrings beyond all other Places, eſpecially nigh Yarmouth, that there is a yearly Fair kept on Michaelmas-day for the Sale of them. Beſides the Rivers aforeſaid which border upon this County, you will find here the Yare, which is of ſpecial Note for its plenty of a certain Fiſh, called a Ruff, whoſe Body is all prickled over. The Tail and Fins ſpotted with black Specks. The Norfolk Men are counted induſtrious, and generally ſo ſucceſsful in the Study of our Common Law, that moſt People wiſh rather to have a Norfolk Man their Councel than Adverſary. Beſides Norwich, the Chief Town of the County, there are ſeveral others of Note, which will be treated of in their proper Places. Yarmouth and Lyn are its two Principal Sea-Ports, which with Norwich, Thetford, and Caſtle-Riſing, chuſe two Parliament-men each, beſides the Knights of the Shire. This County has often been dignified with the Title of an Earldom. The firſt that had the Title of Duke, was Thomas, Lord Mowbray, Great Grand-Child of King Edward I. by the Lady Margaret, Daughter to Thomas de Brotherton, a Son of the aforeſaid King, but the Title expiring with the Family, in the Perſon of John Mowbray, it was conferred Anno 1475, by King Edward IV. upon Richard, Duke of York, with whom it died again. But Anno 1483, it was revived again by King Edward, in the Perſon of John, Lord Howard, deſcended from the ſaid Lady Margaret: In which Line it has continued ever ſince. It being at preſent injoy'd by his Grace, Henry Howard, Duke of Norfolk, Earl of Arundel, Surry, and Norwich.

NORIMBURG: See NUREMBERG.

NORIN, a Fortreſs of Dalmatia, between the Rivers Narenta and Norin, which is an Arm or Branch of the former, and runs into it again. Some ſuppoſe this River took its Name from a City Nero built upon the Banks of it, and on which he beſtowed his Name. This Fort is in the Poſſeſſion of the Republick of Venice; and not far from it to the North, is the City Metrovich, where all the Turks Houſes are diſtinguiſhed by Turrets from thoſe of the Greek Chriſtians that dwell there. On the other ſide, about two Miles from the Port, towards the South, there is an Iſland called Opus, made by the two Branches of Narenta, and the Waters of the Gulf of Venice, where the Venetians, in 1685, built a Fort in a moſt advantageous Situation, which commands the River. P. Coronelli Deſcrip. of the Morea.

NORKOPING, a ſmall City in Sweden, between two Lakes, five Miles from the Baltick-Sea, in the Province of Oſtrogothia, by the River Motala, 10 Miles Eaſt from the Lake Veter.

NORMANDY, Lat. Normannia, a great and fruitful Province in France, with the Title of a Dukedom. It contains Part of the Ancient Neuſtria, and hath Picardy and the Iſle of France on the Eaſt, the Britiſh Sea on the North, Bretaigne on the Weſt, and la Beauſſe, le Maine, and la Perche on the South. Its length from Giſors to Cherburg, is about 72 Leagues, an[illegible] Breadth about 30, and it Circuits 240. It is commonly divided into the Upper and Lower Normandy; the Upper contains Four Bailiwicks, viz. Rouan, Evreux, Caux, and Giſors; the Lower compriſeth Three, Alenzon, Caen, and Conſtantine; Roan is the Capital of the Province, with an Archbiſhop's See, having under it the Biſhopricks of Liſieux, Bayeux, Coutances, Evreux, Avranches, and Seez; the reſt of its moſt conſiderable Cities, are Caen, an Univerſity, Diepe, Falaiſe, Havre de Grace, Pont de l'Arche, Argenton, Alenzon, Giſors, Caudebec, Cherburg, St. Lo, Vire, Carentan, Quillebauf, Honfleur, Lire, Vernon, &c. Normandy abounds in Corn, Cattle, and Fruits, more eſpecially in Apples and Pears; with which they make great Store of Cyder and Perry, the ordinary Drink of that Country; but it wants Wine. It is watered with the Rivers Seine, Eure, Riſle, Touque, Dive, Orne, Vire, Selune, See, Soule, Ouve, and Eu, which are the chiefeſt. It abounds with many Foreſts, Quarries of Stone, Medicinal Waters, Mines of Iron, and ſome of Copper; and other Metals; has produc'd great and excellent Men, and the People are generally witty, but haſty and addicted to Law, eſpecially the meaner ſort, the Gentry being valiant and generous; neither is there any Province in France that abounds more with Gentry than this. They count 100 Cities and Towns in this Province, beſides 150 great Villages. The great Trade of the Inhabitants conſiſts in Cattle and Linen Cloth, Herbs proper for Dying, and Smiths Coal. Clovis firſt made this Country a Province, and a Part of the Kingdom of Soiſſons. After this, the Normans, a People come from the North, as their Name imports, having with their Piracies infeſted the Sea Coaſts of ſeveral Countries, at laſt Landed in France, in the Reign of Charles the Bald, and dreadfully waſted and ruined the Country, which Invaſions of theirs continued Eighty Years, obliging the French to pay them Tribute, and thoſe Sums of Money ſerved only to allure them the more to make their Incurſions. They thrice laid Siege to Paris, and did ſo affright the Inhabitants of that great City in the IXth Century, that they made it part of their Publick Prayers, That God would be pleaſed to deliver them from the Fury of the Normans. King Charles the Simple made a Treaty with them, and gave his Daughter in Marriage to Rollo their Commander, and beſtowed upon him the Province of Normandy, with the Title of Duke, upon Condition of doing Homage for it to the King of France. This happened in 912, and Rollo ſubmitting himſelf to be baptized, took the Name of Robert. The Normans had ſo great an eſteem for their firſt Duke, becauſe of his Juſtice and Equity, that they ſeem ſtill to call him to their Aſſiſtance in their common Exclamation of Haro, or Ha Row, uſed by none but themſelves. This Rollo, or Robert, was the Father of William I. ſurnam'd Longſword, who was Father of Richard I. call'd The Old, and ſurnamed Without Fear or Dread Nought, who left Richard II. ſurnamed The Good, who had for his Succeſſor, Robert II. who of Herleve or Herlot, as ſome of our Hiſtorians ſay, a Gentleman's Daughter, had William, ſurnamed The Baſtard, and call'd afterwards Conqueror, upon his Conqueſt of England in 1066, by whom [illegible] Province was united to the Crown of England till 1202, when King John was outed of it. Henry V. about 1420 re-conquered this Dutchy, but his Son loſt it again about 1450, ſince which time it hath been annexed to the Crown of France. *Du Cheſne. NORRIS (Henry) deſcended of an ancient and noble Family of Berks, a Branch of the Houſe of Speke in Lancaſhire, ſucceeded Sir William Compton, as Uſher of the Black rod to King Henry the Eighth, by whom he was alſo made Gentleman of the Privy-chamber, and Conſtable of Wallingford Caſtle, the 29th of November, in the 27th of his Reign. But there being a ſolemn Tournament held at Greenwich the firſt of May following, wherein George Bullen, Viſcount Rochford, was chief Challenger, and this Henry Principal Defendant, the King departed thence on a ſudden, no body knowing why; but it's ſaid, it was becauſe he obſerved the Queen drop her Handkerchief, wherewith ſome ſuppoſed her Favourite did wipe his Face: However the Queen and both the Combatants were committed next morning to the Tower, and all three ſoon after put to death. It's ſaid the King was troubled to ſee Norris die, and that he offered him his Pardon, if he did but confeſs what he was accuſed of, to which he making this reſolute Anſwer, That in his Conſcience he thought the Queen clear of what ſhe was charged with, but whether ſhe were or not, he could not accuſe her of any thing, and that he had rather undergo a thouſand Deaths than betray the Innocent: The King cry'd, Hang him, Hang him. Henry his Son and Heir being thirty Years of Age, in 7 Eliz. was Knighted at his own Houſe at Rycot, and in the 14 of Queen Eliz. ſent Embaſſador into France, where he managed his buſineſs with ſuch Prudence and Honour, that in conſideration thereof, and his Fathers ſuffering for her Mother, he was advanced to the Dignity of Peer of England? his eldeſt Son William died before him, leaving the Lord Francis his Son and Heir, a Man of high Spirit, who died in the 20th. Year of King James the Firſt, leaving Iſſue one only Daughter, who became the Wife of Edward Wray, Groom of the Bed-chamber to King Charles I. which Edward had Iſſue by her one ſole Daughter and Heir, firſt married to Edward, ſecond Son to Edward Earl of Dorſet, and afterwards to Mountague, Earl of Lindſey, Lord High Chamberlain of England, which Earl had Iſſue by her three Sons, *viz. NORTHAMPTON, Lat. Northantonia; the chief Town of Northampton-ſhire, is 54 miles from London North-weſtward, pleaſantly ſeated on the Banks of the Nen, where a ſmall River from the North empties it ſelf into it; fortified heretofore with good Walls and a ſtrong Caſtle. Whilſt the Danes prevailed in this Iſland, this Town fell under their Fury, and was Burnt by them. It ſuffered alſo very much in the Barons Wars; and of late years, viz. Sept. 3. 1675. we had the Misfortune to ſee it all buried in its own Aſhes. But it has been-rebuilt ſince with ſo much neatneſs and uniformity, that it paſſes now for one of the neateſt Towns in England. As it is the Shire Town, ſo 'tis the Place where the County Gaol and the Aſſizes are kept. It alſo gives the Title of Earl to the Right Honourable, George Compton, the preſent Earl of Northampton, devolved to him from William, Lord Compton, Created Earl of Northampton by King James Iſt, An. 1618.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE, Lat. Northantoniæ Comitatus, is a long, narrow, in-land County, ſtretch'd from N. E. to S. W. and bordering upon more Counties than any other in England. For it has on the North, Lincolnſhire, Rutland and Leiceſterſhire; on the South Bedfordſhire, Buckinghamſhire, Oxfordſhire; Eaſtward Cambridge and Huntington Shires; and Weſtward Warwickſhire. In Length 46 miles, and in Breadth ſcarce 20. The whole divided into 20 Hundreds, wherein are 326 Pariſhes, and 12 Market Towns; whoſe ancient Inhabitants were by the Romans named Coritani. The County afterwards making part of the Kingdom of Mercia during the Saxon Heptarchy, and now with Rutland making the Dioceſs of Peterborough. This County has a good Air, a champaign, rich and fruitfull Soil, which makes it ſo populous that from ſome Aſcents one may diſcover at a View above 20 Country Churches. In ſhort, Here is as little Waſt-ground as in any Place of England. No Moſſes, Fells, Heaths or Meers, except Whitering. Beſides its bordering Rivers, Nine, Weland and Charwell, there are ſeveral others of leſs note, which do not a-little contribute to its Plentifulneſs. The principal Commodities are Graſs, Corn and Cattel, wherein it ſcarce falls ſhort of any Shire. But it is of ſpecial note for its abundance of Pigeons and Saltpeter. Here is Wellingborough Well, once of great Fame for Curing of Diſeaſes. This County yields the moſt Parks of any. And for Noblemens and Gentlemens Houſes, none goes beyond it. Amongſt which Holdenby Houſe, built by Sir Chriſtopher Hatton, formerly Lord Chancellor, was ſo fine a Piece of Building before it was demoliſh'd, that it carry'd the Pre-eminency. Burleigh Houſe, by Stamford, built by William Cecil, Lord Treaſurer, has had better fortune, and is ſtill a moſt ſtately Edifice; from whence Withorp Lodge is but a mile diſtant. Next to Burleigh Houſe, for Beauty, is Caſtle-Aſhby, the noble Manſion of the E. of Northampton. The Market Towns are, Northampton the Shire Town, which with Peterborough, Brackley and Higham Ferrers, are the only Places in the County that ſend Members to Parliament, beſides the two Knights of the Shire.

NORTHAUSEN, Lat. Northuſia, an Imperial free City of Germany, in Thuringia, upon the River Zorge, between Erfurt to the South, and Halberſtadt to the North, eight German miles from either; and is under the Protection of the Elector of Saxony.

NORTH-CAPE, or NOORT-KAEP, is the moſt Northern part of Finmark and of all Europe. There is another Cape of the ſame Name in Guiana, a vaſt Country in the South America. Oither, a Norwegian, was the firſt that doubled this Cape, and gave an Account of it to Alfred, King of England, about 890.

NORTH-CURRY, a Market Town of Somerſetſhire, which ſtands on the River Tone, and is the Chief Town of the Hundred.

NORTH-ELMHAM, once a Biſhop's See, and now but a Village, not far from Repeham in Norfolk. The See began with Edwin, An. 673, but lay vacant the ſpace of 100 years, during the Deſolation of the Danes. After which it recovered it ſelf in the Perſon of Adulphus, in 955; the Dioceſs of Dunwich in Suffolk being added to it. Thus it continued about 100 years, till Herfaſtus removed the See to Thetford, from whence his next Succeſſor, Galſagus, fixed it at Norwich, where it has continued ever ſince.

NORTH-FORELAND, is the utmoſt Point of the Iſle of Thanet, in the North-Eaſt parts of Kent, famous for the great Sea-fight between the Engliſh and Dutch, in 1666. Prince Rupert and the Duke of Albemarle having given them a great Defeat off of that Place.

NORTHUMBERLAND, Lat. Northumbria, is a Maritime County, a..d the fartheſt North in England; bounded on the North with Scotland, on the Weſt with Scotland and part of Cumberland, on the South with the Biſhoprick of Durham, Eaſtward by the German Sea. And as the River Twede parts it a good way Northward from Scotland, ſo the Tine and Derwent ſeparate it Southward from the County of Durham. It's ſomewhat of a Pyramidal form, reaching from North to South about 50 miles, and from Eaſt to Weſt, where it is broadeſt, 40; the whole divided into ſix Wards, wherein are 460 Pariſhes, and but ſix Market Towns. Anciently inhabited by the Ottadini, making part of the Heptarchy and Kingdom of Northumberland, and now with Durham and part of Yorkſhire, making up the Dioceſs of Durham. Here the Air is pretty ſharp in Winter, and ſometimes troubled with deep Snows and nipping Froſts ſuitable to its Climate. But yet it is not near ſo ſharp as the People; nor is wet Weather ſo raw and ſearching as it is in Middleſex; which perhaps may be attributed to the warm Breaths that conſtantly come out of its numberleſs Coal Pits. For the Soil, it may be ſaid to be one of the worſt Counties in England, being for the moſt part rough and hilly, and hard to be manured. Yet in ſome Parts, chiefly towards the Sea, and along the River Tine, 'tis by the great Induſtry and Pains of the Husbandman become very fruitful. Before the Union of England and Scotland there lay much Waſt-ground in the North parts of this County, which the Proprietors declin'd to own, only to avoid the Charges of the common Defence. But when the Borders became ſafe and peaceable, every one put in for his Right of Inheritance. And whereas formerly it had few Gentlemens Houſes but what were built more for Strength than State; here are now many Houſes built more for State than Strength. What remains is to ſpeak of the greateſt Wealth of this County, which they digg out of their Coal Pits, moſt of them from 30 to 50 fathoms deep; and for this ſort of Work there is a Conſtant Breed of Men who rake their Livelyhoods out of the very Bowels of the Earth, and are in continual Danger either of being cruſh'd below by a Thruſt, or overwhelm'd with ſudden Irruptions of Water. But in ſome Pits of Sunderland, in the Biſhoprick of Durham, they are ſubject beſides to fire-damps, ſo they call the Inflammation of the Air in thoſe ſubterraneous Parts, which being laden more than ordinary with ſulphureous Matter, is ſometimes apt to catch Fire, and does much Miſchief. The Workmen foreſee it by their Candles burning blue and blazing more than ordinary, upon which they lay themſelves flat upon the ground until the Danger is over. Newcaſtle, Morpeth and Berwick, ſend each two Members to Parliament, beſides the Knights of the Shire. This County was firſt dignified with the Title of an Earldom, which ran through ſeveral Families before it came to the Piercies. The firſt of this Name who had the Title conferr'd upon him being Henry Piercy, Lord High Conſtable of England, created Earl of Northumberland by Richard IId. An. 1377, in whoſe Family it continued in a direct Line all under the Name of Henry until the Year 1527, except ſix Years interruption, from 1463 to 1469, during which time, John Nevil, Lord Mountague, enjoy'd it, in the Reign of Edward the IVth. and after that reſign'd it to Henry Piercy, great Grand-child of the firſt Henry, who had forfeited it to the ſaid King, but it died with his Son Henry, in the year aforeſaid 1527. John Dudley, Earl of Berwick, and Lord Admiral, was the firſt Duke of Northumberland, who had that Title conferr'd upon him by King Edward the VIth. An. 1551. But it died with him on the Scaffold, being beheaded in Queen Mary's Reign, who reſtor'd the Title of Earl to the ancient Family, in the Perſon of Thomas Piercy, who was alſo beheaded. His Son, Henry Piercy, had the fortune to recover it in Queen Elizabeth's Reign, in the Year 1574. In whoſe Line it continued till Joceline Piercy, the Laſt Earl of Northumberland, who died at Turin in Italy, An. 1670. without Iſſue male. And four Years after the Title of Duke was renew'd by King Charles IId. in the Perſon of the preſent George Fitz Roy, his third Son by the Dutcheſs of Cleveland.

NORTHWICH, a Market Town of Northwich Hundred, in Cheſhire, ſeated upon the Wever, and noted for its Salt Pits.

NORWAY, Latinè Norvegia, a Kingdom on the Northweſt Shore of Europe, belonging to the King of Denmark, called by the Inhabitants Norryck, and by contraction Norck, and by the Germans Norwegen; heretofore eſteemed the Weſtern part of Scandinavia. It reacheth in length from the entrance of the Baltick Sea almoſt to the North-Cape, but not of equal breadth; being about 1300 Engliſh miles long, and 250 broad. On the Eaſt, it hath the Kingdom of Sweden, on the Weſt, the German Ocean, on the South, the Sound, and on the North Lapland. On the Eaſt a long Ridge of Mountains always covered with Snow (called Mount Sevo, or Savy) ſeparate it from Sweden. It is divided into five Provinces, Agger-hus, Bergen-hus, Drontbem-hus, Ward-hus and Ba-hus, which laſt was reſigned to the King of Sweden in 1658. The Capital City of this Kingdom is Drontheim, in Latin Nidroſia; the reſt are Bergen, Opſlo, Ward-hus, Tongsberg, Frederickſtadt, Saltzberg, Stavanger, and Ba-hus which belongs to the King of Sweden. The Country is mountainous and barren becauſe of the Rocks, Sands and Foreſts, wherewith it abounds, and the extreme Cold. All the Northern Coaſt is lined with Iſles, of which the chief are Magbero, Suro, Samen, Trommes, Stagen, Loffoten, Hieteren, &c. Near to the laſt of which there is a Whirl-pool of Water called the Maelſtroom, in which Veſſels are ſwallowed up. Upon this Kingdom depend alſo ſeveral Iſlands, as Iſeland, Groenland, Spitsbergen, the Iſles of Fero and Orkney. Their Claim to the two laſt was reſign'd to James the VIth. of Scotland. The Inhabitants of Norway are accuſed by ſome as inclin'd to Sorcery, but otherwiſe an honeſt, plain People, and are of the ſame Religion with thoſe of Denmark. The greateſt Trade they drive is with Train-oil, dry Fiſh, and Wood, eſpecially Firr-wood, for the Building of Houſes, and the Maſts of Ships, Tar, Pitch, &c. A Mine of Gold was diſcovered here near to Opſlo, in 1646, but was ſoon exhauſted. Norway had Kings of its own from very ancient time, till towards the end the of XIVth. Century, when Aquin, King of Norway, married Margaret, Daughter of Woldemar IIId. King of Denmark, and dying without Iſſue, left both their Kingdoms to Eric, Duke of Pomerania, the Son of Ingeburga, the Siſter of Margaret, of Denmark, whoſe Succeſſor was Chriſtopher, and after him Chriſtiern, Son of Thierry, Count of Oldenburg, inherited the ſame, about the Year 1448. Saxo Grammat. Albert. Crantz. Hiſt. Joan. Martin. Chron. Norveg. Pontan. & Meurſius Hiſt. Danica. Suaning. Chron. Dan. Golnitz. Cluverius. Sanſon. The People of this Country were anciently very formidable, having over-run great part of the Netherlands, France and Britain; and were ſo terrible to thoſe on the Coaſts, that all their Letanies had this Prayer, A furore Normannorum, Libera nos, Domine. They ſubdued Neuſtria in France, which from them is called Normandy to this day. Their own Hiſtories add, that they ſubdued Apuleia, Sicilia, Pruſſia, Hemi-Gallia and Carelia, where they ſetled Colonies. Tacitus obſerves, that their Government was an abſolute Monarchy, and that they were beſt pleas'd when Governed by Women. Chriſtianity was firſt planted here by Olaus, Son of their King Trigon, An. 995, and propagated by Harald, in 1018. It's alſo ſaid, that they peopled Iſeland, many of them withdrawing from under Harald Harfagar, who reduced all the petty Kingdoms under one.

NORWICH, Lat. Norvicum, Nordovicum, Ordovicum, Venta Icenorum, is the chief Town of Norfolk, and a Biſhop's See in the Province of Canterbury; (Norwich, and Norfolk are ſo called, from their Northern Situations) diſtant from London 90 miles North Eaſt and by Eaſt. It ſtands on the River Tare, with ſo pleaſant an intermixture of Trees to ſhadow it, that both the Pleaſures of City and Country do there meet together in a moſt agreeable manner. In the Year 1044, the Danes, under their cruel King Sueno, firſt ſacked, and then burnt this Town; yet it recovered it ſelf ſo much, that in the days of Edward the Confeſſor, here were numbered 1320 Burgeſſes, who maintaining the Cauſe of Earl Radulph againſt the Conqueror, were waſted by Sword and Famine to 560. In the Reign of William Rufus it grew to a place of great Trading, but afterwards felt much variety of Fortune. By Fire, Anno 1508. By grievous Peſtilence, eſpecially in the Year 1348, when the City was almoſt depopulated. By War, Anno 1174, being then ſack'd and ruin'd by the Earl of Flanders and Hugh Bigod. By the diſ-inherited Barons, in 1266. By Tumults and Inſurrections, once about the Year 1265. another time in 1446; in Edward the VIth's Reign by Ket's Rebellion. But ſince that time it has conſtantly flouriſhed with the Bleſſings of Peace and Plenty; except in the Civil Wars under Charles the Firſt. It was made a Corporation in the Seventeenth of King Stephen; and a Mayor Town by Henry the IVth. in 1403. At preſent it lies out in Length about a mile and a half; and about half ſo much in Breadth. In which Compaſs it contains about thirty Pariſhes. It's well walled; and has ſeveral Turrets, and twelve Gates for Entrance. A City which for fair Building and reſort of People, the painful Induſtry of the common Sort, the great Humanity of the Richer, yields to few in England. Amongſt its principal Buildings, next to the Churches, are the two Palaces of the Duke of Norfolk and Earl of Surry, the Town Hall, the Market Houſe, the Houſe of Correction, the Croſs, and the Hoſpital wherein 100 poor Men and Women are maintain'd. Here is alſo to be ſeen the Ruines of an ancient Caſtle of the Saxons building. The Cathedral, firſt founded by Herbert Loſinga, the firſt Biſhop of Norwich, and by him dedicated to the Bleſſed Trinity, is chiefly remarkable for its lofty Spire. But ſince its firſt Foundation, being twice defac'd by Fire, it was repair'd by John of Oxford and Biſhop Middleton, who left it in the ſtate it now is in. As for this City's Wealth, it ſtands much indebted to the Netherlands, who flying from Duke d' Alva, and the Inquiſition, brought with them the making of Bays, and Says, and other Manufactures. The Biſhop's See of Norwich has 1121 Pariſhes under it in the Counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, and is valued in the Kings Books at 899 l.—17 s.—7 d. beſides the Tenth of the whole Clergy which amounts to 1117 l.--13*s.*-00. To conclude, This City has been made three ſeveral times a Title of Civil Honour, firſt in the Perſon of Edward, Lord Denny of Waltham, created Earl of Norwich by King Charles the Firſt, An. 1626. which Title after his Death was conferr'd upon George Goring, Baron of Hurſt Pierrepont, who left it to his Son Charles, with whom it died. But An. 1672 it was reviv'd again by Charles the Second, upon his Grace, Henry Howard, the late Duke of Norfolk, then created Earl of Norwich and Earl Marſhal. So that beſides the Title of Duke of Norfolk, his Grace was Earl of Arundel, Norwich and Surrey.

NOSTRADAMUS (Michael) a Phyſician and famous Aſtrologer, in the XVIth. Century, was born at Salon, or as others at St. Remy in Provence. It is ſaid that his Grandfather by the Mother's ſide, who was of the ſame Town of St. Remy, made him in Love with Aſtrology. He ſtudied firſt at Montpelier, and after having finiſhed his Studies, travelled to Tholouſe and Bourdeaux. And upon his return to Provence, in 1555, publiſhed his Prophetical Centuries, which were at that time in ſo great eſteem that King Henry the Second of France, could not be ſatisfied without ſeeing the Author of them; upon Notice whereof the Count of Tende, Governor of Provence, ſent him up to Paris, were the King was ſo well pleaſed with his Company, that he beſtowed ſeveral Gifts upon him, beſides a ſumm of 200 Crowns in Gold; and, not content to have ſeen him himſelf, ſent him to the Princes, his Sons, at Blois. Charles IX. alſo honoured him with the marks of his Favour as he paſſed through Provence, Noſtradamus died the ſecond of July, 1566. being Sixty two Years of Age, Six Months, and Seventeen Days, at Salon, where he was buried in the Church of the Cordeliers, with this Epitaph engraven on Marble, D. M. Oſſa clariſſimi Michaelis Noſtradami, unius omnium mortalium Judicis digni, cujus penè divino calamo, totius orbis, ex aſtrorum influxu, futuri eventus conſcriberentur, &c. Authors judge differently concerning the Knowledge and Skill of this Aſtrologer; Stephanus Jodellus, who was no Admirer of Aſtrology, gives this Gingling Character of him:

Noſtradamus cùm falſa damus, nam fallere noſtrum eſt,
Et cùm verba damus, nil niſi noſtra damus.

He was the Father of Cæſar Noſtradamus, who publiſhed his Works, wherein we find a ſhort Account of the Life of this Aſtrologer, the Brother of John Noſtradamus, who was an Advocate of the Parliament of Aix, and writ The Hiſtory of Provence, and The Lives of the Poets of that Country. Spond. in Annal. Bouch. Hiſt. de Prov. Lib. 10.

NOTARIES of Rome, ſince called Protonotaries. It is ſaid, that during the Perſecutions of the Primitive Church, St. Clement, the Diſciple of the Apoſtles, appointed ſeven Notaries for the fourteen Quarters or Wards of the City of Rome, whoſe Office was, to ſet down in Writing the Particulars of the Impriſonment and Deaths of the Martyrs. And after this, St. Fabian appointed ſeven Sub-deacons, to have an eye over thoſe Notaries, and take care of their faithful diſcharging this their Duty, obliging them to put their Acts into the hands of thoſe Deacons, that they might preſent them to him, and to the Popes his Succeſſors, as was already practiſed in the time of Anterus, his Predeceſſor, of whom it is ſaid, that he took great Care to have theſe Regiſters of the Notaries brought to him, and laid up amongſt the publick Church Records, to be there faithfully kept for poſterity. This method which was practis'd with ſuch exactneſs at Rome, was likewiſe obſerv'd by the Clergy in other places; thus we Read that the Eccleſiaſticks of Achaia took care to preſerve an Hiſtorical Account of the Martyrdom of St. Andrew of which they had been Eye-witneſſes: Thus the Martyrdom of St. Polycarp, was written by the Clergy of Smyrna, and thus the Churches of Vienne and Lyons, tranſmitted an Account of the Sufferings of Photinus and Blandina, and ſeveral other Martyrs, who were put to Death under the Emperor Marcus Aurelius, to the Churches of Aſia and Phrygia. St. Denys likewiſe Biſhop of Alexandria, wrote a Book of the Martyrs of his Dioceſs. Pontius alſo St. Cyprian's Deacon, declares that it was cuſtomary in the Church of Affrick, to write the Lives of the Martyrs with great Exactneſs and particularity. Anaſtaſius Bibliothecarius. De Sauſſay Martyrol. de France. Euſeb. Hiſt. Eccl. Pontius in vit. Cypr.

NOTO, Lat. Nea, Netum, Neetum. A City of Sicily of great Antiquity, and at this time great, well inhabited, and the Capital of the Province, called by its Name, il Val di Noto, which is one of the three parts into which Sicily is divided, and lies on the South ſide of the Iſland, having on the North il Val di Demona, on the Weſt il Val di Mazara, and on the South the African Sea. The City Noto is encompaſſed with high Rocks and ſteep Valleys, 8 Miles from Sea, towards the Mouth of the River Abiſo, near Cape Paſſaro, 15 from Pachyno to the S. W. and 25 from Syracuſe to the S. The other Cities of this Province are, Saragoſſa, Auguſta, Terra nova, Motica, Camarana, &c.

NOTTEBURG, Lat. Notteburgum, the Capital of Ingria, a Province of Sweden, ſeated on an Iſland in the Lake of Ladoga, on the Confines of Moſcovy, called Oreska by the Ruſſians, which word ſignifies a Nut, from whence alſo the German word Notteburg is derived. It is a very ſtrong Place by its ſituation, yet Guſtavus Adolphus took it from the Moſcovites in 1614.

NOTTINGHAM, Lat. Nottinghamia, the chief place of Nottinghamſhire, is 94 Miles from London North-weſt. 'Tis ſeated upon a Hill, on the North ſide of Lean, a ſmall River, which falls a Mile from hence, into the Trent; conſiſts of three Pariſhes, and drives as good a Trade as moſt in-land Towns. 'Tis, in ſhort, one of the neateſt Towns in England, ſet out with good Houſes, fair Streets, and as handſome a Market Place as any. But of moſt Fame for its Caſtle, which for Strength, Proſpect and Statelineſs, did formerly challenge the Precedency of moſt in England. One thing Speed remarks of this Town which is worth our taking notice of, viz. The many ſtrange Vaults hewed out of the Rocks under the Caſtle. One of them of ſpecial note for the Story of Chriſt's Paſſion ingraven in the Walls, and cut by the Hand of David King of Scots, when a Priſoner here. Another to this day called Mortimer's Hole, wherein the Lord Mortimer was apprehended in the Nonage of King Edward the IIId. with Stairs and ſeveral Rooms cut out of the Rocks. The ſame is to be ſeen in other places near the Caſtle, viz. Dwelling-houſes, with winding Stair-caſes, Room above Room, with Chimneys and Windows all wrought out of the ſolid Rock. Laſtly, Nottingham has been a long time noted for being dignified with the Title of an Earldom in ſeveral Noble Families. An. 1597, the Title being vacant by the Death of Henry Fitz Roy, Baſe ſon of King Henry VIIIth. Queen Elizabeth conferred it upon Charles, Lord Howard of Effingham, Lord Admiral, deſcended by the Houſe of Norfolk from the Mowbrays, Earls of Nottingham. It went from him to Charles, his ſecond Son, and from this to his Son Charles, who dying without Iſſue, at the latter end of King Charles the Second's Reign, the Title of Lord Effingham fell by Inheritance to the Right Honourable Francis Howard, Eldeſt Son to Sir Charles Howard, and that of Earl of Nottingham was conferred by the ſaid King upon Heneage Finch, Lord Chancellor of England, now enjoyed by his Eldeſt Son, the Right Honourable Daniel Finch. The Danes held out Nottingham Caſtle againſt three Saxon Kings, and forced them to Peace.

NOTTINGHAMSHIRE, Lat. Nottinghamiæ Comitatus, an in-land County of England, has Yorkſhire on the North, Leiceſterſhire on the South, Lincolnſhire Eaſtward, and Derbyſhire Weſtward. The River Trent parts it ſome Miles from Lincolnſhire, and the Erwaſh from Derbyſhire, Its form is oval, from North to South 38 miles, from Eaſt to Weſt 20, the whole divided into eight Wapentakes or Hundreds, wherein are 168 Pariſhes, and 10 Market Towns. Its ancient Inhabitants were the Coritani, ſo called by the Romans. The Country a Province of the Heptarchy Kingdom of Mercia, and now in the Dioceſs of York. The Soil is by Nature it ſelf divided into two parts, Sand and Clay, which ſupply the defects one of another. Weſtward is Sherwood Foreſt, ſtock'd not only with Wood, but Pit-Coal and Plenty of Game. The Commodities wherein this County does excel are Liquorice, which grows in the Weſt near Workſop, and is counted the beſt in England. Here is alſo a ſort of Stone ſofter than Alabaſter, which being burn'd, makes Plaiſter harder than that of Paris, This County has given Birth to a great number of Famous Men, who will be ſpoken of in their proper places. Among the Market Towns, Nottingham, Newark and Eaſt-Retford, ſend each two Members to ſerve in Parliament, beſides the two Knights of the Shire.

NOVA-ANTEGUERA, a City of New-Spain, in America, and Province of Oaxaca, 80 Spaniſh Leagues Eaſt from Mexico, 17 from the North to the South Sea, and 17 from Vera Cruz. It's but of a ſmall extent and thinly inhabited, yet a Biſhop's See and Suffragan of Mexico ever ſince 1535.

NOVA-GUINEA: See GUINEA.

NOVARA, Lat. Novaria, a City of Italy, which formerly was the Capital of Inſubria. It is now a part of the Dutchy of Milan, and a Biſhop's See under that Archbiſhop, and the Chief of a ſmall Territory called by its Name, very ſtrong, and can ſhew many ancient Roman Inſcriptions as Teſtimonies of its Antiquity. It ſtands 25 miles from Milan to the Weſt, and ten from Turin, in a well watered and fruitful Soil. It is famous for the Birth of Peter Lombard, Biſhop of Paris, Maſter of the Sentences. Near this Place Lewis Sforza, Duke of Milan, was taken by the French in 1500; but twelve Years after, as the French were beſieging this City, the Swiſſes falling upon them by night, gave them a great Overthrow. In 1515 the French drove the Swiſſes out of Novara, but they retook it in 1522, and two Years after the City was delivered to Sforza. It is ſeated on an Aſcent, and well fortified.

NOVARINI (Lewis) a Monk of the XVIIth Century, he was well vers'd in the Languages, and had ſeveral conſiderable Employs in his Order. Pope Urban the VIIIth. had a particular value for his Perſon and Works, the chief of which are, his Arcana Myſticæ Theologiæ. Sanctitas honorata. Adagia Sanctorum Patrum. Amoris Deliciæ, &c. Ghilini Theat d' Huom. Letter. Miræus de Script. Sæc. XVII. Lorenzo Craſſo Elog. d' Huom. Letter. &c.

NOVATIANUS, whom Greek Authors for the moſt part confound with Novatus, of a Stoick Philoſopher became a Chriſtian, as he was taken deſperate ill, but when perfectly recovered neither did what the Eccleſiaſtical Law required, nor was confirmed by the Biſhop, which though the People and Clergy objected, yet he was made Prieſt. In 257, Cornelius being choſen Pope, after Fabian's Death, he was diſguſted, ſo that having drawn ſuch as had fallen from Cyprian and ſeveral Roman Confeſſors on his Side, he ſent for three ignorant Biſhops of Italy to Rome; and having ſhut them in, got them at an Entertainment, to ordain him Biſhop of Rome, wherewith he acquainted the inferior Church, diſpatching Letters on every Side, and ſending his new Companions, whom Cyprian calls Apoſtles, to proſelyte the unwary and credulous, making his Brethren take this Oath, I ſwear by the Body and Blood of Chriſt, that I will never deſert you, nor return to Cornelius. But theſe Artifices availing him little, he broached his Errors about Penance, affirming, That ſuch as had once fallen were never after to be received into Communion; but to be left wholly to God's Judgment. It's not certain where, nor when he died. Cyprian deſcribes him thus, in his 57th. Epiſtle to Cornelius, A Deſerter from the Church, Enemy to Mercy, Deſtroyer of Penance, Teacher of Pride, Corrupter of Truth, and Bane of Charity. Cave Hiſt. Liter.

NOVATUS was a Prieſt of Carthage, as appears by the LIId. Letter of St. Cyprian, of the Oxford Edition; he had been ſummoned to appear before his Biſhop in 249, being accuſed of having ſpurned his Wife whilſt ſhe was big with Child, and cauſed her thereby to miſcarry; but the Perſecution raiſed by Decius having obliged St. Cyprian to withdraw himſelf, Novatus by this means was delivered from the fear of appearing before him; and not long after joined himſelf to Feliciſſimus, a Deacon, and began to maintain, that Perſons who had fallen into any open ſin, ought to be received into Communion without the impoſing of any Penance. However, ſome time after, being gone to Rome, he joined himſelf to a Party who were of a quite contrary Opinion; and at laſt returned to Africa; but what became of him afterwards is not known. See the Annales Cyprianicæ of our Country-man, Biſhop Pearſon, and the Life of St. Cyprian, in XIIth. Tom. of Univerſ. Biblioth.

NOUE (Francis de la) ſurnamed Bras-de-fer, or Iron-Arm, a Gentleman of Bretaign in France, was not only a great Commander, but a very good and honeſt Man, and ſignaliz'd himſelf upon all occaſions by his Prudence, Vertue and Valour. He was born in 1531, of Francis de la Noüe and Bonaventura l' Eſpervier. In his Youth he travelled into Italy, and bore Arms there, and at his Return to France embraced the Reformed Religion, which had taken great root in Bretaigne ſince the Year 1557. The Sieur De la Noüe, ſaith Moreri, performed extraordinary Services to thoſe of his Party; and though an Huguenot, yet it cannot be denyed, but his Probity, his Valour and his Wiſdom, were always had in admiration by the Catholicks. He had a tolerable in-ſight into good Authors, and ingenuous Literature. He was Courageons, Vertuous, Liberal, and ready to Oblige, and do good turns to all Perſons whatſoever. He took Orleans from the Roman Catholicks, the 28 of September, 1567. and chaſed thence the Roman Catholick Governor, who had retrench'd himſelf at a Gate of that City. He commanded the Rear-guard at the Battle of Jarnac, 1569, and aſſiſted in a Thouſand Occaſions, in all which he gave evident Marks of a wonderful Prudence, and ſurpaſſing Generoſity. The Proteſtants had made him Governor of Macon, which the Duke of Nevers took from him. After the Battle of Jarnac, la Noüe attack'd a Fort which Puy Gaillard, a Roman Catholick Captain had built at Alenzon; who being informed thereof, gathered ſome Forces, and ſet upon la Noüe, but was defeated by him; who afterwards took Fontenay, Oleron, Marennes, Soubiſe and Brouage. It was at the taking of Fontenay in Poitou, that he received a Shot in his left Arm, that broke the Bone, which being cut off at Rochel, he got an Iron Arm made inſtead of it, which gave him the Name of Iron-Arm, and with which he made a ſhift to hold his Horſe Bridle, and to be as active as before. In 1571 he was ſent to Genlis in the Low-Countries, where he ſurprized Valenciennes. At his return to France, after the Pariſian Maſſacre, the French King ſent him to Rochel, and he was Commander in chief there, in 1573. From the year 1578 he followed the Duke of Alenzon into the Low-Countries, who ſent him with 3000 Men to the Aſſiſtance of the States, for whom he performed great Services. Philip of Melun, Marqueſs of Risburg, took him Priſoner in 1580, in an encounter near to the Caſtle of Ingelmonſter, la Noüe having a little before taken Ninove, and the Count of Egmont, who was then in the Place. The Spaniards expreſs'd an extraordinary Joy for their having taken this great Commander, and did not reſtore him to his Liberty, till the Year 1585, in Exchange of the ſaid Count of Egmont, and a Ranſom of 100000 Crowns beſides. At the beginning of the Wars of the League, he retired to Geneva, where William Robert de la Marc, Duke of Bouillon, Prince of Sedan, &c. died, leaving his Siſter, Charlotta, Heireſs of his Eſtate, and made la Noüe Executor of his Laſt Will, Guardian of the Princeſs, and Governor of his Sovereign Territories. But divers reaſons hindring him from taking a Journey to the Low-Countries, ſo ſoon as he had deſired, the Princeſs his Pupil in the mean time was almoſt oppreſs'd; whereupon he exerted his utmoſt diligence to retrieve her Affairs. As he was thus employed, the King of Navarre, who had joyned himſelf with King Henry IIId. ſent for him, together with the Duke of Longueville, to go and meet ſome Succours which Sanci was bringing from Switzerland, which was a little before the King's Death. After which la Noüe continued his Services to Henry the Great, and was kill'd at the Siege of Lambale, in the year 1591; for as he was got up a Ladder, to ſpy what they were doing in the Place, he was wounded in the Head with a Musket ſhot, of which he died ſome days after, being almoſt equally lamented by his Friends and Enemies; a Man wonderfully great in War, and yet greater for his Vertue and Goodneſs. He was of an ancient and noble Houſe in Bretaigne, and married Margaret de Peligny, by whom he had Odet de la Noüe, and a Daughter married to the Marqueſs of Mouſſaie. His Sons were Heirs of his good Qualities. *Moſes Amyraldus in the Life of de la Noüe. NOVE (Paul de) Doge of Genoüa, was a Dyer by his Trade, whom in 1506 the Genoueſe, revolting from France, choſe to be their Duke, but Lewis XIIth. having reduced them to their duty, and ſeized de Nove, cauſed him publickly to be beheaded. Monſtrelet Chron.

NOVELLARO, a fine and pleaſant Town of Italy in lower Lombardy, between Mantua and Modena, ſubject to a Count of the Family of Gonzaga. It ſtands ten Miles North of Regio, and twenty North Weſt of Modena, Long. 31. 12. Lat. 44. 27.

NOVELON, Biſhop of Soiſons, he took upon him the Croiſade for regaining the Holy Land, and after the taking of Conſtantinople by the French in 1203, he was one of thoſe who were nominated to chuſe an Emperor. In 1204 he had the Arch-biſhoprick of Theſſalonica conferr'd upon him: He died at Paris about the Year 1207. Herman lib. 1. de Mirac. St. *Mariæ laud. San. Marth. Gall. Chriſt. NOVEMVIRI, the Nine Magiſtrates of Athens ſo called, whoſe Government laſted but for one Year; the firſt of which number was called Archon, or Prince, the ſecond Baſileus or King, the third Polemarchus or General of the Army, and the ſix others were called Theſmothetæ or Legiſlators. They took an Oath exactly to obſerve the Laws, and in caſe of failure, oblig'd themſelves to beſtow upon the Commonwealth a Golden Statue as big as themſelves. Thoſe who diſcharged their Office with Honour, were afterwards receiv'd into the number of the Senators of the Areopagus. Plutarchus in Solon and Pericles.

NOVENDIALE, a Sacrifice which the Romans continued for nine Days to divert the Miſchiefs wherewith they were threatned by Prodigy, and to appeaſe the Anger of the Gods, in which caſe the Senate uſed to ſend an Order to the High-Prieſt or Prætor of the City, for the obſervation of this Solemnity. Tullus Hoſtilius the fourth King of Rome, was the firſt Inſtitutor of theſe Sacrifices, after that he had been informed of the prodigious Hail which fell upon Mount Alban in the Country of Latium, the bigneſs and hardneſs whereof made them to be taken for Stones. Titus Livius.

NOVENSILES, certain Gods thus called by the Romans, either becauſe they were of ſhort ſtanding, or nine in number, as Health, Fortune, Veſta, Hercules, Romulus, Æſculapius, Bacchus, Æneas and Faith; or, that they thought they preſided over Novelties and Changes. Others will have it, That this was a Name given to the nine Muſes. Lil. Gyrald. de Syntagm. Deor.

NOVIBAZAR, Lat. Novus Mercatus, one of the chief Cities of Servia, in the Principality of Herſegovina ſubject to the Turks. It's ſituate on the River Oraſca, 52 Miles Weſt of Niſſa, and 115 South Eaſt of Belgrade. Long. 43. 56. Lat. 43. 12.

NOVIGRAD, a ſmall but very ſtrong Town of Upper Hungary in the County of Zolnock, now ſubject to the Emperor, ſituate about a Mile from the Danube, five Leagues North Eaſt of Gran, four from Vaccia. Long. 40. 7. Lat. 48. 00. It's defended by a Caſtle built upon a Rock, and encompaſſed with a Ditch four and thirty foot deep, cut in the ſame Rock, which makes it almoſt impregnable. In 1594 the Germans took it from the Turks, who retook it in 1663, but is now again under the Emperor.

NOVIGRAD, a Town and Caſtle in Dalmatia, the Caſtle built upon a Bay of the ſame Name, twenty Miles Eaſt of Zara, and five and twenty North of Sebenico. It belong'd to the Venetians, but now is under the Turks, who made themſelves Maſters of it in 1648.

NOVIGRADT, a handſome Town with an impregnable Caſtle in the Province of Raſcia in Servia, ſubject to the Turks. It ſtands on the Danube 40 Engliſh Miles Weſt of Widen, 74 North of Niſſa, and 108 Eaſt of Belgrade. Long. 45. 8. Lat. 45. 5.

NOVOGOROD NISSI, or the Lower, a large and populous Town of Muſcovy, ſituate upon the River Volga, where it receives the Occa, 100 German Miles North Eaſt of Moſcow, and 40 South Eaſt of Wologda. Long. 69. 25. Lat. 58. 00. This Town is very ſtrong, and the Boundary of Chriſtendom, on that ſide, the Crim Tartars being their Neighbours. The Country about it is healthful and very plentiful.

NOVOGOROD VELIKI, Lat. Novogardia Magna, called by the Germans NEUGARTEN, is a great City of Moſcovy, Capital of a Principality of the ſame Name, and an Archbiſhop's See, ſeated in a ſpacious Plain upon the River Wolkow or Volga, which iſſueth from the Lake of Ilmen, the moſt beautiful of Europe, about a Mile above the City, and traverſing the Lake Ladoga falls by Notteburg, and the Gulf of Finland into the Baltick Sea. This River is the chief cauſe of the Wealth and Greatneſs of the City, as being Navigable from its Fountains, almoſt to the Baltick, which has made this place the chief for trade of all the North, being frequented on that account by the Livonians, Swedes, Danes, Germans, and Hollanders. It formerly enjoyed alſo many great Privileges under a Prince of their own, who had no dependance on the Great Duke of Moſcovy, and was become ſo rich and powerful, that it was a common Proverb amongſt them, Who can oppoſe God, or the great City Novogorod? It hath formerly for its bigneſs been compar'd to Rome, but is not ſo great now as it hath been, though the number of its Steeples make a great ſhow at a diſtance; for beſides Churches it contains no leſs than ſeventy Monaſteries. The Buildings are all of Wood after the manner of the Ruſſians. Vithold, Great Duke of Lithuania, was the firſt, who in 1427 oblig'd this City to pay a Tribute of 200000 Crowns. John Baſilowitz Grotſdin Tyrant of Moſcovy made himſelf Maſter of it in 1477, and placed a Governor in it; and ſome time after came in Perſon and plundered the City, carrying away with him to Moſcow 300 Wagons laden with Gold, Silver, and precious Stones, and other rich Goods and Furniture; to which place he alſo tranſported all the Inhabitants of Novogorod, and ſent Moſcovites to inhabit their City. John Baſilowitz, Great Duke of Moſcovy, in 1569, upon a bare groundleſs ſuſpicion of their deſigning to revolt, ſlew or caſt into the River 2770 of its Inhabitants, beſides a vaſt number trodden to death by a Party of his Horſe let in upon them. After having plunder'd the rich Church of Sancta Sophia, and all the Treaſures of the other Churches, he alſo pillag'd the Archbiſhoprick, and then Commanded the Archbiſhop to ride upon a white Horſe with a Fiddle tied about his Neck, and a Flute in his Hand; and in this poſture conducted him to Moſcow, where he was quit with this diſgrace, but the Abbots and Monks were all cut to pieces or drowned. This City was taken by the Swedes in 1611, and reſtor'd to the Ruſſians, in 1634. In 1664 it was populous, and a place of good Trade, encompaſſed with a Timber Wall, well ſtor'd with Ammunition and Braſs Ordinance, and defended by a Caſtle. Here was anciently an Idol worſhipped in the form of a Man, with a Thunderbolt in his Hand, call'd the God of Fire; in whoſe Temple the Prieſts were oblig'd to keep a perpetual Fire with Oaken Timber, on pain of Death. This Dutchy once the greateſt in Ruſſia, was aſſign'd by Lot to Ruruk Varegus their firſt Duke, whoſe Poſterity inlarg'd their Dominions as far as the Greek Empire on one ſide, and Norway on the other. Novogorod is an hundred and five German Miles from Moſcow, to the N. W. ſix and forty from Pleskow to the E. and forty from Nerva to the S. E. Long. 50.00. Lat. 58. 23.

NOVOGROD, or Novogrodek, called Litawiski: Lat. Novogroda, Novogardia, a City of Lithuania, under the Crown of Poland, the Capital of a Palatinate of the ſame Name, in which the Diet of Lithuania ought by turns with Minskow to be held: It ſtands ſcarce four Poliſh Miles from the River Niemen, and twenty from Vilna to the South. The Palatinate of Novogrodek lies between Poleſia to the South, and Polachia to the Weſt, in which, beſides the Capital, are the Cities of Wolkowiska, Lakowicz, Mir, Slonim, &c. This City is large, but all built of Timber.

NOVOGRODEK SEVIERSKY, Lat. Novogardia Severia, a City of Lithuania formerly under the Poles, now under the great Duke of Moſcovy. It ſtands upon the River Dezna, ſeventeen Poliſh Miles from Czernichou to the North Eaſt, forty ſix from Kiovia, and the ſame diſtance from Smolensko to the South, and is the Capital of a Dukedom.

NOUR-MAHAL, Queen of the Eaſt-Indies, and Wiſe of Jehan-Guir, Great Mogul in 1620. She had two Names, Nour-Gehanbegum, i. e. The Light of the World, and the other Nour-Mahal, The Light of the Seraglio. This Queen being very ambitious, us'd her utmoſt endeavours to pleaſe the King, that ſhe might with the more eaſe bring about her Deſigns; and being extreamly deſirous to eternize her Memory, ſhe thought ſhe could not better accompliſh this, than by cauſing a vaſt quantity of Money to be coyned with her own ſtamp upon it, which ſhe obtain'd very dexterouſly, thus; During the abſence of the Sultan Kourom the King's Son, ſhe deſired the King to let her enjoy the Soveraign Authority twenty four hours only; which Requeſt ſurpriz'd the King, as looking upon it to be of dangerous conſequence, but yet the greatneſs of his Love made him at laſt to grant it to her; and calling all his great Officers into his Preſence, commanded them without reſerve to obey her, as they did him, for that term of time. The Queen having long before made Preparations for executing her deſign, by laying up great quantities of Gold and Silver in thoſe Cities where the Grand Mogul had his Money coyned, and by ſending the Stamps ſecretly to all the Maſters of the Mint, who only were acquainted with her Intent, all the great Lords knowing nothing of it; ſhe, as ſoon as ſhe was got into the Throne, diſpatch'd Couriers to all the Mints of the Kingdom, with orders to coin two Millions of Silver and Golden Roupies, the Roupi of Gold being worth about Forty Shillings Sterling, and the Silver Roupi half a Crown) every one of which pieces repreſented the figure of one of the Signs of the Zodiack on one ſide, and on the other the King and Queen's Name. The thing was ſo ſuddenly executed, eſpecially in the Royal City where ſhe then was, that ſhe had not ſate above two hours on the Throne, but ſhe cauſed abundance of theſe pieces to be caſt amongſt the People, which were current Money during the Reign of the King her Husband. But Sultan Kouron, called afterwards Cha Jehan, being come to the Crown he cauſed this Coin to be called in and minted anew. The Father of this Queen was a Perſian by Nation and was in his own Country no more than a Captain of Horſe, who coming to the Indies to ſerve the Great Mogul Jehan-Guir, he preſently conceiv'd ſo great a Favour for him, that after having tried his Courage, he made him General of his Armies; but afterward, joining with Sultan Koſrou, eldeſt Son of the Mogul, who deſign'd to make himſelf

King by dethroning his Father, he was taken, in order to be put to death, but his Wife and Daughter caſting themſelves at the Mogul's Feet, begg'd his Pardon. The King was ſo charm'd with the Beauty of his Daughter, that he granted her deſire, and made her Miſtreſs of his Affections. Beſides the Perſian and Indian Languages, ſhe underſtood and ſpoke Arabick, and had a great Genius fit to govern a Kingdom. Tavernier.

NOYERS (Hugo de) Biſhop of Auxerre in France, of a Noble and ancient Family, which took its Name from a Town in Burgundy, had a troubleſome diſpute with the Earl of Auxerre, who made it his buſineſs to blacken this Prelate by all ſorts of Calumny and miſ-reports, upon which account the Biſhop made uſe of the Authority of his Character, and Excommunicated him with all his Officers, and deprived them of Chriſtian Burial, which ſo enrag'd the Earl, that he cauſed a Child to be buried in the Biſhop's Hall, and drove all the Clergy-men out of the Cathedral; but at laſt the Earl was willing to give Satisfaction, and to be freed from the effects of his Excommunication, was fain to dig up the Child himſelf, and to carry it bare-foot, and in his Shirt to the Church-yard, and there to bury it in preſence of all the People. This Prelate died at Rome 1206. San. Marth. Gal. Chriſtiana.

NOYON, See NOION.

NTOUPI, a Name the Greeks give to Excommunicated Perſons, becauſe their Bodies do not rot in the Earth, but ſwell and ſound like a Drum, when they are touched or moved, whereof they give us this Example. Mahomet II. having heard much of the Efficacy of Excommunication in the Greek Church ſent to Maximus the Patriarch of Conſtantinople, to procure him the ſight of the Body of an Excommunicated Perſon, to know whether the Report that went concerning them were true. The Patriarch at the firſt receipt of this Order was in great trouble how to ſatisfie the Grand Signior's deſire; and having communicated the ſame to his Clergy, ſome of the moſt ancient of them remembred, That under the Patriarchate of Gennadius there had been a beautiful Widow, who, by the inſtigation of the Devil, had ſlandered that Patriarch with endeavouring to debauch her, whereupon he was forc'd to Excommunicate her; and that dying at the end of forty Days, her Body had been taken up a long time after, to ſee the Efficacy of Excommunication, and was found entire, and then buried again a Second time. Maximus being inform'd of the place where ſhe was buried, ſent word thereof to the Sultan, who immediately ſent ſome of his Officers in preſence of whom the Grave was opened, and the Corps found whole, but black and puft up like a Bladder. The Officers having made their Report hereof, Mahomet was extreamly aſtoniſht at it, and order'd his Baſhaws that had viſited the Body to ſee it tranſported to a Chapel of the Church of Pammacariſta, which they did, and ſealed the Door of it with the Sultan's Seal; and a few days after, the Baſhaws, by the ſame Royal Order, took the Coffin again out of the Chapel, and preſented it to the Patriarch to take off the Excommunication, that the Sultan might be aſſur'd of the effect of that Ceremony, which, according to the common report, reſtor'd the Dead-bodies to the condition of the other Corpſes. Accordingly the Patriarch, after having read the Liturgy, that is to ſay, the Form of Prayer preſcrib'd on this occaſion, began to read, with a loud voice, the Woman's Abſolution, expecting the effect of it with zealous Tears and Aſpirations to God; whereupon, as the Greeks relate, the following Miracle was wrought in the preſence of a vaſt crowd of People: There was heard an obſcure crackling noiſe of the Nerves and Bones beginning to reſolve, and quit their natural poſition: whereupon the Baſhaws ſhut up the Body again into the Chappel as before, to give it time wholly to reſolve to Duſt; and ſome Days after, having made their laſt viſit of it, and ſeeing that the Body was for the moſt part turn'd to Duſt, made their report of it to the Sultan; who, full of aſtoniſhment, own'd the Chriſtian Religion to be very powerful. But we muſt not confound theſe Ntoupi's, with the Broucolaca's, of whom to this day, there's a great noiſe amongſt the Greeks, for the Ntoupies, are ſuch Bodies which cannot turn to Duſt, becauſe they have not been abſolv'd from the Sentence of Excommunication; but the Broucolaca's are bodies of Excommunicated Perſons that are animated by the Devil, who actuating their Organs, makes them ſpeak, walk, eat and drink. And withal, the Greeks tell us, That to deprive the Devil of this Power, one muſt take the Heart of theſe Broucolaca's and cut it to pieces, and then bury the body again. Guillet. Hiſtory of the Reign of Mahomet II.

NUBA, the Surname which Gabriel Sionita, and Johan. Hezronita, Maronites, give to the Author of the Univerſal Geography writ in Arabick, and printed in 1592 at Rome. Scaliger in his Epiſtles makes mention of this piece, which was tranſlated into Latin, by the two perſons above mention'd, and printed at Paris, in 1619. This piece contains a Deſcription of the whole World, eſpecially of Aſia and Africa; but his greateſt exactneſs appears in his Deſcription of Arabia, as to which he forgets nothing: In the Deſcription of Europe he commits many failures, his own Travels reaching no further than Spain, and is ſo very faulty in the Proper Names of places. This Arabian Author liv'd at leaſt 500 Years ago, under Roger I. King of Sicily. It is not well known of what Religion he was, though the two Maronites that tranſlated him, take him to have been a Chriſtian. As for his Country, they ſuppoſe him to have been of Nubia, for which reaſon they have given him the Surname of Nuba, and his Book is called Geographia Nubienſis, which Roger King of Sicily hired him to write, to have an account of places marked on his great Terreſtrial Globe, all of pure Silver weighing 400 Pounds Greek weight, viz. fourteen Ounces to the Pound. *F. NUBIA, a great Country in the Eaſtern part of Africa, which the Inhabitants call Neuba, and by ſome it is called the Leſſer Egypt. It lies along the River Nile, and the River Nubia, and is incompaſs'd on the North and Weſt with Mountains, between Egypt and the Deſarts of Barca, which it hath on the North, the Deſarts of Zaarah to the Weſt, and the Upper Æthiopia or Country of the Abyſſines to the Eaſt and South. It lies 300 French Leagues in length, and not much leſs in breadth. Its Capital City is Duncala, conſiſting of 10000 Houſes; the other moſt conſiderable are Nubia, Cuſa, Guala, Jalac and Suſa. That part of the Country which lies towards the Nile is fruitful enough. It abounds with Santal Wood, Gold, Civet and Ivory; and produces a Poiſon of that violence, that one Grain of it is enough to kill ten perſons. The Nubians are valiant and witty, and the Inhabitants of the known parts of it are addicted to Commerce and Tillage. The Country abounds with Sugar-canes, but the People know not how to make any profit of them. The Nubians are govern'd by a King of their own, who keeps conſiderable Forces on his Frontiers to ſecure them againſt the Incurſions of the Turks and Abyſſines. The Nubians trade chiefly with the Egyptians of Cairo and other Cities of that Country. They ſell their Poiſon an hundred Ducats an Ounce, and the Duties laid upon the Exportation of it makes the beſt branch of the King's Revenues. Strangers, when they buy of it, oblige themſelves not to make uſe of it in the Country. Geography is in ſome meaſure beholding to this Country, as the Birth-place of the famous Nubian Geographer. This Country derives its Name from Nuabia, once its Capital City, which is eighteen days Journey South Eaſt of Tagua, and 216 Engliſh Miles from Somna. The Nubians were formerly Chriſtians, but loſt their Religion for want of Preachers and Schools, and ſending to Abyſſinia for Supplies, whence they could have none, they turned Jews and Mahometans. Their Commodities are Rue, Saunders, Ivory, Civet and Gold. Their Language a mixture of Chaldean, Arabian and Egyptian. Ptolemy. Pliny. Strabo. Johannes Leo. Marmol. Deſcript. Afric.

NUBUNANGA, King of Japan, who depriv'd Dairo, to whom that Empire did of right belong, of the Soveraignty, leaving him only the Title of Prince in 1570. His Succeſſor was Taxibo Quaba in 1586, after whom reigned Tarkoſamma, who in 1600 made Dairo renounce all his right to the Crown, and took upon him the Title of Emperor of Japan. *Hornius Orb. NUCA, the laſt Lord High Juſtice of Arragon. This Judge was a Sovereign Magiſtrate choſen by the People to maintain their Rights and Privileges, againſt the Oppreſſions and encroachments of the Kings of Spain, who were fain to ſwear on their Knees and bare-headed, before this Judge, That they would never attempt any thing againſt the Rights and privileges of the Arragonians; and the People had power to preſent to this Lord High Juſtice, Complaints and Indictments againſt the King himſelf. But the Power of this Magiſtrate being odious and inſupportable to the Kings of Spain, they endeavour'd by little and little to infringe and deſtroy it. In 1469 they created ſeventeen Cenſors or Inquiſitors to whom this Lord High Juſtice was every Year to give an account of his Behaviour, and at laſt Philip II. of Spain in 1592, beſieged Saragoſſa, which he took, and caus'd this Nuca to be beheaded, by which means he wholly aboliſh'd that Office. *Hornius Orb. NUDIPEDALIA, Sacrifices which the Jews ſolemnized with their bare feet, to be delivered from ſome great incumbent Affliction. After having continued their Prayers for thirty Days together, and abſtained from Wine, they ſhav'd their Heads, and went bare-foot to the Temple, and offered their Sacrifices. The Jews finding themſelves oppreſs'd by Florus, Governour of Judæa, for the Emperor Nero, celebrated this Bare-foot Ceremony with extraordinary Solemnity; Berenice King Agrippa's Siſter, accompanying them therein, and appearing alſo bare-footed in behalf of the Jews, before the Tribunal of Florus, but without ſucceſs. *Joſeph. de Bello Judaic. NUIS or Nuys, Lat. Noveſium, a City of Germany in the Archbiſhoprick of Collen, on the Rhine, where it receives the River Erpt. It is an ancient ſtrong City, and famous for the Reſiſtance it made againſt Charles the Hardy, Duke of Burgundy, who beſieged it a whole Year. It hath been often taken and retaken during the late Wars of Germany.

NUIS or Nuits, a little City of France in Burgundy, upon the River Armanſon, between Mombard and Tonnerre. Some Authors ſuppoſe, that it took its Name from the Ancient Nuitones, who were the Builders of it, being a People of Germany in Confederacy with the Burgundians.

NUMA POMPILIUS, ſecond King of the Romans, was of Cures, a City of the Sabines, and Son of Pomponius Pompilius. The Romans had ſo great an Opinion of his Virtue, that immediately after the Death of Romulus, they made him King in the Fortieth Year of Rome. He inſtituted many Sacred Ceremonies, with deſign thereby to tame and civilize the Salvage Temper of a Barbarous and Licentious People. He built a Temple to Veſta, and appointed Veſtal Virgins, who had the care to preſerve the Holy Fire. He erected eight Colleges of Prieſts, and amongſt them the Flamens or three Prieſts, viz. of Jupiter, whom he called Flamen Dialis; of Mars, Martialis, and of Romulus, Quirinalis; the Salii, Augures, Feciales and Curiones. He erected alſo a Temple to double-fac'd Janus, which was to ſtand open in time of War, and ſhut in time of Peace. He divided the Year into twelve Months, and enacted many good and uſeful Laws. And to the end that all theſe Inſtitutions might gain the greater reſpect and veneration amongſt the People, he perſwaded them that he converſed by Night with the Nymph Ægeria, from whoſe Inſtructions he received the Ceremonies, Laws and Inſtitutions which he preſcribed them. He was married to Tatia the Daughter of Tatius, Romulus's Collegue, by whom he had four Sons, who became the Heads of four Families, and one Daughter married to Tullus Hoſtilius, who ſucceeded him. He reigned two and forty Years, and died in the eighty ſecond of Rome. Livy. Florus. Dion. Halicarnaſſus.

NUMANTIA, an ancient City of Spain, famous for having waged War twenty Years together, and ſtood out a Siege of fourteen Years againſt the Romans, who had unjuſtly begun the War; and though they had not above 4000 Men in the City, yet they forced Lepidus and Mancinus, who beſieged them with an Army of 40000 Men, to make a diſhonourable Peace. But at laſt Scipio Africanus, after a Siege of fifteen Months took it, but found nothing in it to adorn his Triumph; for the Inhabitants being pinched with Famine, made a great Fire, in which, after they had burnt their Wives and Children with all their Goods, made a Sally upon the Romans, and voluntarily expoſ'd themſelves to their Fury. Pliny tells us, That the Spoil of this Powerful City did not amount to above 700 l. This happened in the 620th of Rome. The Ruins of this City are ſtill to be ſeen in old Caſtile, not far from the Borders of Arragon, about a League from Soria, at a place which the Spaniards call Puente Garay. The occaſion of the Roman War was no other but the Numantines ſheltering the Inhabitants of Segeda their Allies, and interceded for them to the Romans, from whom they had made their eſcape. During the firſt Siege that the latter laid to the Town, one of the Inhabitants, courted for his Daughter by two Young Men equally conſiderable, and in ſuſpence which to pleaſe, told them, That he would beſtow his Daughter upon him that would firſt bring the Head of a Roman; whereupon both the Rivals went towards the Enemies Camp, and finding it in diſorder, return'd into the City, and having made all to arm themſelves, fell upon the Enemy in their Retrenchments, and ſurpriz'd Mancinus who thereupon, was forc'd to that ſhameful Peace. The Senate, to puniſh his ill Conduct, ſent their Heralds to deliver him all naked, with his Hands tied behind his back to the Numantines, who generouſly refus'd to receive him. *Tit. Liv. NUMENIUS, born at Apamea in Syria, was a very famous and learned Pythagorean and Platoniſt, according to Euſeb. præparat. Lib. 11. and the familiar friend of Cronius the famous Platonick Philoſopher, as Porphyrius tells us, Lib. de Antro Nymph. in Odyſſ. His Books Περὶ τῆς τῶν Ἀκαδημαϊκῶν πρὸς Πλάτωνα διαστάσεως, are commended by Euſebius de Præp. lib. 14. beſides which he writ alſo Τὰ παρὰ Πλάτωνα ἀπόῤῥητα, a fragment whereof is quoted by the ſame Euſeb. Præp. lib. 13. as alſo ſome Books Περὶ τἀγαθοῦ quoted by Origen lib. 2. contra Celſum. Some Slanderers having accuſed Plotinus for attributing to himſelf the Inventions and Doctrines of this Numenius; Amelius, to vindicate his friend Plotinus, writ a Book, De Differentia Doctrinæ Plotini & Numenii. He lived after Chriſt according to the Teſtimony of Theodoret, Θεραπευτ. β. Numenius hath this expreſſion concerning Plato, Quid enim aliud eſt Plato, quam Moſes Atticiſſans. It is conjectur'd, that he flouriſhed in the IId. Century. We muſt not confound this Numenius with the Pyrrhonian Philoſopher of the ſame Name mention'd by Laert. Athenæus. Heſychius. Suidas.

NUMERIA, a Heathen Goddeſs preſiding over Numbers and Accounts. Auguſtin de Civit. Dei.

NUMERIANUS, Emperor, was the Son of Carus, and Brother of Carinus, who after the death of his Father, was declar'd Emperor, but was murder'd by Aper. See APER.

NUMIDIA, a great Inland Country of Africa, called Metagonitis by Pliny in the Confines of Libya and Mauritania, ſuppoſed to be the ſame now called Biledulgerid, from the great number of Dates abounding in that Country. It has the Atlantique Sea to the Weſt, the Deſart of Zara to the South, Egypt to the Eaſt, and Barbary to the North. Its Inhabitants are a dull, ignorant ſort of People, and generally ſhort ſighted, occaſioned by Sand which the Wind raiſes continually into the Air: They alſo loſe their Teeth very young by feeding upon Dates. The chief Provinces and Kingdoms belonging to it are Sous or Soul, Teſſet, Darha, Zegelmeſſa, Tegorarin, Zeb, Teſſen, the Deſart of Barca, &c. The Country is inhabited by Natives and Arabians. There is alſo Numidia properly ſo called, which contains the Kingdoms of Bugia and Conſtantina. Numidia, in former times, was govern'd by Powerful Kings of their own, amongſt whom Maſſiniſſa, an Allie of the Romans was very famous, who being injur'd by the Carthaginians, gave occaſion to the third Punick War. This Maſſiniſſa had three Sons, Micipſa his Succeſſor, Manaſtabal and Guluſa, the firſt of whom left behind him two Sons, Adherbal and Hiempſal; Manaſtabal was the Father of Jugurtha, by a Concubine. Jugurtha, being adopted by Micipſa, killed his Brother Hiempſal, his other Brother Adherbal eſcaping to Rome, which was the cauſe of the Jugurthan War. At preſent this Country is ſubject to many Mahometan Princes, which is the cauſe of the frequent changing of the Names of its Cities. *Ptolemy. Strabo. Pliny. Salluſt. Joan. Leo & Marmol. Deſcript. NUMITOR, the Son of Procas King of Alba, who died A. M. 3259, and the Brother of Amulius, whom their Father Procas left Joint Heirs of the Crown, on condition that they ſhould reign Annually by turns. But Amulius being got into the Throne, reſolv'd to keep out his Brother and his Poſterity, for which end he murthered his Son Lauſus as he was a Hunting, and got his Daughter Rhea Sylvia to be put amongſt the Veſtals; but ſhe, notwithſtanding all his Circumſpection, being got with Child, brought forth Romulus and Remus, who kill'd their great Uncle, and reſtored their Grandfather to his Throne, which was in the Year of the World 3300. Tit. Liv. Aurel. Victor. Dionyſ. Halicarnaſſ.

NUNDINA, a Goddeſs worſhipp'd by the ancient Heathens, who ſuppoſed her to have the care of the Purification of Infants: And foraſmuch as Male Infants were uſed to be purified nine Days after their Birth, they derived the Name of this Goddeſs from the word Nonus, or the ninth, though Female Infants were purified the eighth Day; which Purification was called Luſtration by the Romans. Macrob. Saturn.

NUN-EATON, a Market Town of Hemlingford Hundred in the North Eaſt parts of Warwickſhire.

NUNNEZ or Nonnius (Petrus) a famous Mathematician of Alcazar de Sal in Portugal, who lived in the XVI. Century, NUREMBERG, Nurnberg, Lat. Noremberga, a great Imperial free City of Germany in Franconia, upon the Confluence of the Rivers Regen and Pegen, ſeated at the foot of a Hill, and fortified with a Caſtle. It is very conſiderable and famous for its fair Streets, ſumptuous Churches, Caſtle, Arſenal, two Fairs, and its Manufactures, the chief whereof are Toyes and Clock-works. It has a Territory belonging to it, which lies between the Marquiſate of Holach to the Weſt, Culenbach to the North, the Upper Palatinate to the Eaſt, and the Biſhoprick of Aichſtadt to the South. The City ſtands nine Miles from Bamberg to the South, fourteen from Ratisbon, thirteen from Wurtzberg, and nineteen from Augsburg to the North. It belong'd at firſt to the Dukes of Schwaben, but afterwards bought its Liberty, which it hath carefully preſerv'd ever ſince 1027. Nuremberg hath alſo an Univerſity, and is accounted one of the greateſt and richeſt Cities of Germany. The Houſes are all built of Freeſtone four or five Stories High, the Streets are broad, and the Market-places fair and ſpacious. It hath Eleven Stone Bridges (whereof that built with one Arch paſſeth for a Wonder) twelve Fountains, 120 Wells, ſix Gates, every one of them defended by a ſtrong Tower, a Caſtle built on a Hill, and an Arſenal of five Rooms a Floor, Eighty foot wide each, wherein are 300 pieces of Canon, and Arms for ten thouſand Men, and a magnificent Town-Houſe. It borrowed its form of Government, which is Ariſtocratical, from the Venetians. The Inhabitants embraced Luther's Doctrine in 1506, but tolerate the Calviniſts, and the Roman Catholicks have one Church allowed them. They ſubmitted themſelves in 1631 to Guſtavus Adolphus, who raiſed the Siege laid to the City by Count Tilly the twenty firſt of March, and Count Walleſtein in Auguſt 1632, and in acknowledgment of this great Service of his Victorious Arms, they preſented him with four double pieces of Canon, of a peculiar make, and two Silver Globes, a Terreſtrial and Celeſtial one Gilt and Enamel'd, the Workmanſhip whereof was very admirable. In 1649. a general Peace was concluded were amongſt the Princes of Germany. Mordent adds, That this is the beſt Govern'd Town in Germany. That the new choſen Emperors are to hold their firſt Diets here. That the Royal Crown, Dalmatick Gown and Imperial Cloak are kept here. That it was here Maximilian's Wooden Eagle flew a quarter of a Mile and back again. That the Burgers have power to impriſon their Children, and throw them alive into the River. In fine, That it was here Charlemaign deſign'd to make a Communication between the Danube and the Rhine, by joining the Rednitz and Atmul Rivers, whereby there might have been a Commerce by Water from the lower Countries to Vienna, and even to the Euxine; but ſome Inconveniences in the Attempt, and his Warlike Diverſions made him give over the noble Deſign. In 1649 a general Peace was concluded here between the German Princes. Cluverius Germ. Spond. Conradus Celtes.

NUSCO, Lat. Nuſcum, a City of the Kingdom of Naples, in the farther Principality, with a Biſhop's See, under the Arch-biſhop of Salerno.

NYCTELIA, Feaſts in honour of Bacchus, ſo called becauſe they were celebrated in the Night; from the Greek word Νὺξ which ſignifies Night, and τελεῖν, to ſacrifice or perform any religious Ceremony. Theſe Feaſts were celebrated every three years in the beginning of the Spring by Night, with Flambeaus and Drinking, and accompanied with the worſt of Inſolencies and Impurities; wherefore alſo the Romans forbad the ſolemnizing of them, becauſe of the horrid Diſorders committed at them. St. Auguſt. de Civitate Dei. Dempſter Paralipom. in Roſin. Antiq.

NYCTEUS, Son of Neptune by Celene, Daughter of Atlas. He had two Daughters Antiopa and Nyctimene by Amalthæa a Nymph of Creet. Nyctimene by the Help of an Old Nurſe, as the Story goes, lay with her own Father: But the thing coming to be known, the Father would have ſlain his Daughter, had not Minerva out of Pity turn'd her into an Owl. Propert. Ovid.

NYENBURG, Lat. Novoburgum, a ſmall City belonging to the Dukes of Lunenburg, in the County of Hoyen, upon the River Weſer, four German miles from Ferden to the South, and eight from Zell to the Weſt.

NYLAND, a Province of Finland, having Carelia on the Eaſt, Finland properly ſo called, to the Weſt, and Tavaſtia to the North, and is ſeparate from Livonia by the Bay. There are but three Towns of Note in it, viz. Borgo, Helſingford and Raſeborg.

NYMPHÆUM, the Name given to a ſort of publick Baths in the City of Rome, of which there were twelve in number, they were Places of Pleaſure, adorned with pleaſant Fountains, cool Grotto's and curious Statues of Nymphs, which made them very delightful. Hiſtories tell us of many Places of this kind that were built in Rome and Conſtantinople, but are now ruin'd by length of time. Only there is a building ſtill to be ſeen of this kind between Naples and Mount Veſuvius in Italy. It is all of Marble, and of a ſquare Figure, and hath only one Gate of Entrance, which by ſome Steps leads down to a large Grotto pav'd with Marble of divers Colours, and the Walls are all covered with Shell-work, in a curious manner repreſenting the twelve Months of the Year, and the four Cardinal Vertues. The Water of a curious Fountain, at the Entry of the Grotto, fills a Canal that ſurrounds the Place; and the whole is adorned with the Statues and Pictures of divers Nymphs, and abundance of other pleaſant Figures. Roſin. Ant. Rom.

NYMPHÆUS, the Captain of a Colony of the Melians (Inhabitants of the Iſle of Melos in the Ægean Sea) who ſettled themſelves in Caria, a Province of the leſſer Aſia, near the City Cryaſſa; the Inhabitants of which City, being jealous of the Power of theſe Strangers, invited them to a Feaſt, at which they deſign'd to murther them; but the Plot being diſcovered to Nymphæus by Caphæna, a Carian Damoſel that was in love with him, he accepted of the Invitation, on this Condition, That their Wives ſhould accompany them; to which when the Carians had conſented; he ordered the Melians to come to the Feaſt unarmed; but that their Wives ſhould hide each of them a Dagger in their boſoms, and take their Seats next their Husbands; which being done accordingly, when about the middle of the Feaſt they ſaw the Carians had given the Signal for murther; they ſnatch'd the Daggers out of their Wives boſoms, and killed the Traitors; and by this means became Maſters of the City Cryaſſa, and built it a-new. Plutarch. de Virtute Mulier.

NYMPHIS, a Greek Hiſtorian, born at Heraclea, a City of Pontus, the Son of Xenagoras, who writ XXIV. Books of the Hiſtory of Alexander the Great and his Succeſſors, and XIII. concerning the City of Heraclea, with ſeveral others quoted by ancient Authors. He lived about the 600 year of Rome. Ælian. Athen. Suidas. Voſſ. de Hiſt. Græc. Geſner. in Bibl.

NYMPHODORUS of Amphipolis, a Greek Author; who writ a Hiſtory of The Laws and Cuſtoms of the People of Aſia, quoted by Clemens Alexandrinus, which being variouſly cited by Authors, hath given occaſion to the Miſtake of Angelus Politianus, who ſuppoſed, with others, that Nymphodorus had writ more Books than one, though indeed the Book ſo differently quoted, be but one and the ſame, which the Learned Voſſius well perceived. Clem. Alexandr. Voſſ. de Hiſt. Græc.

NYMPHS, heathen Deities, whom the Poets feigned to be the Daughters of Oceanus and Tethys; they were ſuppoſed to preſide over, and have the Care of Waters, and were diſtinguiſh'd into Nereides and Naiades; the Nereides took care of the Sea-waters, and the Naiades of Rivers and Fountains. They gave alſo the Name of Nymphs to the Country Deities; their Dryades and Hamadryades were Nymphs of Foreſts, their Napeæ Nymphs of the Meadows and Groves, and their Oreades Nymphs of the Mountains. The Opinion of the Greeks concerning Nymphs, as well as their Name, was originally derived from the Phœnicians: for according to the Teſtimony of Porphyrius, in his Book de Antr. Nymph. all the Souls of men were called Nymphes, the word Nymph being the ſame with Nepheſh in Hebrew, which ſignifies a Soul. For they believed that the Souls of the Dead wandered about the Places where they had taken their greateſt Delight whilſt yet joined to their Bodies; which gave occaſion not only to the Eaſtern; but alſo other Nations to ſacrifice in Groves, and under green Trees, as ſuppoſing them to be the haunts of departed Souls. Thus the Greeks were of opinion that their Fore-fathers, the ancient Inhabitants of their Country, who had lived in Groves and Woods were become Dryades; thoſe that dwelt on the Mountains Oreades;

the Inhabitants of the Sea-ſhore, Nereides; and thoſe who had lived near Rivers and Fountains, Naiades, Roſinus Ant. Rom.

NYNE, a River in Northamptonſhire, which falls at Crowland into the Weland; and waters in its courſe North-eaſtwards Northampton, Higham-Ferrars, Thrapſton, Oundle and Peterborough, all five in the ſame Shire.

NYSA, a City of Arabia, or as others, of that part of Egypt bordering upon Arabia, wherein Bacchus, ſays Diodorus, was Educated by Nymphs; whence it is that Dionyſius, a Greek Name for Bacchus, is Derived of Διὸς Divine, and Nyſa the place where he was born, q. d. The God of Nyſa. The Chronicon Alexandrinum p. 80. tells us, 'tis put for Sina by a Metatheſis or tranſpoſition of Letters. Moſes ſojourned 40 Years in the Deſarts of Arabia, in which is, mount Sinai, where God Deliver'd him the Law in Thunder and Lightning: And the Heathen feign Bacchus to be brought up from his Childhood in Arabia, where mount Nyſa is of Greateſt note. In which is to be obſerv'd the Conſent or Agreement of the Chriſtian Chronology and Heatheniſh Mythology. Hoffman. Voſſius. 'Tis likewiſe the Name of a City, as alſo of a Mountain in India.

NYSA, Bacchus's Nurſe, who, according to Pliny, was bury'd near Scythopolis. Plin.

NYSLOT, a City of Sweden, in the D. of Finland, the Metropolis of the Principality of Savolaxia. It ſtands among Lakes and Marſhes, 60 miles North of Wisburg, and 25 Eaſt of Abo; Lon. 51. 35. Lat. 61. 52.

O This Letter amongſt the Latins is ſometimes put inſtead of E. as Vorſus, for Verſus; Voſter, for Veſter; and for U, as Servos, for Servus; Volgos, for Vulgus. It hath alſo been uſed inſtead of the Dipththong AU, as Plodo, for Plaudo. And is beſides an Interjection of Admiration, Calling, Deſiring, Deriſion, and Indignation, and a Symbol of Eternity, becauſe it hath no End. Chilperick, King of France, would needs add a great O, anſwerable to the Greek Omega, to the French Alphabet, as alſo Phi, Chi, Theta, which he commanded to be uſed under ſevere Penalties, but without effect. Gregoire de Tours.

OANNES: See DAGON.

OASIS. Two Cities of this Name in the midſt of Libya, according to Strabo, whereof the leaſt is called Alzagar, the greater Gademez; which laſt, according to Herodotus, was Seven Days Journey from the Egyptian Thebes, towards the W. Baudrand makes the Name of the greater to be Alguechet, more towards the S. and the leſſer Eleocath, or Eleochet, to the N. both of them in the Region of Barca. They are ſaid to abound with Water and Wine, notwithſtanding their Situation in the midſt of the Deſerts of Libya. This Place is fam'd for the Exile of Eugenius and Macarius, by Julian the Apoſtate, St Hilarion's voluntary Retirement, and Neſtorius's Baniſhment thither. Bochart.

OATLANDS, a Houſe belonging to the King in Surry, near to which the Romans croſſed the Thames on Foot to encounter the Britiſh King, Caſibilan, who ſtood with a great Force to oppoſe them on the other ſide, having fenced the Bank with ſharp Stakes, of which he had driven a conſiderable number in the Channel, to prevent the coming over of the Romans at this Ford, which otherwiſe they could not have diſcovered; but entring the ſame, they waded to the Chin, and put the Britains to flight. The Place to this Day is called Coway Stakes. Cam. Brit.

OAXIS, or OAXUS, a River in the Iſland of Candia, now call'd Armir.

OBDORA, a large Province of the Nothern Moſcovy, on the Frozen-ſea, between the River Obi to the E. from whence it is named, and the Province of Petzora to the W. There is never a City in it, but only ſome Forts, the Moſcovites have lately built there on the Sea-ſhore, the Hollanders, who lately diſcovered the moſt Northren Coaſts of it, having given it the Name of New-Weſt-Friezſland. This Province derives its Name from the River Obb, on both ſides of whoſe Banks it lieth. It was won to the Obedience of the Ruſſians in the Reign of Theodore, the Son of John, great Duke of Moſcovy, at which time the People had no Cities, lived in Hords or Companies, eat the Beaſts they took, knew no Corn nor Bread. They were very good Archers, ſharpning their Arrows with Fiſh-bones, with which Bones and the Sinews of Beaſts they ſewed Furrs together for their Cloathing, which they wore inward in the Winter, and outward in the Summer, covering their Houſes with Elk-skins. By this Theodore were ſome Caſtles built on the River's ſide, to which he ſent condemned Perſons, and brought it into the Form of a Petty Kingdom. Notwithſtanding this Subjection to the Moſcovite, they continue ſtill in their old Idolatry, worſhipping an ancient Idol in form of an old Woman, holding in each Arm a Child, and a third at her Feet, called by them Zlatu Bahus, or, The Golden old Wife, to which they offer precious Furrs, ſacrifice Harts, and therewith conſult touching things to come.

OBED, one of the Fore-fathers of Jeſus Chriſt according to the Fleſh; he was the Son of Booz and Ruth, and the Father of Jeſſe, the Father of David. Obed was born about An. Mun. 2759, his Father then being about 95 Years of Age. Ruth 4. S. Matthew 1.

OBED-EDOM, an Iſraelite of the Tribe of Levi, who had the Happineſs to lodge the Ark of God for Three Months together, for which God bleſſed his Family and all his Concerns. II Sam. ch 6. v. 10, 11, 12.

OBELISKS, Theſe are a ſort of ſquare Pillars terminating in a Point, like little Pyramids, and engraven on all ſides with Hieroglyphicks, or myſterious Characters. The Arabians call them Meſſalets Pharaon, that is to ſay, Pharaoh's Needles, becauſe they were erected by the firſt Kings of Egypt, who all of them bore that Name, as the Roman Emperors that of Cæſar. The Egyptian Prieſts call'd them The Fingers of the Sun, becauſe they were conſecrated to that Planet. The firſt Obeliſk was raiſed by King Manuſtar, who introduced the uſe of them about An. Mun. 2604. His Son Sothis erected 12 of them at Heliopolis. Simarres, or Simannes, ſet up more of them about the time of David, An. Mun. 2986. King Mavres, or Afres, cauſed one to be made without Emblems or Characters, An. Mun. 3021, which the Emperor Claudius cauſed to be tranſported to Rome. King Pſammitichus erected one at Heliopolis, with many Hiroglyphicks, 807 Years before the Birth of Chriſt. Nectabanus, or according to others Necho, 740 Years before Chriſt, cauſed a great Obeliſk to be ſet up at Memphis. Many of theſe Obeliſks were by order of the Roman Emperors tranſported from Egypt to Alexandria, and from thence to Rome, where ſome of them are ſtill to be ſeen. And more would be, but that Cambyſes, King of Perſia, An. Mund. 3528, having conquered Egypt, deſtroyed all the Obeliſks he could meet with any where, and baniſh'd, or put to death, all the Egyptian Prieſts, who were the only Men that underſtood the dumb Language of their Hieroglyphical Characters. Theſe Emblems generally contained great Secrets, and Divine Myſteries, known to very few. The Obeliſks differed much as to their Coſtlineſs, Magnitude and Magnificence, for they were not all of them erected by Kings, but ſome by the Prieſts alſo, and Perſons of Quality. The leſſer ſort of them were not above 15 foot high, whereas the others were from 50 to 100 and 140. And to the end that theſe Hieroglyphicks might endure a long time, they made them of a very hard Stone which the Latins call Stone of Thebes, and the Italians, Granito Roſſo, a ſort of ſpeckled Marble, as hard as Porphyry, which they dug out of a Quarry South of Thebes, towards the Cataracts of Nile. And notwithſtanding that Egypt abounds with other Marble, yet it is obſerv'd, that all the Obeliſks are only of this ſort, which it is ſuppoſed the Egyptians did not without ſome Myſtery; for all their Obeliſks being dedicated to the Sun, as by their pointed Figure they repreſented the Beams of that Planet, ſo they alſo made choice of a Matter that was ſolar. For this Marble being ſpotted with a bright red, a Violet colour, with little Specks of Chryſtal, of blew, aſh-colour and black; the Egyptians fanſied it to repreſent the Sun's Action on the Four Elements; the red and violet Colour expreſſing the Fire, the Cryſtal the Air, the Blue the Water, and the Aſh-colour and Black the Earth. So that we may well conclude, that the Obeliſks that are found of any other Marble, were not made by the Prieſts of Egypt, but erected by the Egyptians, after the Baniſhment of their Prieſts by Cambyſes, or by other Nations. Such a-like Obeliſk was that which the Phænicians dedicated to the Sun, whoſe Top was ſpherical, and its Matter very different from thoſe of Egypt, and ſuch likewiſe was that which the Emperor Heliogabalus cauſed to be tranſported from Syria to Rome. Auguſtus order'd Two of theſe Obeliſks to be tranſported to Rome, and a Third was brought thither by the Emperor Conſtantius; this laſt is deſcrib'd by Ammianus Marcellinus, and is ſtill to be ſeen: It was firſt erected by Rhameſſes, King of Egypt, and being thrown down at Rome, was ſet up again by Sixtus Quintus. Vita di Siſto de Greg. Leti. Dapper's Deſcription of Africa. Ammian. Marcell. Lib. 18.

OBENGIR, Lat. Ochus, a River which riſes near the Mogul's Country, watereth many Provinces in Perſia, falls into the Oxus above Bichend, and is the N. E. boundary of Perſia towards Tartary.

OBERWESD, a ſmall City of Germany, in the Lower Circle of the Rhine, and Archbiſhoprick of Triers. It was once Imperial, but is now ſubject to the Elector. It ſtands on the Rhine, 4 m. N. of Bacharach, and 20 S. of Coblentz. Lon. 27. 7. Lat. 50. 3.

OBER-WESEL, Lat. Ficelia, Veſalia, a City in Germany upon the Rhine, Imperial and Free, until in 1312 it fell into the Hands of the Elector of Triers. It's ſituate between Bacharach to the South, and Boppat to the North; memorable for S. Werner's Death, ſlain here by the Jews in 1287. The Mother of Alexander, the Roman Emperor, is alſo ſaid to have been aſſaſſinated here.

OBI, or OBB, Lat. Obius, a vaſt River on the Eaſt of Moſcovy, formerly called Karambuc, which riſing out of the Lake of Katayſco, and running Northwards, ſeparates Europe from Aſia; and being ſwoln with the Waters of ſeveral Rivers, it falls with a great Current into the Frozen-Sea, between the Province of Obdora to the W. and Samojeda to the E. This River falls into the Frozen-Sea by 6 Mouths. Near which it is 16 Poliſh Miles over, and more than Two Days ſailing. It abounds with Fiſh, and thoſe who live upon it pay Tribute to the Ruſſians. It is thought that from the mouth of this River the N. E. Paſſage into China might beſt be diſcovered, if the Voyage were undertaken in the Spring.

Collected from ſeveral Hiſtorians and other Authentick Records, by Denys Molony, of Gray's-Inn, Eſq;

OBRIEN is a moſt Noble Antient Iriſh Family. All the Nobility and Gentry of the Name are originally Deſcended from Brian Boraimhe; by ſome Authors call'd Brian Borons, by others Brian Boravius, or Boruma; who was Proclaimed King of all Ireland about the beginning of the Eleventh Century. All the Iriſh Chronologiſts and Antiquaries do as unanimouſly agree in tracing this Monarch's Pedigree in a direct Line from Heber, or as ſome call him Hiberus (who, jointly with his Brother Hermon, was the firſt King of the Mileſian Race that ever Reign'd in Ireland) as their Hiſtorians do, in repreſenting him the greateſt Prince both for his Wiſdom, Piety, Valour and Juſtice, that ever ſince the beginning of that moſt Ancient Monarchy ſat upon the Iriſh Throne. At his Firſt (Second I call it, for the Danes made War there firſt for Forty Years, and were beat out by a Stratagem: But they return'd afterwards into Ireland with a great Army, and continued there for One Hundred and Fifty Years, till beat by Brian Boraimhe at Clantarfe,) coming to the Crown, he found his Kingdom engaged in a ſecond bloody and moſt barbarous War, of One Hundred and Thirty Years continuance, with the Danes; who formerly invaded and poſſeſſed themſelves of a great part thereof, and were then endeavouring to Conquer the whole Nation. He ſaw, at the ſame time, ſeveral of his Subjects, even ſome of the Iriſh Provincial Kings themſelves joined in a moſt unnatural Confederacy with the Common Enemy. Whereupon, without loſs of time, he raiſed that Brave, Numerous, Royal Army, at the Head of which he in Perſon (always behaving himſelf like a very Wiſe, Great General, and a moſt Valiant Soldier) fought againſt the Danes and their Confederates, no leſs than Twenty Four Battles; and that with ſo good Succeſs, that towards the end of his Reign, no Danes were left in Ireland, except ſome Tradeſmen, Artificers and Merchants, which, for the Advantage of the Country, he ſuffer'd to continue there. Whereupon, having thus glorioufly in all appearance ended the War, and the Kingdom beginning to be in a very flouriſhing condition; the King having firſt neglected nothing that might promote the due Adminiſtration of Juſtice amongſt his Subjects, apply'd himſelf altogether to Pious Works, as Building of Churches, Founding and Endowing of Monaſteries, Erecting of Free-Schools and Colleges, in order thereby to Encourage and Advance that Sanctity and Learning, which the Iriſh Nation was ſo Famous for in thoſe days over all Europe. But after this Calm came a great Storm: For Maolmore Mac Murchoe, Provincial King of Leinſter, being upon a very ſlight occaſion diſguſted, ſent to the King of Denmark for Succours; aſſuring him, that he would join his Forces upon their Landing, with a conſiderable Army, and head them againſt Brian Boraimhe, the Danes mortal Enemy. The King of Denmark readily comply'd, and ſent a great Army, commanded by his two Sons Carolus Knutus and Andreas. They landed in Dublin and were joined by the King of Leinſter; thereupon the ſaid King of Leinſter and Daniſh Generals ſent a Herald to the King of Ireland, bidding him Defiance (as the cuſtom was then) and Challenging him to fight at Clantarfe, a Place within two Miles of Dublin. The King of Ireland thereupon, with what ſpeed he could joined together all the Forces of Munſter, Connaught and Meath (thoſe of Ulſter he did not ſend for, imagining himſelf ſtrong enough already) and marched directly to the Place appointed. Both Armies being in ſight, the Signal was given of that Famous Battel of Clantarfe, ſo remarkable in Hiſtory, which put an end to all the Daniſh hopes in Ireland, and which was the Twenty Fifth Battel fought in Perſon by Brian Boraimhe, againſt the Danes and their Confederates in that Kingdom. The King of Meath and the Forces under his Command, envying Brian Boraimhe's Succeſs and Greatneſs, treacherouſly ſtood Neuter during the Battle. Prince Murchoe O Brien, the King's Eldeſt Son, whom Sir James Ware, in his Book entitled, Antiquitates Hiberniæ, calls Murcadus, ſhewed himſelf that day nothing inferior to his Father, either in Courage or Conduct. Firſt he prevailed with the King his Father, who was Fourſcore and Eight Years of Age, to retire and ſit in his Tent in ſight of the Battle, and took upon himſelf the Management of the Fight; which he did with ſo much Skill and Bravery, that the Iriſh Hiſtorians never mention his Name without giving him great Encomiums. The Succeſs of the Battle for a great while was very doubtful, but at laſt the Advantage appeared on Prince Murchoe O Brien's ſide, the Enemy began to yield, and a great ſlaughter was made amongſt them, when unfortunately Prince Murchoe and his Son Terlogh, otherwiſe called Terduluacus O Brien were kill'd. Which the old King perceiving from his Tent, he came out and gave the neceſſary Orders, which ſo encouraged his Army, that they ſoon gained the Field of Battle, and entirely routed the Danes and their Confederates: but whilſt the Enemy were purſued by the King's Army, he being much grieved for the loſs of his Son and Grandſon, and quite ſpent and fatigued, retired to his Tent; where, before any of his Army returned from their eager purſuit, he was barbarouſly murdered by a Party of Danes, that ran that way to avoid his Troops and ſave their lives. In this Battle were kill'd of the King of Ireland's ſide, beſides himſelf, his Son and Grandſon, ſeven little Kings, and moſt of the Nobility of Munſter and Connaught, and Four Thouſand of inferior degree. On the other ſide were kill'd the King of Leinſter, who occaſioned the Battle, with his principal Nobility, and Three Thouſand Common Soldiers; of the Danes were kill'd the King of Denmark's ſaid two Sons, and Ten Thouſand Seven Hundred Danes beſides: this Battle was fought on Good Friday, being the 22d. day of April, in the Year of our Lord 1034. After this Battle the Danes never attempted to invade Ireland, but once, under the Command of Magnus King of Denmark, when Muriertagh O Brien, Brian Boraimhe's Great Grandſon Reigned in Chief there: but Magnus having to do with an O Brien, had no better Succeſs than his Anceſtors. He landed with part of his Army; but both he and they were kill'd before the reſt could land, which ſo daunted and diſcouraged thoſe remaining on Board, that they returned immediately without more ado to Denmark. Brian Boraimhe left two Sons, Tieg and Donogh O Brien. Donogh had a Command in the Battle of Clantarfe; and with great Bravery and Conduct brought up the Rear of the haraſs'd and wounded Troops, commonly called Dalgeaſs, as they marched after Clantarfe Battle to Thomond, through their Enemy the new King of Leinſter's Country, and were barbarouſly attacked by the Weſt Munſter and Leinſter Troops, who were no leſs than ten freſh Men for one that Donogh O Brien had: but they found that what O Brien's wounded and fatigued Troops wanted in Number, was ſupply'd by his Conduct and their Bravery and Reſolution; as appears, to omit other Inſtances, by the following Paſſage. When the General, Donogh O Brien, and his Dalgeaſs, perceived that they muſt in their own defence, fight a freſh Army of ten times their number, all compoſed of their own Countrymen, whoſe Lives, Religion, Eſtates and Liberties they juſt came from ſecuring to them, by their Valour, and the Conduct and Bravery of their deceaſed Princes and Fellow-Soldiers. When I ſay, they found this; the weak and wounded Men amongſt them, rather than loſe their Lives tamely, and be uſeleſs to their un-wounded Companions, prevailed with them to fix and faſten, deep in the Ground where they were to fight, great long Piles or Poſts of Wood, and then tye a wounded Soldier with his back to each Pile, with two of their un-wounded Friends ſtanding on each ſide of 'em, that whilſt thereby they were kept from falling, their hands might be at work againſt their Aſſailants: which unuſual Preparation, of Men ſo ſtrangely devoting themſelves to Death, made ſuch an impreſſion upon their numerous Enemy, that they durſt not attack them, notwithſtanding all their Generals could do or ſay to perſwade them. Geoffrey Keting, in his Hiſtory of Ireland ſays, That this ſame Donogh O Brien was King of Ireland for Fifty two Years; that he kept the Provincial Kings under, and defeated ſeveral of them from time to time. Gratianus Lucius ſays, He Uſurped the Monarchy, which of Right belonged to his Elder Brother Tieg, and his Iſſue; the ſenſe of which Injuſtice probably made him go in Pilgrimage to Rome and reſide there in St. Stephen's Abby till he dy'd. Tieg was murdered, leaving Iſſue, Terlogh, or as Sir James Ware calls him Trideluacus O Brien, who Marry'd O Heyns Daughter. He was Monarch of all Ireland, Reigned Twelve Years peaceably; there being at that time no War from abroad, nor any Trouble given him, nor his Title diſputed by any at home. He had Iſſue two Sons, Dermoid and Muriertagh O Brien. He dy'd in the 77th Year of his Age, and in the Year of our Lord 1074. Soon after his Death, Muriertagh O Brien, the Younger of the two Sons, was Proclaimed King of Ireland; which he did not enjoy long in Peace, being at one time attacked by the King of Tyrconnel, who diſputed the Sovereignty of Ireland with him; and at another time by his own Brother Dermoid. But Muriertagh being a brave warlike Prince, maintained his Ground very well, (but not without great devaſtation of the Country and the ſpilling of much Blood) till about the 20th. Year of his Reign. In the Year of our Lord 1119. he reſigned his Crown, and turned Monk in the Monaſtery of Liſmore. He was the laſt Monarch of that Family, and the King who Reigned in Ireland when Magnus King of Denmark and his Party were kill'd there as is before related. In a ſhort time after O Connor, King of Connaught, did uſurp the Sovereignty and Title of Monarch over all Ireland, not without ſome oppoſition given him by Terlogh O Brien, Son to the aboveſaid Dermoid (to whom of Right the Monarchy belonged) who at Moinmhoir in Munſter, with the Forces of that Province only, fought O Connor, and the Troops of all the three other Provinces or Diviſions under his Command; where, although O Brien and his Army performed their part to admiration, yet they were forced at length to yield to that great inequality of number. This Sovereignty thus obtained, did not continue above Two and Fifty Years in the O Connor Family. When Henry II. landed in Ireland (of which all our Engliſh Hiſtorians give an Account,) being invited thither by Mac Murchoe King of Leinſter, one of the Family and Poſterity of the afore-mentioned King of Leinſter, who invited the Danes into Ireland, and was killed at the Battle of Clantarſe. It is well known how tamely O Connor ſubmitted to King Henry II. and gave up the Cudgels without ſtriking a Stroak. Terlogh O Brien died, leaving Iſſue Donald O Brien, a very pious good Prince, of whom Waræus ſays in his Antiquitates Hiberniæ, Nec ſilentio præteriri debet ex Familia O Brienonum, Donaldus O Brien, Rex Lymericenſis, ob largitiones non ſolum Eccleſiæ Laonenſi, ſed quam plurimis etiam aliis conceſſas, ab Hibernicis multum celebratus. He met Henry II. at Caſhel, and ſubmitted to him by the name of Donald O Brien, King of Lymerick, as appears by an Iriſh Act of Parliament made in the 11th. of Queen Elizabeth, for the Attainder of Shan O Neale. Iriſh Statutes, fol. 237. David's Diſcovery of the State of Ireland, fol. 16. King Henry III. in a Grant made to O Brien, which is to be found in the Tower, 6 H. 3. chart. M. 2. ſtiles him King of Thomond. The Grant begins thus, Rex Regi Toſmond Salutem, Conceſſimus vobis terram Toſmond, quam prius tenuiſtis per firmam centum & triginta Marcarum, tenendum de nobis uſque ad ætatem noſtram. The chief of the O Brien Family was ſince conſtantly ſtiled King of Thomond, until Morrogh O Brien reſign'd his Title and Principality to King Henry VIII. and was by Letters-Patents created Earl of Thomond during Life. He was Son to Terlogh, or Tirlachus O Brien, of whom I find Sir James Ware, in his Antiquities of Ireland makes mention twice; in one place he hath theſe Words, Nec omittendus Cornelius O Brien, Hibernicè Connor, filius Tirlachi, Thomoniæ Dynaſta: in another place, theſe; Prælium in Thomonia conſerunt Petrus Butlerus, & Tirlachus O Brien, Thomoniæ Dynaſta, ſed Butlerus devictus & ſui in fugam verſi ſunt, multiq; occiderunt, &c. Annales Hen. 7. per Jacobum Waræum, fol. 68. This Morrogh, Earl of Thomond, had Three Elder Brothers, Connor Tieg, and Donogh. Connor the Eldeſt Brother, who conveyed his Deſcent in a direct Line from Brien Boraimbe, was the laſt of Twelve Princes of the O Brien Family, ſince the Landing of King Henry II. in Ireland, that reigned ſucceſſively in Thomond, and were ſtiled only either Kings of Lymerick, or Thomond, inſtead of being Sovereign Monarchs of all Ireland, as their Anceſtors deſervedly were. The ſaid Earl's Two Brothers, Tieg and Donogh, died without Iſſue: His ſaid Brother Connor, the laſt King of Thomond died, leaving Iſſue Donogh O Brien a Minor, to whom of Right did belong the Principality, whereof the ſaid Morrogh his Uncle poſſeſſed himſelf, without having any other Right or Title thereunto, than what he got by Violence and Power, though the Pretence was a moſt unreaſonable Cuſtom, called Taniſtry, then uſed in that Kingdom, but now aboliſhed, whereby the Eſtate and Title was to deſcend for Life only upon the Eldeſt and Worthieſt Man of the Blood, and Sirname of him that died laſt ſeized, ſeniori & digniſſimo viro ſanguinis & cognominis; (which is not to be found in any Book, but appears by the Letters Patents) but the King of England, who was well pleaſed with Morrogh O Brien's ſurrendring or reſigning up his Principality into his Hands, and ſenſible withal of the Injuſtice done to the ſaid Minor Donogh O*Brien*, uſed this Expedient to pleaſe both: By his Letters Patents he created Morrogh, Earl of Thomond for his Life; and by the ſame Patent he appointed the ſaid Minor Donogh to be Earl of Thomond alſo during his Life, from and after his Uncle Morrogh's Death; and for the preſent he was created Baron of Ibrickan, to him and his Heirs Males, both which Titles the ſaid Donogh enjoy'd for ſome time after his ſaid Uncle Morrogh's Death; but in King Edward VI's time he ſurrendred the Letters-Patents, whereby he was created Earl of Thomond for Life; and the King granted in return, by another Patent, the Earldom of Thomond to him and his Heirs Males, by virtue of which Patent Henry O Brien, the now Earl of Thomond enjoys his Title, as being Heir Male to the ſaid Donogh. Morrogh O Brien, firſt Earl of Thomond died, leaving Iſſue Dermoid, and Tieg O Brien. But Morrogh having no Pretence, by Patent, nor even by their Taniſtry Cuſtom, to the Title or Eſtate of the Earl of Thomond for any longer time than for his Life, his Son Dermoid O Brien had neither; But to make him ſome amends he was by the King of England created Baron of Inchiquin, to him and his Heirs Males. Dermoid died, leaving Iſſue Morrogh O Brien, from whom in a direct Line is deſcended William O Brien, now Earl of Inchiquin. But how, and by whom Henry O Brien, now Earl of Thomond, Connor O Brien, Eſq; his next Heir Apparent, and the Lord Viſcount Clare do convey their Deſcents from the ſaid Donogh O Brien, ſecond Earl of Thomond, or the preſent Earl of Inchiquin, and Sir Donat O Brien, of Limeneach, Baronet, from the ſaid Morrogh O Brien, firſt Earl of Thomond, will appear by the following Genealogical Account of their ſeveral Families ſince they were laſt united, and but one Family in their common Anceſtor Terlogh O Brien King of Thomond Firſt, I ſhall begin with Connor O Brien, the laſt Prince or King of Thomond, who by what already is ſaid, appears plainly to be the Chief of the Elder Houſe, or Line, and conſequently the right Heir of Brien Boraimbe. Connor O Brien, the laſt of the O Brien Family, that was ſtiled King of Thomond, was Son and Heir to the ſaid Terlogh O Brien alſo, King of Thomond; he married Margaret Burke, and had Iſſue by her Two Sons, Donogh and Daniel; Donogh, the Elder Son, was Second Earl of Thomond (it appears before how he came not to be the Firſt Earl of Thomond) he married Olen Butler, Daughter to the Earl of Ormond, and had Iſſue by her Connor O Brien, afterwards Earl of Thomond, and died; Connor, Earl of Thomond, married Macc Ibrienara's Daughter, and had Iſſue by her Three Sons, whereof Donat, or Donogh O Brien, afterwards Earl of Thomond, was the Eldeſt. Tieg O Brien, from whom is lineally deſcended Connor, or Cornelius O Brien, now next Heir Apparent to the preſent Earl of Thomond, was the Second Son; and Daniel O Brien, Lord Viſcount Clare, from whom is lineally deſcended Colonel Charles O Brien, now Lord Viſcount Clare, Son to Daniel O Brien, late Lord Viſcount Clare, and Philadelphia Leonard, Siſter to the now Earl of Suſſex, was the Third Son. The Eldeſt Son, Donat, or Donogh O Brien, commonly called the great Earl of Thomond, was Preſident of Munſter, Privy Counſellor in Ireland, and very much in Favour both with Queen Elizabeth and King James the Firſt: He was firſt married to the Lord Roch's Daughter, and had Iſſue by her the Lady Margaret, who married Cormack Macc Carthy, Son and Heir to the Lord Muskry. He afterwards married the Lord Kildare's Siſter, by whom he had Two Sons, Henry Lord O Brien, Baron of Ibrickan, &c. and Sir Barnaby O Brien. The Elder Son, Henry O Brien, married the Daughter of Sir William Brereton, Knight, and died, leaving Five Daughters, the Ladies Mary, Margaret, Elizabeth, Anne, and Honora O Brien; but being dead without Iſſue Male, the Title of Earl of Thomond deſcended to his Brother Barnably O Brien. The Lady Mary, the ſaid Henry Lord Ibrickan's, and afterwards Earl of Thomond's Eldeſt Daughter, was married to Charles Cokain, Lord Viſcount Cullen; the Lady Margaret married Edward Sommerſet, Earl of Glamergan, and Marquis of Worceſter; The Lady Elizabeth married to Dutton Lord Gerard of Bromley; the Lady Anne (of whom hereafter) was married to her own firſt Couſin, Henry Earl of Thomond; the Lady Honora was firſt married to Sir Francis Englefield, and afterwards to Sir Robert Howard, Son to the Earl of Barkſhire. Barnaby O Brien, Earl of Thomond, had Iſſue, Henry, afterwards Earl of Thomond, and the Lady Penelope O Brien, who married the Earl of Peterborow, lately deceaſed without Iſſue Male (her Grace the Dutcheſs of Norfolk being now their only Daughter.) Henry O Brien, who was Earl of Thomond after his Father Barnaby's Death, married, as is aforeſaid, the Lady Anne O Brien his firſt Couſin, and had Iſſue by her Henry Lord Ibrickan, who married the Lady Katherine Stuart, Siſter to the late Duke of Richmond, by whom he had Iſſue, Donogh, Mary, and Katharine O Brien; Donogh married the Lady Sophia, Daughter to the Earl of Danby; the Lady Mary O Brien married the Earl of Kildare, and the Lady Katharine married the Lord Viſcount Cornbury; this Henry Lord Ibrickan died before his Father, and ſo was never Earl of Thomond. The Lady Anne O Brien, the ſaid Henry Earl of Thomond's firſt Lady being dead, he married Sarah the now Counteſs Dowager of Thomond, Daughter to Sir Francis Ruſſel of Chipnam in Cambridgeſhire; he had Iſſue by her, beſides a Son and a Daughter that died unmarried, the Lady Penelope O Brien, now married to the Lord Walden, Son and Heir Apparent to the Earl of Suffolk; the Lady Mary O Brien married to Sir Matthew Dudley of Clopton in Northamptonſhire, Baronet; and Henry Horatio, Lord O Brien, who married the Lady Henrietta Sommerſet, Daughter to his Grace the Duke of Beaufort; he had Iſſue by her, beſides one that's dead, Henry O Brien, now Earl of Thomond, and the Lady Mary O Brien; the ſaid Henry Horatio, Lord O Brien, dying before his Father, was never Earl of Thomond. Now as to the Earl of Inchiquin's Genealogy ſince the time of his ſaid Anceſtor Terlogh O Brien, who was the laſt King of Thomond but one, it is as followeth: The ſaid Terlogh had Iſſue, Morrogh O Brien, younger Brother to the ſaid Connor O Brien, laſt King of Thomond. The ſaid Morrogh was created by the King of England Earl of Thomond for Life; after his Death that Title went to the Elder Line for the Reaſon aforeſaid. He died, leaving Iſſue Two Sons, Dermoid, who was the Elder, and Tieg O Brien, from whom is deſcended Sir Donat O Brien of Limeneach, Baronet, who beſides being of the firſt Quality in Ireland, is a Gentleman of a plentiful Fortune, and great Intereſt in that Kingdom. Dermoid married Margaret O Brien, Daughter to Donogh Earl of Thomond, and was created Baron of Inchiquin; he had Iſſue Morrogh O Brien, afterwards Baron of Inchiquin, who married Annabella, Daughter to the Baron of Delvin, and had Iſſue Morrogh O Brien; the ſaid Morrogh being alſo Baron of Inchiquin, married Margaret, Daughter of Sir Thomas Cuſack of Liſmullin in the County of Meath, by whom he had Iſſue Dermoid O Brien; Dermoid Lord Inchiquin married the Daughter of Edmund Fitz Edmund, by whom he had Iſſue Morrogh O Brien; this Morrogh O Brien, on account of great Services done to the Crown of England, was created Earl of Inchiquin; he was reputed as great a Captain, and as fine a Gentleman as moſt of his time; he married Elizabeth, Daughter to Sir William St. Leger, and had Iſſue by her, William O Brien, afterwards Earl of Inchiquin, and Governour of Jamaica, who married the Earl of Orery's Daughter, by whom he had Iſſue William O Brien, now Earl of Inchiquin. The Right Honourable the Earl of Thomond bears four Coats quarterly: Firſt, Gules, Three Lions Paſſant Guardant per pale, Or, and Argent: The Second, Argent, Three Piles, Gules: The Third, Gules, a Pheon Argent: The Fourth and laſt is France and England quarterly, within a Border, Gobony, Argent, and Azure, all enſign'd with an Earl's Coronet: His Lordſhip's Creſt is placed above a Helmet befiting his Degree, on a Wreath, Argent, and Gules, a Man's Arm holding the Sword, all proper. His Honour's Supporters are Two Lions Rampant Guardant Argent, ſtanding on an Eſchrole, with this Motto, Vigneur de deſſus. *Peter Walſh's Hiſt. Ireland. Acta Sanctor. Hib. Hackluit Chron. OBSEQUENCE (Julius) a Latin Author, living, as far as we can diſcover, a little before the Empire of Honorius: He wrote a Book of Prodigies, by which it appears, he was a Heathen; There's only part of this Book extant, which was printed by Aldus Manutius, in 1508. Conradus Lycoſthenes made a Supplement to this Treatiſe, and mark'd his own Additions with Aſteriſms, but it has been ſince publiſh'd without Diſtinction, as if it belong'd all to one Author. Sebaſtian Conrad. in Quæſt. p 41. *Voſſius de Hiſt. OBSERVATOIRE, a noble Structure built by the preſent King of France in Faubourg St. Jacques, or ſuburb of S. James, at Paris, to obſerve the Stars and Planets, and make other Mathematical Experiments. This Building is four ſquare, anſwering the four Cardinal Points of the World, raiſed eighty Foot from the Ground, and its Foundation ſunk as deep. It's three Story high, with a Terraſs on the Top, where one can diſcover the whole Horizon is flat and even; the Stair-caſe is of a very curious Contrivance, being after the manner of a Screw or winding Stairs, and ordered ſo, that from the Bottom there is a full ſight of the Stars that paſs the Zenith. This Obſervatory is well furniſhed with Aſtronomical Inſtruments for Obſervations by Day and Night. Mr. Caſſini, a Member of the Royal Academy of Sciences, makes ſeveral New Diſcories, and inſtructs Beginners, to ſend them into foreign Countries, to make Obſervations conformable to thoſe done at Paris, and learn the Longitude and Latitude exactly, to perfect Geography. Le Maire Paris ancient & noveau.

OCCA, a River of Moſcovy, which riſing in the Borders of Crim Tartary, runs from S. to N. and waters the Dutchy of Worotin, Coluga, Kolum, or Columna, ten German Miles W. of Moſcow, and taking in the Cleuſma, and the Moxa, at Niſinovogrod, falls into the Volga, beneath which the Stream is deep, and at Dydend, in 1669, a large Ship called The Eagle was built to ſecure the Trade of the Caſpian Sea, to which it leads.

OCCAM (William) an Engliſhman and Franciſcan Friar, the Diſciple of Scotus, was the Head or Captain of the Nominals, ſo called, and had the Name beſtowed upon him of Doctor Invincibilis, Venerabilis Inceptor, & Doctor Singularis. He lived in the XIVth. Century. He took part with the Emperor Lewis of Bavaria, and writ againſt Pope John XXIId. and his Succeſſors. It was reported of him, that he, with Michael Ceſenus, General of his Order, taught, That neither Jeſus Chriſt, nor any of his Apoſtles, ever poſſeſſed any thing either in common, or in particular. This gave riſe to the pleaſant Queſtion called, Pain des Cordeliers, that is, Whether the Property of thoſe things which conſume by daily uſe, as Bread and Wine, belong to them, or only the ſimple Uſe, without the Property, which were both condemned by John the XXIId. However this Diſpute of the Franciſcans was not ſo Chimerical as it ſeemed, ſeeing the Rules of their Order allow them no Poſſeſſions. Nicholas the IIId. who was of this Society, deſigned to enrich it, and that he might not thwart the Rules of their Conſtitution, ſaid, They ſhould only have the Uſe of what he gave them, but the Principal ſhould belong to the Church. Bibl. Univerſ. XI. Tom. Fuller adds, That Occam gave a mortal Wound to the Pope's Temporal Power over Princes. That he was thereupon excommunicated, condemned for a Heretick by the Learned of Paris; and his Books burnt. Yet he was afterwards reſtored to his State, and the Repute of an acute Schoolman. Luther was well verſed in his Works.

OCCASION, a Goddeſs honoured by the Heathens of old, as the Superintendant of the fitteſt Seaſon wherein to accompliſh any Buſineſs; and was commonly repreſented in the form of a naked Woman, bald behind, with a long Lock on her Forehead, with one of her Feet in the Air, and the other on a Wheel, holding a Razor in one hand, and a Sail in the other; her Feet were alſo wing'd, and the Wheel in continual motion, to ſhew that Opportunity is always inconſtant and momentary, ſo that if not made uſe of when it offers, it ſoon ſlips away, leaving Repentance behind it as a perpetual Companion.

OCCATOR, a Heathen God, and Preſident of that Part of Husbandry which conſiſts in breaking the Clods, and harrowing the Ground; from the word occare, which ſignifies to break the Clods. Servius.

OCEANUS, or OCEAN, the God of the Sea, according to the Poets, who made him the Son of Heaven and Veſta, the Husband of Tethys, and the Father of Rivers and Fountains. The Ancients call'd Oceanus the Father of all things, as ſuppoſing with Thales, that Water was the Principle of this Univerſe. According to Geographers, Ocean is the main Sea which ſurrounds the Earth; ſo that by means thereof the Earth may be compaſſed round from Eaſt to Weſt, ſince Magellan, Drake, Cavendiſh, and Brewers, have diſcovered to us the Paſſages from the North into the South Sea. The Ocean is divided into four great Parts, viz. the Eaſtern, Southern, Weſtern, and Northern. The Eaſtern Ocean contains the Sea of China, the Archipelago of S. Lazarus, towards the Iſlands of Thieves, or Ilhas de los Ladrones, and the Sea of Anchidol, about the Iſland Java. The Southern Ocean, or Indian Sea, waſheth the Southern Part of Aſia, and the Indian Iſles, together with the Eaſtern and Southern Parts of Africa; and comprehends the Gulf of Bengala, the Sea and Gulf of Perſia, the Sea and Gulf of Arabia, the Sea of Zanguebar, and the Oriental part of the Æthiopian Sea, which reacheth to the Cape of Good Hope. The Weſtern Ocean, which Coaſts our Hemiſphere (thought by the Ancients to be unpaſſable, becauſe of Darkneſs) comprehends the other part of the Æthiopian Sea, the Atlantick, the Mediterranean, that of Spain, France, and the Britiſh Seas. This laſt part of the Sea of Æthiopia reacheth the whole length of the Weſtern Coaſt of Africa, from the Cape of Good Hope to near the Equinoctial Line, waſhing the Weſtern Coaſt of the Cafres and Congo. The Atlantick Sea reacheth from the Æthiopian Sea to the moſt Southern Parts of Spain. The Mediterranean is enclos d between Europe, Aſia, and Africa. The Spaniſh Sea Coaſts the Weſtern and Northern parts of Spain, and that of France waſheth the Coaſts of Guyenne and part of Bretaigne. The Britiſh Seas encompaſs the Iſles of Great Britain, and Ireland, except only on the Eaſt-ſide, which is called the German Ocean. The Northern Ocean is divided into the Sea of Tartary, the Frozen-Sea, the North-Sea, or the German Ocean, and the Baltick. That of Tartary waſheth the Southern Parts of the North Continent, and the Northern part of Tartary to Nova Zembla. The Frozen-Sea runs along the Coaſts of Greenland, &c. The German Ocean Coaſts Norway, Denmark and Germany, with the Eaſtern part of Scotland and England, and the Baltick Sea is contain'd within the Dominions of Sweden, Poland, Germany and Denmark. As to the Ocean of the New Continent of America, Geographers divide it into three parts, which they call the North Sea, the South Sea, and the Sea of Æthiopia, or that of Braſil. The South Sea is alſo called the Pacifick Sea, becauſe it is ſeldom troubled with Storms or Tempeſts, and has always freſh Gales, ſo that Mariners paſs it in ten Weeks time at the rate of 130 miles per day. Some think it may be as ſhort a way to China as by the Cape of Good Hope.

OCHAD, a great and populous Town equal to moſt in Arabia Felix. The adjacent Country is fruitful, abounding with Groves of Date trees, and pleaſant Fountains. It is five Stations W. of Nugeran, and three E. from Tabula. Nub.

OCHIE-hole, a Cave near Mendippe-Hills in Somerſetſhire, which goes far into the Earth, and hath certain Pits and Rivulets in it, whereof the Inhabitants relate abundance of Fables. Near this place in H. VIIIth's time, a Table of Lead was plow'd up, having an Inſcription on it, diſcovering, that it had been erected by Claudius in his Conſulſhip, as a Monument of his Victory over the Britains in 802 of Rome: On the Reverſe was ſtamp'd a Triumphal Arch, and the Image of one galloping on Horſeback; and two triumphal Pillars, with this Inſcription, De Britan. Cambd. Brit.

OCHINUS (Bernardinus) was born at Sienna, and took the Habit of a Capuchin about 1525 or 26, and afterwards came to be their General; he was Learned, Eloquent, and Bold; neither did ever any one Preach with greater ſucceſs or more applauſe. The moſt Illuſtrious Princes and Prelates ſeem'd to value themſelves in ſhewing him all manner of reſpect. The moſt famous Cities of Italy did contend which ſhould have him to be their Preacher; yea, his name was in ſo great repute, that they came from all parts to ſee and hear him. Peter Martyr brought him over to the Reformation; and both of them together left Italy in 1543. Bernardinus Ochinus took upon him a Secular Habit at Ferrara, and came to Geneva, where he married one of Lucca. At the Age of 76 Years he defended the lawfulneſs of Polygamy in a ſet Treatiſe. Theſe Diſorders made him odious to the Proteſtants, ſo that from Geneva he travelled to Zurick, and from thence to Bazil, and upon his being not ſuffer'd to live there, he went into Tranſilvania, and from thence to Poland, where firſt he became a Socinian, and at laſt died an Atheiſt, being forſaken and deteſted by all People. He writ Commentaries in the Italian Language upon the Epiſtle of St. Paul to the Romans, which Sebaſtian Caſtellio tranſlated into Latin, and were printed at Geneva, Augsburg, and elſe-where; as alſo Commentaries upon the reſt of the Epiſtles of St. Paul. Rivet. Boxhornius. Spondan A. C. 1525. and 1547. Genebrard. Chron,&c.

OCHSENFURT, a Town of Germany in the Circle of Franconia and Biſhoprick of Wurtsburg; it ſtands on the River Main, thirteen miles South of Wurtsburg, and nineteen N. E. of Margentheim.

OCHUMS TARSURAS, a River of Mengrelia, riſing in the Mountains of Colchis, and falling into the Euxine Sea.

OCHUS, King of Perſia, ſo very covetous, that he would never go into the City that he might be oblig'd to pay what the ancient cuſtom of the place requir'd, Cyrus having made a Law, that upon the firſt coming of the King thither he ſhould preſent every Woman with a Crown in Gold. Juſtinus alſo writes thus of him; Ochus, when he ſucceeded to the Crown, without any reſpect of Age or Sex, put the Princes of the Royal Family to death, leaſt they ſhould conſpire againſt him, for which cruel Action he was poiſon'd by the Eunuch Bagoas, his Body thrown to Cats, and his Bones form'd into the Handles of Swords in memory of his Cruelty. Ælian.

OCK, a River in Barkſhire, has its riſe in Hampſhire, from whence it runs Northward into the Thames at Ship-lake.

O CONNOR DUN ROTHERICK, one who call'd himſelf King of Ireland, when the Engliſh firſt enter'd that Iſland, in the time of King Henry II. to whom he could hardly be brought to ſubmit, but rais'd many Tumults, complaining againſt Pope Adrian's Patent to the King of England, alledging it prejudicial to him; but became more tractable after Pope Alexander III. confirm'd a new Patent. Camb. Brit.

OCTAVIA, the Daughter of Octavius and Siſter of the Emperor Auguſtus: She was twice married, the firſt time to Marcellus, and the ſecond to Mark Anthony: By Marcellus ſhe had a Son of the ſame name, who married Julia the Daughter of Auguſtus; and Marcella, who was married to Agrippa, and afterwards to a Son of Mark Anthony. By her ſecond Husband ſhe had Antonia the Elder, who married Domitius Ænobarbus; and Antonia the younger, the Wife of Druſus, Brother to Tiberius. Mark Anthony abus'd Octavia, for which Auguſtus was reveng'd of him. She was admir'd by the Romans for her Prudence and Vertue, and her Brother dedicated a Temple and Portico's to her, as Dion informs us. She died in 743 of Rome. Sueton. in Aug. Plutarch in Anton. Dion lib. 48. 54. Hiſt.

OCTAVIA, the Wife of Nero, was the Daughter of Claudius and Meſſalina, by whom he had her before his Acceſſion to the Throne: He had promiſed her in marriage to Silanus, but afterwards beſtowed her on Nero, who divorced her, and then cauſed her to be put to death, having firſt poiſoned her Brother Britannicus.

OCTAVIA GENS, or the Family of the Octavians, was originally of Velitræ, as Suetonius tells us. Tarquinius Priſcus firſt brought them into the Senate, and Tullus Hoſtilius made it a Patritian Family. though afterwards they put themſelves amongſt the Plebeians; but Cæſar reſtored them to their firſt Nobility by the Caſſian Law. The firſt of this Family who came into any conſiderable Poſt, was Cneus Octavius Rufus, who was made Quæſtor, as we may learn from Suetonius: This Octavius left Two Sons, who were the Heads of Two Families; the eldeſt Branch roſe up to the higheſt Charges of the Commonwealth; but the other was only conſiderable in having Auguſtus of it. Octavius, Auguſtus's Father, was Ædilis Plebis, and Governor of Macedonia in the Six hundred ninety third Year of Rome: he married Attia, Daughter of Julia, who was Siſter to Julius Cæſar; by which Attia he had the Emperor Auguſtus; and likewiſe Octavia firſt married to Marcellus, and afterwards to Mark Anthony. Liv. lib. 45. Paterculus Lib. 1. Cic. de Offic. 1. Tuſc. in Epiſt. Sueton. Caſſiodor. &c.

OCTAVIANUS, Antipope, was a Roman, of the Family of the Earls of Freſcati. Pope Innocent II. made him Cardinal in 1140, and ſent him Legate into Germany. Upon the Death of Adrian IV. Alexander III. was put into his place, but Octavian made himſelf to be elected by two Cardinals, and took the Name of Victor IV. The Emperor Frederick I. protecting him, he was emboldened to hold a Council at Pavia in 1161, where Alexander the lawful Pope was depoſed, who thereupon was forced to flee to France. He died at Lucca about the Feaſt of Eaſter in 1164. Roderic. lib. 2. Otho Friſingenſis de reb. Freder. Baronius Annal. Tom. XII.

OCTHA, one of the Saxon Pirates, whom Hengiſt ſent for to aſſiſt him, and employed him in waſting the Coaſts of the Picts and the Orkney Iſlands. Cambd. Brit.

OCZIAKOW, or OCZAKOW, Lat. Axiace, a City of Podolia, ſeated at the fall of the Boryſthenes or Nieper into the Euxine Sea, thirty Miles from Circaſſia. It now belongs to the Turks. Near this City the Poles gave the Tartars a fatal overthrow in 1644. This City has a Caſtle which is Garriſon'd by the Turks, but the Citizens are Precopenſian Tartars. It was built by Vitolaus Duke of Lithuania, and at firſt peopled by his Subjects. The Country betwixt this City and Circaſſia is deſolate, as being expos'd to the Tartars and Coſſacks. This City is forty Poliſh Miles W. from Precopia, four Miles E. of Alba in Walachia, and four S. from Circaſſia. It gives Name to the neighbouring Tartars, who are ſo troubleſome to Podolia, Lithuania, and Poland, that the King of the latter pays them Tribute to prevent their Incurſions. On Aſcenſion-day 1571, they plundered and burnt Moſcow, carrying vaſt numbers of Ruſſians into Slavery. Gaugninus.

ODENATUS, King of the Palmyrians, who before that, was Decurio of Palmyra, a City of Syria, and made himſelf famous in the IIId. Century. He courageouſly defended the Limits of the Roman Empire againſt the Perſians, defeated Quietus and Baliſta, who had rebelled, and thereby acquir'd the name of Auguſtus. His Wife Zenobia, ſo illuſtrious for her Wit and Courage, aſſiſted him in the Conqueſt of the Eaſt. But in the midſt of this great Proſperity, Odenatus was aſſaſſinated by his Nephew Mæonius, under the Reign of the Galieni, about the Year 266. Odenatus took Niſibe, ſubdued all Meſopotamia, and routed the Perſian Army. He had three Sons, Herodes, Herennianus, and Timolaus, the eldeſt of whom was murthered together with his Father. All of this Family where obſerv'd to be perſons of extraordinary Endowments. Trebellius Pollio in his Treatiſe of the Thirty Tyrants, and in the Life of Valer. and of the Galieni.

ODENSEE, Lat. Ottonium, a City of Denmark, and Capital of the Iſle of Funen almoſt in the midſt of it; fourteen miles from Sleſwick to the N. and eighteen from Copenhagen to the W. It is a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Lunden; and is the Burying-place of the Kings of Denmark. This City was built by Harold King of Denmark, and was called Odenſee in honour of Otto I. Emperor of Germany, made a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Lunden in 950. Canute King of Denmark was ſlain here in 1066, and his Body was found in 1562, and much honour'd. It's now the beſt traded Town of the whole Iſland, adorn'd with two fair Churches and neat Buildings. Near this Town Count Gulden ſlew the Vice-Roy of Norway, and was overtaken in his Coach by Chriſtiern King of Sweden.

ODER, (die Oder) Lat. Odera, one of the greateſt Rivers of Germany. It riſeth in Sileſia, near a Town of the ſame name in the Borders of Moravia, and after it hath received the Oppau, it paſſeth by Ratibor, Breſlaw, Great Glogaw and Croſſen in Sileſia, and entring into Germany waters the Marquiſate of Brandenburg, Francfort on the Oder, Lebuſs and Cuſtrin, where it receives the Waert; then running through part of Pomerania, after having received ſeveral ſmall Rivers, it makes a Lake near Stetin, which thoſe of the Country call Das Groſs Haff, whence by three Mouths it diſcharges it ſelf into the Baltick, the names of which are Pſin, Sovin and Diwonaw. Alſo a Town in Sileſia, in the Dukedom of Troppaw, four German miles from Olmutz, near which the foreſaid River hath its Fountains.

ODERBERG, a Town of Bohemia in the Dutchy of Sileſia, ſituate on the River Oder and Elſa, ſixteen miles E. of Troppaw, and twenty ſeven N. E. of Oder. Lon. 38. 32. Lat. 49. 43.

ODERNHEIM, a ſmall Town in Germany, in the lower Circle and Palatinate of the Rhine, once Imperial, but now ſubject to the French It ſtands eight miles S. W. of Openheim, and fourteen S of Mentz. Lon. 24. 40. Lat. 49 43.

ODIA, UDIA, INDIA, the Capital of the Kingdom of Siam in the E. Indies.

ODIAM, a Market Town of Odiam Hundred in the N. E. of Hampſhire. It formerly belong'd to the Biſhops of Wincheſter. Near it ſtands the Ruins of a famous Caſtle, wherein thirteen Engliſh held out fifteen Days againſt the Forces of the Dolphin of France in the Reign of King John.

ODIN, a God of the Ancient Danes, who was accounted by them, together with another God called Thor, to preſide over Battels. Some Learned Men are of Opinion, That this Odin, and ſome other Gods of the North, were Magicians, who came to Sweden and Denmark from the Aſiatick Scythia, and by their Magical Arts made the People believe they were the ſame Gods they then ador'd, whoſe Names they gave themſelves. They report of Odin, That finding that he could not avoid Death, he commanded his Body to be burnt as ſoon as he was dead, aſſuring them, that his Soul would return to Aſgardie from whence he came, there to live for ever; which Aſgardie was the Capital City of the Country whence theſe Magicians came, and where the Danes placed their Vall-holl, or Elyſian Fields It is ſaid, That they came out of the Country joining upon the Lakes of Mæotis in Pompey's time, to avoid the Arms of the Romans. If ſo, this muſt have been at the time when Pompey conquered Mithridates, and advanced the Roman Eagles as far as the Cymmerian Boſphorus; but foraſmuch as he did not ſubdue any of the Nations on the North of the Euxine-Sea, this Story does not ſeem probable. Barthol. Antiq. Danic.

ODMAN or OSMAN, the third Caliph or Succeſſor of Mahomet, was choſen in 648 by the Commanders of the Army whom he had bribed. In 649 he ſent 700 Men of War to Cyprus, under the Command of Moavia, Governour of Egypt, who ruin'd the greateſt part of that Iſland, and returning the next year deſtroy'd the City of Nicoſia, and laid waſte the whole Iſland. In the mean time, Odman cauſed a Collection to be made of the Records of the Mahometan Religion; and having divided it into Chapters, founded the Sect called Chefaya, from the name of the Author who digeſted this Collection of the Alcoran. In 651 he ſent Occuba with a powerful Army into Africa, who conquered the Eaſtern parts of Barbary, and built there the City Cairavan or Carvan, five and thirty Leagues from Tunis to the E. He alſo peopled ſeveral other parts, and mingled Arabians with the People of the Country, who united into one Government. Ibni Aleraquiek ſaith, That theſe were the firſt Arabians who carried the Mahometan Religion into Africa. Moavia, on the other hand, in 654 gained a famous Naval Battle againſt the Emperor Conſtantius II. who cruis'd up and down the Phænician Sea with a thouſand Ships, and in 655 he took the Iſle of Rhodes, and demoliſht its famous Coloſs of the Sun. Afterwards he ravag'd part of Armenia. During theſe Succeſſes Haly, who took upon him the Title of Caliph in Arabia, ſent ſeveral of his Subjects to kill Odman, which they executed in the City of Damaſcus, tho' others ſay he kill'd himſelf, ſeeing that his Enemies had made themſelves Maſters of his Palace, for fear of falling into their Hands. He lived 87 Years, and was buried in 658, without any Funeral Pomp, becauſe it was reported he had kill'd himſelf. Marmol of Africa, Lib 2.

ODO, half Brother to William the Conqueror, was Biſhop of Baieux, and the firſt Earl of Kent of Norman-blood; He took Arms againſt his Nephew William Rufus, in behalf of his Brother Robert; and being made Priſoner upon the Surrender of the Caſtle of Rocheſter, was Confiſcated and Baniſhed by King William Rufus. Cam. Brit. Speed. Chron.

ODOACER, the Son of Edicon or Edicas, King of the Herules, Scirrhi and Turcilingii, People originally of Scythia; was called into Italy by thoſe that ſided with Nepos; he arrived there in the Year 476, and having ſubdued the Country of the Venetians, and Gallia Ciſalpina, he defeated Oreſtes and his Brother Paul, and ſent Auguſtulus Priſoner to a Caſtle near Naples. By which means he became very powerful, but carried it with great Modeſty, contenting himſelf to be Sovereign, without uſing Royal Apparel; and tho' he was an Arian, yet he did not perſecute the Orthodox, but on the contrary, at the Requeſt of ſome of their Biſhops vouchſafed them many Acts of Favour. He afterwards made War againſt the Rugians, a People of Germany, near the Baltick, defeated their Army in 487, took their King Felethus or Pheba, with his Wife Giſa, and ſent them into Italy. Their Son Frederick made his eſcape, and by the aſſiſtance of Theodrick King of the Goths, was reſtor'd to his Fathers Dominions, but ſoon after diſpoſſeſt again by Odoacer. Whereupon Theodrick enters Italy in 489, and Odoacer endeavouring to ſtop his progreſs was defeated by him in the Venetian Territories; and having loſt two other Battles, he was forc'd, in 490, to ſhut up himſelf in the City of Ravenna, which Theodorick beſieged two Years; ſo that being tir'd, he made Peace with Odoacer, and ſhar'd Italy with him; but not long after Theodorick caus'd him to be murther'd at a Feaſt in 493. Procop. lib. 1. de bello Got. Jornand. de Reb. Got. Caſſiodor. in Chron. Nicephor. Paul. Diaconus.

OEBALIA, a Country of Peloponneſus, and likewiſe an old Name of Tarentum in Italy.

OECALIA, a Town of Theſſaly, according to Strabo: Pauſanias mentions another of this Name in the Country of the Meſſenians, and another in Laconia. Mela mentions a fourth in Arcadia, but none of theſe Places are ſtanding at preſent

OECOLAMPADIUS (John) a German born at Winſperg, was among the firſt that embrac'd the Proteſtant Religion in the laſt Age. He was a Monk of S. Bridget's Order, which having quitted and become Zuinglian, was receiv'd Miniſter at Bale, in 1525, and publiſh'd a Treatiſe intituled, De genuina expoſitione verborum Domini, Hoc eſt corpus meum, id eſt, Figura, Signum, Typus, Symbolum; of which Eraſmus ſpeaks thus, Scripſit Oecolampadius tanto ſtudio totque machinis argumentorum, & tanta facundia, ut ſeduci poſſint, ni vetet Deus, etiam Electi. The Lutheran Doctors wrote an Anſwer to this Book under the Title of Syngramma, which Oecolampadius anſwer'd with another, intituled, Antiſyngramma, and publiſh'd other Treatiſes againſt Free-Will, The Invocation of Saints; wrote Commentaries upon moſt of the Books of Scripture. He died in 1531, the 49th. Year of his Age, and is buried at Bale, having this Epitaph upon his Tomb; D. Joan. Oecolampadius Profeſſione Theologus, Trium linguarum peritiſſimus, Autor Evangelicæ doctrinæ in hac Urbe Primus, & Templi hujus verus Epiſcopus, &c. Sponde in Annal. Melchior Adam. Wolfgangus Capito in vit. Oecolamp. Hoffman adds, That in 1528, he, together with Zuinglius, publiſh'd an Anſwer to Luther's large Confeſſion of Faith concerning the Lord's Supper. That he died piouſly An. 1531, aged 49, his laſt words being, Save me, Lord Jeſus. So falſe are the Calumnies of his Enemies concerning his Exit. His Commentaries upon the Minor Prophets are much eſteem'd. His Learning was ſuch, that even Cardinal Sadolet on the News of his Death, did wiſh, That he could lawfully grieve for him, ſeeing his Learning and Doctrine did require it. His Wife, as Hoffman remarks, was married to Cellarius before him, and afterwards to Wolfgangus Capito, and Martin Bucer, all great Men.

OECUMENIUS, a Greek Author, the Abbreviator of S. John Chryſoſtom's Works. 'Tis not known about what time he liv'd; ſome placing him in the IXth. others in the Xth. and others, again, in the XIth. Century. We have his Works in two Volumes in Greek and Latin, printed at Paris 1631; to which are joined the Treatiſes attribute to Aretas Biſhop of Cæſarea, in Cappadocia; which Pieces were all tranſlated by John Henten, Monk of S. Jerome, the Titles whereof are as follow; Enarrationes, or Catenæ in Acta Apoſtolorum. Commentaria in Epiſt. Sancti Jacobi & alias Canonicas, &c. Sixtus Senenſ. Bibl. Sacra Bellarm. Poſſevin.

OEDENBURG or ODENBURG, Lat. Sempronium, a ſtrong City of the lower Hungary, called by the Inhabitants Sophron, becauſe Capital of the Marquiſate of that Name. It ſtands nigh the Borders of Auſtria, ſeventeen miles E. of Newſtadt, and thirty ſix S. E. of Vienna. Lon. 37. 46. Lat. 47. 55.

OEDIPUS, the Son of Laius, King of Thebes and Jocaſta. He was expos'd as ſoon as born, becauſe of the diſmal anſwers the Oracle had given, when conſulted about his Birth; and being found on the Mountain Cytheron, he was brought to the Court of Polybus King of Sicyone, or Corinth, and educated there. Having afterwards quitted that place, he came to Thebes, and kill'd his Father, in a Rencounter, not knowing him to be ſo, and afterwards freed the Country from the Monſter Sphynx, married his Mother Jocaſta, and had Children by her. But at laſt coming to know what he had ignorantly done, he renounced the Throne, and voluntarily put out his own Eyes, as judging himſelf unworthy to behold the Light. Diodor. lib. 1. Stat. lib. 1. Thebaid. Senec. Hygin. Apollodor.

OELAND, Lat. Oelandia, an Iſland of Sweden in the Baltick Sea, on the Coaſt of the Province of Smalland, overagainſt Calmar, from whence it is ſeparated by the Streights, call'd, the Calmar-Sund. It is ſixty miles from N. to S. but ſcarce twenty over where it is broadeſt. Its chiefeſt Towns are Borkholm, Oſtenby, &c.

OENANTHIUS, a Heathen God worſhipped by the Phænicians. 'Tis to this God that Heliogabalus conſecrated his Imperial Apparel. Lamprid.

OENOE, an Ancient City of Attica, a Country in Greece, ſituate upon a River, whoſe Courſe the Inhabitants ſtopt, to convey their Water over the Lands, thinking thereby to make them very fertil but inſtead thereof, the Waters ſetling in their Grounds ſpoil'd them, and made great holes, which rendered their Lands unfit for Tillage; whence came the Proverb, Oenoe's Charadran, or Oenoe's Ditch, applied to thoſe who draw Miſchief upon themſelves, as intending the greateſt Advantage. Thucydides. Strabo Geograph. lib. 8.

OENOMAUS, King of Piſa, having underſtood by the Oracle, that he was to be kill'd by him that ſhould marry his Daughter Hippodamia, made a ſhift to rid himſelf of all the Princes that pretended to her, after having overcome them in a Chariot Race, the Condition being this, That if they beat him they were to marry his Daughter but if he beat them they were to be put to death. At laſt Pelops the Son of Tantalus being greatly in love with Hippodamia, corrupted his Charioteer to put weak Axle-Trees into his Chariot, whereupon, falling down, Oenomaus bruiſed himſelf to that degree, that he died ſoon after, and Pelops married Hippodamia, and ſucceeded to her Father's Crown.

OENONE, a Nymph of Mount Ida, whom Paris forſook upon Promiſe of Venus, That he ſhould be belov'd by the moſt beautiful Woman of all Greece, but Oenone foretold him, when he was going into Greece; That he ſhould bring home the Occaſion of his Countrys Deſtruction. Her Letter wherein ſhe diſſwades him from the Voyage, is in Ovid's Epiſtles. Poets further add, That the dead Body of Paris being ſent her to be buried, upon the ſight thereof, and the Memory of her former Love, ſhe ſunk down dead.

OENOTRUS, King of the Sabines according to Varro, or an Arcadian as Pauſanias makes him. He peopled the Coaſt of the Bay of Tarentum, and beſtowed the Name of Oenotria upon that Country, which having in proceſs of time receiv'd new Colonies, from Greece, was afterwards call'd Great Greece. Virgil. lib. 7. Æneid.

OESEL, or EUSEL, Lat. Oſilia, an Iſland in the Baltick Sea, at the Mouth of the Bay of Livonia, not above Three Miles from the Coaſts of Curland, and Five Weſt of Eſthonia. Its Circuit is Eighty Miles, and chief Place of Strength, called Arensberg, or Sonneberg. Beſides which it has Eighteen Pariſhes. It was ſold, together with Curland in Livonia, to Chriſtian IIId. King of Denmark, about 1558, but the Swedes took it in 1585. And it was confirmed to them by Treaty in 1646.

OETA, a Mountain of Theſſaly, on the Frontiers of Achaia, between the Mountain Pindus towards the North, and Parnaſſus to the South. The Thermopylæ were a part of this Mountain towards the Eaſt. It is now called Bunina. This Mountain is famous by the Death and Burial of Hercules, who there caſt himſelf into a Fire which he had prepared for Sacrifice, after he had put on the Shirt which his Wife Deianira had ſent him. See DEIANIRA. Becauſe this Mountain extends it ſelf to the Ægean Sea, now called the Archipelago, the Poets feigned that the Sun and the Stars did riſe near it. It's generally cover'd with Woods, and in ſome places very fruitful of Hellebore. The Bay or Gulf of Zeiton was formerly called Sinus Oetæus, becauſe that Mountain reacheth unto it. Ptol. Pauſan.

OFFA, ſurnamed The Great, King of Mercia, ſucceeded Ethelbald, An. 758. having killed Beornred, the Uſurper. He prov'd a warlike, ſubtle, and ambitious Prince, aſſailing his Neighbours on every ſide. The blackeſt part of his Reign was, His baſe murthering of Ethelbert, King of the Eaſt Angles, upon a fair Invitation to come and marry his Daughter. Inſtead of which he cauſed him to be murthered in his own Palace, and then ſeized his Kingdom. Such was his Enmity againſt Charles the Great, that it occaſioned a Prohibition of Commerce on both ſides, until by means of Alcuinus, a learned and politick Monk, ſent from hence into France, to negotiate ſome important Matter, their Animoſities were chang'd into a laſting Friendſhip. To the Pope who had gratified him ſo far as to tranſlate the Primacy of Canterbury to Litchfield in his own Dominion, he was ſo kind as to grant a perpetual Tribute out of every Houſe in his Kingdom. His Reign continued Eight Years, and is alſo memorable for the Prodigious Trench (commonly call'd Offa's Dike) which he drew from Sea to Sea, betwixt his Kingdom and the Britiſh Borders, ſome part whereof is ſeen to this Day. It runs about One hundred Miles over Hills and Mountains, from the Mouth of Dee in Flintſhire, to the Fall of Wye in Glouceſterſhire. And his Aim in it was, to keep the Remainder of the diſpoſſeſſed Britains within their Borders in Wales. And for the ſame end there was a Law made by Harold, That if any Welſhman was found with a Weapon on this ſide of it, his Right-Hand ſhould be cut off. Cambd. Brit.

OFFA, the firſt King of the Eaſt Angles in Britain, erected his Kingdom about the ſame time that the others of the Heptarchy did theirs, that is, in the ſixth Age.

OFFA, King of the Eaſt Saxons, ſucceeded King Senfred, and began his Reign with the Eighth Century. Having reigned Eight Years, he quitted his Kingdom to go to Rome with Kenred, King of Mercia.

OFFANTO, Lat. Aufidius, a River of Italy between the Capitanata and the Territory of Bari, being the only River that cuts the Appennine, out of which Mountain it riſeth in the Further Principality, and watring Conza, Canoſa, and ſome other Towns, falls into the Adriatick Sea, Four Miles from Barleta to the W. and Twenty five from Manfredonia to the S. W.

OFFEMBURG, Lat. Offenburgum, an Imperial free City of Germany, in Schwaben, and the Capital of Ortnaw, ſeated upon the River Kintrig. It is under the Protection of the Houſe of Auſtria, about one League from the Rhine, and not full two from Strasburg to the E.

OFFTON, or Offa's Town, built by Offa, King of the Mercians, near Nettleſteed in Suffolk, where are the Ruins of an ancient Caſtle, built alſo by him, after he had murthered Ethelbert, King of the Eaſt Angles, and uſurped his Kingdom. Cam. Britan.

OG, King of Baſhan, of the Race of the Giants, who going about to oppoſe the Paſſage of the Iſraelites, had his Country taken from him called Argob, or Trachonitis. Numb. 21. 33, 34, 35. Deut. 3. 1, 2, 3, 4.

OGEN, a Territory reckoned one of the beſt Soils in the Indies. It lies between Brampour, Seronge, and Amadabat. It has a Prince of its own, but ſubject to the Great Mogul.

OGER, whoſe Name is famous in the old Stories of Chivalry, under that of Oger the Dane. He lived in the Time of Charles the Great, and it is probable he is the ſame that is mention'd by the Monk of S. Gal, who betook himſelf to Deſiderius, King of the Lombards, and whom Anaſtaſius calls Autearius. However, it is certain that he did great Service to Charles the Great, and was therefore highly reſpected in his Court, and afterwards retired to the Monaſtery of S. Faron of Meaux, where he died, and was buried with one Bennet, a Companion of his, in the IXth. Century. By ſome Verſes writ upon his Tomb it appears that this Oger had a Siſter called Auda, who was married to the Famous Roland. Oger and Bennet's Epitaph was written by Fulceius of Beauvais, who ſtudied at Meaux, and wrote in the XIth. Century. It may not be improper to inſert it at large, to ſhew the Reader the Manner of that Age: Gabriel Simeonis of Florence relates it as follows;

Quam malè diſcernit quod amat, vel qualia ſpernit:
Cui placet aura Soli, diſplicet aura Poli!
Exul in Externa, procul à Regione ſuperna.
Captus Amore viæ, non meminit Patriæ.
Militis Ogerij converſio digna videri,

OGILBY (John) was long e'er he took to ſtudy, but made a vaſt progreſs in a little time. His principal Works were, his Atlas, which gained him the Office of the King's Coſmographer; his Tranſlations of Homer and Virgil, propria Minerva, his Paraphraſe upon Æſop's Fables, and King Charles IId's. Entertainment through London, as he went to be Crown'd; all done with admirable Cuts. We have nothing of his Parentage; but by his Name he ſeems to be of a Scotch Extraction.

OGILVY, a very ancient Scotch Family, who have been Barons for a long time. They are deſcended from the Sheriffs of Angus. The chief of this Family is the Earl of Airly, whoſe eldeſt Son is called, Lord Ogilvy. There is another Earl of this Name, intituled, Finlaterre.

OGINA, or OGIVA, Queen of France, the Wife of Charles IIId. ſurnamed The Simple, was the Daughter of King Edward Iſt. before the Norman Conqueſt, and Siſter of Athelſtan, Kings of England. She had by her Husband Charles, Lewis IVth. ſurnamed Beyond-Sea, becauſe ſhe ſent him into England, to the King her Brother, upon the News of her Husband's Impriſonment.

OGLE, a Caſtle in Northumberland, lying between New-Caſtle and Morpeth. It anciently belonged to the Barons Ogle, and gave ſince the Title of Earl to the Dukes of New-Caſtle. The Ogles flouriſhed in the Dignity of Barons from the beginning of Edward IVth's Reign. The Iſſue Male expiring in Cuthbert, the ſeventh Baron. Camb. Britan.

OGLIO, Lat. Ollio, Ollius, a River in Italy, riſing in the Mountains above Edulum, in the Borders of Switzerland, in the Valtoline, runs through Breſcia into the Lake de Iſeo, leaves it at Calepio, and parts the Territory of Breſcia from Cremona, or the State of Venice from the Dutchy of Milan, and waſhing part of the Dutchy of Mantua, falls into the Po at Burgoforte.

OGNA-SANCHA, a Counteſs of Caſtile, who lived about the year 990; ſhe being a Widow fell in love with a Mooriſh Prince, and reſolved to marry him; and that ſhe might not be hindred in this Deſign, ſhe purpoſed to poiſon her Son Sancho Garcia; who being informed of his Mother's Intention, and ſitting at the Table with her when the Cup of poiſon'd Wine was preſented to him by her order, he diſſembled his ſuſpecting of any thing, and by way of Civility deſired his Mother to drink firſt, who thereby perceiving that her Deſign was diſcovered, drunk it all off, and died ſoon after. Whence came the Cuſtom they ſtill obſerve in Caſtile, of making the Women drink firſt, tho' it be only done now by way of Civility. The Earl her Son being afflicted at this Misfortune, to make amends, founded the Monaſtery of S. Saviour of Ogna. Lewis de Majerne. Turquet Hiſtory d'Eſpagne.

OGYGES, King of the Thebans, or according to others, of Ogygia and Actæ, afterwards called Bæotia and Attica. He is recorded to have been the firſt Founder of Thebes and Eleuſine. The famous Deluge, ſo frequently mentioned by Greek Authors, happened in his time, from which he was ſaved, as moſt Authors affirm; tho' ſome ſay he periſh'd in it, together will all his Subjects. It is difficult to find the exact time when this Deluge happen'd. The moſt probable Opinion is theirs who ſuppoſe it to have been in the year of the World 2292, 636 years after the Univerſal Deluge, 986 before the Olympiads, and 1438 before the Death of Alexander the Great. Riccioli. Clem. Alex. Torniel.

OIE, a City and Earldom of France in Picardy, which reacheth from Calis to Graveling and Dunkirk. This Country hath been ſeveral times taken and re-taken. It was in the Poſſeſſion of the Engliſh for above Two hundred years. The Spaniards ſeized it during the Civil Wars; but they reſtored it to the French by the Peace of Vervins.

OIE, a ſmall Iſland near to the Iſle of Rhee.

OISE, a River in France, call'd in Latin, Oeſia: It riſes in Picardy towards Hainault, and falls into the Seine below Pontoiſe, about ſix Leagues from Paris.

OISTER-PITS, holes near Feverſham in Kent, narrow at mouth, but capacious, and having ſeveral Apartments below. Suppoſed to be the Pits whence the ancient Britains digged their Chalk for manuring the Ground; or dug by the Saxons, to hide their Corn and Stores from their Enemies. Cam. Brit.

OKEHAM, the chief Town of Rutland, lies 74 miles North-Weſt from London, ſeated in the rich and pleaſant Vale of Catmoſs. This Place is but ſmall, proportionable to the County whereunto it belongs, which is the leaſt in England. Its Buildings are but indifferent. The Caſtle, where the Aſſizes are held, is a Place of more Antiquity than Beauty. It has an ancient Privilege belonging to its Royalty worth taking notice of, viz. That if any Nobleman enters within its Precinct on Horſeback, he forfeits a Shooe from his Horſe, unleſs he redeem it; which Homage has been acknowledged and paid by ſeveral Noblemen that have paſſed this way, as appears by many Horſeſhooes that are nailed upon the Hall-door. In which Hall, over the Judges Seat is a Horſe-ſhooe of Iron, curiouſly wrought, five foot and a half long, with a Breadth proportionable.

OKEHAMTON, a Market Town of Liſton Hundred in the Weſt-parts of Devonſhire.

OKELEY, a Town of Darking Hundred in Surrey, noted for the Victory here obtain'd againſt the Danes, by Ethelwolf, the ſecond Saxon Monarch.

OKINGHAM, a Market Town of Sunning Hundred in Barkſhire, lies S. E. about ten miles from Windſor.

OLAUS MAGNUS. See Magnus.

OLAUS, or OLAC, King of Norway, lived in the XIth. Century. He was very zealous in eſtabliſhing the Chriſtian Religion in his Dominions, and finding that many of his Subjects, addicted to Magick, oppoſed themſelves to his Deſign, he baniſh'd them. Canutus, King of England and Denmark, who had once dethroned him, was the Occaſion that ſome of his Subjects murthered him. Adam de Bremen. lib. 2. Hiſt. Eccl. Olaus Magnus, &c.

OLDCASTLE (Sir John) in Right of his Wife, call'd, in Courteſie, Lord Cobham. A Man of a bold and reſolute Spirit, and a ſtout Soldier, was convented before Henry Chichley, Lord Archbiſhop of Canterbury, for maintaining ſeveral new Tenets againſt the Receiv'd Doctrine of the Church: When King Henry the Vth. preſs'd him to reconcile himſelf to God and the Church, and ſubmit to the Eccleſiaſtical Conſtitutions, he refus'd to comply, and juſtify'd his Opinion both by word of Mouth and Writing, affirming, That his Majeſty was the only proper Judge of his Cauſe, and offer'd to fight in Defence of it in open Liſts; but this way of Juſtification not being admitted, he was try'd and condemn'd, as a Heretick, in the Archbiſhop's Court, and after Sentence, committed to the Tower, from whence he made his Eſcape into Wales. Not long after, the King was inform'd of an Inſurrection, the backſide of S. Giles's, being the Place for their Rendezvous. where accordingly ſeveral of the Conſpirators being fallen into an Ambuſcade, were taken and ſlain: The Mayor of London likewiſe, receiving Directions to apprehend all ſuſpicious Perſons, ſeiz'd one John Burgeſs, a Carpenter, and ſeven others, who being examin'd before the King, confeſs'd themſelves engag'd in the Conſpiracy with Sir John Oldcaſtle, and that their Deſign was to have fought the King in S. Giles's Fields. Several People likewiſe being apprehended upon the Roads, did not ſcruple to own, that they came to join their General, the Lord Cobham. The Plot being thus prov'd, Sir Roger Acton, and Eight and twenty more of the Rebels, were executed in Smithfield: As for Sir John Oldcaſtle, he was not to be found at that time, but 'tis ſaid, that afterwards he was apprehended and executed. Speed Hiſt. Great Brit. Dan. Hiſt.

OLDENBURG, Lat. Oldenburgum, a City in Weſtphalia, the Capital of an Earldom of the ſame Name ſeated upon the River Hont, which runs into the Weſer, twenty five miles from Bremen to the Weſt, and forty from Embden to the Eaſt, almoſt totally ruined by Fire in 1676, the very Day the Citizens were to have taken their Oath of Allegiance to the King of Denmark. The County of Oldenburg is in the Circle of Weſtphalia, between Eaſt-Friezland to the Weſt, the Dukedom of Bremen to the Eaſt, the Biſhoprick of Munſter to the South, and the German Ocean to the North, very fruitful in Paſtorage and Cattle, but the Air cold and foggy. This for a long time was under Counts of its own, derived from Wittekindus, the firſt Duke of the Saxons. Walepert, one of his Nephews, being the firſt Earl of Oldenburg, which Line wholly failing in 1676. it hath been annexed to the Crown of Denmark, that King being deſcended from the eldeſt Branch of the Earls of Oldenburg.

OLINDA, a maritime City of Braſil, in America, the capital of the Government of Pharnambuc. It is ſeated upon a Hill, near the mouth of the River Bibiribe, with a Fortreſs called S. George, and a capacious Haven. The Hollanders took it in 1629, but afterwards deſerting it, the Portugueſe took poſſeſſion of it again. It is a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of S. Salvador. This is one of the moſt noted Cities in America. It ſtands on a riſing Ground; encompaſſes ſeveral ſmall Hills, but has more without: So that it's uncapable of being fortified. The Jeſuits College was built by Sebaſtian, King of Portugal. It has two other Monaſteries, eight Churches, and two thouſand Inhabitants, beſides the Clergy and their Servants. The Haven is little, and has a bad entrance, but ſafe within. The neighbouring Soil is not ſufficient to maintain the Inhabitants, but their Suſtenance is brought from other parts of Braſil, the Canaries and Portugal. In 1595. James Lancaſter, an Engliſh Mariner, entred this Port with eleven Ships and two hundred ſeventy Seamen, took the Caſtle at firſt Aſſault, though defended by ſix hundred men, with ſeven Braſs Cannon. He plundered about one hundred Houſes under the Caſtle; ſtaid thirty four days, but could not take the Town. He loaded his own, three Dutch and four French Ships which he found there, with Plunder, and returned to England. The Dutch W. India Company in 1628, having taken great part of the Spaniſh Plate-fleet, and deſigning to revenge their Diſgrace at St. Salvador, they ſent a ſtrong Fleet under *Hen. OLIVA (Joan. Paulus de) General of the Jeſuits, was born at Genoua in 1600, of a noble Family, of which there had been two Doges. He died in 1681. A Collection of his Letters was printed at Venice in 1681. And the reſt of his Works have been printed at Lions. Memoirs du Temps.

OLIVAREZ, A Spaniſh Count in old Caſtile, near to Valladolid. Henry de Guzman, Count of Olivarez was Embaſſador at Rome under Philip II. King of Spain. The favour of his Son Gaſpar de Guzman, Earl and Duke of Olivarez, under Philip IVth. is as notorious as his Diſgrace afterwards. He was accuſed of being the cauſe of the Revolt of Portugal, by his Pride. Margaret of Savoy, formerly Dutcheſs of Mantua, was poſſeſs'd of the Viceroyalty of that Kingdom, when Michael Vaſconcellos, the Duke's Secretary greatly oppreſt the People, without regarding the Orders of the Princeſs. After that the Portugueze had ſhaken off the Spaniſh Yoke, Margaret and the Emperor's Embaſſador complained of it to the King of Spain, who thereupon commanded Olivarez to withdraw from Court, which Diſgrace ſtriking to his Heart, was the Cauſe of his Death ſoon after. His Succeſſor in the King's Favour, was Dom Lewis de Haro Guzman, Olivarez his Nephew, but one who did not love him. In 1659, he concluded the Peace between the Crowns of Spain and France.

OLIVE or OLIVI, (Peter John) of Seiganno in the Dioceſs of Beziers, was a Minorite, who lived in the XIIIth. Century. He was accuſed of holding ſome ſingular Opinions about the Bl. Virgin, whereupon his Books were condemned to be burnt The great Love he had to Poverty, and his ſtrict obſervance of the Rule of his Order, created him many Enemies amongſt his Brethren, who barbarouſly digging up his Body after his Death which happened in 1297 condemned him for a Heretick, and burnt his Books. Angelus Clareno, Hubertin of Caſal, and others, have written his Apology; and maintain him to have been a very holy Perſon, whoſe Holineſs God confirmed by Miracles after his Death.

OLIVE-CLOISTER, a Monaſtery within a Pruſſian mile from Dantzick, which the Inhabitants of that City burnt; but were obliged to pay 50000 Florins towards the Re-building it, to the Poles. OLIVET, or the Mount of Olives, a Mount in the Vicinage of Jeruſalem to the Eaſt: It has the Valley of Jehoſaphat lying betwixt Jeruſalem and it, and the Brook Kedron at its Foot. 'Tis about Two thouſand Paces in length, from North to South, and Six hundred in heighth affording a delightful Proſpect, not only towards Jeruſalem, but towards the Mountains of Arabia; towards Jordan and the dead Sea, Hebron and Samaria. It took its Name from the Olive-trees which formerly grew there. This was the Place whither our Saviour often retired, and particularly the Eve before his Paſſion, and from the ſame aſcended to Heaven in the ſight of his Apoſtles; and 'tis ſuppoſed that in the ſame Place David worſhipped God, as he fled from his Son Abſolom. Helena, the Mother of Conſtantine, built a noble Church here, the Ruins of which are ſtill to be ſeen, together with others of the Temple of Moloch, the Village Shiloah, the Garden of Gethſemane, and the Sepulchres of the Prophets Haggai and Zachariah, all at ſome diſtance from each other. St. Jerom. de locis Hebr. St. Paul in Epiſt. II. ad Sever. Sulpit. Sever. in Hiſt. Beda de locis Sanctis, cap. 7. Optat. lib. 6 in Parm.

OLIVETAN (Robert) was the firſt that publiſhed a French Bible, for the uſe of the Vaudois, who deſired him to take that Work upon him, it was printed at Neufchaſtel, in 1553. and is ſtill uſed by the French Proteſtants, but with ſome Correction.

It ſtands ſeven German miles S. E. from Bryn, twenty North from Vienna, and twenty ſix W. of Cracovia; ſituate in a pleaſant and fruitful Soil. The Poles call it Olomoniec, the German's Ulmitz.

l'OLONIS, a famous Buccanier, born in Poitou. near to Olone, whence he took his Name. He left France in his Youth, and engaged himſelf to an Inhabitant of the Iſles of America, to whom he was a bound Servant for three Years. Being got out of his Servitude, he betook himſelf to the Buccaniers on the Coaſt of Domingo. Having continued this Life for ſome time, he reſolved to join himſelf with ſome French Adventurers, who betook themſelves to the Tortoiſe Iſle, near the great Spaniſh Iſland, amongſt whom he was not long, but he was made Maſter of a Veſſel. And after he had taken many Prizes, was taken by the Spaniards, who killed moſt of his Men, and wounded him. But he lying down amongſt the Dead, by that means ſaved his Life. And putting on the Cloaths of one of the Spaniards that were killed in the Fight, he came near to the City of Campeſche, where he met with ſome Slaves, to whom he promiſed their Liberty, if they would go along with him; which they accepted; and got one of their Maſter's Canoes to a place where Olonois expected them, into which he entered, and within a few days came to the Tortoiſe Iſland. The Governour of the Havana having heard of his being upon that Coaſt with two Canoes, in each of which he had Eleven men, ſent out a light Frigate againſt them, which Olonois maſtered and cut off all the Spaniards Heads with his own Hands, except only the laſt, whom he ſent back to the Governour of the Havana, with word, That if he could, he was ready to give him the ſame Entertainment. He afterwards took two great Spaniſh Ships, and having drawn in ſeveral Adventurers, he made up a Fleet wherewith he plundered the City of Maracaibo, in the Province of Venezuela, upon the ſide of the Lake of Marecaye, and afterwards the Town of Gibraltar, on the other ſide of the Lake. After ſeveral other Exploits, he went, at laſt, to cruiſe before Carthagena; where going by Land to plunder a Country Town, he was taken by the wild Indians, who quartered him, roaſted him, and eat him. Oxemelin, Hiſt. of the Weſt Indies.

OLT, Lat. Aluta, a River of Tranſilvania, call'd by the Germans Alt. It runs Southward through Tranſilvania, and watering Cronſtadt, Mergenburg, and Fogaras, leaves Hermanſtadt to the Weſt, and croſſing the Mountains of Eyſenthorn, and the Weſtern part of Moldavia, falls into the Danube above Nigeboli.

OLYBIUS, an Illuſtrious Citizen of Padua, in whoſe Tomb was found a Lamp which had burnt there 1500 Years, between two Veſſels, whereof the one was of Gold, and the other of Silver, fill'd with a very clear Liquor. Licet. de Lucern. Antiquis.

OLYMPIA FULVIA MORATA. See FULVIA MORATA.

OLYMPIA, a City of Elis in the Peloponneſus, where there was a famous Temple dedicated to Jupiter Olympius, ſo called from the Name of this City. The Structure of this Temple was wonderful, and had vaſt Treaſures belonging to it, as well by reaſon of the Oracles which were given there, as for the Olympick Games which were celebrated near it, in honour of the ſaid Heathen God. But the Statue of Jupiter, made by Phidias, was that which was accounted the greateſt wonder of all, being reckon'd one of the Wonders of the World, which is thus deſcribed bed by Pauſanias. This Statue is made ſitting on a Throne of Gold and Ivory, with a Crown on his Head, which ſeems to be made of Olive-Branches; in his Right-hand he holds a Victory of Ivory, which hath a Crown upon its Head-dreſs of Maſſie-Gold; and in his Left-hand hath a Scepter, made of a mixture of all Metals together, with an Eagle at the top of it. The Shooes and Stockings of Jupiter are all of Gold and the reſt of the Drapery is of the ſame, and adorn'd with the Figures of Animals and a great many Flower-de-luces. The Throne it ſelf is embelliſhed with Ivory, Ebony, Gold, precious Stones, and a multitude of emboſs'd Figures; and at the four feet or Pedeſtals of the Throne, are four Victories, and two others at the two Feet of the Statue. At the two Feet on the foreſide of the Throne, on the oneſide are the Figures of Sphinxs, who are carrying off ſome Theban Youths, and on the other are repreſented the Figures of the Children of Niobe, whom Apollo and Diana ſhot to death with their Arrows. Between the Feet of this Throne is repreſented Theſeus, and the reſt of the Hero's who accompany'd Hercules to the War againſt the Amazons, beſides many Athletæ. All the place about the Throne is adorn'd with Pictures, repreſenting Hercules's Labours, with many other of the moſt famous Hiſtorical Subjects. On the upper part of the Throne, Phidias on one ſide placed the Graces, and on the other the Hours, becauſe both are the Daughters of Jupiter, according to the Poets. On the Footſtool of the Statue are placed golden Lions, and a Repreſentation of the Combat of Theſeus againſt the Amazons. On the Baſis are ſeveral golden Figures, viz. Of the Sun going into his Chariot, of Jupiter, Juno, the Graces, Mercury, Veſta, and Venus, who has Love by her. Beſides theſe there are alſo thoſe of Apollo, Diana, Minerva, Hercules, Amphitrite, Neptune, and the Moon, who is repreſented ſitting on a Horſe. This is the ſubſtance of what Pauſanias ſaith of this famous Statue. But notwithſtanding that this Workmanſhip was the wonder of all the Antients, yet Strabo finds a great fault in it, for want of Proportion, becauſe it was of ſuch a prodigious bigneſs, that if it had ſtood upright it muſt have made a hole in the Roof of the Temple. Dion, Suetonius and Joſephus inform us, That the Emperor Caligula had a deſign to take away this Statue, and have it brought to Rome, and relate the Prodigies which deterred him from that Enterprize. Another thing to be noted concerning this Temple, is, That amongſt the many Altars it had, there was one, To the Unknown Gods, which is like that Inſcription of the Altar of Athens. Chevreau's Hiſtory of the World.

OLYMPIAD, the ſpace of four Years, ſo called from the Olympick Games, inſtituted by Hercules, An. Mund. 2836. which were celebrated every four Years, about the time of the Summer Solſtice upon the Banks of the River Alphæus, near the City Piſa, and the Temple of Jupiter Olympius, in Elis, a Province of the Peloponneſus. Theſe Games were reſtor'd by Iphitus, 442 Years after their firſt Inſtitution by Hercules, and 22 or 23 Years before the Foundation of Rome. The Greek Hiſtorians began a new Epocha, the firſt Year of the firſt Olympiad. We are to obſerve That to ſpeak exactly, every Olympiad Year, belongs to two Julian Years; that is to ſay, the ſix firſt Months from July to January, to the foregoing, and the ſix laſt Months from January to July, to the following Year; though moſt Authors ſpeak of the Olympiads, as if they had begun the firſt of January, as by Example, 'tis the ſame thing to ſay, ſuch a thing was done in the firſt Year of the ſixth Olympiad, as to ſay, it was done in that Julian Year, in which the ſixth Olympiad began; theſe were every fifth Year, or as the Interpreter of Lycophron ſays, every fiftieth Month. The deſign of the Inſtitution was to accuſtom Young Men to Running, Leaping, and other Exerciſes. They held but five Days. The Conqueror was call'd Olympionices, and to be crown'd there, was as glorious as to triumph at Rome: For the Olympionices was attended home in his Coach, the Wall of the City broken down, and he drove in at the Breach. Theſe were call'd Olympia Magna, to diſtinguiſh them from other Plays of this nature that were inſtituted in Macedonia, at Athens, &c. Chorabus was the firſt who was crown'd at theſe Games for having obtain'd the Victory by Running. The number of the Olympick Years to the Birth of Chriſt are 776, and the Years of Rome before that time but 753, becauſe the firſt Olympiad of the Chronologers begun 23 Years before the Foundation of Rome. To underſtand the Chronology of the Olympiads the better, and to adjuſt them exactly in their Reference to the Years before the Birth of our Saviour; it may not be improper to give the Reader a ſhort Specimen of the Table of Reduction, in which the Numbers are ſo diſpos'd in Columns, that every lower or perpendicular Square is leſs by 4 than that immediately above it; and every Square to the right hand is leſs by 20 than that to the left. For Example.

And thus the Reader may ſee that the Olympiads began 776 Years before Chriſt; and that in the firſt year of the 195th. Olympiad our Saviour CHRIST was Born. Before the beginning of the Olympiads, Varro affirms, That there was nothing without a mixture of Fable and Uncertainty in the Hiſtory of the Greeks.

OLYMPIAS, the Siſter of Alexander King of the Epirots, marry'd to Philip King of Macedonia, by whom he had Alexander the Great. Her haughty Humour made her to diſagree with her Husband, who divorc'd her and marry'd another. It is ſaid alſo, That he ſuſpected her to be guilty of Adultery. After the Death of Philip, ſhe mock'd at the Vanity of her Son, who would make People believe he was the Son of Jupiter, telling him in her Letter, That he had beſt take heed of making her the object of Juno's Jealouſie and Rage foraſmuch as ſhe had never in the leaſt deſerv'd it. After the Death of Alexander, ſhe caus'd Arideus, Euridice, Nicanor, and a hundred other Illuſtrious Macedonians, to be put to Death; whereof, when Caſſander was inform'd, he came and beſieg'd Pindus, where this cruel Princeſs was, and having taken it, caus'd her to be kill'd in 438 of Rome. Plutarch in Vita Alexand. Quint. Curt. Juſtin.

OLYMPIAS, a holy Widow and Deaconeſs of the Church of Conſtantinople in the time of St. Chryſoſtom: She was the Daughter of Count Anicius, and Niece of the Prefect Ablavius, famous in the time of Conſtantine the Great. She was married to Nebridius, who died twenty Months after his Marriage, and left her great Riches, which ſhe employ'd for the Service of the Church and Poor. She was baniſhed at the ſame time that St. Chryſoſtom was, in which condition ſhe died very holily, in 404. The Menology of the Greeks celebrates her Memory the 25th. of July. Pallad. Lauſ. Hiſt. cap. 42. & de vit. Chriſt. Sozomen, lib. 8. Baron. in Annal. &c.

OLYMPII, a Name given by the Athenians to their twelve chief Gods to whom they had dedicated a very magnificent Altar, viz. Jupiter, Mars, Mercury, Neptune, Vulcan, Apollo, Juno, Veſta, Minerva, Ceres, Diana, and Venus. 'Tis ſaid, That Alexander the Great, after his Conqueſt of Perſia, deſir'd to have his Statue receiv'd among the number of theſe Deities, and ſet upon the ſame Altar, which the Greeks, from a baſe Spirit of Flattery, eaſily granted him. Dempſter. Ælian.

OLYMPIODORUS, an Athenian, who liv'd about An. Mund. 3730. He commanded an Army for the Athenians againſt Demetrius the Son of Antigonus, one of Alexander the Great's Succeſſors, whom he defeated, tho' with a much leſs Army. He took the Fort Muſæum, which the Macedonians had made themſelves Maſters of, and by this means delivered his City from their Domination. He afterwards conquered Caſſander, being aſſiſted by the Ætolians, and defeated the Macedonians in a third Battle, with a Company of Eleuſinians, for which great Services the Senate honoured him with a Braſs Statue, erected in Memory of him at Delphos after his Death. Pauſan. in Attic.

OLYMPIODORUS, originally of Thebes in Ægypt, was an Hiſtorian and Poet by Profeſſion, and an Heathen by Religion. He liv'd in the V. Century, and writ an Hiſtory in XXII Books, beginning with the Seventh Conſulſhip of the Emperors Honorius and Theodoſius the Younger, to whom he Dedicated that Work, and reacheth to the firſt Year of the Emperor Valentinian; that is to ſay, from 407 to 425. See the remains of this Hiſtory in Photius.

OLYMPUS, a Mountain of Theſſaly near to Oſſa and Pelion which Caſtaldus and Niger call Lacha. There was another of the ſame name in Myſia in Aſia near to the City

Pruſia, which the Turks call Anotolaidag, Emerdag, and Keſchiſdag. Another in Lycia, with a City of the ſame name, and one in Cyprus which Stephen of Luſignan calls Troas. The Greeks, who are forward to magnifie the Concerns of their own Country, ſpeak highly of Mount Olympus, inſomuch, that Homer would have it to be the Habitation of Jupiter and the Gods, and to be without Clouds. Doctor Brown ſays, That ſome parts of the Alps ſeem'd much higher to him than Olympus did, that he has obſerv'd Clouds above it, and in September there appear'd no Snow upon it, which the high Peaks of the Alps, Pyrenæan and Carpathian, beſides many other Mountains in Europe, are never without. It conſiſts not of one riſing Peak as it is ſometimes deſcrib'd, but extends to a great length from Eaſt to Weſt, inſomuch, that the Inhabitants at the foot of the North and South ſides have a different temper of Air, as if they liv'd in different Climes. This Mountain is often mention'd in the Roman Hiſtory, for Paulus Æmilius winding about it, by the Sea-ſide, over-came King Perſeus, and ſo conquer'd Macedonia. When Antiochus beſieg'd Lariſſa, Appius Claudius, by great Fires made on Olympus, occaſion'd him to think that the whole Force of the Romans were coming upon him, and ſo oblig'd him to raiſe the Siege. But the Exploit of the Conſul Martius, upon this Hill, was moſt remarkable and unparallell'd by any ſince; who being ſent againſt King Philip, the laſt of the Name, brought his Soldiers over Olympus by Paſſages unknown, and ſuch difficult Ways, that his Men were fain to wallow down; his Elephants, by ſtrange contriv'd Engines, ſomewhat like Draw-bridges, one under another, were let down into the Plain, as Sir Walter Raleigh hath more largely deſcrib'd. In the hot and dry Summer 1669. the Grand-Signior paſs'd above two Months upon Mount Olympus, for the fine Proſpect of the Plains and the Egean Seas, and to enjoy freſh Air; but his Humour prov'd deſtructive to ſome Hundreds of thoſe that attended him, for being over-heated by aſcending, and then pierc'd by the cold Air above, they fell ſick and died, and often in ſuch places where there was not Earth enough to cover 'em; many alſo periſh'd by drinking of a Spring of a whitiſh colour in their heats and thirſt, which caus'd a coldneſs and heavineſs at their Stomach for three or four days before they died; many of their Horſes and Camels died alſo. The Sultan himſelf fell ill, and being recover'd kill'd one of his beſt Horſes, forcing him up a noted peak of the Mountain call'd Pythagon or Kiſſagon: He was alſo ſo daring, that he would have leap'd on Horſeback over a Fiſſure or Cleft in the Rocks, and was ſcarce with-held from that bold Attempt by the Prayers and Importunity of his chiefeſt Followers.

OMAN, a God of the Perſians whom the Magi were oblig'd to worſhip every day, and for a whole hour to ſing Hymns of Praiſe unto him, with their Turbans on their Head, and Vervein in their Hands. Others call him Aman. Strabo lib. 15. Voſſius de Idololat.

OMAR I. the ſecond Caliph or Succeſſor of Mahomet. He was raiſed to this Dignity after the Death of Abubeker in 634. He had Wars with Haly, preſently after his entring upon the Government, which Haly was the lawful Succeſſor of Mahomet, according to the Intention of that falſe Prophet, and who had withdrawn himſelf into Arabia, after his being put by his Right. Omar having defeated Haly, taken the City Boſra, and many other Places of Arabia, turn'd his Arms againſt the Chriſtians, and entred Syria, where he gain'd a Victory over Theodorus Bogairus, Brother to the Emperor Heraclius, and afterwards returned Victorious into Arabia. The Emperor, who was then at Jeruſalem, deſirous to provide for his own Safety, took the Relicks and moſt precious Ornaments of the Temple; and leaving Theodorus with Bahamus retir'd to Conſtantinople. In 635, Omar drew his Army together and march'd againſt Damaſcus, which he took the Year following, and afterwards all Phœnicia, and committed a Thouſand Violences to force People to embrace his Religion. The Year following a part of his Army took Alexandria, and not long after all Egypt. In the mean time Omar went in Perſon to attack Jeruſalem, and after two Years Siege, entred it victoriouſly in 638. Omar thus reduced all Judea to his Obedience, and Jeruſalem was from that time poſſeſt by Infidels till the Conqueſt of it by Godfrey of Bouillon in 1099. In 639 he ſubdued all Meſopotamia, and at the ſame time built the City of Cairo, near to the Ruins of Memphis in Egypt. And laſtly, in 643 he made himſelf Maſter of Perſia. From the time of his taking of Jeruſalem he made his ordinary Reſidence in that City, and built a Magnificent Temple there in honour of Mahomet; and after having reign'd ten Years, he was kill'd by a Perſian, one of his Domeſticks, and buried at Medina in 644 He made a Collection of the Memoirs of Mahomet, which was called Haneſia or Aſaſia; that is to ſay, the Law of Religion or Godlineſs, and ordered this Alcoran to be publickly read in all the Moſques in the Month of September. See Abubeker. Marmol. Deſcript. of Africa. lib. 2. See la Bibliotheque Oriental de Barth. Dherbelot.

OMAR II. the Tenth Caliph or Succeſſor of Mahomet, was choſen after the Death of his Couſin Solyman Haſcoin, in the beginning of the Year 721, Conſtantinople being then beſieged, and was called Aced Ala, or Lion of God. He gathered all his Forces, and attack'd that City with all the Machines the Wit of Man could invent; but the Beſieged made ſo ſtout a Reſiſtance, and ſo good uſe of their Fire-works, that he was forc'd to raiſe it. And ſcarcely was Marvan or Maſalma, the General of the Army got out of the Channel of Conſtantinople, but a dreadful Tempeſt caſt away moſt of his Ships, many others being conſum'd by Fire from Heaven; ſo that of 300 Ships only fifteen eſcaped, five whereof were taken by the Chriſtians, and the other ten went to carry the News of this Defeat to the Caliph; who imagining that God was angry with him, for permitting Chriſtians the Exerciſe of their Religion in his Dominions, made all thoſe whoſe Fathers or Mothers were Mahometans, immediately to embrace Mahometaniſm on pain of Death and upon great Penalties forbad the eating of Swines-fleſh and uſe of Wine. He diſcharged all Chriſtians that turned Mahometans from the paying of Taxes and Cuſtoms, and cruelly perſecuted the others; and puſht on by a falſe Zeal, he ſent Letters to Leo Iſauricus, the Emperor of Conſtantinople, to embrace Mahometaniſm, and ſent a Renegade to inſtruct him in the way of it; but he died ſoon after, when he had reign'd two Years. Marmol de l'Afrique.

OMBIASSES, the Name of the Prieſts and Doctors of the falſe Religion which obtains in the Iſle of Madagaſcar, who are ſomewhat of the Nature of thoſe whom they call Marabouts at Cape Verde, that is to ſay, Phyſicians and Soothſayers, or Magicians. There is one ſort of them which teach to write Arabick, and make Hitidzi, that is Taliſmans, and other Charms, which they ſell to the Great ones, to preſerve them from ill Accidents, and to rid themſelves of their Enemies; or for any other purpoſe they deſire. They have publick Schools, where they teach their Superſtitions and Magical Arts. There is another ſort of them, who addict themſelves to Geomancy, and draw their Figures upon a little ſmooth Board cover'd with fine Sand. These are conſulted by the Sick, to know the time and means of their Recovery; by others for the Succeſs of their Affairs: For theſe People undertake nothing without conſulting theſe Geomancers. In making or erecting their Figures they obſerve the Hours of the Day, the Planet that rules it, and aſcending Sign, with other Superſtitions. Theſe Geomancers are diſtinguiſhed into ſeveral Orders, which reſemble our Eccleſiaſtical Dignities, as Male or Clerk, Ombiaſſe Scribe or Phyſician, Tibou a Subdeacon, Mouladzi Deacon, Faquihi Prieſt, Catibou Biſhop, Lamlamaha Archbiſhop, Sabaha Pope or Caliph. The People ſtand in great awe of them, and have employed 'em ſometimes againſt the French, but without Succeſs, which they, to ſave their Credit, cunningly attribute to the *French*s being under another Law, ſo that they could have no Power over 'em. Their Books have Chapters of the Alcoran, Remedies for Wounds, Diſtempers, &c. Flacourt's Hiſtory of Madagaſcar.

OMBLA, Lat. Arjona, a River of Dalmatia which falls into a Harbour of the ſame Name, two French Leagues N. of Raguſa.

OMBRIA, Lat. Umbria, a Province of the Eccleſiaſtical State in Italy, which is bounded on the North by the Dukedom of Urbin, and the Marchia Anconitana; on the W. with the Dukedom of Florence; on the S. with S. Peter's Patrimony; and on the E. with Abruzzo, and is all under the Pope except S. Sepulcro which belongs to the Duke of Florence. Umbria was in ancient Times a conſiderable part of Italy, bounded on the N by the Adriatick Sea; on the S. by the River Nera or Nar; on the W. by the Tiber, on the E. by Picentum, the Appennine Mountains, cutting it in two, and therefore was divided into Umbria Ciſappennina, and Tranſappennina, that is, into Umbria on this, and the other ſide of the Appennine. This latter contain'd Romandiola, the Dutchy of Urbin, &c. and the former comprehended Umbria, properly ſo call'd, which is the Dukedom of Spoleto, the City of Spoleto being the Capital of it; the others are Foligni, Aſſiſe, Todi, Terni, Nocere, Narni, Rieti, Norcia, &c. In the time of the Romans it was divided into ſeveral Territories, as appears from Authors and ancient Inſcriptions, *viz. OMMIADES, the Name of the firſt Race of the Kings of Fez. The Family of Ommias, having been driven from the Califate of Syria by the Abbazides, betook themſelves in part to Africa, and in part to Spain, about the Year 800, where they erected new Sovereignties. One of theſe Princes call'd Idris, built the City of Fez in Mauritania, which he made the Capital of his Kingdom, and took the Title of Caliph. About 820 theſe Ommiades made themſelves Maſters of the Iſles of Sicily and Crete, where they built the City of Candia, which ſince gave the name to the whole Iſle. But about 950 the Zenetes, a People of Africa, did wholly exterminate the Race of the Ommiades, and poſſeſs'd themſelves of the Kingdom of *Fez. Hornius Orb. OMRA's or OMHRA's, the Title of the Great Lords of the Mogul's Court. Theſe are commonly Strangers, and for the moſt part Perſians, that have great Offices at Court, but none of them poſſeſs any Lands in Propriety, becauſe the Mogul is ſole Proprietor of the Land in his Dominions. Neither can the Sons of theſe Omra's inherit their Fathers Eſtates, which deſcend to the Mogul, Heir-General to all his Subjects, and who allows them only ſome inconſiderable Penſion, except it be that their Fathers have taken care to advance them in their Life-time, which they may eaſily do if they be handſome and fair, ſo as that they may paſs for true Moguls, for they are white of Complexion, whereas the Indians are Tawny. Some of theſe Omra's are Commanders of a Thouſand Horſe, others of Two, and ſo to 12000. Their Pay is more or leſs according to the Number of their Horſes, which are always more than the Riders, becauſe in thoſe hot Countries a Trooper is forc'd to have two Horſes for change. There are always 25 or 30 of theſe Omra's at Court, out of whom are choſen the Governours of the Provinces, and the other great Officers of the Kingdom. Beſides theſe Great Lords, there are an inferiour ſort of Omra's, call'd Manſebdars Cavaliers or Horſemen of Marſeb, which is a more conſiderable Pay than is given to the common Troopers. They have no Commander over them, but the Grand Mogul himſelf, and from this Rank paſs to that of Omra's. This ſame Name is given to the Great Lords of the Kingdom of Golconda in the Peninſula of India, on this ſide the Gulf of Bengala, who for the moſt part are Perſians alſo, or Perſians Sons. When they go a long the Streets they have one or two Elephants going before them, on each of which are mounted three Men, who carry Banners: After theſe Elephants march fifty or ſixty Cavaliers, well mounted on Perſian or Tartarian Horſes, with Bows and Arrows, Swords by their ſides, and Shields hanging on their Backs, which Troop is followed by other Men on Horſeback, ſounding upon Trumpets and Fifes: After theſe comes the Omra on Horſebeck, having thirty or forty Footmen to attend him; next to theſe comes his Palanquin or Sedan, carried by four Men; and laſt of all appears a Camel or two, mounted with Men that beat Kettle-Drums. When it pleaſeth the Omra, he quits his Horſe, and betakes himſelf to his Palanquin, wherein he may lie a-long at eaſe. M. Thevenot's Indian Travels. Bernier.

ONAR, a City in the Eaſt-Indies, ſeated in the Promontory of Malabar, eighteen Spaniſh Leagues S. of Goa. It has a ſtrong Caſtle, and large Haven, was formerly poſſeſs'd by the Portugueſe, but now by the King of Canara.

O-NEAL, formerly one of the Tyrants of Ulſter, who was choſen in the open Air on a high Hill. The Cahans, who were of principal Authority under him, as a ſpecial Piece of Service threw a Shooe over O-neal's Head at the Election. Camb. Brit.

ONEGA, a great Lake of Moſcovy, which is one of the biggeſt in Europe, being 50 Leagues in length, 18 in breadth, and 120 round, between the White Sea to the N. and the Lake call'd Ladoga, to the W. (into which it diſchargeth it ſelf by the River Suri) Cargapolia to the E. and Megrina to the S. The Northern part of this Lake belongs to the Swedes, and the Southern to the Moſcovites. It tranſmits its Water by the River Suri to Ladoga. Some Engliſh Ships which croſs'd this Lake in 1566 found it 320 miles long, and 70 miles broad, and above 40 fathoms deep near the Shoar. It divides Moſcovy from Sweden. There is a River in Ruſſia of this Name, which falls into the Bay of Solouetzko, Weſt of St Nicolas, and below Cargapolia, joins the Volga, which falling into the Finland Sea near Zama, makes a Paſſage from the Port of St. Nicholas into Finland Bay, and ſo to the Sund.

ONEGLIA, a City and Marquiſate of Italy, on the Coaſt of Genoua, belonging to the Duke of Savoy. This Territory conſiſts of a very pleaſant Valley, extreamly fruitful in Olive-trees, Wine, and other ſorts of Fruits.

ONESICRITUS of Ægina, a Philoſopher and Hiſtorian, who lived in 430 of Rome. He was a Cynick, and followed Alexander the Great to the Wars, the Hiſtory whereof he writ, but he mingled ſo many Fables with it, that he got ſmall Credit by his Undertaking. Suidas. Voſſius.

ONESILUS, King of Salamine in Cyprus, who uſurped the Crown in the Abſence of his Brother Gorgo, who was gone to command the Fleet of Xerxes King of Perſia againſt the Ionians. He beſieged the City of Amathus; but the Perſians coming to their Aſſiſtance, defeated Oneſilus, and cutting off his Head, ſet it upon one of the Pinnacles of the Walls of the City Amathus, where a Swarm of Bees came and filled it with Honey, which the Inhabitants looking upon as a Prodigy,conſulted the Oracle,which ordered them to bury the Head, and to offer Sacrifices to it. Herod.

St. ONESIMUS, Biſhop of Epheſus and Martyr, in the Iſt. Century, was a Phrygian. He was at firſt a Slave to Philemon, whom he robbed, and afterwards came to viſit St. Paul at Rome, who there converted and baptized him, and ſent him back to Philemon. He became afterwards very eminent in Vertue, and was made Biſhop of Epheſus. St. Ignatius ſpeaks highly in praiſe of him. He died a Martyr in the Empire of Trajan, being ſtoned at Rome, whither he was come at the Requeſt of the Proconſul. Baron in Anal. S. Paul's Epiſt. to Philemon. Ignat. Epiſt. ad Epheſ.

ONGOSCHIO, a great Lord in the Court of the Emperor of Japan, whom Taicko nominated to be the Tutor of Prince Fideri, whom that Emperor had left Succeſſor to the Crown, being then but ſix years of Age. He accepted of the Guardianſhip, and promiſed by a Writing ſigned with his Blood, that he would reſign the Crown to Fideri as ſoon as he was fifteen years of Age, and cauſe him to be crowned Emperor by the Daire. But his Ambition prompted him to break his Word. He married his Daughter to thePrince and in the mean time raiſed a powerful Army to make himſelf Maſter of the Kingdom, and beſieged Fideri in the City of Ozacha, and burnt him in his Palace, with his Wife, who was his own Daughter, with many other Perſons of Quality that were with them: And not contenting himſelf with this more than barbarous Cruelty, hecauſed all the Lords to be put to death that had declared themſelves for Fideri their lawful Prince, or who had entertained the leaſt Correſpondence with him, and by this means continued Poſſeſſor of the Empire of *Japan. ONIAS I. of this Name, High Prieſt of the Jews, ſucceeded Jaddus. He continued in that Station about fourteen years, under the Reign of Ptolemy, the Son of Lagus, in Egypt: and Simeon the Juſt ſucceded him. Onias II. Son of this Simeon, had like to have been the cauſe of the Ruin of the Jews, by neglecting to pay the Tribute to Ptolemy Euergetes. He left Simeon II for his Succeſſor, who was followed by Onias III. ſuppoſed to be the ſame that fled to Egypt, and built there, in the City of Heliopolis, a Temple like that at Jeruſalem, which continued till the time of Veſpaſian. Antiochus Epiphanes took the High Prieſt-hood from him, to beſtow it upon Jaſon, the Son of Onias, who bought it, and he who was lawfully poſſeſs'd of it was murthered about the year of the World 3882. Spond. Salian. Torniel.

ONKELOS, ſurnamed The Proſelyte, a famous Rabbi, about the time of our Saviour; if we may believe Jewiſh Authors. He was the Author of the firſt Chaldee Paraphraſe upon the Pentateuch. He was not a Son of the Siſter of Titus the Emperor, as ſome Jews have ſuppoſed, nor the ſame with Aquila, the famous Author of a Greek Verſion, as ſome of our Doctors have been of Opinion: But, according to the Talmudiſts, it is he who celebrated the Funerals of Rabbi Gamaliel (whom Schickard takes to have been S Paul's Maſter) and who, to make the Solemnity the greater, burnt to the Value of 7000 Crowns of his Houſhold-ſtuff. The Talmud expreſſeth it by 70 Minæ of Tyre; the Mina of Tyre contained 25 Shekels, and each Shekel was worth four Crowns of Conſtantinople. So that 70 Minæ of Tyre amounted to 7000 Crowns. The Cuſtom of the Jews was, to burn the Bed and other Moveables of their Kings after their Death, and having little leſs Reſpect for the Preſident of their Synagogue, as Gamaliel was, than they had for their Kings, they uſed the ſame Ceremony at his Funeral. Ferrand's Remarks upon the Chriſtian Religion.

ONOR, a Kingdom of Aſia in Biſnagar, in the Peninſula of the Indus, on this ſide the Ganges, on the Coaſt of Malabar. The Natives call it Ponaran. The Portugueſe have a Fort, and are Maſters of a good Port in the chief Town of this Kingdom. Here is Pepper much heavier than the common, and black Rice that is far better than the white.

ONSPACH, Lat. Onoldum, a Town and Caſtle of Germany, in the Circle of Franconia, is Capital of a Marquiſate that belongs to a Prince of the Family of Brandenburg, and lies between the Biſhopricks of Bamberg and Wurtsburg, to the North, and that of Eichſtadt to the North. The Town lies 23 German miles from Norimberg to the W. and 45 S. of Bamberg.

ONUPHRIUS (Panvinius) of Verona, an Auguſtine Friar, was famous in the ſixteenth Century; he writ the Continuation of Platina's Lives of the Popes, and ſeveral other Pieces. He died at Palermo in Sicily, as he was preparing a General Hiſtory of the Popes, and Cardinals in 1568, being 39 Years of Age. The reſt of his Works are, *De Primatu Petri. Chronicon Eccleſiaſticum. De antiquo ritu Baptizandi Catechumenos, & de origine Baptizandi Imagines. Feſti & Triumphi Romanorum. De Sibyllis. Comment. Reip. Rom. Comment. de Triumpho. OPHAREL, the Name of an Iriſh Family in the County of Longford, of which there are two great Men, one in the North called White, and another in the South called Yellow. Camb Brit.

OPHIOGENES, a Greek word ſignifying begot by Serpents, and was the Name of a Family in Cyprus, who were ſaid to derive their original from Serpents, which were obſerv'd never to hurt them; but on the contrary, they had the vertue of curing their Bitings by touch, and of drawing the Venom out of the Wounds they had made. 'Tis reported that one of this Family being come on an Embaſſy to Rome, to try the Truth of the Story, the Senate put him into a Veſſel full of Serpents which did him no harm. It is ſaid alſo, That the ſmell of their Bodies was different from others, and that the Sweat that proceeded from them as alſo their Spittle were a Remedy againſt Poiſon. It is likewiſe reported, That there was a People about Helleſpont, that naturally had the vertue to cure the Biting of Serpents. Plin. Aul. Gel.

OPHIONÆUS, chief of the Dæmons that revolted againſt Jupiter, according to the Account given us by Pherecides, the Syrian, by which it would appear that the Heathens had ſome knowledge of the Fall of Lucifer. Homer ſeems to allude to this in his Iliad, where he gives a Deſcription of Ate's being caſt from Heaven. And Plato learnt of the Egyptians that Jupiter had caſt down the impure Spirits from Heaven, who ever after endeavoured to draw Men into the ſame Abyſs with themſelves. It is obſervable that Ophionec ſignifies a Serpent, and that it was under this Figure the Devil appear'd the firſt time. *Juſtin. Martyr. Orat. ad Gentil. Marſil. Ficin. in Apolog. Sacr. Cæl. OPHIOPHAGI, a People of Æthiopia, who lived on Serpents.

OPHIR, a Country to which Solomon ſent his Fleet to fetch Gold. To underſtand the different Opinions of Interpreters we muſt ſuppoſe what is clear in Scripture, that the Fleet which went to Ophir begun their three years Voyage on the Red-Sea; that beſides Gold and Silver, they brought with them Elephants Teeth, Monkeys, Peacocks, Parrots, and all ſorts of precious Stones, Aromatick Wood, &c. So that the Place they went to muſt of neceſſity have been well provided with all theſe; and therefore ſome Authors place it in Africk, others in Aſia or America, pitching upon ſuch parts as are now found ſufficiently furniſhed with the things abovementioned. Bochart tells us that there were two Lands of Ophir, the one in Arabia, whence David fetch'd a great Quantity of Gold, and the other in the Eaſt-Indies, whither Solomon ſent his Fleet: that this latter Ophir was the Taprobana of the Ancients, now the Iſle of Ceilon, where there is a Haven called Hippor, which the Phœnicians called Ophir. Maffæus would have it to be Pegu, where to this day there are ſtill many Mines of Gold and Silver; and confirms his Opinion by the Letters of Fa. Bomford, a French Cordelier, who ſaith that the Peguans pretend to be deſcended from thoſe Jews that were baniſh'd by Solomon, and condemned to work in the Mines of that Country. Pererius takes it to be the ſame with Malacha on the Streights of the ſame Name, to the Eaſt of Sumatra. Joannes Tzetza will have it to be the Iſle of Sumatra. Lipenius, who hath writ a Treatiſe on this Subject, ſaith, That a Grand child of Heber, call'd Ophir, gave his Name to that part of the Eaſt-Indies that is beyond Ganges; and comprehending not only the Cherſoneſus Aurea, which Joſephus calls The Land of Gold, now Malaca, but alſo the Iſlands of Java and Sumatra, with the Kingdoms of Siam, Pegu, and Bengala, in which Countries all thoſe things are found which Solomon's Fleet brought to Jeruſalem, and which Voyage might well be three Years a making; for after they were come out of the Red-Sea, they coaſted it along the Shore of Arabia, Perſia, and the Mogul's Dominions; and then took a round about the Peninſula beyond the Gulf of Bengala, and fetched Diamonds from Golconda, and rich Stuffs from Bengala; and then went for their Gold and Rubies to Pegu, and from thence to Sumatra, whence they returned along the Coaſt of Malaca to Siam, where they loaded Elephants-Teeth and Gold alſo. This Opinion, which truly is the moſt probable, deſtroys all the reſt. Eſpecially that which places Ophir in America, and will have Solomon's Fleet to have gone round the World; whereas before the Invention of the Mariners Compaſs, Sailers durſt not loſe Sight of Land, but always coaſted along the Shore. See Tarſhiſh. L'Abbe de Shoiſy Vie de Solomon. Lipenius.

OPHITES, a ſort of Hereticks who appeared in the IId. Century, and proceeded from the Nicolaitans and Gnoſticks. It is ſaid they honoured a Serpent. When their Prieſts celebrated their Myſteries, they made a Serpent come forth from a Hole, which after it had roll'd it ſelf over the things that were to be offered in Sacrifice; they ſaid that Jeſus Chriſt had ſanctified them, and then deliver'd them to the People who worſhipp'd them. *Origen. OPHRATES, Iſt. of that Name, King of Aſſyria, ſucceeded Piricades in the 3104, and reign'd twenty Years. Ophrates IId. or Ophratanes ſucceeded him, and reign'd to the Year 3173. Euſeb. Chron. Torniel. Annal Vet. Teſt.

OPINION, a Deity of the ancient Pagans, worſhipped as if ſhe preſided over Mens Sentiments, which are for the moſt part pure Conjectures; ſhe was repreſented in the form of a young Woman, with a bold Look, but a ſtaggering Gate. Lactantius.

OPINIONISTS, a Name that was given in Pope Paul IId's. time, to a Sect that boaſted of affected Poverty, and held there could be no Vicar of Jeſus Chriſt on Earth that did not practice this Vertue. Sponde, A. C. 1467.

OPMEER (Peter) born at Amſterdam in the Year 1525, was a great Scholar in the Languages, Belles Lettres, Philoſophy, and Divinity; he was a zealous Roman Catholick, and made it his Buſineſs to ſupport and encourage thoſe who ſuffer'd for their Religion. His Works are, Aſſertio Hiſtorica. De Officio Miſſæ. Hiſtoria Martyrum Gorcemienſium, Hollandiæq;. Opus Chronographicum, &c. His Life, written by Vaierius Andreas, is prefixt to the laſt Treatiſe.

OPORINUS, (Joannes) a famous Printer of Baſil, where he was born, the 25th. of Jan. 1507. As he lived, ſo he died very poor the 6th. of July, 1560. The publick has been much oblig'd to him, for the care he took in Printing the Works of the Ancients, and correcting them with the greateſt Exactneſs. He alſo writ Notes upon divers Authors, and very large Tables on Plato, Ariſtotle, Pliny, &c. It's remarkable, that Oporin took this Name to himſelf, on reading theſe Verſes of Martial,

Si daret Autumnus mihi Nomen 'Οπωρινός eſſem,
Horrida ſi bruma ſidera, Χειμερινός.

And afterwards he was Partner with another Printer call'd Robert Winter, who took the Name Χειμερινός; who lived and died as poor as he. There are ſeveral Letters of Oporinus's publiſh'd in a Collection of Epiſtles, printed at Utrecht in 1697. *Andreas Lociſc. Orat. de vita & obitu Oporini. Melch. Adam. in vit. Phil. Germ. OPPEDE (John Meynier Baron of) firſt Preſident of the Parliament of Aix in Provence, a man of a furious Zeal for the Roman Catholick Religion. He ſuceeded in that Place to the famous Lawyer Bartholomew Chaſſaneus and executed the Sentence pronounced againſt the Vaudois, the Execution whereof his Predeceſſor had always hindered. This Sentence condemned nineteen of theſe Perſons to be burnt, and ordered that all the houſes, as well as Caſtles and ſtrong Holds poſſeſſed by them, ſhould be demoliſhed. The Lady of Cental demanding Juſtice againſt Oppede for burning her Towns and Caſtles; the thing was referred to a Trial at Law, which laſted four or five years; at the end of which Oppede was acquitted, and all the Puniſhment due to theſe Incendiaries fell upon the Attorney General Guerin, who being accuſed of having allowed the Soldiers in their licentiouſneſs, had his Head cut off at the Greve in Paris. Oppede lived ſome years after, and died in 1558, in moſt dreadful Torments. Which Thuanus and Dupleix take notice of as a juſt Puniſhment of God upon him for his Cruelty.

OPPELEN, Lat. Oppolia, a City of Germany in Sileſia, upon the River Oder, the Capital of a Dukedom, and has an ancient Caſtle. The Swedes took it in the late German Wars, but it was reſtored by the Peace of Munſter. It ſtands ſeven German miles from Ratibor, to the North, nine from Breſlaw, and ſix from the Borders of Poland.

OPPENHEIM, Lat. Oppenhemium, a ſmall City of Germany in the Lower Palatinate of the Rhine, Imperial and free until it was granted with its Territory to Rupert Prince Palatine, by the Emperor, in 1402. It ſtands upon a Hill, three German miles South of Mentz. The French put a Garriſon into it in 1688 and have demoliſh'd it ſince.

OPPIA, call'd by ſome Authors Pompilia, was a Neſtal Virgin, but being convicted of Debauchery, was ſhut up alive under Ground, and ſtarv'd to Death, according to the Penalty provided in ſuch Caſes. Livy. Scaliger Animad. in Euſeb.

OPPIA Lex, a Roman Law, which forbad the Luxury and Coſtlineſs of Cloaths; ſo called from C. Oppius, Tribune of the People, who enacted this Law in the Conſulſhip of Q. Fabius Maximus and Sempronius Gracchus. This Law commanded Women not to wear above half an Ounce of Gold on their Cloaths, which were to be of one Colour; nor to ride in their Coaches in the City, or a thouſand Paces round it, except it were upon ſome Religious Account. But after that the Romans had ſubdued Africa and Spain, M. Fundanius and L. Valerius, Tribunes of the People, endeavoured to aboliſh this Law, tho' oppos'd therein by Brutus and T. Junius. But the Womens Party carried it at laſt. Joh. Jerom. lib. 6. Paral. Hiſpan.

OPPIANUS, a Poet and Grammarian of Anazarba, a City of Cilicia. He lived in the IId. Century, and compoſed a Poem of Hunting, and another of Fiſhing, which he dedicated to Antoninus Caracalla, who was ſo well pleaſed with this Work, that he preſented him with as many Golden Crowns as there were Verſes in his Poems, upon which account they are called Oppian's Golden Verſes. He writ alſo ſome other Pieces which are loſt. He died in his own Country, at the Age of Thirty. His Citizens erected a Statue in Honour of him, and ſet an Epitaph on his Tomb, importing that the Gods had thought fit to take away his Life, becauſe he had ſurpas'd all Mortals. The beſt Edition of this Poet, is the Leyden Printed in 1597. with Conradus Ritterſhuſius's notes, with the Life of the Author. Suidas. Scaliger.

OPPIDO, Lat. Oppidum, a City of the Kingdom of Naples, in the further Calabria, which is a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Rheggio, ſeated at the Foot of the Appennine, at the Riſe of the River Marro, twelve miles from the Tyrrhenian Sea. Cluverius ſuppoſeth it to be the ancient Mamertum.

OPPIUS (Caius) a Latin Hiſtorian, who ſome think was the Author of Cæſar's Commentaries concerning the Wars of Alexandria, Africa and Spain. Tacitus ſaith, he was one of the firſt to whom Cæſar gave Power to treat of Peace and War.

OPTATUS, Biſhop of Milevis in Africa, was in repute in the IVth. Century, under the Empire of Valentinian and Valens. He writ, about the year 368, ſeven Books of The Schiſm of the Donatiſts, againſt Parmenianus, one of their Biſhops. Meric Caſaubon hath given us an Edition of this Treatiſe, which is accounted the beſt. He died about the year 380.

ORACLE. The Original of Oracles is very ancient, but the Hiſtories on which they are founded ſeem to be meer Fables. For thus Herodotus, in his ſecond Book, intituled, Euterpe, deſcribes that of the Oracle of Dodona. The Prieſts of this Place affirm'd that two black Pigeons flew from Egyptian Thebes, one of which flew into Libya, and the other came to Dodona; that this laſt perching upon an Oak, was heard to ſay, That there ought to be built an Oracle of Jupiter in that Place, which they immediately performed. As to the other, which flew into Libya, ſhe occaſioned the Eſtabliſhment of the Oracle of Jupiter Ammon. The Craft of the Heathen Prieſts, and Sillineſs of the People, got them great Credit, which they maintained a long time by ambiguous Anſwers. And Euſebius proves that they were perfect Cheats, Firſt, by the Authority of the very Pagan Philoſophers, as Ariſtotle and others, who always ſaid, That Oracles were but Prieſt-craft, by which the Credulous were abuſed under the colour of Inſpiration. Cicero laughs at the famous Anſwer made to Cræſus: and adds, That this of Ennius, Aio te Æacida Romanos vincere poſſe, was made in imitation of it, and the more ridiculous, becauſe Apollo never ſpoke Latin. This Cheat Demoſthenes diſcover'd a long time before, when he complained that Pythia Philippiz'd, that is, brib'd with Money, gave Anſwers always in favour of Philip, King of Macedonia. Notwithſtand this, great Men diſdained not to have recourſe to them, to authorize their Laws and Counſels, as Lyturgus, when he eſtabliſhed his Laws amongſt the Lacedæmonians; and Themiſtocles, when he adviſed the Athenians to quit the City to the Perſians, and embark to fight them; the People, that would rather die than abandon their Towns and Gods,. were at laſt perſuaded to it by Apollo's Order. Pompey, when he deſign'd to eſtabliſh Ptolemy in Egypt, made the Romans believe that the Sibyl ſaid, When the Kingdom of Egypt failed, there ſhould then a Prince riſe, who ſhould command all the World; which ſhews that the Leading men ſtoop'd to theſe Cheats. Some, and thoſe conſiderable Men too, object againſt this Opinion concerning Oracles, and hold; with the Chriſtian Authors of the Primitive Church, That Devils gave Reſponſes. For Tertullian ſpeaks thus, They would imitate God, in pretending to Fore-knowledge and Divination, but Cræſus and Pyrrhus are acquainted with the Cheat of their ambiguous Anſwers, to fit them to whatſoever ſhould happen. Euſebius alſo ſays, They made Anſwers in Statues and Bodies conſecrated to them. The Learned Voſſius is of this Opinion, for he writes thus, If ſome Oracles have been counterfeited by the Cunning of Perſons hid in them, it does not follow but that the Devil may have anſwered in others, to ſeduce thoſe that conſulted them: and if what they ſaid bore a double meaning, it was becauſe they could give only probable Conjectures concerning Futurities; and therefore made uſe of obſcure and ambiguous words, that People ſhould think they did not comprehend the right ſence, when the Event happen'd contrary to Expectation. The chief Grounds of theſe Objections are, That Oracles ceaſed at the Birth of Chriſt: That the Devils themſelves owned, that the Fear of the Name of Jeſus Chriſt, hindered them from anſwering as they were accuſtomed, as the Oracle of Delphos anſwered Auguſtus, when he conſulted him about his Succeſſor. Theſe may be thus anſwered, Firſt, That the Oracles, of whoſe Silence Plutarch complains, had ceaſed four hundred years before the Birth of our Saviour, and that ſuch as flouriſhed immediately before, continued a long time after. As to the Second, There is no Hiſtory mentions, that Auguſtns ever conſulted the Oracle of Delphos. Nor is it likely he took that Journey in his old Age, to know who ſhould be his Succeſſor, whereas he deſigned Tiberius for the Throne. To this may be added, That the moſt famous Oracles of Greece ceaſed after the War of the Perſians: for Towns and whole Provinces being laid Waſte, the Prieſts quited their Poſts; and immediately, upon their Departure, the Oracles ceaſed. As a farther Proof of theſe Oracles being a Cheat, they alledge, That the Prieſts enjoin'd a Victim to be offered, and according as they found the Signs in the Entrails they made their Conjectures, or refus'd to anſwer. And there were always abundance of Poets attending, who put the Anſwers in Verſe. On the Oracle of Dodona they obſerve, That it was a Statue placed on a Column, having a Rod in its Hand with which it ſtruck a brazen Baſin. When the Oak by which it ſtood was ſhook with the Wind, and when they heard this ſound, which made a ſort of Harmony, the Propheteſſes interpreted it to be Jupiter's Anſwer. They add further, That there were abundance of Veſſels of Braſs ſo placed as that by the motion of the Wind they ſtruck on one another, and made a Muſical noiſe. But whatever Cheats may have been practiſed in thoſe Oracles, it is certain that the Devil did give Reſponſes in ſome of them. And accordingly the Scripture tells us, That Ahaziah, King of Iſrael, ſent to enquire of Baalzebub, the God of Ekron, whether he ſhould recover. Whereupon the Prophet Elijah, by the Commandment of God reproved him, and deſtroyed 100 of his Soldiers and two Captains by Fire from Heaven, as going on that Errand, II Kings, chap. 1. Saul had recourſe to a Woman that had a familiar Spirit, I Sam. 28. And in the 16th. of the Acts we have an Account of a Spirit of Divination caſt out of a Damoſel by S. Paul. And ſome Learned Men who were of Opinion, that the Stories of the Oracles owning of Chriſt, &c. where but Piæ Fraudes, have been convinced of the probability of it from this Conſideration, That the Devils themſelves did own Chriſt while upon Earth to be the Son of God. The Trophonian Den, or Cave was famous for Oracles; and thoſe who entred the ſame were obliged to uſe many Ointments and Waſhings, and to carry Proviſions in their Hands, to give the Snakes and other Vermin there, to prevent their being deſtroyed or eaten up themſelves. And it was obſerved, that ſuch as have ſince entred that Den, were never merry after. Delphos was alſo famous for its Oracle, and the ambiguous Reſponſes it gave, particularly that to Cræſus, which occaſioned his Deſtruction, viz.

Cræſus Halyn penetrans magnam ſubvertet opum vim.

Which was verified in his own Deſtruction, tho' he hop'd for that of his Enemies. And Suidas tells us, That Auguſtus, ſending to conſult this Oracle about his Succeſſor, received this Anſwer,

An Hebrew Child, whom the bleſt Gods adore,
Hath bid me leave theſe Shrines, and pack to Hell,
So that of Oracles I can no more:
In ſilence leave our Altar, and Farewel.

Whereupon Auguſtus cauſed an Altar to be erected in the Capitol with this Inſcription, Hæc eſt Ara Primogeniti Dei. Plutarch tells a memorable Story concerning the Oracles thus, in his Tract called, Περὶ τῶν λελοιπότων Χρηστηρίων. Some People ſailing out of Greece for Italy were becalmed about the Echinades, when on a ſudden there was heard a Voice calling aloud on one Thamuz, an Egyptian, then in the Ship, who neglecting the firſt two anſwered at the third Call, Here I am; whereupon the Voice ordered him when he came to the Palodes, to make it known that the Great God Pan was dead. And aſſoon as he came to the Palodes; which are Rocks in the Ionian Sea, Thamuz ſtanding upon the Poop of the Ship, did according to direction; whereupon was heard a mighty noiſe of many Groaning and Lamenting, together with terrible and hideous Shriekings. Tiberius the Emperor, conſulting the Learned Men of his Empire, who this Pan ſhould be, they anſwered, The Son of Mercury and Penelope. But Heylin ſays That thoſe who obſerved the Circumſtances of this Accident, found it to happen at the time when our Saviour ſuffered, who was indeed the true God Pan, The chief Shepherd and Biſhop of our Souls; and that upon this divulging of his Death and Paſſion, the Devils, who uſed to ſpeak in Oracles. did with great Grief and Lamentation, forſake that Office which had been ſo gainful to them, in Seducing mankind; their Oracles beginning then to fail, and in a ſhort time after decayed ſenſibly. Heylin, lib. 2. pag. 193. The moſt famous Oracles of old were theſe following, viz. The Oracle of Apollo at Delphos, a City of Phocis in Greece; of Jupiter Dodonæus, in Epirus; of Jupiter Ammon, in Africa; of Apollo Clavius, near to Colophon, a City of Ionia in Aſia Minor; of Serapis, at Alexandria in Egypt; of Trophonius; in Bæotia; of Sibylla Cumæa in Italy, &c. Some Learned Men of our Age, and eſpecially Van Dalin, in his Treatiſe of Oracles, printed in Latin, at Amſterdam, in 1683. endeavours to prove, that all the ancient Oracles were mere Impoſtures; Tertullian Cap. 22. *Minutius Fælix. ORAN, Lat. Oranium Icoſium, a City of Barbary, in the Kingdom of Algiers, near the Borders of Tremeſen, called by the Moors Guharan. It hath a very ſtrong Caſtle, and a ſafe and large Haven, over againſt Carthagena in Spain. It was taken in 1509, by the Cardinal Ximenes, for the Spaniards, and hath continued in their poſſeſſion ever ſince. It formerly had the Name of Quiſa. In 1556, Two Thouſand Men defended it againſt Twelve Thouſand Turks, and repulſed them with great Loſs. It was formerly a City of great Trade with Italy and Spain, and conſiſted of 6000 Families. The Harbour was ſmall and unſafe, but —— miles off is a far larger and ſafer. Its Moſques, Colleges, Hoſpitals, Baths and Inns, were well built. The Town was encompaſſed with high and ſtrong Walls having a Plain on one ſide, and Mountains on the other. They formerly lived much upon Piracy, and took many Chriſtians Slaves, which provoked Ferdinand, King of Spain, againſt them. So that he took it in 1507. It ſuſtained a Seige, and beat off the Moores, December, —— 1688.

ORANGE, is a City, Univerſity, and Principality, incloſ'd by the Kingdom of France, ſince the acceſſion of Languedoc, Dauphine and Provence to that Crown. It was part of the Ancient Roman Province or Gallia Narbonenſis, now Provence. The Latins called the City of Orange, Arauſio Cavarum or Secundanorum, Arauſica Civitas, and Arauſionenſis Urbs. Some think that it was built by the Phoceans the Founders of Marſeilles, but this is uncertain. All that can be judg'd is, That this City is very ancient, and was of old a place of Import, as may be perceiv'd by the Remains of the Magnificent Roman Structures there, as a Cirque built with great Art; Aqueducts, and part of a great Tower ſuppoſed to have been one of Diana's Temples. But the moſt remarkable thing is the ruines of a Triumphal Arch erected by Caius Marius and Luctatius Catulus, after their famous Victory over the Cimbri and Teutones. It ſuffered much by the Attacks of its Neighbours, and alſo of the Barbarians, eſpecially the Goths and Saracens. The old Fortifications were demoliſh'd in the fifth and ſeventh Ages, as were alſo three fourths of the Town, the remainder being only defended by ſlight Walls until 1130, that the Princeſs Tiburga I. encompaſſed it with a ſtrong Wall which continued till 1682, that it was totally pull'd down by order of Lewis XIV. of France. There was upon the Hill of Orange an Ancient Magnificent Caſtel, and a Well of an extraordinary depth digg'd out of the Rock. In 1622 Maurice built ſuch a Regular Fortreſs; that Orange was look'd upon as one of the ſtrongeſt Cities in Europe, but Lewis XIVth. caus'd it to be ras'd in 1660; There have been three famous Councils held here; the firſt in 441, under Pope Leo I. in the time of Valentinian the Emperor, about Diſcipline and the Right of Lay-Patronage. The ſecond under Fælix IV. in the time of Atalarick King of Italy, and Childebert King of France, in 529, held by Liberius a Governour of the Gauls, whoſe Reſidence was at Orange; in which Council Pelagianiſm was condemned. The Third was ſummoned againſt the Albigenſes, by the Cardinal Deacon of Rome, Legate of Pope Honorius, an. 1229, in the time of Conrade the Emperor, but none attended ſave the Italian Biſhops who accompany'd him. This City has alſo an Univerſity founded by Raymund the Vth. in 1365, and is alſo the Seat of a Parliament ſettled here by William VII. in 1470. The Principality of Orange contains Courthezan, Jonquieres, and Gigondas, with ſome other ſmall Boroughs. Is four Leagues long, and three broad, bounded by the County of Venaiſin, belonging to the Pope, and the River Rhoſne. It is watred by the River Eygues, la Meyne, and Louvez. The Country is exceeding fruitful in Corn, Wine, Saffron, Silk, and all ſorts of good Fruits. In 700 a Prince called Theofret govern'd Orange, was ſucceeded by Theofret his Son, who was Martyr'd by the Saracens in 730. William Cornet; Court-nez or Short-Noſe was Prince in the time of Charlemaigne, and took Orange from the Saracens. He was of the Royal Family of Burgundy, and Conſtable of France under Pepin the ſhort, and was the firſt who took the Title of Count by the Grace of God, which was uſual for none but Kings and Sovereigns. There are ſeveral Manuſcripts of his Life in the Abby, which he founded in 804. He had two Wives, the laſt of which was King Therbaud's Daughter, whom he took with the Town, and baptiz'd her. He had only one Child, a Daughter, who carried all his Eſtate to Rollin, a great Lord in the Kingdom of Arles, ſuppoſed to be of the Family of Baux. William above named died in 869; the Emperor Charlemaigne married his Siſter Bertha in 810. Rollin aforeſaid had by his Wife Herimbrue, Daughter to William, two Sons, Hugo and Rogo, who in 839 were called Marqueſſes or Counts of Orange, and divided the Principality; Hugo the oldeſt keeping Orange with its Dependances, and was ſucceeded by his Daughter Alatais in 886 or 890, and ſhe by her Son Rambaud I. who died in 910, and was ſucceeded by Boſon his Son, who died in 924; of the time betwixt which and 1086, that Gerard Adhemar was ſucceeded by Rambaud IId, the Records were loſt in 1562. either by Pillage or Fire. Rambaud II. died in his Voyage to the Holy Land in 1115, leaving only a Daughter call'd Tiburga II. who married William II. of her own Family, deſcended from Rogo Grandſon to William Cornet. Of this Marriage came two Sons, William III. being the eldeſt; and two Daughters, amongſt whom Tiburga divided the Principality, on condition that they ſhould do homage for nothing to the Count of Provence, but for Serignan and Cameret, and that they ſhould give nothing of their Immovables to the Church of Rome on pain of being diſinherited. William III. was ſucceded by his Son William IV. whoſe Son Rambaud had no Iſſue, ſo that Tiburga II. being married a ſecond time to Bertran de Baux, who was murther'd by order of the Count de Thólouſe in the Cathedral of Arles, on Eaſter-day, an. 1181. William V. his Son ſucceded as Prince of Orange in 1182. This Family of Baux, and the Land now call'd Bauſſenques, were a Principality and County for which they ſometimes did homage to the Counts of Provence, according to a Treaty in 1150, and at other times they were independant, as appears by that of 1177, made by the Authority of the Emperor Frederick II. William the Vth's. right of Patronage over the Biſhoprick, and all the Benefices of the Principality, was acknowledged by the Clergy and People by two Acts in 1184 and 1208, but he was forc'd to quit it to the Church by the expreſs Commandment of the Legate Milon, in the City of S. Giles, Jan. 17. 1209, who at the ſame time being ſupported with 30000 Men, he deſpoiled the Count of Tholouſe of all his Poſſeſſions. This William had Grant of a Title to the Kingdom of Arles by the Emperor's Golden Bull in 1214, confirm'd by another, September the 29th. following; and by his Bulls of Jan. 17. that ſame Year, revoked the Donations of the Moiety of Orange, which had been made by Rambaud and Thibour to the Hoſpital of S. John of Jeruſalem, contrary to the Command of Tiburga the Iſt. and the Promiſe of William III. But William V. voluntarily reſtor'd them on the ſixth of October following, on certain Limitations. After this there followed many Conteſts betwixt this Family and the Counts of Provence, and Kings of France, who pretended to the Sovereignty of the Principality of Orange; but its Independency was aſſerted by the Bulls of Popes and Emperors, as Frederick I. and II. who maintain'd their right of Sovereignty in 1178, 1214, and other Emperors have done the like ſince, as appears by their Treaties with that Crown in 1526, 1529, 1544, and 1559. It being alſo apparent from Hiſtory, that the Princes of Orange began to appear about the VIIIth. Century, whereas Provence has not had Counts much above 690 Years. But to return to William V. he had by his Wife Eloy, William the VI. and by Ermengard his Second Wife, Raymond I. who ſucceeded him in the Principality. In 1225 William VI. had by Precious his Wife William VII. and three other Sons, and died in 1239. William VII. died without Iſſue; Raymond II. his Brother, ſucceeded him, died in 1272, leaving two Sons, Bertrand II. and Raymond III, who remitted his right of Sovereignty to Bertrand II. during his Government, and that of his Uncle Raymond I. who dying, left Bertrand III. and he made an Agreement with Bertrand II. in 1293, for the Principality, reſerving the Right of Succeſſion in caſe Bertrand III. ſhould die without Iſſue. Raymond III. youngeſt Son of Raymond II. ſucceeded in 1314, to Bertrand II. Raymond IV. was ſucceeded by his Son Raymond V. in 1340, who had only one Daughter, to whom he gave all his Eſtate by Contract of Marriage with John de Chalon, Sieur de Harlay, April 11. 386; the Marriage being conſummated in preſence of Pope Clement VII. Grand Uncle to the Princeſs. Raymond V. died in 1403; and ſo the Principality came into the Family of Chalon, who had alſo Pretenſions on Provence, and ſued for their right in 1384, 1426, 1429, and 1447. John de Chalon, who married Raymond the Vth's Daughter, died in 1418, and was ſucceeded by Lewis his Son, who entertain'd Lewis the XIth. of France, contrary to the Command of his Father, Charles VII, protected him, maintain'd him at his own Charge, and convey'd him into Brabant to the Duke of Burgundy, and in Conjunction with him and the Duke of Savoy, declar'd War againſt Charles VII. and reckoned to have taken Poſſeſſion of Dauphine; but Daucour, who govern'd that Province for the French King, defeated the Prince betwixt Colombier and Anthon in 1429, whereupon he threw himſelf into the Rhoſne, and ſwom over it in his Armour, rather than he would fall into the Hands of the French. William the VIIIth. ſucceeded him in 1466, who being deſpoil'd of all his Poſſeſſions in the County by the Duke of Burgundy; he was arreſted, as going to take Poſſeſſion, by order of Lewis XI and carried Priſoner to Bourges, under Pretence that he wanted a Paſſport, ſo that to procure his Liberty, he was conſtrain'd to ſell the Sovereignty of Orange to Lewis XI. for 40000 Crowns, for which he gave an Acquittance, without ever receiving a Farthing. This happened June the 9th. 1415; he was reſtor'd June the 17th. that ſame Year, and died September 24. 1415; ſucceeded by his Son John II. who Leagued with the Duke of Orleans againſt the Government during Charles the VIIIth's Minority, but was taken in the Battel of S. Aubin du Cornier in 1488, and being at Liberty, procured the Marriage of the King with Anne, Dutcheſs of Bretaigne, his Niece, November 16th 1491. This, with other Services to the Duke of Orleans, afterwards Lewis the XIIth. procur'd him ſo much favour with that King, that he made him Lieutenant General of Bretaigne, confirmed and augmented the Grants made him by the laſt Duke of Bretaigne. And being conſcious of the Violence done to his Predeceſſor, he annull'd the Sale of the Sovereignty of Orange, and gave up the Acquittance. Which Francis I. did alſo ratifie by Patents in 1498, 1500, 1515, 1516 and 1518, but taking part with the Emperor, he was afterwards moleſted. He died April 9. 1502, and was ſucceeded by his Son Philibert, who declaring for Charles V. againſt Francis I. of France, he ſeized his Eſtate, and gave his Principality to Anne de Montmorency, Widow to Mareſchal de Chattillon. Prince Philibert himſelf was taken in 1523, as going into Spain, and impriſon'd at Bourges, whence he was ſet at Liberty by the Treaty of Madrid, in 1526. After this, he commanded the Imperial Army at the taking of Rome, after the Death of the Duke of Bourbon, who was killed by a Musket-ſhot at the Aſſault. Prince Philibert covered him with a Cloak, to conceal his Death; puſh'd on the Attack with Vigour; carried the Suburb, and at laſt the City. But in 1530 he was killed at the Seige of Florence, having never been married. So that he was ſucceeded by Rene of Naſſaw, Son to Henry of Naſſaw, by Claude de Chalone his Siſter, his Uncle having left him Heir, on Condition that he ſhould take his Name and Arms. This Will was controverted by the Duke of Longueville, and Count de la Chambre, who obtain'd ſeveral Acts againſt the Princes of Orange, who were condemn'd without being heard, while France was in Poſſeſſion of their Dominions which they had ſeized, becauſe they took part with the Emperor; but all thoſe Acts were made void by the following Treaties of Madrid, Crepy, Nice and Cambreſis, in 1526, 1529, 1544, and 1559. The laſt of which annuls the Act of Parliament which confiſcated the Principality of Orange. Beſides which, the Clauſes contained in the ſaid Treaty are confirmed by divers Declarations of the Kings of France, from Francis I. to Henry IV. and by the Acts of their Councils, which declared themſelves not competent Judges to meddle with the Affairs of Orange; and the Contract of Marriage between John I. and Mary de Baux nullifie the pretended Subſtitution of the Duke de Longueville and the Count de la Chambre. But to return to Rene before mention'd, he engaged with Charles V. againſt Francis I. and died of a Wound which he received at the Siege of Dizier, July 15. 1544. By his Will of June 20. aforegoing, he made William of Naſſaw, IX. of that Name, Prince of Orange his Couſin German, his Heir. During whoſe time, the Civil Wars laid France waſte, and Orange had ſhare of the common Calamity, the City being taken, plundered and burnt, in 1562, by the Pope's and French King's Troops, which enriched the City of Avignon. And in the Year 1571 the Proteſtant Inhabitants left there were maſſacred on Candlemas-day. At the ſame time all the Papers and Records belonging to the Prince were carried off, and the beſt part of them ſent to Rome by the Cardinal d' Armagnac, the Soldiers having burnt and pillaged the Churches and Biſhops Palace, for which the Prince did baniſh thence the Biſhop and Clergy, as being the Authors of the Maſſacre and diſorders in 1562 and 1571, but did afterwards recall them at the deſire of Henry the IIId. of France; This William IX. was choſen by the States General of the United Provinces, as Head of their Republick, which owes its Eſtabliſhment to him. He was a great Captain, Sage Politician, prudent in his Adverſities, ſecret in his own Deſigns, but was very diſcerning, in diſcovering thoſe of others, which the Spaniards found to their coſt; and therefore they attempted him by all methods, even the moſt diſhonourable, till at laſt he fell by their Hand, being firſt wounded by the ſhot of a Piſtol, March 18. 1582, by Jauraguy the Servant of a Broken Banker, ſuſpected to have poiſoned Don John of Auſtria; the Spaniſh Letters found about the Aſſaſſinate, diſcover'd who he was. The Prince was cur'd of this Wound, but was ſhot by one Balthazar Gerrard, of the French County, a Spaniſh Emiſſary, in his Houſe at Delft, July 10. 1584. This Prince was married four times; his firſt Wife was Anne Counteſs of Buren, by whom he had Philip, William, and Mary married to the Count of Hohenlo; his ſecond Wife was Anne Daughter to Maurice Elector of Saxony, by whom he had Maurice of Naſſaw: Anne married to William Lowis, Count of Naſſaw; and Æmilia married in 1597. to Emanuel I. Prince of Portugal, and Vice-Roy of the Indies. His third Wife was Charlotte de Bourbon, Daughter to Lewis II. Duke of Montpenſier, by whom he had ſix Daughters; Louiſe married to the Elector Palatin; Elizabeth married to the Duke de Bouillon, Prince of Sedan; Catharine married to Philip Count of Hanaw; Charlotte married to the Duke de Thouan; Charlotte who died unmarried and Æmilia married to Frederick Count Palatin of the Rhine-Landsberg. His fourth Wife was Louiſe de Coligni, Daughter to the Admiral of France, Gaſpar de Coligni, by whom he had Henry Frederick de Naſſaw, Prince of Orange. Philip William, Prince of Orange was in the Hands of the Spaniards at his Father's Death, and was not ſet at liberty till a long time after. In 1606 he married Eleonor de Bourbon, Daughter of Henry de Bourbon I. of that Name, Prince of Conde, but he died without Iſſue Feb. 20. 1618 ſo that Maurice de Naſſaw, his Brother, ſucceeded. In 1584 the States conferr'd upon him the Government of Holland, Zeland, Utrecht, and the Admiralty, tho' but 18 Years of Age. He anſwer'd the Expectation of his Valour and Conduct, took all the Towns which the Spaniards had in Holland, ſurpriz'd Breda by hiding ſixty Souldiers in a Veſſel with Turf, by which they got into the Town. In a little time he recover'd all Friezland, Groeningen, Over-Teſſel, Nimeguen and Guelderland; he took in Hulſt, Fort S. Andrew, &c. Seven of the Provinces did reunite under his Government to the Great Aſtoniſhment of all Europe; after which he took Sluys, Grave, and ſome other places during the famous Siege of Oſtend in 1604, and in 1609 the Spaniards and States made a Truce for 12 Years which was proclam'd at Antwerp, April 14. The War commenc'd again in 1621. The Marquiſs de Spinola, the Spaniſh General took Breda in 1625; Prince Maurice, who hop'd at the ſame time to have ſurpriz'd the Caſtle of Antwerp was extreamly concern'd at the miſcarriage of the Deſign. He died at the Hague, April 23. 1625, aged 58 Years, having never been married. Henry Frederick, his Brother, ſucceeded him in the Principality of Orange, and Charges of the Republick, and maintain'd the Honour purchaſed by his Father and Brother. He took Grol. in 1627, and Boiſleduc in 1629; after which he carried Bergues, Venloo ,Ruremond, Maſtricht, and Breda in 1637. He made divers other Conqueſts without loſing many Men, ſo that he was call'd the Father of his Souldiers. He died at the Hague, March 14. 1647. His Wife was Emilia de Solms, by whom he had William II. who follows; Louiſa Henrietta married in 1646 to Frederick William, Elector of Brandenburg, Albertine married to William Frederick, Prince of Naſſaw, her Couſin, Governour of Friezland. Henrietta married to John George Prince of Anhalt Deſſaw, and Mary married to the Duke of Simmeren. William of Naſſaw, the Xth. of that Name, Prince of Orange, ſucceeded his Father in all his Charges, Jan. 23. 1648: there being a Peace concluded that ſame Year betwixt the Spaniards and the States at Munſter. In November 1650 he died at the Hague, aged 24. He had married Mary Daughter to King Charles the Iſt. of England by Henrietta Mary of France. Eight days after his Father's death the Princeſs Dowager was brought to Bed of Prince William Henry, and died at London Jan. 3. 1661, whither ſhe came to ſee her Brother, King Charles the IId. and to partake of the Joy of his Reſtauration, William Henry of Naſſaw, the XIth. of that Name, Prince of Orange ſucceded to all the Charges of his Father in 1672, and in November 14. 1677, maried Mary of England, his Couſin German, eldeſt Daughter to the Duke of York, afterwards James II. King of Great Britain. The ſaid Prince William Henry ſignaliz'd himſelf for Courage and Conduct in the Wars with France, An. 1672, by which he preſerv'd the Republick, and acquired immortal Fame. *La Piſe. Hiſt. ORANTES (Francis) was Biſhop of Oviedo in Spain, and liv'd to the latter end of the XVIth. He aſſiſted at the Council of Trent, in the Quality of a Divine. He wrote ſeveral Tracts, and amongſt others, one Entituled, Locorum Catholicorum pro Romana Fide adverſus Calvini Inſtitutiones, lib. 7. Eiſengrenius in Catalog. Teſt. Verit. Nicholaus Antonio Bibl. Hiſp. &c.

ORATORY, a Congregation of Prieſts founded at Rome by Philippus Neri of Florence, which was confirmed and approved by Pope Greogory the XIIIth. in 1575; and Pope Paul ratified the Conſtitutions of it in 1612. This Congregation hath produced extraordinary Perſons, and amongſt the reſt, Cardinal Baronius. See the Life of S. Philip Neri. Spondan. in Annal.

ORATORY (of Jeſus) another Congregation of Prieſts founded in France by the Cardinal of Berulle, in 1611, approved by Pope Paul the Vth. in 1613; and ſince much ſpread in France and the Low-Countries. The Prieſts of the Oratory are by their Eſtabliſhment obliged to honour, as far as is poſſible for them, the Myſteries of the Infancy, the Life and Death of our Lord, and to inſtruct Youth in their Colleges, to educate Clerks for the Service of the Church in their Seminaries, and to teach the People in their Sermons and Miſſions. The Cardinal of Berulle was the firſt Superior General of the Oratory. This Congregation hath produced many Illuſtrious Perſons for their Piety, Learning and Writings. P. San. Marth was choſen in 1672. Spond.

ORBEGO, Lat Urbicus, a River of the Kingdom of Leon which has its ſource in the Mountains of Aſturia, and flowing South, takes in the River Aſta near Aſtorga; then falls into the Eſla, which paſſing by the City Leon, joins the Douro, between Miranda to the Weſt, and Samora to the Eaſt. Theodorick, King of Spain, gave the Suabians a great Defeat on the Banks of this River.

ORBILIUS, an old Grammarian of Beneventum. He was very Eminent in his way, but 'tis ſaid, liv'd ſo long, that he forgot all his Learning. Sueton. de Clar. Grammat.

ORBITELLE, a ſtrong City of Italy upon the Borders of Tuſcany, which formerly was under thoſe of Siena; but ſince their ſubmitting to the Dukes of Florence, Orbitelle has belonged to the Spaniards who are alſo poſſeſs'd of Porto-Hercole in the ſame Country, Porto ſan Eſtefano, &c. which places form that ſmall Territory which thoſe of the Country call Stato delli Preſidii , and others la Menote de Toſcane. Orbitelle repuls'd the Turks in the Reign of Charles the Vth. and the French in 1646.

ORBONA, a Goddeſs, ſuppos'd to have the Care of Orphans. The Romans worſhipp'd her, to avoid the Affliction of Widowhood, or the Loſs of their Children. Her Name comes from the Latin word Orbus, which ſignifies one that hath loſt Father, Mother, Wife or Children. She had an Altar in the City of Rome, near to that of the Lares. Arnobius adverſ. Gentes lib. 4. Plin. lib. 1. cap. 7. Roſin. Antiq. Rom. lib. 2.

ORCHAN, Emperor of the Turks, was the youngeſt Son of Ottoman; but having overcome two of his Brothers, he got into the Throne. He added to his Dominions ſeveral Provinces bordering upon Aſia, viz. Myſia, Phrygia, Lycaonia, Lydia, Caria, &c. as far as the Helleſpont. Took Nicæa, Nicomedia, and divers other important Places; and made himſelf to be feared by the King of Caramania, his Father-in-Law, and the Emperor of Greece, his Allies. He died in 1379, or 760 of the Hegira, in the 32 year of his Reign, and 80 of his Age. Chalcondylas's Hiſtory of the Turks. Leunclavius in Pandect. Turcar.

ORCHIS, a conſiderable Town in Flanders, three Leagues N. E. of Doway, and five S. E. from Liſle. Ptolemy called it the Capital of the Atrebatii.

ORCHO, Lat. Morgus, a River of Piemont which falls into the Po ten miles beneath Turin.

ORCHOMENE, a City of Bæotia, which is now a Country Town of the ſame Name belonging to the Turks. There was another City of the ſame Name in Arcadia, and a River in Theſſaly. It was formerly of greater Power and Wealth than Thebes , fam'd for its vigorous Horſes, the Oracle of Tireſias, and the Defeat of Mithridates by the Romans.

ORDEAL, Lat. Ordalium, a kind of Trial which Women accuſed of Incontinency underwent, being nine Coulters laid red hot upon the Ground at a certain diſtance, and if the Woman accuſed paſſed over them hood-wink'd and bare-foot, without being burnt, ſhe was acquited. Ordeal ſignifies great Judgment, from the Saxon word, Or, great, and deal Judgment; It was us'd for a kind of Purgation practis'd in the Time of Edward the Confeſſor, and continu'd to Henry the IIId whereby the Party purg'd was judgd Expers Criminis, call'd, in the Canon Law, *Purgatio Vulgaris LL. ORDERS of Monks diſtinguiſh'd as follows, by their Habits. The White Friars are Canons Regular of the Order of S. Auguſtin. Gray Friars are Ciſtercian Monks, who chang'd their Black Habit for a Gray one. The Black Friars are all Benedictines. Matth. Paris. Jacob de Vitry. Hiſt. Occident. &c.

ORDOLPH, Son to Ordgare, Earl of Devonſhire, a Man of Giant-like Stature and Strength; ſaid to have burſt aſunder the Bars of great Gates, and to have ſtriden over the Rivulet at Taveſtock ten foot broad; his Tomb was to be ſeen in Taveſtock Abbey. Cambd. Brit.

ORDONNO I. King of Leon and of the Aſturia's, ſucceeded his Father Ramirez I. in 850. The Inhabitants of Toledo. being revolted from the Saracens, called him to their aſſiſtance in 854. But afterwards, having received ſome Loſſes, he died the 27th. of May, 862. after a Reign of 12 years. He had by Nunna, his Wife, Alphonſus III. who left Garcia, Ordonno, and Froila, the firſt of whom dying in 913, Ordonno II. ſucceeded him, who gained a moſt famous Victory over Almanſor, Prince of the Moors, of whom he killed near 70000. He died in 923, and Froila, his Brother, ſurnamed, The Leper, The Cruel, and The Amorous, uſurped the Throne which of right belonged to Alphonſus IVth. Son of Ordonno; who got into it Fourteen Months after, and kept it till 931, when Ramirez IId. his Brother, confined him to a Monaſtery, and reigned till 950. Ordonno the IIId. his Son, ſucceeded him, and was continually at Wars with his Subjects. In 955, Ordonno IVth. ſurnamed The Bad, Son of Alphonſus IVth. called The Monk, uſurped the Kingdom, but the Year following, he was depoſed by Sancho the Firſt, called The Big, Son of Ramirez IId. and Brother of Ordonno IIId. *Vaſæus. OREB, a Prince of the Midianites, who, together with Zeeb, was taken by Gideon, and put to Death. Judges 5. Joſeph. lib. 5. Antiq. cap. 8.

OREBRO, a ſmall City of Sweden, in the Province Nerke.

OREILYS, an Iriſh Clan, in the County of Cavan, who pretend to be deſcended from the Ridleys in England. They were very powerful in Horſemen, till Sir Henry Sidney, Lord Deputy in Queen Elizabeth's time, divided their County into Seven Baronies, whoſe Lords were to hold immediately in Fee from the Crown of England. They dwelt ſcattering in Piles and Forts, not in Towns; and had a Biſhop of their own whoſe See was at Kilmore. Camb. Brit.

ORENOQUE, Lat. Orenochus, a vaſt River in South-America, between Caſtilha del oro, and Guiana, called Paria, and Tuiapari by the Inhabitants, becauſe it divides the Province of Paria from Guiana; and after the Reception of many Rivers falls into the North-ſea, near the Iſland of S. Trinidado, in Four Degrees of North Latitude. The Inundations of this River are ſo great, in certain Months of the Year, that the Inhabitants are fain to make their Abodes on Trees as long as the ſame laſt. This vaſt River is Navigable 1000 Miles by Ships of burthen, and above 2000 with Boats and Pinnaces, and gives its Name to a Province that comprehends the North parts of Guiana, which is a very rich and pleaſant Country, conſiſting of large Plains many Miles in compaſs, adorn'd with embroidery of Flowers and unknown Plants, and in ſome Places interlaced with Hills, reported to be furniſhed with rich Mines of Gold and Silver; the Rivers liberally ſtor'd with Fiſh; and the Foreſts, both with Beaſts and Fowls. No Country in the World, comprehending Peru it ſelf, is ſaid to be comparable to it for Treaſure. The People, as of ſeveral Nations, are alſo of different Natures. The Capuri or Macureo's, for the moſt part Carpenters, live by making Canoes and Boats, which they ſell into Guiana for Gold, and into Trinidado for Tabaco; in the immoderate taking whereof they exceed all other Nations. When any of their Commanders die, they make great Lamentation; and after the Fleſh is putrefied and fallen from the Bones, they take the Skeleton, and hang it up in the Houſe where he dwelt, decking the Skull with Feathers of divers colours, and hanging Gold Plates about the Bones of his Arms and Thighs. Sir Walter Rawleigh ſays of the Tivitiva's, People that dwell upon the Northern Branches, that they are valiant, and have the moſt manly and deliberate Speech of any Nation of the World; a People which eat of nothing that is ſet or ſown, pure Children of Dame Nature; uſing the Tops of Palmito Trees for Bread; Fiſh, Deer, and Swinesfleſh, for the reſt of their Suſtenance. The Aſſawy and Arora's, a People as black as Negro's, uſe Arrows dipt in ſo ſtrange a Poiſon as doth not only bring Death, but with unſpeakable Torments. When any of their Kings or Cauques die, their Wives and neareſt of their Kindred beat their Bones to Powder, and mingle it with their Drink, like Spice. On the South parts are kept annual Fairs, for the Sale of Women, where one of the Engliſh-men, left there by Sir Walter Raleigh in 1595, bought eight, the Eldeſt not above eighteen, for a Half-penny red-hafted Knife. Heylin.

ORENSE, Lat. Auria, a City of Spain, in Gallicia, with a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Compoſtella, upon the River Minho, 14 Miles from Compoſtella to the South, and 20 from Braga to the N. E. much celebrated for its hot Bathes, bearing therefore the Name of Aquæ Calidæ, and Aquæ Calinæ.

ORESMUS (Nicholas) Biſhop of Liſieux in Normandy lived in the XIVth. Century. He was a Doctor of Paris, and choſen to be Præceptor of Charles the Vth. who procur'd him the Deanry of Rouan, and the Biſhoprick of Liſieux, and got him to tranſlate the Bible into French, and Ariſtotle's Books of Heaven, the World, his Ethicks and Politicks; with the Remedies of either Fortune, writ by Petrarcha. He writ alſo a Piece, De Communicatione Idiomatum. And died in 1382. There is a French Tranſlation of the Bible kept in MSS. in the Louvre, which is commonly taken to be his, tho' his Name be not to it; wherefore Fa. Simon, in his Criticks on the Verſions of the N. T. ſuppoſeth it rather to be the Work of Guiars des Moulins, and done by him at the Command of Charles the VIIIth.

ORESTES, King of Mycenæ, was the Son of Agamemnon and Clytemneſtra, who, with the Aſſiſtance of Ægiſthus her Adulterer, had murthered her Husband. Oreſtes avenged his Father's Death, by the Advice of his Siſtar Electra, and did not ſpare his own Mother. He killed Pyrrhus, for taking away Hermione, who had been promiſed to him, and contracted an extraordinary Friendſhip with Pylades. Some Authors report, That after he had kill'd his Mother, he went diſtracted; and that, to expiate that Crime, he was oblig'd to go to the Temple of Diana, in the Cherſoneſus Taurica, now called, The leſſer Tartary, whither his Friend Pylades accompanied him; and being arrived there, King Thoas reſolved to offer him a Victim to Diana, to whom they were uſed to ſacrifice Men. When Pylades, ſeeing the Danger his Friend was in, to ſave him, aſſured the King, that he indeed was the true Oreſtes, out of the Deſire he had to be ſacrificed for his Friend, to ſave his Life with the Loſs of his own. And Oreſtes on the other hand affirmed, That he was Oreſtes; and that what Pylades ſaid, was only out of an Exceſs of Love to his Friend. In the mean time, whilſt they were thus contending to ranſome each others Lives with the Loſs of their own, Iphigenia, who was the Prieſteſs of Diana, diſcovered Oreſtes to be her Brother; and ſo delivered them both from that imminent Danger. And ſome days after, Oreſtes, accompanied with his Dear Friend Pylades, after he had kill'd King Thoas, took away all his Riches; and carried his Siſter Iphigenia along with him to Arcadia. It is ſaid, He was afterwards bit by a Viper, and that he died in a Place called Oreſtion. His Death is fixt about the Year of the World, 2948, after a Reign of 70 Years. He left three Sons behind him, viz. Tiſamenes, Penthilus, and Cometes. Cicer. de Amicitia. Vell. Paterc. lib. 1. Pauſanias. Eurypid. in Oreſt. Sophoc. in Electra. Euſeb. in Chron.

ORESTES, a Patrician and Maſter of the Horſe to the Emperor Nepos. He dreamt on a time that he was got into the Throne. And accordingly, being come to Ravenna, he cauſed his Son, Romulus Auguſtulus (called alſo Momilus) to be ſaluted Emperor the 31ſt. of October, A. C. 475. But Nepos ſtirr'd up againſt him Odoacer, King of the Heruli, who invading Italy, took Rome the 23d. of Auguſt 476; and five or ſix days after cauſed Oreſtes to be ſlain at Placentia, defeated his Brother Paul, and impriſoned Auguſtulus in a Caſtle near Naples. *Caſſiodor. in Chron. ORFA, a City of Diarbeck, formerly called Meſopotamia, ſituate near the River Euphrates, in a fruitful Plain, with Walls of Hewen Stone. This is one of the Places where the beſt Turkey Leather is made; the Water of the Country giving it that curious luſtre. The Black is made at Orfa, the Yellow at Moſſal, the Blue at Tokat, and the Red at Diarbekir. Here is a Baſha that commands 150 Janizaries, and 600 Spahies, as ſtanding more in need of Horſe than Foot, becauſe of the frequent Incurſions of the Arabians, eſpecially at the time they cut their Corn. The Inhabitants tell us, That Abraham dwelt in the Place where this City is built; that it was formerly called Edeſſa; and that King Abgarus made his ordinary Reſidence here, in the Caſtle, ſome part of which is ſtill remaining, where ſeveral Moſaick Paintings are to be ſeen. At the farther end of the chief Moſque, built in Honour of Abraham, there is a Spring or Fountain, which forms a great Pond, incloſed by the Turks with Hewen Stone, and is ſo full of Fiſh, that they follow the People in great Swarms who walk upon the ſides of it, and caſt in Bread to them. But no Body dares meddle with them, becauſe the Turks have a great Veneration for them, and call them Abraham's Fiſh, and cover the Place round about this Pond with fair Pieces of Tapſtery, twenty Paces broad; ſuppoſing it to be the Fountain where Rebecca met Abraham's Servant, and Rachel Jacob. In the higheſt part of this City is a Church of the Armenians, under the Porch whereof they ſay that S. Alexis lived ſeventeen Years a hidden and retired Life from the World. The principal Church of the Armenians is about a quarter of a League's diſtance from the City, and was built by S. Ephrem, who lies buried there in a Grotto. This Place is thirty German miles E. of Aleppo, and thirty W. of Caramit. Lon. 74. 00. Lat. 36. 10. Tavernier's Perſian Travels.

ORFEA, Lat. Alpheus, a River in the Morea which falls into the Ionian Sea overagainſt the Iſle of Strophad.

ORFEUR, (Charles) of High-Cloſe, Lord of the Manor of Plumland, in the County of Cumberland, Eſq; Son to William Orfeur, Eſq; who married Elizabeth Howard, Daughter to Sir Charles Howard of Reedſdale, in the County of Northumberland; by whom he had Iſſue, eight Sons and three Daughters: This Charles, making the fourteenth Deſcent in a direct Line, is married to Jane Senhouſe, Relict of John Senhouſe of Nether-Hall, Eſq; and Daughter to Richard Lamplugh of Ribton, in the ſaid County of Cumberland, Eſq; by whom he has Iſſue. The Inter-Marriages of this Houſe, have been with the moſt conſiderable Gentry of this County; As, with Birkby of Birkby, Eſq; Lamplugh of Lamplugh, Kt. Lowther of Crookdake, Eſq; Covel of Hayton-Caſtle, Eſq; Dyke of Wardal, Eſq; Swinburn of Huthwait, Eſq; Lamplugh of Dovenby, Eſq; Oſmotherley of Langrigg, Eſq; Muſgrave of Plumpton, Eſq;, &c. This Family, which came over with William the Conqueror, bears, Sable a Croſs Argent, charg'd with a Mullet in the Dexter Quarter, of the Firſt; the Creſt is, a Maids Head with a Croſs, with this Motto, In Cruce Chriſti Sola Lætor. Inſerted at the Requeſt and Charge of Captain John Orfeur, a younger Brother of Charles above-mentioned.

ORFORD, a Market and Borough Town of Plumſgate Hundred, in the Eaſt Parts of Suffolk, ſeated between two Rivers, about two miles from the Sea, and call'd Orford, from the River Ore, that waters the Eaſt ſide of it. In the Reign of Henry IId there was a Fiſh caught near this Town in the Shape of a Man, which was kept the ſpace of ſix Months in the Caſtle eating all manner of Meat, but delighting chiefly in Fiſh ſome time after it ſtole away into the Sea. This Place has lately given the Title of an Earl to the Right Honourable Edward Ruſſel, Eſq; ſometime Admiral of His Majeſty King WILLIAM's Fleet. Cambd. Brit.

ORGAGNA DICIONE (Andrew) a famous Painter of Florence, who lived in the XIVth. Century. He wrought at Piſa, eſpecially at great Hiſtorical Compoſitions, and in particular Painted, near the great Church, a Picture of the Day of Judgment, which is admirably done. He pleaſed himſelf in ſuch Works as theſe, in which he was wont to gratifie his Friends, by placing them in Paradiſe; and to revenge himſelf on his Enemies, by alloting them their Station in Hell. He died in 1389, being ſixty Years of Age. Vaſari Vit. Pict. Felibien Entretiens des Peint.

ORGIA, a Name which the Greeks gave, if we may believe Servius, to all manner of Sacrifices; which were ſo called from the Word ἱεργιάζειν, i. e. to conſecrate; but ſince the Word was reſtrained to the Sacrifices offered to Bacchus, from the Greek Word ὀργὴ, which ſignifies Fury, Tumult, becauſe of the Huzza's and Hollowings made by the Prieſts and Worſhippers of Bacchus at their Sacrifices. See Bacchanalia.

ORIA, a City of the Kingdom of Naples, and Province of Otranto, now a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Brindiſi, ſituate at the Foot of the Appennine, ſixteen miles W. from Brindiſi. This Place was once conſiderable, but is now but meanly inhabited, and has nothing worthy of regard but an old Caſtle.

ORIFLAMME, a Standard ſo called in the Abbey of S. Denys in France, which the Abbot was uſed to put into the Hands of the Defender of that Monaſtery whenever it was neceſſary to take Arms for the Preſervation of the Goods or Privileges of that Abbey. It was made in form of an ancient Banner, with three Points or Tails; and had that Name given it, becauſe it was made of a Silk Stuff of a Gold and Flame Colour; but the Taſſels of it were Green. Others derive this Name from Flammulum or Flammula, which ſignifies a Banner or Standard; and Aurea, becauſe it was faſtned to a Gilded Lance. Other Churches had alſo their Defenders, who were called, Signiferi Eccleſiarum, or Standard-bearers of the Churches. As to the Abbey of S. Denys, this Honour belonged to the Earls of Pontoiſe or Vexin, who were the Protectors of this Monaſtery, to whom the bearing of this Standard did properly belong. Ancient Authors commonly call it, The Colours, Standard or Banner, of S. Denys; and was born by the Earls of Vexin, in thoſe Wars wherein that Monaſtery ſtood in need of their Protection. Lewis VIth. ſurnamed The Big, was the firſt of the Kings of France, who, as he was Earl of Vexin, cauſed the ſaid Oriflamme to be carried in his Armies, in the Year 1124, and which his Succeſſors continued, till the Engliſh made themſelves Maſters of Paris, under the Reign of Charles VIIth. who after he had rid himſelf of them brought in the uſe of the White Coronet, which ſince that time hath been the chief Banner of France. Du Cange Diſſertation. 18. *ſur l' Hiſtoir de S. ORIGEN, ſurnamed Adamantius, for his unwearied Aſſiduity in Writing and Teaching, was born at Alexandria. He was the Son of Leonides, who ſuffered Martyrdom under the Perſecution of Severus in 202. Clemens Alexandrinus was his Maſter, to whom he ſucceeded in the Office of a Catechiſt. All his Father's Eſtate being confiſcate; he was reduced to extream Poverty, but relieved by the Liberality of a rich Lady. In the mean time he opened a Grammar School at Alexandria, which he quitted not long after, to teach Divinity and explain the Holy Scriptures, by permiſſion of the Biſhop Demetrius; tho' he was not then above eighteen years of Age; whereas that Province was commonly not allowed to any but to Perſons well advanc'd in Years. But his extraordinary and ſolid Parts far ſurpaſſing his Age, ſeem to deſerve no leſs. In this Station he was of great uſe, as well by ſtrengthning the Believers in the Faith, as by converting many Idolaters; and had ſo many Martyrs amongſt his Diſciples, that his School might more properly be call'd a School of Martyrdom than of Divinity. His School was frequented by very great Perſons, amongſt whom Gregory Thaumaturgus was none of the leaſt. He alſo taught many young Virgins and Women, the Principles of Chriſtianity. And (as ſome ſay) to avoid all Calumny, made himſelf an Eunuch. He took divers Journeys to Rome, to Pope Zephyrinus and elſewhere. He had ſeveral Conferences with Mammæa, the Mother of Alexander Severus, about the Myſteries of our Faith And at his Return to Alexandria he converted ſeveral Hereticks. Alexander, Biſhop of Jeruſalem, ordained him Prieſt, A. C. 228. But it was not long after that Demetrius, Biſhop of Alexandria, highly complaining of Origen, excommunicated him, becauſe of ſeveral Errors, wherewith he pretended that his Books were full, and more particularly his Book of Principles; whereupon he was fain to leave Alexandria, and betake himſelf to Tyre, where he laboured at his Hexapla, which contained four different Tranſlations of the Old Teſtament; i. e. The Septuagint, Aquila, Theodotion, and Symmachus's Tranſlations, which was thus diſpos'd in Columns: The Hebrew Text in Hebrew Letters making the firſt; The Hebrew in Greek Characters the ſecond; Aquila's Verſion the third; That of Symmachus the fourth; The Septuagint the fifth; and Theodotion's the ſixth: To which he afterwards added two other Greek Tranſlations, which made up the Octapla. All this uſeful and holy husbanding of his Talent was not able to free him from the ſlanderous Accuſations of his Enemies, who pretended that he endeavoured to corrupt the Doctrine of the Holy Scripture. Wherefore he thought fit to go to Rome, and preſent a Confeſſion of this Faith to Fabian, the Biſhop of that City; and at his Return, taught again at Cæſarea. In 248 he aſſiſted at the Council of Arabia, and there inſtructed the Biſhop Beryllus. He always witneſſed a ſignal and inſuperable Zeal for the Faith of Chriſt, and ſuffered moſt dreadful Torments during the Perſecution of Decius, which yet were not in the leaſt able to ſeparate him from the Love of Jeſus Chriſt. This truly great and excellent Man died at Tyre, according to ſome, in 256, at the Age of 72 Years; or rather in 254, aged 69 Years. S. Epiphanius, Ruffinus, and divers others, aſſure us, that he writ no leſs than 600 different Treatiſes. But it will be neceſſary to diſtinguiſh between his Perſon, and his Writings, the one appearing very Holy and Innocent, tho' the others may perhaps deſerve to be cenſured, either by the Author's own Miſtakes, or by the Perfidiouſneſs of ſeveral Hereticks, who were willing to authorize their falſe Tenets under his great Name. Genebrardus has made a Collection of his Works, and got them Printed at Paris, in two Volumes in folio, 1574. And in this Age, Huetius Under-Præceptor to the Dauphin, and ſince Biſhop of Soiſſons, hath publiſhed the Commentaries of Origen upon the Scripture, in Greek and Latin, together with his Life, and Notes of his own, Printed at Rouan in 1668, of which a a ſecond Edition hath been publiſhed in Germany in 1685. Huetius hath promiſed to give us all the other Pieces of Origen, but has not yet done it. Joannes Tarinus publiſhed in 1618, at Paris, in one Volume in quarto, Philocalia de obſcuris S. Scripturæ locis, à Baſilio M. & Gregorio Theologo, ex variis Origenis Commentariis excerpta. Tarinus tranſlated this Piece into Latin, and added ſome Remarks of his own. Michael Ghiſler, in 1623, gave us the Commentaries of Origen upon Jeremy, with eight of his Homilies upon the ſame Prophecy, tranſlated into Latin by Matthæus Caryophilus, and Allatius; and this latter publiſhed at the ſame time his Commentary upon the 28th. Chapter of the firſt of Samuel, de Engaſtrymutho, or, the Witch of Endor. Mr. Spencer, in 1658, publiſhed in Greek and Latin, his Treatiſe contra Celſum, and Philocalia, with Notes. And laſt of all, Joannes Rudolphus Wetſtein, Profeſſor at Baſil, hath favoured the Publick, in 1674, with ſome Tracts of Origen's, under this Title, Dialogus contra Marcioniſtas, ſive de recta in Deum Fide. Exhortatio ad Martyrium. Reſponſum ad Africani Epiſtolam, de Hiſtoria Suſannæ, Græcè primùm è MSS. edita, Verſiones partim correctæ, partim novæ adjectæ, cum Notis. Indicibus, variantibus Lectionibus & Conjecturis. Dr. Fell, Biſhop of Oxford, publiſhed his Book of Prayer in Greek and Latin, in 1685. Many excellent Men have ſpoken in Commendation of Origen, and have endeavoured to defend him againſt the Calumnies of his Adverſaries. Euſebius writ an Apology for him under the Name of Martyr Pamphilus, or, rather they both equally laboured to free him from the Slanders of thoſe who endeavoured to blacken his Reputation. Ruffinus alſo undertook the ſame Task; and divers have taken the ſame Pains even in our time. And, above all, Fa. Halloix, a Jeſuit, in his Book writ in Defence of him. Some have been of Opinion that there were two Men of this Name, whereof the one was a Platonick Philoſoper, and the other a Chriſtian; which they gather from what Porphyrius ſaith, as he is quoted by Euſebius, in his ſixth Book, chap. 19. The Life of Origen may be ſeen more at large in the Lives of the Fathers by Dr. Cave, and in the VIth. Tome of the Univerſal Library, pag. 319, &c. where a farther Information may be had concerning the Hexapla, Tetrapla and Octapla of Origen. See alſo the Letter of Reſolution concerning Origen, and the chief of his Opinions, Printed at London, 1661.

ORIGENISTS, Hereticks ſo called, who maintained ſome Errors drawn from Origen's Book περὶ Ἀρχῶν, or concerning Principles, whether they were truly his, or by malice inſerted into his Writings, by ſome that were deſirous to gain Authority to their extravagant Opinions, is not certain. However, it was from this Book that Pelagius drew his Hereſie; which made S. Jerom ſay, That Origen was the Favourite of the Pelagians The Origeniſts held, That Jeſus Chriſt was not the Son of God by any other way but by Grace and Adoption: That compar'd with Men, he was Truth; but if with God, the contrary. They publiſh'd, That Souls were created before the Bodies; and, That they ſin in Heaven; That the Sun, Moon, Stars, and the Waters that are under the Firmament, have all Souls; That Bodies ſhould riſe in a round form; That the Torments of Devils and damned Souls ſhould have an end; and, That the fallen Angels ſhould at laſt be reſtored to their firſt State. They broached ſeveral other Errors, and ſome of them renewed the Abominations of the Gnoſticks; and were therefore called Dirty and Impure. The Monks of Egypt and Nitria were more particularly tainted with theſe Errors, which alſo infected Rome by the reading of Ruffinus's Tranſlation of Origen's Principles, which occaſioned S. Jerom, at Pammachius's Requeſt, to make a true Tranſlation. Theſe

Hereſies infected the Church in the IVth Vth and VIth. Ages. Theophilus of Alexandria condemned them in 399 Pope Anaſtaſius, S. Epiphanius, with ſeveral other Prelates did the like. Origen's Books were alſo condemned, and the Reading of them prohibited, which was renewed in the Vth. general Council, the IId. of Conſtantinople, held in 553. ORION, as the Fables tell us was the Son of Jupiter, Neptune, and Mercury, or as others ſay, of Apollo, which happened thus: As theſe Gods were on a time viſiting the Earth, they entred the Cottage of a poor Country-man called Hyrieus, who made them the beſt Chear he poſſibly could, and kill'd and dreſſed an Ox for them, which was his whole Eſtate. The Gods admiring his Piety, and willing to reward him, gave him the choice of asking of them whatſoever he pleaſed, who told them he deſired nothing more than to have a Son, but ſo as without being obliged to marry, becauſe he would not break the Promiſe he had made to his Wife before ſhe died. Whereupon the Gods cauſed the Ox-hide to be brought before them, in which they all made their Urine, and commanded him carefully to bury it in the Earth; forbidding him to ſtir it or dig it up in nine Months time, which time being expired, Hyrieus found an Infant there, whom he called Ourion, from the Urin of the Gods; who being come to Age, was a great Hunter, whence the Greeks took occaſion alſo to call him Orion, from Ὄρος, a Mountain. But his skill in Hunting making him proud, he boaſted that there were no Beaſts ſo wild or terrible which he was not able to take, which ſo provoked the Earth, that ſhe ſent a Scorpion in his Way, which biting him was the cauſe of his Death. But Diana the Goddeſs of Hunting tranſlated him to Heaven near the Sign Taurus. Horace ſaith, Diana killed him, becauſe he would have forced her. And the Poets tell us, He conſtitutes that Conſtellation which Aſtronomers place towards the South Pole, conſiſting of ſixteen or ſeventeen Stars, and reſembling a Man holding a Fauchion in his Hand, called Orion. This Sign, at its riſing, excites great Tempeſts, wherefore the Poets give it the Title of Pluvialis & Nimboſus, i. e. bringing Rain and Tempeſts; yet when it riſeth bright and ſhining it is a Sign of a fair and calm Seaſon. Pliny fixeth his riſing to the ninth of March, and ſetting to the twenty ninth of June. The ſame Pliny tells us, That an Earth-quake on a time in Crete diſcovered a human Body which was of forty ſix Cubits, and was ſuppoſed to be the Body of this Orion. Hygin. in Aſtron. Plin. lib. 7. cap. 16. There ſeems to be a great reſemblance between this Story of Orion, and what we find related of Abraham, Gen. chap. 18. verſes, 1,——16. and thoſe Verſes of Ovid, wherewith he begins the relation of this Fable, very patly expreſs ſome part of what we find in Geneſis.

Forte ſenex Hyrieus anguſti cultor agelli
Hos videt exiguam ſtetit ut ante caſam.

And Hyrieus ſeems very naturally to expreſs him who came from Ur of the Chaldæans. For this word hath the ſame Termination with thoſe words with which the Greeks ſignifie the Nation or Country of any Perſon. Neither could the Greeks otherwiſe expreſs an Inhabitant of Ur or Hur, than by οὐρεύς. It is alſo obſervable that the Hebrew words of the Sacred Hiſtory, by which a Son is promiſed to Sarah, may be rendred thus, there ſhall be a Son in the Bullock of thy burnt-offering, inſtead of Sarah thy Wife ſhall have a Son. Palæphatus, in his 5th. chap. de rebus incredibilibus, ſaith, That the Gods did caſt their Seed into the Bull; and to give Seed in Hebrew, ſignifies to give Children or Off-ſpring. Naturaliſts attribute this whole Fable of Orion to the cauſe and effects of the celeſtial Sign called by that Name. By the Ox's-hide they underſtand the Sea, the noiſe of whoſe Waves reſemble the bellowing of an Ox. By Neptune, the Spirit ſpread over the Waters. When Apollo, that is, the Sun, attracts Vapours, and by ſubtilizing and rarefying them raiſes them into the Air, which denotes Jupiter. Theſe three Gods thus joining their Power, form the Matter of Wind, Rain and Thunder, which are called Orion. His being firſt lov'd, and then ſhot to death by Diana, ſhews the virtue of the Moon, which having gathered theſe Vapours together, diſſipates them with its Rays. And becauſe the Sign Scorpio is ſo oppoſite to that of Orion, that when one appears, the other ſets, hence they took occaſion to ſay, that he was ſtung to death by it. Univerſal Library, Tom. VII. p. 106. & ſeq.

ORISTANO, or ORISTAGNI, Lat. Oriſtanum, a City of Sardinia, ſeated in the Weſtern part of that Iſland, with an Arch-biſhop's See. It is the Capital of a County of the ſame Name; and is by ſome Latin Authors called Arborea and Uſellis.

ORITHYA, Queen of the Amazons, who ſucceded Marpeſia, and made her ſelf illuſtrious by her Courage, in the Wars ſhe waged againſt the Greeks. Pentheſilea was Queen after her. Juſtin lib. 2. cap. 4. Boccac. de clar. mulier. Alſo Orithya, the Daughter of Erichthæus, King of Athens, whom Boreas raviſhed, and had by her Calais and Zethes.

ORIVELHA, or HORIGUELA, Lat. Oriola, a City of Spain, in the Kingdom of Valentia, ſeated on the River Segura 5 miles from the Mediterranean, 7 from Carthagena to the N. and 3 from Murcia to the E. and is a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Valentia.

ORIXA, a City of Aſia, in the Indies, on this ſide Ganges, with a Kingdom on the Eaſtern ſhore of the Promontory of Malabar, on the Gulf of Bengala, in the Poſſeſſion of the King of Golconda which is ſometimes called the Kingdom of Orixa, from this City. The Commodities of this Place are Rice, Bombaſt, Oil, Lacca, Pepper, Ginger. Cottons, &c.

ORKNEY, or Orcades, Thirty two Iſlands in the Northern Ocean near Scotland, whereof thirteen are inhabited. The Iſle of Pomona, or the Mainland, the chief, had a Biſhop's See ſuffragan of S. Andrew. The See that environs theſe Iſlands is well ſtock'd with Fiſh, eſpecially Herrings, whereof there are ſome Shoals 10 or 12 Leagues in length and three in breadth. And they hold ſo together that the Nets are often torn in drawing them. The Herring-fiſhery was in former times in the Baltick-ſea, a-long the Shore of Livonia, Pomerania and Gothland, where there was ſuch a prodigious quantity that they were taken by hand, and Boatmen had much adoe to make uſe of their Oars for them. After ſometime they quitted the Baltick, and ſpread along the Shore of Norway, towards the Iſle of Merſtrang, and of late they have reach'd the North of Scotland, near the Orkney Iſles. The Fiſhery begins in July and laſts till about the end of Auguſt. Then they quit this Place, and following the Current of the North, they come about September to the South. So that the Fiſhers follow to the height of Germac in Yorkſhire. The third Fiſhery, which is called that of the little Herrings, is between Calice and Diepe, from September to Chriſtmas, about which time the Herrings double the Lizard, and by the Weſt of England gain the North of Scotland. The beſt Fiſhing is in 15 or 20 fathom Water where the great quantity of Herrings renders the Sea fat and ſhining. Davity du Monde. Fournier Hydrography. The Deſcription of the particular Iſlands is referred to their places in the Alphabet. Late Writers ſay, That the Number of Iſles does not exceed 28. And the ſmall ones, which are not inhabited, are left for Paſturage. The moſt Southerly of them is about 10 miles from Caithneſs in the North of Scotland, from which it is ſeparated by a Firth called Penthland, or the Pictiſh Firth, becauſe the Remainder of that People were drowned there as flying, after a Defeat by the Scots, to thoſe Iſlands. The Orcades were formerly govern'd by Kings of their own, of whom the Scotiſh Hiſtory mentions three. Gavus carried away in Triumph by Claudius Cæſar, mentioned by Suetonius, Beda, and Eutropius. Belus, who killed himſelf after a Defeat by Evenus, King of Scotland. And Gethus, Brother to Gethus, King of the Picts, who flying from Albion, was created King here. It's controverted whether the Picts, Saxons, Danes, or Norwegians, were the firſt Poſſeſſors of them. The Language and Manners carry it for the latter, tho' the Scottiſh Language and Cuſtoms have now got the Aſcendant. There is no venomous Creature in this Country. It abounds with Cattle of all kinds, Hares, Rabbets, Cranes, Swans, and other Fowl. They have alſo a rich Fiſhing, whence the Inhabitants make great gain. Julius Agricola was the firſt of the Romans, who diſcovered and ſubdued it. And at the declining of the Roman Empire it appears that it was the Seat of the Picts, according to Claudian the Poet. It was afterwards waſted by the Saxons; and then poſſeſſed by the Danes, who have left ſome Footſteps of the Gothick Language. But Chriſtiern, King of Denmark, ſold all his Pretenſions to James III. King of Scots, An. 1474. The Country is fruitful in Barley, whence they make a very ſtrong Drink, which they love exceedingly. Yet it's rare to ſee any of the Natives drunk, mad, or fooliſh. The Air is very temperate, ſo that People live there 100 Years pretty often. Buchanan mentions one Lawrence, who liv'd 140 Years, having married at 100 Years old; and the very day of his death was out a fiſhing at Sea There are few Trees in this Country, which is rather occaſioned by the Sloth of the Inhabitants, than nature of the Soil. They have ſtore of Garden Herbs and Cabbage; as alſo Mines of Iron, Lead, and Tin. Hamilton, a younger Brother of the preſent Duke of Hamilton in Scotland, has by King William III. been advanced to the Dignity of Earl of Orkney.

ORLAY, (Bernard de') a famous Painter of Bruſſels, who liv'd about 1535 and 40. He was in great eſteem with Charles V. who highly valued his Pieces; and it was he to whom that Prince committed the care of providing all the Pictures and Tapeſtry that were for his own uſe. He had under him one Tons, a famous drawer of Landskips, and another call'd Pieter Kocck of Aloſt, that was an excellent Painter and Architect.

ORLEANS, Lat. Aurelia and Genabum, by which Name, Julius Cæſar mentions it, a City of France, Capital of a ſmall Territory call'd Orleanois, Aurelianenſis Ager, honour'd with the Title of a Dukedom, belonging to the ſecond Son of France, and is a Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Paris, and an Univerſity. This City is one of the Faireſt and moſt Ancient of France, ſaid to be built by Marcus Aurelius, the Emperor, in the Year of Chriſt 163. But other Authors ſuppoſe it built by the Druids. It is ſeated in a fruitful Country, and hath a very ſafe and commodious Port upon the River Loyre. Attila, King of the Huns beſieged this City in 450, when it was miraculouſly deliver'd by the Prayers of its Biſhop S. Aignan; and it was beſieg'd again by the Engliſh in 1417, and in great diſtreſs, but was relieved by the famous Joan d'Arc, whom the Engliſh afterwards took and burnt for a Witch. Upon the Bridge over the Loyre, which is very large and beautiful, having 16 Arches, there are three Statues in Braſs, one of the Bleſſed Virgin, one of Charles the VII. and one of the Maid of Orleans. This City ſuffered much in the XVIth. Century, during the Wars of the League. Under the Merovignian Line it was the Seat of a diſtinct Kingdom for ſome time. The Univerſity of Orleans was founded by King Philip the Fair. The Biſhops of this City have ſome very ſingular Privileges; as that of ſetting free Priſoners when they make their firſt entry, and of being carried to the Cathedral by the Barons of Yevre le Chaſtel, of Sully, of Cheray, of Acheres and of Rougemont. The Cathedral hath 59 Canons belonging to it, and 12 Dignitaries; and beſides the Cathedral, there are four Collegiate Churches, and 22 Pariſhes. The City is ſituate on the ſide of a Hill in the form of a Bow, and is fortified with a Terraſs, and ſurrounded with ſtrong Walls with 40 Towers. See Joan d'Arc. This City is 34 Leagues S. of Paris.

Councils of Orleans.

The Iſt. Council of Orleans was aſſembled by permiſſion of King Clovis in 511, conſiſting of 32 Prelates, where Cyprian Biſhop of Bourdeaux preſided; and 31 Canons were made for the regulating of Church Diſcipline. The IId. was celebrated by 30 Biſhop in 533 or as Baronius, in 536; Honoratus of Bourges preſided, and 21 Canons were agreed on, and the Election of Metropolitans regulated. The IIId. was held in 538, by 25 Biſhops, S. Lupus of Lions preſiding; where were made 33 Canons for the Regulation of Divine Service, the Lives of Clerks, Marriages and the Penances of Laicks. The IVth was aſſembled in 541, by 38 Prelates and 12 Prieſts, the Proxies of ſo many abſent Prelates. Leontius of Bourdeaux preſided, and enacted 38 Canons for the regulating of matters of Diſcipline. A Vth. Council was held in this City in 552, where S. Sacerdos of Lions preſided, and 24 Canons were ſettled; the 1ſt. whereof condemned the Errors of Eutyches and Dioſcorus, and the reſt regulated ſeveral points of Eccleſiaſtical Diſcipline. In 645, Leger being then Biſhop of Orleans, there was celebrated a Council againſt a perſon who was a Greek by Nation, and publiſh'd the Doctrines of the Monothelites. Gregorie de Tours, Mezeray, Dupleix.

ORLEANOIS, Lat. Aurelianenſis Ager, is bounded on the N. with Beauſſe, on the E. by Gaſtinois, on the W. by Bleſois, and on the S. by Sologne, from which it is divided by the Loyre. Its chief Cities are Orleans, Beau, Jancy and Chartres.

ORMESKIRK, a Market-Town of Weſt-Darby in the S. W. of Lancaſhire.

ORMOND, Lat. Ormondia, The North part of the County of Tipparary, in the Province of Munſter in Ireland. This Barren and Mountainous place gives the Title of Duke to the Butlers, the firſt of which was James Butler, created Earl of Ormond by Edward III. James, the late Earl, was for his Service in Ireland in 1643, created Marquis of Ormond by Charles I. and in 1660 he was by Charles II. made Duke of Ormond in Ireland, and in 1661 Earl of Brecknock in Wales.

ORMUS, Lat. Ormuzium, Armuzia, a ſmall Iſland on the Coaſt of Perſia, with a City of the ſame name. This Iſle is ſeated at the Mouth of the Perſian Gulf, near the Province of Schiras, over againſt the Mouth of the River Drut, nine Spaniſh miles in compaſs, and twelve from the neareſt Shoars of Perſia. Its Situation is wonderful convenient for Trade, but the Iſle hath no freſh Water. Some are of Opinion that Mercury the Egyptian ſettled a Colony here; but ſure it is, that a Mahometan Prince took poſſeſſion of it in the IXth. or Xth. Century, and that his Succeſſors were Tributary to the Perſians. The Portugueſe took this City under the Command of the Duke of Albuquerque in 1507, and built a ſtrong Citadel to defend it; but Sha Abbas, aſſiſted by the Engliſh, took it from them the 25 of April 1622, whereupon this moſt famous Mart became deſolate and forſaken, and the Commerce has ſince been tranſported to Gombron on the Continent. The Portugueſe loſt ſix or ſeven Millions at the taking of this City; which, amongſt other things, was famous for the Trade of Pearls. Ormus was firſt diſcovered by a Friar Minor in 1331, at which time it was a place of great Strength and Trade. The Buildings, eſpecially the publick, were very large and magnificent. The Engliſh, when they aſſiſted the Perſians in taking of it, bargain'd for half the Plunder, but loſt it by the taieviſhneſs of a Sailor. The Captains that aſſiſted in the Expedition were Wedel, Blide and Wadcock; and in conſideration of their Service the Engliſh enjoy half the Cuſtoms of the Perſian Gulf to this day. In 1671 they were reckon'd 40000*l. per annum*, but the Eaſt India Company accepted of 3000*l. per annum* afterwards. The reaſon why the King of Perſia continues it, is, leaſt the Engliſh ſhould ſeize on the Iſland, which would totally ruin Trade, becauſe he has no Naval Forces able to diſlodge 'em. This is reckon'd the barreneſt Iſland in the World, producing nothing but Wood, and Salt, which lies there like Snow. When the Portugueſe had this City it was one of the Richeſt and moſt glorious of the Earth, But is now much decay'd. See Herbert's Travels. Tavernier, p. 1. Book 5. chap. 23.

ORNE, Lat. Orna, a River of Normandy, which waſhing Argenton and Caen, falls into the Britiſh Seas. Eſtreban.

ORNE, Lat. Odorna, a River of Lorrain, which falls into the Moſelle between Metz and Thionville. It has a Town of the ſame name upon it not far from the Maes.

ORODES, King of the Parthians, ſucceded his Brother Mithridates, called the Great, whom he had driven from his Throne. In 701 of Rome he defeated M. Craſſus and his Son Publius, took the Roman Enſigns, and a vaſt number of Priſoners. 'Tis ſaid, That he cauſed molten Gold to be poured down the throat of Craſſus, to puniſh his inſatiable Avarice, which had put him upon committing ſo many unjuſt Actions and Sacrileges. This King afterwards took part with Brutus and Caſſius, and being defeated, was kill'd by his Son Phraates, who was likewiſe murther'd by a Natural Son of his, call'd Orodes. Velleius Paterc. lib. 1. *Appian in Parth. ORODES, Prince of the Medes, was the Son of Artaban King of the Medes, who had made himſelf Maſter of the Kingdom of Parthia. His Father ſent him againſt Pharaſmanes King of the Hiberi, in which Action he was kill'd, fighting at the Head of his Army, towards the end of Tiberius's Reign, A. C. 36. See the Vth. Book of Tacitus's Annals.

OROMAZES, a Name which the Magi and Chaldæans gave to the Higheſt God, and which ſignifies in Chaldee, Burning Light. They deſcrib'd God all ſurrounded with Fire, and commonly ſaid, That his Body was like Light, and his Soul reſembled Truth, according to the account of Porphyry, in the Life of Pythagoras. This God was the Good Principle, according to them; but they own'd alſo an Evil Principle, which they call'd Arimanes; as much as to ſay in Chaldee, Who is my Enemy; or Subtile and Deceiver; who oppos'd Oromazes, and by whom he was to be deſtroy'd at the end. Plutarch de Iſid. & Oſirid. Diog. Laert. Stanley de Philoſ. Oriental. Biblioth. Orient. de Barth. Dherbelot under Ormoz.

OROSIUS (Paulus) a Prieſt of Tarragon in Spain, and Diſciple of St. Auſtin, lived in the Vth. Century. In 414 he was ſent into Africa by Eutropius and Paulus, two Spaniſh Biſhops, to demand S. Auſtin's aſſiſtance againſt ſome Hereticks that troubled their Churches, and ſtay'd a Year with him; by whoſe Advice alſo he undertook to write the Hiſtory which we have of his, in VII. Books, from the beginning of the World, till 416 of Chriſt. There is alſo attributed to him An Apology concerning Free Will, againſt Pelagius, and a Conſultation with S. Auſtin, concerning the Errors of Apollinarius and Origen. When the Goths under Alaric made themſelves Maſters of Rome, the Pagans attributing that and all their other Misfortunes to their ſuffering Chriſtians to live amongſt 'em, Oroſius at S. Auguſtin's requeſt, wrote Seven Books of Hiſtory; wherein he ſhews, That from the Creation of the World to that time, which he computed was 5618 Years, there were continual Calamities in moſt parts of the Earth. His Books are look'd upon to be good and uſeful, though he is thought to have had no skill in the Greek Tongue. Scaliger. Voſſius. Hoffman. Cave. Baronius. Bellarmin.

ORPHEUS of Thrace, an Ancient Greek Poet, accounted more ancient than Homer, and the Author of 39 Poems, which Time hath loſt. The Hymns and Fragments we have under his Name, were writ by Onomacritus, who liv'd in the time of Piſiſtratus. Poets tell us, That Orpheus was the Son of Apollo, and ſo excellent a Muſician, that Rivers ſtop'd their Courſes to hear his Muſick; and that Rocks, Trees and Beaſts follow'd him, enchanted with the ſweetneſs of his Melody. He went down to Hell to fetch thence his Wife Eurydice, and was kill'd by ſome Thracian Women, but the Muſes took care of his Body, and his Harp was tranſlated to Heaven amongſt the Stars. Ariſtotle, and Gerard Voſſius after him, was of Opinion, That there never was any Man of this Name; and ſaith, That the word Orpheus, in the Phœnician Language, ſignifies a Wiſe and Learned Man: Others derive it from the Hebrew

Word Rapha, to heal or cure, becauſe Orpheus was look'd upon as a great Phyſician. Pauſanias. lib. 6. p. 383. tells us, That ſome Ancients believ'd Orpheus to have been an Egyptian, skill'd in Magic; and thoſe Hymns which are attributed to him, are by ſome look'd upon rather as Magical Invocations of the Gods, than Hymns in Honour of them: So that it ſeems probable, That there was ſome Perſon in Greece, whom by way of Excellence they call'd Harophe, or the Phyſician, whoſe skill in Magick might give occaſion to the Fable of Orpheus. The Opinion Men have had, that there has been a perſon of this name, and that he brought ſeveral hidden Sciences into Greece, has been the reaſon why divers Superſtitious Books have been attributed to him, the Titles whereof may be ſeen in Voſſius; and in the beginning of the Book of Argonauticks, which bears the name of Orpheus. Poets do not agree about the manner of Orpheus's death; ſome ſaying, That after Eurydice died, he forſook all Women's Company, and exhorted the reſt of Mankind to follow his Example, alledging the Inconveniencies of a married Life, with ſuch ſucceſs, that the Women tore him in pieces to prevent the ill Conſequences they fear'd. Others will have it, that Calliope pitch'd upon by Jupiter to decide Venus and Proſerpina's quarrel about Adonis, having adjudg'd him in common to both, Venus to be reveng'd, ſtirr'd up the Women againſt Orpheus. Some ſay, That ſhe made 'em ſo much in love with him, that ſtriving which ſhould have him he fell in the ſcuffle. Others ſay, He kill'd himſelf, being reſolv'd not to outlive his Wife; and add, That the Nightingales that kept in the Groves about his Tomb in Thrace, were obſerv'd to excell all other in the ſweetneſs of their Note. Hoffman.

ORSI, a Name which the Perſian Magi gave to God. Marſilius Ficinus has well obſerv'd, That the chief and principal Name of God conſiſts of four Letters in moſt Languages; for the Hebrews have the Tetragrammaton or Name with four Letters, the Greeks Θεὸς, the Latins Deus, the Arabians Alla, the Egyptians Theut (their Th being one letter) the Perſians Cyre, the Magi Θ*rſi*, the French Dieu, &c. Marſil. Ficin. Argum. in Platon. Cratyl. Clem. Alexandr. Strom. 5. Pfanner. Syſtem. Theol. Gentil.

ORSIPPUS of Megara in Achaia, having put off his Girdle, that he might run the more freely in the publick Games, and thereby gain'd the Prize, it became a cuſtom afterwards to run naked in theſe ſort of Exerciſes, which were call'd Gymnici for that reaſon, from the word γυμνὸς, naked. This happened in the firſt Year of the XVth. Olympiad. Pauſan. in Attic. Euſeb. Chron. lib. 1.

ORSOI, Lat. Orſovium, Orſoium, a ſtrong City of Germany, in the Dutchy of Cleves, upon the River Rhine, which was taken by the Prince of Orange in 1634, for the Hollanders; and was taken from them by the French King in 1672, but not long after abandon'd by him in 1674.

ORSOWA, a Town on the Danube in Servia, between Niſſa and Fretiſla. Count Tekely abandon'd and burnt it after the Battel of Niſſa, November 1689, and the Imperialiſts ſeiz'd it, who afterwards ſurrender'd it to the Turks in 1691.

ORSSA, a ſtrong Town of Lithuania, upon the Confluence of the Nieper, ſecur'd by a ſtrong Citadel, and ſituate eighteen Poliſh Leagues from Smolensko to the W. and Twelve from Mohilow the N. towards Vitebsko. Sigiſmond I. King of Poland, in 1514, near this place gave a notable defeat to Baſilius, great Duke of Moſcovy, who had taken Smolensko from him. The Moſcovites had 40000 Men kill'd in this Battle, beſides 4000 taken Priſoners. Cromer in Orat. Funeb. Sigiſm. I.

ORTA, in Latin Hortanum, a Town of Italy, in the Patrimony of S. Peter, with a Biſhop's See. It ſtands upon an Aſcent, near the place where the River Nera falls into the Tiber. Plin. Paul Diac.

ORTELIUS (Abrahamus) of Antwerp liv'd in the XVIth. Century. He was a very learned Man, eſpecially in the Mathematicks, and more particularly in Geography, upon which account he was call'd the Ptolemy of his Age. He publiſh'd his Theatrum, Theſaurus, and Synonyma Geographica, and divers other Pieces, the pregnant Inſtances of his Learning and indefatigable Study. He died a Batchelor the 26th. of June 1598, at the age of 71. Juſtus Lipſius, his great friend, writ his Epitaph. Thuanus Hiſt. Francis Swert in vita Ortel. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg. &c.

ORTENBORN, a Town in Northumberland, about three miles from Newcaſtle, famous for the Battel fought there by the Engliſh commanded by Piercy, and the Scots under General Douglas, which laſt dying of his Wounds in the Field, recommended three things to his ſurviving Friends; firſt, to conceal his death; ſecondly, to preſerve his Standard; thirdly, to revenge his fall; whereupon they crying out, as the cuſtom then was, A Douglas! a Douglas! brought great numbers of the Scots together, and routed the Engliſh, and took Piercy Priſoner, with a great ſlaughter of Men. Duglas.

ORTENBURG, Lat. Ortenburgum a City of Germamany, in the Province of Carinthia, upon the River Drave, having the title of an Earldom of the Empire.

ORTON, a Market-Town of Eaſt-ward in Weſtmorland.

ORTONA, a City of the hither Abruzzo, and a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Trivento with a ſafe Port on the Adriatick, twelve miles from Trivento N. E. eight from Lanciano to the ſame, and eleven from Peſcara to the S. E. It is call'd Ortona a Mare, to diſtinguiſh it from Ortona di Marſi in the ſame Province, and has been a Biſhop's See ever ſince 1570.

ORVIETO, Lat. Oronitum, Urbiventum, Herbanum, a City of the Eccleſiaſtical State, which is a Biſhop's See, and the Capital of the Territory of Orvieto. It lies between Perugia and Viterbo, upon a Hill near the River, call'd Paglia. The famous Compoſition call'd Orvietan was firſt compos'd here.

ORUS I. of that Name, was according to ſome Hiſtorians, the IId. King of Egypt, and ſirnamed Apollo. He was the Son of Miſraim, and Grandchild of Cham: He drove the Gyant Typhon out of Egypt, who had kill'd Oſiris, and purſued him, being aſſiſted by the Libyan Hercules, as far as Arabia, where he kill'd him in Battel near the Town of Anthia. Some ſuppoſe him to be the ſame whoſe Dreams Joſeph interpreted. He died in 2241. Oroſius, lib. 1. Diodor. lib. 1. Juſtin. lib. 38.

ORUS, ſirnamed Pharaoh King of Egypt, was the Succeſſor of Amenophis II. or Memnon, about An. Mund. 2469. He reigned 38 Years. Some take him to have been call'd Buſiris, becauſe of his great Cruelty, and that he built the great City of Thebes that had 100 Gates, and many of thoſe prodigious Pyramids, ſo much ſpoken of in ancient Writers, and which continue ſtill to this day. Euſeb. in Chron.

ORWELL, a River in Suffolk, riſes in Thedwaſtry Hundred, and falls into the Sea in the South-Eaſt part of that County. Needham and Ipſwich are ſeated upon it.

OSBALD, King of Northumberland, was rais'd to the Crown upon the death of Ethelred II. but was expell'd in leſs than a Month, and forc'd to fly at laſt from Lindisfarn by Sea to the King of the Picts, where he died an Abbot.

OSBERN, a Benedictin of the XIth. Century. He was Precentor of the Church of Canterbury, and very intimate with Laufranc the Archbiſhop, in the time of William the Conqueror. He wrote the Life of S. Dunſtan, and ſeveral other Tracts, and was much eſteem'd by the Learned of his time. Bale. Pits, &c.

OSBOURN, (Sir Thomas) Son and Heir to Sir Edward Osbourn Baronet, Vice-Preſident of King Charles the Iſt's Council for the North of England, and Lieutenant General of the Forces rais'd for his defence in that part of the Country. For his Fidelity and good Service in that Station, and his ſucceſsful co-operating with other Loyal Subjects for King Charles the IId's happy Reſtauration, he was firſt made Treaſurer of the Navy, next a Privy-Councellor, then Viſcount Dumblane in Scotland, and Lord High Treaſurer of England; and at laſt created Baron of this Realm, by the Title of Baron of Riveton, as alſo Viſcount Latimer, his Mother being the eldeſt of the Daughters and Co-heirs of John Nevil, late Lord Latimer: And by other Letters Patent of the 27th. of June, in the 26th. Year of King Charles II. was advanced to the Title of Earl of Danby. He married the Lady Bridget, one of the Daughters of Montague, late Earl of Lindſey, Lord High Chamberlain of England, and by her hath had Iſſue, two Sons, Edward, commonly call'd Lord Latimer, and Peregrine created Viſcount Dumblane upon his Father's ſurrender of the Patent of that Honour; as alſo ſix Daughters, 1. The Lady Anne, married to Robert Coke, of Holkam in com. Norf. Eſq; great Grandſon, and Heir to Sir Edward Coke, ſometime Chief Juſtice of the Court of King's Bench: 2. The Lady Bridget: 3. Lady Catharine, married to James, Son and Heir apparent of James Herbert, a younger Son to Philip late Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery: 4. The Lady Martha: 5. The Lady Sophia, now Wife of Sir Edward Baynton, Knight of the Bath: And, 6. Elizabeth, who died young. The ſame Earl having concurred in the late Revolution, was by Their Majeſties, King William and Queen Mary, created Marquis of Caermarthen, and Preſident of Their Privy Council; and after Duke of Leeds. Dugdale, &c.

OSCOPHORIA, a Feaſt which the Athenians celebrated on the tenth day of October, in honour of Bacchus and Ariadne. Theſeus inſtituted this Feaſt after that he had deliver'd his Native Country from the Tribute of ſeven Youths and ſeven Virgins, which they were oblig'd every Year to ſend to the King of Crete, to be devour'd by the Minotaure, by killing that Monſter with the help of Ariadne, the Daughter of Minos, King of that Iſle. The Ceremony of this Feſtival was after this manner, They made choice of two young Gentlemen, whom they dreſt like young Women, who carrying branches of Vines in their Hands, went thus in Proceſſion from the Temple of Bacchus, to that of Minerva; after which, all the young Gentlemen of the City run Races for a Prize, with Vine-branches in their Hands, from the One Temple to the other. The name Oſcophoria comes from the Greek word 'Οσχοφορος, which ſignifies one that carries a Vine-branch. Caſtellan de Feſt. Græcis. Proclus in Chreſtomathia.

OSERO, an Iſland and City on the Coaſt of Dalmatia, under the Dominion of the Venetians, and is a Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Zara. The Latins call it Abſorus, and Civitas Auſarenſis, Pliny Abſirtum, and Ptolemy Abſortus.

OSIANDER, (Andreas) a Bavarian and Proteſtant Miniſter of Germany, was born in 1498. He ſtudied at Wirtemberg, and afterwards at Nuremberg. He was one of the firſt Preachers of the Reformation in 1522, and in 1529 was at the Conference at Marpurg, and afterwards at the Diet of Ausburg. Some time after leaving Nuremberg, he went to Pruſſia, where he got into the favour of Duke Albert, who made him Profeſſor in the Univerſity of Konigsberg, where he publiſh'd his Opinion concerning Juſtification, viz. That Man was juſtified by the Eſſential Righteouſneſs of God, which occaſioned great Controverſies betwixt him and his Brethren of the Reformation. He died in 1552, in the 54th. Year of his Age. He publiſh'd his Harmonia Evangel. in Greek and Latin, with Annotations, at Baſil, in 1537, which was printed at Francfort in 1541, and at Paris in 1564. He was a Man of a vehement Spirit.

OSIANDER (Lucas) a Proteſtant Miniſter of Germany, who was the Author of divers Works, and died the 17th. of September 1604. His Son Andreas Oſiander, alſo a Miniſter, died the 21ſt. of April 1617, at the Age of 54 He writ againſt Gregorius de Valentia, and againſt a Calviniſt Doctor. He was a vigilant, prudent, and conſtant Divine. He writ Annotations upon the Bible in three Volumes, and publiſh'd the Holy Bible, with Theological Obſervations. Mr. Le Clerc adds, That Luke Oſiander not daring to publiſh an entire Verſion of the Hebrew Text, contented himſelf with printing the Ancient Latin Edition, with Corrections of the places he thought did not agree with the Original, without cutting off the words of the Vulgar. Andrew Oſiander did the like, ſo that there could be no fault found in their Method, if they had put their Corrections in the Margent, and not in the Body of the Work. This is alſo the Judgment of R. Simon, Hiſt. Crit. du V. T.

OSIMANDUAS, King of Egypt, was the firſt of all the Monarchs in the World that took care to provide himſelf with a Library of Books, which when he had furniſh'd, he call'd Ψυχῆς ἰατρεῖον, or A Shop of Medicines for the Soul. Juſt. Lipſius in Syntagm. de Biblioth.

OSIMO, in Lat. Oxunum, or Oximum, a Town in Italy, with a Biſhop's See, belonging to the Pope, in the Province of Marca Anconitana. 'Tis mention'd by Lucan, in his 2d. Book. Varus, ut admotæ pulſarunt Oximon alæ, &c.

OSIRIS, the Son of Jupiter and Niobe, reigned over the Argivi, but not liking that People, he deliver'd up his Kingdom to his Brother Ægialeus, and took a Voyage to Egypt, of which he made himſelf Maſter; and afterwards having married Io or Iſis (whom Jupiter had chang'd into a Cow) ſhe communicated ſeveral Arts to the Egyptians, as well as Oſiris; and having eſtabliſh'd good Laws amongſt them, they were both after their death worſhipped with Divine Honours. 'Tis ſaid, That Oſiris being kill'd by his Enemies, was chang'd into an Ox, in which form the Egyptians worſhipp'd him under the name of Apis and Serapis. Plutarch. tract. de Iſid. & Oſir. Oſiris or Adonis was an ancient King of Egypt, known by ſeveral names. As Adonis ſignifies Lord, ſo Oſiris or Habaſicretz in the Phœnician Language, ſignifies, the Earth is my poſſeſſion. He ſpent his time much in Husbandry and Hunting, at which ſport being wounded by a wild Boar, he was lamented as if he had been dead, but recover'd of it; wherefore Iſis, his Wife, order'd, That for continuing the memory thereof, they ſhould every Year bewail Adonis or Oſiris as loſt, and afterwards rejoice, as having found him again. See the Hiſtorical Explication of the Fable of Adonis, in the 2. Art. of the III. Tome of the Univerſal Library.

OSIUS, or HOSIUS, Biſhop of Corduba in Spain, was born A. C. 257, and choſen to that Biſhoprick in 295. He glorioſly confeſs'd the Faith during the Perſecution of Diocleſian and Maximian. The Emperor Conſtantine the Great had a high eſteem of his Vertue. His Zeal for the true Religion procur'd him the hatred of the Donatiſts, Arians, and other Hereticks. Conſtantine ſent him in 319 to Alexandria, where he held a Council about the Meletians, Arians, and the time of keeping Eaſter; and about the followers of Colluthus. The Hereticks having a great ſpleen againſt him, perſuaded the Emperor Conſtantius, to endeavour to bring him over to their ſide by threats or flatteries, which he attempted, but in vain; and being aſtoniſh'd at his Conſtancy ſent him back to his Biſhoprick. But at laſt, Conſtantius having impriſon'd him at Sirmium, where, after a Years Impriſonment, he ſubſcrib'd to their Confeſſion of Faith made in that City, being then very aged. But two Years after he proteſted on his Death-bed againſt the violence that had been put upon him at Sirmium, and Anathematiz'd Arianiſm. S. Athanaſius and S. Auſtin ſpeak very much to his Advantage. He died in 357, being above 100 Years of Age.

OSMAN, Emperor of the Turks, was the Son of Achmet I. to whom he ſucceeded at the age of twelve Years, towards the end of January in 1618. In 1621 he led an Army of near 400000 Men againſt the Polanders, but with no ſucceſs, for he loſt above 100000 of them, as endeavouring to force the Poliſh Camp, conſiſting of 60000 Poles and Coſſacks, commanded by Prince Ladiſlaus: Upon this defeat he was forc'd to make a Peace on very diſadvantageous terms. And ſuppoſing that the Janiſaries had been the occaſion of his loſs, he had thoughts of ridding himſelf of them; and being moreover ſuſpected of having a deſign to remove the Seat of the Empire to Damaſcus in Syria, the Janiſaries rebell'd againſt him, and ſet up his Brother Muſtapha, by whoſe order he was ſtrangled the twentieth of May 1622. He reigned only four Years and about four Months.

OSNABRUCK, OSNABURG, or OSENBURG, Lat. Oſnaburgum, a City of Weſtphalia in Germany, which is a Hans Town and a Biſhop's See, under the Archbiſhop of Collen, inſtituted by Charles the Great in 776. This City is ſeated in a very fruitful Country, upon the River Haſa, eight German miles from Munſter to the S. E. and fifteen from Oldenburg to the S. and is famous for a Peace concluded here, between the Emperor and the Crown of Sweden in 1648. The City is under the Dominion of its own Biſhop, who hath his ordinary reſidence at Patersburg. The Biſhoprick of Oſenburg is bounded on the W. and S. with the Biſhoprick of Munſter, on the E. by the Principality of Minden, and the County of Ravenſperg, being from N. to S. forty Miles, and from E. to W. twenty five. The Chapter of the Cathedral conſiſts of a Dean and four and twenty Canons; three of the Prebendaries are Lutherans, who have a Right to Vote with the Roman Catholicks, at the Election of a Biſhop, and other Promotions of that Church, but then theſe Lutherans Votes are only Active, not Paſſive, i. e. they can chooſe another Biſhop, but they cannot be choſen themſelves: The Proteſtants have the great Church of Noſtredame to Preach and Officiate in. Heiſs. Hiſt. Imper. Lib. 6.

OSORIUS (Hieronymus) Biſhop of Sylves in Algarvie. He died at Tavila in his Dioceſs, the twentieth of Auguſt 1580. Hieronymus Oſorius, his Nephew, has writ his Life, and we have the following Works of his, viz. Paraphraſes and Commentaries upon many Books of the holy Scripture; De Nobilitate Civili, lib. II. De Nobilitate Chriſtiana, lib. III. De Gloria, lib. V. De Regis Inſtitutione, lib. VIII. De Rebus Emanuelis Luſitaniæ Regis, lib. XII. De Juſtitia Cœleſti, lib. X. De Sapientia, lib. V. &c. Oſorio in vita Hier. Oſor. Andreas Schottus & Nicholas Anton. Bibl. Script. Hiſp.

OSORNO, a City of Chili in the Weſt Indies, ſeventy Leagues South of La Conception, ſeated in a cold barren Soil, which affords nothing but Gold, yet it is large and very populous, 200000 being imploy'd in Linen and Wollen Manufacturies. In 1600 the Indians beſieged, and would have certainly taken it, if the Spaniards had not come ſeaſonably to its relief from Peru. Laet.

OSRIC, King of Deira in the North of England, the Son of Elfric, Edwin's Uncle ſucceeded in the Kingdom upon the death of Edwin, and overthrow of his Army by the joint Forces of the Britiſh King Kedwalla and Penda the the Mercian, whereby the Northern Kingdoms of Bernicia and Deira were again divided; the firſt recover'd by Eanfrid the Son of Ethelfred, and the laſt by Oſric, who having now got a Kingdom, forſook the Chriſtian Faith wherein he had been baptiz'd; but he was ſoon after ſlain in a Sally made by Kedwalla out of a ſtrong Town, wherein he was beſieg'd by Oſric, ſo that he reigned but one Year, viz. from the Year 633 to 634.

OSRIC II. King of Northumberland, ſucceeded next to Kenred, An. 718, and reigned 11 Years.

OSRID, King of Northumberland, ſucceeded to King Alfrid his Father An. 705, being but eight Years of age. He reign'd about 11 Years, and betook himſelf to a lewd courſe of life, not ſparing the very Nuns to ſatisfie his Luſt, for which he was ſlain by his Kindred.

OSRID II. King of Northumberland, was Son of Alcred the Uſurper, and ſucceeded to Elfwald the Unfortunate, Anno 789. Such was the Temper of thoſe times, amongſt the Northumbers, that moſt of their Kings were depos'd or diſpatch'd ſoon after their acceſſion to the Crown; he was forc'd into a Monaſtery at York, where, of a King he became a Monk. As for the manner of his Death, and the occaſion thereof, ſee the Reign of Ethelred II.

OSROENE, a Province of Aſia, lying near Comagena, upon the Euphrates. In the Year 197. eighteen Biſhops met here about the Regulation of Eaſter. Pauſan. Procop. Ammian. Marcellin. &c.

OSSA, a Mountain of Theſſaly, which Sophianus calls Monte Caſſovo, and Pinetus, Olira ; it is near the Mountains Pelion and Olympus, by the River Peneus.

OSSAT (Arnoldus) Cardinal Biſhop of Rennes, and afterwards of Bayeux. He ſtudied at Paris, where he improv'd himſelf in Rhetorick, Philoſophy, and Mathematicks; and afterwards applying himſelf to the Law under Cujacius, he practis'd at the Bar with great Reputation: At laſt he went into Orders, and for that Reaſon, refus'd the Profer which Henry IIId. made him, of being Secretary of State. But in the beginning of the Reign of Henry IV. he was ſent to Rome to diſpoſe Pope Clement VIIIth. to a Reconciliation with the King his Maſter, in which Negotiation, he ſucceeded happily enough, and in ſhort did great Services to the Crown of France. He died the thirteenth of March 1604, at Rome, being 67 Years of Age. He writ ſeveral Works, of which we have a Volume of Letters; and ſome other pieces. *Thuan. ad Hiſt. An.*1604, &c.

OSSERY, Lat. Oſſeria, a Tract in the Province of Leinſter in the Queen's County in Ireland, and is both an Earldom and Biſhoprick. The Biſhop reſides at Kilkenny, and is ſuffragan to the Archbiſhop of Dublin. The Earldom belongs to the Houſe of Ormond. In 1170 it was a ſmall Kingdom full of Wood, but conquer'd by the Engliſh next after Wexford, the firſt time they enter'd Ireland.

OSSET, an ancient City of Hiſpania Bætica, now called Triana, in Andaluzia near Seville.

OSSONA, a ſmall ruin'd City of Catalonia in Spain, ſtill a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Tarragon. It's ſeated in a Plain not far from the River Tera, eight Leagues W. of Gironne, and ſeventeen North of Barcelona.

OSSUNA, a ſmall City of Spain in the Kingdom of Andaluzia and Dioceſs of Seville, 36 miles S. W. of Cordova, and 40 E. of Seville. Lon. 12. 00. Lat. 37. 18.

OST or OOST FRIEZLAND, or Eaſt Friezland, called alſo the Earldom of Embden, is a part of Weſtphalia, which is bounded on the N. by the German Ocean, on the E. by the Earldom of Oldenburg, on the South by the Biſhoprick of Munſter, and on the W. it is ſeparated from Groeningen by the Bay called the Dollart. This Earldom is under a Prince of its own, tho' the Capital City Embden have put it ſelf under the Protection of the States of Holland. The Earl, who is alſo call'd Prince of Oſt Friezland, hath his Reſidence at Aurick. The Country is very fruitful in Corn, Pulſe, Cattle, Butter, and Cheeſe; they have alſo very good Horſes. Ooſt Friezland, in the XIVth. Century, was parcelled into many ſmall Governments; the Emperor Frederick III. beſtowed it in Fief on Ulrick Serſenne, one of the principal Lords of that Country, who having got the Favour of the Friſons, they acknowledged him for their Lord and Earl. And having obtain'd new Letters Patents from the Emperor, was proclaim'd Earl of Embden in that City the 21ſt. of December 1464, where an Herald put him in Poſſeſſion of the Fief, by delivering to him a Sword and Banner *Cornel. OSTEND, Lat. Oſtenda, a Sea-port Town in Flanders, ſeated in a Marſh at the Mouth of the River Guele, well fortified and under the King of Spain; it ſtands three Leagues from Newport to the S. E. and four from Bruges. This Town was beſieg'd from July 5th. 1601, to September 22d. 1604 by the Spaniards, being then in the Hands of the Hollanders; and at laſt was ſurrender'd upon good Articles, after a Siege of three Years, three Months, three Weeks, three Days, and three Hours. It's environ'd with two deep Channels (into which Ships of the greateſt bulk may enter with the Tyde) a ſtrong Rampart, a deep Ditch, ſeveral Baſtions, and eight Bulworks. Doctor Brown adds, It's contriv'd ſo, that the Sea may be let in round the Town for a great ſpace, which makes it much more ſtrong and defenſible than before. Its ſtout Defence againſt the Archduke Albert, and Marqueſs Ambroſe Spinola, may be well aſcrib'd to the Supplies from England, and Conduct of Sir Francis Vere. The Spaniards poſſeſs no other Port in Flanders but this and Newport; and this being the moſt conſiderable, they are making the Haven large; and were upon a conſiderable Work in order to the carrying of their Ships over into that Cut which goes from Oſtend to Bruges, out of their Harbour by the means of a very great Lock or Receptacle of Water which is to communicate with both, which is now finiſhed. The Town ſtands low, but the Streets are ſtraight, large, and uniform; the Haven ſuch that it can never be blocked up. It's thought the Spaniards loſt 100000 Men before this Place, tho' when the Arch-duke Albert inveſted it, they did not expect it ſhould hold out a Fortnight, which made the Arch-dutcheſs promiſe ſhe would never ſhift her ſelf till it were taken.

OSTERLANDT, Lat. Oſitia, a Tract in Miſnia bounded with Thuringia to the W. Voytland to the S. Leipſick to the N. and Ertzeburgiſche to the E. The greateſt part is under the Duke of Saxony Weimer. The chief Town is Altemburgh.

OSTIA, a City of Italy in the Eccleſiaſtical State, with a Biſhop's See. It was built by Ancus Marcius, King of the Romans, at the mouth of the River Tyber, on the Tuſcan Sea, and was ſince deſtroyed by the Saracens. It was here that Monica, the Mother of S. Auſtin died. The Dean of the Cardinals is always Biſhop of Oſtia. At preſent it is in a manner uninhabited becauſe of the badneſs of the Air.

OSTIOUG, a City and Province of the E. of Ruſſia. The City ſtands upon the River Suchana, where it receives the Jug, 180 m. E. of Wologda, and 50 from the Dwina.

OSTORIUS, a Roman Commander or Lieutenant in Britain, who breaking through a Rampart of Stones which Caractacus, a Britiſh King, had raiſed againſt him in Cornwal, routed his Army, forced him to the Mountains, and afterwards taking him, with his Queen and Children, carried him to Rome. For which the Senate decreed Oſtorius a Triumph, and Caractacus obtained his Liberty by freedom of Speech, and a generous Behaviour, though he had vexed the Romans by a long and tedious War. The Emperor Claudius conceived an high Eſteem for him. Camb. Brit. He ſays of this ſame Oſtorius, that he was Proprætor of Britain for the Romans. And at his firſt coming hither found the Province over-run with Enemies, who deſpiſed him, as being a new and experienced Captain. So that tho' he arriv'd in the Winter, he made head againſt them, defeated thoſe who firſt oppoſed him, and ſubdued the Country as far as the Severn on one ſide and borders of Scotland on the other. The greateſt Reſiſtance he met with was from Caractacus as before mentioned. Camb. Brit.

OSTRACISMUS, a Penalty inflicted by the Commonwealth of Athens, where by the Plurality of Voices they condemned to a 10 Years Baniſhent, thoſe who either were too Rich, or had too great Authority and Credit, for fear they might ſet up for Tyrants over their Native Country; but without any Confiſcation of their Goods or Eſtate. Heraclides writes that this Cuſtom was firſt inſtituted by the Tyrant Hippias, Son of Piſiſtratus, as a Barrier againſt what he exerciſed himſelf. The manner was thus, The People wrote their Names, whom they moſt ſuſpected, upon ſmall pieces of Tiles, theſe they put into an Urn or Box, which they preſented to the Senate; upon a Scrutiny, he whoſe Name was found upon the greater Number of the Tiles, was ſentenced by the Council to be baniſhed ab aris & focis. They at laſt abus'd this Cuſtom, condemning their beſt and moſt deſerving Citizens, amongſt the reſt, Solon the Legiſlator, Ariſtides ſo famous for his Juſtice, Miltiades for his Victories, the Orator Pericles, &c. yet it was aboliſhed at laſt, when Hyperbolus, a mean and contemptible man was proſcrib'd. Hoffman.

OSTROGOTHLAND, that is, Eaſt-Gothland, is a Province of Sweden, which comprehends the Province properly ſo called, Smaland, Bleking and Schonen. Oſtrogothia propria hath the Cities of Norkopin, Norkolm, Sunderkopin, Kelmo and Lindkopin, of Schoning and Stegeborg. The Oſtrogoths, or Eaſtern Goths, were thoſe who lived in Italy, ſo called in contradiſtinction to the Wiſigoths, who inhabited on this ſide the Mountains. Claudian. Caſſiodorus ſays, Theſe People were called Oſtrogoths, from Oſtrogotha, one of their Kings; and that in the Reign of Arcadius and Honorius they invaded Phrygia, Lydia, Pamphylia, and afterwards made Martianus leave them a part of Pannonia, and forced Zeno to give them ſeveral Places in Illyricum. They were very great under their King Walamer and his Brother Theudimir, and more under Theodoric, who beſides Italy and Sicily, was Maſter of Dalmatia, a part of Pannonia and Gaul, and ſeveral other Places. He made the Alemanni or Germans pay him Tribute. Hoffman.

OSTROVIZZA, a Fortreſs in the County of Zara, in Dalmatia, ſituated amongſt fruitful Paſtures, pleaſant Woods and delightful Springs. The Air is clear and healthful, and the Place very delicious. It is near 100 Years ago ſince the Venetians took it from the Turks, and burnt it, who ſome time after rebuilt it again; but the Morlacks of Croatia, Subjects of the Republick of Venice, burnt it in 1682, and the next year the Venetians took full Poſſeſſion of and garriſon'd it. Petrus Coronelli Deſcription of Morea.

OSTUNI, Lat. Oſtunum, a City of Otranto, in the Kingdom of Naples, with a Biſhoprick under the Archbiſhop of Brindiſi, between that City and Taranto, near the Adriatick.

OSWALD, King of Bernicia, in the North of England, was Son of Ethelfrid, and ſucceeded his Brother Ethelfrid, or Eanfrid, in the Kingdom, An. 634, which he found at firſt miſerably haraſs'd by the Britiſh King Kedwalla, who ravag'd at will both here and in the Kingdom of Deira, till Oſwald undertook him with a ſmall Body of Men, with whom he ſurprized and deſtroyed his numerous Army, which he call'd Invincible. This Action happened near a little River, in a Place called Heavenfield, from the Croſs (reputed miraculous for Cures) which Oſwald erected there before the Battle, as a Mark of his Chriſtianity. Thus having ſecured his Kingdom, he took care to have his People re inſtructed in the Chriſtian Faith. In order to which he ſent into Scotland (where he had been converted in his Exile during the Reign of Edwin) Prieſts well qualify'd, to re-eſtabliſh that Religion in his Realm which the late Troubles had diſcourag'd. Aidan, a Scotch Monk, but a Man of great Zeal and Meekneſs, was ſent amongſt the reſt for this great Work, who choſe Holy Iſland, then called Lindisfarn, for the Place of their Reſidence, as being ſolitary, and therefore the fitter for Religious Exerciſes. And ſuch was the King's Zeal and Humility, That he diſdained not to interpret to his Nobles and houſhold Servants what Aidan, then Biſhop of Lindisfarn, preached to them in Scotch. In this vertuous manner Oſwald reigned eight years. And which is remarkable, he fell into the ſame Fate with Edwin, King of Deira. And from the very ſame hand being overcome, and ſlain in Battel by Penda, the Mercian King, at a Place ſince called Oſweſtree, in Shropſhire. *Beda Hiſt. lib. 3. cap. 9. Speed Hiſt. OSWALDUS (Eraſmus) a German, born in the Earldom of Merckenſtein in Auſtria, in 1511. He ſtudied in the chiefeſt Univerſities of Germany, where he attained to great Skill in the Languages and Mathematicks, under the famous Sebaſtian Munſter. He afterwards taught at Memmingen, Tubingen, and Friburg, where he was Hebrew and Mathematick Profeſſor. He died in 1597, being 68 years of Age. He tranſlated the New Teſtament into Hebrew, which no Man before him ever attempted. The Principal of his other Works are, His Commentaries upon the Sphear of Johannes de Sacro-boſco, upon the Almageſt of Ptolemy. In primum Mobile & Theorias Planetarum. Paraphraſis in Cantica & Eccleſiaſten. Gentium Calendaria, &c. Melch. Adam. in vit. Philoſ. German. Voſſ. de Math. cap. 36. § 18.

OSWESTREE, a little Town in Shropſhire, defended by a Ditch, Wall, and Caſtle, and has a conſiderable Trade for Welch Cottons. Camb. Brit.

OSWIN, King of Deira, in the N. of England, Son of Oſrick, and Nephew of Edwin, was a Prince generally admired for the Comelineſs of his Perſon and other princely Qualities, and amongſt devout People for his Zeal in Religion. He ruled but about ſeven years, and that about the middle of the ſeventh Century, being killed by Oſwy, King of Bernicia, upon a Difference between them, which broke out into open Wars. Yet Oſwin, ſeeing himſelf overmatch'd, thought it more Prudence to diſmiſs his Army, than to venture a Battle. And truſted himſelf and one of his Attendants to Earl Hunwald, who baſely betrayed him to Oſwy, by whom he was put to Death Which was foretold by Biſhop Aidan, who died ſoon after him of grief. To expiate the Fact of Oſwy, deteſted by all good Men, a Monaſtery was erected in the Place where it was committed, in which Prayers were daily offered up for the Souls of both Kings, the Murtherer as well as the Murthered. Speed. Hiſt. Great Brit.

OSWULF, King of Northumberland, ſucceeded to his Father Eadbert, An. 759. He was baſely murthered by his Servants, after one Years Reign. Speed Hiſt. Great Brit. Henry Huntington.

OSWY, King of Bernicia, in the North of England, was Son of King Ethelfrid, and ſucceeded to his Brother Oſwald in the Kingdom, An. 642 He reigned 28 years, hard put to it for a while by Penda the Mercian King who by frequent Inrodes made great Devaſtations in his Territories, aſſiſted by Ethelwald the Son of Oſwald, who then ruled in Deira. Inſomuch that Oſwy, fearing the worſt, offered with many rich Preſents to buy his Peace But the Pagan King rejected his Propoſals; and continuing his Outrages, Oſwy and Alfred having gathered a ſmall Army, fell on the Mercians numerous Forces led on by expert Commanders, and routed them at Leeds in York ſhire in 655. Ethelwald in the Fight withdrew his Forces into a ſafe Place, where he expected the Event. This ſo alarm'd the Mercians, who look'd upon it as a Piece of Treachery, that their Apprehenſion of it put them to flight. Great was their Slaughter, in the Rout moſt of the Commanders and Penda himſelf being ſlain. Thus King Oſwy conquered the Kingdom of Mercia, whence he was ſoon after driven away by the Nobles, and Wulfer ſet up in his ſtead. Oſwy did alſo over-awe Oſwin King of Deira, and did ſettle that Province ſo, that it made from that time, jointly with Bernicia, the Kingdom of Northumberland. At laſt falling ſick, he died. He was ſo much addicted to the Roman Rites, that if he had recovered from his Diſtemper, he had gone to Rome, there to finiſh his days. Speed. Hiſt. &c.

OTFORD, a Town of Godſheath Hundred in the W of Kent, ſeated on the E. of the River Darent, and noted for the Battle fought between King Edward, ſurnamed Ironſide, and Canute the Dane, who loſt the Field, and 5000 of his Men. Warham, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, having built a fair Seat here, Archbiſhop Crammer, exchanged it with King Henry the VIIIth.

OTHNIEL, the Son of Kenaz, who had married Achſah his Uncle Caleb's Daughter, of the Tribe of Judah, was the firſt Judge of the Jews after Joſhua, and delivered them from the Tyranny and Oppreſſion of Chuſan-riſhathaim, King of Meſopotamia. He governed them forty Years, kept up the Worſhip of the true God, and died, An. Mund. 2640. See Joſhua, chap. 15. and Judg. 3.

OTHO I. or Otto, ſurnamed The Great, Emperor of Germany, ſucceeded his Father Henry I. in 936, and was Crowned at Aken by Hildebert, Archbiſhop of Mentz. He ſubdued the Hungarians and Bohemians. His Power and great Victories begat a Jealouſie in the Grandees of the Empire, and ſome of his neareſt Relations, and put them upon Attempts againſt him; but he ſoon reduced them to own him their Sovereign. Having by this means ſettled Peace in Germany, he led an Army to the Aſſiſtance of his Brother-in-law Lewis, ſurnamed Outremer, King of France. Some time after he marched with an Army into Italy, where he defeated Berengarius, King of part of that Country, who kept Adelaida the Daughter of Rudolph, King of Burgundy and Widow of Lotharius King of Italy, beſieged in the Fortreſs of Canoſſa. Otho, who had ſometime before loſt his Wife, an Engliſh Princeſs, ſet Adelaida at liberty as ſoon as he had taken Pavia and married her in 951. At his Return into Germany, being informed that his Eldeſt Son Ludolph had conſpired againſt him, with ſome of the moſt potent Lords of the Country, he ſoon quaſh'd their Deſigns by the taking of Ratisbon, and the overthrow of their Army. And turning his Arms againſt the Hungarians, he gained a ſignal Victory over them, where he killed the Duke of Worms, and two Tartarian Princes On Whitſunday, 961, he cauſed his Son Otho to be Crowned at Aken, and at the Requeſt of Pope John XII. who had deſired his Aſſiſtance againſt the Tyranny of Berengarius (whom the Emperor had graciouſly pardoned and reſtored) he paſſed into Italy by the Valley of Trent, made an eaſie Conqueſt of Lombardy, and from thence marched to Rome, where the Pope Crowned him Emperor in 962. And the year following he took Berengarius, with his Wife, on Mount St. Leo in Ombria, and ſent them Priſoners to Germany. But the Pope knowing that the Germans were more to be feared than Berenger's Forces, received his Son Adelbert into Rome. The Emperor enrag'd with this Perfidiouſneſs, depos'd the Pope, and cauſed Leo VIIIth. to be choſen. He left Rome in January 964; but hearing that his Enemies were got into the City again, he laid Siege to it, and ſtarv'd it, and made Benedict Vth. who had been choſen after John XIIth. a Priſoner. After this he made another Journey into Italy, where he entirely conquered Adelbert, re-eſtabliſhed Pope John XIIIth at Rome, whence his Enemies had driven him. This was in 967. The Greeks had abuſed his Embaſſadors, whereupon he drove them out of part of Italy, made the reſt pay him great Sums of Money, and cut off many of their Noſes. He died at Magdeburg the Wedneſday before Whitſunday, the 7th. of May, 973. Otho was a good Prince and a Lover of Juſtice. It is ſaid he was uſed to ſwear by his Beard, which according to the Mode of thoſe times, he let grow down to his Waſt. Luitprand. Haſſ. Baron. in Annal.

OTHO II. ſurnamed The Bloody, or The Pale Death of the Saracens, ſucceeded his Father Otho I. He had defeated the Greeks and Saracens before his Father's death; and being poſſeſs'd of the Throne, he ſubdued his Couſin Henry of Bavaria, who had made himſelf to be proclaimed Emperor at Ratisbon. He waged War againſt the Kings of Denmark, Poland and Bohemia, who had taken up Arms in favour of his Enemy. After this he drew Charles, who was his Couſin, and the only Brother of Lotharius King of France, over to his Side; and in the Year 977, gave him the Dutchy of the Lower Lorrain, obliging him to do Homage for't. The Meanneſs of Charles, and the ambitious Temper of the Emperor, very much diſoblig'd the French Nobility. Whereupon Lotharius took up Arms againſt Otho, whom he ſurprized at Aken in 978, plundered the City, and retired, after having ſubdued Lorrain, and received Homage from the Inhabitants of Metz. The Emperor endeavouring to be avenged of this Affront was defeated a ſecond time by the French, who purſued the Germans three days and three nights, to the Maes. In 980, Lotharius, contrary to the Inclinations of his Lords, made Peace with Otho, who at the Requeſt of Pope Benedict VIIth. haſted to Italy, to oppoſe the Greeks, who aſſiſted by the Saracens defeated the Imperialiſts at Baſſantello in Calabria, 15 July 982, where Otho being forſaken by the Italians, had much a-do to ſave himſelf, by ſwiming. And 'tis ſaid he was taken; but ranſomed before ever he was known. For having eſcaped almoſt alone from the Battle near the Gulf of Tarentum, and not being able to get to Roſſano, where the Empreſs was, any other way, he caſt himſelf into the Sea; but meeting with ſome Greek Pirates, they took him up; and for as much as he ſpake their Language perfectly well, they ſuppoſed him to be one of their own Nation, and ſet him on Land near to Roſſano, where they paid his Ranſom; after which he got into that City; and having taken and burnt Beneventum, he cauſed many Lords to be put to death, whoſe Fidelity he ſuſpected. And after having held a general Aſſembly at Verona, he died at Rome by the Wound of a poiſoned Arrow; but others ſay. it was of Grief, the 7th. of December, 983, having reigned ten years, ſeven months. and two days.

OTHO III. ſurnamed The Red, and Wonder of the World, ſucceeded his Father Otho II. He was very young when his Father died, and had many Competitors that pretended to the Empire, which yet was ſecured him by the care of his good Subjects, and of his Mother Theophania. Creſcentius Nomentanus, who called himſelf Conſul of Rome, and Henry of Saxony, Duke of Bavaria, deſigned to make themſelves Emperors; the latter of whom ſeized Otho, who was then but twelve years of Age; but the Great Ones reſcued him, and having choſen him Emperor at Verona, got him Crowned at Aken. Gerbert, who was afterwards Pope Sylveſter IId. was appointed his Præceptor. In the mean time Creſcentius played the Tyrant at Rome, and drove Pope John XVth. out of the City, who applied himſelf for Redreſs to Otho. Whereupon he paſſed the Alps, and came to Venice, and from thence to Ravenna and Pavia, and at laſt to Rome, where he was preſent at the Creation of Pope Gregory Vth. who Crowned the Emperor, and deſired him to pardon Creſcentius. But he like an ungrateful Wretch, as ſoon as the Emperor had turn'd his Back, put his Benefactor out of the City, and created an Anti-Pope. Otho being come back again to Rome, cauſed this falſe Pope's Fingers to be cut off, and his Eyes to be put out, and Creſcentius to be beheaded in 998. After this, taking a Progreſs into Poland, he held a Council there, and erected ſeven Biſhopricks. In 999 he married Joan, the Widow of Creſcentius; and in 1001 he drove the Saracens from Capua. And being beſieged at Rome by ſome ſeditious Perſons, he narrowly eſcaped with his Life. He died the 17th. of January, 1002, at the Age of 28, at Paternum in Italy, without leaving any Iſſue. 'Tis ſaid that Creſcentius's Widow. whom he afterwards divorced, got him poiſoned with a Pair of perfumed Gloves ſhe had ſent him. His Body was carried to Aken. He was a Learned Prince, but Liberal to Prodigality.

OTHO IV. ſurnamed The Proud, of the Houſe of Brunſwick, was the Son of Henry Duke of Saxony, and choſen King of the Romans by ſome Electors, after the Death of Henry VIth. and crowned at Aken in 1199, whilſt the reſt had choſen Philip, Duke of Schwaben, Brother of the deceaſed Emperor. Great Troubles were apprehended from this Competition; but Otho having married Beatrix, the Daughter of Philip, contented himſelf with the Title of King of the Romans, and in 1208 ſucceeded his Father-in-law. This Elevation made him intolerable, by reaſon of his Pride and Contempt of the Nobles. He made a Progreſs into Italy, took the Iron Crown at Milan, and paſſing on to Rome was Crowned there by Pope Innocent the IIId. in October 1209. But committing ſome Violences on the Church-lands, tho' he had promiſed the contrary, he was excommunicated and depos'd in a Synod, at the ſame time that the Elector choſe Frederick IId. in his room, in 1210. All the Endeavours he uſed againſt his Adverſary were to no purpoſe. He ſuppoſed that King Philip Auguſtus had contributed to his Diſgrace, whereupon he entred into Alliance with the King of England, and the Earl of Flanders, againſt the ſaid Philip, who had the Advantage of them at the famous Battle of Bovines, in 1214. He died at Brunſwick, the 15th of May. 1218.

OTHO, (M. Salvius) Emperor was the Son of Lucius Otho and Albia Terentia. He became the Favourite of Nero, upon the Account of the reſemblance of their Inclinations, which Libertine Humour carry'd him to great Inconveniences. He debauched Poppea, the Wife of Rufus Criſpinus, a Roman Knight, and afterwards married her. And upon a time boaſting of her Beauty to Nero, he took her from him, and ſent him to govern Portugal; where Otho being much better able to bear with Buſineſs, than Idleneſs, carried himſelf with as much Modeſty and Reſtraint, as he had indulged himſelf in all Licentiouſneſs at Rome. About ten years after, he joyned his Intereſts with Galba, who was ſet upon the Throne after Nero in 68, ſuppoſing that Galba would have adopted him; but finding Piſo preferred before him, he by his Intereſt among the Soldiers cauſed them both to be murthered, whereupon he was ſaluted Emperor: whilſt in the mean time the Army in Germany had fixed that Dignity upon Vitellius, who marching into Italy, defeated Otho near Bebriacum, a Village between Cremona and Verona: upon which Otho deſpairing of Succeſs killed himſelf in the 38th. year of his Age, the 20th. of April, 69, having reigned only three months and five days. Sueton. Plutarch. Tacit.

OTHO, ſurnamed of Friſingen, or Friſingenſis, becauſe he was Biſhop of that City, was famous in the twelfth Century for his Learning, Vertue, and illuſtrious Birth; being the Son of Leopold, Duke of Auſtria, and Agnes, the Daughter of the Emperor Henry IVth. His Father cauſed him to be educated in a College he had founded at Nuremburg, where having continued his Studies for ſome time, he came to Paris, to finiſh them in that Univerſity, and afterwards retired to Morimond, a Monaſtery in Burgundy, of the Ciſtercian Order, where he was choſen Abbot; but being created Biſhop of Friſingen, he came to Germany, and in 1148 followed the Emperor Conrade, in his Expedition to the Holy Land. At his Return, having a longing deſire to his wonted Solitude, he betook himſelf again to Morimond, where he died the 21ſt. of September 1158. He was a Perſon of great Knowledge in the Peripatetick Philoſophy and Hiſtory, and writ a Chronicle in VII. Books, from the beginning of the World, to the year 1146, to which he added an VIIIth. Book, concerning the End of the World, and the laſt Perſecution by Antichriſt. Cuſpinian and Chriſtianus Urſtius have publiſhed this Peace. He writ alſo two Books of The Life of Frederick Barbaroſſa, which Radevicus, Canon of Friſingen continued. Voſſius. Baron. Bellarmin, &c.

OTHOMAN, or OSMAN, the firſt King of the Turks, was the Son of Ortogulus, a Peaſant of an obſcure Family, tho' others ſay, he was a great Man amongſt the Turks. Certain it is, that Othoman was a Perſon of extraordinary Courage, which he made not only the Chriſtians, but thoſe alſo of his own Nation, ſenſible of. He ſubdued many Provinces of the leſſer Aſia, and ſeveral Sultans of his own Nation. He began his great Conqueſts with a handful of vagabond Rebels, made himſelf Maſter of part of Cappadocia, and of all Bithynia. He took Sinopi, Angouri, Burſa. and many other Places, and at laſt verified the Prophecy ſet down by Zoſimus, That Wolves ſhould come and lodge themſelves in Bithynia, which would ſeize the Sceptre of Conſtantinople. It is obſerved that Othoman took all the Places that ever he laid Siege to, except Nicea and Philadelphia He was of a ſweet, liberal, and magnificent Temper, which made his Succeſſors to thing it an Honour to be ſurnamed Othomans. His Son Orchan ſucceeded him. He reigned about 27, 28, or 29 years, and died 1326, which was the 727th. of the Hegira. Chalcondylas's Hiſtory of the Turks.

OTHRYADES, one of the 300 Lacedæmonians, who fought againſt an equal number of Argivi, for the Poſſeſſion of the Territory of Thyrea, upon the Borders of Laconia. It had been agreed by both theſe People, that thoſe Lands ſhould belong to the Conquerors. The Fight was with that tranſcendent Courage and Obſtinacy diſputed on both Sides, that there was no Body left to keep the Field but this Othryades, the two laſt Argivi having betaken themſelves to their Heels. Whereupon this too generous Soul having reared a Trophy of the Spoils of his Enemies, dedicated them to Jupiter, and having writ theſe words upon his Shield with his own Blood, I have overcome, killed himſelf, thinking it ſhame to out-live ſo many of his valiant Companions, and alone to enjoy the Triumph for a Victory to which they had contributed as much as himſelf, and had purchaſed with the Price of their Blood. Val. Maxim. lib. 3.

OTLEY, a Market Town of Skirach Wapentake upon the Wharf, in the Weſt-riding of Yorkſhire.

OTRANTO, Lat. Hydruntum, a City in the Kingdom of Naples, an Archbiſhop's See, and the Capital of a Province of the ſame Name, called la Terra d' Otranto, which is a Peninſula, ſurrounded with the Adriatick and Ionian Seas, except on the North, where it is bounded by the Territory of Bari and the Baſilicata. This was a part of the ancient Calabria, and has many Greeks living on the South ſide of it. This Country is ſaid to be ſubject to Locuſts, which are devoured by a ſort of Birds peculiar to that Country. It has alſo been very obnoxious to the Invaſions of Pirates, and more particularly of the Saracens. The Turks alſo have frequently made Deſcents here, and ſettled themſelves for ſome time. The other Cities of this Province are Lecci or Lecce, Aletium (which is the faireſt and largeſt City of all the Country) Aleſſano, Brindiſi, Gallipoli, Caſtalaneta, Taranto, Nardo, Oſtuni, Matera, and Oria. Otranto has a famous Haven on the Adriatick, towards Greece, and is ſituate 45 miles from Brindiſi to the S. and 24 from Gallipoli to the E. It was taken and pillaged by Mahomet IId. but he dying ſoon after, it was retaken by Alphonſus, Duke of Calabria. But at preſent it is in a better poſture of Defence, being ſecured by a Fortreſs built upon a Rock. From the Cape of Otranto, the moſt Eaſtern of Italy, the Paſſage into Greece is but 60 miles broad. Petrus Antonius of Capua, Archbiſhop of this City, celebrated a Provincial Synod here in 1567. Leandre Alberti.

OTTEWALT, Lat. Otthonia Sylva, a noted Foreſt of the Palatinate, between the Main and the Necker. It reaches towards the Confines of Franconia, Gerawer, and the Earldom of Erpach.

OTTOBONI VIII. was a Venetian by Birth, being of the Family of Ottoboni, his Name Peter, and Biſhop of Parro. After the Death of the great Odeſcalchi or Innocent XI. which happened on the 12th. of Auguſt, 1689. he was on the 16th. of October following, elected into the Papal Chair, and during the time that he held it, was kind to his native Republick, and ſeemed to favour France; but that was not long, for he died on the 1ſt. of February, 1691. after he had ſat fifteen Months and twenty one Days in S. Peter's Chair, which was not ſupplied till five Months and an half were expired, when Cardinal Pignatelli, on Thurſday the 12th. of July, was elected in his room, being then 76 Years and 4 Months Old, and took the Name of Innocent XII. who died September the 28th. 1700. The Papal Chair being juſt now vacant.

OTTOCARUS I. King of Bohemia, crowned King in 1199 by the Emperor Philip, whoſe Intereſt he had vigorouſly eſpouſed; but having offended him by his Divorce, he deprived him of half his Kingdom; whereupon he ſided with Otho, the Emperor's Rival. Spangenberg in Chron.

OTTOCARUS II. King of Bohemia, choſen Duke of Styria, he uſurped the Dutchy of Auſtria, or rather entred upon it in Right of Margaret of Auſtria, his Queen, and in 1269 got Carinthia, which made him ſo arrogant that he refuſed to ſwear Homage to the Emperor Rodolphus of Habsburg, for ſome Lands depending on him in Bohemia; whereupon he was ſummoned to appear and give an account of his unjuſt Acquiſitions. But he contemning the Summons, ſent no Body to the Diet to anſwer for him; whereupon the heavy Complaints made againſt him by the Princes, it was voted by common Conſent to ſend Embaſſadors to Bohemia, and when theſe returned without any Satisfaction, and told how ill he ſpoke of the Emperor and Princes, they reſolved on a War, and promiſed all neceſſary Aſſiſtance. The Forces being in a readineſs, the Emperor marches into Auſtria; whereupon Ottocarus doubting the Succeſs of a Battle, and being apprehenſive of the Emperor's Conduct, ſued for Peace, conſented to part with Auſtria, and in ſight of both Armies, upon his Knees ſwore Homage to Rodolphus, for Bohemia and his other Poſſeſſions; but his Wife and ſome turbulent Men checking him for ſo unworthy an Action, he broke the Peace and invaded Auſtria with a powerful Army. The Emperor takes the Field to meet him, and having joined his German and Hungarian Troops, defeated Ottocarus his Army, and killed himſelf. This happen'd in 1278. *Æneas Sylvius Hiſt. Bohem. OTTOMAN, the reputed Son of Ibrahim, Emperor of the Turks, became a Dominican Friar. He was taken with the Sultana, his Mother, by a French Knight of Malta, in 1644, between the Iſland of Rhodes and Alexandria, in their way to Mecha. Some who deny him to have been the Sultan's Son, tell the Story of his being taken, and the Occaſion of it, thus: Tumbel Aga, who was the Kuſlir Agaſi, that is, the Eunuch who has Charge in chief of all the Sultan's Women kept in the Seraglio, having purchaſed a moſt beautiful Slave of a Perſian called Sciabas, was ſurprized when he found ſhe was with Child, and that the Perſians had put a Trick upon him, in ſelling her for a Maid. The Aga vex'd at this Diſappointment, ſends the Slave to his Secretary's Houſe, where ſhe might be brought to Bed. And hearing that ſhe was delivered of a Son, he ſent for the Child, which pleaſed him ſo well, that he adopted him. Sultan Mahomet IVth who was depoſed in 1687, being born much about the ſame time, the fair Slave was appointed to be his Nurſe, and continued about two years in the Seraglio. Ibrahim during this time took a great Affection to the Son of this Slave, and was much more delighted with him, than with his own Son; the Sultana was extreamly nettled hereat, and could no longer hide the Averſion ſhe had for the fair Slave, and the Aga her Patron, who conceiving that the abſenting of himſelf would be the only way to ſecure him from falling a Victim to a female Revenge, deſired Permiſſion of the Sultan to take a Voyage to Mecha, and to ſpend the reſt of his days in Egypt: which having obtained, he embarked himſelf with his Treaſures which were very great, with his Slave, and adopted Son, on the Fleet bound for Alexandria, conſiſting of a great Galleon, two Men of War, and ſeven Saicks. Foul Weather forced them into Rhodes, but the Wind coming fair again, they purſued their Courſe towards Alexandria, and in the way met with ſix Gallies of Malta, very well arm'd and provided. After a bloody Fight, and a ſtout Reſiſtance on the Turks ſide, the Chriſtians remained Victorious, who found in the great Veſſel, all the Gold, Silver, and precious Stones which the Aga had laid up during the Reign of three Emperors, beſides this Eunuch, his Slave, and his Son, there were alſo 380 Slaves, all which Booty was conveighed to Malta, and received with great Rejoycings. They reported that the Son of the fair Slave was one of the Sultan's Sons, who ſent him to Mecha, to be circumcis'd there. The great Maſter of Malta received him as ſuch, and he was educated accordingly for ſome years at the Expences of that Body. But foraſmuch as in proceſs of time People began to doubt of his Quality, they perſuaded him to turn Friar; whereupon he took the Habit of the Dominican Order, and was called Father Ottoman. Ibrahim, who had loved this Boy with the greateſt tenderneſs, enraged at his being taken by the Knights, vow'd the Ruin of Malta: And being no leſs offended at the Venetians, who by their Treaty with him were obliged to keep the Sea clear, the following year he diſcharged his Fury againſt them, and began the War of Candia, which laſted from 1645 to 1669, when that Iſland was taken by the Turks. Ricaut's Hiſtory of the late Emperors of the Turks.

OVATION was an inferior ſort of Triumph, which the Romans allowed the Generals of their Army, when the Victory they had obtained was not very conſiderable, or when the War had not been declar'd according to form of Law. He who thus triumphed, entered the City on Foot, or on Horſe-back, according to the Opinion of ſome Hiſtorians, and had a Myrtle Crown upon his Head, that Tree being conſecrated to Venus: wherefore Marcus Craſſus having the Honour of an Ovation decreed him, deſired it, as a ſpecial Favour of the Senate to be allowed a Lawrel Crown inſtead of one of Myrtle. The Party triumphing made his Entry with Flutes and not with Trumpets, neither were they attired with an embroidered Robe, as thoſe who had the Honour of the great Triumph, and was only accompanied by the Senators, and followed by his Army, They gave to this Triumph the Name Ovation, becauſe the General when he came to the Capitol offered a Sheep, whereas in the grand Triumph he ſacrificed a Bull. The firſt that triumphed in this manner was P. Poſthumius Tubertus, for his Victory over the Sabines, about 250. Dionyſius Halicarnaſſ. Hiſt. Rom. Roſin.

OUDENARD, Lat. Aldenardum, a Town in Flanders of great Strength, divided by the Scheld in two parts, and ſecured by a Caſtle, which is joined to the Town by a Bridge over that River. It lies five Leagues from Ghendt, and ſix from Tournay. This is a rich Place, and drives a great Trade by the Manufacture of Tapeſtry which flouriſheth here. This Town was taken by the French in 1658, and reſtored by the Pyrenæan Treaty, and retaken by them again in 1667, beſieged without Succeſs by the Spaniards in 1674, but by the Peace at Nimeguen reſtored to them in 1679

OUDENBOURG, a little Town of the Low-Countries, in the Earldom of Flanders, ſubject to the King of Spain, it ſtands five miles S. E. of Oſtend, and ten W. of Bruges. Long. 22. 10. Lat. 51. 15.

OUDIN (Cæſar) Secretary and Interpreter of foreign Languages to Henry IVth. of France, who alſo made uſe of him in ſeveral Negotiations abroad. We have diverſe Pieces of his wherein he hath done good Service to the publick, viz. Tranſlations, Grammars, and Dictionaries. He died the 1ſt. of October, 1625. Antony Oudin, his eldeſt Son, was not inferiour to his Father for skill in foreign Languages, and ſerved Lewis XIIIth. in the ſame quality as his Father had ſerved Henry IVth. who alſo employed him in Negotiations abroad. And at his Return to Paris, in 1651, he was the preſent King's Maſter for the Italian Tongue.

OUDOCEUS, third Biſhop of Landaff, flouriſh'd in the Year 560, in which year, he conven'd his Clergy, and Abbots of his Dioceſs, and in a full Synod, ſolemnly excommunicated Mouricus King of Glamorganſhire, for his perfidious Murder of Cynetus: The King continu'd two year under the Excommunication, but then, being touch'd with Remorſe, came in Tears to the Biſhop Oudoceus, and deſir'd to be reſtor'd to Communion; upon which, the Biſhop put him under Penance, letting him underſtand, That he was oblig'd to make Reparation to God and the Church, by more than ordinary Rigours and Performances in Faſting, Prayer, and charitable Diſtributions; to all which Conditions the King willingly ſubmitted. Spelman Concil. Vol. 1. pag. 62.

OVERBOROUGH, now a ſmall Village, has been formerly a great City, as appears by divers Monuments, engraven Stones, Pavements of ſquare Chequer-work and pieces of Roman Coin digged up in the Neighbourhood. It ſtands upon the Lace in Lancaſhire, and is ſuppoſed to be the Bremetonicum of the Ancients. Camb. Brit.

OVERBURY (Sir Thomas) Son to Sir Nicholas Overbury, one of the Judges of the Marches, was born at Boſton, on the Hill in Glouceſterſhire, bred in Oxford, where he became a moſt accompliſh'd Gentleman, which the Happineſs of his Pen both in Poetry and Proſe do clearly ſhew. In the latter he was the firſt Writer of Characters in our Nation. He was much in the Earl of Somerſet's favour, until he diſguſted that Favourite, by diſſuading him from keeping Company with a Lady, Wife of another Perſon of Honour. Soon after King James deſigned him Embaſſador to Ruſſia; but his falſe Friends perſuaded him to decline the Employment, as no better than an honourable Grave. That it was better to lie ſome days in the Tower, than more months in a worſe Priſon; a Ship by Sea, and a barbarous cold Country by Land. Beſides, they poſſeſs'd him that within a ſmall time the King ſhould be wrought to a good opinion of him; but he who willingly goes into a Priſon in hopes to come eaſily out of it, may ſtay therein ſo long till he be too late convinced of his Error. Whilſt Sir Thomas was in the Tower his Refuſal was repreſented to the King as an Aſt of high Contempt, and his ſtriſt Reſtraint gave his Enemies full liberty to practiſe his Death, which was performed by Poiſon, in 1615. This coſt ſome a violent, and others a Civil Death as being deprived of their Offices. The Kings affection grew cold to the Earl of Somerſet, who being condemned, was baniſhed the Court. Fullers Worthyes.

OVER-YSSEL, Lat. Tranſ-Iſſulana, a Province of the United Netherlands, towards Germany, ſo called from its ſituation beyond the River Yſſel, Lat. Iſala, to which the Rhine communicates part of its Waters, by means of Druſus his Chanel. This Province is divided into three parts, viz. the Drent. the Sallant, and the Twente, being bounded on the Eaſt, by the Biſhoprick of Munſter, on the North by Friezland and Groeningen, on the W. and S. by the Zuider-Zee, and Guelderland. The chief Cities of it are, Campen, Deventer, Zwoll, Coevorden, Oldenzeel, Haſſelt, Steenwyck, Block-Ziel, Vollen-hoven, &c. This Country formerly belong'd to the Biſhops of Utrecht; but Henry of Bavaria parted with it to Charles Vth. in 1527. It revolted in 1582 from Spain, and united with the Hollanders. In 1672, it was over-run by the French who were forced thence two years after. Pontus Heuterus de reb. Belg. Junius, Guicciardin.

OUGHTRED (William) was born at Eaton, about the Year 1573. and educated at the School of that Place. He gives a brief recital of his poor, laborious and painful life (as he expreſſes it) in an Apologetical Epiſtle to the Engliſh Gentry, which he thought himſelf obliged to write, in anſwer to one Delamain, (a Pretender to Mathematicks) who had made unjuſt Reflections upon him; from which Account ſome part of what follows is taken. From Eaton School he was removed to K's College in Cambridge, of which Society he was a Member about 11 or 12 Years. The time which could be ſpared there from the uſual Academical Studies, he imploy'd upon the Mathematical Sciences; and by inciting, aſſiſting, and inſtructing others, he brought many to Fancy that noble and uſeful part of Learning. He was made Presbyter by Doctor Bilſon, Biſhop of Wincheſter and was Beneficed at Alderbury, near Guilford in Surry, of which Rectory he was in Poſſeſſion many Years, and where (as is ſuppoſed) he died, and was buried. In that Place, for his Recreations, he uſed Diverſities of Studies, as appears by his Books printed, and by his MSS of divers kinds; in Phyſick, Chymiſtry, &c. He lived to a very great Age, about Fourſcore and ſeven Years, and died about the beginning of May, 1660; and the Circumſtance of his dying was ſuch a Proof of his Loyalty to his King, as there is hardly the like Inſtance to be found; for upon hearing the News of the Vote at Weſtminſter, which paſſed May the 1ſt. for Reſtoring King Charles the Second, he expired in a ſudden Extaſie of Joy. This is what Doctor Wallis has recorded of him in his Treatiſe of Algebra (in Engliſh) chap. 30. In which Book, as well as in other Works of his, he pays a great regard to his Memory, acknowledging on all Occaſions, how much he profited by, and how much he owes to that great Man's Books and Converſation; particularly he does this in many Latin Epiſtles to him upon ſeveral important Points in that Learning, wherein both thoſe Perſons have been ſo wonderfully Eminent. This is the leaſt that could be ſaid of that Great Man, and is far leſs than ought to be ſaid of one who has deſerved ſo well, in that Learning eſpecially, which had lain ſo long neglected, and to which he gave a new Life, and a new Form too; reſtoring it to ſuch Maturity in ſo little a Compaſs of Time and Precepts, as would have been thought by any conſidering Perſon, to be the Work of many Ages, and Volumes. For a further Account of his Merit, conſult his Books, and what Doctor Wallis has ſaid of his Clavis, in many Pages of his Treatiſe of Algebra; and what others have written of him; particularly they who publiſh'd his Books, at ſeveral times, in their Prefaces to them. His Works are:

I. Clavis Mathematicæ, with an Epiſtle Ded. before it, Printed firſt An. 1631, under this Title, Arithmetica in Numeris & Speciebus Inſtitutio, &c. Sometime after it was publiſh'd by himſelf (and ſeveral times ſince) with the Title of Clavis Mathematicæ denuo limata, &c. The Preface to which was made more general; the Book it ſelf throughout much enlarged, and theſe following Treatiſes added:

Æquationum Affectarum Reſolutio: ubi multa de Logarithmorum uſu, &c.
Elementi Decimi Euclidis Declaratio.
De Solidis Regularibus Tractatus.
De Anatociſmo.
Regula Falſi Demonſtrata.
Theorematum Archimedis de Sphærâ & Cylindro Declaratio.
Horologiographia Geometrica.

The Author's Modeſty was ſo great, as to give this Book no other Name, than a Key to the Mathematicks; nay, hardly that. In the firſt Edition of it he calls it, Quaſi Clavis, &c. Tis a Key indeed to that great Treaſury; but 'tis not barely a Key, but a Treaſure it ſelf. This Inſtitution being not written in the Synthetical manner (uſual before that time) nor with tedious Prolixity; but in the Inventive way of Analyſis, or with Symbols or Notes of things, inſtead of Words, ſeem'd to many very hard (as he ſays in his Preface) 'But, ſays Doctor Wallis, (Chap. '15th. of his Algebra) they who find fault with it, as too 'obſcure, have no cauſe; for his Words are always full, 'but not Redundant, and need only a little Attention in 'the Reader, to weigh the Force of every Word, and 'the Syntax of it, and he will then find as much ſaid in a 'few Words, as others are uſed to expreſs in a large Diſ'courſe. And this, when once apprehended, is much 'more eaſily retained, than if it were expreſs'd with the 'Prolixity of ſome other Writers, &c. This Book is a Foundation laid, and the Superſtructures of others, if good, owe their Symmetry and Conformity to that: And one may venture to ſay, That whatever ſeems ſince added, or poſſibly ever will be, may be traced back to, and found either plainly expreſs'd, or hinted, or reſulting from the great Idea of Oughtred's Underſtanding, delineated in that Book.

II. The Circles of Proportion, and the Horizontal Inſtrument, which were printed rather with his Connivence than Conſent, in Engliſh, by one of his Scholars (Will. Forſter) from his Latin Papers; and publiſhed in this Form, he would hardly ſhew any value for them; nor indeed for any other Inſtruments of this kind (except the Globe and Sphere) nor would he ſuffer his Scholars to ſpeak of them. This you may ſee more fully in Mr. Forſter's Preface to this Book; but chiefly in his Apologetical Epiſtle, bound uſually with it.

III. Trigonometria, Quarto, neither finiſhed nor publiſhed by himſelf, but collected out of his ſcattered Papers; and though he connived at the printing it, yet imperfectly done, as appears by his MSS; and one of the printed Books, corrected by his own Hand.

IV. Opuſcula, in Octavo, Oxon, 1677. containing Nine Treatiſes, but being poſthumous are defective and faulty, as appears by comparing them with other MS Copies of the Authors own Hand.

OVIAK, a Town of Crim-Tartary, on the Weſt-ſide of the Wolga, Lat. 51 30. ſeated in a fertile Soil. It was anciently a very fair Town, with a Caſtle which the Ruſſians call Sedom, alledging, that it was ſwallowed up by reaſon of the Wickedneſs of the People. Here are ſeveral Tombs, and the Ruines of magnificent Structures to be ſeen. Hackluit.

P. OVIDIUS Naſo, was born in 711 of Rome, at Sulmona, or Solmona, anciently called Sulmo, a conſiderable City of Peligni, in the Conſulſhip of Hirtius and Panſa; according as he acquaints us in the fifteenth Elegy of his Third Book Amoris, he was born a Gentleman. His Inclination from his Youth ſway'd him for Poetry, but by his Father's importunity, was oblig'd to ſtudy the Laws; and ſometime he pleaded at the Bar. But after his Father's Death, he wholly betook himſelf to his beloved Poetry; at which he had ſo pregnant a Faculty, that in that Age, ſo fruitful of great Poets, he was rank'd amongſt the firſt; and was admir'd at the Court of Auguſtus for the natural Eaſineſs of his Stile, and the Softneſs and Beauty of his Expreſſion. He was for a time in good eſteem with that Emperor, who afterwards baniſhed him to the Province of Pontus in Aſia; ſome ſay it was for his making Love to Julia, Auguſtus his Daughter, whom he courted under the Name of Corinna; others ſay, that it was for being too familiar with the Empreſs Livia; and that it was for her ſake that he writ his Book De Arte Amandi. Ovid lived ſeven years in this Exile, and died the firſt of January, in the 199th. Olympiad, under the Conſulate of Rufus and Flaccus, that is, in the fourth year of the Reign of Tiberius, and the ſeventeenth of Grace. Ovid writ ſeveral Works, the Character of which are particularly remarkable for Copiouſneſs of Invention, and a graceful and gentile Eaſineſs in his Manner. Thoſe we have are ſufficiently known; but we have loſt ſome, viz. his ſix laſt Books of the Faſti, and A Tragedy of Medea, commended by Tacitus and Quinctilian, and A Treatiſe of the Nature of Fiſhes. See Senec. Quæſt. Natur. Vell. Paterc. lib. 2. Julius Scaliger Lib. 6. Poet.

OVIEDO (Andrew) a Spaniſh Jeſuit, born in the 16th. Century. He was ſent into Æthiopia, at the Inſtance of John III. King of Portugal, where he was choſen Patriarch after the Death of Father John Nonio Barret, who was one of his Companions. This Jeſuit was a very induſtrious Miſſionary, and died in the Year 1577. As to his Writings, he Tranſlated ſeveral Books into the Ethiopian Language, and writ in Latin, De Romanæ Eccleſiæ Primatu, deque Erroribus Abaſſinorum. Codinho de Reb. Abaſſ. in Lib. 3. Alegamb. Bibl. Soc. Jeſ. &c.

OVIEDO, Lat. Ovedum, Ovetum, a City of Spain in the Kingdom of Leon, the Capital of a Country call'd The Aſturia of Oviedo. It is ſituate between the Mountains, on a ſmall River, five Spaniſh Leagues from the Shore of the Ocean to the S. 18 from Auſtria, and 16 from Leon. It was made a Metropolis in a Council held here in 901, which occaſions ſome to ſay, that it had an immediate dependance on the See of Rome. Oviedo in former times gave his Name to, and was the Capital of the Kingdom of Oviedo, whereof Pelagius was the firſt King, about 717, and his Succeſſors bore the Name of it till 913, when Ordonno IId. poſſeſs'd himſelf of the Kingdom of Leon. Mariana Hiſt. of Spain.

OULNEY, a Market Town of Newport Hundred in the North parts of Buckingham, ſituate on the Weſt ſide of the River Ouſe.

OUNDLE, a Market Town of Polbrook Hundred in the N. E. of Northamptonſhire, pleaſantly ſeated on the Weſt ſide of the River Nyne, over which it has two Bridges, with a fair Church, a Free-School, and Almshouſe. But more particularly noted for its Drumingwell, generally thought to be the Fore-runner of War, or the Death of ſome great Perſon, as by a late Printed Account of this Prodigy appears. This Well ſupplies four Families with Water, which is good at all times, whether Druming or not. It has been once emptied, to find out the cauſe of the Noiſe; but the Man that went to the bottom could perceive nothing, but only heard a Noiſe above him. It's not unlike the beating of a March, uncertain in its continuance, ſometimes laſting but a ſhort while, at other times a Week, or longer; nor is it always heard at the ſame diſtance.

OUNSBURY, or Roſeberry-Toping, a Hill in Yorkſhire, of extraordinary height, whence is a delicate Proſpect into the Country, and from a huge Rock on the Top of it flows a Spring, whoſe Waters cure Diſeaſes of the Eyes. Cambd. Brit.

OURQUE, a Town in Portugal famous for a ſignal Victory obtained there by Alphonſo againſt five Mooriſh Kings, in 1256.

OURTESE, or Orthes, in Lat. Orteſium, a Town of Bearn, upon the River L'gar d'Pau & Bajonne. There was at this Town a Publick School for the uſe of French Proteſtants, till the Year 1685.

OUSE. There are three Rivers of this Name in England; one called the great Ouſe, which riſes in the South Borders of Northamptonſhire, from whence it runs through the Counties of Bucks, Bedford, Huntington, Cambridge and Norfolk, where it diſcharges it ſelf into the Sea. In the firſt it waters Brackly in Buckinghamſhire, Buckingham, Stony-Stratford, Newport and Oulney; in Bedfordſhire, Bedford; in Huntingtonſhire, S. Neots, Huntington, and S. Ives in Cambridgeſhire; in Norfolk, Downham and Kings-Lyn. Another called The little Ouſe, which runs from Eaſt to Weſt into the former, parting all along Norfolk from Suffolk, and upon which Thetford in Norfolk, and Brandon in Suffolk are ſeated. The third Ouſe is in Yorkſhire, which runs through York and falls into the Humber.

OWAR, Lat. Ovaria, a City of the upper Hungary, at the foot of the Mountains which ſeparate it from Poland. It is ſituate upon the River Nag, above Tranſchin. Some Authors confound this Place with Arva, which lies above it, and is Capital of a County of the ſame Name.

OWEN, a Welſhman, Son to Cardugan ap Blethm, one of the greateſt Men in Wales, being a headſtrong young Man, he made continual Incurſions upon the Engliſh and Flemmings, for which his Fathers Eſtate was Confiſcated, and he conſtrain'd to fly into Ireland; but being reſtored again to their Inheritance, Owen began a new Rebellion, and was ſlain by the Caſtellan of Pembroke whoſe Wife he had raviſhed. This was in the time of King Hen. I. Camb. Br.

OWEN, (John) Son to Hen. Owen, Vicar of Stadham near Watlington in Oxfordſhire, was bred in Queens College in Oxon, made Maſter of Arts in 1635. and not long after entred into Orders according to the Church of England; but in the Parliment times he preached againſt Biſhop's, Ceremonies, &c. He was afterwards Miniſter of Fordham in Eſſex, and then of Coggeſhall in that ſame County. In the latter end of 1648, he applauded the Regicides in his Sermons, Juſtified the Murther of the King, and Preach'd againſt King Charles IId. and all the Loyal Party. See a Letter to a Friend concerning ſome of Dr. Owens Principles and Practices, Printed at London in 1670. On the 17th. of Sept. 1650, he was ſent by the Parliament with the Army into Scotland. And on the 18th. of March following made Dean of Chriſt-Church in Oxon. In 1652 he was made Vice-Chancellor of that Univerſity. And afterwards one of the Commiſſioners for planting of Churches. In 1653 he was made D. D. In 1654 he was elected Burgeſs for the Univerſity of Oxon, but ſat not long in Parliament. In 1657 he was removed from his Vice-Chancellorſhip. In 1659 he was outed of his Deanry of Chriſt-Church. And after the Reſtauration of King Charles IId. he preached ſometime in his own Houſe at Stadham. And afterwards in a Meeting-houſe at London till his Death. He was twice married, and for his ſecond Wife had the Widow of Tho. d'Oyley, Eſquire, younger Brother to Sir John d'Oyley of Cheſilhampton near Stadham, Baronet. He was of thoſe commonly called Independants; but toward the latter end of his days did ſeveral times declare, that he could willingly comply with Presbytery. In his Writings he had an excellent Style, and in Controverſie kept cloſe to his Matter, without perſonal Reflections on his Antagoniſts. He was well verſed in Rabbinical Learning, and in ſhort, an univerſal Scholar, and one of the greateſt Men of the Diſſenters. He was much admired for his Preaching, and writ many things, whereof thoſe of moſt Note are, A Diſplay of Arminianiſm, 4°. Salus Electorum ſanguis Jeſu, againſt univerſal Redemptio, 4°. Diatriba de Juſtitia Divina. The Doctrine of the Saints Perſeverance, againſt John Goodwin, fol. Vindiciæ Evangelicæ, againſt Socinianiſm, and Vindication of the Teſtimonies of Scripture concerning the Deity and Satisfaction of Chriſt printed with it, as alſo an Anſwer to Mr. Baxter's Animadverſions. A Review of the Annotations of H. Grotius, referring to the Deity and Satisfaction of Chriſt, in anſwer to H. Hammond. Pro Sacris Scripturis adverſus hujus temporis fanaticos Exercitationes Apologeticæ, 8°. Of the Divine Original, Authority, Self-evidencing Light and Power of the Scripture. Vindication of the Integrity and Purity of the Hebrew and Greek Text. Conſiderations on the Prolegomena and Appendix to the late Biblia Polyglotta. All printed together againſt Dr. Brian Walton. Θεολογούμενα Παντόδαπα, Sive de Natura, ortu, progreſſu & ſtudio veræ Theologiæ, lib. 6. 4°. Exercitations on the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, &c. *Fol. He was alſo concerned in finiſhing the Annotations on the Bible, begun by Mr. Pool. He died Aug. 24. 1683. Ætat. 67. at Eling near Acton in Middleſex, and was buried in the Diſſenters Burying-place, having a Monument of Freeſtone erected over his Grave, with a black Marble Plank over it, and a large Inſcription in Latin.

OWEN (John) was born in Caernarvanſhire. He was educated in Wickham School, admitted perpetual Fellow of New-College in Oxon, and in 1590 took the Degree of Batchelor of the Civil Law. He afterwards became Schoolmaſter at Trylegh near Monmouth, and at Warwick, in the School founded by King Henry the VIIIth. He was a perſon eminently endowed, but eſpecially with a Vein of Poeſie. His Book of Epigrams is famous, and noted chiefly for his ingenious Jokes. He was attended with Poverty, the uſual Companion of Poets, but ſupplied by his Countryman and Kinſman Dr. John Williams Biſhop of Lincoln, and Lord-Keeper. His Epigrams are much eſteem'd beyond Sea, amongſt the Learned, but were put into the Index Expurgatorius, by the Church of Rome, becauſe of theſe two following Verſes;

An Petrus fuerit Romæ, ſub judice Lis eſt:
Simonem Romæ nemo fuiſſe negat.

And upon that ſame account an Uncle of his, from whom he expected Legacies, ſtruck him out of his Will. He died in 1623, and was buried in S. Paul's at London, at the charge of Biſhop Williams abovementioned, who erected him a Monument with his Effigies, a Shoulder-piece in Braſs crown'd with Lawrel, and ſix Verſes Engraven on it, whereof theſe are two:

Parva tibi Statua eſt, quia parva ſtatura, ſupellex
Parva, volat parvus magna per ora Liber.

OXENSTIERN (Axel) High Chancellor of Sweden, and born of one of the chiefeſt Families in that Kingdom; he accompanied the Great Guſtavus Adolphus into Germany, whoſe principal Miniſter of State he was; and after his Death, at the Battel of Lutzen 1632, he had the whole management of the Affairs of Sweden, and of their Allies in Germany, in quality of Director General: But the Battel of Nortlingen, which they loſt in 1634, having much weakned their Party, he was oblig'd to take his Journey through France towards his own Country; where he was appointed one of the five Tutors of the Queen of Sweden, during her Minority; all Affairs of State being chiefly govern'd by his Counſel, till his Death, which happen'd to him in a very old age. His Son, Count John Oxenſtiern was Ambaſſador and Plenipotentiary of Sweden, at the Treaty of Munſter. Count Gabriel of Oxenſtiern was not long ſince Earl Marſhal of Sweden; and Count Benet of Oxenſtiern is at preſent Lord High Chancellor of that Kingdom.

OXFORD or OXON, Lat. Oxonium, the chief place of Oxfordſhire, a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, a famous Univerſity, lies from London Weſt North Weſt, and diſtant from it 47 miles; a City finely ſeated for Health, Pleaſure and Plenty, at the Confluence of the Charwell and Iſis, which does ſo divide it ſelf into Streams that moſt part of the City is incompaſs'd with it. This place is ancient, being firſt built by the old Britains and is ſo large and populous, that it now contains thirteen Pariſh Churches, all ſo beautiful, that whether we look on the Uniformity of Private Houſes or Magnificence of the publick Structures, it muſt be allowed to be one of the faireſt Cities in England. The Biſhoprick was founded by Henry the VIIIth. who endowed it out of the Lands belonging to the diſſolv'd Monaſteries of Abington and Oſney. It was diſmembred from the Dioceſs of Lincoln, and had at firſt the Abby Church of Oſney, about half a mile from Oxford, for its Cathedral, until Chriſt's Church was made one, which happened ſoon after. The Chapter whereof conſiſts of a Dean and eight Prebendaries, for whoſe maintenance, part of the Lands which had been purchaſed by Cardinal Wolſeley for the Indowment of Chriſt's College, was by the ſaid King allotted. The Bounds of the Dioceſe extends no farther than the Bounds of the County; wherein, of 195 Pariſhes, 88 are Impropriated. As for the Univerſity of Oxford, this may be ſaid in general, That for the Statelineſs of the Schools and Publick Library, the Structure of particular Colleges built of fair and poliſh'd Stone, the liberal Indowments of thoſe Houſes, and notable Incouragements of Induſtry and Learning in the Salary of Profeſſors in moſt Arts and Sciences, it is not to be parallell'd in the Chriſtian World. That Oxford was a place of publick Studies before the Saxon Conqueſt, is paſt all doubt; but then the Students liv'd in Citizens Houſes having only meeting-places to hear Lectures and Diſputations, as now in many Foreign Univerſities, without any diſtinction of Habit: And when Oxford ſhar'd with the reſt of the Land in thoſe common Calamities brought in by the Saxons and Danes, the Muſes were forc'd to ſhift for 'emſelves, till Alfred the Learned Saxon, King of England, recall'd em hither; who having intirely ſubjected the Danes, made it his buſineſs to reſtore this Univerſity and repair its Ruins. The firſt College was by him founded and endowed about the Year 872, and by ſending his own Son to Study there brought many of the Nobility to frequent it: Then there were divers Houſes now called Halls, for Students only to live together in Society as in the Inns of Court or Chancery at London. Amongſt which, ſome were in proceſs of time endowed by divers Patrons of Learning; who thought beſt to ſettle, for ever, plentiful Revenues in Lands and Houſes, in order to maintain ſuch Students, as by Merit and Worth ſhould from time to time be choſen; and to ſettle large Salaries for Profeſſors to inſtruct 'em, and for a Head to govern 'em according to certain Statutes aand Ordinances made by the ſaid Patrons and Founders. In ſhort, there are in Oxford no leſs than eighteen ſuch Colleges beſides ſeven Halls, in which the Students, live with the ſame Diſcipline as thoſe in the Colleges, but upon their own Fortunes, except certain Exhibitions or Annual Penſions annext to one or two of 'em. The Names of the Colleges and their Founders, together with the time of their Foundation, you have in the following Table.

Hart, S. Mary, Gloceſter Halls.
And, New Inn.

To make a particular Deſcription of theſe ſtately Colleges, their Halls, Chapels and Libraries; their excellent Accommodation for young Noblemen; large Revenues, great Salaries for publick Profeſſors; Allowances to the Fellows and to the poor Scholars, &c. is a thing not to be expected within the compaſs of this Work. I ſhall only obſerve, That the whole Number of Students living upon the ſaid Revenues, is about one thouſand, and of other Students twice as many, beſides Stewards, Manciples, Butlers, Cooks, Porters, Gardners, &c. As for the Bodleian Library, the New Theatre, the Muſæum and Phyſick Garden, which are things of ſpecial note, I referr the Reader to the New State of England; as alſo for the manner of taking the Degrees of Batchelor, Maſter and Doctor, and the Government of the Univerſity. But I muſt not omit taking notice, That Oxford has been dignified above 500 Years ſucceſſively, with the Title of Earldom, in twenty of the Noble Family of the Veres; Antony de Vere, the firſt who enjoy'd it, being created Earl of Oxford by Henry the IId. in the Year 1155; in whoſe Line it does continue to this day in the perſon of the Right Honourable Aubrey de Vere the preſent Earl of Oxford. The Caſtle of Oxford was built by Robert D'Oily, a Norman in 1074. The Town was beſieg'd by the Rebels from May the 2d. to June the 24th, in 1646, that it ſurrender'd.

OXFORDSHIRE, Lat. Oxonienſis Comitatus; one of the moſt delightful Counties in England, lies W. N. W. from London, betwixt Warwick and Northampton Shires on the N. Barkſhire on the S. Buckinghamſhire Eaſtward, and Gloceſterſhire Weſtward. And as the Chiltern-hills do ſever it in part from Buckinghamſhire, ſo do the Iſis and the Thames divide it from Barkſhire. It contains in length from North to South about forty miles, in breadth from Eaſt to Weſt twenty ſix; the whole divided into fourteen Hundreds, wherein are 280 Pariſhes, and fifteen Market Towns, whoſe ancient Inhabitants, together with thoſe of Gloceſterſhire, were the Dobuni of the ancient Romans, the Country making part of the Kingdom of Mercia, during the Saxon Heptarchy, and now making alone the Dioceſs of Oxford. It has a pleaſant and temperate Air, a fruitful Soil, and abundance of Corn, Cattle and Paſture. Beſides its bordering River, the Iſis, and ſome part of the Thames, here are the Charwell, Tame, Evenlode and Windruſh, which do not a little contribute to the fertility thereof In the Weſt part of this County, betwixt the Rivers Evenlode and Windruſh, is the noted Foreſt of Whichwood, and ſome miles from it North-eaſtward, is Woodſtock Park, where formerly ſtood a Royal Houſe call'ed Woodſtock-Bower. Between Eneſham and the Evenlode is a Monument of huge and unwrought Stone, call'd Rollrich Stone, of which in their proper places.

OXNEY, a ſmall Kentiſh Iſland on the borders of Suſſex, and but few miles Northward of Rye. Made an Iſland chiefly by the River Rother, which environs it on all ſides, but one that is waſhed by another ſmall River that falls into the Rother.

OXUS, a River of Aſia which riſes in the Mountains of Parapomiſus in the Indies, falls into the Ardac, which runs to the North, then paſſes under ground, and falls into the Lake Kathai.

OZACA, a great City of Japan, in the Iſland of Niphon, with a Splendid Caſtle belonging to the King, built ſome few Years ſince, near the Sea. This Iſland is in a very large Bay of the Province Jetzeſena, and the City ſtands in the middle of the Iſland, fifty Leagues from Meaco to the N. E.

OZILIA, an Iſland in the Baltick, on the Coaſt of Livonia, which has two great Towns in it, Sonneburg and Arenburg. The Knights of Livonia put this Iſland into the hands of the King of Denmark in 1584, and his Brother Magnus was Biſhop of the Dioceſs.

OZMEN, the XXIIId. Caliph of Egypt or Succeſſor of Mahomet, began to reign in 865, after the death of Memon. The Perſians rebell'd againſt him, but he ſoon ſubdued, and reduc'd them to their Obedience. But at the aſſault of the Iſle of Cyprus, he receiv'd a wound whereof he died A. C. 873.

OZURGHETI, Lat. Ozurietum, the Capital City of the Kingdom of Guriel in Georgia, and the King's Reſidence.

OZWIECZIN, Lat. Ozviecinum, a Town of Leſſer Poland in the Palatinate of Cracovia, ſituate upon the Viſtula, where it receives the Sala ſcarce three Poliſh miles from Sileſia, and about 7 Weſt of Cracovia. It has a Timber Caſtle ſeated in a Moraſs, and is honour'd with the Title of Dukedom. It return'd to the Crown of Poland in 1654, after it had been ſeveral Years annex'd to Sileſia.

P.

P Is one of the Mutes, and hath no Aſpiration except in words originally Greek, as, Phaeton Philotas. It is ſometimes changed into B, as Byrrhus, Balatium, for Pyrrhus, Palatium. The Ancienes uſed this Letter, either to ſignifie the People, or Part of any thing.

PAAW (Peter) in Lat. Pavius, a Phyſick Profeſſor in the Univerſity of Leyden, about the middle of the XVIth. Century. He travelled into France, Italy, and Denmark, to accompliſh himſelf in his Profeſſion; and died at Leyden, in 1617. His Works are De Exercitiis, Lacticiniis & Bellariis. De Oſſibus. De Vulneribus Capitis, &c. He likewiſe publiſh'd a Treatiſe of Galen, De Cibis boni & mali Succi, with Notes. Meurſius. Athen. Batav. Valer. Andr. &c.

PACAMORES, People of Peru in the South part of America, dwelling on the River Marragon or Xauxa, where it falls into that of the Amazons, according to Peter Texeira.

PACHACAMA, a famous, fruitful, and pleaſant Valley in Peru, four Leagues from Lima, formerly beautified with a magnificent Temple, built and dedicated to the Creator of the Univerſe by the Inca's or Emperors of Peru. Such immenſe Treaſures had been therein laid up, that Ferdinando Pizarros is ſaid to have found 900000 Ducats in it, tho' 400 luſty Salvages had taken away as much as they could carry, and the Spaniſh Soldiers had alſo pillaged it before he came. The Spaniards did cruelly torture the Natives, but could not extort a diſcovery of any hidden Treaſure. This Valley is different from that of Lima mentioned in its proper Place. De Laet. Hiſtorie de Noveau Monde.

PACHACAMAC, the Name by which thoſe of Peru call God the Creator of the World, beſides whom they worſhipped the Sun, and many other imaginary Deities. Pachacamac's principal Temple was that above mentioned in Pachacama, the Ruins of which ſtately Structure do yet demonſtrate its quondam Magnificence and prodigious Greatneſs. The Peruvians had therein ſeveral Idols, by whom the Devil gave Reſponſes. But they had ſo great a Veneration for Pachacamac, that they offered him what they eſteemed moſt precious, and durſt not look upon him, ſo that even their Prieſts and Kings entered his Temple with their Backs towards his Altar, and came out again without daring to turn about. Jovet. Hiſtorie de Religions.

PACHIMERES, an Hiſtorian of the XIIIth. Age, in the Reigns of the Emperors Michael Palæologus and his Succeſſor Andronicus. His Hiſtory obtains the more Credit becauſe of his Quality and Knowledge of Affairs, having born great Offices both in Church and State. It continues the Conſtantinopolitan or Byzantine Hiſtory betwixt Nicetas and Cantacuzenus. His Stile is obſcure, but the Hiſtory pleaſant, very particular, and full of Judicious Reflections. It was tranſlated into Latin by Poſſin the Jeſuit, in 1666. Memories Scavans.

St. PACHOMIUS, was born an Heathen, and carried Arms under Licinius or Maxentius, being about twenty Years of Age, he was ſo convinc'd by the Charity of ſome Chriſtians, that he embrac'd their Religion, became Diſciple to Palæmon the Hermit, afterwards Abbot of Tabenne in Egypt, and Founder of an Order. He flouriſhed in the IVth. Century, and died in May 350 or360. He built divers Monaſteries, and as ſome Authors ſay, receiv'd the Rules of his Order from an Angel, and had ſo much Faith as to tread upon Serpents, and command Crocodiles to carry him over the Nile as he had occaſion Gennad. cap. 7. de vir. illuſtr. Bellarm. Baron. Another of that Name was Patriarch of Conſtantinople, choſen againſt his Will in 1500, and lived till 1513.

St. PACIAN, a Spaniſh Grandee, who after his Converſion to Chriſtianity was Biſhop of Barcelona. He flouriſhed under the Emperor Valens, and died in the Reign of Theodoſius in 380 or 388. He was contemporary with St. Jerom, who ſays, he was famous for his exemplary Life, his Elocution, and Learning. There are extant of his, an Exhortation to Repentance, Letters againſt the Novatians, and a little Treatiſe of Baptiſm. St. Jerom dedicates his Book, De Scriptoribus Eccleſiaſticis, to his Son Dexter, who was then Præfectus Prætorio. St. Jerom.cap .106. Catal. Baron. Annal.

PACIFICATION. By this word the French underſtand the ſeveral Edicts granted by their Kings to the Proteſtants for appeaſing the Commotions occaſioned by their Perſecution, after they had attempted by many ſevere Edicts to ſtifle the Reformation in its Birth, viz. Thoſe by Francis the Iſt. Jan. 29. 1534, and in 1540, renewed by Hen. the IId. November 19. 1549, and June 27. 1551. and that by Charles the IXth. July 1561; but Troubles increaſing thereupon, he revok'd it, and granted the firſt Edict of Pacification in January 1562, permitting the free Exerciſe of the Reformed Religion near all Cities and Towns in the Realm. The Parliaments demurr'd ſome time upon the Verification of this Edict; particularly that of Paris, who did not verifie it till after two Letters Mandatory from the King; and then, not without a Proteſtation that they did it out of neceſſity, but not to approve the Reformation. March 19. 1563, Charles the IXth. granted a ſecond Edict of Pacification at Amboiſe, permitting the free Exerciſe of the Reformed Religion in the Houſes of Gentlemen and Lords High-Juſticiaries, (or thoſe that had the Power of Life and Death) to their Families and Dependants only; and allowing other Proteſtants to have their Sermons in ſuch Towns as they had them in before the 7th. of March, ordering them, nevertheleſs, to quit the Churches which they had poſſeſs'd themſelves of during the Troubles. Another, called the Edict of Lonjumeau, ordering the Execution of that of Amboiſe was publiſh'd March 27. 1558, after a Treaty of Peace. This Pacification was but of ſhort continuance, for Charles IXth. perceiving a general Inſurrection, made by the Hugonots, by another Edict at St. Maur, September 1568, revoked the ſaid Edicts, forbad the Exerciſe of the Proteſtant Religion, and commanded all the Miniſters to depart the Kingdom in fifteen days. At the ſame time he emitted a Declaration, that he would entertain no Proteſtants in any Offices belonging to Courts of Juſtice, or the Revenue. Yet on the 8th. of Auguſt 1570 he made Peace with them again, and publiſh'd an Edict on the 11th allowing the Lords High-Juſticiaries to have Sermons in their Houſes for all comers, and granting other Proteſtants two publick Exerciſes in each Government, and the continuance of the ſame where they had it before the 1ſt. of Auguſt; and four Cautionary Towns, to wit, Rochell, Montauban, Cognac, and La Charité, to be a Place of Security for 'em during the ſpace of two Years; but in Auguſt 1572 he authoriſed the Bartholomew Maſſacre, and on the 27th. of that Month declared his Reaſons for it in Parliament; and at the ſame time iſſued a Declaration, forbidding the Exerciſe of the Proteſtant Religion; and on the 28th. writ to all the Governours of Provinces, adviſing them, That he would ſuffer no other but the Romiſh Religion. In April 1576 Henry the IIId. made Peace with the Proteſtants, and the Edict of Pacification was publiſhed in Parliament May 14th. permitting them to build Churches and have publick Sermons where they would, without reſtriction as to time, perſons or places; granting them alſo Courts of Juſtice of half Papiſts, half Proteſtants, and eight Cautionary Towns, viz. Aiguemortes and Beaucaire in Languedoc, Perigueux and Le Mas de Verdune in Guienne, Nions and Serres in Dauphine, Iſſoire in Auvergne, and Seyne la grand Tour in Provence. The Guiſian Faction being enraged at this general Liberty, begun their League at Peronne for defence of the Catholick Religion as they pretended; and became ſo formidable, that it obliged Henry the IIId. to aſſemble the States of the Kingdom at Blois in December 1576, where it was enacted, That there ſhould be but one Religion in France, and that the Proteſtant Miniſters ſhould be all baniſh'd. The King aſſented, and proteſted in the Aſſembly, That he would maintain the Roman Catholick Religion, baniſh the Reformed Miniſters, and exclude all Proteſtants from Offices in the Courts of Juſtice, or his own Houſhold; declaring, That he was conſtrained to publiſh the Edict of 1576, to diſengage his Brother the Duke of Alençon from the Intereſts of the Proteſtants, and to clear the Kingdom of Strangers. In 1577, the King, willing to pacifie the Troubles, ſent his Deputies to Bergerac, where a Peace was concluded September the 17th. and the Articles carried to him at Poictiers; whereupon the Edict of September was paſs'd, and publiſh'd in the Parliament of Paris, October 8th granting the ſame Liberty to the Reformed which they had before, except, that it limited the publick Exerciſe of their Worſhip to the places wherein the ſame was exerciſed September 17th. By this Edict, they had the Privilege of Chambres mi-partes, and eight places of ſecurity for the ſpace of ſix Years. In July 1585, the League obliged him to publiſh another, called, the Edict of the Reunion, which revoked all the former granted to the Proteſtants, ordering their Miniſters to depart the Kingdom in a Month, and all others in ſix Months, if they did not turn Papiſts. In October next the Leaguers obtain'd a ſecond Edict of Reunion yet more rigorous, allowing the Reformed but fifteen days, wherein they were either to abandon their Religion or the Kingdom. In July 1588, the Leaguers obliged him to a third Edict, importing, That all his Subjects ſhould be reunited to the Church of Rome; and that after his death, none ſhould be received as King who did not profeſs that Religion. But Henry the IVth. coming to the Crown, he publiſh'd a Declaration at Mante, July 4. 1591, which aboliſh'd the ſaid Edicts of Reunion, and ordered the Execution of that at Poictiers 1577. This Declaration was verified in the Parliament at Chalons on the 24th. of July, but the Troubles prevented the Verification of it at the Parliaments of other Provinces, ſo that the Proteſtants had not the free Exerciſe of their Religion in any place but where they were Maſters, and had baniſh'd the Romiſh Religion. The laſt of April 1598, the King publiſhed a new Edict of Pacification at Nants, granting the Proteſtants the free Exerciſe of their Religion in all places where they had the ſame in 1596 and 1597, and one Exerciſe in each Bailiwick; and at two Leagues diſtance from principal Towns, in which the publick exerciſe of the Religion could not be eſtabliſh'd without trouble. This Edict of Nants was confirm'd by Lewis the XIIIth. in 1610, and Lewis XIVth. in 1652; but he entirely aboliſh'd both that and the Edict of Niſmes in 1685. Soulier Hiſt. des Edicts de Pacification, &c.

PACIFICK Ocean. See OCEAN.

PACIFICKS or PEACE-MAKERS, the Name given to thoſe of the Vth. Century, who conform'd to the Henoticon of the Emperor Zeno, being an Accommodation betwixt thoſe then called Catholicks and Erroneous. Evagr. lib. 3. Baronius A. C 482, n. 25. Some Anabaptiſts of the XVIth. Century, were alſo called by this Name.

PACIMONTANUS (Balthazar) of Zurick, turn'd Anabaptiſt, which he recanted for fear of puniſhment, but not cordially. He afterwards retired into Moravia, where he was taken for preaching that Doctrine, and burnt at Vienna in 1525. Prateol. Sponde An. Chriſt. 1525.

PACIUS (Julius) Knight of S. Mark, a Philoſopher and Lawyer, Brother to Fabius Pacius the great Phyſician. He was born at Vicenza in Italy, An. 1550. He compoſed a Treatiſe of Arithmetick at thirteen Years of Age. He was well vers'd in all the Liberal Arts and Oriental Tongues. He Epitomiz'd the Secrets of Riamond Lullus's Arts, and practis'd the ſame very happily. The Biſhop of Vicenza having odered to ſeize him for reading prohibited Books, he retir'd to Switzerland, where he became famous, and was called thence to be profeſſor of Philoſophy at Heydelburg. He named himſelf Beriga, the Name of a Country Houſe belonging to his Family. His Curioſity induced him to travel through Germany as far as Hungary, where he taught the Civil Law. At his return the Duke of Bouillon called him to his new Univerſity of Sedan, to which the Character of Pacius gave a Reputation. Being chaſed thence by the fury of the War, he went to Niſmes in Languedoc, and from thence to Montpelier, where he was made Profeſſor of the Civil Law. On the account of the great Monſieur Peireſc, who came to ſee him there, he went to read at Aix in Provence, and from that Univerſity to Valence in Dauphine, where he had greater Advantage. His Merit ſpread his Fame throughout all Europe, ſo that he was offer'd a Profeſſor's Chair at Leyden, Piſa, and Padoua, but choſe the laſt. He was honourably viſited in all Towns through which he paſs'd. The Republick of Venice honoured him with the Order of S. Mark, and his Son with a Profeſſors Chair, which he fill'd with Honour. The Father, on the earneſt deſire of his Family, which he left at Valence, return'd thither, where he continued his ordinary Exerciſes, and died in 1635, aged 85. This ingenious Diſtich was made on him;

Itala dat cunas, tellus Germanica famam,
Gallica Jus civis; dic mihi quæ patria?

Beſides ſeveral Books of Philoſophy and Ariſtotle's Works, which he publiſh'd in Greek and Latin with Commentaries, he writ many Volumes of the Law, &c. De Contractibus Trac. 6. *Comm. ad Tit. PACTOLUS, a River of Lydia, now called Sarabat, fam'd by the Poets for its Golden Sand. It riſes in Mount Tmolus, paſſes by Sardis, and falls into Hermus.

PADÆ, a People of the fartheſt parts of India, who devour their Sick. Tibullus. Herodotus.

PADERBORN, a Hanſe-Town of Weſtphalia in Germany, called in Latin Paderborna, Padeburna, and Paderborna, having a Biſhop, Suffragan to the Elector of Mentz. The Biſhop is a Temporal Lord of this City and Dioceſs, which contains Brackel, Warburg, &c. and is ſituate betwixt the Dutchies of Brunſwick, Weſtphalia, the Dioceſs of Munſter, and the Country of Heſſe Caſſel, &c. His Reſidence is at the Caſtle of Newhaus, which is ſtronger than the Town of Paderborn. Charlemaign held a Parliament in this City Anno 777, and is ſaid to have founded the Biſhoprick, and built the Cathedral, erecting the Altar upon the Fountain of the River Pade, which ſome Monkiſh Hiſtorians pretend to have iſſued Miraculouſly from a Hole made by one of the Emperor's Tent Staves, his Army being in great diſtreſs for want of Water, as marching againſt the Heathen Saxons. Hadumar or Herimar was the firſt Biſhop. The Chapter conſiſts of Twenty four Canons, who are not receiv'd till Twenty one Years old; and having been a Year and half in ſome French or Italian Univerſity. The Diſpoſition of the Canonry belongs to the Pope or the Chapter, for which each have their proper Months. The Town was burnt Anno 999, but is now very handſomly and well fortified. It has but little Trade except in Beer, which is very excellent, eſpecially when tranſported. Warbourg is the moſt conſiderable Town in the Dioceſs, and yields Twenty thouſand Crowns Annual Revenue. The Arms of the Biſhoprick are Gules charg'd with a Croſs, Or. This Dioceſs boaſts of Twenty four Monuments, the moſt remarkable of which are (1) Lipſpring, in Latin Fontes Luppiæ, a little Town within a League of Paderborn, famous for three Parliaments held by Charlemaign, and his obliging the Saxons to embrace the Chriſtian Religion there. (2) Stadtberg, in Latin Mons Martis, a Town on the Borders of the County of Waldeck, near the River Dimel, formerly called Eresburg or Merſberg, famous for a magnificent Temple built by the Saxons to Ermenſul or Mars, to whoſe worſhip that Warlike People were peculiarly addicted. His Image was deſtroy'd by Charlemaign, and the Temple ſet apart for the worſhip of the true God, Anno 799. (3) Paderborn it ſelf, a very conſiderable Town, where the ancient German Emperors often held their Diets or Parliaments. Charlemaign caus'd a great number of Saxons to be baptiz'd there, Anno 777. Pope Leo the IIId. fled thither for ſhelter to the ſaid Emperor, Anno 799, and conſecrated the Cathedral, and the Empreſs Cunegunda was Crown'd there, Anno 1002. (4) Lugda, a Town upon the River Emmer, where there are Medicinal Fountains which cure many Diſeaſes. (5) The Deſart of Senda, famous for the Fountains of the Rivers Lippe and Ems, and the Defeat of the Roman General Varus by the Saxons. (6) The Fountain of Bullerborn near Oldenbeck in Teuteberg Foreſt, famous for many Ages, becauſe of its running and ſtopping its Courſe by turns, ſometimes running about an hour, and then ſtopping for three, and ſo on till December 1630, when it ſtopt its Courſe till 1638, and ſince then hath run regularly as other Fountains. The Stream runs about a League and then falls into Subterranean Caves. (7 and 8) The Medicinal Waters of Smechten and Driburg, admirable for the Cure of many Diſtempers. Elſen, Latin Aliſo, is a Town of Weſtphalia, about half a League from Paderborn: This Fortreſs was built by Druſus, Brother to the Emperor Tiberius, and Father to Germanicus, to facilitate the Conqueſt of the Sicambri, in the Year 742 of Rome, and 12 Years before the Chriſtian Æra: 'Tis a Queſtion whether this Fort ſtood where the Village of Elſen is now, or at Neuhaus, but it is probable that the Area of the Fortification took up all the Ground from Elſen to the Place where the Rivers Alme and Lippe meet, and that the Caſtle or Citadel was built where the Town of Neuhaus now ſtands. The Town of Paderborn is very much grown out of the Ruins of Elſen, the Biſhops having built a Citadel, and a ſtately Palace at Neuhaus, where the Old Caſtle ſtood. Further, the Field where Varus was defeated, lying between Paderborn, Dethmold, and Horne, is now call'd Wintfeld. There are two little Rivers call'd Rodenbeck and Knockembeck, i. e. the Red River, and the River of Bones, becauſe the one was diſcolour'd by thoſe that were ſlain in this Battle, and the other was choak'd up with their Bones. The Spring of the River Ems, which the Germans call Emſpring, is in the Deſart of Sende: This River is famous for the Victory Druſus gain'd over that part of the Germans, call'd Bructeri. To conclude, the Weſer, in Latin Viſurgis, riſes in Franconia, and receives the Dimel in the Confines of Weſtphalia, Heſs, and the Dutchy of Brunſwick. Hiſtorians obſerve, that Druſus was the firſt Roman General that came up to the Weſer to fight the Cheruſci, where, upon his marching back, he was in danger of being defeated by the Sicambri, near the Town of Horne: Near this River Germanicus, Son to Druſus, diſtinguiſh'd himſelf in the Battle againſt Arminius, General of the Cheruſci, which was fought in a Place call'd Idiſtaviſus. The Weſer is likewiſe famous for ſeveral ſucceſsful Battles of the French againſt the Saxons, particularly for thoſe fought by Charlemaign in 743. Monumenta Paderbornenſia, printed 1672. Paderborn is forty miles N. W. of Caſſel, two and forty S of Minden, and fifty two E. of Munſter. Lon. 28. 31. Lat. 51. 43.

PADILLA (Francis) Profeſſor of Divinity at Sevile, was born the latter End of the XVIth. Century. He wrote an Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory of Spain, in Two Tomes. A Chronology of the Councils, &c. Ambroſius Morales Hiſt. Hiſp. lib. 13. Nicholas Anton. Bibl. Hiſp. Script. &c.

PADISCHAH, the Name by which the Great Turk writes himſelf, ſignifying Emperor or Great King. He gives the ſaid Title to no other Potentate but the French King, whom he alledges to be his Kinſman, by reaſon of a French princeſs, Lady to Amurath the IId. and Mother to Mahomet the IId, called the Great, born in 1428. Her Sepulchre is to be ſeen at Conſtantinople by her Son's Moſque. But Paulus Jovius ſays, She was a Servian Princeſs, and of the Greek Church. Thevenot Voyage de Levant.

PADSTOW, a Market-Town and Haven of Pider Hundred in the North parts of Cornwall. It lies upon the Weſt ſide of the River Camel, within four miles of its fall into the Severn Sea, 194 from London.

PADUA, a City of Italy belonging to the Venetians, being a Biſhoprick, ſuffragan to that of Aquileia. The Latins call it Patavium. It is ſaid to be more ancient than Rome or Venice, and to have been founded by Antenor, whoſe Tomb is ſhewed there; but the Inſcription in Gothick Characters is Modern. Livius and Virgil ſay, Antenor built the Town, Virg. lib. 1. Æneid. ſpeaking of Antenor, ſays, ſhould be received as King who did not profeſs that Religion. But Henry the IVth. coming to the Crown, he publiſh'd a Declaration at Mante, July 4. 1591, which aboliſh'd the ſaid Edicts of Reunion, and ordered the Execution of that at Poictiers 1577. This Declaration was verified in the Parliament at Chalons on the 24th. of July, but the Troubles prevented the Verification of it at the Parliaments of other Provinces, ſo that the Proteſtants had not the free Exerciſe of their Religion in any place but where they were Maſters, and had baniſh'd the Romiſh Religion. The laſt of April 1598, the King publiſhed a new Edict of Pacification at Nants, granting the Proteſtants the free Exerciſe of their Religion in all places where they had the ſame in 1596 and 1597, and one Exerciſe in each Bailiwick; and at two Leagues diſtance from principal Towns, in which the publick exerciſe of the Religion could not be eſtabliſh'd without trouble. This Edict of Nants was confirm'd by Lewis the XIIIth. in 1610, and Lewis XIVth. in 1652; but he entirely aboliſh'd both that and the Edict of Niſmes in 1685. Soulier Hiſt. des Edicts de Pacification, &c.

PACIFICK Ocean. See OCEAN.

PACIFICKS or PEACE-MAKERS, the Name given to thoſe of the Vth. Century, who conform'd to the Henoticon of the Emperor Zeno, being an Accommodation betwixt thoſe then called Catholicks and Erroneous. Evagr. lib. 3. Baronius A. C 482, n. 25. Some Anabaptiſts of the XVIth. Century, were alſo called by this Name.

PACIMONTANUS (Balthazar) of Zurick, turn'd Anabaptiſt, which he recanted for fear of puniſhment, but not cordially. He afterwards retired into Moravia, where he was taken for preaching that Doctrine, and burnt at Vienna in 1525. Prateol. Sponde An. Chriſt. 1525.

PACIUS (Julius) Knight of S. Mark, a Philoſopher and Lawyer, Brother to Fabius Pacius the great Phyſician. He was born at Vicenza in Italy, An. 1550. He compoſed a Treatiſe of Arithmetick at thirteen Years of Age. He was well vers'd in all the Liberal Arts and Oriental Tongues. He Epitomiz'd the Secrets of Riamond Lullus's Arts, and practis'd the ſame very happily. The Biſhop of Vicenza having odered to ſeize him for reading prohibited Books, he retir'd to Switzerland, where he became famous, and was called thence to be profeſſor of Philoſophy at Heydelburg. He named himſelf Beriga, the Name of a Country Houſe belonging to his Family. His Curioſity induced him to travel through Germany as far as Hungary, where he taught the Civil Law. At his return the Duke of Bouillon called him to his new Univerſity of Sedan, to which the Character of Pacius gave a Reputation. Being chaſed thence by the fury of the War, he went to Niſmes in Languedoc, and from thence to Montpelier, where he was made Profeſſor of the Civil Law. On the account of the great Monſieur Peireſc, who came to ſee him there, he went to read at Aix in Provence, and from that Univerſity to Valence in Dauphine, where he had greater Advantage. His Merit ſpread his Fame throughout all Europe, ſo that he was offer'd a Profeſſor's Chair at Leyden, Piſa, and Padoua, but choſe the laſt. He was honourably viſited in all Towns through which he paſs'd. The Republick of Venice honoured him with the Order of S. Mark, and his Son with a Profeſſors Chair, which he fill'd with Honour. The Father, on the earneſt deſire of his Family, which he left at Valence, return'd thither, where he continued his ordinary Exerciſes, and died in 1635, aged 85. This ingenious Diſtich was made on him;

> Itala dat cunas, tellus Germanica famam,
> Gallica Jus civis; dic mihi quæ patria?

PACTOLUS, a River of Lydia, now called Sarabat, fam'd by the Poets for its Golden Sand. It riſes in Mount Tmolus, paſſes by Sardis, and falls into Hermus.

PADÆ, a People of the fartheſt parts of India, who devour their Sick. Tibullus. Herodotus.

PADERBORN, a Hanſe-Town of Weſtphalia in Germany, called in Latin Paderborna, Padeburna, and Paderborna, having a Biſhop, Suffragan to the Elector of Mentz. The Biſhop is a Temporal Lord of this City and Dioceſs, which contains Brackel, Warburg, &c. and is ſituate betwixt the Dutchies of Brunſwick, Weſtphalia, the Dioceſs of Munſter, and the Country of Heſſe Caſſel, &c. His Reſidence is at the Caſtle of Newhaus, which is ſtronger than the Town of Paderborn. Charlemaign held a Parliament in this City Anno 777, and is ſaid to have founded the Biſhoprick, and built the Cathedral, erecting the Altar upon the Fountain of the River Pade, which ſome Monkiſh Hiſtorians pretend to have iſſued Miraculouſly from a Hole made by one of the Emperor's Tent Staves, his Army being in great diſtreſs for want of Water, as marching againſt the Heathen Saxons. Hadumar or Herimar was the firſt Biſhop. The Chapter conſiſts of Twenty four Canons, who are not receiv'd till Twenty one Years old; and having been a Year and half in ſome French or Italian Univerſity. The Diſpoſition of the Canonry belongs to the Pope or the Chapter, for which each have their proper Months. The Town was burnt Anno 999, but is now very handſomly and well fortified. It has but little Trade except in Beer, which is very excellent, eſpecially when tranſported Warbourg is the moſt conſiderable Town in the Dioceſs, and yields Twenty thouſand Crowns Annual Revenue. The Arms of the Biſhoprick are Gules charg'd with a Croſs, Or. This Dioceſs boaſts of Twenty four Monuments, the moſt remarkable of which are (1) Lipſpring, in Latin Fontes Luppiæ, a little Town within a League of Paderborn, famous for three Parliaments held by Charlemaign, and his obliging the Saxons to embrace the Chriſtian Religion there. (2) Stadtberg, in Latin Mons Martis, a Town on the Borders of the County of Waldeck, near the River Dimel, formerly called Eresburg or Merſberg, famous for a magnificent Temple built by the Saxons to Ermenſul or Mars, to whoſe worſhip that Warlike People were peculiarly addicted. His Image was deſtroy'd by Charlemaign, and the Temple ſet apart for the worſhip of the true God, Anno 799. (3) Paderborn it ſelf, a very conſiderable Town, where the ancient German Emperors often held their Diets or Parliaments. Charlemaign caus'd a great number of Saxons to be baptiz'd there, Anno 777. Pope Leo the IIId. fled thither for ſhelter to the ſaid Emperor, Anno 799, and conſecrated the Cathedral, and the Empreſs Cunegunda was Crown'd there, Anno 1002. (4) Lugda, a Town upon the River Emmer, where there are Medicinal Fountains which cure many Diſeaſes. (5) The Deſart of Senda, famous for the Fountains of the Rivers Lippe and Ems, and the Defeat of the Roman General Varus by the Saxons. (6) The Fountain of Bullerborn near Oldenbeck in Teuteberg Foreſt, famous for many Ages, becauſe of its running and ſtopping its Courſe by turns, ſometimes running about an hour, and then ſtopping for three, and ſo on till December 1630, when it ſtopt its Courſe till 1638, and ſince then hath run regularly as other Fountains. The Stream runs about a League and then falls into Subterranean Caves. (7 and 8) The Medicinal Waters of Smechten and Driburg, admirable for the Cure of many Diſtempers. Elſen, Latin Aliſo, is a Town of Weſtphalia, about half a League from Paderborn: This Fortreſs was built by Druſus, Brother to the Emperor Tiberius, and Father to Germanicus, to facilitate the Conqueſt of the Sicambri, in the Year 742 of Rome, and 12 Years before the Chriſtian Æra: 'Tis a Queſtion whether this Fort ſtood where the Village of Elſen is now, or at Neuhaus, but it is probable that the Area of the Fortification took up all the Ground from Elſen to the Place where the Rivers Alme and Lippe meet, and that the Caſtle or Citadel was built where the Town of Neuhaus now ſtands. The Town of Paderborn is very much grown out of the Ruins of Elſen, the Biſhops having built a Citadel, and a ſtately Palace at Neuhaus, where the Old Caſtle ſtood. Further, the Field where Varus was defeated, lying between Paderborn, Dethmold, and Horne, is now call'd Wintfeld. There are two little Rivers call'd Rodenbeck and Knockembeck, i. e. the Red River, and the River of Bones, becauſe the one was diſcolour'd by thoſe that were ſlain in this Battle, and the other was choak'd up with their Bones The Spring of the River Ems, which the Germans call Emſpring, is in the Deſart of Sende: This River is famous for the Victory Druſus gain'd over that part of the Germans, call'd Bructeri. To conclude, the Weſer, in Latin Viſurgis, riſes in Franconia, and receives the Dimel in the Confines of Weſtphalia, Heſs, and the Dutchy of Brunſwick. Hiſtorians obſerve, that Druſus was the firſt Roman General that came up to the Weſer to fight the Cheruſci, where, upon his marching back, he was in danger of being defeated by the Sicambri, near the Town of Horne: Near this River Germanicus, Son to Druſus, diſtinguiſh'd himſelf in the Battle againſt Arminius, General of the Cheruſci, which was fought in a Place call'd Idiſtaviſus. The Weſer is likewiſe famous for ſeveral ſucceſsful Battles of the French againſt the Saxons, particularly for thoſe fought by Charlemaign in 743. Monumenta Paderbornenſia, printed 1672. Paderborn is forty miles N. W. of Caſſel, two and forty S of Minden, and fifty two E. of Munſter. Lon. 28. 31. Lat. 51. 43.

In all which Stations he behaved himſelf with ſo much Prudence, that in the 33d. of Henry the VIIIth. he was ſent Embaſſador into France, and after his Return, made one of the principal Secretaries of State in the 35th; in the 36th, being then Knight, he was one of the Commiſſioners for treating with Matthew Earl of Lenox about advancing King Henry's Intereſt in Scotland, that Earl being to marry the King's Niece; he was alſo Commiſſioner in the Treaty of Peace with France, and the King, on his Death-Bed, made him one of his Executors. He was of the Privy Council to Edward the VIth. and by him ſent Embaſſador to the Emperor Charles the Vth. to demand Succours againſt the Scots and French; and December the 3d, in the fourth of Edward the VIth being then Knight of the Garter, Comptroller of the King's Houſhold, and Chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, he was called by Writ to Parliament, by the Name of Lord Paget of Beaudiſert in Com. Staff. and on the 19th. of January following, had his ſolemn Creation, and was afterwards ſent again to treat of a Peace with France. In the fifth of Edward the VIth. upon the fall of the Duke of Somerſet he was ſent to the Tower upon an Accuſation of deſigning the Murther of ſome Nobleman (at Paget-houſe, called afterwards Eſſex-houſe) and ſelling the King's Lands without Commiſſion, for which he was deprived of the Garter; and Money being then much wanting, ſays Dugdale, he was fin'd in 6000 pounds, and obliged to ſurrender his Offices; but declaring for Queen Mary after King Edward's Death, ſhe had him in ſuch eſteem, that he was ſent Embaſſador to the Emperor about re-eſtabliſhing Popery, and afterwards made Lord Privy Seal. He died in 1564, the ſixth of Elizabeth, and was ſucceeded by his Son Henry, who dying about 1568 without Heir Male, was ſucceeded by his Brother Thomas, who being a zealous Papiſt and a favourer of the Queen of Scots retired into France, and was in the 29th of Elizabeth attainted in Parliament, and in the 32d of her Reign died at Bruſſels, leaving a Son called William, his Heir, who accompanying the Earl of Eſſex in that notable Voyage to Cadiz, was reſtored to his Honour and Lands in the firſt of King James. He died in 1628, and was ſucceeded by his Son William, who by the Lady Frances, Daughter to Henry late Earl of Holland, had William, the preſent Lord Paget, now Embaſſador to the Grand Signior from his Majeſty King William. He married Frances, Daughter to Francis Pierpont, Eſq; a younger Son to Robert Earl of Kingſton. This preſent Lord's ſecond Siſter Lettice is married to the late Richard Hambden of Great Hambden Com. Bucks, Eſq; one of his Majeſty's Privy Council, and Chancellor to the Exchequer; the fourth, Frances, married to Rowland Hunt of Bore Eaton, Com. Salop Eſq; the fifth, Penelope, to Philip Powley of Preſwood, Com. Stafford, Eſq; and the ſixth, Diana, to Sir Henry Aſhhurſt of London, Knight. Dugdale.

PAGETS BROOMLY, a Market-Town upon the River Blithe in the Pirehil Hundred in Staffordſhire.

PAGNINUS. See Santes Pagninus.

PAGOD, the Name given by the Indians and Chineſe to their Temples and Idols.

PAGUS, among Latin Hiſtorians ſignifies a County, Territory, or Diſtrict. In Germany and France it denotes the Land ſubject to one Count. Among the Swiſs it ſignifies a Canton, and ſeems to have its Original from the German word Pach, a River, becauſe People uſually ſettled themſeves by Rivers. Beke among the Dutch, Bec among the French, and Gow among the Swiſs has the ſame ſignification, and are often added to the Names of Towns. Pagus and Comitatus were promiſcuouſly uſed for one another, and ſometime Pagus ſignifies a City, but with a Diſtinction, and from this word the French pais is derived. Spelm. in Gloſſar. Valeſ. in Not. Gall.

PAINTING, the Art of repreſenting Figures, Countries, Towns, and other things in Colours. It's not to be doubted, but that Painting is ancient as well as Sculpture, but it is hard to know the real time and place where they began to appear; the Egyptians and Greeks who pretend to be the Inventors of thoſe Arts which are moſt for the Splendor of Life, pretend, that they were the firſt Carvers and Painters; however, it is certain, That Painting, after having had ſome weak beginnings, appear'd in its Perfection amongſt the Greeks, and that the principal Schools where this Art was taught, were at Sicyone, a Town of Peloponneſus, at Rhodes and Athens; from Greece it paſſed into Italy, where it was in great eſteem about the end of the Republick, and under the firſt Emperors, until at laſt War and Luxury having diſmembered the Roman Empire, it became entirely extinct as well as other Sciences and Arts, and did not begin to revive again till the famous Cimabue laboured at it, and recovered from the hands of certain Greeks, ſome ſlender remains of this Art. Some Florentines having ſeconded him, were thoſe that gained moſt Reputation at it, yet it was long before any conſiderable Painting was produced. Le Ghirlandaio Michael Angelo's Maſter acquired the moſt Credit, but Michael Angelo his Scholar, in the time of Pope Julius II. at the beginning of the XVIth. Century eclipſed the Glory of all that went before him, and erected a School at Florence. Peter Perugin had for his Scholar Raphael d'Urbin, whom he excell'd very much, and even Michael Angelo himſelf, and formed a School at Rome, conſiſting of ſeveral excellent Painters; at the ſame time the School of Lombardy was ſet up, and was famous under Georgion and Titian, who had Julian Bellino for his Maſter; beſides which, there were alſo in Italy ſome other particular Schools, under different Maſters; amongſt the reſt, that of Leonardo de Vinci at Milan, but the three firſt are eſteemed the moſt famous, the reſt having proceeded from them; but over and above theſe, there were on this ſide the Mountains ſome Painters who had nothing to do with thoſe of Italy, as Albert Durez in Germany, Holbens in Swiſſerland, Lucas in Holland, and ſeveral others that wrought in France and Flanders in a different manner; but Italy and Rome eſpecially was the place where this Art was practis'd in its greateſt Perfection, and where from time to time were brought up excellent Painters. The School of Raphael was ſucceeded by that of the Caracchios, which hath almoſt laſted till now in their heighth and perfection; but at this day there is but little of it in Italy, this Art ſeeming to have paſs'd into France, ſince King Lewis the XIVth. hath ſet up Academies for thoſe that practiſe it. I have ſaid before, That the firſt Invention of this Art of Painting is not certainly known, but it is agreed, That he who was the firſt that attempted Drawing made his firſt Eſſay upon a Wall, by drawing the ſhadow of a Man which the Light diſcovered; and to give the greater beauty to this Story, ſome write, that it was a Girl who thus deſigned the face of her Lover. Some alledge, That it was one Philocles of Egypt who firſt reduced this Invention into practice; others name Cleanthes of Corinth, and others again ſay, That Ardices a Corinthian and Telephanes of Clarentia in the Peloponneſus, began to Draw without Colours, with a Coal only; and that the Firſt that made uſe of one Colour in Painting was one Cleophantes of Corinth, and for that reaſon called Monochromatos: After him it is ſaid, that Higienontes, Dinias and Charmas where the firſt that made Pictures in one Colour only. Eumarus of Athens, at laſt, Painted both Men and Women in a different manner; his Diſciple Simon the Cleonian began to Paint the Body in various Poſtures, and to repreſent the Joints and Limbs, the Veins, and the Foldings of the Drapery; however it is certain, that in the time of Romulus, and about the fifteenth Olympiad; that is, 715 Years before Chriſt's Incarnation, Candaules, ſirnamed Myrſilus King of Lydia bought for its weight in Gold, a Picture of Bularchus's painting, in which was repreſented the Battle of the Magneſians. Panæus the Brother of Phidias was in eſteem in the 83d. Olympiad, 448 Years before our Saviour. Polygnotus the Thaſian was the firſt that put Thought and Paſſion in the Face, and gave Force and Beauty to the Colours; the did ſeveral things at Delphos and Athens. At the ſame time Mycon made himſelf famous alſo in Greece. About the 90th Olympiad appear'd Aglaophon, Cephiſſodorus, Phrillus, and Evenor the Father and Maſter of Parrhaſius; all theſe Painters were excellent in their Art, but Apollodorus exceeded them all; he lived in the 93d Olympiad, 408 Years before the birth of our Lord; His manner was imitated by Zeuxis, Parrhaſius, and ſeveral others till the Reign of Auguſtus. It's not known what Painters wrought in Italy ſince the Reign of this Emperor. When the Conſtantines and Theodoſius's took upon them the protection of the Church, theſe Chriſtian Emperors cauſed ſome Carving and Painting Works to be made for the Ornament of the Churches, but we have almoſt nothing conſiderable of the Remains of thoſe Pieces. 'Tis probable, one Reaſon of the decay of Painting in the Empire, was occaſion'd, by the Second Council of Nice's Decreeing Religious worſhip to be paid to the Images of our Saviour, and the Saints: This Practice, being look'd upon, by a great part of the Church as a dangerous and unwarrantable Innovation, ſeveral of the Greek Emperors made a vigorous oppoſition againſt it; and the better to ſuppreſs thoſe Exceſſes, order'd the Images and paintings to be taken out of Churches and defac'd, and by this means, the Art it ſelf fell under a great diſcouragement. But about the Year One thouſand two hundred and ſeventy, the famous Cimabue reſtoted the Art of Painting, which was perfected by the Painters of the ſucceeding Ages. About the beginning of the fifteenth Century there were famous Painters in the Low-Couutries and in Germany; amongſt others, John de Bruges, who found out the way of Painting in Oyl. Albert Dure, &c. Felebien Lives of Painters. Freſnoy. Moiner, &c.

PAITA, a Town in Mar del zur built by the Spaniards. It conſiſted of 200 Houſes, neatly built, when taken by the Engliſh under Mr. Cavendiſh, in 1587, who plundered and burnt it. Du Laet ſays, It is a noble port of Peru, ſeated in a Barren and Sandy Soil, without Water; but that having a large and ſafe Bay, all the Goods deſigned for Guatimala are landed at this place. In 1615 it was again taken by George Spilberg and deſerted of all its Inhabitants ſince which it has been more frequented by the Indians than Spaniards.

PALÆMON or MELICERTES, the Son of Athamas and Ino. His Mother perceiving her Husband in ſuch a fury, that he had daſh'd out her other Son Learchus's Brains againſt a Rock, ſhe took her other Son Melicertes in her Arms, and throwing her ſelf and him into the Sea they were metamorphos'd into Marine Deities; the Mother being call'd Leucothea, or, The Fair Goddeſs, and ſuppos'd to be the ſame with Aurora, and the Son Palæmon or Portunus, becauſe he was fanſied to preſide over Ports. Ovid Metam. Pauſanias ſays, That Melicertes was ſaved by a Dolphin, and ſet aſhore in the Iſthmus of Corinth, whence the Games called Ludi Iſthmici were inſtituted in honour of him. Orpheus in Hymnis.

PALÆMON, a Grammarian of Rome in the time of Tiberius, ſo Arrogant, that he call'd Marcus Varro a Swine; and uſed to boaſt, That Learning was born and would die with himſelf. Juven.

PALÆPHATUS, a Greek Hiſtorian contemporary with Alexander the Great; there is a Book of his de Incredibilibus Hiſtoriis, being an Hiſtorical Explication of Fables. It hath been often printed both in Greek and Latin, in England and Holland; the beſt Edition is that of Amſterdam in 1688, in 8°. There were alſo a Poet, Grammarian and Philoſopher of this Name, all very ancient.

PALAFOX and MENDOSA JOHN, Son to the Marquis of Hariza in the Kingdom of Arragon, born An. 1600, bred at Salamanca, was a conſtant Aſſiſtant of Philip IVth's. Council of War, ſent by him to the Indies, created Biſhop of Los Angelos there; afterwards Governour of New Spain, whence coming to give an account of his Adminiſtration, the King made him alſo Biſhop of Oſma. He wrote the Siege and Relief of Fontarabia and ſome other things in Spaniſh. Biblioth. Span. Writers.

PALAMEDES, Son of Nauplius, Prince of the Iſle Eubœa. He was very Ingenious, and call'd, Inventor of Weights and Meaſures, of Cheſs and Dice, of drawing Men up in Battalions, regulating the Year by the courſe of the Sun and the Months by that of the Moon. Pliny ſays, that during the Siege of Troy, he invented the Greek Letters Θ, Ξ, Φ, Χ, and ſome add Υ, wherewith Ulyſſes mock'd him, ſaying, He had no Reaſon to brag of that Invention, for the Cranes formed that Letter in their order of flying. Hence thoſe Fowls are call'd by Martial Palamedis aves. Ulyſſes being enraged at him for diſcovering his counterfeit Madneſs, to prevent his going to the War, accuſed him of high Treaſon, and got him ſtoned. Ovid Metam.

PALATINATE, a Principality of Germany, divided into the Upper and lower Palatinate. The Upper belongs to the Duke of Bavaria according to the Treaty of Munſter; and the Lower to the Count Palatine of the Rhine, who formerly enjoy'd the whole. The Country takes its Name from the Office of Count Palatine, beſtowed by the Emperor on thoſe who adminiſtred Juſtice in his Name to the Empire; of which there was two, one on the Rhine, who had the charge of Franconia and the neighbouring Countries; and the other in Saxony and other Countries ſubject to the Saxon Law. Hence it is that the Electors of Saxony, and the Elector Palatine, or Elector of Bavaria, are Vicars of the Empire in their reſpective Provinces when there is an Interregnum by the Emperor's death or otherwiſe. At firſt the Count Palatine of the Rhine had no Poſſeſſions on that River; but in proceſs of time got them by Marriage, Purchaſe, or Imperial Gift, and formed a very conſiderable Principality; ſo that beſides ſeveral Fiefs betwixt Coblentz, Andernach, and in the Country of Juliers, and beſides the Dutchies of Newburg, Sultzbach and Deuxponts, and other dependencies on them, he hath divers more Dutchies and Counties. Heydelberg is his chief City, famous for its Ancient Univerſity and Caſtle, the Prince's uſual Reſidence, but lately deſtroy'd by the French, as is alſo Manheim, which was but lately built, and handſomely fortified by Prince Charles, at the Mouth of the Necker. Gaub is a little Town with the Caſtle of Gudenfelts on the Rhine; againſt which, in the middle of the River, is the Caſtle of Pfaltz, whence ſome (but falſly) would have the Princes Title of Pfaltſgrave derived. The Town of Delsburg hath a fine Caſtle on the Necker. Frankendal is beſt fortified of any Town in the Lower Palatinate. The Elector Frederick III. begun, An. 1576, to entertain many Proteſtant Families there, who fled from the Low-Countries. His Succeſſors doing the like in other Towns, did thereby mightily enrich the Country. The Prince made his Revenue very conſiderable, by taking away the Church Lands upon the change of Religion, right of conducting Strangers, whom he obliges to make uſe of his Guards, not only in his own Territories, but in the Neighbouring Biſhopricks and Earldoms, by virtue of a Privilege granted him by the Emperor. Toll upon Merchandize that paſs'd his Territories, and the Title he had to the Goods of Strangers, or thoſe who come to ſettle without expreſs Leave in his Dominions. This Country was ruin'd by the French in 1688, and 1689, on pretence of the difference betwixt that King and the new Elector, about the Allodial, claim'd by the Dutcheſs of Orleans, Siſter to Prince Charles, who died without Iſſue. See the French King's Manifeſto, September 1688. This Family is deſcended from that of Bavaria, thus:

The Genealogy of the Elector Palatine.

Æternumque locus Palinuri nomen habebit.

PALIQUES, in Lat. Palici, Now call'd Naphia or Naphthia, two Lakes in Sicily near the City Catanea, as alſo the Fountain Palicene. Poets ſay, They were two Brothers, Twins, begot by Jupiter on the Nymph Thalia, who growing big, was ſo aſham'd of the action, and afraid of Juno, that ſhe pray'd the Earth might ſwallow her up; which being granted, ſhe brought forth her two Sons in the Bowels of the ſame, which opened again and let 'em out: Whence they were called Palici from the Greek word πάλιν again. They were ador'd as Gods by the Sicilians. And it was alſo ſtoried, That from the holes whence they iſſued, gulfs of Fire proceeded at the ſame time; whence came the flames of Mount Ætna. Others ſays, That two Lakes flowed from the holes which remain ſtill, and were had in ſuch Veneration, that thoſe who were accuſed of Perjury threw themſelves into them, and if they came out ſafe were acquitted, but otherwiſe the Bond they were oblig'd to give before this trial, was forfeited. Perjury was tried in the ſame manner, by throwing in Writing-Tables, with what was ſworn upon them; if they ſunk it was eſteem'd, falſe, if otherwiſe, true. By command of the Oracle Humane Sacrifices were offer'd to appeaſe the Choler of Thalia and her two Sons; but in proceſs of time inanimate things were only ſacrificed; whence Virgil ſays,

PALLADES, Virgins dedicated by the Thebans to Jupiter. In this manner: They conſecrated one of the beſt born and moſt beautiful Virgins to him, who lay with whom ſhe pleaſed till the time of her natural Purgation, and then ſhe was given to a Husband; but after the time of her Proſtitution till the time of her Marriage ſhe was lamented as dead. Euſtath. ad Iliad.

PALLADIUM, the Statue of the Goddeſs Pallas, repreſented with a Pike in her Hand, which, always mov'd as ſhe turn'd her Eyes. The Trojans believed, That this Wooden Statue fell from Heaven into the Temple before the Roof was on, as they were building the ſame in the Cittadel of Troy. They were told by the Oracle of Apollo, That the City ſhould be impregnable ſo long as that Preſent of Heaven was in their Poſſeſſion, but that its Ruin would follow if ever the Statue ſhould be carried without the Walls. During the Siege of Troy, Diomedes and Ulyſſes, Grecian Captains, entred the Cittadel by Mines under ground, cut off the Garriſon, and brought the ſaid Statue to their own Camp. A Statue of Pallas was kept at Rome in the Temple of Veſta, which ſome Authors will have to be the true Statue; whereupon Vives obſerves, That there were two of them at Troy, one of which was preſerv'd as Sacred, and a Counterfeit expos'd to the Publick, which Ulyſſes took; but the true one, with the Trojan Tutelary and Houſhold Gods were carried into Italy by Æneas. And when the ſame was carried to Rome they made many Counterfeits to prevent the ſtealing of the true one. There was another Palladium dedicated to Minerva in the Cittadel of Athens. In the Conſecration of thoſe Statues, the Heathens were very Ceremonious and Superſtitious. Liv. lib. 26.

PALLADIUS, a Galatian, Biſhop of Helenopolis in Bithynia, An. 388 or 401, and Hermit of Mount Nitria, a great Friend of S. Chryſoſtom's during his Perſecution: He was himſelf baniſh'd into the Country of the Blemmians, An. 417, ten Years after S. Chryſoſtom's death he went to Rome in the Pontificate of Zoſimus. Theodore, a Deacon of Rome, learn'd from him the particulars of S. Chryſoſtom's Sufferings, and from his Relation was that Dialogue containing S. Chryſoſtom's Life compoſed; which, nevertheleſs is defective in many things. Palladius afterwards, at the deſire of Lauſus Governour of Cappadocia, wrote the Hiſtory of the Hermites, which is call'd Hiſtoria Lauſiaca from the Name of that Lord. 'Tis diſputed by the Learned, whether this Palladius, and he that wrote the Dialogue of S. Chryſoſtom's Life, was the ſame Perſon. Bigotius believes it was another Palladius, who upon the formers being tranſlated to Aſpuna, ſucceeded him in the See of Helenopolis; but there are probable Reaſons to perſwade us that the Dialogue and the Hiſtoria Lauſiaca were written by the ſame Author. This Palladius is ſaid to have been an Origeniſt, and therefore S. Jerom's Enemy, of whom he does not write favourably. His great amity with Rufinus confirms this ſuſpicion. He was Diſciple to Evagrius of Pontus, and ſuſpected of Pelagianiſm. Epiphan. Socrates, Trithemius, Baleus, and others, ſuppoſe Palladius the Deacon, ſent by Pope Cæleſtine, An. 430, to oppoſe Pelagianiſm in Scotland, where he was the firſt Biſhop (tho the Nation had been Chriſtian above 200 years before) to have been the Author of S. Chryſoſtom's Life, which was tranſlated by the learned Ambroſe General of the Calmaldules above 200 years ago, and dedicated to Pope Eugenius the IVth. The Greek Original is not now extant. Dr. Cave's Diſſertation concerning thoſe two Palladius's. Baleus, Cent. 14. Cave's Hiſt. Liter. p. 1.

PALLADIUS or PALLADIO (Andrew) a learned Architect of Vicenza in Italy, Scholar to the learned John George Triſſin. He was a great reviver of the ancient Architecture, of which he formed excellent Idea's by viewing the old Monuments at Rome, whereof he drew the principal pieces, upon which he wrote Remarks, of which there are ſeveral Editions with Cuts; and re-eſtabliſhed the Rules which were corrupted by the Barbarity of the Goths. He publiſhed four Books of Architecture, the laſt of which treating of the Roman Temples, makes it evident, that the Author ſurpaſſed all that ever wrote before him on that Subject. This Work was tranſlated into French by Rowland Friarl. Hiſtorie. Memoirs.

PALLADIUS, a Daniſh Divine, who together with Hemmingius, promoted the Reformation in that Country.

PALLADIUS (Fuſcus) born at Padua, was an Author of Character in the XVth. Century, and mention'd with great Commendation by Sabellicus. He wrote Notes upon Catullus, a Treatiſe concerning Iſles, and ſeveral other curious pieces. Sabellic. Ennead. Scardeoni de Clar. Patav. lib. 3. claſs. 10.

PALLAS, Claudius Cæſar's enfranchis'd Bondman, ſo wealthy, that he was reckoned 2500000 Seſtercies richer than Craſſus. Tacit.

PALLAS, derived from a Greek word ſignifying, to throw Darts, is one of the Names given to Minerva the Goddeſs of War and Wiſdom, whom the Poets feign to have been bred in Jupiter's Brain. There was an Italian Prince, Son to King Evander, who joined Æneas at his arrival in Italy; and alſo a Greek Author who wrote of the Myſteries of Mithra, of this Name. Homer. Voſſius, lib. 3. Hiſt. Græc.

PALLAVICINI, the Name of a noble and ancient Italian Family which hath divers Branches at Rome, Genoa, and in Lombardy. They pretend to have come from Germany, An. 980. They are Princes of Civitella and Auguſtine. Pallavicini was the firſt Doge of Genoa, who ever aſſum'd a Royal Crown, Anno 1637. Antonio Pallavicini, born 1440, was a Genoeſe, made Biſhop of Vintimilla by Sixtus the IVth. Anno 1484, and Cardinal by Innocent the VIIIth. 1489. He had ſeveral Biſhopricks conferr'd on him by Pope Alexander the VIth. who eſteemed him for his Courage: So that when the ſaid Pope retired into the Caſtle of S. Angelo at Charles the VIIIth's entring Rome, December 28 1494, he appointed Pallavicini to receive and treat with him, which he did ſucceſsfully; the Pope having ſo much offended the ſaid Monarch, that he durſt not ſtay his coming to Rome. Next Year he retired to Orvietta, and left Pallavicini to treat with him again, whereupon the ſaid Monarch did generouſly reſtore all the places which he had taken from the Church. The Pope dying Aug. 17. 1503, his ſcandalous life had ſo much diſhonoured the Chair that the Conclave looking for one whoſe Integrity might repair that diſgrace, Pallavicini bid faireſt for the ſucceſſion: However Pius the IIId. was choſen Pope, and in a little time ſucceeded by Julius the IId. who imployed Cardinal Pallavicini in affairs of importance, and ſent him Legate to Savona, where there was an Interview between Lewis XII. and Ferdinand King of Arragon, who entred into a League againſt the Venetians according to the Pope's deſire, but Pallavicini arriving at Rome in the end of Auguſt, with an account of his Negotiation, fell ſick and died September 10th. 1507. aged 66. Guicciardin Hiſt. lib. 2.

PALLAVICINI (Ferrante) born at Plaiſance, bred an Auguſtin, a Man of great Wit, and an excellent Satyriſt, for which he was much admired and applauded. Pope Urban the VIIIth. making War upon Odoard Farneſe, Duke of Parma, Pallavicini eſpouſed his Princes Quarrel with his Pen, and publiſh'd ſeveral pieces extreamly to the diſadvantage of the See of Rome, and the Houſe of Barberini, which was the Pope's Family, inſomuch, that Pallavicini became an Execration at Rome, where a price was ſet on his Head, which made him retire to Venice, where he lived in quiet. But one Breſche, Son to a Bookſeller at Paris, perſwading him, that he might live more advantageouſly in France, eſpecially at Orange, under the Protection of a Proteſtant Prince; inſtead of conducting him thither, brought him into the Pope's Dominions, where he was taken, and fourteen Months afterward beheaded at Avignon, An. 1644; in revenge of which, one of his Friends kill'd the cowardly Traytor at Paris a little after. Pallavicini publiſh'd divers Treatiſes, viz. La Taliclea, la Suſanna, il Giuſeppe, il Sanſonne, l'Ambaſciatore Invidiato, la pudicitia Schernita, il divorcio celeſte, la Rhetorica della P. and others which are bound in two Volumes. His Death occaſioned the Dialogues entituled, Anima errante di Ferrante Pallavicini. Bouch. Hiſt. de prov.

PALLAVICINI (Sforza) Jeſuit and Cardinal, Son of Marqueſs Alexand. Pallavicini, was a learned Philoſopher and Lawyer; and tho' eldeſt Son, would be an Eccleſiaſtick againſt the mind of his Friends. His Converſation was ſo regular, that he was choſen amongſt the Prelates who aſſiſt at thoſe Aſſemblies called Congregations at Rome, and particularly that of good Government, and Eccleſiaſtical Immunities. He was alſo Preſident of the College of Humoriſts, Governour of Jeſi, Orvieta and Camerina under Pope Urban the VIIIth. Examiner of the Biſhops, and a Member of the Congregation of the Holy Office. He was made Cardinal by Alexander the VIIth. November 10th. 1659, and publiſhed a Hiſtory of the Council of Trent, in many things contradicting Father Paul, againſt which, a Treatiſe was printed, called, The new Goſpel of Cardinal Pallavicini. He died June 5. 1667, aged 60. His Works are, Trattato dello Stile. Del Bene Vindication Soc. Jeſ. &c. Alegamb. Bibl. Soc. Jeſ. Lorenzo Craſſo, Elog. de Huom. Letter.

PALLIUM, a kind of Imperial Mantle, wherewith the Chriſtian Emperors began to honour the Prelates of the Church in the fourth Age; willing it ſhould be the Ornament of thoſe Prelates, and a mark of their Spiritual Authority over the Inferior Orders of their Churches, as the Emperors uſed it, in token of the Temporal Power they had over thoſe of their Empire. At firſt it covered all the Body of the Prelate, and reached down from the Neck to the very Heels, not unlike to a Prieſt's Cope, ſaving that it was ſhut up before, and not of Silk, nor of Linen, but of Wool, to repreſent the Sheep which Jeſus Chriſt, the good Shepherd, carries upon his Shoulders. It was afterwards but a kind of a Stole which hung before and behind, and had four ſcarlet Croſſes placed on the four ſides of the Pallium, to wit, upon the Breaſt, Back, and both Shoulders. The Patriarchs took the Pallium upon the Altar, at the Ceremony of their Conſecration. They ſent one of them to the Metropolitans of their Patriarchſhip when they confirmed their Election, and theſe ſame beſtowed them upon the Biſhops of their Province when conſecrating of them, after having firſt confirmed the choice made according to the Canons; inſomuch, that neither the one nor the other could exerciſe any Pontifical Function unleſs they had received the Pallium. They uſed not this Veſt but at the Altar, when celebrating of ſolemn Maſs, and alſo pulled it off while the Goſpel was read. As this Honour was a pure favour of the Emperors, the Pallium was beſtowed upon none without their leave. Thus S. Gregory pray'd the Emperor Maurice, to grant to the Patriarch Anaſtaſius the Sinaite, who had been depoſed, the Liberty to come to Rome, and to wear the Pallium, to the end he might celebrate Maſs pontifically. The Cuſtom was not altogether the ſame in the Weſt, where no Prelates had this Ornament before the VIth. Age. It was at the beginning of this Age, that Pope Symmachus, having conſtituted Cæſarius Metropolitan of Arles, his Vicar in Gaul, ſent him the Pallium; and Pope Vigilius, one of his Succeſſors in the ſame Age, gave it to Auxentius Archbiſhop of Arles alſo, and Vicar of the Holy See; for that mark of participating of the power of the Pope was then given to none but Primates alone and Apoſtolick Vicars; and it was not till a great while after, about the middle of the VIIIth. Century, that Pope Zachary granted it to all Metropolitans or Archbiſhops. The Popes, after this, gave this Ornament to ſeveral conſiderable Biſhops, whereof ſome qualify'd themſelves Archbiſhops, becauſe of this right, as having a Dignity above ordinary Biſhops. Maimburg Hiſtoire du Pontificat de S. Gregoire le Grand.

PALMA or La POVA, a very ſtrong place of Friuli under the Venetians in Italy, built by the Doge Ciconia in 1593, for the Defence of their Country againſt the Houſe of Auſtria. This Cittadel ſtands near to a Town called Palmata, ſituated upon the Frontiers of Auſtria and the County of Goritz. Dr. Brown, who ſaw it, ſaith, It's the largeſt and moſt regular Fortification that he ever ſaw, having nine regular Baſtions, call'd by the names of ſo many noble Venetians. The Ditch is thirty paces wide, and twelve deep, and is kept dry for the Health of the place, but they can fill it with Water upon occaſion. It has three Gates, and about a hundred Cannon always mounted; and if need be they can quickly mount more. There is a Well in the Center of the Town, over which ſtands a Standard, and the Venetians look upon this to be the ſtrongeſt Fortification in the World. It is 10 miles S. E. of Udina, 52 N. E. of Venice, Lon. 34. 00. Lat. 45. 55. Baudrand.

PALMA La PALMA, an Iſle of the Atlantick Sea in Africa, one of the Canaries, belongs to the Spaniards, who made themſelves Maſters of it in 1493. It is five and twenty Leagues in circumference, and is very well cultivated. It hath a ſmall City called Santa Crux de la Palma, divers Towns, and a flaming Mountain, which, in 1677 ſent forth ſubterranean Fires, accompanied with Earthquakes, which were very remarkable for their quality and continuance. November 13th. a little after Sunſet, the Earth quaked for the ſpace of thirteen Leagues all along the Coaſt, and that Earthquake accompanied with a frightful noiſe, laſted five days, during which, the Earth opened in divers places; the greateſt gap was made upon Mount-aux Chevres, a mile and an half diſtant from the Sea, from whence proceeded a great Fire which caſt up Stones and melted Rocks. The like happened in ſeveral places thereabouts, and in leſs than a quarter of an Hour, it made about the Foot of the Mountain eighteen gaps, which vomited up flames of Fire and burning Stones, in ſo great a quantity, as to form a River of Fire: It took its courſe over the plain of Los Cainos, and ran with Violence towards the Holy Fountain, but coming near unto the brink of the great Deſcent, turned to the right, and forc'd its way towards the Old Port, which is that where the Spaniards landed when they made themſelves Maſters of theſe Iſlands. November 20th. there was a ſecond Eruption out of the Mount-aux Chevres, from whence came forth Stones and Fire, with great Tremblings and Thunders, and continued ſeveral days; black Cinders have been taken up ſeven Leagues diſtant from thence. The ground thereabouts was entirely waſted, and the Inhabitants conſtrained to abandon their Habitations. Memoires Hiſtoriques. J. Nunno de Penna.

PALMARII, French Soldiers, ſo called, becauſe they returned from a Croiſade in the Holy Land, with Palm-branches in their Hands, and were allowed certain Privileges by Lewis IX. their Founder. Spelman.

La Cividad De las PALMAS, Lat. Palmarum Civitas, the Metropolis of the Iſland Canaria, in the Eaſt part of which it ſtands, with a Haven on the Atlantick Ocean. It is ſubject to the Spaniards, and ſometimes call'd Canaria. The chief Court of Judicature for all the Iſland is kept here; the City is beautiful, and the Inhabitants rich and gallant. The Ground is ſandy, and does ſo ſpeedily drink up the Rain as it falls, that one may immediately after walk clean in a Velvet Slipper. Hackluit. Baudr.

PALMIER (Matthew) of Florence, lived in the XVth. Age. He continued Proſper's Chronicle (which was an addition to that of S. Jerom, who only tranſlated augmented, and carried on that of Euſebius) till 1449. And Matthias Palmier of Piſa, has made an addition to it till the Year 1481. He writ alſo a Book of the War of Piſa, the Life of Nicholas Acciaſole, a Treatiſe of the Civil Life, which Claude de Roſiers has tranſlated into French, and divers other Pieces full of Learning; but this great Man who had ſo much Knowledge in humane Learning, miſtook in writing of Divine Things; he publiſhed ſome particular Sentiments in reference to the Nature of Angels, which occaſioned his Book to be burnt. Trithemius and Genebrard ſay, Palmier run the ſame Deſtiny with his Book, and that he was ſentenced to the Flames; in the mean time, as Voſſius obſerves, There is neither Philip de Bergamo, nor Volaterran, nor any other Italian Authors that ſay any thing of this Misfortune; however it be, let the Curious conſult theſe *Authors. PALMOSA or PATHMOS, an Iſland in the Archipelago to the S. W. of Samos 12 German miles. It is not half ſo big as Samos, but has better Ports and ſome other advantages. S. John the Apoſtle wrote in this Iſland the Revelation during his Exile in the Reign of Domitian. The Venetian Armado did frequently Winter here during the War of Candy, ſo that the Inhabitants grew rich, but ſince that the Turks and Corſairs have made them as miſerable as the reſt of their Neighbours. Randal, p. 56. Struys who ſaw it in 1656 ſaith, It was then fruitful, populous and well built, and had a City in the middle, with a fair Monaſtery. It is in Circuit not above five Engliſh miles, and its chief Product is Corn. Hackl. t. 2. p. 1. p. 308.

PALMYRA, THAMAR, TAMAR, a City of Syria, 135 miles from Damaſcus to the N. E. and 140 from Antioch to the S. E. (ſixty miles in a Degree.) Hadrian the Emperor Enlarg'd it, and called it Hadrianopolis. It was alſo called Amegara, famous moſtly for Zenobia the Maſculine Queen of this ſmall Territory, who was well inſtructed in the Egyptian, Greek and Latin Tongues, and wrote, amongſt many other things, an Epitome of Hiſtory. She was taken and brought to Rome by Aurelian the Emperor, who was ſo well pleas'd with her Vertues, that he gave her Poſſeſſions in Italy after he had ſhew'd her in Triumph to the People. A. C. 273. Ptol. Lon. 71. 30. Lat 34. 00. It was formerly an Archbiſhop's See under the Patriarch of Antioch.

PALOS de MOGUER, Lat. Palus, a Town of Spain in Andaluzia, whence Chriſtopher Columbus ſet Sail in 1492 for America. It is fifteen miles W. from Seville, and nine E. from the mouth of Guadiana.

PALOTTA, a City of Lower-Hungary in the County of Alba-Regalis, was taken from the Turks by the Imperialiſts in October 1687; the Baſha that commanded there, immediately deſired to capitulate, and marched out with the Garriſon, and as much Baggage as every Soldier could carry. He had with him about Two hundred and fifty Men whom he conducted to Belgrade. In Palotta were found eight pieces of Canon, divers Mortars, great quantity of Powder and Proviſion, with three Colours. This Town is five miles N. of Alba Regalis. Memoirs de Temps.

PALPHURIUS or PALFURIUS, Captain of the Robbers who over run Aſia Minor, and particularly Iſauria. The Emperor Probus defeated him, and put him to death. Vopiſcus in Probo.

PALUDANUS (John) commonly call'd Vandenbroeck, born at Malines, and Divinity Profeſſor at Louvaine, in the XVII. Century, his Works are Vindiciæ Theologicæ adverſus Verbi Dei corruptelas. Apologeticus Marianus. There was another Paludanus, ſirnam'd, Michael, born in the latter end of the XVI. Century, he was an Auguſtinian Monk, of conſiderable Reputation. He wrote Commentaries upon Aquinas's Summs. Sacra & Theologica concordantia Temporum Regum Judæ & Iſrael, &c. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg.

PALUS MOEOTIS, Limen, Mer de Zabache or de la Tana, a great Gulf or Sea between Europe and Aſia, about 600 miles in circumference, and eſteem'd no other than a great Marſh, for that in ſome places there is ſo little Water in it, that it cannot be paſs'd but in Boats. Crim Tartary is to the Weſt of it, Sarmatia of Europe or Muſcovy to the North, and Aſiatick Sarmatia, which is Circaſſia, to the South and Eaſt, where is the mouth of the Don or Tanais. The Sea of Zabache is ſeparated from the Euxine by the Cimmerian Boſphorus, called the Streight of Veſpero, Kaffa or Kercy: To the Weſt of it alſo ſtands the Marſh which the Ancients named Bugis, now Suka Morzi. Polybius, Pliny, Strabo, &c. make mention of the Palus Mæotis.

PAMELIUS (James) born in the XVIth. Century, a Canon of Bruges, and a Deacon of S. Omer's, was Son of Adolpus, Baron of Pamele, and Privy-Councellor to Charles the Vth. His Works are Liturgiæ Latinorum. Micrologus de Eccleſiaſticis Obſervationibus. Catalogus Comment. Veterum Selectorum in Univerſa Biblia. Conciliorum Paralipomena, &c. He likewiſe publiſh'd Tertullian, and S. Cyprian, with Notes; and a Treatiſe of Caſſiodorus de Divinis Nominibus. Valer. Andr. Bibl. Belg. Mir. in Elog. Belg. &c.

PAMIERS, upon the Ariege, a City of France in the County of Foix, with a Biſhoprick ſuffragan of Toulouſe. Latin Authors call it Pamiæ and Apamiæ, which name was given it from its Caſtle; the City having been called Fredelac, Fredelacum. S. Anthony was martyr'd in this City, though the time when uncertain. The Count de Carcaſſone built there in the VIIIth. Age, an Abby of the Regular Canons of S. Auguſtin. In 1149 Pope Boniface VIIIth. erected that Abby into a Biſhoprick, whereof Bernard Saiſetti was the firſt Biſhop. The Biſhoprick of Pamiers was then under Narbonne, but ſince Pope John XXII. having erected Toulouſe into an Archbiſhoprick, it hath been placed under it. One of its late Biſhops has been much taken notice of for his oppoſing Lewis the XIVth, of France about the Regalia. Pope Bennet the XIIth. was Biſhop of this place. This Town is 32 miles S. of Toulouſe. Guilliaume de la Perriere. Annal de Foix. Bertrand Elie, Hiſt. Fuxenſ. Vid. Pavillon.

PAMPELUNE, the Capital City of Navarre, with a Biſhoprick under Burgos, called in Latin Pampelona, Pompelo and Pompeiopolis. It's very ancient, thought to have been built by Pompey, and was the Capital of Gaſcoigne. Charlemaign paſſing into Spain took it, and cauſed the Walls of it to be broken down in 778. Philip the IId. cauſed a Citadel to be built there. Pope John XXII. had put the Biſhoprick of Pampelune under the Metropolitan of Saragoſſa; but ſince Gregory the XIIIth. it remains under Burgos. This Town ſtands upon the River Arga in a fruitful Valley, ſurrounded with touring Hills Twenty Leagues S. from Bayonne, and forty N. from Saragoſſa, Lon. 19 50. S. PAMPHILUS, Prieſt of Cæſarea in Palæſtine and a Martyr, had ſo great a love for Books, that he collected an excellent Library. He copied alſo the Books of Origen; and S. Jerom, who had them afterwards, confeſs'd, he valued them more than if he had poſſeſs'd all the Treaſures of Cræſus. He was taken in the time of the Perſecution of Maximinus, and after two years Impriſonment he finiſhed his courſe by a Death as conſtant as his Life was holy, about the Year 308. It's ſaid, That during this long Confinement he wrote part of that Apology for Origen, which Euſebius finiſhed. S. Jerom. de Script. Eccl. 75. Euſeb. Hiſt. lib. 6. *& ſeq. PAMPHILUS, Son of Neocles, and Scholar to Plato, who ſays of him, That he lay ten days dead amongſt the Slain in Battle, and being put on his Funeral Pile three days after he was taken up, reviv'd, and told wonderful things which he had ſeen during the time of his Death. Plato.

PAMPHILUS, a Philoſopher of Amphipolis, or Sicyone, or Nicopolis, writ of Grammar, Painting, Illuſtrious Painters, and three Books de Re Ruſtica. See Suidas who makes mention of him.

PAMPHILUS, the Diſciple of Plato and Maſter of Epicurus. See Diogenes Laertius in the Life of Epicurus. Athenæus cites one of this name of Alexandria. Conſult Geſner in Bibl. Poſſevin in Appar. Voſſius lib. 2. & 3. de Hiſt. Græc.

PAMPHILUS, a Native of Macedonia, a famous Painter, lived about the Year 375 of Rome, in the Hundredth Olympiad. Beſides his Art, he was learned, and render'd himſelf very conſiderable, perfectly underſtanding the Mathematicks, which he believed very neceſſary for a Painter. Pamphilus was the Maſter of Apelles, and ſeveral Perſons of Quality came to learn of him: Beſides the four above-mentioned Pamphilus's, Suidas makes alſo mention, 1. Of one Pamphilus a Grammarian of Alexandria, the Diſciple of the famous Critick Ariſtarchus: He writ a Book entituled, The Meadow, which was a Collection of divers things, continued the Gloſſes of Zophyrion or his Dictionary of obſcure words, beſides ſeveral other pieces which we have not. 2. There was another Pamphilus, of whom Athenæus ſpeaks and Suidas after him, who expreſs'd himſelf always in Verſe. 3. There was a third Pamphilus Demagogue of Athens, who waſting the publick Treaſury was diſmiſs'd of his charge as Ariſtophanes upon Plautus declares.

PAMPHYLIA, a Province of Aſia Minor, which to the S. of it has the Mediterranean Sea, Cilicia to the E. Piſidia to the N. and Lycia to the W. It makes now part of the Province which the Turks call Caramania. Cities famous in it formerly were Perga, Aſpendus, Termeſſus, and Attalia, called at this day Satalia, and is alſo the Capital City. This Country gives the denomination of Pamphylian Sea to that part of the Mediterranean which waſhes it. There is a Town in Macedonia of this Name. Baudrand.

PAMPREPIUS, an Egyptian, a Native of Thebes or Dioſpolis, lived in the Fifth Age, in the Reign of the Emperor Zeno, with whom he was in much eſteem. He was the Diſciple of Proclus, and a Pagan; writ divers Pieces in Verſe, and the Wars of Iſauria in Proſe. Suidas in Pamprep

PAN, God of the Shepherds, was alſo conſidered as the God of Nature, which ſeems to be intimated by his Name; for Παν in Greek ſignifies All. Wherefore his Picture was compoſed of the chiefeſt things that are to be ſeen in the World; his Horns ſignifying the Beams of the Sun and Horns of the Moon; his Face all over flaming in imitation of the Element of Fire, and his Breaſt overlaid with Stars, as repreſenting the Heavens; as to the inferior parts, his Thighs and Legs were painted hairy and rough, meaning thereby, Trees, Herbs, and Beaſts, with Goats Feet, to ſhew the ſolidity of the Earth; by his Pipe was ſet forth the Muſick the Spheres made, according to the Notion of ſome ancient Philoſophers; and by his crooked Staff, the Revolution of Years. The Ancients believed that Pan, in the Night time, ran along the Mountains, from whence comes that we call a panick fear, which is a fright wherewith one is ſeiz'd in the darkneſs of the Night, or by an Imagination without grounds for it, and which ſometimes comes upon very numerous Armies, putting them all on a ſudden into a Conſternation. It is ſaid, that Pan accompanied Bacchus into the Indies, and that he was very ſerviceable to him in the gaining ſo many Victories. 'Twas alſo believed, That by his aſſiſtance it was that the Athenians won the Battle upon the Perſians in the Plains of Marathon; for it is ſaid, That Miltiades being ready to engage his Enemies, Pan appear'd at the Head of the Army in an Humane Shape, but of an extraordinary Stature, who having cauſed the Trumpets and Cornets to ſound a charge with Notes more martial and ſurprizing than Ordinary, all the Perſian Army were frighted at it and fled, from whence ſome ſay, is come that word panick fear. Pauſanias. Apollodorus. Pliny, lib. 7. Angel. Politian. in Miſcellan.

PANAGIOTI, a Greek Nobleman of the XVIIth. Century, who was chief Interpreter to the Grand Signior, with whom he had a conſiderable Intereſt, which he made uſe of to the Advantage of his Countrymen. He oppos'd the Innovations (as Morery calls 'em) of Cyrillus Lucarius, Patriarch of Conſtantinople, to whoſe Confeſſion of Faith, ſet forth in 1629, Panagioti publiſh'd another very different one in Greek, call'd, The Orthodox Confeſſion of the Catholick and Apoſtolick Eaſtern Church. This Book is writ in Modern Greek, and frequently cited by Arnaud, in his Books of Perpetuity. Father Simon takes notice, that Panagioti got his Book Tranſlated into Latin, in order to preſent it, with the Original, to the French King, that it might remain with him as an Authentick Record of the Belief of the Greek Church. He adds, That this Book is now to be ſeen in Manuſcript, in the Archbiſhop of Rheims's Library, with the Marks or Subſcriptions of the Eaſtern Biſhops; and that it is the very Original which Panagioti ſent to the King. Panagioti died in 1673, and lies buried in the Monaſtery of the Iſle of Chalcis, near Conſtantinople. *R. PANAMA, a City that gives name to the Iſthmus, between Northern and Southern America, called alſo Terra firma. Here is a Court of Juſtice, which is appointed to do Juſtice to Merchants, and to diſpatch the Ships that come thither. This Iſthmus is about fourſcore Leagues from Eaſt to Weſt, and ſixty broad between the two Seas, where largeſt; but where 'tis more narrow between the Town of Panama and Porto-belo, it's not above eighteen Leagues; and if the Road were ſtraight and without Windings, it would not exceed ſeven or eight, This Country is full of Mountains and Marſhes, its Air almoſt continually dark and yet very hot, which renders it very unhealthful, eſpecially, from May to November. Its Soil produceth nothing but Mayz, and that in no great quantity, yet there is very good Graſs and plenty of it to feed many Cattle. The Savages there make Ropes of an Herb they call Nequen or Henechen, which bears Leaves like unto a Thiſtle, that they put into Water, as they do Hemp or Flax with us, then dry them in the Sun, bruiſe and peel them to make Ropes of the ſame, which ſerve not only to bind, but alſo to cut Iron therewith, by pulling of theſe Ropes backwards and forwards like a Saw, which is eaſily done, by throwing a little fine Sand upon the Place where they deſign to cut. The Trees in this Country are always green, and laden with abundance of Leaves, but bear no Fruit. The City of Panama is ſituated upon the Shoar of the South-Sea, and well peopled, becauſe of its Commerce, though the Air be unhealth. It's a Biſhop's See under the Archbiſhop of Lima; its Port is very commodious when the Sea is high, but at an Ebb the Ships ſtand dry; and in the Winter Seaſon they are obliged to retire to Port de Perico, which is diſtant two Leagues. Panama was built by Petrus Ario in 1515, for the reception of the Effects of Peru. It's fam'd among the Spaniards for the birth of a modern Saint, called Roſe of Panama, whoſe Sanctity they pretend is ſo conſpicuous, as to be reverenced by the Gnats and Flies in her Cell, as Father Oliva, late General of the Jeſuits, informs us in her Life. It was plunder'd by the French in 1661; and in 1686, by Captain Lawrence, a Buccanier. The City is but ſmall, and built of Wood; it lies eighteen Leagues from the N. Sea. The South Sea ebbs two or three miles from it at low Water, leaving a ſtinking mud behind, which is prejudicial to the health of the place. Fiſh, Fruit, and Herbs are more plentiful here than Fleſh. They have trade with the N. Sea by Land, and the River Chiagre, and by the S. Sea have a trade with Peru; ſo that it's reckon'd one of the richeſt places of America. The Spaniards here are very looſe and Libidinous, the Moors being the objects of their Luſts, by which they are enrich'd and made gallant. It is in Lon. 29. 30. Lat. 8. 30. Gage's Travels. De Laet. Hiſt. de Noveau Monde.

PANARUCAN, a Capital City of a little Kingdom of the ſame name in the Iſle of Java, one of the Iſlands of the Sonde, by the Streights of Palambuan, and a place of great trade. Near this Town is a Sulphurous Mountain, which began to caſt out flames in 1586, with ſo much violence, that above ten thouſand perſons periſhed in that firſt Conflagration. The Natives are Pagans. Mandeſlo's Voyage des Indes.

PANATHENÆA, certain Feaſts celebrated at Athens in honour of Minerva, inſtituted by Theſeus, after he had united all the Towns of the Province of Attica into one Body. At theſe Solemnities their Exerciſe was Wreſtling, the Champions being all naked, for which reaſon the Women were ſecluded, as were alſo Strangers; but there was uſually a Chorus of young Men and Maidens which danced ſome Jiggs. Of theſe Plays there were two ſorts, the greater celebrated every fifth Year, and the leſſer yearly. Plut. en la vie de Theſee. Alex. d'Alex. l. 5. See Meurſii Græca feriata.

PANCALIER, Lat. Pancalerum, a ſmall Town of Piedmont, belonging to the Duke of Savoy, it ſtands on the River Po, nine miles S. of Turin.

PANCARPUM, a ſhew of the Romans, where certain ſtrong and hardy Men fought againſt all ſorts of Beaſts, being hired for a Summ of Money for that purpoſe. This name ſignifies properly a Compoſition of all ſorts of Fruits, from the Greek πᾶν, all, and καρπὸς, Fruit; but afterwards it was given to that which contained all ſorts of Flowers, and at laſt to any thing made up of divers things, as this publick combating, where appeared a great many Animals of different kinds: The place where this Shew was kept, was the Ampitheatre of Rome; and theſe ſort of Plays continued to the time of the Emperor Juſtinian, who reigned in the Sixth Century. Some Authors confound the Pancarpe with the Sylva; but there is this difference between theſe publick Divertiſements. That the Pancarpe was a fighting againſt Beaſts in the Ampitheatre, and the Sylva a kind of hunting which was repreſented in the Cirquus. In the Pancarpe, it was Men hired that fought; and in the Sylva it was the People that hunted in the midſt of an Artificial Foreſt. Vid. SYLVA. *Salmaſius. P. Pithæus. Cauſabon. PANCIROLUS (Guy) a famous Lawyer of Rhegium, where his Family was one of the higheſt Quality. He had naturally an excellent Genius, which he cultivated with much Induſtry, having ſtudied in the principal Univerſities of Italy, to wit, at Ferrara, Pavia, Bolonia, and Padua, where he was afterwaads ordinary Profeſſor of Law. But this Science did not take up all his Thoughts, for he read alſo the Fathers, and was a great proficient in good Literature. Philibert Emanuel, Duke of Savoy, who had a particular eſteem for Pancirolus, drew him into his Univerſity of Turin in 1571, where he compoſed his ingenious Treatiſe De Rebus inventis & deperditis, commented upon afterwards by Henry Salmuth; but the Air of Turin not agreeing with him, he loſt there one Eye, and was in danger of loſing the other; for fear of which, he was obliged to return to Padua, where he continued to teach the Law, and died there May 16 1591. He writ Comment. in Notitiam dignitatum utriuſque Imperii. De Magiſtratibus municipalibus & corporibus artificum. Theſaurus variarum lectionum, &c. Thomaſin.

PANCRATIASTES, according to ſome Authors, were thoſe who won the Prize in the five ſorts of Exerciſes uſed in the Plays of Greece, to wit, Wreſtling, Boxing, Quoits, Running and Leaping; others believe they had in theſe ſame Plays, a ſort of Exerciſe different from the forementioned, call'd in the Greek Pancrate; that is, all the ſtrength, from πᾶν, all, and κράτος ſtrength; for that they were permitted to make uſe of all their Strength, ſaying beſides that that fighting was introduc'd into Greece about the 28th. Olympiad, 666 Years before the birth of Chriſt, and that it was one Lygdamis of Syracuſe who was the firſt that won the Prize at them, Cælius, lib. 3. antiq. Lect. Pauſanias, lib. 5.

PANDATARIA, a little Iſland now called Santa Maria, over againſt the utmoſt part of the Province di Lavoro in Naples to the Weſt, lying waſt at this day, but formerly famous for the perſons baniſhed thither. Julia, the Daughter of Auguſtus, was there confined by her Father; and Agrippina, the Wife of Germanicus, ſent thither into Exile, where ſhe died. Tacitus. Suetonius Baudrand

PANDION, the fifth King of Athens, began to Reign about An. Mund. 2615, after Erichthonius. The abundance of Corn and Wine was ſo great in his time, that they ſaid Ceres and Bacchus were come to Attica. Having receiv'd Succors from Tereus againſt a King of Pontus, Pandion thereupon gave him his Daughter Progne to Wife; but the beaſtlineſs of the Son-in-law towards Philomela his Siſter-in-law, filled the Family of Pandion with much diſtraction, ſo that at laſt he died of Grief, after he had reigned forty Years; which happened in the 2655 of the World. Erechteus ſucceeded him, and after him came Cecrops II. who died in the 2745 Year of the World. Pandion II. ſucceded him, and reigned twenty five Years. Euſebius in Chron. Ovid, &c.

PANDORA, a wonderful Woman made by Vulcan. All the Gods had beſtowed ſomething upon her; Venus Beauty, Pallas Wiſdom, Mercury Eloquence, &c. It is ſaid, That Jupiter being angry with Prometheus for ſtealing Fire from Heaven, ſent Pandora with a fatal Box into the Earth, which Epimetheus, the Brother of Prometheus, opened; whereupon all ſorts of Evils with which it was filled, came out, and diſpers'd themſelves here below, ſo as that there remain'd nothing therein but hope alone, which was found in the bottom of the Box. Pauſanias in Attic. Heſiod. Ovid. &c.

PANDOSIA, an ancient City of Italy in the Kingdom of Naples, and in the Country of the ancient Bruttians. It's believ'd the Town of Caſtell Franco ſtands near the ruines of the ſame. Here it was that Alexander King of Epirus, deceiv'd by the Oracle, periſhed. This City, together with Coſenza was taken by the Romans, as is obſerved by Titus Livius in the Xth. Book of his Hiſtory. There is another City of the Name in Epirus. Pliny. Strabo, &c.

PANETIUS, was alſo Preceptor to Scipio, and ſo great a Man that Cicero acknowledges he followed him in his Book of Offices with ſome Alterations.

PANETIUS, Tyrant of Rhodes, uſurp'd the Government thus. Being made General when the Leontini warr'd upon the Megarenſes, about their borders, he ſtirred up the Indigent People and Footmen againſt the Merchants and Horſemen, who, as he alledged, had much the better of them in the War; and having made himſelf Maſter of the Gates, and got 600 Men armed with Targets to take his part, the Footmen mounting their Maſters Horſes, diſarm'd and cut them off; after which, they ſeized the City and made Panetius Tyrant. Polyæn. 5.

PANICHA, PANICHE, a Sea-port in the Kingdom of Portugal, ſixty miles from Lisbon to the N. over againſt the Iſland of Barlenga. At this Town the Engliſh landed in the Year 1589, when they invaded the Kingdom of Portugal on the behalf of Anthony, a Baſtard of the Royal Family, who was choſen King of Portugal by ſome Fugitives that hated the Spaniſh Government. From hence they marched to Lisbon, and not finding any of the Inhabitants to ſtir in behalf of the baniſh'd Prince, they returned to Caſchais. It was then an open Town, and abandoned by the Spaniards, without any defence. This Caſtle was alſo delivered up to Anthony by Anto. de Aurid. Hackl. p. 2. t. 2. p. 143.

PANNONIA, a great Country of Europe, between the Mountains called Cethi, the Danube and Illryicum. It was divided into the higher and lower Pannonia; the firſt, called alſo Prima Conſularis, was to the Weſt, which is now Stiria, Carniola, Croatia, Carinthia, Windiſh-Marck, and the greateſt part of Auſtria: The lower Pannonia, called Secunda Conſularis, was to the Eaſt, and contained Boſnia, Sclavonia, and that part of Hungary, which is included between the Danube, the Raab, and the Drave. The moſt famous Towns of this great Country, were Sigeſta or Siſcia, now Siſeck in Croatia; Petorio or Petorium, now Petaw in Stiria; Amona or Emona, now Unter-Laubach, Nauportum, now Ober-Laubach in Carniola; Vindoniana or Vindobonna, now Vienna in Auſtria, Scrabantia, now Scrabing, Sirmium, now Belgrade, and Taurum now Weiſſenbourg. The Pannonians were a Celtick Nation whom Tiberius made Tributary to the Empire, though Julius Cæſar was the firſt that enter'd into that Country, which was afterwards poſſeſs'd by the Huns, Goths and other Barbarians. There was beſides Pannonia Riparia, wherein is now part of Sclavonia and Boſnia, and Pannonia Valeria that makes part of Stiria. Ortelius. Cluverius. Briet & Sanſon Geogr.

PANODORUS, a Monk of Egypt, who lived in the Fifth Age, compoſed a Chronology taken out of Euſebius, which he very judiciouſly corrected. Syncellus ſpeaks of him and Scaliger relates divers Pieces of the ſame in his Animadverſions upon Euſebius.

PANORMIA or PANNOMIA, a Collection of Eccleſiaſtical Laws gathered by Ives de Chartres, about the Year 1100. This word is a compoſition of πᾶν, which ſignfies All and Norma or νόμος, a Rule or Law, as if it ſhould have been ſaid, A Collection of all ſorts of Laws, or of all Eccleſiaſtical Laws. This Panormia muſt be diſtinguſhed from an Abridgment of the Decrees of Ives de Chartres, made by Hugh le Catalan, entituled Somme des decrets d'Ives; for they made uſe of this title of Somme de decrets, to ſhew, that Hugh's Books differed from the Panormia, which in the ancient Manuſcripts is always ſo called, and never by the other name. Doujat. Hiſt. du droit Canon.

PANORMITAN. See TUDESCHI.

PANORMUS and GONIPPUS, two handſome young Men of Meſſena in Peloponneſus, who enter'd into a ſtrict League of Friendſhip with one another; and coming to know, that the Lacedæmonians celebrated the Feaſt of Caſtor and Pollux with extraordinary rejoicings walk'd over the Market clad with a large purple Veſt, with a white Tunick over it, wearing a Crown of Flowers upon their Heads, and a Lance in their Hands; the Lacedæmonians taking them to be Caſtor and Pollux, fell down to the ground and ador'd them; but theſe young Men obſerving their advantage, made a bloody ſlaughter amongſt them, and afterwards fled with all ſpeed towards Meſſena. Pauſanias in Meſſeniacis.

PANTALARIA, Paconia, Coſſyra, Datalaria, an Iſland in the Mediterranean Sea, between Sicily and Africa. It lies in the middle of the Sea at almoſt an equal diſtance from both Coaſts to the Eaſt of Cape Bona and Weſt of Malta. Near this Iſland July 13 1586, there was a Sea-fight between five Engliſh Ships and eleven Spaniſh Gallies and two Frigats, in which the Spaniards were ſufficiently beaten; and though theſe five Engliſh Ships were Turkey Merchants, and heavy laden, there was none of them taken. This was the firſt Fleet the Turkey Company (which was then Incorporated) ſent into the Mediterranean, having before this time traded with ſingle Ships. The fight laſted five hours, yet the Engliſh had but two Men kill'd and one wounded. Hackl. To. 2. p. 288.

PANTALEON (Henry) born at Baſil June 13. 1522. He taught a long time in his own Country, after he had perfected himſelf in the Languages and Sciences, and then turned Phyſician when well ſtriken in years. He died March 3. 1595. He compoſed divers Works, tranſlated others into High-Dutch, and laboured to write the Elogy of the Illuſtrious Men of Germany, which he publiſhed in 1566, by the name of Proſopographia. He was indeed a very laborious and good Man: See his Life among thoſe of the Philoſophers of Germany written by Melchior Adam.

PANTENUS, a Stoick Philoſopher born in Sicily, who was Preſident of that famous School of Alexandria in the beginning of the Reign of the Emperor Commodus, about 185; where, from the time of S. Mark the Founder of that Church, there had always been ſome Learned Divine to expound the holy Scriptures. The Ethiopians having ſent to the Biſhop for a Divine to inſtruct them in the Chriſtian Relegion. Pantenus was ſent thither by Demetrius. It's ſaid, that he found the Ethiopians had already ſome knowledge of the true Faith, which had been preached unto them by the Apoſtle S. Bartholomew, and that he ſaw there the Goſpel of S Matthew in Hebrew, which that Apoſtle had left them. After Pantenus returned to Alexandria, he continued to expound the holy Scriptures publickly under the Reign of Severus, and Anthony Caracalla, and was more uſeful to the Church by his Diſcourſes than his Writings, though he has compos'd ſome Commentaries upon the Bible, which are quite loſt. He taught alſo a Rule which hath been followed by all the Interpreters of the Prophecies; to wit, That they are often expreſs'd in indefinite terms, and that the preſent time is there put for the paſt and the future, as Theodotus relates. One may judge of the manner of Pantenus's explaining the Sacred Text by what hath been done by Clement of Alexandria, Origen, and all others that had been inſtructed in that School; their Stile being full of Allegories, often ſwerving from the Letter, and finding Myſteries almoſt every where. PANTHEA, or PANTHEAN Statue, a Statue which by the different marks that accompained it, repreſented all the Gods; or at leaſt, the moſt conſiderable of them. This word is Greek, compound of πᾶν All, and θεὸς God. Thus the Pagans called the Temples wherein they adored all the Gods together, where might be ſeen all their Forms or Pictures. Such was that famous Pantheon at Rome, dedicated by Pope Boniface III. to the Holy Virgin and all the Saints, and by him called St. Mary de la Rotunda, becauſe it is built of a round form and Dome-wiſe. In theſe Statues Jupiter was diſtinguiſhed by a Thunderbolt, Juno by a Crown, Mars by an Helmet, the Sun by its Beams, the Moon by a Creſcent, Ceres by the horn of Plenty, or an Ear of Corn, Cupid by a bundle of Arrows, Mercury by Wings at his Feet, or a Caduceus, Bacchus by the Ivy, Venus by the Beauty of the Face, and ſo the reſt of their Divinities. Theſe diſtinguiſhing Characters were placed above the Statute, or between its Hands, according to the Induſtry of the Artificer, who therein made appear the excellency of his Art. Some there were that repreſented all the Gods, others, all the Goddeſſes; and ſome alſo that repreſented both together. Spon. Recherches curieuſes del' Antiquite.

PANTOMIMI, Buffoons, who repeſented all ſorts of things by ingenious Geſtures, and expreſs'd by the motion of their Bodies, Fingers, and Eyes the principal actions of the ſubject of a Comedy. It's a Greek word coming from πᾶν, παντὸς all, and μῖμος an Imitator; as if one ſhould ſay, an Imitator of all things. They were called alſo Mimi; but Pantomini imply'd ſomething more. The name of Mimi was moreover given to thoſe ſmall pieces of Poetry which thoſe Mimi ſung in their Dances upon the Stage, with geſtures expreſſing the ſence of their words, purſuant to the wonderful method of the Ancients ſo little known in our days. Some are of Opinion, that Pylades and Bathyllus, who appear'd in the time of the Emperor Auguſtus, were the firſt Pantomimi; but that ought to be underſtood of thoſe who ſeparated themſelves from the Theatre of the Comedians, to form a Company a-part, and Act in the Orcheſtra without Comedy or Dialogue; for it is certain, there were Pantomimi in the time of Æſchylus; and Ariſtotle highly commends Teleſtes, whom the Poet made uſe of, for his having ſo admirably well danc'd in a Tragedy entituled, The Septem contra Thebas. But Pylades, a Cilician, and Bathyllus an Alexandrian, coming to Rome in the time of Auguſtus, invented the Italick Dance, ſo call'd, becauſe twas firſt practis'd in Italy, in which they repreſented Tragedy, Comedy, and the Satyræ, in ſo entertaining a manner, that the Romans were extreamly taken with this dumb way of Acting, where the Geſtures were, as it were, as expreſſive and Intelligible, as Dialogue. Pylades was famous for Dancing Tragedy, and Bathyllus for Comedy, which occaſion'd their dividing into diſtinct Companies. Plutarch in his Sympoſiacks, dilates upon the Ingenuity of theſe Pantomimes, and ſhows how exact they were in Repreſenting Poſture, Perſon, and Action, where he calls Poetry a Speaking Dance, and Dancing a *Dumb Poem. PANUCO, ſeated to the North of Mexico upon the Gulf, fifty Leagues long; on the Weſt and South very fruitful, but to the North barren. It was conquered by Cortez in the Year 1522, and almoſt all the Inhabitants deſtroy'd. The Spaniards have only three Colonies in it, the chief is Villa de San Stevan de Puerto or Panuco, built by Cortez, ſoon after the Conqueſt, in 23 Degrees of N. Latitude, 65 Leagues from Mexico to the N. and 8 from the Sea on the River Hermoſo or Panuco.

PAOGAN, a City of China, which valiantly withſtood the Tartars. It muſt not be confounded with ſome other Cities in the ſame Country, and ſeem to be of the ſame name; as Paoking which hath four other Cities dependant upon it; Paoningo about the River Kealing, and Paoting the Capital of nineteen other Cities. *Conſult Martin Mart. PAOTING, Lat. Paotinga a large City in China ſecond in the Province of Peking, ſtands in the middle of the Country at the foot of the Mountains, and has ninteen other Cities under it. Martin Martini.

PAPA, a ſmall, but very ſtrong City of Lower Hungary, ſituate on the River Machatz in the County of Veſprin in the middle between Javarin to the N. and Veſprin to the S. about three Hungarian miles from the Turkiſh Conqueſts. In 1683, this Town, with Datis, Veſprin and Licentz ſubmitted to Tekely, but return'd again to the obedience of the Emperor after the raiſing of the Siege of Vienna.

PAPALOAPAM, Lat. Papaloapamus, the greateſt River of Guaxaca in New Spain, called otherwiſe Alvarad. It riſes from the Mountains Zoncoliucan, and being ſwell'd with many leſſer Rivers falls into the North Sea. Joannes a Turrecremata.

PAPAS, a Name which the Greeks gave their Prieſts, and ſometimes Patriarchs or Biſhops, which ſignifies Father. Goar diſtinguiſhes betwen παπας and παπας, ſaying, That the firſt Title belongs to the Chief Prieſts, and the laſt to the Inferior Clerks and Clergy. The Greeks name the chief of their Prieſts Protopapa's; and there is yet to this day in the Church of Meſſina in Sicily, a Title of Honour retain'd by the name of Protopapa's, Sicily having had ſometime a dependance upon the Greek Empire. The Prelate of the Iſle of Corfou takes alſo the name of Protopapas upon him. Du Cange Gloſſar. Latinit.

PAPHLAGONIA, a Country of Aſia Minor, now called Bolli, between the Euxine Sea and Galatia, along the Coaſt. Its Cities were Sinope, Tripoli or Tribicelli, which is the Theuthrania of the Ancients, &c. The Poets ſay, This Country took its name from Paphlagon the Son of Phineas Prince of the ſame.

PAPHNUTIUS, a Profeſſor of the Faith in the Third Age, was Biſhop of the Higher-Thebais, had his left Leg cut off, and right Eye put out in the Perſecution of Maximinus, and was condemned to the Mines. He was afterwards preſent at the Council of Nice in 324. And Ruffinus, tells us, That the Emperor Conſtantine never found him in private, but he kiſs'd, with the greateſt delight, thoſe glorious ſcars he had upon him. He aſſiſted alſo at the Councils of Tyre and Sardis in 335 and 347, and 'tis likely, died about that time. Socrates and Sozomen ſay, That as the Fathers of the Council of Nice, were about to introduce a new Law into the Church for forbidding thoſe that being married had received Holy Orders, to uſe marriage as before; Paphnutius prevented their deciding any thing in that matter. Socrates, lib. 1. cap. 8. Sozomen, lib. 2. cap. 22. Baronius A. C. 58 and 325. Bellarmine, de cler. Du Perron. Reſp. ad R. M. B. &c.

PAPHOS, a City of Cyprus, famous for having been conſecrated to Venus, who had there a curious Temple. It was afterwards a Biſhop's See, but is now ruin'd, there being nothing in the place of it, but a Borough called Baſſo. Ptolemy. Pliny. Strabo. Mela, &c. and Ovid. l. 10. Metam.

PAPHUS, the Son of Pygmalion, and of a Woman whom the Fable ſays, had been before an Ivory-Statue. The Poets relate, That Pygmalion, a famous Statuary, coming into the Iſle of Cyprus, and ſeeing all the Women living there very licentiouſly, reſolv'd never to marry: That at the ſame time he made an Ivory-Statue of great Perfection, on which he became enamour'd, and for the ſatisfying of his Paſſion, pray'd the Goddeſs Venus, who was much ador'd in that Iſle, to procure him a Wife as beautiful as that Statue, his own workmanſhip was. Venus, ſay the Poets, heard his Prayer, & chang'd that Ivory Statue into a fair Damſel, which he took to Wife, by whom he had Paphus, who built a City in that place, which he called according to his own Name. Ovid Met. 10.

PAPIAS, Biſhop of Hierapolis a City of Phrygia in Aſia minor, near to Laodicea, was the Diſciple of S. John the Evangeliſt, or of another of that Name: But S. Irenæus ſays poſitively, That he was the Diſciple of S. John the Evangeliſt; for Polycarpus was his Diſciple, and he ſays, Papias was Polycarpus's Companion. Papias writ five Books, entituled, The Expoſitions of the Diſcourſes of the Lord, which were extant in the time of Trithemius. But now there are only ſome fragments of them left in Ancient and Modern Authors. It's he that made way for the Opinion ſeveral of the Ancients held touching the Temporal Reign of Chriſt, who they ſuppoſed would come upon Earth a thouſand Years before the day of Judgment, to gather together the Elect, after the Reſurrection, into the the City of Jeruſalem, and let them there enjoy all imaginable pleaſure for thoſe thouſand Years. S. Irenæus, who was of the ſame Judgment, relates a fragment he took out of Papias's IVth Book, where he endeavours to prove that Opinion from a paſſage in Iſaiah; and Euſebius, after having quoted a paſſage taken out of Papias's Preface adds, That that Author relates divers things which he pretended he had by unwritten Tradition; ſuch as were the laſt inſtructions of our Lord Chriſt, which are not ſet down by the Evangeliſts, and ſome other fabulous Hiſtories, amongſt which number, his Opinion ought to be placed touching the Perſonal Reign of Chriſt upon Earth after the Reſurrection. The occaſion of his falling into that Error, ſays Euſebius again, was his miſunderſtanding of the Diſcourſes and Inſtructions of the Apoſtles, as not thinking that theſe ſort of Expreſſions ought to bear a myſtical ſence; and that the Apoſtles had them only for Illuſtrations, for he was a Man of a mean Genius, as his Books manifeſt, which yet was the Occaſion that ſeveral of the Ancients, and among the reſt, Irenæus, maintained this Opinion by the Authority of Papias. Euſ. Hiſt. Du-Pin Nouvelle Bibliotheque des Auteurs Eccleſiaſtiques.

PAPIAS, or PAPPUS, of Alexandria, lived towards the end of the Fourth Age, in the time of Theodoſius the Great, writ eight Books of Mathematical Collections, of which the two firſt are loſt. This Work appear'd in Latin at Peſauro in 1588, and is ſaid alſo to be found in Greek in ſome Libraries. He writ beſides a Comment upon the Almageſta of Ptolemy, an Univerſal Chorography, a Deſcription of the Rivers of Libya, a Treatiſe of Military Engines, &c. There are alſo extant of his Commentaries upon Ariſtarchus of Samos concerning the magnitude and diſtance of the Sun and Moon. Suidas. Voſſius de Scientiis Mathematicis.

PAPINIAN, a very famous Lawyer, whom Spartian calls the Honour of his Profeſſion and the Oracle of Law, lived in the Third Age, and was firſt Attorney-General, and afterward Præfectus Prætorio under the Emperor Severus; in whoſe favour he had a great ſhare, and who at his death recommended to him his Sons Antony, Caracalla, and Geta; but the firſt cauſing his Brother to be put to death, Papinian would neither maintain nor excuſe his Fratricide, and ſo had his Head chop'd off in the Year 212. *Spartian in Sev. PAPINIUS SEXTUS, of a Conſular Family in Rome, threw himſelf headlong from a Rock to avoid his Mothers Criminal Amours, for which being accuſed by the Senate, ſhe was baniſh'd the Town for ten Years until her young Sons ſhould be of Age to be Proof againſt her Temptations. Tacitus.

PAPIRIUS MASSONUS (John) Advocate in the Parliament of Paris, was born in S. German Laval, a Town of Foret. He compoſed upon the Marriage of King Charles the IXth. ſome pieces that procur'd him much Eſteem, and the Friendſhip of the Learned. He was a Student in the Law at Angers, under Francis Baldwin, and receiv'd afterwards as Advocate in the Parliament of Paris. He changed his Name from John to that of Papirius Maſſonus, whether to be diſtinguiſhed from his Brother, Archdeacon and Prebend of Bayeux, who was alſo John, or for ſome other reaſon is not known. He afterwards publiſhed an Hiſtory of the Popes, Annals of France, Latin Elogies of Illuſtrious Men, the Deſcription of France by its Rivers, and ſeveral other pieces full of Wit and Learning, and died January 1611, aged 67, without Children. His Life is written by Thuanus, and plac'd at the Head of his Elogia. La Croix. du Main.

PAPIRIUS or PAPIRII, an Illuſtrious Patrician Family of Rome.

PAPIRIUS CURSOR (Lucius) Dictator of Rome, the greateſt Captain of his time, triumphed over the Samnites, and deſign'd to have put to death his General of the Cavalry, Q. Fabius Maximus Rutilianus, for fighting without his Orders, tho' he had defeated his Enemies, in the Year of Rome 429. Fabius fled to the City, but the Tribunes declining to protect him, the People were prevail'd upon by the Tears of his Parents to ſue for his Pardon. Papirius was Conſul in 428, and had for Colleague C Pætilius Libo; and during that Conſulſhip, there was a Law made at Rome, taking off the Obligation of ſatisfying any Debt whatſoever by the Penalty of Slavery. It is worth mentioning, ſince L. Papirius was the ſubject thereof. He was a very rich Patrician, who daily encreaſed his Eſtate by his Uſuries, and had ruin'd one called Publius by lending him Money. The time of Payment being expir'd, and Publius not having wherewith to ſatisfie, Papirius got him declared his Slave by courſe of Law. C. Publius, a handſome young Man, did hereupon offer to enter into Slavery for the ranſoming of his Father, and the Creditor refuſed not ſo advantageous an exchange; but when he ſaw himſelf poſſeſt of ſo beautiful a Slave, he made himſelf more remarkable for his Beaſtiality than for his Avarice. The Youth born free, and having a noble Spirit, generouſly withſtood all the Sollicitations and Threats of his baſe Maſter, until that finding himſelf too hardly preſs'd upon, he flew into the Street, and begg'd the help of the People, who flock'd about him, and ſecured him from the Violence of Papirius, and procured afterwards the Law whereof I have ſpoken. He was Conſul three other times in 435, 39 and 41. He defeated the ſame Samnites again, made an hundred thouſand of them Captives, and won the Town of Luceria. This was not the only Advantage he had over this People, who were defeated by him again in 445, being Dictator the ſecond time. He left two Sons Sp. Papirius, the Father of another of the ſame Name, on whom his Grand-father beſtowed a Crown and Bracelets in reward of his Valour in the Wars againſt the Samnites, as Livy remarks; and L. Papirius Curſor, who was Colonel of Horſe, and afterwards Conſul in the 461 of Rome with Sp. Carvilius Maximus, a little after his Father's death. His Name was terrible to the Samnites, whom he entirely defeated, took their Cities, and receiv'd the Honours of Triumph. It was upon this occaſion that Papirius laugh'd at the Superſtition of the Sacred Chickens, wherewith the ſimple People of Rome were amuſed. His Augury was much better than thoſe Chickens could pretend to, as having been founded upon the good Diſpoſition of his Soldiers, and the Meaſures he had taken, which ſucceeded ſo well, that he kill'd above thirty thouſand of the Enemy, made three thouſand eight hundred Priſoners, and took fourſcore and ſeventeen Colours. Papirius was Cenſor, and Conſul in 482, with the ſame Sp. Carvilius, a ſecond time. He continued the War againſt the Samnites and Tarentines, which adminiſtred occaſion of Triumph for the Conſuls, and at laſt put an end to the War with the Samnites, after ſeventy one Years continuance; and to that of the Tarentines, that had been begun ten Years before. Papirius Maſſonus made an Elogy upon the Family of the Papirii, taken by him out of the Ninth Book of the Epiſtles of Cicero. Geſner ſpeaks beſides of one Papirius Fronto, and of another ſurnamed Juſtus, both very famous Lawyers; and of Papirius Prætextatus, a Grammarian; Papirius Sextus was alſo a Lawyer. Livy Hiſt. lib. 4, 8, 9, 10. and 14. Dion. Halicarnaſ. lib. 11. Plin. l 7. Caſſiodorus in Faſt. Rutilius de Aut. Juriſc. Geſner. in Bibl. &c.

PAPOUS, the name of a Country in Terra auſtralis, called by the Portugueſe, la Tierra des Papous, that is, The Country of the Blacks. Some make it to be part of New Guiney. And others ſay it is ſeparated from it by a narrow Streight; it's near to the Equinoctial-line, and to the Eaſt of the Iſle of Gilolo, one of the great Molucco's. There are not wanting thoſe who would have it to be the ſame with that called the Firſt-Land in New-Guiney, diſcovered in 1527. The Valour and Fidelity of the People of this Country are ſo much eſteemed that divers Princes of the neighbouring Iſlands take them to be their Soldiers, and the Guard of their Perſons. Herrera Deſcript. des Indes.

PAPPENHEIM, a City of Germany in Swabia, upon the River Altmul, giving Title firſt to a Baron, and afterwards to an Earl; from which Jeoffery-Henry de Pappenheim had his Name; who was Marſhal of the Empire, Count of Pappenheim, and General of the Roman-Catholick Army of the League during the Wars in Germany. He fought in 1620 the Battle of Prague, and was found there among the Dead. But ſome of his Friends obſerving ſtill ſome ſigns of Life in him, took care to have his Wounds dreſs'd, and recovered him as it were from the Jaws of Death; which was very advantageous both to himſelf and the Imperial Party, to whom Pappenheim was very ſerviceable. He defeated the Boors of Germany in 1627. Reſiſted the Swedes very ſucceſsfully in divers Rencounters. And afterwards, in 1630, began to form the Siege of Magdeburg, and contributed much to the taking of that City. After the Battle of Leipſick, in 1631, he gathered the ſhattered Remains of the Imperial Army, defeated Bannier and ſome other of the Confederates, and made himſelf formidable. But the Succour he gave the Spaniards prevented not the Prince of Orange's taking of Maeſtricht. He afterwards came into Weſtphalia, where he put his Enemies to flight. And then joined himſelf to Walleſtein, who fought the Swedes at Lutzen. He arriv'd there in the Evening of the Battle, the Imperial Army being already broken by the Swedes. Pappenheim laboured in vain to reſtore the Fight, and there was ſhot in the Thigh with a Piſtol Bullet, whereof he died next day. The ſeventh of November, 1632, the Great Guſtavus, King of Sweden, who was alſo ſlain in that Battel, own'd him to be a brave Soldier. In ſhort, Germany has produced but very few who equalled him in Prudence, Courage, and good Fortune. The Town Pappenheim is 14 m. N. W. of Neuburg, and 35 S. of Nuremburg. Puffendorf. Rer. Suecic. lib. 4.

PAPYRIAN, a Name given to the Civil Law, comprehending the Laws of the Kings of Rome, collected by Sextus Papyrius in the Reign of Tarquin the Proud. This Law was very ſoon aboliſh'd by the Lex Tribunitia, or Tribunes Law, inſomuch that not one of theſe Royal Statutes are to be found in the Roman Law-books. Baldwin. Roſin.

PAPYRIUS, ſurnamed Prætextatus, for that he had given Marks of his extraordinary Prudence in the time he wore the Robe named Prætexta, (which in Rome was the Habit of Youths) was one day brought by his Father into the Senate, where were managed Affairs of very great Importance. His Mother who was deſirous to know what was done, queſtioned him about it; but he had the Wit to ſatisfie in ſome meaſure her curioſity without diſcovering the Secret, by telling her; It had been reſolved upon in the Senate, that every Husband ſhould have two Wives. That Lady having preſently acquainted her Friends herewith, gathered together, next Morning, a company of Women, and went in a Body to the Senate-Houſe, to demand, that the Women might have the ſame Liberty given them, as was granted to the Men the day before, and that every one of them might be empower'd to marry two Husbands, which greatly aſtoniſh'd the Senators: whereupon Papyrius declared what was the true Reaſon of this Commotion, and was highly extoll'd for his Prudence, but it was ordered, No young Man, for the future, ſhould be admitted into the Senate ſave Papyrius alone. Macrobius.
